HON. O. H. CROSS SPEAKS NOV. 30 ON DEMOCRATIC LEGISLATION

Hon. O. H. Cross, member of the House of Representatives from the 11th Congressional District, which includes Coryell county will speak on legislation passed and sponsored by the present administration and especially some of the more important bills passed by it, on Saturday night, November 30, in the District Court room.

Mr. Cross needs no introduction to the people of Coryell county and has made an enviable reputation in Congress, being a member of the very important Banking and Currency committee, and also has been prominent in the official family in Washington during his entire term.

Further particulars will be given concerning Mr. Cross' visit here in Tuesday's paper.

MRS. DUFFY INJURED FROM FALL

The many friends of Mrs. S. F. Duffy deeply regret to learn that she fell several days ago at her home on North 14th street and is suffering painfully from an injured hip, which, however, is not thought to be broken.

Careful nursing is necessary and by the assistance of friends it is hoped some arrangement will soon be made to alleviate her suffering. An effort is being made to secure a swinging cot which will greatly help in moving and turning her body.

BLANCHARD PECAN WINS FIRST PLACE CENTRAL TEXAS PECAN SHOW

The Central Texas Pecan Show was held in Waco, Tuesday, and exhibits from all parts of Central Texas were entered. W. F. Green of Mound entered five entries for himself, and a separate entry for Con Blanchard, also of near Mound.

The entry by Mr. Blanchard is known as the Blanchard pecan, being originated and grown on the Con Blanchard place. This type was outstanding in a class to itself, and was judged first place by a wide margin. Even the next in place was graded far below the Blanchard.

The five types which Mr. Green entered for himself were as follows: Jenkins, Cauthen, Black Beauty, Burkett, and Western Schley. The last two types mentioned, Burkett and Western Schley, were not put on competitive exhibition due to the fact that all Burkett and Western Schley are of such oneness in type and grade that it would have been difficult to select the best grades.

Of the three types which were put in competitive exhibition by Mr. Green, the Black Beauty, graded No. 3, and the Jenkins and Cauthen graded No. 4.

In a discourse at Waco, Mr. Green called attention to the fact that Coryell county is situated between the Brazos and the Leon Rivers, and due to that fact, we are placed in one of the best pecan localities in Texas.

Pecan growing is becoming one of the best industries in Coryell county, and one cannot stress too much the significance of the showing made by Coryell growers in Waco, Tuesday, and since it is the belief of many that it will be of interest to go farther in the origination of these pecan classes, a complete history of the Blanchard Pecan will appear in next week's papers.

For the first time, Russian boats are carrying foreign cargo.

Horses may be banned from all London streets.

Work On Municipal Auditorium Starts

Approximately 30 men start to work today on Gatesville's Auditorium, which has been approved by the WPA, with an expenditure of $12,000 covering both labor and materials.

This building will complete plans made four or five years ago for a structure of this sort, the present City Hall, Fire House, and other buildings that have gone up recently.

Proposed uses for this new auditorium are not definite, but it will be used for entertainments, public gatherings, and the various other uses buildings of this character are used for.

Approval has also been received from L. O. Shropshire, Chief Examiner of the Division of Projects and Plans, of the San Antonio WPA office for the Athletic Field, but so far no work order has been received according to Fred G. Prewitt, City Auditor. The appropriation on this project totals $8,786.00.

Mr. Prewitt stated yesterday he was expecting a work order on this job any day.

DID CORYELL COUNTIANS WANT A CIRCUS?

Yes!

With the passing of the Circus Wednesday of this week, we review the situation here on this day!

With a grand total of 3,139 paid admissions to the Circus on this date, and approximately 250 passes taken in at each performance you'll agree that Coryell county people were Circus minded. At least 3,639 Coryell Countians were.

In round figures, 1021 children were made extremely happy, saw sights they'd never dreamed of before, heard the roar of the lion, the side-show "barker" and all the romantic ideas and traditions that go to make up that world-wide institution, The Circus.

Also, 2,118 "children over 10 years of age" paid parts of the good old American dollar to see once again, the performers in the saw dust ring.

A number of merchants have informed us Wednesday, was their best, and to no one was it a black mark. Our belief is that every one went home that day with something they didn't bring them—a renewal of an old American custom—of "goin' to the Circus."

To the additional thousands who did not, for one reason or another, attend the Circus, the least we can wish for you is that you thoroughly enjoyed the day here in Gatesville, visiting, buying and meeting merchants, clerks, friends and others, who we hope made your day a festive occasion anyway.

The News' is glad to have been a part of this entertainment, furnishing exclusively, all publicity connected with this momentous occasion, which, we believe was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, except those few disgruntled individuals who do not enjoy anything—not even living.

Dusting the Covers of Texas History

The buzz of talking died down as the committee writing the assent of the Texans to annexation returned to the room. They had been gone only long enough to write the ordinance of acceptance. "Whereas the Congress of the United States of America has passed resolutions providing for the annexation of Texas to that Union, which resolutions were approved by the President of the United States on the first day of March, 1845 . . . we assent to and accept the proposals, conditions, and guarantees contained in the first and second sections of the resolution."

J. S. Mayfield jumped to his feet and made a motion that the resolution be adopted. A roar of "ayes" echoed in the room. On lone "NO!" was repeated several times. People turned to look at R. Bache, the delegate from Galveston. He had dared oppose such a tremendous thing! "And I give 'no' conscientiously," Bache kept repeating. Later, he affixed his signature along with the others, to the official document. The Northern Standard of Clarksville could not refrain commenting upon the fact that Mr. Bache was a grandson of Benjamin Franklin. "Old Ben's vote would have been different," the editor said.

The following August many visitors came to Galveston from New Orleans, curious about the Texas they had been hearing of for so long. Texans were overjoyed that they should already have visitors.

Celebrations were held throughout the Republic the rest of the summer. Magnolia blossoms decorated many a dance room, and ladies in all their finery attended balls where hilarity and jollity reigned.

The biggest affair of the summer was given as a complimentary ball to Commodore Stockton and officers of the United States squadron who were in Texas visiting. Tremont House in Houston was the scene for the fun and fellowship.

In churches, clubs, and homes grateful thanks were given for the hand that had guided a lonely Republic to a safe Statehood. A new era of good living and happiness was begun, and the unknown road that stretched down the years was a challenge to many who made Texas their home, and who pledged allegiance to the United States, and to respect its flag and its people, forever and ever.

Soon every town and village in the new State had a United States flag flying in the breeze alongside their Lone Star flags. Thus the fifth flag of a nation flew in protection . . . and today it still flies, ever a symbol of union and good will. In 1936 it will still fly during the observance of Texas Centennial.

V-8 LEADERSHIP

ON OCTOBER 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out, in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,369.00 for materials.

HOW'S YOUR ETIQUETTE?

What is poise in the social sense?

The assurance that comes from entering self-forgetfully into any situation instead of remaining an outsider looking on. It is mental balance, self-control. It prevents us from displaying bad temper or excessive mirth; it keeps us from making unnecessary and distracting movements, tappings, fingerings, and meaningless sounds, such as giggling; it stops us from being overhasty and therefore awkward; and it saves us from embarrassment when we suppose we are being noticed, and from other forms of self-consciousness.

Red Cross Drive to Be Staged Here Around Thanksgiving, Nov. 28

According to Brooks Sasse plans are being formulated for a membership drive to the local chapter of the Red Cross. It is probable that the drive will be staged, about Thanksgiving time.

It has been two years since the Red Cross called upon its friends in Coryell county to lend financial assistance. In the meanwhile that organization has done many worth things all of which have cost money. It is the right of those who gave to know what their money has gone for.

There was a child who was retarded in school and almost blind because of an affliction of the eyes. Glasses were needed. The parents were unable to provide them. There was no source from which they were to come. The Red Cross provided the funds with which glasses were supplied and the child has recovered from her difficulty.

About 1,000 school children were inoculated for diphtheria in 1932 in a drive sponsored by the Red Cross. That organization met a deficit of about $75 in the campaign. Perhaps a dozen lives were saved by the expenditure.

More than 2,000 took the typhoid vaccine last summer when the Red Cross sponsored a County-wide campaign. The response was not as great as it should have been thus the receipts were curbed while the overhead expense remained the same. The Red Cross met a deficit of about $200 on the typhoid campaign.

A World War veteran, sick and penniless, needed transportation to a government hospital. The local Red Cross furnished that transportation.

A breadwinner on the C. W. A. payroll fell ill. No provision was made for caring for the needs of his family and medical care for him. The Red Cross cared for medicine and grocery bill.

Three families of children had no clothing. Their parents had no money with which to buy apparel. They couldn't enter school. Winter was at hand. The Red Cross outfitted them with clothing.

Numerous cases of hungry individuals or families were cared for.

Such work has been done until the treasury of the local chapter is exhausted. A drive will be made to replenish the treasury so that other like

CANDY For CHRISTMAS

CHRISTMAS and candy are almost synonymous. There should be boxes and boxes of candy about at Christmas time, some of it in those beautifully lithographed tin boxes which can be kept and used as receptacles for ties, gloves, handkerchiefs, wool for knitting, sewing materials, cigarettes, manicure sets and all sorts of odds and ends that it is convenient to have segregated from the rest of the contents of a drawer and to be able to carry about with you.

But it's fun to make some of the candy yourself for Christmas—not only fun but it results in delicious varieties of candy which no regular manufacturer makes. You'll make a hit with this fresh made candy, so here are some recipes to show you how. Try this unusual

Fudge for Your Family

Double Chocolate Fudge: Melt four squares chocolate, add two cups sugar, one-half cup evaporated milk, one-half cup water and two tablespoons corn syrup, and boil to 236 degrees, stirring as little as possible but being careful mixture does not burn. Add two tablespoons butter and one-half teaspoon vanilla and cool to lukewarm. Add one-half cup cream fondant base (see following recipe, but any other good fondant will do) and beat until it can be taken up in the hands. Then knead smooth and press out onto a buttered plate. Cut in squares. Makes one and a quarter pounds. Add nuts, if desired, or it can be molded into balls or logs, rolled in coconut or a layer of it pressed into a pan and then covered with fondant or divinity.

Cream Fondant Base: Combine two cups sugar, two tablespoons light corn syrup, three-fourths cup evaporated milk, one-fourth cup water and a few grains salt in sauce pan, and heat until sugar is dissolved. Then boil gently to 238 degrees, keeping sides of pan wiped down with damp cloth and stirring only enough to prevent burning. Pour into a wet platter and let stand till lukewarm. Then work back and forth with a spatula until creamy. Add a few drops vanilla, take up in hands and knead until smooth and a light cream color. Use in making patties, balls, stuffing dates, etc., as you would any fondant.

Patties and Nuggets

Rum Patties: Cook three cups sugar, one cup evaporated milk and one-fourth cup light corn syrup to 242 degrees, stirring only enough to prevent burning. Add one tablespoon butter, and cool to lukewarm. Add three tablespoons rum and beat until creamy and light colored. Drop by spoonfuls onto buttered tins, making round patties. Press a walnut meat into each patty. Makes one and a quarter pounds.

Fruit Nuggets: Put one cup walnuts, thirty-two stoned dates and one cup canned moist coconut through food chopper, and add one-fourth cup condensed milk. Mix well and knead in hands until of uniform consistency. Form into small balls or nuggets and roll in one-half cup ground nuts. Makes one pound.

OYSTERS OFFER FOOD ELEMENTS AIDING HEALTH

We have learned in recent years that food, to provide for growth and well-being, must furnish certain mineral elements and substances called vitamins, in addition to the well-known protein, fat and carbohydrate. Foods grown on the land are apt to be lacking in one or another of the mineral elements, all of which, fortunately, are found in the sea and in the life of the sea.

Oysters have been shown by chemical analysis to contain more iodine, necessary to properly control the activity of the thyroid gland and prevent goiter, than most land foods; more iron and copper, necessary to produce good red blood, than any other natural food except liver, and other elements, the use of which in the body is as yet little understood.

The oyster has also been shown to be a good source of vitamins A, B, and G, all of which in proper amount must be had regularly to maintain growth and health. Animals have been maintained in full health and vigor for several generations on a diet of milk and oysters alone.

Hornets Play in Final Home Tilt This Afternoon

Bruised, stale, and crippled to a certain extent in general, the local Hornets will be playing their final at-home game of the season this afternoon at 3 o'clock when they meet a strong Eagle team from Valley Mills.

The Hornets splitting the two game series played last week with the Hamilton Bulldogs and the M. E. Home Badgers, are in a worse condition than they have been at any time this season.

Sonny Hair, stalwart local signal barker, played one of his best games of the season the past Monday week against Hamilton, but the game terminated with he as well as Culberson, not in the best of physical condition, and they could not get going against the Home Badgers the following Friday. Meyers is still nursing a leg injury, while the entire team is what we would say not ready for a contest.

Valley Mills with only one conference defeat, losing to Marlin by a score of 7-to-6, is said to be ready for the fray, and will be here with blood in their eyes to cop victory from the locals two consecutive years.

If the League permits Musolini to get away with the Ethiopian steal, it might as well reorganize as a knitting circle.—Indianapolis Star.

Cleburne 13, Corsicana 6.

Marlin 13, McGregor 6.

M. E. Home 13, Teague 0.

Gatesville 6, Valley Mills 0.

This afternoon the locals meet a fast team from Valley Mills. From information we have, the club plays something on the order of the Methodist Home Badgers, however, we are of the opinion the Badgers could defeat the Eagles. The Hornets will have their hands full, and do not be surprised if they are defeated.

In a letter from Coach Harold Jenkins of McGregor, he states the game between McGregor and Marlin has been changed from tonight, and will be played this afternoon, starting at three o'clock. McGregor can fix things up in a big way for Mart by defeating the Marlin club, but we are of the opinion that the Bulldogs will be wagging their tails after the contest as they have on two other conference occasions.

The M. E. Home team will play the Teague aggregation tonight in what promises to be a great game. Last week the Badgers defeated the locals 30-to-0, while Teague defeated the Masonic Home 25-to-0.

The Southwestern Conference teams are entering the semi-climax race this week end, as we find Baylor pitted against the Southern Methodist Ponies. Baylor is going into the game in a somewhat different manner than did the Arkansas Porkers against the Mustangs, and we're afraid they are going into the fray wrong. We would call it playing for breaks, or it could be called defensive playing. At any rate we will know more about that around six o'clock Saturday evening.

The game holding the spotlight Saturday is the game between Rice and the T. C. U. Horned Frogs. We are "guessing" Rice to defeat the Frogs merely because we believe T. C. U. hasn't been up against the opposition the Owls have had to face.

Pecan growers attention is called to the letter printed below which was received by the County Agent, Mr. Powell urges all who can to attend this meeting.

Belton, Texas, November 19, 1935

Mr. Guy Powell,

County Agent,

Dear Mr. Powell:

This is to advise that Sterling C. Evans, president of Houston Bank for Cooperatives, will meet with the Pecan Growers of Bell and surrounding counties at Belton on Friday, November 22, at 2:00 P. M. to assist them in working out plans whereby loans may be made on native pecans.

In view of the ridiculously low price which is being paid producers for this years' crop, I am sure you realize the importance of Friday's meeting and will arrange to have a number of your representative growers to attend.

Other prominent pecan men who are expected to attend this meeting are: Oscar Gray, H. G. Lucas, Jimmie Rosborough, Jack Shelton, Fred Brisson.

Trusting that we may have a good representation from your county, I am

Yours very truly,
E. Singleton,
County Agent,
Bell County.

PRUNES are PRICELESS

CANNED fresh prunes are not only called by some canners (who ought to know) "the best thing that was ever put into a can," but they are mighty accommodating about the ways in which they can be served. Beginning with breakfast, here are some of the ways:

Cracked Wheat with Canned Prunes: Bring two cups water and one-half teaspoon salt to boiling, add seven-eighths cup canned cracked wheat, and let boil directly over the fire for five minutes. Then cook over hot water for an hour and a half. Make the night before, and simply reheat in the double boiler in the morning. Serve with canned fresh prunes and top milk or cream. Serves four liberally

Keep the Children Happy

Another prune dish that will help to keep the children happy at breakfast is this

Compote of Figs and Prunes: Turn the contents of a 9-ounce can figs, one cup of canned fresh prunes and one-third cup water into a sauce pan and simmer gently for about fifteen minutes. Serve cold. Serves five, or four liberally.

Still another tempting breakfast dish is shredded wheat with canned fresh prunes and cream. The prunes should be left in the refrigerator over night, then poured, in the morning, over the shredded wheat which has been crisped in the oven. Cream may be whole, half or part evaporated milk.

TOOK OFF 17 LBS. OF UGLY FAT

HEEDED DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Mrs. Robert Hickey, Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in 6 weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossipers who said there was no safe way to reduce. She wisely followed her doctor's advice. Why don't YOU?

Get a jar of Kruschen to-day (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle). Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning. All druggists.

AAA CONTRACTS ON COTTON DUE

Washington, Nov. 19.—With details of the 1936 cotton adjustment program practically complete, AAA officials Tuesday said the new contracts should be in the field within two or three weeks.

An announcement of requirements of the contracts is expected within a few days.

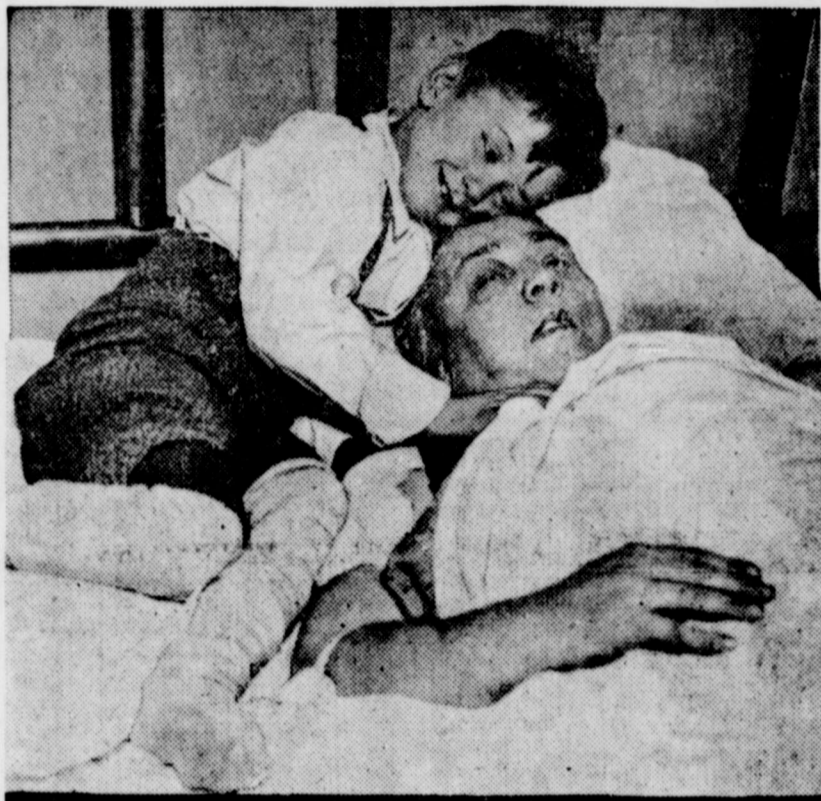

Contract signers who receive the subsidy of not more than 2 cents a pound on cotton produced this year under the Bankhead allotment must sign an agreement to participate in the 1936 program. The first subsidy payments, it was said, probably will be made in mid-December.

Officials asserted they expected the 1936 contracts to be in the field before any farmers are required to pledge co-operation in the program for next year.

More than 75,000 motorcycles have been registered in Australia this year.

Dog packs are killing cattle at night near Liverpool, Australia.

She Didn't Think of Herself

Joseph George, aged seven, tells grandma, Mrs. Bertha O'Brien, aged fifty-one, of Chicago, how much he loves her and how grateful he is for what she did. Grandma forgets the pain of a broken arm, a broken shoulder and several broken ribs, and is very happy. When a truck thundered down on the lad, Mrs. O'Brien, forgetting herself, leaped out, thrust him from the path of death and was struck herself. The boy was unhurt.

World Comment

WITHIN a few months American farmers will have the Supreme Court's decision on the Bankhead cotton control act. The justices have at last consented to pass on Gov. Eugene Talmadge's claim that the Federal Government exceeded its powers in attempting to regulate cotton production through ginning taxes.

Probably before the Georgia Governor's case receives a hearing the suit of a planter of our own state, Lee Moor, will be argued. Should the Court throw out or sustain the law in the Moor case, it may not be necessary for the Georgia case to be argued.

The Administration can be expected to make one of its hardest fights, comparable with the fight for NRA, to maintain the constitutionality and continuance of the cotton control law. And we believe it will be backed up by the several million farmers who have received benefits from reduction of acreage.

O. S. Ellingson of Sherman, assistant manager of the Texas prison system for three years, has been named manager to succeed the late Dave Nelson, who died at his Huntsville home last week.

Ellingson began his work with the prison system under Lee Simmons, who resigned to devote his time to his personal interests. Simmons was succeeded by Nelson, who had only been in office a few weeks.

Ellingson is expected to pursue a policy similar to that of Simmons, who reorganized the system during his incumbency and for the first time in history put the system on a paying basis.

Simmons stressed economy and discipline, but Nelson was planning to institute a new deal whereby the prisoners would receive more humane treatment and guards would be hired on their merits and not for political reasons.

IN HOUSTON this week are meeting four hundred of the Nation's leading businessmen, bankers and exporters, trade representatives of a dozen foreign countries, economists and officials of the Department of Commerce in a three-day program devoted to restoring America's lost foreign trade.

In the first day's meeting (Tuesday) speakers stressed the fact that without restored world commerce there can be no true recovery. It was pointed out that America's foreign trade dropped from $8,000,000,000 in 1920—the peak year—to $2,000,000,000 last year.

Texas economists stressed the importance of the state of regaining foreign markets for its cotton, wheat, rice, cottonseed oil and cake. In the last year it will be remembered that Texas has lost export markets for 2,250,000 bales of cotton.

Speaking of Texas' cotton exports the last year or so it has become increasingly evident that there is to be little recovery in this branch of our foreign trade. Our principal shipments of cotton have heretofore gone to the Orient, Russia, and South America. Now, Japan is fostering cotton production in the North China provinces which are now under the economic domination of the Nipponese; Russia is doing the same in the Siberian provinces (believe it or not) and in the Ukraine, while South American production has been increasing by leaps and bounds. Brazil's production last year totaled over 1,000,000 bales and is increasing annually.

Due to the Bankhead cotton control law, referred to above, Egyptian and South African exporters have been copping our markets in Europe and Russia. Japan remains our chief market for raw cotton but it rapidly seeking to become self sufficient by cultivating the nearby Chinese provinces. Japanese importations of raw cotton total nearly $150,000,000 annually, a large part of which comes from Texas.

This same cotton is shipped back to us in the form of cotton garments, which sell cheaper than cloth made by Texas and Southern factories. It's simply. Japanese laborers receive about 30c a day; American laborers $2 or $3.

Little Japan. Big China. But China is cut and bruised by civil war, poverty, factionalism, illiteracy, weak government.

In '98 it was Korea; in '32 it was Manchuria; in '35 its North China. In ? ? it will be what's left of China. Before the end of the week Japan is expected to establish an independent nation of North China under the protection of the Japanese Army. And China's leader, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, has approved the projected autonomous confederation of his country's five northern provinces after learning that the Japanese army would fight anyone interfering with the autonomy movement. And that's what the Chinese of these rich provinces were told. Either support the movement or—

Japanese newspapers say the new state will include the provinces of Hopeh, Shantung, Shansi, Chahar and Suiyuan, with a population of 100,000,000 and an area of 500,000 square miles.

The declaration of independence will outline these principles and aims:

Complete autonomy of North China.

Severance of all financial and economic ties with the Nanking Government.

Co-operation of the Japanese Army in the prevention of the spread of Communism.

Promotion of cordial relations among North China, Japan and Manchukuo.

When Japan took Manchuria and renamed it Manchukuo in 1932, Britain and the United States were promised free trade with the new state. Both countries had large investments in oil properties there and were happy to learn that they would be able to continue operating under the new regime.

Last year Japan clapped an oil monopoly on Manchuria and forced British and American operators to withdraw, selling their holding for 25 per cent of their normal, pre-Jap value.

It'll be the same thing in North China. Fortunately, American investments are of little value in this area but British holdings are enormous. Violent protests can be expected in Tokio from London when the doors of North China are commercially closed to Britain and British investors are driven out.

Washington has taken the only sensible course over the projected change of administration and extension of Japanese hegemony by saying there's little the world can do about it. The American people will not be duped into fighting Japan to protect British investments; indeed, there is no indication that the government would participate in a joint campaign with the British to curb Jap imperialism. State Department officials intimated the first of the week that not

LETTER FROM SENATOR POAGE

Waco, Nov. 19.—The last two days of the Second Called Session saw some real results as well as long hours and lots of hard work on the part of the members. When we finally adjourned at midnight Thursday night, we had passed a pension bill, an officers' fee bill, a liquor control and tax bill and a drivers' license bill. These are all matters about which there is such a wide difference of opinion that it is really remarkable that the two Houses were able to agree at all. I am sure that there are not ten men in your community who, if brought together, could agree on all of the details of any one of these four measures. You will, therefore, get some idea of the difficulty of getting fifteen times ten (the House) to agree on every point and then getting them to agree with thirty-one other men (the Senate) who have probably already decided among themselves just how the matter should be handled.

It is however, in this difficulty of agreement that we find the fundamental safety of our system of law-making. Of course, if each law-maker were perfect and knew just what was best and wanted to do the best, we would not need but one man. He would be able to give us better legislation in less time than any group of representatives could, but the history of the other has always shown that while Government by dictatorship is efficient, it is never long continued in the public interest, and the more power you centralize in a few hands, the more likely those custodians are to come under the influence of selfish interests, and these interests are very much present at every session of the Texas Legislature. They are some times represented by those seeking to secure some privilege for themselves or those they represent. They are some times seeking to create new offices simply that they and their friends may fill them. They some times want to build new State Institutions that their community will be benefited without regard to the needs of the State. But most often they are present seeking to prevent the imposition of any tax burden on themselves and often active advocates seek to impose the burdens on some one else. Most recently a large part of the special interests of lobby has devoted its efforts to the passage of a sales' tax, which, of course, if adopted, would shift the burden of Government support from the utilities, the oil companies, sulphur corporations, etc., to the man in the street or behind the plow. If these corporations can impose a sales' tax on the people they know that they themselves will not be threatened with any substantial increase in their present gross production or gross receipt taxes, but, if, on the other hand, they do not impose a sales tax to be paid by the people, they are going to have to pay the increased cost of Government from the tremendous profits that they have been making. For one, I welcome the show down, which, I believe, will come at the January Session, and if the people will but call on their Senators and Representatives during the next six weeks, and assure them that they, the people, will back them up in putting a tax on natural resources and utilities, we will see a complete change in our tax system. In the past, the State has confiscated your farms and small business every thirty years. By that, I mean, that each thirty years, the State has taken in taxes the full value of the property. Our people have continued to bear these burdens, but some of them are now wanting to know why the Sulphur Company and the major Oil Companies who take wealth from our soils and never replace it, should not pay some reasonable amount of taxes at the time they take these resources. They want to know why the light, power, gas and telephone companies who enjoy complete monopolies, under franchises granted by the people, should not contribute more largely to the support of the community that supports them. They want to know why it is necessary to levy a sales' tax to be paid entirely by the people of Texas thereby reducing the purchasing power in this State when we could levy a tax on resources that are sold in other States, and bring new money into Texas with which to run our Government rather than to impoverish our own people, and they are going to hear the answer in the January Session of the Legislature, and that answer will depend largely upon the interest that the people themselves take in the matter before the Session convenes.

But, returning to the Session just closed, we find that the liquor bill finally passed defines an "open saloon" as a place where liquor of more than 14 per cent alcoholic content is sold by the drink. It prohibits the saloon, but allows the sale of distilled liquors in unbroken packages in territory that was wet before the adoption of the prohibition amendment or that votes wet in the future. The vote may be had either on the motion of the Commissioners' Court or upon petitions signed by 10 per cent of the voters. The issuance of licenses is placed in the hands of a Liquor Control Board, who issue all kinds of permits and who have the right to forfeit licenses where the holder does not operate his place in conformity with the law. The tax on hard liquor is 80 per cent a gallon, which is considerably higher than some States, but materially lower than others, and is probably about the average amount collected throughout the United States. The bill makes the possession of more than one quart in dry territory prima facie evidence of possession for sale. It will, unquestionably, be some time before this set-up gets to working smoothly, but is hoped that it will provide a means whereby the people in territories desiring it may purchase liquor, and whereby some effective regulation may be maintained of the methods of sale in wet territory. It is estimated that this bill will produce three or four million dollars of revenue before the first of the year, as all liquor in the State must pay a tax before that time. Three-fourths of this money goes into the old pension fund and one-fourth into the public school fund.

The officers' fee bill is essentially like the bill I have already described, and provides that the Commissioners' Court, in all Counties of more than 20,000 and in those counties of less than 20,000 where they may locally abolish the fee system, shall fix the salary of the County Officials at an amount not to exceed the maximum not to exceed the maximum (Continued on Last Page.)

Assembly

We had Assembly meeting Tuesday morning. Miss Newton came up and sang two solos for us, "When I'm Too Old to Dream," and "Nobody's Darling But Mine." Then some of the pupils gave some readings and a short dialogue. The whole school sang some songs.

First and Second Grades

All sixteen of the beginners are very thrilled over their little book, "Bob and Nancy and Their Pets." They are advancing rapidly in their arithmetic, several being able to count and write to one hundred not only by one's but by two's, five's and ten's. The primary teacher is very proud of the way in which her little beginners are advancing in art. They are most interested in the rhythm band, the period for which they look forward each day. They are now working on their first song "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star."

The second grade has begun a new book in which they are very interested. They are now working very hard in their speed tests in addition and subtraction. Like the first grade they are advancing rapidly in art, and they are very busy with the comparison of words in English. The second grade was honored by an invitation from the principal, Mr. Anderson, to attend the chapel program and play for them in their Rhythm Band, "Jack and Jill." Joe Sellers Culp, member of the first grade, represented his class in chapel with a piece entitled, "Bein' A Boy." They are now indulged in reading their library books. Several have finished five books this last week. They hope to read twenty more, so they can receive a reading certificate.

Both the first and second grades received their photographs last Tuesday, which they have been expecting several weeks. They are going to cherish these photos to remember their first years in school. They did excellent in their Standard Tests which they took last week.

Perfect Attendance for Fourth Grade

The fourth grade has had perfect attendance for two weeks.

Indian Unit

The Third and Fourth grades are studying a unit on Indians and everyone is making an Indian Book.

Natalie Lovejoy made a very attractive Indian head dress. Donifa Strickland and Bonalyn Garrett made some nice Indian pottery out of clay. A large number of boys have made some good bows and arrows. Wesley Russell and Wendell Evetts have found some real Indian arrows. Others are still working on their Indian projects. Everyone in the class has chosen an Indian name.

Reading Contest

A very interesting contest has been started in the Third and Fourth grade reading classes. An animal was chosen to represent each pupil in a race. If one does not miss a word in reading, then his animal gains a mile. The first one that gains twenty-five miles wins the race, and gets a prize.

Pupils Strive to Get Reading Certificates

It is the desire of every Third and Fourth grade pupil to get a reading certificate. If twenty books are read during

Senior Party

Seventy Seniors attended the Senior Party last Friday night. Games were played following a get-acquainted circle. The games ended with the "Rats" as winners. After the games a debate was staged. The question: Resolved that a peanut race is more exciting than a potato race.

Joe Hal English's pet rat caused a great of excitement among the weaker sex at two intervals after which Mr. Williams stopped the fun. It is reported that after the party the said rat went to the highest bidder at 13c.

Soon refreshment time came and partners were chosen by a very clever method. The delicious refreshments consisted of hot cocoa, sandwiches and cakes.

Mrs. Reesing acted as hostess for the affair.

Reception

Friday evening at 7 o'clock a reception was given in the gymnasium for the band, pep squad, faculty, and football boys of both the Methodist Home and Gatesville High School. It began with a game for everyone to get acquainted. Some of them were not strangers to us. Mr. Johnson and daughter were among those who we were glad to see. Miss Edna Murray and Miss Gladys Blankenship were also here.

Belva McCoy, Helon Chamlee and Nelle Goodall, the High School trio, sang "Thrilled," "Who Walks in When I Walk Out," and "Sweet Sue." The numbers were greatly enjoyed by everyone.

We played many more contests and games.

Refreshments of hot chocolate and cookies were served to the large crowd by the Home Economics Club. Everyone had a very enjoyable time.

Band

Last year Band was affiliated with the State Department of Education as a regular course of study and now is one of the most popular courses in High School.

With Mr. Diserens as instructor, thirty-three students are registered for the course and meet each day at the third period for instrumentation work. Nineteen of these are taking the course for the first time while fourteen are old band members the school year, one may be secured. Practically everyone in the class has already read several books.

Fifth and Sixth Grade

The Fifth and Sixth grades have organized their room into a city, with their teacher acting as Mayor. They have the health officer whose duty it is to conduct the morning inspection, the traffic officer who sees that there are not feet out in the aisles; then there is the street department, the stove monitor, and the care taker of the windows who has to keep the windows and shades adjusted properly.

Ninth and Tenth Grades

Then Ninth and Tenth grades have an enrollment of eighteen students. Eleven are of the ninth grade. They are all working very hard to make this term of school a successful one. They are well pleased with their new principal, Mr. Anderson.

The typing classes started last week and judging from the enthusiasm displayed there should be some expert typists by the close of school.

We are taking sip week examinations, now.

Thanksgiving Program

On Tuesday, November 26, at 7:30 p. m. a Thanksgiving program will be presented in the Pidcoke School Auditorium. Everyone is invited to attend.

and will receive one outside credit for this year.

This year the band uses the stage of the new gymnasium for practice work. The size and arrangement of the stage give a better acoustical effect to the music and makes the band sound much better than in a small room.

According to Mr. Diserens, the instrumentation is more balanced this year than last. This is due to the fact that there are two bass players this year where heretofore there was only one and plenty of drummers. In addition to the two basses and five drummers, there are seven cornets (trumpets), three trombones, two saxophones, one tenor horn, one melophone, and twelve clarinets.

The new members are progressing rapidly after nine weeks work and are able to play along with the old members of the band. Several new numbers have been ordered and at an early date the band will present a program in chapel.

The band uniforms consist of black trousers or skirts, black and gold capes and black and gold caps, corresponding with the school colors of black and gold.

The band has advertised each football game this year by marching through town and along with the pep squad has lent valuable support to the Hornet team at the ball games.

The Roof

For the past three or four days, men have been working on the roof fixing the leaks. It only took a short while to fix the roof, but it should stand for some three or four years. The walks have also been replastered.

While this has been going on men have also been at work filling cracks around the doors and windows to keep the wind from blowing through. This work is just done on Saturdays and will go on for three or four weeks.

Debate Club

During the last meeting of the Debate Club, which was on Monday morning, six new boys' teams and four new girls' teams were organized. Half of these are on the affirmative side and half on the negative.

During the next meeting, Danny McClellan, taking the affirmative side, and Earl Scott taking the negative side, will debate on the state question.

Sometime in January the team is going to hold a Debate Tournament and will invite several schools to take part in this.

It is interesting to know that nearly all of the members of this year's Debate Club are Freshmen and Sophomores. There are no members from last year in it.

Mr. Thompson

Mr. Thompson was born in Hill county Texas. He was graduated from Brandon High School in 1920. During the summer, 1931, he received his B. S. Degree from Teachers College, Denton, Texas. He has also completed one year's work toward his M. A. Degree. This was in Bacteriology at the University of Texas. In 1929 and 1930, he taught in Roanoke Public Schools, Denton county. Later he taught in Cashion consolidated Schools, Wichita county, 1930-1931.

F. F. A. News

Mr. W. D. Cunningham, Superintendent of the local C. C. Camp, spoke to the F. F. A. Club Thursday morning on "Conservation of The Soil in Coryell County."

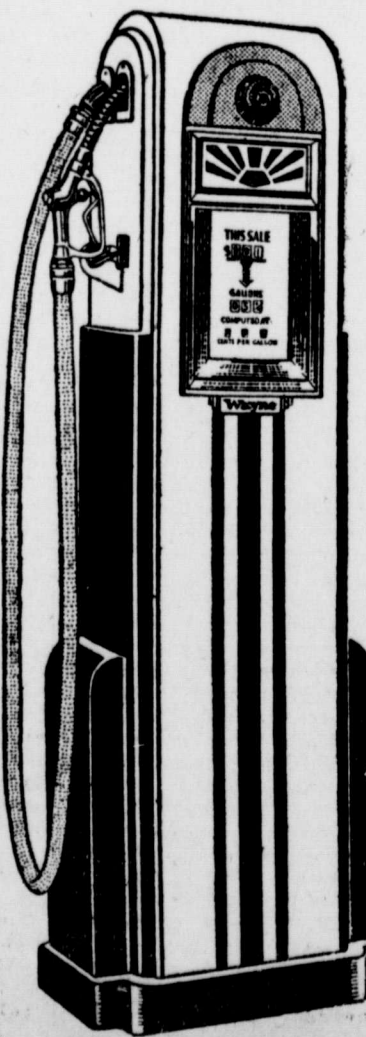

Mr. Cunningham stated that the greatest problem facing the American farmer today is the conservation of the soil. He also stated that unless the farmer conserves the soil that land now hard to cultivate will be less productive and twenty times as hard to cultivate in twenty years as it is now.

"Terracing is an important item in soil conservation, but not necessary on all farms" said Mr. Cunningham. "If a farm has as many as three gullies, it generally needs terracing. Slopes of from three to six per cent are generally terraced, while slopes below this

A Series of Brief Discussions on Driving, Dedicated to the Safety, Comfort and Pleasure of the Motoring Public, Prepared by General Motors

No. 6—POWER AND SPEED

Most of our motor cars will go so much faster than we ever care to drive them, that no doubt people often wonder why so much speed is built into them in the first place. Of course, automobiles aren't built with the idea of pleasing the manufacturer or the engineer or the salesman. They're built to suit the men and women who are going to own and drive them. And there are certain things that people do insist on in their cars. It happens that some of those things are of such a nature that when the engineers provide them, an ability to go fast just naturally results.

For instance, nearly everybody likes to get going as promptly as possible. Now that's just a matter of the power we have in our engine and how our car is geared.

Then there's the business of hill-climbing. That may not mean as much in some localities as in others, but cars have to be built to suit us whether we live in Maine or Florida, Iowa or California—wherever we may live and wherever we may want to go.

Engineers tell us that they could build a fairly low-powered car that would pull us up the steepest hill. But if they did, they would have to gear it so low that when we got over the top and onto a level stretch, we could only go crawling along at a rate that wouldn't satisfy even the most conservative drivers.

But perhaps the most important reason for having our power what it is in modern cars, is a matter that many of us have never considered. We all know what happens to us, when we, ourselves, are going at high pressure all the time, either physically or mentally. A person can work 12, 14 or 16 hours a day, but we know we get along best when we don't tax our last reserves of energy all the time.

In the same way, anybody who has ever run machinery knows that if you keep it going at full capacity and full speed day-in-and-day-out, you're just multiplying the chances of a breakdown, sooner or later.

And that's how it is with a car. By building in the ability to run at high speed, engineers make it practical to run at reasonable speed. If our car can go seventy, eighty or maybe even more miles an hour, then it won't have to strain to go thirty-five, forty, or somewhat faster if circumstances demand. So we can drive it along at sensible speeds hour after hour, day after day, without over-working it.

When we stop to think about it, lots of things are built with that added safety margin. Elevators in our office buildings could carry far heavier loads than the weight of all the people they can hold. So could modern bridges. The steel girders of our buildings, the rails under our trains—in fact, any number of things we depend on day-by-day—are much stronger than they really have to be. They all have that extra margin of protection.

So with our cars, what we have to remember is that speed is simply a by-product of power. We can use that power unwisely, or we can use it sensibly and get better performance and dependability as the result. Manufacturers can't decide that. It's all up to us.

SCHOOL NEWS

average are generally controlled by strip cropping and slopes above are generally better for pasture land.

The majority of the farmers in Coryell county are waiting to see what the farmer across the fence intends to do. It we thoroughly understand this problem, we would see the great possibilities of soil conservation as an aid to his vocation.

After the talk, a roundtable discussion was held and Mr. Cunningham answered all the questions asked by the students. He thoroughly convinced the majority of the club that soil conservation is a great asset to farmers in Coryell county.

Campus Lowdown

Streetcar Turner is tooting a horn in the band this year—you're darn tootin'. Red McCoy is one of the best dressed gals on the campus. Look alike: Emil Lee and John Boles—well anyway both of them have a mustache—at least they did until Emil shaved his off. Suppose John Boles will too. Charlotte Rivers spends a large part of her spare time studying and her report cards show it. One word description of James Hair—Chesty. Bob Thomas and Helon Chamlee are romanticizing—oh well, why not Joe Tally Rickett's oil business (burnt oil) is so rushing that he doesn't have time to come to school. Danny McClellan winner of 500 smacks in a slogan contest is on the falling list. Eddie McDonald is chasing after the pert Junior from Mound, Alma Blanchard. Mollie Bell-A Brasher added the A to her second name only after entering G. H. S.—Who cares? Fred Byrom is an ardent fan of the Temple Wildcats and for several reasons. That rumor about some studes getting booted out of G. H. S. was only a rumor. Baba Holt once edited a weekly tennis paper, the Racquetteer. Miss Scott thinks Tom L. Robinson would look better in a football suit. The trophy of the Armistice Day game is again in possession of dear ole G. H. S. The cowbell should have been given Tince Franks. If you know what we mean.

Cracks From the Campus

Belva McCoy: I am not one of those thin-skinned persons. I'm first to laugh at my own foolishness.

Frances McCoy: What a merry life you must lead!

A short story by E. T. Mayes:

I gazed into her dark and glowing eyes. Her lips were saying those three wonderful words I had waited for so long. I could not believe it and yet it was true. Again she said, fulfilling the dream of my life. "No geometry assignment."

Clara Owen: What would you do if the teacher didn't like the way you do experiments, and bawled you out?

Helon Chamlee: I'd hand him a hot retort.

Grandfather: Nowadays I never see a girl blush. In my day it was different.

Jack Hearn: Why, Grandpa! What on earth did you tell them?

Bob Thomas was an enthusiastic dancer, but awkward. Eloise Cook was light as a feather.

Bob: My but you are a graceful dancer. I wish I were in your shoes.

Eloise: Nice of you, but would you mind not trying to get in them until after this dance?

Sonny Hair: What's that you have?

BaBa Holt: Insect powder.

Sonny: What! Don't tell me you are going to commit suicide!

Bruce Bomar: Imagine the indignity of being a cornstark and having your ears pulled by a farmer.

Bertha Lillian Stewart: But think of the discomfort of a potato, with its eyes full of dirt.

Dramatic Club to Present Play "The Trysting Place" is the play chosen to be the first presentation of the '35 Dramatic Club which is under the sponsorship of Miss Martha Lawrence. Ethel Weigand, Jack Hestilow, Frances McCoy, Norman Painter, Fred Byrom and Erle Powell compose the cast for the play. Rehearsals will start soon and it will be presented in Chapel.

Hornets Helpless Before Onslaught of Badgers

Flashing a stalwart defense that never once allowed the Hornets to get in scoring position and a crashing offense that worked well enough to ring up five touchdowns, the fast, hard charging Methodist Home Badger Eleven ran rampant to take an impressive win from the futilely battling Hornets 30-0. Early in the first quarter the fray seemed to be a toss up but the Badgers took charge and shoved their superiority till the last whistle. Fighting gamely, the Hornets never gave up the ship but the deceptive attack of the could not be halted. Although the score was rather one-sided, both elevens used laterals and deceptive plays and the game was interesting.

Hornets-Valley Mills in Tilt This Afternoon

The hard charging, fast moving, well coached Hornets will meet the Valley Mills eleven here this afternoon in an important conference fray. Valley Mills comes to the home of the Hornets with a good record and are expecting a victory, yet the pupils Coach Earle Worley are ready for their match and Valley Mills may take a licking. There are hardly any cripples on the Hornet squad and all in all the Worley men are in good physical condition. The game will start at 3:00.

"My Farm, My Country, My Rural Life"

There is a beauty which makes men remember what they need to know, that out of the quiet, simple things the real riches of life may come. This is a remembrance that is golden—golden with its echoes of a beauty that does not fade, golden with its suggestion that the values of the soul lie in those simplicities which the richest cannot buy, yet the poorest need not lack.

At home, in the country, where this beauty is found, one might stand at the evening time and, like a fisherman casting his line for what to him is a beauty, look and see, in one direction, a wide tract of woods with its different hues of green, in the other long sloping meadows with their green mounds dotted here and there by the farmers' favorite horses or whatever it may be that he treasures most in livestock. Always something.

And at night, if one might watch from some slight altitude, one might see the moon flooding the quiet hills, the rose plots and the lawns, caught in a spell of utter silence beneath that magic of the moon, written on here and there by the cabalistic black shadows of trees.

Then you may sleep and dream, dreams that will wake you with a start, and again you will look on this beautiful scene and continue watching. You can see the Silver Ship of the moon dip down at last and disappear into its harborage beyond that level sea of quiet forest to the west, and turning eastward see the golden galleon of the sun lift its crimson sails above the shining river. As the dawn breaks and the first breezes of the morning begin to stir, the exhalations of the dew rises from the gardens, birds twitter in the trees, and all the earth seems to breathe again, as when a sleeper wakes to face the beauty of the day.

Once you have been here you will want to return to seek again that loveliness which clothes the place as with a mystic garment, and to listen for the still voice which speaks a message wiser than any words, and to relax and enjoy these scenes of beauty.

The South has its pine trees, the West has its sagebrush. Here, in the country, there are no pine trees, neither is there any sagebrush. We live only in our own paradise. A Farmers' Paradise!

The new leaves on the trees in the Spring are like a crystal ball. One can gaze into them and imagine that he sees a bright future ahead for himself. Thus, the farmer, in the Spring, looks forward to a bountiful harvest, and if he should, be some act of providence, be deprived of his expectations, in the Autumn, when he harvests his grain, he will set his teeth and start anew; for each new year brings forth some unexpected thrill that puts happiness into any farmer's heart and life.

It is Spring! A new era of the year dawns. And look, "The morn, in russet mantle clad, walks o'er the dew of yon high eastern hill." The Sun, the beauty of the Spring, has risen. It sheds the seven colors of its rays upon the earth; and the earth in turn, reflects and displays them iridescent so that all mankind may look upon them with pleasing eyes, and enjoy the thoughts they put into his mind. Alas, for those who are unable to witness these scenes of beauty.

Make up your mind to be on the watch for something which will give you a new tang of enjoyment, something which will make you stop and say, "I never noticed that before," or "I never knew it, but that really is beautiful." You can surely do that in the country, where you can see trees, and wheat fields waving in the wind, or the yellow shocks of corn in the autumn haze, and the blue line of distant hills. (Continued on Page 7.)

CHAPTER 4

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

A lady known as Swan, a girl of great attraction at the Bella Donna, worst gambling den or san Francisco's Barbary Coast, during the Gold Rush days. Swan, who was the former Mary Rutledge, of Gramercy Park, New York City, meets and falls in love with Jim Carmichael, a young prospector. She conceals her true identity from him. A miser, protesting the crooked tables at the Bella Donna, is shot and killed. The better citizens are up in arms.

THE SWAN

Swan walked glumly up to the bar at the Bella Donna. "Hey, Dirty," she yelled to the bartender. "I want a drink. A big one." "Where were you all this time?" Chamalis demanded. "I was worried about you." Swan stared into her glass. "I was riding—in Gramercy Park." "What are you talking about? There ain't no Gramercy Park around here." "I guess you're right," Swan sighed. "Say, what's the matter with you? What happened?" "Horse ran away. Got soaked. Walked back a thousand miles—to you." "You're lying," Chamalis snarled. "Not very much," she answered. Chamalis caught her wrist. "I promised you what I'd do if I ever caught you lying—you and your white grin. Don't grin at me like that. You're lying to me. I can see it. What are you hiding?" Swan caressed the back of his head. "Nothing—very much. I've had a lovely, innocent little day, Louis; riding in the rain—thinking about you." And she turned away to the bartender. "Send a bottle to my room," she said. . . .

"Meanwhile, Jim had made his way to the wharf, and now stood peering into the fog at the Flying Cloud, barely visible, which was to carry him and his fortune back to New York, to Gramercy Park, to the 'lamb kidneys with wine sauce for breakfast.' A sea-faring man accosted him. It was the Captain of the 'Flying Cloud,' with the information that the vessel would not sail for several days because of the fog.

There was nothing for Jim to do but to seek lodging and diversion until the ship should be ready to sail. The ever-present Old Atrocity volunteered to take him to a place where he could get a good meal.

The place was the Bella Donna. As usual, Swan's table was the center of attraction, with drunken prospectors crowding and fighting for the privilege of losing their money to her blue eyes.

It was this scene that confronted Jim as he entered.

"What is she doing here?" he demanded of Old Atrocity.

"Lady known as Swan," Old Atrocity chuckled. "Brought her here myself, about a year ago. Mr. Chamalis won her exclusive services for the Bella Donna."

Jim gulped his drink hastily. "Did she ever live on a ranch?" Old Atrocity roared. Jim poured another drink.

"Well," he said, "I guess the joke is on me." And he yelled at the top of his lungs:

"Hey, waiter, fill that up again! Can you see from here whether she has snakes in her hair?"

Black and Red

Swan, attracted by the noise, turned to stare at the newcomer. She showed no emotion. Jim continued to drink heavily. Finally he staggered over to the table.

"The kisses of her bought red mouth red mouth were sweet," he quoted drunkenly.

"Make your play, gentlemen," said Swan quietly.

Jim raised his glass. "Let's drink together, men, to James Carmichael, the dumbest jackass that ever came hee-hawing into San Francisco!"

"Put up your money, you," said Swan icily, "or get out."

Jim dumped a bag of gold on the table.

"On black," he said, "the color of a woman's heart." Swan spun the ball. "Fourteen on the red. . . ."

"You lose this time, son," said Old

Atrocity. "but at first you don't succeed, try again."

"Place your bets, gentlemen," Swan called out. "Place your bets."

And addressing herself to Jim, who was still laughing, she said:

"Had enough, you?" Jim laughed more loudly than ever and flung his whole pile on the table.

"Two on the black." The ball rolled its fateful course.

"Two on the red," Swan called out. Jim had lost all. He raised his glass.

"Here you are, to Madam Swan and to Galahad, the pure in heart. Some day the black will win and the harpies will weep."

Knuckles moved forward and placed his hand on Jim's arm. "Don't get excited, feller," he warned.

"Let him talk," said Swan with a tigerish expression that was almost a snarl. "The customer's always right!"

Overcome with liquor, Jim slumped to the ground.

"Take him away," said Chamalis. And with the help of Old Atrocity, Knuckles hauled the victim unceremoniously out of the room.

Swan hardly glanced in their direction.

"Make your play, gentlemen," she said quietly to the other players. "make your play. . . ."

Swan drank heavily that night. She was still drinking in her dressing room when Chamalis entered to congratulate her on the night's play.

"You did yourself proud tonight," Chamalis said. "Nearly a hundred thousand. Anything particular you want to buy?"

"Yes," Swan answered without turning. "Horses that won't run away."

Chamalis shook his head. "I don't like to see you drink." "Oh, you don't?" Swan answered and poured herself another drink.

When Chamalis offered her her share of the night's winnings she rejected it violently.

"What's it all about, Swan?" Chamalis asked.

"It's about a willow tree and a hoop," Swan said.

"You been drinking the wrong liquor, honey. You don't make sense."

Swan turned to him with a scream. "Get out! I don't want to talk to you, or anybody else! Get me alone. Get out and take your money with you!"

Chamalis scratched his head and picked up the money. Swan had completely collapsed.

"I don't argue with ladies when they're drunk," Chamalis said, in complete confusion. "They get too foolish. . . ."

No Complaints

. . . It was early dawn at the Bella Donna. The gambling hall was empty. Menials were at work cleaning out the place. On the floor near the kitchen, Jim lay outstretched, sleeping off the effects of last night's liquor.

He awoke to find Chamalis, Knuckles and Old Atrocity regarding him contemptuously. Knuckles prodded him with his foot, and he rose to his feet unsteadily.

"Are my burros outside?" he asked.

"No, they ran away," Old Atrocity answered.

Jim groaned. "Very interesting city."

He examined his feet with mock surprise.

"Oho! I still have my shoes! How did that happen?"

Knuckles towered over him. "Any complaints?" Jim beamed.

"No, no. No complaints. Wisdom was never bought at so cheap a price."

He bowed expansively at his audience.

"Gentlemen, I don't want to depress you with my problems, but is there any way for the shorn lamb to earn enough money for his passage home? A shorn lamb of infinite accomplishments—and a mass of great personal charm."

His gay manner caught the fancy of Chamalis.

"I like the way he talks," he said to Knuckles.

"I don't," Knuckles said scowling. "Nobody asked you. Give him something to do."

And he walked away. Knuckles, who was less than charmed, turned a fierce face to the grinning youngster. He pointed to a row of cuspidors in front of the bar. "Get busy with those," he barked. "You mean those cuspidors," Jim inquired, staring.

"We call them spittoons, and we like them shiny."

COMPLETE COLD WEATHER MEALS WITH FRUIT DESSERTS

In order to keep fit in winter it is essential to include liberal servings of fruit in the diet. One of the easiest and most satisfying ways is fruit desserts. You will find them economical and inexpensive.

STEAMED PINEAPPLE PUDDING

Sift together 1 1/2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, one fourth teaspoon salt. Add three fourth cup liquor consisting of the syrup from an 8-ounce can of pineapple tidbits and sufficient water to make the required amount. Add 2 table-spoons melted butter. Beat 2 egg whites stiff, add 3 table-spoons sugar and fold into the batter. Fill individual molds half full of the batter, add 2 or 3 tidbits to each and cover with the remaining batter. Steam 30 minutes. Serve with the following sauce:

Sauce: Mix 1/2 cup sugar with 2 teaspoons flour and add 1 one-third cups water or pineapple syrup. Boil till clear and thickened and pour over puddings.

PINEAPPLE AND DATE PUDDING

Two-third cup cooked white cereal, 3 three-fourth cups water, 1teaspoon salt, one-third cup chopped dates, 2 cups canned crushed pineapple, 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg.

Heat the water in the top of a double boiler until boiling; add the salt and slowly add the cereal, stirring constantly. Cook over the flame until the mixture begins to thicken. Add the chopped dates, place over boiling water and cook for 15 minutes. Cream the sugar and butter until well blended. Add the beaten egg. Mix well. Add the crushed pineapple and cooked cereal. Return the mixture to the double boiler and cook over boiling water for 5 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Top with whipped cream.

PRUNE ICE CREAM

Two-third cup sweetened condensed milk, 2 cups water, one-fourth teaspoon lemon extract, 1 cup whipping cream, one-fourth pound prunes

Cook the prunes in the water until tender. Do not sweeten. Force through a coarse sieve. This will make approximately one-half cup pulp and one-half cup juice. Blend together the sweetened condensed milk, prune pulp with juice and lemon extract. Chill. Whip the cream to a custard-like consistency and fold into the chilled mixture. Pour the mixture into the freezing pan and place in the freezing unit. After the mixture has frozen to a stiff mush remove from the refrigerator. Scrape the mixture from the sides and bottom of the pan and beat for 2 minutes. Smooth out and replace in the freezing unit for 1 hour or until frozen for serving.

ON WASHING THE WASHING MACHINE

Just as the dust mop has to be dusted, so does the washing machine have to be washed! And here is an easy, safe way to remove those "Monday accumulations" of hard water marks, soap suds, and scum from your washing machine. Sprinkle the stained surface with that safe, quick acting cleanser made with sodium bicarbonate. It doesn't scratch and it is a cleansing agent which safely cleans and polishes any washable surface. Rub gently until all stains are chased away, then rinse and dry—and behold your immaculate, spick-and-span clean washer will be washed as thoroughly and as painstakingly as are your finest household linens!

Byrd Cows at National Dairy Show

It was 60 degrees below zero outside when this picture was taken in the cow barn at Little America—120 degrees colder than it was in St. Louis when the Byrd expedition Guernseys and their herdsman, Edgar J. Cox, arrived for the National Dairy Show.

ST. LOUIS—The world's first and only Antarctic dairy herd holds the spotlight at the 1935 National Dairy Show.

The Byrd expedition's two hardy Guernsey cows and the young bull, Klondike Iceberg, born in the South Sea ice packs, are here with Edgar J. Cox, Byrd herdsman and ship's carpenter. With them is a quarter-size model of the barn used at Little America.

Cox's dramatic story of how he brought the animals through an Antarctic winter suggests that his pride is divided between the Guernseys and the barn he built to protect them from 70 degrees-below-zero cold.

One Quart a Man

As an ex-farmer he enjoys telling how the cows furnished a quart of fresh milk a day for every man at Little America, although many dairymen said cows could not survive. He smiles when small boys try to feed young Iceberg a fistful of grass, a food the little bull never saw until it was over a year old.

With some diffidence, he admits he helped convince leaders of the expedition that cows could be wintered in the Antarctic and tells how the fresh milk supply bolstered Admiral Byrd's impaired health after his solitary vigil at the expedition's advance weather base.

As a builder, Cox is prouder of his barn than he would be of a mansion. Built in the Jacob Ruppert's hold during the voyage to Little America, the barn afforded the cows greater protection than Admiral Byrd had in his special hut at the advance weather base, according to Cox.

"Barn Best Building"

Speaking of the barn, he says—"The barn was the only building at Little America in which there was no trouble with moisture on the walls and ceiling. Two layers of Celotex insulation enabled us to maintain temperatures 60 degrees or more above that of the outside air. When it was 30 below outside, it was about 30 above inside the barn. When the temperature dropped to 70 below outdoors, it was 10 above, or a trifle less, inside."

Cox believes his experience in handling cows under Antarctic conditions has provided valuable information on wintering dairy herds in this country, and on methods of insulating dairy barns.

Exercises in talking should proceed slowly from simple to complex. Imitation of good speech is essential.

Self-confidence must be aroused. Fear, emotional excitement and nervousness attending speech must be avoided. Great tact is called for at all times.

More of these valuable suggestions in Dr. Ireland's next article.

SCHOOL NEWS

and the great arc of the smokeless sky.

If it is true that what has been ugly before may change through some unexpected revelation into beauty, so also it is true that things which we have long known to be beautiful may grow more and more so as continued contemplation invests them with thoughts and memories which make them lovely, not only to the eye, but to the Spirit also.

So come to the Country, And have a good time, It will hold all your thoughts, And all down the line, You can think of these things, Which were a Beauty to you, And if you never return, You will always be blue.

—Norman W. Painter.

Basketball

Under the direction of Mr. Ewing, who was retained as Coach of the team, some seven or eight men started practice

Monday, November 18, in hope again winning the basketball title in which they so beautifully won last year.

So few candidates reported because all the rest of the men are out on the football squad, and after Thanksgiving Mr. Ewing says he expects about eight more men to report for practice. Herbert is the only letterman out for the team so far.

Assembly

In the assembly on Tuesday morning we were entertained with a very delightful musical program presented by a few of the C. C. C. boys. We also had with us Mr. Lockhart, educational instructor of that camp. Two Spanish numbers were sung by two Mexican boys.

Personals

A few of the teachers will attend the State Teachers' Convention in San Antonio.

Edwin McDonald was seen scouting around in Waco Saturday.

We are all sorry to hear that Jack Reesing is ill and confined to his bed.

Flash! We all hear that Miss Kinsey has a sprained ankle.

Coach Worley and Mr. Thompson took off a day Saturday and went pecan hunting. Annie Ruth Witt and Eloise Cook were Waco visitors Saturday.

Can it be that Joe Baker and Pat Bone went hunting Sunday?

Of course we are glad to hear that Mary Ann Post is back in school after a long illness.

Jack Hestlow and John Frank Post are preparing to see the Temple-Waco game this afternoon.

The school was paid a visit not very long ago by Elizabeth Ann Ward, a former resident of Gatesville.

Gville Grammar School

On Monday, November 18, Mr. Frank L. Williams, Superintendent of the Gatesville Schools, made a very interesting talk on the subject of the Prodigal Son, to the first, second, and third grades.

Mr. Shelton, Elementary School Principal, stated the fact that it has been estimated by Walter H. Gaumintz of the United Office of Education, that rural school districts maintain approximately two hundred and fifty schools with an average of one pupil each, 750 with an average of two pupils, fifteen hundred with an average of three pupils, two thousand two hundred and fifty with an average of four pupils and nearly eight thousand schools with an average of five pupils each.

MAPLE SCHOOL NEWS

School activities are very lively at present. There has been installed on the playground, swings, see-saws and other things for the amusement of the pupils. The enjoyment of this equipment is appreciated very much.

There has been a lighting system installed by the Dramatic Club and everyone is happy to have pool lights, together with a new stage and equipment for the school.

The Seventh grade English Club gave an interesting program last Friday afternoon on helps toward better English work. The ninth grade English Club will entertain with a similar program next week.

A short Thanksgiving program is being prepared for Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving.

Many of the pupils have been interested in setting out rose bushes and other flowers.

The following from the primary department were on the honor roll the past month:

Second grade; Gail Altum.
Third Grade; Bettie Franklin,

Erma Lee Lindaver, Margie Fain, Virginia Greenway.

The primary department has been very interested in a cured collection. Their museum is very interesting to view. Their poster work is in splendid arrangement, on health, cotton, and other subjects.

The intermediate Department has been very busy in poster work.

The high school pupils are busy with exams this week. Be sure to hear their barn yard orchestra to be presented at school programs. Don't forget the exclusive musical program Monday night, November 25.

CHILDREN WITH SPEECH DEFECTS—1

Probably nine out of ten cases of speech defect—stuttering and the like—in children are curable. They all need attention, however, since very few ever recover spontaneously.

Many will become worse if neglected. Special treatment is not indicated in every case, in fact the teacher with the cooperation of the parents will be able to bring about a marked improvement for the majority. The chief essentials are patience and sympathetic understanding. Suggestions to parents and teachers are as follows:

Attention to general health is important; fresh air, play, nutrition, sleep, assist in reducing nervousness.

Teach proper breathing. Slow steady inhalations; full expansion; and slow, steady exhalations.

Insist upon slow speech. If a pupils stammers, have him stop talking for a moment. Every syllable should be spoken distinctly.

Wild Game To Find Place On Many Tables This Fall

BY JULIA NORWOOD, Director Modern Science Institute, Toledo, Ohio

HAVE you seen any male member of your family during the past few weeks busily engaged in oiling and polishing his trusty old shot gun? If you have, don't become alarmed because you can be fairly certain that he has no dire thoughts in mind. He is simply getting ready for the fall hunting season.

Although the opening date for hunting rabbits and pheasants varies throughout the country, the dates of November 10th and 15th usually mark this eventful day in most of the midwestern states.

Of course, after a hunter has tramped all day through the woods and returned home with several rabbits or pheasants, he will expect his wife to exert her finest cooking skill to see that the results of his hunting ability come to the table in a manner fit for a king.

Nothing dampens the enthusiasm of a hunter quite so much as to see the game he has bagged, toughened by improper cooking with the resulting loss of that delicious flavor peculiar to wild game.

If any member of your family starts checking over his hunting equipment these cold November days, perhaps you had better jot down right now, this recipe for rabbit baked in wine. You will discover that the addition of a small amount of domestic red wine (preferably Claret) will give an unusually delicious flavor to the meat.

RABBIT WITH WINE
1 Rabbit
2 cups Domestic Claret Wine
Roast the rabbit in an uncovered baking pan until almost tender. Use 400° temperature for the first 20 minutes, then reduce to 250° for remaining period. When the rabbit is nearly tender, season with salt and pepper and add 2 cups of Domestic Claret Wine and continue roasting. Baste the rabbit every ten minutes with the wine until the meat is tender.

To roast a pheasant, the same method of procedure described above may be followed.

even a note of protest would be sent to Nippon's foreign office.

Collective action on the part of the western powers against Japan is out of the question. Britain is embroiled knee-deep in the African tangle and France is on needle's edge about Germany. Russia fears to look eastward for fear Poland and Germany will start on the march—so that leaves nobody but Uncle Sam, who has plenty to do at home without seeking to save the Chink's liberty.

MAGGIE and JIGGS are celebrating their silver jubilee—married twenty-five years. This couple of rolling pin and corn beef and cabbage fame appear in 100 newspapers all over the world—and it all started in a little country school house over thirty years ago.

George McManus, cartoonist and parent of the comic strip, was then a boy of 13 attending the traditional "little red school house." And he'd rather draw funny faces than study his arithmetic. But one day teacher found a desk full of drawings of freckled faced, boys and blue eyed girls—and one of teacher. Papa McManus was ordered to discipline the boy—but when he saw the drawings, instead of the hickory little George got a trip to St. Louis and the "Republic" a newspaper there.

Here George McManus received his first pay as a cartoonist and twenty-five years conceived the idea of Maggie and Jiggs from an Irish actor who was troubled by the social ambitions of his wife.

And now, millions of Americans read and laugh at the antics of this funny Irish character. But, George McManus believes there's a little bit of Jiggs in every man and a bit of Maggie in every woman.

The House of Representatives is still in Session conducting an investigation of the Commissioner of Agriculture to determine whether or not to file charges of impeachment. I know nothing concerning his guilt or innocence, and hope that our people will not seek to discuss this matter with me, as I must, if the House prefers charges, sit as a member of the Impeachment Court that will try him, and I hope that if I am called upon to perform this unpleasant duty that I may do so with an open mind.
