County "Brain Trust" Meet With 4-Star Acts of Austin and Waco

Approximately 200 of the teachers of the county met in the high school auditorium Saturday morning at 9:30, the first meeting of the teachers for the session 1935-36, with Supt. J. M. Witcher as m. c.

Principal speakers for the occasion were Miss Edgar Allen Wilson, Second Assistant State Superintendent, and Mrs. James S. Maxwell of Waco, representative of the Texas Centennial Commission.

Superintendent Frank L. Williams spoke briefly on school efficiency and said in part that "close co-operation and coordination between county and Gatesville's school system was imperative for further efficiency of county schools, and that schools should have as their purpose to teach the ability to do something, and how to live. The community somewhat determines what the school should teach, and an efficient school must be run by a plan—a definite program."

Mrs. A. E. Whisenhunt, P. T. Lemons and M. Sharp spoke on standard tests for the schools and how to give them, which proved rather technical, and interesting mainly to the teachers.

MAYES' STUDIO HAS NOVEL CONTEST WITH ADVS IN NEWS COLUMNS

Mayes' Studio and Radio Shop, has one of the most novel contests we know of running in the columns of the News. A series of seven ads on the new Kadette Radios are running in a series and in each ad there is an error.

The idea is to find these errors in all the seven ads, get a blank from Mr. Mayes and send (or he will send) your answer to three question into the Kadette Radio Company's office, and the best one will receive a Kadette Radio free.

This is not a local contest, but it is for local people and the radio will be awarded locally. Check these ads, and this might be your lucky season.

Synod Meeting of Dist. Held at Presbyterian Church at San Antonio

Rev. J. S. McLean returned Thursday from the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of Texas, U. S. A. which was held in San Angelo during the past week. This meeting was held in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the church of that city, with Rev. B. O. Wood, Pastor of the San Angelo church in charge.

Approximately 250 delegates were present from all over the State, including Dr. S. J. McMurry who is clerk of the Synod.

Plans were made for a Jubilee Centennial Celebration for 1936, and plans for a joint celebration to be held in Dallas next October were made.

MRS. JOHN T. MORGAN IS PAINFULLY INJURED IN S. BOSQUE CRASH

Mrs. John T. Morgan sustained a crushed vertebra in an accident Saturday night at South Bosque when another automobile crashed into the rear of the Morgan car while they were stopped fixing their lights. She was carried to the Baptist Sanitarium where she is reported suffering considerable pain.

The accident happened near South Bosque when Mr. and Mrs. Morgan had stopped to repair their lights, and another car stopped on the opposite side of the road with their lights on. A car driven by a party, as we understand, from McGregor crashed into the rear of the Morgan car (which had the lights off) when it pulled over to miss the lighted car on the other side of the highway.

Mr. Morgan was outside the car preparing to fix the lights and was uninjured. The car was considerably stove in from the rear, and rear axle was sprung.

PIONEER EVANT LADIES ENTERTAINED

Pictured above are celebrants at a party given by Mrs. Elmer Brooks and Mrs. O. A. Arnold of Evant to the following ladies: Mrs. Sam Sneed, Mrs. B. F. Gholson, Mrs. A. J. Griffin, Mrs. Clara Baker, Mrs. J. T. Ming, Mrs. D. S. Warren, Mrs. Mollie Seale, Mrs. T. A. Sawyer, Mrs. Ella Burney, Mrs. George Armstrong, Mrs. G. W. Preston, Mrs. M. O. Hunter, Mrs. W. C. Brooks and Mrs. J. T. Wilhite. The party was given on Sept. 28, as a birthday party for Mrs. Sam Sneed (with cape) who was 78 on that date. They told of good times and instead of riding in a car, they rode in an ox wagon, and one of the features of the afternoon was a spelling match from "the old Blue-Back Speller." The oldest lady in the group is 88.

Farmers of the county voted Saturday to continue the Corn-Hog program as of last year by a very small vote of,

Signers: Yes, 130; No 15.

Non-Signers: Yes, 91; No, 45.

This assures those interested that the Corn-Hog program as sponsored by the AAA authorities will be continued thru 1935-36 and that they will receive payments for reduction in corn and hog production.

In the nation, slowly-mounting returns in the national referendum incomplete reports from 31 states, those voting "yes" outnumbered those opposed in Saturday's balloting by a margin of about 5 1/2 to 1.

Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator said: "If the final results bear out present indications, another voluntary contract will be offered for both corn and hogs."

Mr. Davis also stated, the AAA would seek a 25 to 30 per cent increase in hog production next year, saying the "need for increasing the present pork supply of the nation will be kept in mind in plans for the next adjustment contract."

HERE'S THE FASHION NEWS ON AUTOMOBILES

The 1936 Ford V-8, with the trim, lithe sweep of line that runs all through the fashion world, is beautifully trimmed to these modern days. The new hood extends gracefully over the newly designed radiator grille, accentuating length and giving the car new grace in motion. The new large fenders are beautifully formed, with a wide flowing flare. The front of the Ford is quite imposing and altogether distinctive. The horns have disappeared. Why not? They're just as useful out of sight... concealed in the Ford behind circular grilles, just beneath the headlamps. The wheels are new... they are steel, with large hub caps—a lot more "custom-looking". The whole car is styled in the fine car manner.

Three lines of new Pontiac models for 1936, styled more beautiful, even than the original "Silver Streak," are on public view at your Pontiac dealer's. E. W. Jones & Son. Imaginative treatment and modish design have created in the new models an expression of motor car smartness not approached, even by the 1935 Pontiac, which won universal praise as "the most beautiful thing on wheels." Yet beneath the exterior beauty of the new models is the ruggedest, safest, and most dependable and economical car Pontiac ever built. The new solid, steel turret top bodies by Fisher on every 1936 Pontiac model achieve a peak in craftsmanship. Drums of the hydraulic brakes on the new models are made of cast iron for still greater effectiveness and safety. Yet this combination of outer grace and inner refinement—expressed in next year's slogan: "More Beautiful Than Ever, and Built to Last 100,000 Miles."

Plymouth announces the perfection models. Measured by all other cars ever before developed for the low price field, this new Plymouth is the peak of perfection. Prospects will find it perfect to look at—to ride in—to pay for. You will find it the most perfectly manufactured product the Plymouth factory or any other automobile factory ever turned out in volume. In terms of obvious value this new car is sensational. It is longer, wider, roomier; it is lower than the previous Plymouth, and these changes in dimensions give the car a generally more massive look. It is impressively distinctive in its styling. Hydraulic brakes reach in the 1936 Plymouth a new perfection that only long experience could produce. There is a new ease in the steering. In the 1936 Plymouth there is perfection in body construction, design and trim.

IRELAND NEWS

We had a fine rain with a cool wave mixed with it; some of our farmers were of the opinion that it was needed, others that it was not, so mote it be.

Some of our champion cotton pickers have left for west Texas where they will spend the next six or eight weeks pulling cotton and they will get it.

Mr. R. E. Newton from Valentine, Texas, is here visiting his son, Willard Newton and family, and will be here for sometime.

Mr. Douie Voges who has been in the CCC camp in May-Hill, New Mexico, for the past eight months, has returned to his home here in Ireland. That country did not agree with the health of Mr. Voges.

Mr. John Barnes of the Barnes Lumber Company, has moved his cattle the past week to Llano county, and has leased his ranch here and sold the sheep to Mr. Ragel of Reisel, who will assume charge soon.

The Gulf Oil Company has purchased from Mr. B. A. Briley his garage and filling station now occupied by the Texas Oil Company. The Gulf Company has been making some improvements on the front of the building the past week. We learn that they will have charge of the building on December 1.

Mr. John Arvig, our hustling Gin man has made further improvements on his Gin and a new huller that weighs over seven thousand pounds is now installed. He is now prepared to clean your cotton of burs, boles, trask, then gin it and make you a good sample out of bad cotton.

Green Bros. Tent and Road Show was here all the past week. They were advertised to show three nights, but on account of the bad weather that prevailed, made it impossible to show.

Our teachers were all well represented at the Teachers' Institute at Gatesville Saturday. They all enjoyed the work very much.

We learn that Bro. C. F. Bell has preached his farewell sermon the last of the year, and is now getting ready for the Annual Conference. We have enjoyed Bro. Bell as a friend and neighbor. We have enjoyed his sermons, they have been well prepared and well delivered. Bro. Bell, here is hoping you will be returned as pastor of the Methodist church for another year.

The death of Mr. Saunders Walker was a shock to the Ireland community, while he has been in bad health for sometime. The funeral was held in the Baptist church Thursday. The funeral was preached by Rev. C. F. Bell of the Methodist church. Eight children with Mrs. Walker survive the deceased. The body was entered in the Ireland Cemetery. We extend our sympathy to all the family.

South Africa's 1935 maize crop is estimated at 17,941,000 bags.

$25,000 ALLOCATED FOR MONUMENT

Denton, Oct. 26.—Allocation of $25,000 has been made by the Centennial Commission of Control for the erection of a monument to the pioneer women of Texas on the campus of Texas State College for Women (CIA). Expenditure of the money is in charge of the State Board of Control, and details have not yet been worked out. Lieutenant-Governor Walter F. Woodul of Austin is chairman of the Centennial Commission.

The German battleship Konig floated at Scapa Flow, is to be Albert, which recently was re-dismantled.

He Learns to Fly in 55 Minutes

After 55 minutes of instruction, Herbert Sargent, twenty-two, of Jersey City, made his first solo flight in a plane at the Jersey City airport and after completing the prescribed maneuvers set his plane down for a three-point landing. Eddie A. Schneider, twenty-three, Sargent's youthful instructor, holder of the junior transcontinental flying record, said he allowed Sargent to go up alone because he handled a plane perfectly. Taking the air on such short instruction is believed to have brought to Sargent a new record.

HALLOWE'EN

Season of witches on broomsticks flying past a full moon; horrible figures frisking about pumpkins with lights protruding and snatching the unwary; bats and animals for the nether regions, black cats, and all the other varmints and scares of the dark ages. All of which leads us to do a little quoting on our own "hook" from the encyclopaedia which says:

"Hallowe'en, or Hallow-Even the evening of October 31st, which precedes November 1st, known as the festival of all Saints. On this evening witches and all sorts of mischievous spirits are supposed to be abroad. It was considered formerly quite as safe not to be caught out alone on Hallowe'en; and even now it is considered good manners, at least, for elderly people to stay in doors. The belief in spirits abroad has faded out, yet the many pranks still played on this evening indicate that unusual agencies are at work."

To the small boy, this business is out. All it means to him and to his co-partner, the little girl, is a night of spooks, pranks and good times with the "lid off" and no "spanks" for coming home late. It's his chance to "ad lib" and have a good time on his own and do anything with anything he can get his hands on, such as turned over houses, flattened tires, moved benches and a thousand other pranks.

Well, his "night of nights" is on us, Nov. 31, so, if you've got anything loose, tie it down—we mean tie it down, or move it in, because it probably won't be there in the am—and we've told you so!

GRASS

Grass—Bermuda! Them's fightin' words in this county! Rightly or not, we're not qualified to say—and won't.

Railroad strikers sometimes use a cigarette paper to stop big locomotives, by simply placing them under the sliding arm (or whatever you call it) that carries the piston. It effectively stops the machinery, and consequently the engine, train, in fact, the whole transportation system.

A blade of Bermuda Grass has done the same thing in this county. Stopped the work of the ECW. The moment grass is mentioned, so we are told, those who have sought the ECW help "go straight up" as it were.

Information received both from this county and other counties is to the effect that more than 50 per cent of the farms of these counties HAVE Bermuda grass in the fence rows and that it has been there for as long as anyone remembers there was a farm. Furthermore, it has also been found that this grass during this long time, has never spread in the fields, and that in the majority of the cases it does not extend even as much as four feet from the fence line.

Be that as it may, many fields in this county are badly fouled with Johnson grass, which it seems, no effort is made to remove, and which is much worse than the booger-bear Bermuda. Consequently, as ignorant of farming conditions as we may be (tho we now live on one) we can't for ourselves see why there is so much terror of Bermuda, especially, when it will be planted in ditches, or outlet channels as they are officially called, to stop the flow of the badly eroding soil of the county's fertile fields.

So, let's think this matter over, and when the suggestion is made by the ECW officials that there be a sodded outlet channel, let's co-operate and let them do their work. Bermuda can't be worse than Johnson!

World Comment

HENRY FORD believes that war and speculation are directly accountable for the present depression and state of the Nation. In an interview by Fred Kelly, the auto magnate said that what upset us in 1929 was the paying out of money that represented honest labor and getting in return stocks that represent nothing. "I believe that any stock that is sold should have as real a value as an automobile or a bushel of potatoes and that the stock market should be and can be run as honestly as a vegetable market," Ford stated. "War is the same thing. If people stay out of war and the stock market, they go along far better."

"But can industry help?" he was asked by the interviewer.

"There is one thing not clearly understood—industry, manufacturing, is not our principal means of livelihood. Industry will never be able to employ the whole people. The whole population cannot be absorbed into manufacturing. I say that thousands of workmen could do small gardening, raising what they use themselves. A city garden injures nobody—least of all the farmer—and is an added security for the workman. If a family earns $200 or $300 in that way, it has that much more to spend for something else."

Questioned as to his opinion of the New Deal, Mr. Ford promptly answered: "It's all good, probably because it gives people experience. We're in a new world, a constantly changing world, and we must keep adjusting ourselves to it. But adjustments should be wise and workable. One thing life has taught me is that what is unworkable can't be made to work."

"What's your theory of taxation. How would you apply taxes?" Mr. Kelly continued.

"You notice there's always more and more," Ford commented. "There is never a lack of taxes. Inventive genius has devised new and strange forms of taxes. The main thing, I think, is that taxes should not be administered in a way to discourage anybody. Especially, they shouldn't discourage anybody who would start something new. We can't devote our lives merely to producing revenue for a Government."

A wise man is Mr. Ford, not of the sage type but a modernist—a modern business man of a modern world. Mr. Ford would make a wise leader as he has made a successful builder.

Yesterday Italian Fascism celebrated its fourteenth birthday. The world looked on and wondered what the new year would bring for Europe's first post-war dictatorship.

In Italy, Benito Mussolini, head of the party and premier, branded the League of Nations' boycott against his country because of the war against Ethiopia as "the most odious of injustices" and an absurd crime. The Geneva body was warned that Italy will organize "the most desperate defense" against penalties while going straight ahead in Africa. "They (the nations of the League) will perceive," Il Duce declared, "that the Italian people is capable of heroisms like those of the soldiers who avenged Aduwa, with glory and carried civilization to the soil of Africa."

In Africa, Mussolini's men in arms were becoming restless for lack of battles to fight while in the mountains of the interior of Ethiopia tens of thousands of dusky warriors of Emperor Haile Selassie gather, carrying out a shrewd strategy of lying in wait for the Italians in deep forests and impassable mountains. Fascist troops are supposed to be pushing toward Harar, strategic city near the French-Ethiopian railroad.

Other developments of interest included an appropriation of $35,000,000 for naval construction by Il Duce's government because of Great Britain's concentrations of warships in the Mediterranean. Italy's Minister to Ethiopia has finally departed from Addis Ababa after sixteen days of defiance to Selassie's order to leave.

Note: Most reliable estimates of Italian troops in Ethiopia were given by Raymond Gram Swing in "Today," which placed the total number available for service in the north bordering Eritrea at 221,000 of which 60,000 were natives and 161,000 white troops; 67,000 on the southern or Somaliland front and only a small number

STUDENTS ACCOMMODATED IN COOPERATIVE SYSTEM

Denton, Oct. 26.—Young men and women have lived in portable shacks, made themselves into walking bill boards, given blood transfusions, attempted parachute jumps—in fact, there are very few stunts, sensational or otherwise, these individuals have not accomplished in order to pay for an education.

Institutions and organizations, too, have inaugurated many plans for lightening the financial burdens of the college student. Farm produce has been accepted in exchange for tuition student loan funds have been made available to the needy and scholarships of all kinds have been given to worthy students.

However, Texas State College for Women (CIA) has worked out its own unique system, a plan whereby young women who are otherwise unable to attend can obtain a college housekeeping for the year. The plan grew with each succeeding semester and with the opening of three new houses this year, a total of seven cooperative homes, accommodating approximately 180 girls, are in use.

Each house is under the direct supervision of a mature college student and a student tem was put into operation. A small cottage, accommodating ten girls and a hostess was leased, and before the registration period closed, another building had been rented and 16 more girls had set up education with a minimum of cost.

In September 1934, what is known as the cooperative system was put into operation. It is the duty of the house manager to arrange programs of work, menus, check out the groceries for meals, and supervise the house work. Each girl works by a schedule and the duty of no girl usually exceeds over one hour of work per day. The menus are checked at intervals by a home economics teacher who is on the cooperative dormitory committee.

The expense of operation in this system has not exceeded ten dollars per month per girl. Rent and utility bills are prorated and each girl pays her share. Groceries are bought at wholesale prices or brought from home by the girls themselves. When the food is brought from home, the girls receive credit for it at regular wholesale prices. In the event that the girl brings food from home, $5 or less takes care of her demand for cash during the month.

Cover crops to improve his land are a part of the agricultural faith of Henry W. Meyer of Realitos, Duval county. Mr. Meyer bases his faith on works having in 1934 planted 25 acres of land to cowpeas which were grazed and then turned under. This land produced eight and a third bales of cotton in 1935, a yield well above the county average.

Louis Young of Katy, Harris county, has a baby beef which has made gains of approximately three pounds daily. The calf is now on a ration composed of 70 per cent corn, 20 per cent rolled oats and 10 per cent pea sized cotton seed meal. Louis, who is a 4-H club boy, is planning to show the calf at Houston.

To J. E. McDaniel, out in the Slidell community, goes the distinction of digging the first trench silo in Wise county. This trench, which is 10 feet wide at the top by 8 feet wide at the bottom and 7 feet by 90 feet long, has a capacity of about 90 tons of silage and will provide sufficient feed, so far as roughage is concerned, for the entire winter and well into the spring for his dairy cattle.

He was closely followed by L. L. Burres, just out of Decatur, who has completed another silo, 8 feet wide at the top by 6 feet wide at the bottom and 7 feet deep by 70 feet long, with a capacity of about 50 tons of silage.

Hrs. W. A. Nuckles of the Unity community in Lampasas county has served 730 white leghorn pullets which have begun laying. She has a 500 acre farm located on the Lampasas River which produces grain well, and this year's grain crop will be utilized to a large extent in feeding poultry.

Denton—E. H. Tatum, Denton county farmer, has profited greatly through his corn-hog contract and has entered into the extension service feed saving program in a big way on his 580 acre farm, according to G. R. Warren, county agricultural agent.

"I fattened 153 home produced shoats in 1933, but made very little profit on them," Tatum said. "Since making my corn-hog contract I have reduced the number of my brood sows and this year fattened only 56 pigs. These 56 pigs at an average weight of 225 pounds and a top market price of $11.25 have made me much more profit than my 153 head fattened in 1933."

Tatum produced barley, wheat, corn and grain sorghum for grain, and uses grain sorghums and Johnson grass for pasture. He buys only a little protein feed, to balance his ration.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

FOOTBALL FOR THE MATURE BOY

Football is in the air, both on and off the radio. Somehow the fall tang brings out the urge to combat. But it can be overdone. I mean that football is not just a game to be played casually, because the fall season has arrived. It is, rather, combat of a vigorous sort, for which one needs adequate preparation.

My particular objection is directed at fathers and teachers who promote collegiate football for grade and junior high school boys. True, they mean well. They have only the best interests of the boy at heart, but unfortunately they don't know the whole story. Like a beginning swimmer they venture out of depth.

The boy of junior high school age is not a mature animal. In fact, his extreme immaturity is an outstanding characteristic. One sign of this awkwardness. Now, an awkward player has no business in a football "pile up." He only invites injury. Another weakness is the heart, because at this time it is undergoing rapid growth. The same is true of all the vital organs. They are not prepared for the stress and strain of violent contact competition. Later, they are, but until this period of rapid growth is over, it is to the boy's advantage to remain out of strenuous physical sports. Schoolmen know this and if fathers would cooperate we would have fewer athletic cripples in college and later.

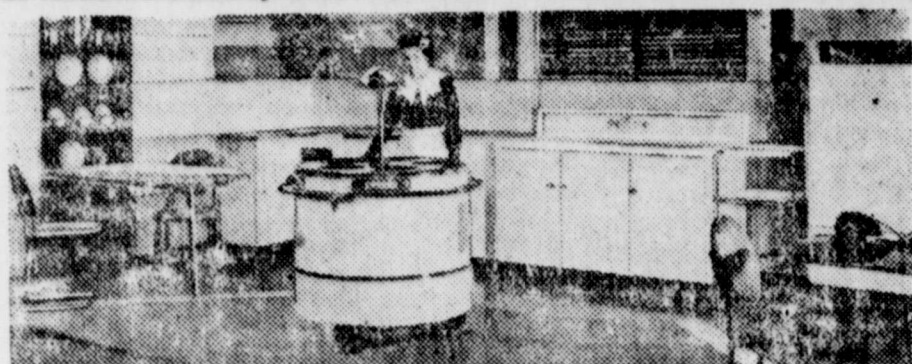

Should teachers follow the "Three R's" faithfully? Dr. Ireland gives his view in his next article.

SAILING THRU LIFE

With M. LEDNAR

Helen Rowland, in the New York Journal, says women have always demanded changes of styles in clothes, and now men seem to demand changes of styles in women. At least they think they do.

Well—fashions in girls do appear to change as rapidly, these days, as the color of a screen stars' hair. From skinny to plump, from red-head to platinum blonde, from slithery vamp to tomboy-type they change rapidly, almost overnight.

It is almost impossible to be sure which type of woman is the mode of the moment. Some would have us believe that the Mae West vogue prevails and that the most admired of the day is the West curvilinear. Others will try to induce you to bat off a few more pounds and try a wind-blown Hepharn bob.

Just as though a woman's personality and type were entirely a matter of averdupois and foiffure. We have had styles in women ever since the days of Lilith—which was before Eve invented clothes, and thousands of years before the Hollywood diet was discovered.

In grandmothers' day the girls were simple and sweet. Men liked them that way then—and men like them that way now. Later, the mode changed and the dreamy-eyed vamp held the spotlight. After that came the jazz decades and the popularity of the turbulent, irrepresible, peppy girl. Every girl under twenty-five thought herself a replica of Clara Bow.

But the fad has passed. And now the type-mode of the moment is the poised, selfreliant, forthright type—vibrant, snappy, cool and uncompromising. No feminine nuisances, no jazzy nonsense, and no vampish lures. Simple, straightforward and natural.

She is, of course, a vast improvement over her predecessor, but that is not saying that she is eternal, or that she is more than a momentary fad. Most of these changes of styles of women are merely superficial; just changes in the feminine outline and the feminine manner.

Women do not change much in reality. And, fundamentally, mens' tastes in feminine charms are the same today, yesterday and forever.

Men do not care for holocausts of pep nor do they care for human refrigerators. They tire of sweet, clinging dumbbells and flee from predatory Amazons. They want women to be women.

Slinky vamps who undulated through drawing rooms and gazed out from under heavily pencilled eyelids have long since passed away; and snappy hipless tomboys will follow them. The eternal feminine will persist, in spite of all the changing styles in women.

Girl babies will continue to be born with curves and dimples and coquetry and feminine caprices. And men will continue to like them that way, no matter what the current fashion in girls.

A Chicago woman told a divorce court judge that since 1925 she has thrown her husband out of the house 65 times, but he always came back—Maybe she put too much top spin on him.

A recent experience causes me to wonder if anything can be more annoying than sitting in a barbers' chair with your mouth full of lather, watching the boy trying to give your hat to another customer.

It was only a short jump from high-button shoes, buggies, ten-cent whiskey and baths once a week, to electric light, motion pictures, radio broadcasts and airplanes. Who knows what a couple of more short jumps will bring forth.

Mrs. Harry Roderick of Provincetown, Mass., is a twin, her husband is a twin, and she recently gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl.

Don't be a freshman at everything you attempt.

New FISH Favorite

NOTHING succeeds like success. A large number of people have been enjoying for a long time that delicious sea food—canned mackerel. Now the news of the pleasure they have experienced has been noised abroad, and the consumption of canned mackerel is increasing by leaps and bounds. Try some of these recipes.

Mackerel Maitre d'Hotel: Open a one-pound can mackerel (a large oval can) being careful not to break the fish. Remove contents to the shallow, greased baking dish from which it is to be served. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and minced parsley, and heat in oven or under broiler. Make Maitre d'Hotel butter by thoroughly creaming one-third cup butter and one tablespoon chopped parsley, adding one tablespoon lemon juice slowly and seasoning with salt and pepper. Just before serving the fish, spread this butter over the top. Serves six.

For Breakfast or Lunch

Breakfast Mackerel: Remove the contents of a 14-ounce can fresh mackerel in large pieces and lay in a shallow pan. Dust with paprika and cover with four strips of bacon. Bake in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp. Serve with wedges of lemon. Serves four.

Mackerel Shepherd Pie: Drain a cup of canned diced carrots and half a cup of canned peas, and add to two cups white sauce. Flake the contents of a one-pound can fresh mackerel and fork very carefully into the sauce, so that it remains in fairly large flakes. Pour into buttered baking dish and pie fluffy, seasoned mashed potatoes on top. Brush with melted butter and bake in a moderate oven until very hot and the potatoes golden brown. Serves eight.

Denton, Oct. 26.—The granting of a chapter of the National Collegiate Players to Texas State College for Women (CIA) marked the first exception to the traditional refusal of admittance to women's colleges. Heretofore, only co-educational institutions have been accepted. Organization of the 29th chapter as Pi Epsilon Delta will take place on the campus the last of this year.

WORLD COMMENT—

on the east. This writer says the number of planes with the Eritrean army are 200 and with the Somaliland force, 50.

Fifty thousand jobs a day are being provided by the New Deal's four billion dollar work relief program. At present, 1,750,000 are off relief and working for the WPA and by Dec. 1 work will have been provided for 3,500,000. Two-thirds of these will be at work on quick, small projects at a cost of over one billion dollars while the remainder will work on larger and more costly projects.

Private industry is absorbing more of the unemployed, according to official reports but President Roosevelt's hope that private enterprise will match the government job for job has proven disheartening. About 200,000 jobless have found work since Sept. 1 and many of these will have to reapply for relief when the cotton picking and harvesting season is over. Once the work relief program is in full swing, however, certain industries will show a pickup due to demands for raw materials, such as steel, iron and cement, and by Jan. 1 those dependent for aid should be decreased by 500,000.

Current number of the Literary Digest gives some interesting figures on the rise in living costs since President Roosevelt's inauguration in 1933, resulting from crop restrictions, AAA, processing taxes, and other sundry measures. Figures are based on a national average.

GRIDDLE CAKES AND WAFFLES FIND FAVOR IN COLD WEATHER

Savory orders wafted from the kitchen, telling of golden brown griddle cakes of crisp waffles for breakfast, dispel the most reluctant early morning riser's laziness.

BAKED GRIDDLE CAKES One pint griddle cake batter, 1/2 pound cottage cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon cinamon, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon milk, 1 egg, well beaten, 1/2 cup honey or maple syrup.

Make the griddle cakes about 4 inches in diameter. Cover and keep them in a warm place until ready to use. Blend the seasoning with the cottage cheese and add the milk and egg. Spread the griddle cakes with 1 rounded teaspoon of cheese and fold or roll the cakes over the cheese, pressing the edges of the cake securely together.

SOUR MILK PANCAKES One cup flour, 1teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, well beaten, sour milk.

Sift the dry ingredients together. Add the egg and enough sour milk to make a batter the consistency of a very heavy cream. Heat fat a quarter of an inch deep in the frying pan. Drop spoonfuls of the batter into the pan and let them form into small cakes. Fry until golden brown on each side. Serve at once with tart jelly or apple sauce over them.

OATMEAL CAKES

Sift and measure 1/2 cup flour, resift with 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Mix 1 beaten egg, 1 1/2 cups cooked oatmeal, 1/2 cup evaporated milk and one-fourth cup cold water and 2 tablespoons melted shortening. Add to the dry mixture and beat until smooth. Bake cakes on a hot griddle. Cooked rice may be substituted for the oatmeal if desired.

RAISIN WAFFLES

Boil 1 cup seedless raisins for 5 minutes. To 1 cup cream, 1/2 cup milk, 3 beaten egg yolks, 3 tablespoons sugar, add 2 one-fourth cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat and add 4 tablespoons of melted shortening and the raisins. Beat and fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites and bake on a hot waffle iron.

CORN CAKES

Two cups corn meal, 1/2 cup flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2 cups milk, 4 tablespoons melted butter.

Combine the dry ingredients in a 2-quart mixing bowl. Beat the eggs then add the milk and mix it into the dry ingredients. Stir until the batter is smooth. Add the melted butter and drop by the tablespoon on a hot griddle.

The Last Outpost adapted by WALLACE WEST from the Paramount Picture by the same name

SYNOPSIS Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is rescued from the Turks by a mysterious British secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." In a battle with Smith, Andrews suffers a broken leg and is sent to a British hospital in Cairo, where he falls in love with his nurse, Rosemary. He asks Rosemary to marry him, but she reveals that she married a secret service agent who vanished at the outbreak of the war. Her husband, John Stevenson, who is the mysterious "Smith," reappears on the scene and asks Rosemary to go away with him. Meanwhile, Andrews is ordered away on a mission. Before he leaves, he sees Rosemary. They have a quarrel and on her way home Rosemary is run down by a truck and dies in her husband's arms calling for "Michael."

CHAPTER VII At first Stevenson was merely stunned by his wife's death and her mention of another man's name. But after her funeral the finding of "Michael" became an obsession with him. First he went to the hospital to search the records for a patient having that first name. Surely enough he found Captain Michael Andrews listed in the register. He invited Nurse Rowlands to his home and proceeded to pump her for information. At first the girl was frightened and refused to tell him anything. "But you were a great friend of my wife's, weren't you?" he persisted, staring at her unwinkingly. "We...we worked together. She was the loveliest person I ever knew, but I..." Stevenson rose as she choked back her tears. He placed a consoling hand on the girl's shoulder. Then he crossed to the writing table and picked up an envelope which lay there.

Stoicly Stevenson tore the letter into small pieces.

"Before she died, my wife gave me this," he said softly. "She asked me to give it to 'Michael.' Do you know who 'Michael' is? I want to deliver the letter. I gathered that he was a patient, but there might be twenty Michaels." Disarmed by his calmness, Nurse Rowlands stammered: "What... what's in that letter?" "I haven't any idea. All I want to know is how to do...what my wife wanted." "It must be Captain Andrews," hesitated the girl. "His name was Michael. He was a great favorite...with everyone." Slowly Stevenson tore the letter into small pieces. "That's all I wanted to know," he said harshly. "You may go." Reporting at general headquarters, Stevenson next inquired as to the whereabouts of his "friend," Captain Andrews. Learning that the latter had been sent to the Sudan, he then approached the lieutenant general in charge and asked to return to the front.

"Haven't you had enough?" His superior officer was surprised. "You've got four months leave to go yet." "I want something to do, sir," replied Stevenson miserably. "I don't want to think. My wife's death, you know..." "Of course! Of course!" answered the embarrassed general. "Foolish of me. Well now, let's see..." He turned to his maps. "Something new, sir..." Stevenson persisted, his black eyes gleaming. "If anything's doing in the Sudan, for instance?" The general started, struck by the idea. "Hmmm," he said thoughtfully. "You might be just the man..." In the meantime Andrews and his armored car unit were forging through the desert on their way to relieve a fortress which had been surrounded by enemy tribesmen. The road was long and dangerous and their gasoline began to run low. It was with a sigh of relief that the captain sighted the mud ramparts of the fortress in the distance. "Think we can make it?" he asked the driver. "If it ain't more than ten miles away, sir," answered the soldier, peering through the narrow slit of the windshield and then at the gasoline gauge where the needle quivered near "Zero." Their luck held and an hour later all the cars of the unit pulled up before the gates of the fort. "That's queer! Not a sign of anybody," muttered Andrews. "Foster," he shouted to his orderly. "Give 'em a toot." When the shrieking of the auto sirens still brought no answer Andrews stepped forward and put a shoulder against one of the gates. It was unlocked. Puzzled and hesitant the little party entered, then stopped in horror. The inside of the fort was a shambles. Dead men lay crumpled in awkward positions on all sides. Empty gasoline cans were scattered about the courtyard. "No wonder we didn't see no sentries, sir," whispered Foster. "The tribesmen stormed the fort and gutted it. I say! This is pretty awful!" "Bad business!" agreed Andrews. "Wonder whether there's a drop of water or a can of petrol left?" "Don't think so, sir," answered a sergeant who had been investigating. "The water casks are all staved in." "Prescott," cried the captain, turning to a young soldier, barely out of his teens. "Go back to the cars at once. Get them all through the gates. Then get a fatigue party to put all the available fuel from all the cars into the tank of yours. Hurry now!" "Right," answered the boy with a smart salute. "Only thing to do is to send your car back to Halfa to bring fuel and water. We'll stick it out here. If you're not back in three days, or the natives attack again, God help us!" Glowing with pride that he had been chosen as the one to make the relief sortie and not realizing that Andrews had given him the assignment to protect him from almost certain death, Prescott hurried back to his machine to execute the order.

FOOTBALL SPORTLITE

As Presented by Ted Harris, News' Sports Editor, giving his views on Sports in Coryell County and Surrounding Territory.

Mart Defeats Hornets 6-0; Ties for Conf. Honors

Last Friday evening as the early crisp norther was well felt on the gridiron in Mart, local Hornets and the Mart Panthers were in skirmish of football, the locals losing 6-to-0, and Mart and Marlin are tied for this Class B District.

Both teams started off confident of the fact that they were not defeated nor had the game sewd up until the last whistle had blown. "Blondy" Hair, local quarterback, took to the air early in the first quarter, while the Mart field general kept his eleven constantly punching the Hornet line. Continuing for three periods, the two at the barking posts had to find other means to get pay dirt, and it was Mart, late in the fourth period, who with their lone pass of the evening, from Slavens to Walker, made the only touchdown of the game. On about a forty yard drive which resulted from constant power plays, the smart Mart field general saw fit to heave the pigskin in the air from the locals twenty yard line, thus the touchdown resulted.

In the second quarter the locals got a break, after completing three passes, Mart received a penalty that gave the Hornets first down and goal to go with the leather on the Panthers five yard line. Dave Culberson, local lad that neither coach has found a helmet to fit, put his cleats in the sod with his heel between his knees, digging with power, in an effort to reach pay dirt, but failed, on four tries and the ball went to Mart on their own six-inch line. The most spectacular play of the game came when Mart got the ball on their six-inch line. In punt formation, a Panther back broke through the Hornet line for about sixty yard where he was brought down by Holt, Hornet tackle, who caught the Mart runner from behind.

The game in general was the best played by the locals this year, is the opinion of this writer. We couldn't help but think of Coach Ray Morrison, who formerly cached the Southern Methodist Ponies, and was known for his aerial game, as the Hornets completed one pass after another as the game began to terminate. Attempting twenty-two passes, the locals completed 15 with two intercepted. With a team a little heavier than the Hornets, the Panthers kept the pill on the ground and managed to make fourteen first downs, while the Hornets piled up nine.

SCHOOL PLAY HONORS STEPHEN AUSTIN AS "FATHER OF TEXAS"

Dallas, Oct. 28.—The heroic simplicity of Stephen F. Austin's life will be dramatized in hundreds of Texas communities during the next fortnight as school children honor the November 3rd birthday of the "Father of Texas."

The state publicity department for Texas Centennial celebrations was busily engaged this week in fulfilling requests for a commemorative play. A modest pageant, simple in design but historically accurate throughout, has been created, and copies are being mailed to all sections of the state.

It is the first time since the Forty-third Legislature proclaimed Stephen F. Austin's birthday a state holiday that the schools of Texas are joining in state-wide observance of the Texas patriot's birth. In conjunction with the school plays a radio program will honor Austin at 2:30 p. m., November 3, and will be broadcast over WFAA, Dallas; WBAP, Fort Worth; WOAI, San Antonio; and KPRC, Houston.

These projects are being undertaken by Centennial publicity forces to keep foremost the state-wide patriotic aspects of the Texas Centennial celebrations.

MAGIC VALLEY PLANS $50,000 EXHIBIT AT CENTRAL CEN.

Mercedes, Oct. 28.—Lower Rio Grande Valley counties have united in plans for a $50,000 exhibit at the Texas Centennial central exposition at Dallas next summer which will be representative of their rich agriculture region.

The outdoor display planned would reproduce a citrus orchard with bearing orange, lemon, and grapefruit trees. Palms and other tropical and semi-tropical plants indigenous to the Valley would also be used.

An organization has been formed to enroll 20,000 members in Starr, Hidalgo, Willacy and Cameron counties in order to finance the project. S. I. Jackson, named general manager of the corporation, has opened offices in Mercedes.

Believed to be poachers, a young courting couple in a lane near Soissons, France, were fired on and wounded by the police.

FOOTBALL CHATTER

By TEDDY

Results of the week end games ran true to form and after the smoke of battle cleared, Mart and Marlin were tied for the top position with two victories each and no defeats. These two teams meet Friday in what will be the deciding game of the district most likely. McGregor however plays both teams and could tear up the play-house of one or both as it now appears. Harry Chambliss' Panthers will take Marlin and continue on to another district championship, making this writer a pretty good prognosticator (guesser).

The McGregor Bulldogs overwhelmed West Trojans Friday evening 74-6. Evidently the Bulldogs, under the capable hands of Coach Jenkins, have rounded into championship form and their victory over the Trojans bodes no good for district teams remaining on their schedule. Despite their early season loss to Clifton, the McGregor squad will be in the thick of the fight down to the wire.

The M. E. Home team of Waco continued their all-victorious march with a 34-0 plastering of Whitney. The game here Nov. 15 between the Home and the locals more and more takes on the aspect of being the classic of the at-home schedule of the Hornets.

Gatesville plays hosts to Moody next Friday, a team beaten by McGregor 42-to-0. The game will afford a little dope to those who go in for comparative scores. However, the locals will undoubtedly suffer a let down after their game with Mart and the score will be fairly close. The admission will be 25c in order to enable everybody to see the contest.

Pearsall—One hundred pounds of commercial fertilizer won C. W. Crawford of Frio county the first prize on corn against a field of 50 competitors at a local fair this fall, he reports to N. H. Hunt, county agricultural agent.

"The fertilizer put the finishing touches on my corn which enabled it to surpass corn from unfertilized fields. It also increased my corn yield about 15 bushels per acre," Crawford said.

On this same farm, Crawford reports that he ran a test on a six acre plot of maize. One acre was fertilized and this acre made more maize than all of the other five acres.

Kountze—By burning out stumps and clearing out underbrush, Judge A. L. Vevil of Hardin county has doubled the carrying capacity of a 20 acre piney woods pasture, according to W. P. Barrett, county agricultural agent. The pasture is seeded with white Dutch and Persian clover and lespedeza.

Five years ago the pasture was covered with scrub pine and undergrowth but today half of the 20 acres can be mowed, and mowed regularly to keep down weeds.

The record for the world's youngest flier is claimed to have been broken by the 14-day old son of Dr. and Mrs. M. Grau when he flew with his parents recently from Croydon, England, to Berlin.

Richard P. Turner of Johnson City, Tenn., has sued for divorce, charging that his wife left him 23 years ago to visit relatives and has not returned.

Pledge

I will think—talk—write . . . Texas Centennial in 1936! This is to be my celebration. In its achievement I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas' heroic past; my confidence in its glories that are to be
