COUNTY AGENT GIVES OUT IMPORTANT FACTS

Pertinent facts from the office of the County Agent have been handed in and they effect practically every farmer, landowner and renter in the county. This information is outlined briefly by the County Agent, Guy V. Powell.

1. Every man in Coryell county who has produced either corn or hogs in 1935 is urged to vote his attitude toward the continuance of the Corn-Hog Program on Saturday, October twenty-sixth.
2. Only 29 Corn-Hog Contracts in this county have not received first payment. These 29 contracts have been forwarded for payment.
3. Approximately 200 adjustment checks will be issued from the County Agent's office within the next few days.
4. The price of Cotton Tax-Exemption Certificates has been reduced from 5c to 4c, effective Wednesday, October 23.
5. Blanks for receiving the Adjustment payment between selling price and 12c on cotton are available at the agent's office.
6. Signing of wheat Contracts is going forward rapidly. A record must be filed for every man who produced wheat, even though he does not sign a contract.
7. Watch for announcement in next week's paper about a special meeting for Saturday Afternoon, November 2.

SECURITY DEALERS MUST REGISTER SAYS NEW SECURITY LAW

The State Securities Commissioner has called up all department investigators to furnish the department with the names of all unregistered dealers in securities and to point out any violations of the Securities Act.

"I believe," said Securities Commissioner D. Leon Harp, "that stock and bond dealers have registered one hundred per cent. Scores of dealers in oil and gas instruments and royalty deeds have been registered as dealers, but there has been a laxity on the part of some who deal in such instruments in filing their applications for registration."

Mr. Harp further said that the department has tried to be just and fair with all concerned and he believes that those who deal in oil and gas instruments have had ample time in which to comply with the law. He says that in justice to the public, the department must now insist that all dealers who have not registered should either register or retire from their field of operations. "We feel that the public is vitally interested in the enforcement of this law."

The Securities Act makes it a felony to deal in oil and gas leases and royalty instruments unless the transactions come under some specific exemption. The penalty for violating the law is a term in the penitentiary not exceeding two years

$6 a Month Still Can Be Had by Students Of Coryell County

Z. S. Armstrong, Director of the NYA for Texas has advised Supt. J. M. Witcher that the $6.000 per month high school aid to any students of any grades who are 16 years of age and older and who are unable to attend school without this aid has been extended thru this week end only, since the final report must be sent in then.

Local principals may pass judgment on the need of the applicant and should sign at the left corner of the Student Application, Form H-1-104 where it reads: "This is to certify that the financial situation of the applicant justifies this aid," and should add to that statement this phrase, "and without it cannot attend school." If the principal is satisfied and signs this statement as amended, it will not then be necessary to have the applicant certified by the county case worker.

Another simplification is that the school may send only one copy of its own application Form H-1-102 instead of three copies as heretofore required. This school application should be made for the full allotment and should be filed with you at once by the principals and forwarded by you to Austin without waiting on student applications. The student applications may be forwarded as received, up to the full quota of the school. These should come forward at the earliest moment possible so that these students may be set to work and begin to earn this needed money.

Other information concerning this matter may be had at the office of the County Superintendent.

or a fine of not more than one thousand dollars.

"I believe," said Commissioner Harp, "that the enactment of this law of dire necessity. All other States except the State of Nevada have passed some form of securities legislation. Texas had to enact a law of this character in self-defense. Its proper enforcement will insure to the benefit of the oil and gas broker, the landowner, the public, and the fair and honest promoter and developer of oil lands."

Mr. Harp says that he seeks the cooperation of the citizenship of this State and of the qualified dealers in reporting to the Secretary of State at Austin any irregularities in the sale of all classes of securities, including oil and gas leases and royalty deeds.

Farmers, Landowners, Renters—Study This It's Vital to You All

In line with the Erosion Conservation Work, which is to be carried on by the CCC camp, we again present the agreements both by the ECW—what they will do, and also what the Farmer, Landowner and renter will do to receive this service, provided practically free by the government.

ECW Agrees

Make farm or engineering map; make erosion survey; check existing terraces; lay off new terrace lines; check new terrace when completed; lay off contour lines in pasture areas and sod contour ridges; lay off strip crop lines; stake out terrace outlet channels; loan farmers available equipment for making outlet ditches and furnish labor and material to properly protect such outlet ditches; remove weeds and, or brush on (1) broken areas that the cooperator cannot reach with a mower, (2) along gully banks provided the cooperator has cleared the major part of the gully; provide seed and the necessary inoculation for legumes for small pasture demonstration and supervise the planting of such seed; hand slope gully banks where plowing will not suffice or where it is impractical, and to sod gully banks; construct all check dams, baffles, overfalls, etc., furnish without cost to the farmer any cement and

IT BLEW THE OTHER A. M.—FIRST TIME IN TWO YEARS

What! That old fog horn out at Coryell County Cotton Oil Mill, Coryell county's only big factory. You'll see it run! It'll be a treat to you if you've never.

See the processes the cotton seed goes thru before it is made into hulls, cake meal, and even the cotton seed oil that in turn is manufactured into a number of useful home needs. The oil that you use for cooking, just dressed up a little and put in a real nice shiny can.

V. C. Ray, manager out there says "Let 'em come on out," and also his able assistant E. W. Dittrich formerly of Cranfills Gap, who is now bookkeeper and office manager. "We'll be glad to show 'em just how it's done. How that little seed goes thru the terrible punishment that it must before it is either, meal, oil, cake or hulls." We'd say, "Let's take 'em upon it and see what makes the wheels of commerce go around as far as this county is concerned."

wire used in such construction; furnish pea seed to be used on every other terrace or strip during first year of agreement; (Continued on Last Page.)

Eight Grade News

The Eight grade English class has recently set up objectives for the year. One of their aims is to develop a true enjoyment for reading good literature. In order to do this, they have made a survey of the books in the library and decided to work to improve the library. They have made a card catalogue to make it easier to use the library. Book pockets have been placed in each book with a card and number so that a systematic check can be kept on each book. The class plans to do further work as the year continues and to develop a first class library for Flat High School.

Dr. G. Prentice Carson, dean emeritus, of Stetson university in Florida, is beginning his fiftieth scholastic year of work at that institution.

Certificate of Merit Required For All F. F. A. Students

Every student in Gatesville High School taking vocational agriculture is required to earn at least one certificate of merit. The advancement of the F. F. A. organization is based on accomplishment. Certificates of merit are given to those whose degree of work is higher in one thing than another. A student may win several certificates of merit if his degree of work in that field is higher than that asked for by the instructor.

This requirement encourages the agriculture student to do better work. He is able to excel in the work for which he is best fitted and enjoys the most.

Many of the boys see the possibilities of this requirement and are trying to get as many certificates of merit as possible.

The Cafeteria

procedure would allow the Treasury procurement office to go ahead rapidly with invitations to bid on trucks and, that districts soon would have the entire force of more than 12,000 men working on the projects authorized up to now.

The fact that not all of those authorized to be employed actually are working was attributed in part to this regulation which prevented employment of trucks and a consequent steady flow of materials to the projects.

"Although the requirement of insurance was highly desirable," Drought said, "it was found that when this was enforced, truck operators would not bid."

Truck owners throughout the state desiring to bid on WPA projects were urged to contact safety inspectors at the twenty district WPA offices.

SOUP FOR LUNCHEON

A delicious soup served piping hot makes an adequate and satisfying luncheon, particularly when served with toasted bread or rolls.

ONION SOUP

Six cups beef or chicken stock or bouillon cubes dissolved in 6 cups water. Salt to taste, three-fourths pound of onions, sliced, 3 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup grated cheese.

Brown onions slightly in butter. Stir in stock and add salt. Simmer until onions are tender. Butter toast and sprinkle with cheese. Just before serving pour soup into individual dishes and top each serving with toast and set in a hot oven long enough to melt cheese and brown lightly.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

One half can or pint of tomatoes, one fourth teaspoon soda, 1 slice onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, one fourth teaspoon white pepper, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 quart milk.

Cook the onion with the milk. Heat butter, add flour and seasoning, two thirds cup hot milk, then the rest gradually. Heat the strained tomatoes, add the soda and when the bubbling stops add the tomato to the white sauce.

MULLAGATAWNY SOUP

1 tablespoon beef drippings, 1 large onion, 2 quarts stock, 2 tablespoon chopped carrot, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, 1/2 lemon, 2 cloves, 2 peppercorns, 1/2 teaspoon surry powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoon boiled rice, 1/2 cup cooked diced chicken or veal.

Slice the onion and fry it brown in the drippings. Put it in the stock with carrot, celery, lemon juice, cloves powder and peppercorns. Mix the curry powder and salt to a smooth paste with a little water and add that also. Simmer one hour, strain and cool. Remove the fat, add the meat and rice. Reheat and serve.

OYSTER DROP BISCUIT

1 and two thirds cups flour, one third cup cornmeal, 6 tablespoons shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce, 2 cups oysters ground.

Drain the oysters and then mix well with lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Let stand while combining flour, cornmeal, salt and shortening. Grind oysters and drain and then combine the oysters, flour and fat mixture. Add enough liquid so that dough will drop but not run from the spoon. Stir in baking powder. Drop small spoonfuls onto a greased baking pan. Bake 10 to 15 minutes in an oven preheated to 450 degrees F. Serve hot with butter.

INSURANCE RESTRICTIONS ON TRUCKS FOR WPA REMOVED

San Antonio, Oct. 17.—Removal of restrictions on employment of trucks under contract for the Works Progress Administration today was expected to expedite the prosecution of projects all over Texas.

State Administrator H. P. Drought announced that the requirement that trucks be covered by public liability and property damage insurance had been lifted but it was made known simultaneously that district safety directors will certify all trucks and their equipment before they go onto WPA jobs.

World Comment
By JOE BURNS

The dream of many an American aviator—regular air service across the waters—will be realized in part when air mail service between the U. S. and China is established Nov. 15. Pan-American Airways have agreed to carry the mail via Honolulu, Midway, Wake and Guam Islands, where it has established bases, for $2 a mile for a load of 800 pounds and $1 per 1,000 miles for each additional pound. The distance from Alameda, Cal., the home base of the giant Clippers that will carry the mail, to Canton, China, is approximately 8,500 miles.

The last test flight of the Clipper—from Alameda to Guam, a distance of 6,500 miles, was completed this week.

Officials of the Post Office Department and of the Pan-American Lines are looking forward to the establishment of an air line between Europe and the U. S. Already German Zeppelins are carrying mail to Rio de Janeiro from bases on the African coast. Col. Charles Lindbergh has made studies of the possibilities of establishing a route across the North Atlantic. Negotiations are now being made with Great Britain and Portugal for landing facilities along the Southern Atlantic route, but the plans in neither case have reached the point where officials are willing to comment.

Will air travel across the waters relegate the steamship to the same position of the railway today? Passenger service will of course follow the establishment of air intercourse and the steamship will cease to attract travelers to other lands.

Italy's war against Ethiopia continues to cop the biggest and blackest headlines in the daily tabloids. Most important so far this week are direct negotiations under way between Britain and Italy whereby the British fleet will be withdrawn from the Mediterranean for the call of Italian troops in Libya, the Fascist colony in northern Africa.

Britain has been fearful of an Italian attack upon Egypt, which is practically a protectorate of John Bull's, because of heavy troop concentrations there.

Such a step on the part of Great Britain would undoubtedly ease the tension now existing in the Mediterranean, where there are 97 men-o-war flying the Union Jack. Mussolini's fleet is steaming around with unlimbered guns and an "incident" might easily occur under existing conditions that would start fighting between the two nations.

Your writer doubts that Britain will withdraw her ships from Malta, Gibraltar, Alexandria and Port Said, unless Mussolini makes valuable concessions. It would be too easy for Il Duce to seize the Suez Canal and stop British commerce if the sanctions adopted by the League under British auspices began pinching. And, a general election is at hand in England, where a recent plebiscite disclosed 11,000,000 voters favorable to the League and 6,000,000 ready to support even military sanctions against an aggressor nation. The British Labor party, chief opposition of the conservatives in parliament, has by an overwhelming majority signified its approval of forcible coercion.

If the Baldwin government falters now it will be exposed to deadly attacks in the forthcoming general election. If it goes forward, even though the consequence be war with Italy, it will be secure against any criticism by an opposition which has already committed itself to force. And the truth is that British Labor is today even more ready than the Tories to go to war with Italy because of its hatred of Fascism. In one word, it has become, for reasons of domestic politics, almost impossible for Baldwin to stop, even if to continue leads eventually to war.

Great Britain, if it continues to exert pressure upon Italy through the League, can eventually crush Italy as Germany was crushed in the last war. But if Fascism is overthrown in Italy, communism is sure to follow. And the greatest opponent of German advance in southeastern Europe will be lost to France and Britain indefinitely. This explains French reluctance to follow Britain in the application of economic sanctions against Italy.

Such hope as exists for peace rests with France. Premier Laval, given a whooping endorsement by his electorate in Sunday's election, continues in the role of mediator. Although he has promised Britain support in the application of sanctions against Italy, Laval is frankly in favor of letting Mussolini have Ethiopia or at least a part of it. His most recent proposal is for Il Duce to keep the territory he has occupied in Ethiopia and to give him an economic monopoly over the rest of the country under League of Nations procedure.

Emperor Haile Selassie is irrevocably opposed to such terms and Great Britain would probably not agree. Nevertheless a solution may be found that will result in peace if Pierre Laval continues his efforts.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL DEPT. OF PUBLICITY TO GIVE SCHOOLS LITERATURE

The pageant is in five episodes and is based on historical facts. It begins with Stephen Austin's acceptance of the proposal to found a colony in Texas and portrays its growth until after the revolution. The final episode is a dramatic summary of Texas' achievement since that time.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Year (in Coryell County)...$1.00; Elsewhere.....$1.50

Entered as second-class matter June 24, 1933, at the post office at Gatesville, Texas, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE: Any erroneous reflection upon the character or standing of any person or firm appearing in its columns will be gladly and promptly corrected upon calling the attention of the management to the article in question.

SOIL EROSION

Did you go to Lindale? Do you want your farm to look like that poor land over there? It's liable to be a picture of East Texas—with barefooted negro tenants—sweepstocks—or double shovels—one mule teams—in 10 years unless something is done about this "wasting, washing dirt" that's making muddy the gullies, rivulets, trickles and seeps on farms of this county.

This "wasting, washing dirt" is your profits washing off, never to return. Can you stand to lose money that way? You can't! For a very little (if any) cost and a lot of government help, including technicians who know what it's all about, and some 250 CCC boys, you—landholder, farmer and renter—can only save "money dirt" but you can INCREASE the fertility (pay dirt) on your farm by th help and assistance of these men.

Now, authorities inform us that if more co-operation isn't shown in this county by those who NEED the help, the local camp won't be here long, and this, from no other authority than the U. S. Army officials at Ft. Sam Houston. They say, there are 250 men here being paid by the Army to do work for US (mind you), and we are refusing to let them have the land to improve, terrace and work, and if they are not provided with this necessary work soon, the local camp will positively be moved to where work will be available.

Folk, frankly, this IS opportunity "in the flesh" and as usual, he won't take NO for an answer, so there ain't but one thing for us to do and that is to say YES and let them make Coryell county "safe for tractors, six mule teams and two or more row cultivators, planters, and combines and other big farm implements. Not bare-footed negroes, double-shovels, and one mule teams!

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

How's Gatesville planning to celebrate the Texas Centennial next year?

So the Texas Centennial Celebrations State Publicity Department of Dallas is asking?

Frankly, it looks like we ain't goin' to Celebrate, unless we go to Dallas.

Be that as it may, according to article received from the Centennial publicity department that they are "issuing a state-wide call for information regarding any proposed fairs, pageants, or ceremonies which are contemplated by all Texas communities, large and small."

"The publicity department is compiling a calendar of proposed events to form the basis for Centennial publicity thruout the country. Information regarding all Centennial events to be held from this day forward should be sent to the state publicity department, Texas Centennial, Dallas. Plans need not be definite as yet, but advance information is needed to compile this calendar."

Incidentally, the News is preparing to publish in its columns a history of the county by one acquainted with the situation. This will also be prepared in pamphlet form for those who desire a copy, besides being a regular feature of this paper.

Well, there's a job for the Morris Federation, Lions, C. of C., The Little Theatre or someone, to plan some sort of a celebration, fair, pageant depicting "something or other" connected with Coryell County history, lore, names, or what have you. Other counties are doing it—and it can't be said Coryell is lazy, or can it?

SYNOPSIS

Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is captured by Kurdish irregulars but rescued when the supposed leader of the Kurds turns out to be a mysterious British secret service agent who calls himself Smith. While steering the Balkan, an Armenian tribe, against which the Kurds are advancing, to a place of safety across the mountains, Andrews sees Smith kill Cullen, an enemy spy, and breaks his leg when he attempts to stop him. He is sent to a British hospital in Cairo, where, as his leg heals, he falls in love with Rosemary, his nurse. Rosemary reciprocates his affection but reveals that she married a man at the outbreak of the war who joined the secret service and vanished. Her husband, John Stevenson, who is the mysterious "Smith," suddenly reappears on the scene and asks Rosemary to go away with him for six months.

CHAPTER VI

Recovering slowly from her shock, Rosemary decided that, come what might, she would tell Stevenson of her love for Andrews. But when her husband returned home that night she had to brace herself to meet him.

"I'm not going to kiss you!" he laughed boyishly. "That's odd, isn't it."

"There's . . . I've got to say . . . I . . ." she began wildly.

"You see," he continued gaily, "I can't kiss you before the ceremony."

"Please, John, I want to talk to you."

"Not before the ceremony." He pressed her gently into a chair and took a jewel case from his pocket. "Now, this is the ceremony!" He lifted a rope of pearls and two diamond bracelets from the case. He slipped the pearls over her neck.

Then, kneeling, he placed the bracelets on her wrists.

"They shine . . . your honor and your faith," he cried, gazing at her with a look of exaltation. "They are fetters! For the only woman in the world who has never needed them." He dropped his head upon her lap, putting his arms about her. Then, after a pause, while Rosemary continued staring straight ahead, he looked up at her thoughtfully.

"I don't think this place is good for you," he said tenderly. "Where shall we go, dearest? Remember, we've got five months before anything can happen to part us . . . one hundred and fifty days together."

As she started to protest, he put his arms about her, drew her to him and began to cover her neck with kisses. For a moment she drew back, then with a shake of her head, she allowed him to caress her.

Meantime, in general headquarters, Andrews had been notified that he was needed at the front immediately to handle an armored car unit in the African Sudan. There was no chance to argue about it. He had to entrain that night.

Before he departed, however, he went once more to the hospital. By this time Nurse Rowlands had accumulated more information for him. She announced that Rosemary was living with her husband, and, although she would not reveal their address, promised to carry a message from Andrews.

As a result the lovers met for the last time in the writing room of a Cairo hotel that night.

"So you did come," he said coldly when the girl advanced toward him across the balcony. "Why didn't you come before?"

"I . . . I couldn't," she answered softly. "I tried . . . You don't know how difficult it is! You see . . ."

"The ordinary, common garden

John isn't . . . isn't like other people. He's his own law. And nothing can alter him. If he knew there was another man, he'd kill you. Oh, it's not myself I'm afraid for . . . I . . ."

They were interrupted by the voice of Foster, Andrews' orderly. "Captain Andrews," said the young fellow, hurrying up, "you've only three minutes to catch the train. The car is waiting . . ."

As the orderly turned and retreated discreetly, Andrews swept the girl into his arms and kissed her.

"Darling, I've got to go," he choked. "But it won't be for long." With an effort he released her, then turned abruptly on his heel and departed.

When he was gone, Rosemary turned to leave the garden, hopeless tears forcing themselves to her eyes. Half-blinded she stumbled through the gateway and out into the crowded street.

"What can we do?" she kept moaning brokenly. "Oh, Michael, Michael! He'd kill you. What can we do?"

Completely wrapped up in her grief and blinded by her tears she stepped at that moment directly into the path of an army truck. There was a great screaming of brakes, a shout from the horrified driver. Then one of the fenders struck her and hurled her to the sidewalk, where she lay unconscious.

They rushed her to the hospital, but there the doctors shook their heads hopelessly.

"Her back's broken. Absolutely no chance," one of the physicians told the frantic Stevenson, who sat at the bedside.

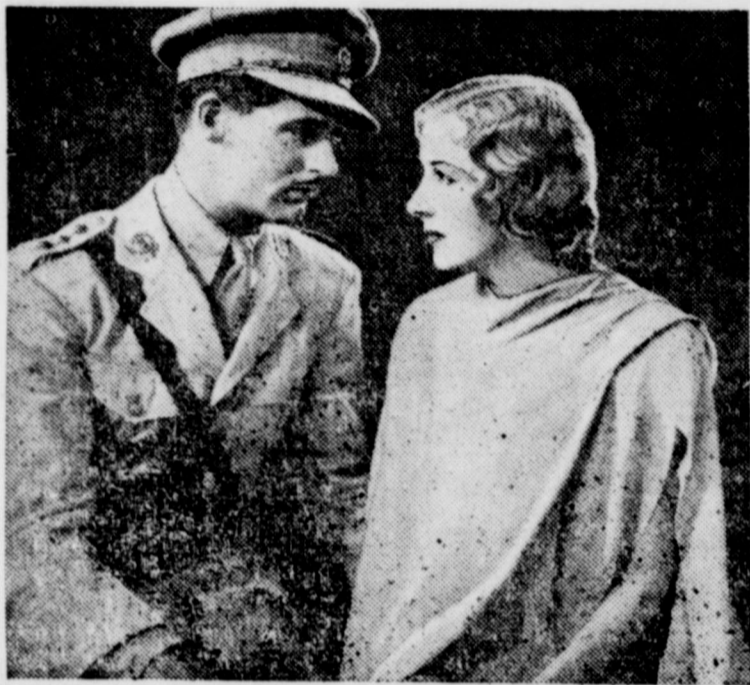

Some accent in that voice must have stirred the consciousness of the dying girl.

Her eyes fluttered open. They rested upon Stevenson but they were wide and unseeing. Her lips moved, and, in a strange but clear whisper, formed one word:

"Michael," she cried. Then, with a sudden convulsive movement her eyes closed and life went out of poor Rosemary.

Stevenson stared down at her in horror, torn to his very soul by that one word. After a moment he was aware that the doctor had placed one kindly hand on his shoulder. He started, then, without a word or a backward glance, stalked from the room.

"John isn't like other people," she said. "If he knew there was another man, he'd kill you."

variety of liar is a contemptible thing," he lashed at her.

"I had to do tonight . . . to see you," Her voice trembled.

"I mean something much more! You're being a liar with that man. Unless . . . unless . . . you told another lie . . . to me. Did you?"

He caught her by the arms, pulled her toward him and shook her in desperation. She broke away and ran from the balcony into the garden. Horrified at what he had done, he ran after her.

He found the girl half-lying on a bench, sobbing brokenly.

"Don't! Please don't," he pleaded, dropping to his knees near her.

"You don't understand, Michael," she answered, fighting for composure. "But I've got to make you understand. He's . . . he's so . . . It would be vile cruelty to tell him now! I've tried! I can't do it . . . And there's another reason, too!

than to make sweeping promises and fail in fulfilling them. Be that as it may, however, the Senate appears to be definitely committed to the policy of passing a pension bill without any tax measure. I hope the House will see fit to send a tax measure along with their bill.

The other major question that has been raised in regard to the pensions is the question as to who shall receive them, and this question is now being discussed in the Senate with every indication that the Senate will place some property or income restrictions on the right to receive a pension. I think that it is probably sound to place income restrictions. In other words, while I, as an average citizen, would be glad to contribute to the necessary funds to provide assistance for all of our older citizens who need it, I do not want to be taxed to pay a pension to some man or woman whose income is far in excess of my own. On the other hand, I can understand that the more ownership of property does not necessarily mean that the owner does not need some assistance, and I am inclined to look with favor upon the suggestion that we allow any citizen above 65, who does not have an income, to receive old age assistance, regardless of the ownership of property, provided, however, that property should at the death of the pensioner be used, first, to pay the State what the State has spent for the benefit of the owner. In other words, if the children refuse to support their parents, and the parents are supported by the State, I know of no reason why those children should expect to receive whatever property the parents might have had, and can see nothing unjust in allowing the State to be reimbursed before the children receive anything. Of course, such a provision should allow the property owner to occupy his property until the death of both the husband and wife.

On the first day of the session I was quite signally honored in being selected as President Pro Tem of the Senate. This was a tribute which I particularly appreciate, both because the election was by the unanimous vote of the Senate, and because the Lt. Governor had on the preceding day announced that he would be away quite a bit of the time during this session, and the President Pro Tem presides when the Lt. Governor is absent. Last night I received a further testimonial of which I was quite proud, when the representatives from my home County entertained me in recognition of my election at a dinner, to which the Governor and the Secretary of State were the honor guests.

There has been considerable newspaper criticism recently of the failure of the House and Senate to secure quorums last Thursday and Friday. I think the people have a perfect right to expect their legislators to be present and to attend the sessions, and personally I have never been absent a day during the six years I have served in the Senate, but there has been a good deal of misunderstanding about what happens. A great majority of the members were present and answered roll call, and several others who did not answer roll call were in town and were at the request of their constituents attending the meeting of the Centennial Commission, which was being held last Senate roll call showed 19 in Austin on these days. The present, which is only 2 short of a quorum, and one of those was in the hospital suffering from an operation. I think that the daily press should have at least furnished the people with the names of the absentees, rather than to draw the inference that all members were ignoring their obligations. The Senate roll call showed; the following members present: Burns, Collie, Cotton, DeBerry, Hill, Holbrook, Hornsby, Isbell, Moore, Pace, Poage, Reagan, Sanderford, Small, Stone, Sulak, Woodruff, Van Zandt. I trust that the people will be fair enough not to condemn those of us who stayed on the job because of the derelictions of a few who were gone.

W. R. POAGE,
Senator, District 13.

LETTER FROM SENATOR POAGE

Austin, Oct. 22.—The Second Called Session of the 44th Legislature was convened last Wednesday at noon, and has, I believe, made more progress than is generally supposed. It is true that there were two days last week when neither House had a quorum, but the majority of the members, including the writer, were in Austin and were busy.

Pension bills have been introduced in both Houses, and have been favorably reported by committees of both House and Senate. The Senate spent all day Monday considering a pension bill (S. B. No. 1) and made considerable progress. The Senate determined, by a vote of 24 to 5 not to levy a sales tax as a means of supporting the pension. I offered as a substitute a tax of 10 per cent on natural resources. This tax would have produced approximately forty-four million dollars, with which I proposed to abandon the present State ad valorem tax, thereby giving some real tax relief, and at the same time providing funds for an old age pension without adding to the burdens of the taxpayers of this State. (I say it would not add to their burdens for the reason that most of it would be passed on to the ultimate consumer of these resources, and probably 90 per cent of our natural resources are ultimately sold beyond the limit of Texas). After discussing this amendment at length, and answering questions concerning it for several hours, we were just ready to vote when the Lt. Governor sustained a point of order that we could not place such an amendment on a pension bill. I think the Lt. Governor was clearly wrong. My view is that we not only have the right, but it is our duty to levy a tax to pay the pensions along with any pension measure that we may pass, and this view is sustained by the Attorney General's opinion, which holds that we have this right. Of course, I recognize that the Senate has no power to originate a tax raising measure, but I have felt that we had the right to provide the revenue to pay for whatever pension we provided, and as I see it, unless we do make this provision the pension bill will be but a travesty and a mockery. I would rather promise less and pay what we promise. (Continued on Page 10.)

"Blue Eagle" News

Awards for Former Men

Park Service merit certificates were presented to the fourteen men from Company 817 who "went over the hill" to the Erosion Service Camp in Gatesville to get it started about two months ago.

Certificates were given them Monday in the Gatesville camp mess hall at a ceremony attended by Ex-Governor Pat M. Neff, Mr. D. E. Colp, Mr. Jeff Ritchie, Lieut. Kennedy and Supt. Byram.

Former Governor Neff made the boys a brief but thought stirring talk which was greatly appreciated.

To Enroll 82 New Men

By Friday of this week we will find 82 "rookies" added to this company. Which will bring the strength up to 224. Counties and the number coming from each are: McLennan, 59 and Hamilton 23.

The men coming from Hamilton will be enrolled at Gatesville, and then sent to this company. The men from McLennan will be enrolled at this station.

Visitors

Supervisory Personnel enjoyed a brief visit from Mr. Herbert Maier, Regional Officer from Oklahoma City and Mr. George Nason, Senior Inspector for this District, who with Mr. Blinks, inspected all phases of the work on this project last week.

Our former C. O., Lt. Little, dropped in for a hurried visit one night last week and sent his regards to all the boys he didn't get to see in the short time he was here.

Lt. George P. Parker, Sub-District Commander, was also a visitor last week.

"Let's Step On It"

This company will have to "step on it," to beat that Gatesville aggregation when camps are inspected. We have a much nicer natural location with our live oak grove, but they have their barracks painted and the surrounding grounds shined up like nobodies business, and are going to be heard from in future company competitions.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to each and everyone who had a part in helping share our sorrow and grief during the long illness of our beloved husband and father. Especially do we want to thank Mrs. Bob Rogers who was so faithful and kind. Also we wish to express our thanks to everyone for the beautiful floral offerings. And to the Home Demonstration Club for the dinners. May God richly bless and keep each of you is our prayer.

Mrs. J. H. Barker and children.

PUPILS AND TEACHERS OF FLAT SCHOOL THANK HELPERS' CLUB

We the teachers and pupils of Flat School, wish to express our sincere appreciation to the Jolly Helpers' Club, who by their liberal donation will make our library and indoor fountains a success.

Under the direction of Mr. Curtis Humphries, principal, the general class under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Huckabee, have refinished the walls and furnished the library with book shelves.

New acid proof tables and chairs and about $75.00 of science equipment have already been added.

Had it not been for the ladies' club we are afraid it would have been sometime before these conveniences would have been enjoyed. You are ever welcome to visit our school, and may we ever be of service to you.

Hornets in Conf. Conflict With Mart Tonight

GAME STARTS AT 7:15 IN MART; LOCALS LOST HEAVILY TO PANTHERS, AND ENTER THE FRAY THIS EVENING AS THE UNDER-DOG.

This evening at 7:15 will find the fast diminutive Hornet squad in Mart entering their third conference game of the 1935 season.

Gatesville Hornets with three victories and one defeat on their '35 football record, tonight will be pitted against a team that has two victories and two defeats on their record, however, losing to much stronger teams than the locals.

Conference contenders, the Panthers of Mart will be fighting hard to repeat, while the Hornets will never forget the classic defeat suffered at the hands of the Panthers last season.

Coaches Worley and Ewing have been putting the boys through the mill this week in an effort to take control of their hardest game of the '35 season. Dummy scrimmage on the Mart plays have been fully stressed, and the boys seem to realize just what they will be up against this evening.

The locals emerged the conference conflict last Friday with but few injuries, Myers being the most seriously injured on the Hornet list, however, it is understood that Worley will use him some this evening.

Probable starting line-ups: Gatesville: Clark and McDonald, ends; Myers and V. Adams, tackles; Chapman and Weaver, guards; R. Davis, center; Hair, Colgin, Dickie and Culberson, backs. Mart: Colley and Bennett, ends; Thompson and Crouse, tackles; Brady and Currey, guards; Hill, center; Sandig, Slavens, Buckelew and Choate, backs.

The adverse weather conditions the past few days may force the Hornets to meet Mart on a muddy field. In most cases the best team is usually handicapped the most in such instances. However in this case I think the Hornets will suffer most. In the mud, straight-away power usually prevails and the light Hornet backs will be helpless. Passes of course will be futile and punting which is the biggest factor in a game of this kind, is "rotten speaking in terms" with the locals.

... This evening at 7:30 local fans not able to make the trip to Mart will have an opportunity to witness an interesting game at McGregor. The Bulldogs play hosts to the West

Trojans in a conference struggle that will be McGregor's second and West's third. Previously McGregor has lost to Clifton, and West to Itasca and Gatesville. Besides being a hard fought battle between two keen rivals it will afford an interesting comparison between Gatesville and McGregor, the locals having beaten West last week 15-6.

... Yesterday, Thursday evening, Itasca met Clifton at Clifton in another conference game. The results were not known at press time but will be anxiously waited for. Clifton defeated the locals 13-2 in a very close manner while Itasca overwhelmed West 55-0, who in turn lost to the Hornets by a much smaller score. The game at Clifton should have been highly interesting with Itasca winning. If the Cubs won then they should complete their conference season without defeat.

... In Tuesday's issue of the News we will try to have a percentage of all the district teams and continue to do so in order that local fans may know who is who and why.

CORRECTION ON THE MART GAME

In The Coryell County News of last Tuesday the statement was made that the reason for the removal of the Mart game from Gatesville to Mart was that Gatesville school officials were displeased with the attendance at the home game this season. Such is not the case and we were not consulted relative to the statement. If the statement was made by some individual it should have been credited to him and not to the school authorities in general. The fact is that attendance is much better than in recent years and we appreciate the support of the loyal local fans. The Mart game was moved more than a month ago, before the last two home games were played, thus the above mentioned statement could not have been true. If anyone is interested in knowing why the game was moved we shall be glad to offer full explanation.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is new about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but, after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—Steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates 5½ gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermosiphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvres permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around at no extra cost. Hundreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, if you like, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Now on display by Ford dealers.
