Poage Tells of Passage of Two Major Bills; Pension And Salaries

Austin, Oct. 29.—This past week has seen the Senate pass two of the major measures for which the Legislature was originally convened. One week ago tonight the Senate finally passed a pension bill, and today at noon we passed the officers salary bill. The House has in the meantime been working on tax measures and just this morning sent their first tax bill to the Senate. It is a bill to increase the tax on pari-mutuel bets made at race tracks. Its importance, however, lies primarily in the fact that it may be used as an instrumentality for the Senate to vote on other tax measures. The pension bill will be of no value unless revenue is provided to meet it, and it is apparent that the same group who blocked the passage of all legislation in order to prevent the levying of any taxes at the last session are gaining more confidence, each day, and that they are quite hopeful of being able to repeat this questionable practice again this session. They have already begun to engage in long filibusters and other dilatory tactics, as can be seen from the fact that today after passage of the county officers salary bill, they succeeded in adjourning the Senate until tomorrow morning, in spite of the fact that we had a district attorneys bill ready for consideration. The same group that always votes against all tax measures put over the adjournment. I voted against it.

The House finally passed a pension bill on last Thursday. They had already received the Senate bill and could have saved several days time by substituting the Senate bill for the House bill and then amending it so as to contain the subject matter of the bill they wanted, but apparently those in charge of the House did not want speedy action and it was not until yesterday morning that they requested the Senate to appoint a conference committee to adjust the differences. The chief differences in the bills relate to the qualifications for receiving a pension. The Senate bill provides that no one may receive a pension who had an income during the preceding year of more than $400.00, while the House bill fixes this figure at $720.00. The House bill provides that no one owning more than $4000.00 worth of property shall receive a pension, whereas, the Senate bill would fix no property limitation, but requires that if the pensioner is possessed of property, that at the death of the surviving husband or wife, the state should be repaid for the pensions paid out of the property. The House bill did not require any repayment, but, of course, did not pay pensions to many people who could receive them under the Senate bill. I do not think that either bill is perfect and I hope that the conference may work out something better than either House has done.

Conference committees in the Legislature are composed of five members of each House and they have tremendous power. When their reports are brought in, they cannot be amended. They can only be accepted or rejected. That is, it makes no difference how many objectionable features a member may find in a conference report, he must vote for it as it is brought in if he is to vote for the bill at all. In this case, those who want a pension bill have to vote for what ever conference report is brought in or vote against the pension entirely. Conference committees can only be instructed at the time they are appointed, and even this is rarely ever done. However, on yesterday morning when the conference committee was to be appointed, Senator Oneal and I sent up a motion to instruct them NOT to put a sales tax provision on the pension bill. Of course, we realize that the people supporting the sales tax want to try to put everyone in the position of voting against a pension if they vote against a sales tax. I am for a pension, but am against a sales tax, and I do not intend to be lead up any such blind alley. I know that we can pay the pension bill and at the same time relieve real property of all state ad valorem taxes, if we will but put a reasonable tax on natural resources. Senator Hornsby sent up an amendment to our instruction so as to prohibit the committee from bringing in any tax with the pension bill. I voted against this amendment, as I think that there should be a tax. However, the amendment carried and the instructions finally given to the committee were not to bring in any tax measure as a part of the pension bill. This, of course, means that in order to make the pension really effective, there must be some tax bills passed, and that speedily.

The House has been working several days on the so-called omnibus tax bill, but admittedly this is a dangerous bill in that all of the interest who oppose levying a tax on any particular industry will oppose the entire bill, and even if the House passes it, they will so prolong the hearings in the Senate that they are very likely to defeat this measure. I am finding an ever increasing amount of interest and support for my natural resource tax.

Freshmen Elect

Anne Hughston-President

Kula Makris-Vice Pres.

Freshman students at Texas State College for Women (CIA) selected Miss Anne Hughston, Dallas, and Miss Kula Makris, Pine Bluff, Ark., to head the 1935-36 class. Approximately 1,000 first year students took part in the recent elections.

While, of course, I recognize there are very powerful interests opposing it, I am going to do all I can to secure its passage.

The salary bill that the Senate passed this morning provides that commissioners, courts shall fix the salary of all county officials at an amount not less than they made this year and not more than the law allows them under the fee system. This, of course, will result in most instances in fixing the salary at exactly the amount the officers made this year under the fee system.

I think that it is probable that the Governor will submit liquor legislation tomorrow, and that he will also submit a drivers' license bill at the same time. I have a drivers' license bill prepared and ready for introduction in the Senate, and am hopeful that we may succeed in finally passing such a bill this session. My only fear is that both the drivers' license and the liquor bills may be used to prevent the passage of revenue measures.

PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

To All to Whom Presents Shall Come:

On Friday, August 16, 1935, Will Rogers died, Idol of America, beloved by all who knew him, his untimely passing brought a greater sense of individual loss and sorrow to every American citizen than any man who has ever commanded the attention or affection of our people.

In the word of Reverend J. Whitcomb Brougher, Sr., who officiated at the Will Rogers memorial services in Glendale, California:

"There are many hills, but only here and there a great towering Mt. Shasta;

There are many streams, but only here and there a great Mississippi;

There are many trees, but only here and there a great Sequoia gigantea;

There are many echoes, but only now and then an original voice;

There are many musicians, but only now and then a Mendelssohn or a Mozart;

There are many politicians, but only now and then a great statesman;

There are many people, but only now and then an outstanding individual."

The nation still is stunned and sorrowful. It is impossible to realize that Will Rogers is really gone from us.

Will Rogers needs no monument. He built his own monument, he wrote his own epitaph in the hearts and affections of people from every walk of life. He was the greatest apostle of sunshine, of joyous humor, of fellowship, the world has ever known. He still lives because his work lives. "To live in mankind is far, far more than to live in a name."

To perpetuate his memory, to fittingly attest a nation's love for the ideals Will Rogers represented, a nation-wide movement is under way. It is headed by outstanding citizens everywhere who have agreed to give unselfishly of their time and means, in order that a proper foundation for service to human-kind may be permanently established. Every man, woman and child, from the highest to the lowest walks of life, will be given an opportunity to participate.

As but a small part of the program, on Monday, November 4th, every bank in the nation will open special "Will Rogers Memorial" accounts. Every man, woman or child who has ever chuckled at the homely philosophy of Will Rogers, whose life has been made happier, who has been inspired

In a letter to the Advisory Committee of the Texas Centennial Celebration for Coryell County from Walter F. Woodul, Chairman of the Commission of Control for Texas Centennial Celebrations, $200.00 has been allotted for this county for a plaque or marker (Highway Department at Gatesville, giving history of county and a sketch of James Coryell for whom the county was named.

The letter also says in part: "The Centennial Commission of Control has approved the recommendations of the Advisory Board of Historians, composed of L. W. Kemp, J. Frank Dobie, and Father Paul J. Polk with respect to markers thruout the various counties in Texas. The principal purpose of these markers is to make permanent the history in the various localities of incidents that happened long ago.

These monuments, or markers, handled by the Highway Commission, will be made of granite four feet in height, thirty inches in width, and 12 inches thick; the stone will be set in concrete. Attached to the monument will be bronze plaque not exceeding 26 inches in width and twenty-eight inches long. On this plaque will be suitable historical data and our Advisory Board of Historians and their assistants are working on these inscriptions at this time."

Local members of the Advisory Committee for this county are Mrs. Simon Winters, Evans; Hon. Ayres Compton, Gatesville; Mrs. Tom Mears, Gatesville; Hon. Jouett Allin, Coppas Cove; Mr. F. W. Straw, Gatesville, and Mrs. J. O. Brown, Gatesville.

RADIO SERIES TO BE GIVEN DIRECT FROM COLLEGE

Denton, Oct. 29.—Initial program of the third annual college radio series will be broadcast direct from Texas State College for Women (CIA) Nov. 4 through Station WFAA, Dallas, by remote control. This will mark the opening of the branch station on the campus. Mr. Martin Campbell, associate manager of WFAA, and Alexander Keese, program director, will be special guests for the broadcast.

I think Will Rogers, if he (Continued on Last Page.)

The New York Times' special correspondent in Italy gave in a recent issue Italy's explanation as to why it needs additional territory for its expanding population.

Italy, about half the size of Texas, has a population of some 43,000,000. It is fundamentally agricultural, having practically no resources that would enable it to become industrial. Over fifty per cent of its population live from the soil either directly or indirectly but only 41 per cent of the land area is suitable for agriculture.

Italy has but three colonies—Libya, Somaliland, and Eritrea—but these are largely desert or marsh and mostly unfit for habitation by Europeans. Italy had hoped to secure additional territory at the close of the World War, but France and Great Britain monopolized the captured German colonies and it received nothing of value for colonizing purposes.

Italy's birth rate is 23.7 to the thousand and there is a steady increase of population, averaging annually from 400,000 to 500,000. This is a heavy burden to an overcrowded land of low living standards.

This is the picture that has induced Italy to try to take with the sword the additional land that it could not get through diplomacy. The problem that Italy faces is a world problem and in former ages a solution was regularly sought by Italy's method—the sword. Japan, faced by the same problem, is calmly seiding neighboring territory so as to get raw material for industries. Germany now faces the same problem and looks longingly eastward toward the western lands of Russia, as also does Poland.

In future years it may be that a league of nations will apportion equitably colonial lands to overcrowded nations. That is a dream of the future. Today the bullet and the bayonet determine ownership to the powerful at the expense of the weak.

The anniversary of Italian Fascism found Mussolini's legions well embarked on the project for creation of a new Roman Empire. The largest European army ever assembled on African soil is strongly entrenched and in possession of nearly 3,000 square miles of Ethiopian territory. The troops are in splendid spirits, eager to assume the offensive, and there is little sickness.

In the north, advance regiments have formed a new and stronger line well beyond the Auwa-Adigrat front and it is believed that the drive southward toward Makale will begin minutely. In the south, General Graziani's Somaliland forces are encountering stubborn resistance from guerilla bands and at Jijigi Emperor Haile Selassie's forces are expected to make their first stand against the invaders. If Jijigi falls, Harar, just northward and gateway to the French-Ethiopian railway which Italy wishes to sever, will be forced to capitulate and the three Italian armies advancing from the north, east and south can join and march on Addis Ababa.

France has, after much dickering and beating around the bush, pledged its whole-hearted support of League sanctions against Italy and has announced its readiness, along with Great Britain, to enforce an economic boycott on Italy. Twenty-three countries have subscribed to financial sanctions against Italy but only thirteen nations have adhered to the economic boycott.

Italian officials are still optimistic, regardless of the economic dam being built around their nation. More than half of the five per cent conversion loan designed to yield the Government $800,000,000 in fresh money has been subscribed. Well-informed sources near Mussolini say "time" is working for Il Duce in four ways. They are:

When there is a settlement, Italy expects to have a firm grasp on what she wants, and it then will be only a question of accepting what she has accomplished.

Sanctions, these sources asserted, look each day more like unwanted children of bickering parents who are likely to leave them on Great Britain's doorstep.

Ethiopia allegedly is disintegrating. Hundreds of chiefs and thousands of warriors, Italians claim, have joined the Fascists. The world, these Italian observers contended, already is less hostile to Il Duce's expedition, and is shocked at the idea that Great Britain might have gone to war with Italy.

Hopes for peace are dim. Mussolini's terms of peace are so exacting that it is useless to even submit them to the League and to Haile Selassie. They include Italy's retention of invaded lands, an international protectorate over the remainder of Ethiopia in which Italy should have prominence, and the disarming of the population. Haile is equally exacting in his demands. He asks for an indemnity for damages done, the return of captured cities, and the evacuation by Italian forces of all invaded provinces. Neither side is conscious of defeat and until one gains the upper hand by several important victories, peace will remain but a dim cloud on the horizon.

Present indications bear out predictions that President Roosevelt will enter the 1936 race with a badly unbalanced budget. The President, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau and Budget Director Daniel Bell are already at work on the 1936-37 budget, although final decisions on expenditures will be impossible until Congress meets in January.

As was the case for the last three budgets, emergency expenditures will determine the extent to which the budget will be unbalanced. Revenues have since 1923 covered the ordinary expense of government but huge expenditures for public works and relief and special appropriations for the army and navy have put Uncle Sam's books out of balance to the amount of three billions in 1933 and 1934 and four billions for this fiscal year.

Expenditures for the current year are running about $700,000,000 less than budget estimates. Government outlays for the full year will aggregate $5,768,000,000, not including over one million for debt service.

Mr. Roosevelt has promised a substantial decrease of relief expenditures for the next year and "a sharp reduction of the spread between income and outgo." A little study will show that this can only be accomplished by discontinuing much of the relief and work relief aid, to the unemployed, or a substantial decrease of the number of unemployed. One would have to be very optimistic to hope for a reduction of 2,500,000 in the number of unemployed between now and next year. Even if this were done, it would leave 7,500,000 jobless and dependent upon the government for sustenance, which would mean a continued outlay of huge sums for relief. Obviously taxes cannot be increased, although revenues should increase by next July 1 when the new budget goes into effect. Which all points to a budget unbalanced by several billions of dollars, to be added to the national debt now approaching the thirty billion mark.

A smarming vote of approval was accorded the Administration's corn-hog plan in the national referendum held Saturday. Complete returns show those voting yes outnumbering those opposed by a margin of nearly seven to one.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in a statement commending the farmers for their favorable vote, explained that "corn-hog farmers of the country will be doing their best as a result of the referendum to increase hog production next year in such a way as will not bring about excessive over-production in subsequent years.

"They realize their triple duty," Wallace continued, "First to the consumer, second, to the cause of soil conservation and to the maintenance of a fair income for themselves."

Who expected the farmer to vote against a program that has brought him a 55c rise in the price of corn (a bushel) since 1933 and a $5.50 rise in the price of hogs a hundred-weights? Not only has the farmer witnessed this spectacular rise in the market for his products but he has received hundreds of millions of dollars of Government money for co-operating in the program.

Yet, there is another result of the Administration's policy of regimentation of the corn-hog industry—an alarming increase in the importation of beef and a consequent rise in the domestic price. Consider these figures for the first eight months of the last two years, issued by the Department of Commerce:

Imports (In Pounds)	1934	1935
Beef & veal	136,972	7,115,925
Hams, bacon	547,223	2,395,608
Can. meats	26,215,575	49,770,402
Lard, etc	296,185	10,758,779
Butter	436,695	21,826,263

CLEVER COOKS PLAN AHEAD FOR THE THANKSGIVING FEAST

Everyone enjoys Thanksgiving day—the anticipation of a grand dinner—and the satisfying repletion, the “I ate too much but it was worth it” feeling that comes afterward. Everyone, that is, but the cook. Unless she happens to be a homemaker who plans ahead.

Thanksgiving menus are apt to be a bit more elaborate than those presented on other feast days, and fortunately many of the favorite dishes are such that they may be prepared, at least in part, the day before.

Clean and stuff your turkey or other fowl the day before the feast. Cook and chop the giblets for the gravy. Make your molds of cranberry jelly. Prepare your plum pudding or mince pie and reheat it the day of the feast. Count and clean the silver several days in advance. See that table linen and china are in readiness and when Thanksgiving day dawns you'll have the pleasure of leisure to enjoy it. To you the delicious aromas will be as thrilling as to the waiting family and guests for you will have accomplished the fussy time-taking tasks well ahead of time. Here is a dinner that may be prepared in this manner:

- Lobster and Crab Cocktail
- Roast Turkey
- Mashed Potatoes
- Oranged Sweet Potatoes
- Cranberry Molds
- Lima Bean Salad

Orange Bread
Madeira Pudding
Coffee
LOBSTER AND CRAB COCKTAIL

Chill the following ingredients: One-half of a 6-ounce can of lobster, 1/2 of a 6 1/2-ounce tin of crab meat, one-third cup chili sauce, 3 tablespoons of mayonnaise and one-half cup of finely sliced celery. Beat together the chili sauce and mayonnaise and add the celery. Remove the tendons from the lobster and crab, shred and toss with the dressing. Serve in glass cups lined with crisp lettuce hearts.

ROAST TURKEY
Carefully pluck the bird, singe it and wipe well. Draw it, preserving the liver, heart and gizzard. Wash inside and wipe the outside. Cut off the neck close to the back but leave enough of the crop skin to turn over. Stuff and truss up the bird. Dredge lightly with flour, put in roasting pan with a liberal piece of butter and paste frequently. Allow about 20 minutes to the pound.

DRESSING—OYSTER
Drain 5 cups of oysters and cut in pieces. Combine with 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 cups stale bread crumbs, 2 1/2 teaspoons salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Moisten with three-fourths cup of hot oyster liquid to which 6 tablespoons of melted fat have been added.

DRESSING—BREAD
To 2 quarts of soft bread crumbs add 1/2 cup onion, one-third cup celery, 1 1/2 tablespoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Combine with two-thirds cup melted fat and cook until delicately brown. This makes a dry, fluffy dressing.

ORANGED SWEET POTATOES
Parboil 6 medium size sweet potatoes, then peel and slice lengthwise. Arrange the slices in a baking dish, sprinkle generously with brown sugar and dot with bits of butter and 1 tablespoon of grated orange peel. Pour over 1/2 cup of orange juice and scatter 2 tablespoons of brown sugar and a little paprika on top. Cover and bake 30 minutes, then remove cover and continue baking until brown and well caramelized.

LIMA BEAN SALAD
Take contents of one can of lima beans, drain well and cool. Marinate in French dressing and chill thoroughly. Arrange in nests of crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with slices of pimento stuffed olives.

ORANGE BREAD
One cup sugar, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, beaten, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1/2 cup candied citron, 1/2 cup candied orange peel.

Sift sugar, flour, baking powder and salt together. Add beaten egg to milk and stir into dry ingredients. Then add melted butter, citron and orange peel, chopped fine. Pour into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for 40 to 45 minutes.

MADEIRA PUDDING
One-half suet, three-fourths pounds bread crumbs, 6 tablespoons sugar (moist), one-fourth pound flour, 2 eggs, 2 wineglasses sherry.

Mix the suet, bread crumbs, flour and sugar together. When these ingredients are well mixed, add the eggs and 2 glasses of sherry, to make a thick batter; boil 3 1/2 hours. Serve with wine sauce.

WINE SAUCE
Two cups powdered sugar, 1/2 cup wine, 1 cup butter.
Beat the butter to a cream. Add the sugar gradually and when very light add the wine, which has been heated. Place the bowl in a basin of hot water and stir for 2 minutes. The sauce should be smooth and foamy.

SYNOPSIS
Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is rescued from the Turks by a mysterious British secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." Later, in a battle with "Smith," Andrews breaks his leg and is sent to a British hospital in Cairo. There he falls in love with his nurse, Rosemary. Rosemary tells him that she married a secret service agent who vanished at the outbreak of the war. Her husband, John Stevenson, who is "Smith," suddenly reappears and asks Rosemary to go away with him. Meanwhile Andrews is ordered to a new post in the Sudan interior. He has a quarrel with Rosemary, who, on her way home, is run down by a truck and dies in her husband's arms calling for Michael. Stevenson swears revenge and asks to be transferred to Andrews' post. Andrews arrives at the fort before Stevenson to find the garrison slaughtered.

CHAPTER VIII

The three days after Prescott's departure were endured with growing misery by the relief party. The sun blazed down on the mud walls, which became too hot to touch. The little water they had taken from the radiators of the trucks was exhausted. Their tongues began to swell and their eyes held the light of fever. Yet they clung doggedly to their posts and scanned the desert for an attack which they knew could not long be delayed.

It was a sentry who gave the alarm.

"Sergeant! Sergeant!" he shouted. "There's a chap coming across the desert."

Andrews and the sergeant peered through an embrasure and studied the strange figure who was stumbling toward them, weighted down under some sort of burden.

"Let him come nearer. Then challenge," commanded the captain. "Sergeant, turn out the men; send four down to me at the gate." He hurried away.

"Halt! Who goes there," called the sentry a few minutes later.

"British. Message from G.H.Q.," came the hoarse response. The man was now near enough so that they could see he was white and that his burden consisted of two bags slung over his shoulder.

"Open the gates," ordered Andrews. As the command was obeyed John Stevenson staggered through the opening and stopped, face to face with Andrews. His uniform was stained, torn and grey with desert dust. A wound on his head was roughly bound with a handkerchief. Over his shoulder were slung two full goatskin waterbags which he lowered wearily to the ground.

"Mad Carew! How did you get here?" gasped Andrews.

"Plane!" panted Stevenson. "Shot down about twenty miles south."

"Longish walk—with these," said

Andrews admiringly, nodding to the water bags. "Sergeant Bates," he commanded. "Take these. Empty 'em into the water cans. Then bar that room again."

"Er...No extra ration, sir?" Bates licked his dry lips.

"You wait, Sergeant. I've got to talk to..." he stopped, realizing that he still didn't know "Smith's" real name. "...to this officer first. Now, Mr. X," he said, smiling at the newcomer, "come and solve our mystery."

"You'll be relieved in approximately a week," said Stevenson coldly when the two were alone in

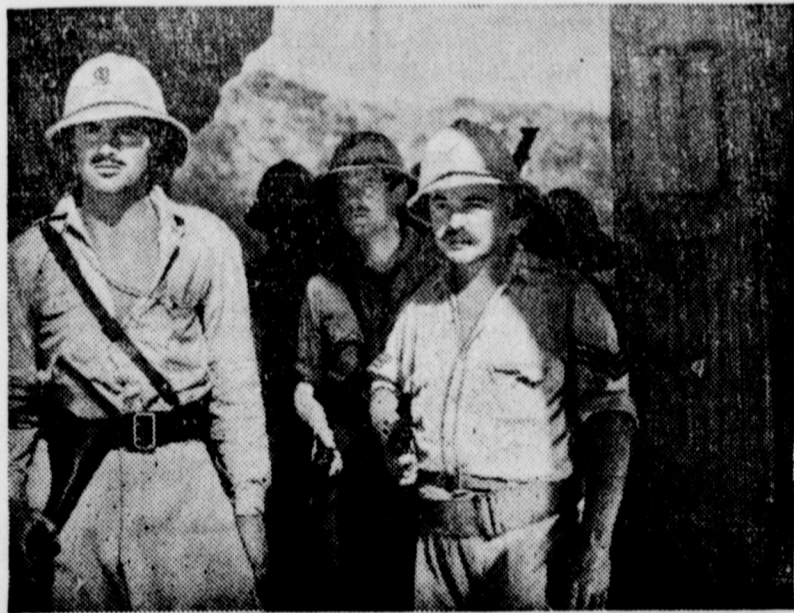

"You know," he smiled at Stevenson when they were alone again, "I'm getting sick and tired of calling you 'this officer.'"

"My name is Stevenson," the answer was calm and slow.

"Stevenson, eh? Well what's the matter with that?" Andrews was bewildered by the fact that his visitor seemed to expect him to be in some way impressed by the name.

"That name conveys nothing?" sneered the other. "Perhaps... you'd be more stirred by another name—Hayden. The first name is Rosemary. She was my wife."

"Then...then...she's told you..."

"Let him come nearer, then challenge," commanded the Captain.

a crumbling upper room of the fort. "A week!" cried Andrews, jumping from the box on which he was seated. "But the car I sent ought to be back now."

"No. It was wrecked. The subaltern got through alone, half dead."

"But it can't be a week before they send more planes."

"There aren't any more planes," answered Stevenson, watching his enemy with steady, unwinking eyes. "The whole of the Air Force is over in Palestine where Allenby has the Turks on the run. But a column is coming from Bomanah through the forest country."

"I suppose we can manage," answered Andrews, smiling. "Lucky for us you had the guts to carry those water bags twenty miles."

The sergeant entered at that moment and reported that the water had been cared for and sentries posted. "Any further orders?" he asked.

"Yes. Tell the sentries to keep their eyes open, this officer's plane was shot down only twenty miles from here."

about me?" asked Andrews after a long silence.

"She...mentioned your name. Just before she died."

"Died!" Andrews was stunned.

"But...how?"

"She was run over," answered Stevenson in a flat monotone. "Her back was broken."

Andrews stared unbelievably for a moment, then his eyes closed as if to shut out a dreadful picture. His head fell forward. At the same moment Stevenson let his cold mask slip. His face twisted with hatred.

"She was killed the night you left Cairo," he cried hoarsely. "Five minutes after your last meeting. She may have deliberately killed herself; it may have been an accident. But if you'd left her life alone, she'd have it now!"

The secret agent's hand dropped to the revolver in the holster at his side. Slowly...deliberately he drew the gun.

"You've killed her...now I'm going to kill you," he announced in a matter-of-fact tone.

ACREAGE planted has the most influence on corn production, except when a nation-wide drought reduces yield as in 1934. The effect of total production on the average farm price of corn will be felt as new corn becomes available this fall. The pile of coins representing farm price for the 1935 crop will be smaller than in 1934. Under normal weather conditions, acreage planted to corn in 1936 will determine total production and be a major influence on the price of corn in 1936 and 1937. In 1932 and 1933 an average of 106 million acres of corn were harvested. Average yields on an acreage of this size in 1936 will mean a corn harvest next year of nearly 2 1/2 billion bushels.

Good News

Well it looks like we are going to have some good things in the future, and as the old saying "it never rains but what it pours," and we guess we can stand a little of that, but to get on with the tale. Lt. Duncan who is attending Baylor University, Waco, was a visitor here Monday, and he has promised some pictures, meaning moving pictures that he himself made while on tour of duty in Colorado, and believe it or not it's something about the love affair of a real C. C. C. lad. Now that ought to be good. He is to furnish us some kind of entertainment ever so often.

4-H and H. D. Clubs Exhibit Work To Many in Varied Show at Gym

LIBERTY 1ST; HOOD SPGS-HARMON TIE 2ND; PRICILLA 4TH

At the annual meeting of the 4-H and H. D. Clubs in their exhibits at the H. S. Gym, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, Liberty walked away with the first prize, Hood Springs and Harmon clubs tied for second and Pricilla was given fourth, no third being offered since there was a tie for second.

In the girl's 4-H club exhibits, Mary Nell Hampton of Liberty won first, Bernice Glaze of Liberty, second, and Rebecca Clemons of Carden or Bigham third.

Fifteen women's clubs presented exhibits and there were 463 containers of various kinds of canned and jarred fruits and vegetables entered in the H. D. club entries.

Besides this, hooked rugs, hooked mats, quilts and recreation books were also shown.

The educational exhibits consisted of crocheted purses, waffle weaving, moccasin making, hooked rug making, variations of foundation patterns, table decorations, button making and concrete tile.

Miss Gladys Martin explained that the demonstrations was a great success and was well attended. A number of the products exhibited will probably be used in the Texas Centennial displays at Dallas during the coming big show there, according to Miss Martin.

EDITOR FLIES HERE FROM GEORGETOWN; TO START PAPER SOON

Vernon Perry of Georgetown flew over to Gatesville with Herbert Gray, Jr. of the same city late yesterday afternoon.

Vernon is starting the second newspaper in Georgetown, where he has been operating The Perry Press and attending Georgetown University. As yet, his paper has not been named, but the "customers" are attending to that for him. He hopes to start operation within three weeks, as soon as some necessary equipment arrives.

Mr. Perry is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Perry of this city.

The religious procession passes over a carpet of flowers on the streets of Orotava in honor of the Corpus Christi festival.

Texas was the fifth state to establish a state-supported college for women.

MR. JACK TURNER

Gatesville boy now manager of one of America's outstanding circuses. Jack was raised here in Gatesville and attended the public schools here and then attended a business school at Waco where he finished a commercial course and was afterwards the district court reporter from which position was promoted to the Federal courts of the Southern District of Texas and after a few years was offered a position as a personal secretary to the Manager of the Bailey Bros Circus, later becoming its manager of which he now has full charge of the entire business dealings and is director general of the Sadler Bailey Bros. circus and no doubt will be glad to see his many friends when he brings the circus to Gatesville Nov. 20. He has made a special effort and inducement for every man, woman and child in Coryell county to see the circus at a very small cost which will be explained in the near future issues of the News.

Ex-News Editor Gets Important Position With Centennial

Ayres Compton, former Editor of the Coryell County News, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Compton of this city, has just received a position in the Publicity Department of the Centennial Commission in Dallas, which duties he assumed Friday of last week.

Mr. Compton's letter reads in part as follows: "Well here I am as nearly settled as any country boy can be in the great big city, that is as far as my work is concerned."

Mr. Compton is well qualified to fill this position and as we understand it approximately 100 submitted articles or publicity stories which were used in selecting the man for the job. We believe Mr. Compton is to be congratulated, and also the Centennial Commission for their careful selection of qualified men.

Mrs. Compton and young daughter accompanied Mr. Compton, and will be with him in Dallas.

3,397.3 Acres of ECW Work Signed Up

Reports received from the local CCC camp are to the effect that 3,397.3 acres of ECW work have been signed so far in Coryell County.

Signers to date and the acreage under contract are: D. I. Glass, 218; C. C. Powell, 196; W. L. Powell, 360; Roy Hayes, 206.8; Sam Powell, 454; Steve Washburn, 98; W. M. Lowrey, 135.6; Jack Whigham, 305; D. R. McClellan, 451.3; Wm. Weigand, 109.4; R. B. Allen, 409.6; Lonnie Flentge, 86.7; C. O. Guyton, 171.9; J. R. Dickie, 101.2; and E. H. Schloeman, 93.8.

Others who wish to sign up for this land improvement are urged to do so, as the authorities need many more acres to be able to keep the camp here for the scheduled time, and the farmers will benefit themselves by a move like this in the opinion of the above named men.

COTTON BELT EMPLOYEE OF 46 YEARS FOUND DEAD IN BED

B. W. Horn, 64, of 1828 Sanger Avenue, Waco, who was staying at the Cottage Hotel in Gatesville, was found dead Saturday morning at 7 o'clock in his bed. He had apparently died from heart failure. He was found by L. A. Cawthorn and a Mr. Dixon.

Mr. Horn was born January 8, 1871, at Harrisburg, Mo. He had been connected with the Cotton Belt Railroad for 46 years, was a landowner, and a member of St. Paul Episcopal Church.

Surviving are a son, Leon, of Wichita Falls; four daughters, Mrs. Edward Heohn of Waco, Miss Frances Horn of Waco, Miss Curtis Horn of DeLand, Fla.

The body of Mr. Horn was sent to Waco where funeral services in charge of a Waco undertaking establishment will be held as soon as arrangements are made by relatives who had not arrived.

500 INTERESTED PEOPLE GATHER TO HEAR AAA OUTLINED

Approximately 500 people interested in the AAA program, one of the largest gatherings this county has seen for some time, gathered in the district court room Saturday afternoon to hear E. R. Alexander, leading agricultural economist from A. & M. College, lecture on the cotton program. He said the cotton program was designed to benefit all the people, not just the farmers.

Mr. Alexander also gave illustrations showing the production of farm implements in 1929 and the falling off of some in 1932 and 1933 and automobiles and the number of people employed in 1929 and the number of people employed in 1933, and, according to his figures, there were not more than one-third of the people employed in the later year than were in 1929.

In talking to Guy V. Powell, he stated this was one of the most enthusiastic meetings he had attended where farmers and everyone was concerned operation and interest shown, and that he appreciated the co-operation. Further details of this meeting will be outlined for the News' readers in Friday's papers.

To Be Dragged Behind a Car Going 60 Miles Hour

Daredevil Miller is back in our city again and will perform here on Nov. 9. Mr. Miller was first seen in Gatesville in 1922, when he was dragged behind an automobile at the rate of 60 miles per hour. He also made an escape from a "strait-jacket" and performed other daring feats at that time.

Since his first appearance here, Mr. Miller has been injured seriously while performing his dangerous stunts. His back has been broken in several places and he is forced to go on crutches. Nevertheless, he is the same daredevil of old and still carries out his daring acts such as the "Death Drag" and others.

Watch for Friday's issue of the News and circulars which will give full details.

TEMPLE FREE FAIR OPENS 7 AND RUNS THRU 12TH; MANY ATTRACTIONS

Starting Thursday, November 7, and lasting through Tuesday night, November 12, Temple is staging one of the most elaborate celebrations and free fairs in the history of the city.

Close on the heels of the Federal appropriation of $30,500,000 for the Brazos River Conservation, and Reclamation District Project, the opening day of the Central Texas Celebration and Free Fair will be the Brazos Jubilee. United States Senator Morris Sheppard; Governor James V. Allred; Representative J. P. Buchanan; H. P. Drought, State W. P. A. Director; Lewis Mims, President, Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation District; John Norris, Chief Engineer, Texas Board of Water Engineers; along with other state officials will be in Temple for the opening day. In the evening, Senator Sheppard will be given a banquet as a salute to the work he has done in pushing the Brazos Project through the capitol machinery.

On Friday, Nov. 8, a classic of the gridiron of Class "B" football champions will be staged on Woodson Field, between the Rosebud High School Panthers and the Taylor High School Ducks. Plans under way now have been made for a special train to be run from Taylor to Temple for the event.

The Agricultural exhibits from some 20 Vocational High Schools of Central Texas will be opened on this day. There will be exhibits of canned products and educational displays from the Women's Home Demonstration Clubs of several Central Texas Counties. This exhibit will be held in the spacious building on South Third Street just south of the Farmers' Market which was formerly occupied by Ozier's Garage.

For Saturday, Nov. 9, is scheduled a day of musical entertainment by the 70 schools of the county. Features on the day's program to be held at the Municipal Auditorium, beginning at 10 o'clock will be the Temple High School Band, special selections from the Temple Male Chorus, selections by the CCC Camp, chorus numbers by the primary, junior, and senior departments through the eighth grade in songs from the "Music Hour Series."

Sunday, religious services throughout the city, and a singing with singers and leaders from a wide area participating will be featured. This program, beginning at 1 p. m., is to be held in the Municipal Auditorium.

The program for Armistice Day, Monday, November 11, is being planned by the local American Legion. A parade, a band concert, and several prominent speakers will be staged to the tune of heavy explosions and fireworks.

C. A. Cobb, Cotton Chief, AAA Program in Washington, will be in Temple, Tuesday, November 12, the last day of the Celebration. From a 150 mile radius about Temple, will come County Agents, Vocational Teachers, County Committeemen, also prominent agricultural leaders from Texas A. & M. College for this Agricultural Conference. From outlying districts through Texas will come many interested cotton growers to hear the message Mr. Cobb has for the cotton industry. This will be the only place in Central Texas Mr. Cobb will stop on his "whirlwind" trip.

In connection with the Fair, the Temple Daily Telegram will hold its annual toy and handicraft show the 8th and 9th of November.

J. George Loos and his Greater United Shows will have the Farmers' Market Center completely covered with the many carnival rides and shows during the six days of the celebration.

The Temple Board of Development with the cooperation of the American Legion is sponsoring this celebration and is paying cash for all prizes. Henry Dunlavy, President, and newly appointed director of the Brazos Conservation and Reclamation District recently said, "It is with a great deal of pleasure that the Temple Board of Development can invite and entertain the good folks of Central Texas to a Celebration and Free Fair with as many attractions as this one will have, and be able to offer everything free."

SAILING THRU LIFE

With M. LEDNAR

The inscription on the gravestone of William Shakespeare in the churchyard at Stratford, England, read as follows:

Good friend for Jcus sake forbear
To dig the dust enclosed here.
Blest be ye man that spares these stones,
And curst be he that moves my bones.

As men and women grow older they feel a desire to surround themselves with beauty, insofar as their mean will permit. A man may be reared in humble circumstances, but through ambition, diligence, ability and good fortune, he may reach the pinnacle of success in the world of business, and then retire to some country estate amid the beauties of nature. Those in less fortunate circumstances are content with a modest home, well furnished, surrounded with well-kept lawns and flowers. Even those in the most humble circumstances will be seen pottering around with flower and vegetable gardens. The desire to enjoy the wonders of nature may lie dormant within us for many years, but asserts itself as we grow older.

Fenelon was the tutor and friend of the French princes when Frances was at the height of her glory. Yet he wrote, "If the crowns of all kingdoms of Europe were laid at my feet in exchange for my books and my love of reading, I would spurn them all."

Anyone can sing naturally in times of sunshine and prosperity but how difficult it is to sing in the dark when all about us is gloom.

Yet the birds of sweetest melody, such as the nightingale and the American mockingbird prefer to sing in the dark.

When health is good and bread is plentiful and friends are true, it is easy to sing.

Yet Paul and Silas sang in prison. John had a vision of the new Jerusalem while in exile on the lonely Isle of Patmos.

Bunyan, author of Pilgrim's Progress, wrote this masterpiece from the darkness of a cell in a foul prison.

It is easy to be happy when all is well but why not cultivate the power to sing in the dark.

Most of the world's great rivers flow into the Atlantic ocean. It is the saltiest of the oceans; it has the largest icebergs and the greatest number of them; it has the greatest traffic; its gulf stream carries more water than all the other streams of the world put together; it has a submerged mountain chain 1600 miles long from north to south. The Atlantic is not so deep. Its biggest hole, the Nores Deep, is off North Porto Rico. It drops down 27,972 feet, only a little more than five miles, but it is a hole. The Atlantic has many submarine mountains. No fewer than 7000 wrecks lie scattered about the ocean's bed, showing the tremendous influence these submarine mountains have on ocean currents and ocean streams.

Many a motor car driver thinks he can stop his car on a dime and have six cents change left. This type of driver figures himself a physical phenomenon. The brakes on a 4000 pound car traveling 40 miles per hour must absorb 215,000 pounds before the car can be brought to a stop.

It takes more than a physical phenomenon caused by mechanical gadgets to bring 4000 pounds of automobile, traveling 40 miles per hour, to a complete stop. The phenomenon and gadgets are only the means to an end: both are controlled by the driver behind the wheel. Being human, that driver is subject to all the failures and limitations that afflict mankind. The rapidity with which a driver reacts to a danger signal is of great importance. It has been found from careful study that the average individual takes at least one full second. Therefore, to get the total stopping distance of a vehicle, we must consider not only the distance actually covered during the mechanical braking, but also the distance the vehicle travels in that one second the driver takes to react to the danger.

We can become uncommonly happy by doing well our common tasks.

A Cooler Kitchen Proves the REMARKABLE OVEN EFFICIENCY of this NORGE Gas Range

The box-frame construction of the Norgge oven permits more complete insulation. With oven registering 200 degrees inside, tests have shown room temperature increases as little as 3 1/2 degrees. You can safely place your hand on oven top.

This heat-saving feature means lower gas consumption, more economical baking. You can turn oven off sooner and finish baking on stored heat—double economy.

New convenience is provided by the porcelain, easily-cleaned level-sliding racks and oven bottom. There is a combination heat regulator and oven valve, as well as a safety oven lighter.

Economy and convenience are further increased by the CONCENTRATOR BURNER, exclusive with Norgge; automatic top lighter, burner bowl and tray, seamless top, two roller-bearing utility drawers, and adjustable elevating broiler.

See the Norgge Gas Ranges. Investigate their many advantages. Available in white, as well as green, tan and peach in Mother-of-pearl porcelain.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO HAVE SPECIAL SERVICES THIS WEEK

The entire Southern Presbyterian Church is observing this week, November 3-10, as a Week of Prayer and Self-Denial for Foreign Mission. In accord with the program of our church, we, too, are observing this week of Prayer. In order to be better informed, and to concentrate our attention and prayers, we will have special services at the church three night this week, that is, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday night, at 7 p. m. The order of services for the week are as follows:

Wednesday Night, 7 P. M.
Devotional, led by the pastor. Talks: The Religions of Latin America, Mrs. McLean.

Our Stations and Work in Latin America, Mrs. Ward.

A special season of prayer.
Thursday Night, 7 P. M.
Devotional, led by the pastor. Talks: Our Work in China, Mrs. Hallman.

Our Work in Korea, Mrs. Olsen.

Our Work in Japan, Mrs. Bradley.

A season of Prayer.

Friday Night, 7 P. M.
Devotional, led by the pastor. Talks: High Lights on the Dark Continent, Mrs. Kendrick. Medical Missions and Evangelism, Mrs. Byrom.

Special Season of Prayer. Concluding this week of prayer on next Sunday, the pastor will speak on "The Three Ways of Helping." A special Self-Denial Offering will be taken on next Sunday.

All our members are specially urged to attend these special prayer services of the week. We feel that we have a moral right to expect you. The public is most cordially invited to worship with us.

Burleson-Hardin Marriage Nov. 10 Announced at Party Last Evening

News of the engagement and approaching marriage on November 10 of Miss Penelope Hardin and Marion Burleson was made known to friends who called for games of bridge at the home of Mrs. E. L. Stewart on Bridge street Monday night.

The announcement which came as a complete surprise, was made known by a miniature EXTRA addition of "The Messenger," the outside of which had the pretense of new bridge rules, but on the inside the sole inscription made known the approaching marriage of this young couple.

Games of contract furnished the diversion for the evening. Mrs. E. W. Jones won high score, Miss Francis Austin won second high and Mrs. Doyle Baldrige of Taylor was awarded guest prize.

A lovely salad course was served to the following guests; Mesdames E. W. Jones, Fred Prewitt, Lee Colwick, Ramsey Searcy, Doyle Baldrige of Taylor, Bailey Curry, Rufus McKinney, Misses Francis Austin, Verona Franks, Elaine Cross, Lindsey Belle Dickie, Raye Virginia Rayford, Elizabeth Williams, Kathryn Gordon, Lowrey Burleson and Nola Mai Weaver.

NEIL KIRKPATRICK NAMED TO PLACE IN PLAYERS CLUB AT TRINITY

Waxahachie, Nov. 4.—Neil Kirkpatrick of Gatesville has been elected a member of the Trinity University Players Club following tryouts held by the organization. Only nine of the thirty candidates were admitted to the club.

The Players Club is one of the most active organizations on the campus as it presents three full-length and a number of one-act plays each year. It is a member of the Texas Collegiate Dramatic Tournament which was organized at Trinity five years ago. Last year the club sponsored the first state meeting of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity.

Kirkpatrick, who is a sophomore at Trinity, has become outstanding in student organizations. He is recognized as one of the best debaters on the campus, and last year he was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Waxahachie Rotary Club, discussing the English system of radio control. He is also captain of the Trinity B tennis team and is expected to win a place on the varsity next spring.

SCHOOL NOTES FROM THE CO. SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE

Principles studied at institute and in office conferences are being practiced in the schools of Coryell County. Teachers and pupils are enthusiastically working according to well planned programs. Class work and play ground activities show much progress as they are daily carried out. Many difficulties are yet to be met, but these are being overcome as fast as possible. If a reasonable amount of gain is made regularly, the school is considered as doing well in its work.

The general testing program that is scheduled for Thursday, November 7, and Friday 8, will give pupils and teachers sufficient knowledge of present conditions that needed remedial teaching be done to the best advantage. Teachers will use standard tests and conduct the examinations according to instruction. Scores of pupils will be sent to the county Superintendent's office as records of the work.

Standard tests will be given again in the spring. At this time teachers will exchange schools for the testing program. The scores of the spring term will be sent to the State De-

Some Ways to Utilize Thanksgiving Left-Overs

After the feast, one is confronted with the problem of utilizing left-overs in the most delectable way. And while it's fun to eat cold turkey, it's more novel to use one or more of the following methods of using up this savory bird.

TURKEY AND PEAS IN CREAM

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup turkey broth, 1/2 cup tomato ketchup, salt and pepper, 2 cups cold turkey, 1 cup cold cooked peas, bread crumbs.

Melt butter in the pan, add flour and mix well. Add turkey broth, ketchup and cook until boiling, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Place cold turkey and peas in alternate layers in a baking dish or pan and pour the hot sauce over them. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until brown.

CREAMED TURKEY WITH OLIVES

Four tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk or cream, salt and pepper to taste, 2 cups cold cooked turkey, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1/2 cup stuffed Spanish olives sliced, 1 beaten egg yolk buttered toast.

Melt butter in pan and blend well with flour. Add milk or cream, salt and pepper, and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add turkey, parsley and olives. Add beaten egg yolk. Serve on buttered toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holt and son, Mayo, and Fred Prewitt spent Saturday in Waco and attended the T. C. U.-Baylor football game.

Mr. J. B. Saint, who is now connected with Leaird's Department Store, spent last week end in Waco visiting his family.

Among those who attended the Baylor-T. C. U. football game in Waco Saturday afternoon were; Harold Cunyus, Otis Ray, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Kermit Jones, Mildred Gaves, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Hix, and Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Searcy.

Henderson.—By taking advantage of every rain to do some planting and by keeping the soil loose so as to retain moisture, Christine Moore, Rusk county 4-H club girl, was able to keep fresh vegetables in the garden throughout the summer. Her family now has tomatoes, okra, beans and bell pepper to use, and a fall garden has been started. Care was taken to work spongy dried fertilizer into the soil to hasten growth and prevent the soil from packing.

Mrs. Clark Gable is enrolled as a student in Texas State College for Women, Denton.

Hornets Open Aerial Attack to Crush Moody 52-7

Unleashing a powerful and devastating aerial attack, the Gatesville Hornets, last Friday afternoon, bombarded the Moody Bearcats into submission by a 52-to-7 score.

The locals air game, coupled with a ground attack sandwiched in between passes, riddled the Moody defense and reached pay dirt for eight touchdowns and four extra points. The scoring was divided among five men and the means of scoring just about as diversified.

Culberson, Hair, and McDonald scampered across for two touchdowns each while Colgin and Dickie lugged the leather over the pay-off stripe for the other two counters. Touchdowns were made by runs from scrimmage, with cleverly executed laterals and long and short forwards.

The locals ground offense was fair but their most dangerous means of advance was thru the air. So accurate were Hair's aerial heaves that out of 37 attempts, 22 found receivers and at least a half dozen more were incomplete because of the inability of the receivers to hold them, and only one was intercepted by the defense.

Despite the large score the game was fairly exciting largely because of the Hornets wide open attack. The locals did everything but eat the leather and so bewildered did they have the Moody defense, on some of their tricky passes, that the Bearcats weren't sure but what the ball was eaten.

The visitors offense was not so hot although they did complete a few passes near the close of the game. Their defense against running plays was only fair, but let it be said they they were a bunch of scrappers and scored their lone counter when their line broke thru and blocked a punt with Tom Smith scooping it up and racing for a touchdown. Coach Worley used every man on the roster who was

FOOTBALL CHATTER

By TEDDY

Our prognostications were rudely upset and the district race thrown into a mild uproar during the week end as Itasca defeated McGregor and Mart and Marlin played a 6-6 tie. This left Mart and Marlin tied for the top with Clifton, Itasca and Valley Mills a half game behind. Both Marlin and Mart have yet to play McGregor, and Valley Mills and Clifton are also scheduled to meet. It can readily be seen what a scramble the race could turn out to be.

Gatesville and McGregor, both definitely out of the race, will play a leading part in deciding the winner from here out. As stated, McGregor plays both Mart and Marlin and the Hornets play Valley Mills, now considered a rather strong entrant.

The Nov. 11 game with Hamilton will be a continuance of an old grid feud between the Bulldogs and Hornets second only in intensity and long standing to that other Hornet-Bulldog clash, the Turkey Day game between the locals and McGregor. The Gatesville-Hamilton games in the past have produced many exciting moments. There have been close scores and overwhelming scores with both teams tasting victory in each case. The Hornets lead by a small margin in total games won and the Bulldogs will be striving to cut that margin while the Hornets will try to add to theirs and emerge the victors for the first time since 1931. It will be highly interesting game and a large crowd should be present for the initial kick-off.

MANY DOLLARS SAVED TAXPAYERS BY AUDITS

Austin, Nov. 2.—"More than a million and a half dollars has been saved the State of Texas by an investigation of deficiency certificates held by local officers for felony case fees," said State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter about a report completed this week.

Four years ago the audit was started by the Senate Investigating Committee in conjunction with the State Auditor and the State Comptroller. At that time a number of sheriffs were indicted, and two other officials committed suicide.

"Local officers receive fees from the State for felony cases and for the legal procedure necessary in prosecution. Deficiency certificates (promises of the State to pay when the Legislature makes an appropriation) are given these local officials. When the Legislature appropriates the money, local officers bring their certificates in and receive payment. Our able to play and no one man emerged the star. Even with these numerous substitutes the score would have been larger had not the final quarter been cut short.

audit was to determine whether or not these claims were just," Mr. Carpenter explained.

"Forgeries and other irregularities were discovered, but the principal reason for refusing payment on a fee account is that the official has already been paid fees in excess of the amount to which he is legally entitled," the State Auditor said.

"Claims totalling $574,255.53 have been set up against fee officers, and of this amount $119,498.13 in cash has been collected. At present the greater part of the balance of these claims is in the hands of the Attorney General for collection. Of the deficiency certificates audited, $306,850.99 was refused as representing invalid claims for payment against the State. By elimination of practices heretofore existing, $831,714.51 in fees was cut from the judiciary appropriation," he continued.

"Actual saving to the taxpayer made possible by this audit was $1,712,821," Mr. Carpenter declared.

RED WAGONS, RED DOGS ARE READY FOR YOUNGSTERS; 1ST CIRCUS IN YRS. HERE

Wednesday, November 29, will be a big day in Gatesville for young as well as the Old when Harley Sadlers Bailey Bros. big three ring Circus comes to town. The advance men were in the City Saturday making the final arrangements for the coming of the Circus which will erect their tented city south of the old Fair grounds and will give two performances at Two and Eight P. M. Harley Sadler or the Bailey Bros. Circus needs no introduction to the show goers of Texas as this is the only Texas owned Circus now on the road and everyone is looking forward to Circus day and when the grand free street parade rolls down Main street and around the Public Square. Mr. Sadler has spared no expense in the cost of the performance of the Circus and has some of Americas most outstanding stars with the Circus. Jack Hoxie the celebrated Western Movie star will be presented twice daily in the main show performance with his entire Movie company of artists featuring his beautiful leading lady Dixie Starr. As a prelude to the Circus proper a beautiful and spectacular pageant is presented which is a glorious processional Fiesta of Old Mexico entitled Sunny Rio Bonito where by every member of the entire Circus takes part and is headed by its Dainty Proma Miss Delores Gomez. The wild animal numbers are presented by Miss Eva Huntly and Capt. Wm Woods. The horse, Fair of High School, blue ribbon gaited horses are presented by Fred Lenord and a dozen pretty ladies. Some of the featured performers are as follows: Miss Maudie Bailey, who will present a demonstration of physical skill and endurance while suspended from the lofty top of the mammoth tent. The flying attaberys will keep you spellbound while performing in mid air without the aid of a safety net. Miss Teto Mutsuto who comes to America direct from Japan and the first time to ever appear with an American Circus. The Orton family of dancing somersaulting wizards of the wire. There are a dozen funny clowns, fat clowns, skinny clowns, tall clowns, short clowns, all to make you laugh and forget the blues. So look for further ads and notices of the coming of the greatest Circus on earth for such a small and, special price of admission in the future issues of the News.

- SAUER KRAUT-TOMATO COCKTAIL

Combine equal parts of canned sauerkraut juice and any good tomato cocktail, serve in small chilled glasses.

ROAST GOOSE

Draw and singe the bird, wipe out the inside with a cloth and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Stuff, being careful to press in the dressing firmly, but do not entirely fill up the cavity as the mixture will swell in cooking. Tie the goose securely with a greased or wetted string or you may use 1-inch gauze bandage. Paper the breast to keep it from scorching. Roast in a hot oven, basting at first with a little salted water—afterward with its own juice. take off the paper when the goose is about half done and dredge with a little flour toward the last. Make a gravy with the remaining juice in the pan and add the cooked chooped giblets with the broth in which they have been cooked.

DRESSING FOR GOOSE

Cook and mash yellow turnips, add a little rich cream and 1 heaping teaspoon of butter with salt and pepper to taste. Beat until very light and fluffy. Dot the top with butter and add a dash of paprika.

GRAPE AND ORANGE SALAD
Two cups white grapes, 1 1/2 cups orange pulp, 1/2 cup Brazil nuts.

Remove the skins from the grapes, cut in halves and remove the seeds. Cut the orange section in pieces of uniform size and the nuts into thin strips. Chill the fruit, add the nuts and mix with French dressing. Serve on crisp lettuce or Romaine with Fruit Salad dressing.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING

Add 1/2 cup whipped cream to any prepared mayonnaise for fruit salad dressing. A tablespoon of powdered sugar may be added if a sweet dressing is desired.

CURRANT MUFFINS

One cup of fine dry bread crumbs, 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg beaten, one cup flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 cup currants washed and soaked.

Cream the shortening, stir in the sugar and add the beaten egg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add the crumbs. Add to first mixture alternately with milk. Fold in the currants. Bake in greased muffin pans in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

MINCEMEAT-APRICOT PIE

One 9-oz. package of mincemeat, 1 cup apricot juice, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup drained apricots, pie crust.

Break mincemeat into pieces. Add the apricot juice and sugar. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to a brisk boil and continue boiling for 1 minute. Allow to cool. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry and fill with mincemeat mixture. Place chopped drained apricots evenly over the top. Place an upper crust on filled lower one and press edges firmly together. Bake 55 minutes in a hot oven. Dried or canned apricots may be used for this pie. One cup of apricots is sufficient for this recipe; however, 2 cups may be used for a larger pie. Increase apricot juice if too dry.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS

- 5 tablespoons butter
- 4 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Pepper
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1 pint oysters
Melt the butter, add crumbs and seasonings and mix well. Drain oysters and arrange in alternate layers with the buttered crumbs in a greased baking dish. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees F

Anahuac.—From a large native pecan tree which has never been very productive, E. S. Abshier of Chambers county expects to harvest a crop of paper shell pecans in 1938.

Acting under the direction of R. H. Mathis, county agricultural agent, Abshier top worked the tree in January 1934. In June 1935 he inserted about 50 paper shell pecan buds on the sprouts which had grown out on the tree where the big limbs had been cut off. Abshier reports that 90 per cent of the buds are living and that a great many of them have already put out limbs ranging from six inches to two feet in length.

By 1937 Abshier expects to be able to prune out all of the native pecan growth, leaving the tree with a new top composed of the paper shell variety.

A 90-year-old negro applied for work to the national re-employment service at Norfolk, Va. He was referred to the nonwork relief authorities.

Blindfold Stunts to Be Featured in Gatesville Saturday

Nov. 9, 3 p.m.

Nov. 9, 3 p.m.

Chevrolet threading its way through the streets of Gatesville with a blindfolded driver at the wheel will be demonstrated on the streets of Gatesville Saturday, November 9, at 3 p. m.

The car is no "tricked" up vehicle, but a new '36 Chevrolet from the stock of the Powell Chevrolet Co., the local Chevrolet dealers in Gatesville. "Smitty" the daredevil will be the driver of this Chevrolet and will drive without the aid of radio, or any mechanical devices, or the aid of the local committee that will be in the car with him. In fact this committee will be an assurance that he really drives the car blindfolded. After driving the car around the City Square and up Main street, "Smitty" will mount a ladder to the top of the Painter & Lee Store and again take his life in his hands also blindfolded. He will walk along on top the narrow ledge the side next to the street leading to the City Hall. This feat is very dangerous and "Smitty" says if you are weak hearted, he advises you not to see it as it is really a breath-taking stunt.

"Smitty" stated the reason he selected the Chevrolet over other cars was because the Chevrolet has everything about it that is perfect for a blind-

WPA CHECKS TO BE CASHED WITHOUT DISCOUNT

San Antonio, Nov. 4.—All Texas banks have been requested by President Roosevelt to cooperate with Works Progress Administration in cashing workers' pay checks immediately without discount, State Administrator H. P. Drought announced today.

"All pay checks given WPA workmen are subject to being cashed immediately by the persons receiving them and the complete cooperation of all banks will assist immeasurably the persons being taken from relief rolls and transferred to jobs on WPA projects," Drought declared.

All banks in the United States are in receipt of the following communication from the President:

"The Nation-wide Works Program which the Federal Government has launched in order to give employment to men and women on the relief rolls is now under way. The program will naturally involve the issuance of a large number of pay checks, which checks will be drawn on the Treasurer of the United States by Federal disbursing officers in the States.

"In order to prevent delays in the payment of wages and in order that these workers, practically all of whom have been on the relief rolls, may receive the fullest benefit from their employment, it is essential

Dusting Covers of Texas History

Texas was not without its internal troubles during this period of proannexation. Mexicans on the border and Indians in the interior were a constant source of danger. Trade at Corpus Christi with the Mexicans had almost been broken up because "the Mexican government regards all trade between the citizens and those of Texas as contraband and has determined to suppress it," the editor of the Telegram said.

Naturally, everything was done to prevent actual trouble with Mexico. To give encouragement, the editorial continued: "The banner of the Lone Star will not move backward. The gallant youths of Texas, who have so often rallied around it will again gather in solid phalanx to defend it. The march is onward and the star of empire moves westward in their van. We desire peace; we are willing to make any honorable sacrifice to secure it, but if peace is to be purchased by surrendering to Mexico rights that Texans hold most dear, we would spurn it with abhorrence and indignation." Mexico was opposed to annexation. No doubt they had visions of Texas becoming once more a part of their own union. England, as heretofore noted, was opposed to annexation, after hearing Lord Aberdeen (of England) suggest that they join England as anti-annexationists. Lord Aberdeen wanted Mexico to recognize the independence of Texas, and by doing so remove one of the chief motives of Texas for annexation. Then, he wanted France to join England in guaranteeing independence, and the boundaries of Mexico.

Meanwhile, the election campaigns indicated, that if England interfered, immediate annexation would result, and England and Mexico would lose the things they had sought. When the joint resolutions passed the Senate, as a final effort to prevent actual annexation, Capt. Charles Eliot, British representative, and Count de Saligny, French charge, urged President Jones of the Republic not to accept for ninety days. Dr. Anson Jones' promise obtained. Capt. Eliot went at once to Mexico, and returned with a written agreement that Mexico would recognize Texas' independence, provided it would pledge itself to remain independent.

In the hundred years since Texas independence, the Lone Star has NOT moved backward,

WE DRIVERS

A Series of Brief Discussions on Driving, Dedicated to the Safety, Comfort and Pleasure of the Motoring Public. Prepared by General Motors

No. 2—NIGHT DRIVING

IT'S JUST AS TRUE AS CAN BE that when people get expert at anything they're apt to begin getting careless about it, and that's what we have to look out for when driving our cars. For instance, we recently heard a group of engineers discussing night driving, and one thing they kept talking about was "over-driving our headlights."

Now that term seems to be a common one with them, but it's new to most of us.

What they mean is that the distance we can see clearly by headlights is, of course, limited, and that we are apt to let our car speeds get beyond the point where we could easily stop within that limited distance. It's true that we naturally tend to go a little slower at night. But if we aren't careful we gradually get going faster than we realize, and that may get us into trouble. You see, momentum, the same force that tries to keep us from making turns safely; that cuts all kinds of capers on slippery roads . . . never sleeps! He works on the same old principles night and day. Darkness doesn't hinder him, but it hinders us.

Most modern headlights are pretty wonderful lights, but after all they don't give us the distance or clarity of vision that daylight does. So, on considerably shorter notice than in the daytime a vehicle or pedestrian can come out of the darkness. Almost before we know it we may have to slow down or stop for someone or something on the road . . . perhaps one of those big lumbering trucks that you barely see till you're right up on them; or a car whose tail-light has gone out . . . an unexpected curve, or what not.

And that's where we meet up with momentum again. You see, stopping isn't the one simple action we always thought it was. The truth is, we are told, that there are really three things we have to do to stop. First we have to think of stopping. Next we have to move one foot over on to the brake pedal. And then we have to push down on the brake pedal.

Now we might not believe it, but they tell us those first two steps take time. Less than a second, perhaps, but even in that instant momentum is carrying us on. In fact, at only 20 miles an hour the average driver goes 22 feet before he can even start to use the brakes.

DISTANCE REQUIRED FOR STOPPING

MILES PER HOUR	FEET TRAVELED WHILE THINKING	FEET TRAVELED WHILE USING BRAKES	TOTAL FEET
20	22	18	40 FT.
30	33	40	73 FT.
40	45	70	115 FT.
50	56	109	165 FT.
60	66	156	222 FT.
70	77	240	319 FT.

Then after he does get the brakes working, it takes him another 18 feet to stop completely, even with the best brakes in the world and with good tires, under favorable road conditions. At least so we are told by the State Board of Public Works of one of the states which has made a very intensive study of drivers and driving conditions, and which has prepared the data for the above chart.

The important thing to realize is that distance needed to stop increases a great deal as we increase our speed.

We just have to remember that when we're moving along in a car, we think by the foot, act by the foot and stop by the foot, and if we aren't careful, it's easy to get going faster than is really safe.

Now, just as engineers have told us how to operate in safety with our own lights, many experienced drivers have pointed out how to avoid trouble from other people's lights. They say that all we have to do, when passing other cars at night, is to stop locking at their lights and watch the right-hand side of the road. The truth of the matter is that night driving can be just as pleasant and just as safe as day driving. But we have to be more alert and more careful.

FAKE SECURITY DEALERS ROUTED

The exodus is on. Fake security dealers are on their way out of Texas, thanks to the courage and untiring efforts of former Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann, and dealers who offer the public sound investments are able to do so without fear of suspicion.

The Texas Securities Act, which passed both houses of the legislature without a dissenting vote, is responsible for this happy condition.

However, according to Mr. Mann, the state is not competely rid of all fraudulent security dealers and the public is charged with the final responsibility. It is up to the persons who invest in stocks, bonds and oils, gas and mining leases to demand that the dealers they encounter be registered under the state securities law.

If a doubt as to the eligibility of any dealer exists in the mind of any citizen it is the duty of that citizen to inquire immediately. This information can be secured from the Secretary of State's office in Austin.

Many dealers in gas and oil leases contend that they are exempt. Such a contention is a misunderstanding of the law. In some cases lease dealers are sincere in this belief and are laboring under a false impression. In many more cases the dealer does not want to know the law. He is aware that his past record as a swindler and a crook will not permit him to become a registered dealer in Texas.

Under Article "A" of Section 2 of the Texas Security Act it is plainly stated that "any instrument representing any interest in or under an oil, gas or mining lease, fee or title" is to be classed as a security.

This clause was necessary in the law due to the existence of a great number of fake lease dealers in Texas. These parasites have preyed upon the unsuspecting small investors. They have steered clear of wise investors who take time to investigate before they invest.

Under all conditions potential purchasers of securities are urged to be certain of the dealers who approach them. The law does not pretend to guarantee an investment. It contemplates investigation into the character of the dealer. It is the human element that has been responsible for the fraudulent practices in securities in Texas. A stock certificate can't be crooked but the dealer can be.

In the national election of 1932 Franklin Roosevelt carried forty-two of the forty-eight States, losing Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and Vermont to Hoover. Are these six States still predominantly Republican? Are the forty-two States that went into the Democratic column now for Roosevelt? Let's take a look.

Of the six States that stayed Hoover, three now have Democratic Governors and three are governed by Republicans. Connecticut, Maine and Pennsylvania are piloted by Democrats; Delaware, New Hampshire and Vermont, traditionally Republican, have G. O. P. executives.

Connecticut stayed with Hoover by a 6,000 vote majority in '32. A Democrat, Augustus Lonergan, defeated Republican Senator Hiram Bingham, running for reelection. And a Democratic Governor was elected. To the Federal House of Representatives were elected two Democrats and four Republicans.

In the 1934 election, another Democrat, Francis T. Maloney, defeated the Republican incumbent, Frederick C. Walcott. And now, for the first time, Connecticut has a Democratic Governor and two full-term Democrats in the U. S. Senate. The State's representation in the National House was reversed in last year's election; now there are four Democrats and two Republicans.

Hoover beat Roosevelt by 3,000 votes in Delaware. A Republican was elected governor the same year but a Democrat was chosen to fill the state's one seat in the National House. Last year Republican Senator John G. Townsend, Jr., was reelected and a Republican captured the House seat.

In '32 Hoover smashed through to carry Maine by 38,000 votes. The State election, however, resulted in a decisive Democratic victory. A Democrat was elected governor; two Democrats and one Republican were elected to the House. Last year a Democrat failed by a small vote of defeating the Republican Senator Frederick Hale, seeking reelection. The House line-up remained the same and the Democratic Governor was reelected.

Hoover captured New Hampshire by the scant majority of 3,000 votes out of a total of over 200,000. In the same election G. O. P. Senator Geo. H. Moses was defeated for reelection, former Governor Fred H. Brown, Democrat, winning the seat. John Winant, a Republican, was reelected Governor. The state's two seats in the National House were equally divided between Democrats and Republicans. The line-up in the House remained the same last year. Another Republican governor was elected. Hoover's largest 1932 plurality was in Pennsylvania, with 157,000. James J. Davis, Republican Senator, reelected. The number of Republicans in the State's delegation to the House (Continued on Page 3)

Millions In "Annie Oakleys" For American Radio Listeners

WHAT amounts to millions of dollars' worth of free tickets, "Annie Oakleys," as they are called on Broadway, will be distributed this year to twenty million American homes with radios, by great American industrialists and industries, as their contribution to the entertainment of the American people. Where formerly only a limited number could crowd into an arena or stadium to see a prize fight or baseball game, this year will see millions enjoying these American sports as the result of the action of business leaders.

To keep pace with the insatiable demand of the American public for modern radio entertainment, the radio industry is working at full blast. A recent announcement by the leader in the industry, Philco, states that over 2,000 workers have been added to the 8,000 already employed in making Philcos to supply the demand of the American people for instruments that will enable them to listen to outstanding events throughout the autumn and winter.

A leading motor car manufacturer, Henry Ford, it is announced, has bought the radio rights to the World's Series for a sum reported well up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Another automobile concern recently purchased the radio rights to the Baer-Louis fight, which made ringside seats of every home desiring to listen in. Other large industrialists will supply the American public with the entire gamut of entertainment from outstanding sport events to symphonic music and opera.

ered for a big time at the school house. Fortunes were told and the "Crazy House" visited. After giving the booths of different grades the once over, various games were played. Coffee and cakes were served and everyone wondered their way home to dream of spooks and the grand time had by all.

Mrs. Della Tumlinson has resigned her position as Postmaster, or should be say Postmistress, and Mrs. Lloyd Russell has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. and Mrs. Russell will also operate the store, handling general merchandise. They will be glad to serve you in any way possible. We wish them the best of luck in their business. Let's give them our trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Tivis Pruitt visited in the John Herrington home recently.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Creacy and their daughter, Mrs. Alvin Bebout of Lampasas visited Mrs. O. W. Creacy Thursday.

Mrs. J. B. Dickie visited her mother, Mrs. J. H. Pruitt, last Thursday.

Mrs. Duce Creacy spent one day the past week with Mrs. Dock Creacy.

of Representatives was reduced to 23 and that of Democrats was increased to 11. A Republican held the governorship. Last year, all was changed. Joseph F. Guffey, strongly backed by the Administration and the Democratic National Committee, won the United States Senatorship from the veteran David A. Reed by a large majority: Democrats captured 23 of the State's 34 seats in the National House; a Democrat, George H. Earle, was elected governor and a Democratic majority in both Houses of the legislature was chosen.

In Vermont, the last State to give Hoover a majority in 1932, the popular vote was cast for the Republican national ticket in the proportion far below normal, of about 7 to 5. The totals were: Hoover, 79,000; Roosevelt, 56,000. U. S. Senator Porter H. Dale, Republican, was re-elected. A Republican was reelected to the State's seat in the House and the Republican Governor was also reelected. Last year, Republican Senator Warren R. Austin won over Democrat Fred C. Martin, after a desperate Administration attempt to repeat the Pennsylvania victory. A Republican Governor and a G. O. P. Representative was chosen.

After this brief review, you can easily see that of the six states that cast majority votes for Mr. Hoover in 1932, three now have Democratic Governors; two elected Democratic governors in 1932.

Of the twelve Senate seats of these six States, four are now held by Democrats. Thirty Democrats were elected to the House last year from these states.

Now what about the forty-two States that were carried by Roosevelt. Thirty-seven now have Democratic Governors. Sixty-three Democratic Senators represent these forty-two states.

The forty-eight States are decidedly Democratic today, with few exceptions. Most went Democratic in 1932, from President to constable, and have remained so. How many will change. It is a safe bet that a good Republican can carry more than six states next year. Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island—all in the 1932 Roosevelt column, are unpredictable, in that they may swing either way.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

THREE R'S PLUS

I visited a school recently where the teacher departs radically from the usual idea of the three R's. And as in all such instances, he is immensely popular with the children. He had only to speak and his slightest wish was carried out. This is mentioned only incidentally but it is true the teacher with unusual talent does command the respect of children.

This teacher's particular flair is fishing and hunting. In the summer he is a guide for hiking and camping parties. At the time of my visit he was teaching the art of tying flies to lines.

In the words of slang the boys were "eating it up." They loved it. Perhaps they couldn't express their feelings, but they knew this teacher was a great and good man because he could do well the things in life that count among men. With them the struggle of man for existence was not submerged. And here was a teacher who could lead them in that instinctive struggle for the conquest of nature. Primitive appeal? Yes, but very much a part of the culture of the human race for nobody knows how long.

It was good education and a good school. I approved, perhaps a little wistfully, for I envied those boys.

Milk is the most important food for growing folk, and school youngsters are learning it, observed Dr. Ireland in his next article.

We have just one price—we don't believe in the "Old Hoss Swapping" method of doing business. If we marked a $1.00 article $2.00 then sold it to you for $1.50, would you be getting a good value? That is the old wornout way of doing business some stores cling to, and the way a few people like to trade . . . why, we cannot figure out. Don't believe I would care to trade with a firm and after I had paid $2.00 for a supposed-to-be $3.00 value, find that a neighbor on one side of me bought the same thing for $1.50 and my neighbor on the other side of me paid $1.00 for the same thing. Bigger Corn Crop Means More Hogs

THE full effect of a large corn crop does not show up in the number of hogs marketed until two years after the crop is husked. In the last 36 years, the years 1906 and 1907, and 1921 and 1922, show the largest increases in corn supplies per hog over the preceding 5-year averages. Larger corn supplies in those years had greatly increased the hog slaughter by 1908 and 1923.

Corn produced in 1906 and 1907 averaged 54 bushels per hog. This was 10 bushels, or 23 percent, more per hog than the average for the preceding five years. Two years later, in 1908, hog slaughter was 2.1 million pounds, or 32 percent more than the slaughter in 1906.

Average yields in 1936 on the 1928-32 average corn acreage together with the supply of corn available from the 1935 crop, will boost corn supplies per hog in 1936 and 1937. This increase will be more than 50 percent larger than the average supply per hog for the five years before 1936.

Hubbard's Portrait to Be Hung At College

Denton, Nov. 4—In recognition of his outstanding services to the college, a portrait of President L. H. Hubbard will be hung in the library of Texas State College for Women (CIA) as a contribution from the entire student body. The project is being sponsored by the senior class.

Dr. Hubbard, who came to the college in 1926 from the University of Texas, has been instrumental in its development. Under his administration, TSCW has been recognized by the highest accrediting association in the United States, the Association of American Universities.

Five hundred of the 1,000 homing pigeons taken from Berlin to Britain recently and released for a race home have failed to return to Germany. It is believed they were killed, or lost in the bad weather which the birds encountered.

The Last Outpost

SYNOPSIS

Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is rescued from the Turks by a mysterious secret service agent who calls himself "Smith." In a battle with "Smith" later, Andrews breaks his leg and is sent to a hospital in Cairo. There he falls in love with Rosemary, his nurse, who reveals that she is already married to a secret service man who vanished at the outbreak of the war. Her husband, John Stevenson, who is Smith, reappears on the scene and asks Rosemary to go away with him. Meanwhile, Andrews is ordered back to duty in the Sudan interior. He quarrels with Rosemary and on her way home she is run down by a truck. She dies in her husband's arms calling for Michael. Stevenson swears revenge and asks to be transferred to Andrews' fort. He arrives at the fort and calmly announces to Andrews that he is going to kill him when the natives make a second attack on the small garrison.

CHAPTER IX

Andrews looked up to stare straight into the muzzle of Stevenson's revolver. There was no escape... no use appealing for a fair deal. His enemy intended to shoot him down like a dog.

Then, just as Stevenson's trigger finger tightened, there was a flurry of rifle shots outside.

"Turn out! Turn out! An attack!" Sergeant Bates was shouting.

Forgetting Stevenson, Andrews turned his back and hurried from the room. The other hesitated. Then he jammed the gun back in its holster and followed.

In the courtyard, soldiers were running along the walls to their posts. Andrews was shouting orders. Stevenson looked about, then ran to an unmanned machine gun and jammed a belt of cartridges into the breach.

For half an hour the attack was general. But the natives, who had been surprised to find the fort occupied, soon withdrew.

"Think they'll attack again, sir?" asked Bates when quiet had been restored.

"This isn't any little tribal affair," answered Andrews grimly. "It's a big scale uprising. The next attack probably won't come till morning. Until then, everyone stand by! Pass that on, sergeant."

As the captain had predicted, the general attack recommenced at sun-up. Thousands of natives in white cloaks poured toward the fort, riding on camels and horses and yelling wildly as they waved their long muskets.

"We're going to catch it hot," said Andrews, staring at the advancing horde through his field-glasses. "There's thousands of them. They cover the entire plain and they're moving forward now."

"Adjust your sights," he shouted to the men. "Drop two hundred. Fire when you hear two whistle blasts." He glanced around. Every man was at his post. Stevenson, his face a cold mask, had returned to his machine gun.

Andrews allowed the enemy almost to reach the walls of the fort before he blew two blasts on the whistle. Instantly the machine guns leaped into action with a sound like riveters. Pandemonium reigned. The screams of the tribesmen outside mingled with the oaths and groans of wounded British soldiers.

A few natives reached the walls and threw up scaling ladders, but they could not face the withering blast of lead. Most of them fell. A few scampered back to their main force, which had stopped and was throwing up sandbags in an effort to escape that sheet of death.

Andrews stopped, waiting for an answer. For a moment Stevenson made no sound nor movement. Then, once again, he nodded.

The evacuation of the fort was made that night without attracting attention and the little party set out across the desert on foot. After a day and night's unobscured march they reached the forest country, but here new difficulties beset them. For one thing, Andrews' wounded leg was giving him a lot of trouble and for another, they were sure they were being watched by new enemies.

They placed machine guns at the four corners of their camp that night, while Stevenson and Andrews, working together perfectly

"Think they'll attack again, sir?" asked Bates when quiet had been restored.

But nothing human could stand against the machine guns. Leaving a ring of dead around the fort, the attackers broke and fled madly for safety.

Two more blasts on the whistle and the British ceased fire.

"We won't be seein' them again," beamed the sergeant.

"Don't fool yourself. And our ammunition is almost gone," said Andrews. Striding over to Stevenson he announced shortly: "I have to speak to you—officially. There are ten thousand of those tribesmen out there. It means that the relief column from Bomana is going to walk straight into a death-trap."

Stevenson nodded, his face expressionless.

"Our job's clear," continued Andrews. "It'll be dawn tomorrow before there's another attack. Tonight we must sneak out by the back door, cross the hills and march due south. We ought to reach the forest country in a day. If we get across it we can stop the column... If we don't, well, we've tried."

in spite of their hatred, took turn on watch.

After long hours of silence, Stevenson spoke through thin lips to his enemy.

"Just a reminder," he said. "Until we've done this job and stopped that column, we've got to work together. After that..."

"Since you've started it," replied Andrews, "There's something I've got to say that needn't wait... I loved Rosemary more than you ever could. You didn't love her. The only thing you ever loved was yourself."

Their conversation was interrupted by a shout from a sentry and the rattle of rifle-fire. A tribe of natives who inhabited the forest was attacking. The skirmish was short but brisk. The enemy retreated with many dead, but shortly thereafter Stevenson sniffed the air in puzzlement. Then he climbed a tree and dropped down again shouting frantically.

"Andrews! Fire! They're smoking us out!"

Miss Worthy and Miss Carl are the sponsors of the G. H. S. Pep Squad. The leaders are Leah Dale Franks, Frances McCoy and Ruth Hamilton.

At each football game the girls lend valuable support to the Hornets. They are there sixty minutes good snappy yells that cheer the boys on to greater playing and victory. Between halves the pep squad salutes the opposing team by forming the letter that heads the school's name and also forming a "G" for Gatesville.

The uniforms are black and gold, corresponding to the school colors. The blouses are gold satin made shirtwaist with large sleeves. The skirts are black wool made plain. The black tams have a crease down the center with a gold football in front.

Gatesville High is very proud of its organized rooters. A special vote of thanks is due the sponsors for the splendid stunts performed this year.

Student Council

In a recent election held for the purpose of electing a president of the Student Council, Nathan McDonald was elected. The Council is to be composed of the president with two representatives from each class. The representatives as elected by the class on Tuesday are: Martha Moore and Oran Baker for the Freshmen Class; Burl Davis and Doris Ament for the Sophomore Class; John Rufus Colgin and Pauline Turner in the Junior Class; Wendell Lowrey and Ethel Weigand in the Senior Class. The duties of the council will be to consider and discuss all matters concerning the student body and then present them to the student body for consideration. Faculty sponsors will meet with and help the council.

The Hornet's air attack is due to put the famed aerial circus of S. M. U. in the shade. Neal Chapman has his eyes on the Ewing product, Arline Bates, and he isn't the only one. Joe Tally Ricketts is his full name, Joe Perry Satterfield—ditto. Hats off to Jim Welch—he's a guy that can be counted on he has a host of friends.

Practically all of the Fish voted a McDonald ticket. Beverly Chamlee, an ex. seemed to be the favorite of the program at the C. C.C. The Dickie-McCoy affair is rather shaky. Belva's theme songs are "Double-Trouble" and "You Gotta Be a Football Hero." One word description of Bernice Gamblin—Talkative. Bert Stewart is a regular gal. Erle Powell's chief ditty should be "Love Thy Neighbor." Eddy McDonald is plugging away at his studies cheerful as ever. What a sense of humor Oliver Lowrey has—it's terrific! In the council Presidential election, the 60 members of the F. F. A. voted 60 strong for McDonald—Mr. Lassater is an excellent campaign manager. He should go in for politics. Francis Ruth-erford has deserted G. H. S. He will return the second half. Helon Chamlee and Joe English were once serious. Ask Fred Byrom about the girl who asked for the "Haunted Bookshop" and "The House of Seven Goblins," at the Library. At the moment Marjorie Flentge's heart throb is C. H. Wallace.

Sport Shots

After two extremely lean years, the Gatesville Hornets are coming back and are due to gain in their district. They have a reputation for scrappiness and for a well-trained eleven.

Many of the fellows from over the county in G. H. S. are pointing to basketball and a strong quint should be moulded from this number.

Junior Class Meeting

At the activity period Tuesday morning, the Junior class met in room 6 and elected two delegates to the student council of which Nathan McDonald is president. John Rufus Colgin and Pauline Turner will represent this class in the council. A party committee composed of Bertha Lillian Stewart, Frances McCoy, and Jack Hestilow were selected to meet and plan a party which will probably take place Monday night.

Dramatic Club Meeting

Wednesday morning at the activity period, the Dramatic Club held its regular meeting in the gym with president Erle Powell presiding. A discussion of Eugene O'Neill was given by Frankie Mac Blair, and a new cast was chosen for the panomines.

Annual Application for Membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools Made

As it is necessary for schools to renew their membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Gatesville High School sent off its application early this week. The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is an organization of the best schools in the South. It is advantageous to the graduate for his school to be a member of this association for he is pre-

Red Cross Has Busy Year; Statistics Impressive; Services Varied

Figures gathered at random from the year's report of the American Red Cross reveal the magnitude of the work being carried on by that organization.

Red Cross workers assisted 54,305 veterans; 587 Red Cross Public Health nurses paid 921,455 visits to 186,326 patients; 93,441 first aid certificates were issued while 46,693 persons were trained in life saving. Volunteer workers produced 3,102,843 surgical dressings, with 80,901 volunteers being on active duty throughout the year.

First Aid Treatment Taught Thousands By Red Cross

More than 187,000 certificates showing completion of first aid courses were issued last year by the Red Cross. This shows a gain of 56,000 certificates over the previous year. Approximately 64,200 boys in C.C.C. camps throughout the country passed first aid tests. Since the Red Cross first entered the field of first aid teaching, being one of the first organizations in the world to do so, almost one million persons have been trained in handling emergency treatment.

The annual report of the Red Cross further reveals that more than 327,000 copies of the Red Cross First Aid Handbook have been sold at home and abroad.

privileged to enter any college without entrance examinations if he comes from such a school.

The application papers contained information regarding the library, the science department, the laboratory, number of pupils, schedule of classes, athletics, and other things.

Gatesville High has been a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools since 1930.

Student Council Organized

Gatesville High School has not had a student council for three years so a few weeks ago a representative body of students composed of the officers from different classes and organizations was called together by Mr. Williams. The representatives were asked if they cared to have a student council to which a decidedly affirmative answer was made. This council would have no part in school government, but would carry on much of the work usually left to the whole school for speed and convenience, was the explanation of Mr. Williams.

It was decided that a student council composed of nine members would be organized. Each class, of which there are four, would send two delegates. The ninth member would be a president, elected from the entire student body.

Later the plan was presented to the student body, who finding it desirable elected Nathan McDonald president of the council after a warm race.

Tuesday the regular class meetings were held. At this time each class selected its delegates to the student council. Wendell Lowrey and Ethel Wiegand of the Senior Class; John Rufus Colgin and Pauline Turner of the Junior Class; Doris Ament and Burl Davis of the Sophomore Class, and Oran Baker and Martha Moore of the Freshman Class, were chosen by the members of their respective classes to represent them at the student council. The delegates were not chosen primarily because of their popularity, but rather by the realization of their fellow classmates that their representatives could make wise decisions.

A Trip to the Yellowstone National Park

The Gatesville Elementary School pupils enjoyed one of the most interesting programs of the year when Mr. Howard Compton spoke on his hunting trip to the vicinity of the Yellowstone National Park. Mr. Compton was accompanied by Mr. Charlie Liljeblad. Mr. Compton and Mr. Liljeblad first went to Denver and from there to Chiam. This land is a strict plateau country, which is very similar to our prairie country.

The speaker stated the first thing they saw was "Hell's Half Acre." This is a large hole in the ground. An Indian legend tells that the banks of the hole are very steep and that the Indians once drove their buffalo into the hole and slaughtered them without giving the animals a chance to defend themselves. This hole is about one-half mile wide and two-thirds mile long.

On the way to Chiam, the speaker and his companion came to Thermopolis, where they viewed the largest hot water spring in the world. The water here has a temperature of 135 degrees Fahrenheit and it follows eighteen million, six hundred thousand gallons every twenty-four hours. In this town there is a pyramid made of cement. This pyramid, because of the chemical formed in the water, has formed all kinds of colors in the rainbow on the cement. Also in the springs the water has run over the rocks and formed the same colors as we find in the pyramid. If the state parks are also found herds of buffalo.

The next stop made by the hunters was Chiam, where the largest landing field in the west is located. At the airport there is a building that is as long as the side of the square in the city of Gatesville; this building is just like a solid light, and you can see this for twenty miles. Right before they reached the park, they came to the Continental Divide where the water on the left side goes to the Pacific Ocean and the water on the right side goes to the Atlantic Ocean. In Colorado there is a sales tax where they use money that is one-fifth of a cent.

When you get into the park, you have to get your guns sealed. This is done for the purpose of preventing anyone from shooting animals while in the park. This seal keeps anyone from shooting without breaking the seal. The bears in the park are well trained. Some are called beggars because they will stand on their back feet and beg for something to eat. If you do not give them candy or something sweet, they may try to harm you.

On the trails, trees have moose horns to give information to the travelers; these horns serve as guides.

Out of the park on the Yellowstone River, you may see many beaver dams and the beavers at work. Game fowls in and out of the park are mainly grouse and pheasants.

Rangers may be seen in and around the parks. They keep a strict watch in order that forest fires may be put out and prohibited.

Mr. Compton stated that they saw Old Faithful erupt. Old Faithful erupts about every hour. Mr. Compton and his party had been there only about twenty minutes when they were privileged to see this miracle. It reaches a height of about one hundred and twenty-five feet.

To get to hunt in the Yellowstone National Park you must pay fifty dollars for a non-resident license, fifty dollars for a permit to hunt moose, and twenty dollars to hunt antelope.

Mr. Compton shot a moose near Cody, Wyoming. This moose had a forty-inch spread in antlers, and it weighed fourteen hundred pounds, and a antelope, which had a spread of fifteen and one-half inches of antlers. The elk had one horn which had six points and one part of that horn had a width of thirty-eight inches, but the other horn went down toward his shoulders instead of going straight out, and Mr. Compton considers it one of the most rare things he has ever killed.

In the section of the country are found mud geysers. There are all kinds of geysers here. Different colors are often found shooting up into the air.

In the states around the Yellowstone National Park, there has been a big snow which broke off the limbs and boughs of the trees. There were forty or fifty men hauling off the limbs.

Mr. Compton says that he considered the Shoeshone River one of the most interesting that he has ever seen.

In the Big Horn Mountains there are many beautiful parks covering the whole country. In the Geyser Park some of the geysers look like an angel, and one looks like Jupiter, the king of the gods. The Human is the most beautiful of all geysers.

This is one of the most interesting of all hunts that Mr. Compton has experienced.

Supt. Williams

Mr. Williams, whom we all know and respect, was born in Mayperl, Texas. Having received a high school education in the Glen Rose Public Schools he then entered the Medjian Junior College. After having received only one half of his college education there, he then entered Simmons University, where he received his B. A. degree.

Mr. Williams came to us from Roscoe, Texas. This is his third year as Superintendent of the Gatesville Public Schools. He is admired for the manner in which he manages the schools. Gatesville could not have been able to secure a more likable or brilliant man than Frank L. Williams.

Coach Earle Worley

Coach Earle Worley was born in Rockdale, Texas. He was educated in Thorndale High School and after graduating from there entered Austin College. He received both his B. A. and M. A. degrees from this institution. He majored in History and minored in English and Education. Last year he was coach, as well as a teacher, in Honey Grove, Texas. This year he is head coach and principal, as well as a teacher of American History and Physical Geography, in the local High School.
