ELEPHANTS, CLOWNS, LIONS AND TIGERS ALL COMBINE WEDNESDAY TO ENLIVEN TRADES DAY

County Meet Executive Committee Named at Meeting Thursday, 14

Teachers representing all sections of the county met in the district court room Thursday evening of last week and elected an executive committee for the County Meet composed of A. R. Pointer, C. D. Boyer, James D. Carter, C. A. Barton, Miss Virginia Worth, Mrs. Carl Eubanks, Curtis Humphries and J. M. Witcher.

Directors of events were elected as follows: Mrs. J. E. Huddleston, Rythm Band; Miss Ozella Hargis, Story Telling; Miss Margaret Dixon, Music Memory; Miss Flossie Humes, Choral Singing; Sidney Pruitt, Girl's Athletics; Carl Eubanks, Tennis, and W. E. Lawrence, 3-R contest.

A. R. Pointer, Director General has called a meeting of the Executive Committee for Thursday, November 21, in the County Superintendent's office, to start at 7 and close by 8:30 County Meet will be considered at this meeting and assistant directors will be named so far as possible.

GREAT MUSICAL TO BE AT MAPLE SCHOOL NOV. 25

Billed as the greatest musical entertainment of the year, consisting of string band, whistling, singing and dancing numbers. Maple School is putting on a show that tops them all in their Auditorium Nov. 25.

Ten dollars cash prizes will be awarded to the best entertainers and entries are being booked from every part of the county.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend, and a small admission fee will be charged, proceeds going to the school.

COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW TO BE EFFECTIVE AS SOON AS CONVENIENT

Trustees should not set dates for the Compulsory School Law to be effective as soon as convenient. This law requires children between 7 and 16 years of age to attend school for six months each year. The law is intended to help children too obtain sufficient education to make their way in life as independent individuals, and not for the convenience of those whose children are.

Visitors in the Rab Dickie home over the week end were Mrs. R. S. Griggs and daughters, Jenny and Frances of Ft. Worth, Mrs. J. B. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Payne of Moody. The occasion was the celebration of Uncle Rab Dickie's 83rd birthday.

INSPECTION OF CO. SCHOOLS COMPLETED BY E. W. BROOKS

Deputy State Superintendent, Ercell W. Brooks, finished his inspection of schools in Coryell county on Wednesday of last week. His reports on school transportation and state aid were approved as presented as far as possible. Nearly one-half of the schools asking for state aid must make a better average on daily attendance before they are eligible. This average may be attained by any school by having all who are in the grades taught in that district present regularly. Unless care is taken a few schools will not obtain the 65 per cent average daily attendance during the year.

STANDARD TESTS GIVEN TO NEARLY COUNTY SCHOOLS

Standard tests have been given in nearly all schools in the county according to reports from County Superintendent J. M. Witcher's office.

Reports from these tests are coming into the office. These were given so that teachers and pupils would know where to concentrate efforts in this year's work. Reports on all these tests are due within two weeks.

Compulsory school attendance ages vary in different states.

All-State Ceremonial At Waco, Nov. 22, 23, To Honor Band Director

Prominent Galveston cotton broker, Past Potentate of El Mina Shrine Temple, executive chairman of the Centennial Thrift Stamps Committee and dean of Texas Shrine band leaders was appointed to direct a massed group of 500 instrumentalists and singers at the All-State Shrine Ceremonial, to be held at Waco, Nov. 22-23, in honor of his quarter century service as director of the famous El Mina Shrine Band.

Nobles, bands, and patrols from Alzafar Shrine Temple, San Antonio; El Maida, El Paso; Khiva, Amarillo; Maskat, Wichita Falls; Karem, Waco; Moslah, Fort Worth; Ben Hur, Austin; Arabia, Houston; El Mina, Galveston; and Hella Temple, Dallas, are participating in this gigantic annual Shrine event.

Kids of All Ages Will Gather to See First Circus Here in Years

Wednesday morning early, the clatter of circus paraphernalia will be heard in Gatesville again! Too, there will be the snorts of elephants, probably a proud Nubian lion will roar out his welcome to those who will want to see him this day of days, and there may even be the steam caliope that will disturb our sleep in the early hours before the "big top" is finally up, and awaiting for that moment of moments—when "The Show is On!" The big tents will be located on the Granville Rogers lot out on east Saunders street, east of Dr. Bailey's home.

Wednesday is another grand day for yet another reason—Gatesville's Trades Day, which comes once a month, and someone always leaves happier and in better shape than they were before. This might be YOU!

At 12 noon is the hour calculated to give the kiddies hereabouts a thrill, some of them have never experienced. A grand free parade will be staged at that hour, including mischievous clowns, chartering monkeys, lumbering elephants, bands—and so on thru the gamut of circosania, as only a circus man can put it on.

Then, the afternoon and evening performances, which we must not miss—since Gatesville doesn't have a circus every year, and too, this one is a motorized one, (something unusual in itself).

Starting early in the morning, the boys will have a chance to feed and water the elephants, help put up the big top, the side shows and do many other feats in order to earn passes to the show. To really enjoy a circus, you must start early and stay late.

Don't forget that western star of stars Jack Hoxie will be there in person, along with his horse, the white charger "Scout." Also, his co-partner, Miss Dixie Starr, and the motion picture company used in making their last picture in Old Mexico. We'll see you at the "saw-dust arena" Wednesday.

L. R. ADAMS OF LEVITA MAKES HONOR ROLL AT A. C. C.

Three hundred twenty-eight students in Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas, made grade of ninety or above in one or more subjects for the first six weeks of the present term according to the Honor Roll posted in the bulletin board of Hardin Memorial Building of A. C. C. Twenty-two students made the Honor Roll in four subjects, and twenty-five of the 605 college students made grades of ninety or above in five or more subjects.

Among those making the Honor Roll is T. H. Adams of Levita.

A TEXAS BIRD FOR THE PRESIDENT'S THANKSGIVING DINNER

Don't blame this big fellow for strutting! He will represent the Texas Centennial celebrations on President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving table—that is, if he wins over a few thousand like him that are competing for the honor in a section-wide "Turkey Derby" at Brady, West Texas capital of this flourishing industry. The President has just announced his intention of visiting Texas next summer, and here's his reward for "talking turkey" about the Centennial. Anyway, when Texas gives the President the bird—that's news!

WE DRIVERS

A Series of Brief Discussions on Driving, Dedicated to the Safety, Comfort and Pleasure of the Motoring Public. Prepared by General Motors

No. 5—DRIVING ON HILLS

In some parts of the country hills are taken for granted . . . and good steep ones, too. But for some of us who live in flatter country, hill driving is not so familiar.

As a matter of fact, there are several conditions peculiar to driving in very steep hills or mountains, especially if the altitude is high. For instance, a car that develops 100 horsepower at sea-level, has only 82 horsepower at an altitude of 5000 feet, and only 60 horsepower on top of Pike's Peak.

Another thing is that sometimes grades are deceptive and we don't realize how steep they are, if there is no level ground to judge by.

So if we go on a road trip and happen to get into country where hills are hills, we often have no idea of what is in store for us. Like as not, we will come rolling up to a hill, taking it for granted that we'll make the grade. But before we've gone very far we find that our power seems to be giving out, and we're slowing down. Then we realize we must shift to second gear, but we're luck if we haven't found out so late that there we are, stalled on a hill!

Now people who drive on hills all the time say one thing to remember is that there's nothing like a good start. Of course, this is true, because the minute we start up, gravity starts to work and work fast. Yard-by-yard it uses up our momentum till by-and-by that momentum is just about gone. Then we have to shift to a lower gear to increase our power.

Experts tell us that by far the most common fault in hill-climbing is failure to shift to a lower gear soon enough. So just to be sure, some drivers set a definite point at which to change gears. The consensus of opinion seems to be that we should always go into second gear as soon as our speed gets down to 20 miles an hour.

There are times, however, when we want to stop on a hill. So it's important to know how to start again, with our car on an upgrade. And there seem to be two methods used by experienced drivers.

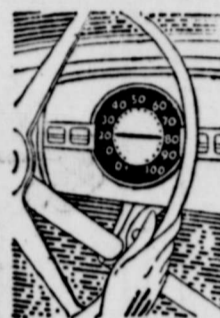

Some use their foot brake to keep their cars from rolling backward, put their engine in low gear and accelerate slowly with the hand throttle, gradually engaging their clutch and releasing the brake at the same time. Other good drivers do exactly the same thing, only they use the hand brake and the foot accelerator. But both groups tell us it doesn't make much difference . . . to use whichever method we happen to like the better.

Now there aren't many hills that cars can't climb nowadays . . . and what goes up must come down. And that's where we have to look out for momentum. He may have been a friend in need when we were coming up hill, but going down he'll run away with us if we aren't careful.

And if there are any sharp curves or any bad bumps or loose gravel, we have to be careful or he'll pitch us right off the road. Many drivers say that we should go down a hill in the same gear we would use to get up. In other words, if it's steep enough so we would have to go up in second or even low gear, then we'd better get into that same gear before we start down. If our car is in second or low gear, our engine works as a very effective brake, and besides it saves a lot of wear on our real brakes.

Speaking of gears, experienced drivers say we should never, under any condition, disengage our clutch and coast down hill. That's just what momentum is waiting for. Just give momentum a free rein, without our engine to check it, and nobody can tell what's going to happen.

When we do get in country where people are used to driving on hills all the time, it may seem to us that they take those hills without the slightest concern. But if we were in their cars with them and could watch them closely, we would see that they take all these precautions we have mentioned, just as a matter of habit. And one thing is sure. They make it a rule never to pass other cars on hills, or get on the wrong side of the road, when they can't see far enough ahead to be sure whether anyone's coming.

for the wedding party on Saturday evening offered at the home of Mrs. H. E. Hindrick son, Mrs. Robert Moechel assisted in the supper. The last of the series of affairs was a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride at which Mrs. B. L. Williford and Miss Jane Lacy, and Mrs. W. H. Beazley, sisters of the bride, were joint hostesses.

Miss Johnie Mae Lacy, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Lacy of Houston, became the bride of Rev. Brooks Sasse of Gatesville in a simple ceremony at the Trinity Baptist Church in Houston on Sunday morning, November 10, at 8:45 o'clock. The bride was attended by Miss Florence Laird, Reeder L. Lacy acted as best man, Rev. E. S. Hutcherson, pastor of the church, officiated.

For the past five years Miss Lacy had been secretary of the church in which the rites were said. Miss Lacy had been prominent in religious circles of the Union Baptist Association for several years having served two years as secretary and one year as president of the Young Peoples Council of that association.

Rev. Sasse is well known locally having served in several public capacities here in the last several years. He is at present Chairman of the Coryell County chapter of the Red Cross, Secretary-treasurer of the Coryell County Dry Forces, vice-moderator of the Leon River Association and president of the Leon River Associational Baptist Training Union. He is pastor of the Baptist churches at Osage and Turnersville.

The couple will make their home in Waco where Rev. Sasse is attending Baylor University.

HERE is the result of the lucky day that Beonne Boronda, New York sculptor, took her orange stick in one hand and a cake of soap in the other. "Saluki," the name of this beautiful sculpture, earned for its creator the first prize, professional class, of $250 in the Eleventh Annual Competition for Small Sculptures in White Soap.

Submitted along with more than 4,000 other carvings, by sculptors young and old, amateur and professional alike, "Saluki" is a striking example of the strides made in soap modelling since the beginning of the annual competitions twelve years ago.

The Twelfth Annual Competition for The Procter & Gamble prizes totalling $2,500, will officially close on May 1, 1936, after which prize winning sculptures will be exhibited in libraries, museums and leading department stores throughout the country. Entry blanks for this competition may be obtained, free of ## Methodist Flayed Hornets 30-to-0 Friday P. M.

They passed thru the air with the greatest of ease. We have reference to the M. E. Home Badgers who smeared a 30-to-0 whitewashing on the local Hornets last Friday afternoon. Both teams were smeared with a liberal coating of mud as the field was nearly as muddily as was the case Monday.

The Badgers, despite the heavy field lived up to advance notices in displaying a very open offensive game while the Hornets were handicapped in their efforts and never offered a serious threat. The game was only a few minutes old before it was apparent that the locals chances of winning were about as good as our chance of winning a beatly contest.

The condition would not allow the invaders to flash their forward passing attack but it didn't hinder their tossing the leather around in a well speculated lateral language. What we had said prior to the game about their smooth handling of the oval was not enough. In the slush and mud Friday afternoon, the Badgers showed local fans more expert ball handling than has been their lot to see in quite awhile and we can't imagine what their play would have been like on a fast and dry field.

The Hornets seemed sluggish after their game on Monday with Hamilton but on occasions showed good form in their defensive play as for as breaking thru the visitors forward was concerned, but their poor tackling allowed the Home backs to make appreciable gains before they were hauled down.

On the offense the Hornets were helpless. Their passing attack, expected to carry their main threat, was throttled by a slick pigskin and the fast charging of the Home line. Eighteen passes were attempted, 5 were completed but for short yardage, 7 incomplete and 6 fell into the arms of the enemy, one for a touchdown.

For the Home, McClain, hard driving, speedy runner, and Carl fast and shifty ball carrier, also a fine passer, were offensive stars while the entire team showed to advantage in their pure of the lateral pass and on the defense.

The locals could offer no outstanding offensive star but Dickie again played his good consistant game and proved be-

FOOTBALL CHATTER

By TEDDY

The Methodist Home Badgers played one of the smoothest games this writer has ever witnessed here Friday to defeat the locals 30-to-0. Luke Walker says instead of playing heads-up ball, the Badgers played eyes-open ball. He is about right. When a Badger runner would be sifting down the field, and one or two local backs starting toward him, the runner would begin to look for a mate he could lateral to. It was amazing how they co-operated in every phase of the game.

More than their play, they demonstrated sportsmanship to the greatest extent. When tackling a local back you would see them come out of the skirmish patting the Hornets on their backs. So good was sportsmanship on the part of both teams that there wasn't a penalty in the game.

On the sideline with several locals, we heard such remarks: "The Home certainly has a sweet and congenial group." A young lady made that statement I'll grant you. I will not quote what some of the young men said regarding the fairer sex from the Home; it would take too much space, however, it was highly complimentary.

We heard Mr. Johnson state that he would like to make an annual clash of the two teams. We think it a splendid idea.

We note from a dispatch by Jinx Tucker, Waco News-Tribune scribe, where he stated S. M. U. is due for some bowl, Sugar, Bluebonnet or Rose. We will side with the handsome brute of Waco. S. M. U. in our opinion, has the leading team in the nation today. This is one year we wouldn't even wager a little on Baylor when they meet the Ponies Saturday.

We will know more about the Christians when they play the Rice Owls in Cowtown Saturday. The Horned Frogs was the only team that defeated the Owls last year, and the wise birds still ponder over the defeat, and will probably make T. C. U. taste defeat for the first time this year.

The Hornets will play the Valley Mills Eagles here Friday afternoon. The locals are now the under dogs after their two games the past week, but if they come out of the kinks, they will defeat the Eagles.

Checker Tournament Held.
Something new has started in Co. S17 and that is tournaments on these rainy days. Wednesday saw the beginning of these tournaments. Under the supervision of our Educational Department, a checker tournament was held in the recreation hall Wednesday. Starting at 9:30 a. m. and continuing until 2:00 p. m., with about thirty entering into it with a determination to win. At the close of the tournament it was found that Wayman Ware held first place, with Alvin Bulgawicz, second place and Johnnie Beran coming in third. Enrollee Waddell, who personally supervised the players, has promised a domino tournament soon.

On the Job
The blasting crew is proud of the new galvanometer which arrived Friday. This gadget is used for testing the electric exploders and the firing circuits before blasting so that there is no chance of misfires and delayed shots. It makes the dynamiting just that much safer. Heavy rains the early part of the week ruined the work schedule. Only a day and a half were allowed on the project.

The copper class has started out on its work with great enthusiasm. Instead of spending the necessary forty five minutes which it takes to get credit, most of the members are spending about an hour and a half hammering at ash trays and watch fobs.
After the class has attained proficiency in the work it is intended for the members to make the ornamental hardware for the Concession Building and also to make up specimens to be placed in an exhibit of C. C. C. craftsmanship at the Texas Centennial next year.

Methodist Flayed—

beyond a doubt that he is one of the most valuable men on the squad, Myers and McDonald played a good defensive game as did Wicker who played the last half in lieu of Clark at an end position. In summing up things it was the Badgers superior speed and clever passing under such adverse conditions that accounted for the victory. There is no doubt but what the Waco lads had the best team but under perfect conditions, we firmly believe the difference would have not been so marked.

Touchdown runs for the Badgers were registered by McClain who made two, one on a sensational dash of some 70 yards in the initial quarter and another on a perfect pass from Carl. Holt a guard, made one after the ball was tossed about three or four times as did Appling who took a lateral following an intercepted pass. Carl made the final counter on a long run with a lateral tossed on a play from scrimmage.

World Com- ment

By

HERBERT HOOVER, if actions speak louder than words, is now trying to grab something no Republican ever got his hands on. He is trying to secure a third nomination for President from a party which in all its history has never allowed any man to have more than two.

Since his retirement to his home at Palo Alto, Cal., Hoover has crossed the Rockies fourteen times and has traveled more than 45,000 miles. He has visited some 28 states. He has made five trips across the continent. Does this look like retirement?

Now the former President takes another step and proposes an eleven-point constructive fiscal program. The program includes restoration of the gold standard, stopping unnecessary public works, and balancing the Federal budget, not by more taxes but by reduction of follies.

The above points may find public favor in many tory quarters but the general public will realize that these steps can only be carried out in future and more normal times. Suspension of the gold standard has helped American manufacturers to compete with Japanese and British goods, both selling under depreciated currencies; the public works have obviously helped to uphold the morale of the jobless, more so than doling out to them the necessities of life; and, until the states and municipalities can be made to shoulder the relief burden, which should be done this winter, the budget cannot be balanced.

Upon the national election held in Britain last week much that happens in the Old World in the next five years will turn. For Britain still holds the balance of power in Europe.

Out of approximately 1,100 candidates for the next House of Commons, Stanley Baldwin's Tories captured 419 out of a total of 615 seats, leaving the combined opposition of Labor and Liberal only 176 seats. The entire Cabinet, except for former Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald and his son, was re-elected. MacDonald had held the post of Lord President of the Council since his resignation as head of the National Government several months ago.

David Lloyd George, grand old man of World War days, was elected by his Welsh constituents with a bang-up majority. Lloyd George, former Liberal leader, was quick to point out when the final tally of the votes had been made that the popular vote for the Government was only 500,000 above that of the combined opposition.

The opposition increased its representation by 105 seats MacDonald and Baldwin with

Colonels Appointed for Cadet Corps

Lieutenant Colonels, the highest ranking officers in the R.O.T.C. cadet corps, have been appointed by six of the seven high schools of Dallas and Highland Park. The seventh, Wood-

Linehan, 216 North Marsalis, W. H. Adamson High. Front row, Lloyd Williams, 2803 Hood, North Dallas, and Albert Avery, 3200 Dartmouth, Highland Park.

Lloyd Williams is a grandson of the late A. R. Williams and son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Williams of 2803 Hood Street, Dallas.

their so-called National Government had 521 representatives in the Commons and the Labor-Liberal opposition only 71. The Baldwin Government is now clearly Conservative (Tory) and the opposition principally Labor.

Now that the election is over, the British Government can openly discuss peace in Africa. Within the next few weeks there is sure to be a thorough examination of peace possibilities, although League sanctions against Italy began Nov. 18 (Monday).

Indeed, it is believed that in the next few weeks it will be known whether the war can be stopped, or whether the long-drawn-out economic conflict between Italy and the League and the equally tedious military campaign in Ethiopia must proceed.

The British obviously are not eager to fight Italy, although most experts agree that John Bull's efforts to coerce Mussolini thru the League are doomed to failure. If, with the failure of sanctions, Britain has to help with other League members in a blockade of Italian shores, undoubtedly Italy will go to war. Britain, of all League members, has reason to think carefully about a war with Italy.

Italy can attack the British or Anglo Sudan from her present base in Eritrea. Italy might seize Lake Tana and reduce Egypt and the Sudan to desert wastes. Her armies in southern Ethiopia can march into Kenya. Her Libyan divisions can capture the British base at Alexandria. No doubt Italy would lose a war with Britain, but a victory would cost the British heavily. As one Italian official of high rank remarked: "If there is war, England will give us a whipping, but the English will know they've been in a fight! Today we have, first, faith in Mussolini, and second we have steel—hot or cold."

THE PHILIPPINES are safely embarked on the road to independence. Now, that the ceremonies of inauguration are over, we can see what the 14,000,000 Asiatics are capable of doing for themselves.

Under the Constitution approved in the Sept. 17 election, the Commonwealth Government has full control of internal policies but the United States, through its High Commissioner, Frank Murphy of Detroit, will see that order is maintained and will advise where foreign affairs are concerned. Under present plans the army will retain 5,000 troops in the islands and the U. S. Asiatic Fleet will maintain its base at Manila for the duration of the Commonwealth Government.

Manuel Quezon, for years President and advocate of island independence, is the new President. The combined parties of Quezon and Sergio Osmena, Vice-President, will dominate the island government.

The new government faces many serious problems. Free trade between the islands and the U. S. will be eliminated gradually during the commonwealth period, and, as the U. S. is the best market for Philippine products, the effect is sure to be felt on the economic system of the islands. It is thought that the expenses of Government will be heavier in the future than formerly but its revenue less, although at present there is money in the Treasury and a balanced budget. The islands are defenseless except for the protection afforded by the prestige, army and navy of the U. S., which will presumably be withdrawn in ten years. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former chief of

PART TIME JOBS GIVEN BOYS AND GIRLS

Austin, Nov. 17.—Then thousand part-time jobs are ready for Texas boys and girls, J. C. Kellam, assistant director of the National Youth Administration, announced today.

In order to be eligible for these jobs on WPA and NYA projects, Kellam said, boys and girls must be between 16 and 25 years old, must come from families certified as eligible for work on WPA projects, and must register with the National Re-employment Service. This registration is required solely because all assignments for work are made by the NRS.

"Boys and girls now enrolled in school are urged to continue their school work and not drop out to accept the part-time jobs offered through the NYA," Kellam said. "Education is as much a part of the NYA program as work-relief. These jobs have been provided only to care for youths who have finished school or need or desire no further education."

Youths employed on WPA projects will work 46 hours a month, Kellam said. The WPA authorities have agreed youths may be worked on consecutive days each 15-day period, thus enabling them to complete the maximum 23 hours each period in as few days as possible. For example, a youth working on a Harris County WPA or NYA project, will report work Monday morning and work each day thereafter until he has worked 23 hours. He will not report again for the job until the second 15-day pay period, at which time he will repeat the process.

His pay, Kellam said, in Harris County, will be $1.82 a 7-hour day. Wages are based on the security wage scale of the WPA.

Youths are classified as unskilled, intermediate, skilled, and professional workers. Pay graduates upward according to this classification.

BITS 'O PHILOSOPHY

You always pay when you promise and don't.

Some people respect only those more ignorant than they. He who tries to please everybody eventually falls out with himself.

The hospital is waiting for him who thinks the road is made for just one.

No one has more time than another.

A NEW BRAND OF LIBERTY

Two minstrels who drew from their guitars music about "the downfall of the Soviet Union" and "the end of the world" as they wandered among collective farms in the Kiev district were sentenced to death in the Kiev Regional Court as counter-revolutionaries. Twenty-two others received prison terms of three to ten years.

And this is what liberty and freedom amount to in Russia.

God save this country from the agitation and propaganda that would destroy our own Constitution, limit freedom of speech and press and establish a brand of "liberty" where life, death and property are subject to the whims of a political dictatorship.

BUTTON! BUTTON!

You may remember the old game, "Button, Button, Who's Got the Button?" The person who got the "button" was the goat.

A modern craze of "button, button," has been going on of late years in the special and class tax movement.

One of the first and biggest "buttons" was sewed onto motorists when the gas tax went like a case of measles from coast to coast. There are special food and other taxes and many laws and proposals on up to the "share the wealth" plan which is just another class tax idea. The chain stores are in for it now in many states with special class taxes on them, levied or proposed.

The trouble is that there are plenty of "buttons" to go around. Politicians' pockets are just full of them and they would rip them off their clothes, if necessary.

Maybe you haven't been passed a "button" yet with a class tax on your business, but you may get one any day.

Think it over the next time a tax is proposed that will hit only the other fellow.

This tax business is one of the unsolved mysteries, a problem beyond understanding.

Dusting the Covers of Texas History

It was almost midnight before the fifteen committee members appointed by Thomas J. Rusk, temporary Chairman of the Convention, ended their session where they had been drafting an "ordinance expressive of the consent of the people of Texas to the terms, conditions, and guarantees" of the joint resolution. John Hemphill, Judge of the first Supreme Court, J. Pinchney Henderson, first Governor of Texas, Editor Francis Moore of the Texas Telegraph, John Caldwell, A. S. Lipscomb, James Love, Isaac Van Zandt, William L. Cazneau, L. D. Evans, H. G. Runnels, J. M. Lewis, R. E. B. Baylor, James Davis, G. W. Smith and G. A. Everts were members of that committee.

The best legal minds of the Republic and the clearest thinkers had been elected to the convention, and they were eagerly waiting to begin their work. The convention opened with formal proceedings on the morning of July 4, 1845, at the Capital in Austin. The heat was unnoticed by the makers of Texas history.

H. G. Runnels nominated Thomas J. Rusk for President, and he was unanimously elected. Proudly he accepted the honor: "Language would fail me were I to attempt an expression of my feelings in being thus elevated to the position which I now occupy, as the President of this honorable convention. . . . Let us lay aside all minor considerations, and avoid all subjects calculated to divide us in opinion. . . . We have one great object in view, and that is to enter the American Confederacy with becoming dignity and respect."

When the tumultuous applause died down after Rusk's speech, other officers were elected: J. H. Raymond, Secretary, William Cockburn, Doorkeeper, W. Haynie, Chaplain, and F. G. Fisher, Interpreter. President Rusk appointed five standing committees: one was on the State of the Union; one on the Executive, and the others were those on Legislative, Judiciary, and General Provisions of the constitution. Isaac Van Zandt was Chairman of the committee on general provisions and a member of the committee on rules.

President Jones read five official documents to the delegates: a joint resolution for annexing Texas to the United States; a proclamation recommending the election of deputies to the convention; a proclamation declaring to the people of Texas the actual status of affairs with Mexico, and a cessation of hostilities between the two countries; conditions preliminary to a treaty of peace between Texas and Mexico; the delegates knew the value of deliberation.

Today Texans are glad that the annexation problem was considered, ninety years ago, because Statehood is cherished as much as the Republic was cherished. To the pioneers of both periods, the Centennial celebrations will be held in 1936.

... Pledge ...
I will think—talk—write . . . Texas Centennial in 1936! This is to be my celebration. In its achievement I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas' heroic past; my confidence in its glories that are to be. . . .

P. T. A. Organized

On Friday night, November 8th, at 7:30, the patrons and teachers of the Pidcoke Community met in the school auditorium and organized a P. T. A.

Mr. S. M. Anderson, the Principal of the Pidcoke School, was elected President; Mr. Spencer Thompson was elected Vice-President; Miss Fay Bowman, Secretary and Miss Susie Caldwell, Treasury.

Mr. Anderson made a short talk on the objects and the necessity of an effective P. T. A. He stated that the objects are: (1) To promote child welfare in home, school, church, and community, to raise the standards of home life; to secure more adequate laws for the care and protection of women and children. (2) To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child; to develop between educations and the general public such united effort as well as secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, moral, and spiritual education.

"More than all else, it binds the parents and the teachers of the nation into one great organization with common ideals, a common understanding and a common purpose—the welfare of the children of America."

The first, second, third, and fourth grades presented a short program proceeding the organization.

Chapel

We have assembly every Tuesday morning from 10:00 to 10:30 o'clock. The children from every room are responsible for the program. We sing songs, mostly patriotic ones, but also a few hymns and popular pieces. On Tuesday the 12th, we had a very interesting program, which consisted of songs, readings, and the rhythm band from Miss Caldwell's room played and sang "Jack and Jill." Mr. Anderson elected Estelle Lovejoy and Clyde Woodard as leaders of their side for the P. T. A. to see who can get the most members. Clyde Woodard's side is called the red and Estelle Lovejoy's side is the blue. All of the students are on one or the other side.

First and Second Grade

The first grade is doing nicely in their reader. They are learning many new words each day.

The second grade has finished one book and is ready for a new one. They are now working on a farm unit, in which each one seems very much interested.

Fourth Grade

The fourth grade English class organized a good English club. Durward Newton was elected President and Joe Lockhart was elected Vice President. The class selected this motto: "Good clothes last a season, but good English last a life time."

It was decided that each member in the class would pretend to be a good cowboy and rope and bull-dog bad English, and all of his family. It is the aim of the class to use good English not only in the

Modern Magic with STRINGLESS BEANS

JACK and the Beanstalk is a very old story, but the magic made with beans has not gone out of fashion. Of course Jack must have had a stringy variety to enable him to climb up so high to discover the fearful giant who muttered "Fee Fi Fo Fum," the goose that laid the golden egg and the magic harp, but the stringless bean is well adapted to modern magic in the kitchen. Serve the following dish, for instance, at luncheon and note its original effect upon your guests:

Luncheon Vegetable Toast: Clean and cook one bunch fresh asparagus until tender (or use canned asparagus). Drain. Heat the contents of a No. 2 can stringless beans until they have absorbed all their liquor. Lay a slice of toast on each plate and place the asparagus stalks on it, carefully pointing them one way. Top with the beans and pour over three cups rich cheese sauce. Garnish with slices of two hard-cooked eggs. Serves eight.

Surprise in a Squash

Or you can hide away your stringless beans in some place where they are not expected, and make your guests appreciate them all the more. Who would expect to find these delicate vegetables, for instance, in such a dish as:

Baked Stuffed Squash: Cut two small sweet potato squashes in halves lengthwise, remove seeds and scrape out all the stringy fibres. Dust with salt. Mix together two cups soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon sage, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and one-half cup melted butter, and add enough canned bean liquor (from two to four tablespoons) to moisten. Add one cup stringless beans, cut in inch pieces, and fill the squashes with this stuffing. Bake slowly—at 325 degrees—until squash is tender—from one hour to an hour and a half. Serves four.

class room, but on the school ground and at home.

Lorree Walters is a new student in the third grade. The third and fourth grades now have an enrollment of 26 pupils.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

Everyone in the fifth and sixth grades and also our teacher, Miss Scott, is very proud of our new room. The walls, ceiling and wood-work have been painted. The stove and blackboards have been refinished and our shades are being fixed. Our flowers are pretty, too. We all intend to keep our room neat and clean.

We are having a very interesting contest in our reading classes. The sixth grade is working on some posters in their health unit.

Sports

Rain and wet courts have prevented much work in basket ball, however, we have some very good material and hope to have some very good teams in time.

The senior boys have just begun practice with Mr. Anderson as coach. With the material out they should go a long way toward having a good team.

Miss Scott is coach of the girls. They have been working hard and will soon be seen in action in new suits.

The junior boys are dividing their time between play ground ball and basketball. With Mr. Forrest as their coach, they are very busy and should be heard from soon.

About half the gold now produced comes from Africa.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Rutledge, arriving at San Francisco in the early Gold Rush days, learns that her fiance, a wealthy prospector, had gambled away his wealth and then killed himself. She sets out for the Bella Donna, the gambling house operated by Louis Chamalis, who had cheated her fiance. She and Chamalis reach an understanding, and Miss Rutledge is installed at a gambling table—to attract customers. A customer protests that the table is crooked, and is killed by Chamalis's henchman.

GRAMERCY PARK

There had been killings at the Bella Donna before. No one anticipated the trouble this casual homicide would cause. But now the better citizens were up in arms. To the Bella Donna, therefore, the next morning came the sheriff, armed with a warrant for Knuckles, and accompanied by a group of citizens.

Chamalis refused to be disconcerted.

"Going to try him for murder? Well, you don't have to take him anywhere for that."

And he walked over to an elderly, seedy looking coddger, snoring in a lang-over sleep in one of the booths. The fellow came sputtering out of his sleep.

"There's some work for you, fudge," Chamalis declared. "Seems that a fellow named Ferguson has just been killed. We want you to try Knuckles, here, the man that did it."

Obediently, the Judge took his seat at one of the open tables.

"Hear ye, hear ye. This honorable court is now in session. Silence, everybody, and hats off. Knuckles Jacoby is accused of committing homicide. Who seen him do it?"

One of the citizens spoke up. "This Chinaman was right there."

The Judge was deprecating. "Now boys," he said, "you don't expect me to take the word of a Chinaman. Any American witness to this homicide?"

Slocum, of the decent element, spoke up again.

"There ain't no question who did it," he said grimly.

The Judge gazed uneasily in Chamalis's direction, but that gentleman's face was a mask.

"Well, now," the Judge argued, "if it was Knuckles, maybe he had a reason."

"Sure he did," said Chamalis. "That fella, Ferguson, passed a remark about Miss Rutledge. He was vulgar."

The Judge was outraged.

"Insulted a lady, eh? Why the ideal! Insulted a lady, gentlemen. That delicate vessel whom we are brought up from our cradle to—to—"

"Hurry up!" said Chamalis.

The Judge cleared his throat.

"Well, under the evidence . . ."

"Hurry up!" Chamalis snarled.

"Case dismissed!" said the Judge hastily.

Law and Order

The decision was reinforced by the guns of Chamalis's henchmen, who drove the law-abiding citizens out of the saloon.

But the embattled citizens were not through with the case. "We'll be back," they warned Chamalis. And leaving, they headed straight for the offices of the "San Francisco Clarion," where Mr. Marcus Aurelius Cobb, the broken-down journalist who had befriended Swan, now presided in new-born self-respect. Cobb was gloating over his new press, which the grateful Swan had helped him purchase.

Cobb's innocent delight was interrupted by the entrance of the indignant band of men expelled from the Bella Donna. Would he, they wanted to know, champion the cause of decency, of law and order in San Francisco?

"Gentlemen," said Cobb, "I've been waiting for this a long time."

The following midnight, the new Clarion press was thundering out the latest issue, carrying Cobb's new bold headlines on the front page:

LAW AND ORDER MUST COME TO SAN FRANCISCO.

Suddenly the door was burst open, and Chamalis and his armed gang entered. Chamalis snatched a copy of the "Clarion" out of Cobb's hands, and read the headlines.

"You want law and order," he snarled. "I'm the law around here, and I give the orders."

And turning to Knuckles, he ordered: "Smash the machine! Smash it until there isn't a word left in it! After you finish, set fire to the building!"

In vain Cobb pleaded. Knuckles advanced with an axe, and was about to smash the machine when Swan appeared to intervene for her friend.

If Chamalis's word was law in San Francisco, Swan's word was law with him. He agreed to spare Cobb's press on condition that the old man cease his attacks. Humiliated, defeated, broken-hearted, Cobb surrendered. The last shreds of his newborn dignity were torn from him. He thanked Swan, but not without a trace of bitterness in his voice.

"I couldn't have stood it if they had broken it. It isn't much use, though. A poor shamed thing that mustn't speak."

"Let it speak the language of the town!" cried Swan, bitterly. "Lies, hypocrisy and more lies!"

Swan, however, was more shaken by the recent events that she let on. And when the persistent Chamalis again sought her love her reply startled him by its violence.

"What do you want me to do?" she cried. "Lie? Lie and pretend I've got a heart. Do you think I am still a white woman? Do you think I'm still Mary Rutledge, the little girl from New York? . . . Stop yelling about love, and let's enjoy splashing around in our mud puddle."

The next morning, despite threat of rain, Swan set out for a ride into the hills. She was well out of town when the downpour began. A shack in the distance offered her shelter, and Swan made for it. It was unoccupied. Clumsily, she built a fire, and tried to dry her thoroughly soaked dress and riding jacket.

She was clad only in a petticoat and chemise when she heard a slight noise, and looked up, startled, instinctively clutching her dress, and holding it before her. A tall youngster stood at the door, peering into the smoke-filled room.

"I'm awfully sorry," he said, with embarrassment. "I didn't know I was intruding."

He stood staring at her, with a grin almost fatuous.

"I can't get over it."

"Over what, mister?"

"How beautiful a woman is. I'd almost forgotten."

"You're getting wet, mister," Swan said gayly.

Hoops and Harpies

So Jim Carmichael entered, and immediately gave his expert attention to the fire, which was still sending more smoke than heat into the room.

"Fire making," he observed, "is an art known chiefly to Indians and footmen . . . I take it you're neither."

"Keen observer," said Swan. "You're from New York, aren't you?"

"Fourteen Gramercy Park. Across from the big willow tree."

Swan sighed.

"Gramercy Park—I used to play there when I was a little girl."

"With a hoop?" Jim asked gayly.

"Yes, mine was the biggest hoop, and I could roll it the furthest."

And in this vein, the two began chatting, as if they had known each other all their lives. Until, suddenly, they were startled by a loud clap of thunder. There was a clattering of hoofs outside the door. Jim rushed outside belatedly. Swan's horse had run away.

"How am I going to get back?" Swan asked in dismay.

"I have a couple of burros outside. If you don't mind riding on a few sacks of gold."

On the way back to town, there was further chance of getting acquainted. Swan learned that Jim was something of a poet. Also that he was on his way back home—thanks to the bags of gold against which she so uncomfortably rested.

If only, he said, the harpies didn't get him.

"What does a harpy look like?" Swan asked nervously.

"They have snakes in their hair, and cat's eyes, and no hearts at all. Nevertheless, they are attractive in their way. The gold fields ring with the legends of the harpies and the shorn lambs—shorn of their golden wool."

Swan grew more and more uncomfortable, realizing that it was she who was being characterized. In response to his own questioning, she informed him that she lived on a ranch, and was merely visiting San Francisco.

"Won't I ever see you again?" he asked.

"Please . . . I'd like to remember it just like this. The rain . . . the thunder . . . and the poet from Gramercy Park with his bags of gold . . . It's perfect. We met like ships in a fog . . . saluted each other . . . and moved on. It's mysterious, and very touching. Please understand."

THE BIG SHOW MUST GO ON!

Are old maxim rules the Big Top, now as always, when you have visited the circus and watched the performers, has it ever occurred to you that the wire walker, the tumblers, the animal trainers, the acrobats, the riders, who are smiling at you and cutting capers cavorting about the sawdust, with feet that seemed to be fitted with wings, laughing, smiling pertinent clowns, that can only laugh, are daredevils that have no care? Then have you ever walked behind the scene and wondered why the tears, running in an unbroken flow across the laughing clown's cheeks? He perhaps has just received a wire that his mother or dad was seriously ill or maybe God had called his wife or babe away into the grand entry, that clown daubed a little white paint on his swollen eyelids and cheeks and were streaked by tears, while he carried a heart of lead. Or maybe it is the daredevil up in lofty top of the mammoth tent who has a broken heart because of someone gone, and he in his next cast may slip because of a tear that he had brushed away and wet his grasp, and down, down, through space he goes, smashing to the ground with a thud, his body carried away, and still all through it all, the show must go on.

Forget our sorrows, our injuries and brighten the life of someone else, and the show must go on. Since the day of the Romans, where the circus first originated, the age old maxim has carried on. Forgotten are the sorrows of performers in their desire to entertain and make you laugh and forget your sorrows. Sadler Bailey Bros. must go on and take great pleasure in presenting America's oldest Fun Maker Mr. Bock Baker, who will celebrate his seventy-third birthday under the white top when the circus exhibits at Gatesville, Wednesday, November 20.

MAKE PIQUANT CANAPES

Early autumn parties usually mean some sort of liquid refreshment, and hand and hand with that go delicious canapes such as these.

MUSHROOMS AND DEVEILED
HAM CANAPES

One-half cup deveiled ham, 1 tablespoon chopped pickle, 12 tiny canned mushrooms.

Combine the ham and chopped pickle and spread on canape toast rounds or crackers. Remove the stems from the mushrooms and saute in fat for 5 minutes. Top each canape with a sauteed mushroom.

SARDINE CANAPES

Spread small square crackers with creamed butter, cover with a thin slice of raw onion and lay two sardines diagonally across the cracker. Sprinkle with lemon juice and chopped parsley.

CRAB MEAT AND ONION
CANAPES

One-fourth cup crab meat, drained and flaked, one-fourth cup pickled onions, finely chopped and drained, one-fourth cup mayonnaise, salt and pepper to taste, few drops tabasco sauce.

Be sure that the crab meat and onions are thoroughly drained. Combine all the ingredients and blend. Spread on whole wheat toast rounds and garnish with tiny sprigs of parsley.

HOLIDAY SALADS

Certain salads seem to have a special affinity for the food combinations usually decided upon for Thanksgiving day. They give point and contrast to the richness of turkey, goose or chicken. Sometimes a fruit salad is chosen, again a piquant vegetable.

MACEDOINE SALAD

One small cooked cauliflower, 1 cup cooked peas, 1 cup cooked carrots, cubed, 1 chopped green pepper.

Separate cauliflower into small pieces. Marinate each vegetable separately in French dressing. Arrange vegetables on crisp lettuce leaves in separate nests and sprinkle with chopped green pepper. Serve with French dressing.

PINEAPPLE SALAD

Two-third cup diced celery, 4 slices pineapple, 16 asparagus tips.

Place the slices of pineapple on beds of lettuce leaves. On each slice place 4 tips of asparagus. Scatter the celery over this. Garnish with slices of stuffed olive and serve with mayonnaise dressing. This salad may be increased as necessary.

JELLIED PIMENTO SALAD

Make a rather tart lemon jelly. When the jelly is cool but not set partly fill small molds. Set into the molds a pimento cup filled with chopped celery mixed with a little mayonnaise. Cover with jelly and congeal. Serve in little lettuce cups with mayonnaise.

HOLIDAY SALAD

One package lemon flavored gelatine, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup boiling pineapple juice, 1 cup diced pineapple, 4 tablespoons chopped pimentos, 1 cup white cream cheese, 1/2 cup grape jelly.

Pour water and juice over gelatine mixture until dissolved. Cool and allow to thicken a little. Pour half into shallow mold and when a little stiff add rest of jelly and cheese. Top with grape jelly and cut in squares.

TEXAS' OWN CIRCUS COMING
TO GATESVILLE
WED., NOV. 20

Do not be misled into thinking that because you may attend The Sadler Bailey Bros. Three-Ring Circus at such a small cost that this is some small dinky one-horse affair, because the Sadler Bailey Bros. Circus is one of the very few larger circuses now remaining on the road. Titanic in size, the super circus which is presented in three rings and a hippodrome track, has combined circuses, museum and menagerie this season, and all for the one price of admission. It is the show of a thousand wonders and one hundred new features. Acts and thrilling sensations are presented by the champion arenic stars from seven nations at a greatly added expense. This Circus is ever adding new and novel features to the program . . . and this season the Sadler Bailey Bros. have imported artists to fulfill these requirements. Every boy has a Western movie hero. . . not only the boys but you big girls as well, have your favorite star, and are in a position to see him weekly or monthly only at the local motion picture theatres, which you attend. The Sadler Bailey Bros. Circus, at a tremendous added expense have made it possible from every kid from six to sixty years of age to personally meet and shake the hand of America's most celebrated western movie star, none other than Jack Hoxie and his beautiful leading lady, Dixie Starr, in person, which will be presented twice daily in the main show performance. And he extends a personal invitation to all his public to call on him personally at his private dressing tent where he will be more than pleased to greet you. Where he will also tell you of his latest adventures while on his last location in Old Mexico while making his motion picture entitled, "Law and Lawless."

He has his entire Motion Picture company with the Sadler Bailey Bros. Circus for this tour so be on hand to greet Jack Hoxie when the Circus comes to Gatesville Wednesday, November 20.

Heavy Duty Tractor Uses Light, Accurate Parts

(1)—"Caterpillar" Diesel Seventy-Five at work in a forest of giant California pines. (2)—Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons used in Diesel engine being inspected for accuracy. This light but strong metal is valuable in that it increases the power output as well as the life of the engine. (3)—Diesel engine which propels the tractor with amazing economy and power.

ONE of the most dramatic and glamorous bits of machinery in common use today is the "Caterpillar" Tractor. It subdues nature in the raw, going through waste land and forest performing herculean tasks without a falter. It is interesting to note that this ponderous piece of machinery with all of its capacity for running rough-shod over seemingly insurmountable difficulties, is made as accurately as the finest automobile. Its powerful Diesel engine, capable of propelling the tractor with its heavy loads of logs, rocks, ore or other materials over rough rocky ground or through swamp and muck, is equipped with Bohnalite aluminum pistons which are balanced to a whisker. These pistons are similar to those used in the finest passenger cars and just as carefully made and inspected. Because of the use of this aluminum alloy the power output of the engine is increased and its useful life is tremendously prolonged.

GERALD MANN TO ADDRESS N. A. S. C.

Austin, Nov. 15.—That the Texas Securities Act is a model of its kind, is becoming common knowledge throughout the country, according to D. Leon Harp, Texas Securities Commissioner and Secretary of State R. B. Stanford, who are the 2 officials charged with its enforcement.

Supporting this contention they point out a recent press dispatch from Washington, which says, in part:

"Gerald C. Mann, former Secretary of State of Texas, and now Washington Representative of the Texas Planning Board, has been invited to address the National Association of Securities Commissioners at their annual convention at Miami, Florida, in December.

"Mann, who was primarily responsible for the enactment of the Texas Securities Law, has long made a study of securities legislation. The Texas Law, in the opinion of securities officials in many states, is looked upon as a model of its kind. The invitation to address the Commissioners was extended by Harold K. Bradford, President of the Association, who wrote the Texan, 'several members of our Executive Committee and numerous Secretaries of State from different sections of the country have asked that you be especially invited to address us.'"

World Comment—

staff of the U. S. army, will train the new Filipino army but it is thought little money will be available for defense purposes, in which case Japan will all too gladly march in, probably to suppress "Communists."

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the Commerce Department reported a decided pickup in retail business last week. President Roosevelt's breathing spell for business and the cool weather were credited for better retail trade. By October, the chamber said in its business review, manufacturing industries had re-employed 52 per cent of their workers who were idle in March, 1933. This percentage amounted to about 2-500,000 men. The railroads had taken back 95,000 men, the wholesale and retail trades $15,000 and the building trades 434,000.

The Commerce Department reported that business advanced on a broad front in Texas during the week. Retail store sales in the state were up as much as 15 per cent over the same period last year, car sales doubled last year's totals, bank clearings were up as much as 65 per cent while in some countries industrial expansion was 50 per cent ahead of last year.

The Texas cotton crop forecast for November was more than 800,000 bales above last year, the report said.

Coincident with reports of better business conditions throughout the Nation came news from Washington that 15 more States had been dropped from the direct relief roles, bringing the total to 28 now off relief. At least two and a quarter million are at work on work-relief projects.

ITALY now appears to be entering a crucial period—at home and abroad—in her war with Ethiopia. Yesterday, November 18, the imposition of economic and financial sanctions, including a credit stoppage, a blockade on key war materials, and a boycott on all Italian goods, went into effect with fifty League members participating. And, equally as important, she faces a great forced battle midway on her northern and southern fronts.

In Italy, the Fascists are preparing to do without all goods formerly imported. "Italy is ready for sacrifices," says Mussolini in proclaiming Tuesdays and Wednesday as "no meat days." "We must go back to simplicity, to an abstemious, and economical way of living," high officials warn.

In London, observers point out that the U. S. and Germany, non-League members, and Austria and Hungary, which refuse sanctions, traded with Italy during the first six months of 1935 to the extent of 33.3 per cent of her imports and 28.3 per cent of her exports.
