I. R. (Ira) Franks Announces for Race As County Treasurer

In placing my name before the voters of Coryell County as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, I do so feeling that I am qualified to fill the place with credit.

I shall make the race on my own merits and, if elected, will fulfill the duties of this office to the best of my ability. I shall ask you to investigate my business and personal life during the past years, then give me due consideration and I will be satisfied with the results.

Thank you,

(Signed) I. R. (Ira) FRANKS.

E. C. W. WORK PLANNED FOR TWO WATERSHEDS IN TEXAS

Soil erosion surveys of two watershed areas in Texas, comprising approximately 2,780 square miles, are planned by the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture. These will provide fundamental facts on the relation of soil erosion to the silting of reservoirs.

The work in Texas will be part of a series of similar surveys which will be made in areas of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and California.

According to H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Service, the purpose of the erosion surveys is to find out how serious soil erosion actually is in the watersheds lying above the Lake Waco and White Rock Reservoirs.

This new information will be correlated directly with the facts the Service has already collected as to the extent and rate of silting in the two reservoirs.

SHOTS AT THE BASKET

Monday evening on the local gym floor the Evans quint defeated the Jonesboro five by a score of 16-11.

The Eagles were far from the fine form they displayed in previous games and after leading 8-3 at the halfway mark, saw their lead whittled down and finally disappeared entirely when their shots failed to hit the bucket. In the meantime the Elks led by Goff and Carroll, turned loose their long range guns and bombarded the hoop from outside the Eagles defense.

This was the first appearance of Evans on the local court and though they looked good at times, the Jonesboro crew seems to have the better all around team.

Red Weaver was the only

Jonesboro man that seemed to be up to par and it was through his efforts that the Eagles stayed in the ball game. Goff and Carroll carried the brunt of the Evans offensive.

The Jonesboro lassies had a little better luck than did the boys and won a tightly played defensive game.

Tuesday evening in a very rough and tumble game the local Hornets defeated Crawford 53-21.

The locals had no trouble in penetrating the visitors defense for easy crisp shots, whereas the Pirates as long as the Gatesville regulars were in the game, could not fathom the strong knit defense thrown up against them. Near the close of the third period the Pirates had only scored 5 points and the local coaches started sending in every reserve in uniform. This was a signal for the visitors offense to start and start it did in the person of Schofner, a small forward who banged the old bucket for 15 points to emerge the games high point man. At the same time all the Pirates save Schofner turned the contest into a referees nightmare. The most perfect football blocking the writer has seen this year was put on display by the Crawford crew and coupled with the attempts of the Hornets reserves to make a good showing for their coaches, the last five minutes had the spectators whooping, shouting and laughing until the rafters shook. The referee let 'em go and we do not know but what the game was more enjoyable than one where the officials keep the ball in their hands more than do the players.

The Hornets offered no outstanding star, but the play of Moore at center, was no doubt heartening to the coaches as well as the fans. He played a good floor game and rang up 10 points, for high scorer for Gatesville.

As stated before, Schofner was high for the visitors, as well as for the evening, being followed by McNeil who scored five.

The local quintet defeated the Crawford "fens" in the curtain raiser 29-21 in a very exciting game. Both teams started slow but gained momentum as the game wore on, and kept the fans in an uproar as first one team and then the other scored. Arelen Bates was high scorer, both for the Hornets and the evening, parting the mesh for 14 points. For the locals, Clemons scored 9 points and Wiegand 6. Rutherford

Turnersville defeated Copperas Cove 39-25 and as long as the Turnersville regulars played, Copperas Cove didn't have the chance of a banana peddler in Ethiopia. Mrs. Robert Hickey, Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in 6 weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossipers who said there was no safe way to reduce. She wisely followed her doctor's advice. Why don't YOU?

Get a jar of Kruschen to-day (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle). Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning. All druggists.

HARLEQUIN CONSERVE

Twenty-five small yellow peaches, 1 lb. white grapes, 10 red plums, 1 pineapple, 1 orange, three-fourths lb. blanched almonds.

Wash all the fruit thoroughly. Peel the peaches and plums and pare the pineapple and cut all into small pieces. Halve the grapes and remove the seeds, using a small pointed knife. Slice the orange as thin as possible without removing the peel and cook all the fruit together over a slow fire until soft and well blended. Measure and allow three-fourth cup of sugar to each cup of fruit.

Cook very gently for 20 minutes, then add the almonds, chopped, and continue cooking very slowly, stirring occasionally until the conserve is thick and clear. Pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal.

SPICED BLUEBERRY JAM

Two and one-half pounds prepared fruit, 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 bottle (1 cup) fruit pectin, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and all-spice.

To prepare fruit, crush or grind about 2½ pounds fully ripe blueberries and add spices. Measure sugar and prepare fruit into a large kettle, mix well and bring to a full boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from the fire and stir in fruit pectin. Skim and pour quickly into hot sterilized glasses and seal.

GOOSEBERRY MARMALADE

Pick over, wash and stem gooseberries. Cover to half their depth with water and stir until tender. Put through a sieve or flour sifter.

To one pound of fruit pulp, allow 1 pound of sugar, or 1 one-fourth pound if berries are very tart, and 1 tablespoon each of grated lemon peel, orange peel and cinnamon. Heat sugar and seasonings lightly in a kettle, add enough water to dissolve and boil until a thick syrup. Stir in fruit and seasonings, reduce syrup to just below boiling point and cook until transparent.

PERSIMMON AND FIG BUTTER

Select thoroughly ripe persimmons. Measure an even quantity of persimmons and figs and wash in a colander under running water. Put persimmons in a steamer or leave in colander and put over boiling water. Cover and let steam until tender, this permits easier removal of seeds. Remove seeds from three-fourths of the persimmons. Choose small figs and do not remove all the stems.

To the persimmons and figs add the juice and grated rind of a sweet grapefruit, measuring ½ grapefruit to each quart of fruit, boil until tender, drain and reserve liquid. For each quart of cooked fruit add 2½ cups sugar and 1 tablespoon cinnamon. Cover ingredients to one-quarter their depth with reserved liquid and water or with half liquid and half grapefruit and boil till transparent, taking care not to scorch. Test after half an hour and add more sugar if necessary.

The minister, played by Mrs. O. Y. Scott, wore white linen trousers and vest with a black coat and red tie. Her mustache and goatee brought a laughter from the crowd. The flower girls, played by Mrs. J. R. Pancake and Mrs. H. S. Wilson, wore blue veil dresses knee length. The bride, played by Mrs. Paul Cloud, was very pretty in her Martha Washington costume of pink crepe. The groom played by Miss Marguerette Pancake, was very dignified in her tight fitting suit of blue and white striped serge. She also wore a becoming mustache.

The minister entered carrying a loose leaf notebook on which was written a very peculiar sermon. The sermon followed, with the organist singing "I Love You Truly." The true bride was siezed and placed under the arch and was presented with a large number of beautiful gifts, as Mrs. C. E. Jones read "How to Preserve Your Husband." Refreshments of hot chocolate and cake were served to 34 guests.

FILM SHOWS WIFE'S LIFE IN U. S. NAVY

The age-old question, "Can love come after marriage," receives reply in "Navy Wife," a Fox picture which comes tomorrow to the Palace Theatre. Claire Trevor and Ralph Bellamy are co-featured in this screen version of the novel, "Beauty's Daughter," by Kathleen Norris.

Miss Trevor, a Naval nurse, marries Ralph Bellamy, in the role of a Navy doctor, knowing that he does not love her and wants only a home and a mother for his crippled daughter. She soon discovers that the memory of a dead wife is an almost unsurmountable bar to a happy marriage.

Another woman intrudes into their lives. She is convinced that her husband will never love her. Just as Miss Trevor is about to call her marriage a complete failure and leave her husband, a surprise climax brings a happy ending to this romantic story.

A highly capable cast is featured in support of Miss Trevor and Bellamy.

The History of Coryell County

By FRANK E. SIMMONS

Authorized by County Commissioners, as Official History for Texas Centennial Celebration.

THE TONKAWA INDIANS

In Coryell County along the Cowhouse and the Leon Rivers, and their tributaries, the Tonkawa Indians had their home at the time of the coming of the white settlers. Their territory also included the Bosque watershed and extended down to the Waco territory at the mouth of the Bosques. Within this territory in the Bosque watershed are three places that derived their names from the Tonkawa Indians. Tonkawa Spring, on the Witte farm a few miles above Crawford in McLennan county, Tonkawa Creek, of which the spring is the source, flows near the town of Crawford and enters Middle Bosque below that town and Tonkawa Park, a state park established on Tonkawa Creek near Crawford. This park was laid out and developed in 1933 and is a place of great scenic beauty.

This people, however, had contacted civilized people before. For a hundred and fifty years, or probably longer, they had been meeting Spaniards who came as explorers, conquerors, or missionaries. They also had wandered as far south as the coast, where they had fishing grounds, and where they were known to the few rancheros who dwelt in that part of Texas at the beginning of the nineteenth century. During the Spanish regime in Louisiana French traders were commissioned to trade with the Tonkawa, thus a friendly commercial relation existed with those traders during the last decade of the Eighteenth and the beginning of the Nineteenth centuries. They were thus prepared to form friendly relations with the new settlers.

Destiny was dealing harshly with the Tonkawa nation. They were caught as between an upper and nether millstone. To the south and east the relentless Anglo Saxon, greedy and covetous, seeking to dispose them of their lands, was entering and taking the choicest tracts of land without consent from them. To the north and west their old implacable foe, the Comanche, waged merciless war upon them. The Tonkawas were helpless so they aligned themselves with the whites for the better protection that race could give.

With the establishment of Fort Gates, the Tonkawa, as a nation ceased to exist. Within four years they were entirely dispossessed and forcibly sent into an exile without end. Here upon Coryell County soil was enacted one of those dramas that darken the pages of history: —the obliteration of a defenseless nation of people.

Old chroniclers tell that this nation of people were peaceable intelligent and easily controlled and that their mortal fear of the Kiowa and Comanche, at whose hands they had suffered a great deal, made them willing allies of the whites with whom they consorted for protection against their old enemies. This nation numbered between four and five hundred warriors. It was the Tonkawas' boast that a white scalp was never lifted by any member of their tribe. The people were hunters and agriculturists. They grew corn, beans, pumpkins and wild fruits and nuts.

The old Tonkawa Trail ran a northeast-southwest direction crossing from the Bosque territory to the southwest. This trail crosses what is now Highway 7, near Cox Springs a few miles east of Gatesville. Along this trail are some carvings locally known as the "bowl and spoon carvings." This was probably the national highway used by wandering members of other nations in crossing this territory on hunting expeditions.

When Fort Gates was established in 1849 the Indians made the settlement their main rendezvous. In 1852 the country was becoming well settled by whites and the entire Tonkawa Nation was moved to the reservation in the west. Many Tonkawa, however, wandered back at times, among the settlements where they could always be seen for they are reputed to have been peaceable. In 1870-71 when Gen. McKinsie was ordered to force the Comanche onto the plains, he enlisted the Tonkawa warriors as scouts and history is replete with records of their bravery and how they hung relentlessly upon the heels of the Comanche as the latter retreated back into the high plains country. There is at present a small remnant of this once honored race of Indians, hemmed up on a reservation in Oklahoma.

There are numerous archaeological remains distributed thruout this territory. Every creek bank and cave and many mountain sides have a history record written in the stone handicraft, and flint quarries where they quarried the coveted flint that they depended upon for a livelihood as we depend upon iron.

The artifacts of this territory have been collected by Dr. Clyde Bailey of Gatesville, Elbert Thomason of McGregor, Jacob Olson and G. W. Anderson of Clifton and the writer, all of whom have elaborate collections of stoneage art left by the Indians. Other collectors also have gathered material from this territory.

Indian Raids in Coryell

In 1857 Indians made a raid on Owl Creek and committed several murders. I find in an old pioneer record that in 1857 two men named Brown and Pierce, together with a little boy named Dave Elam, were hauling rails when they were attacked by Indians. The two men were killed and scalped. The boy was severely flogged but escaped. (Dave Elam, name error, a kin of Mrs. Elms).

Mrs. Irene Elms, at the age of 81 years had lived in the Sugar Loaf settlement when an Indian raid was made there. In this raid the Riggs family was murdered, according to Mrs. Elms. Together with their children they had been hauling wood and were unarmed. Mr. and Mrs. Riggs were murdered and their home set on fire. The two girls, 9 and 11 years old, were made captives by the Indians, however, they were soon released, abandoned and found their way to an abandoned house where they spent the night. The next morning a neighbor found the two children and carried them to safety.

In 1860 Elder J. C. White of Coryell County and Elder Griffith of Hamilton County were attacked by Indians near Rainy Creek Church, which had been established in 1857, by Elders Samuel Wheat and Jesse Graham of the Primitive Baptist faith. They escaped to the brush but Griffith was so badly wounded that he afterward died.

In 1863 a Mr. Williamson and a Mr. Hendrickson were going to their home on the Cowhouse River when they were attacked by Comanches. An Indian horseman ran a spear thru Mr. Williamson, killing him instantly. He was scalped and his body left by the Indians. The body was recovered by the settlers. Mr. Hendrickson escaped.

In 1864 Capt. Gideon Graham's little boy was captured by Indians near Sugar Loaf Mountain. To prevent him from being recaptured by Capt. Burleson, the Indians pierced his body with a lance. Capt. Burlson returned the boy's dead body to Mr. Graham.

In the years 1866 and 1871 raiding Indians came into the Jonesboro settlement stealing horses and making their escape.

Many parties of rangers from Coryell County pursued raiding Comanches into the vast prairies of the West.

It is said that many Indians visited the settlers on friendly missions. Mr. Pidcoke, for whom the town Pidcoke is named, lived among the Indians for many months. He gained their undying friendship. The Chiefs Yellow Wolf, War Loop and Buffalo Hump were his steadfast friends and often visited his home where the village of Pidcoke is now located.

I have not visited all of these historic spots but there are people in the county who can identify them sufficiently well that markers may be placed at each, to preserve this history for posterity.

These remarks have been drawn largely from printed records and from pioneers who remember them from early days. Especially the accounts of Indian raids.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained. Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

THRILLING NAVAL DRAMA WITH SONG COMING TO REGAL

The thrill and romance of naval officers in the making, men who in peace or in war, heroically brave death for their country in their line of duty, is colorfully depicted in the new Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan drama-with-music, "Shipmates Forever," which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Regal theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

It is an intimate and revealing story of the lives of the midshipmen in their study rooms at Annapolis, on the parade grounds and their cruises at sea. It pictures them at work and at play; their loves and their laughter; their loyalty and their courage "under fire."

Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler head the cast. Dick personifies the raw cadet, somewhat spoiled but with the makings of a man, who is whipped into shape as a gallant officer through the rigor of the Naval Academy training and Ruby the loyal daughter of the Navy.

Dick sings; fights a bitter battle alone with himself and finally winds up as a hero who dashes through scalding steam and flame to rescue a shipmate. Ruby dances to gay throngs, the while she fights desperately to win the man she loves to the traditions of the Navy.

The film company spent a month at Annapolis, the movie actors enacting their roles with the training school as a background, and with 1,000 cadets taking part.

While the picture is not a musical, several new songs are introduced by Powell in his role as a night club entertainer. All were composed by the famous

LETTER FROM SENATOR POAGE

Most governmental activity for the past week has been centered at Washington, rather than at Austin, and the convening of Congress has, of course, brought national issues to the forefront to such an extent that there have been very few new developments in the administration of the State Government. Of course, Governor Allred was lead to believe by the now famous mystery telegram that he would be met on his return to Texas by a Special Session of the Legislature that he had not called. When he found that it was but a joke, he took it as such, but he has not yet answered the serious question as to what he is going to do in regard to calling the Session.

I notice that a number of communities over the State are beginning to realize just how serious the situation is going to be when the Texas Relief Commission ceases to function as it must by April 1st, and I see that appeals are again being made to the State authorities to extend State aid to a later date. These requests overlook the fact that the State of Texas cannot, under the Constitution, spend any more money for relief, and even though, the Legislature were willing to do so, it could not appropriate funds for this purpose. We were only authorized to spend $20,000,000.00, and this sum has almost all been spent. The only agency to which our cities can now look for help is the Federal Government. Congress can use Federal money to help the needy if it so desires. I do not think that the old direct relief or dole system should be restored, but it does seem to me that most of the red tape should be removed from the works program and work should be offered to every citizen who wants it. As the system now operates, an albe-bodied man, who has been on direct relief for any length of time can be sure of a job if he was a relief client prior to November 1st, 1935. But if disabled, old, or, if he has struggled along and kept off the relief rolls, while his neighbors were drawing money from the Government, he is now penalized for having tried to care for himself. In many cases, families have carried on and on only to find that now when their all is lost, and their savings all spent, they are all to be denied an opportunity to work because they have not heretofore asked for help. I hope the American Government will come to the rescue of these good citizens and give them the same chance to work for a living that the Government is providing for the man who has been unable to help himself in the past. If we will offer work for every citizen who wants it at the present W. P. A. scale, we need not fear that the jobs will be claimed by those who do not need them, and if we would do this, I would not be surprised to find that the saving in overhead would cover the wages paid the additional workers.

I hope that after another week has passed, I will be able to report that the Supreme Court has passed favorably on the case now pending there relative to the Brazos River District Bonds. The Brazos River District has authorized the issuance of bonds payable only out of the revenue of the District, and not providing for the levy of any taxes in the District for their retirement. These are what are generally known as revenue bonds, and do not require a vote of the District as they impose no burden on the taxpayers, but they are necessary in order to enable the District to purchase the land on which the reservoirs will be located. The Federal Government has promised to advance $30,000,000.00 to the District to build these reservoirs, but before any Federal money is spent the District must procure the reservoir sites, and it is primarily for that purpose that these revenue bonds are to be issued. Before these bonds can be sold it is necessary for the Attorney General to approve them. This he has refused to do, the District has brought suit in the Supreme Court asking that tribunal to mandamus or compel the Attorney General to approve the bonds. I have read the briefs filed by both sides, and I am very hopeful that the Court will decide in our favor on January 8th, which is the first day on which the Court will hand down opinions. This great project must get under way without the loss of any time if we are to receive the maximum benefits of the Federal Aid, as, of course, the Federal Government desires to complete all of these works in a short time.

I was in Austin this week, and the Liquor Board reports that it has more than 3,00 applications for places, and I was told by a member of the Old Age Assistance Board that they had had over 6,00 of their application blanks filled out and returned, and I am sure that a similar situation exists with all the State Departments. This situation seems to me to show conclusively that everything possible should be done to hasten such projects as the Brazos River Development I have just mentioned as a means of providing employment for those who need it.

I am continuing my series of educational talks relative to the Natural Resource Tax, but will not make another until next

STATE REP. HUDDLESTON CLEARS ERRONEOUS INFORMATION

In order to avoid any confusion, State Representative Earl Huddleston, called in this office Tuesday morning and stated, "I'm definitely in the race for Representative, and thru talking with a few of my friends over the county it seems there have been either reports or other misinformation to the effect that I planned to enter the race for State Senator, which is an error."

Mr. Huddleston also stated that within a short time he would make his statement to the people of this district, and explain his campaign, giving other information which he believes will be of interest to the voters.

A Massachusetts Representative lost fifteen shirts by theft on the eve of the opening of Congress. There's one legislator that'll have the sympathy of the taxpayer.

The first book known to have illustrations was the "Book of the Dead," really a set of papyrus rolls, written 15 centuries before Christ.

During one year more than six billion checks, totaling more than 400 billion dollars, or more than 30 times the amount of actual currency in the United States, passed through the clearing houses of the U. S.

The fact that an elephant fetched only $50 at auction in New Jersey should be brought to the attention of the Republican National Committee.

Friday night at which time I will speak over Station W. A. C. O. at 8:00 o'clock, January 10th, and will explain the Natural Resource Bill, which I introduced at the last Session of the Legislature. I will be glad to have all of my friends listen in.

Yours very truly,
W. R. POAGE.

WORLD COMMENT

By
BURNS

That august judicial body, the United States Supreme Court, dealt the New Deal farm program a death blow when it held by a vote of 6 to 3 that the AAA was an entirely unconstitutional regulatory measure. In such sweeping language that no effective substitute can be devised without a constitutional amendment, the court majority killed the act as invalidating the reserved rights of States and beyond the powers delegated to the Federal Government by the Constitution. The Treasury immediately announced the blanket suspension of all collections of taxes and payments under the agricultural adjustment act. No further steps will be taken for the collection of processing taxes, new or old. No checks will be issued for benefit or rental payments, or refunds, or for administrative purposes.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, who with Justice Louis D. Brandeis and Benjamin Cordozo formed the dissenting bloc, read the minority decision, declaring that "courts are not the only agency of Government that must be assumed to have the capacity to govern." Justice Owen J. Roberts, who read the majority opinion, made it clear that the powers of taxation and appropriation extend only to matters of national, as distinguished from local welfare.

Justice Stone, in explaining the court's decision, declared "the present act is held invalid, not for any want of power in Congress to lay such a tax to defray public expenditures, but because the use to which its proceeds are put is disapproved. The removal of unwise laws from the statute books by appeal lies not to the courts, but to the ballot and to the processes of democratic government."

Reaction to the decision was immediate. Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, introduced new farm legislation in Congress a few minutes after the decision was read.

Chairman Marvin Jones of Amarillo, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, said: "Regardless of all else we feel it is necessary to have an appropriation to take care of the moral obligation to pay farmers who entered into contracts with the AAA in good faith." Over $500,000,000 is due farmers on crop adjustment contracts still unpaid.

In our own state, the powerful Texas Agriculture Association, with a membership of 300,000 farmers, demanded that Congress and the Administration draft measures to take the place of the AAA.

From Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, with over 500,000 farmers as members, came this defiant declaration: "This means a fight! Those who believe the American farmer will stand idly by and watch his program for economic justice fall without a fight are badly mistaken." Federation farmers, O'Neal asserted, will vote to amend the Constitution rather than lose the AAA.

The Administration regarded the AAA as an institution which the country could not get along without. It was the first successful attempt to deal with the agricultural depression which began shortly after the war and unlike Hoover's lamentable Federal Farm Board experiment, costs the Treasury nothing. Even those who have condemned it as "unsound" have come to see that it has been a vital factor in general economic recovery.

President Roosevelt had said several weeks ago that if processing taxes were held invalid, he would ask new levies to raise the money. There is some dispute now as to whether even this can be done, due to the court's decision. Justice Roberts said: "Appropriations and expenditures under contract for proper governmental purposes cannot justify contracts which are not within Federal power. And contracts for the reduction of acreage and the control of production are outside the range of that power."

Secretary Wallace recently listed six alternatives if the Court went against the AAA:

1. Control production by compulsion. That is what the Bankhead and Potato Acts propose to do. An adverse decision in the Bankhead test—now before the Supreme Court—would close the door to the use of this solution.

2. Use a combination of stabilization purchases and loans to farmers in years of large crops and low prices, obtaining in return pledged to reduce acreage the following years. This, as Mr. Wallace pointed out, supposes that enough farmers would accept loans to make the plan effective on the total supply.

3. Drop production control but use marketing control, combined with the dumping of surpluses. This is the "pro-rata two-price" system. It raises constitutional questions on its own account, as well as being of doubtful effectiveness.

4. Restore foreign purchasing power by lending about 500 millions a year to foreign nations. This would be political suicide for the Administration which proposed it and supposes that foreign nations want to buy our farm products in larger amount (which they don't).

5. Reduce tariffs sufficiently to cause imports to exceed exports by at least $500,000,000. This is out for the same set of reasons given above.

6. Use a combination of all these plans.

It now seems likely that the farm groups will demand either a constitutional amendment or the curbing or abolition of the Supreme Court's assumed right to invalidate Acts of Congress. That would throw the Constitution and the Supreme Court headlong into the Presidential campaign of 1936.

SYNOPSIS

Shortly after California's admission to the Union, Joe Kincaid, an American land-grabber, begins to plunder Spanish ranchos and file claims on them under the new law. He is opposed by Spanish vigilantes under a mysterious Don Carlos. Jim Kearney, a secret government agent traveling incognito, saves Kincaid from a vigilante hanging party and wins his confidence. Later, Jim meets Rosita, daughter of a wealthy, high-caste Spaniard and falls in love with her. Her father, Don Pascual, objects to her interest in Jim and warns her that she must stop seeing him. Rosita promises her father that she will break with Jim. But she doesn't reckon with the power and quality of her love.

CHAPTER VII.

NIGHT was falling when a caretta drove away from the Castro ranch and headed toward Monterey. Guadalupe, Rosita's maid, was driving. In the back of the little wagon was a pile of hay.

Guadalupe travelled for a long time without moving a muscle of her face. Then she began to grumble under her breath.

"Taking up with that American!" she muttered. "The silliest thing a girl ever did."

"It was not and don't talk about it." The voice which answered was that of Rosita, but the girl herself was nowhere in evidence.

with Rosita. The girl had managed to hide her bandit costume but had not had time to dress in her own clothes. So she had picked up a Spanish shawl and wrapped it around her just as Kearney finally broke down the door.

The American stopped dead as he perceived Rosita. They stared at each other a moment. Then he asked shakily: "Where where's Don Carlos?"

"He's quite safe, thank you."

A slow, painful but ironic smile of understanding came to his face. "So you're his girl?" he asked in a dull, dry tone.

"That's what you think, is it?" she asked, shrugging her naked shoulders.

"That's what was behind all that pretty talk of yours. I might have known when I found you here before."

"Who are you to object . . . Kincaid's friend, aren't you?" As she spoke there was the noise of approaching hoofbeats outside but Kearney was too preoccupied to hear them.

"Sure I am. Why not?" he demanded.

"Land-grabber! Thief!" she hissed. "Here come the men who will know how to deal with your kind."

Kearney was thinking fast. Only a few of the Vigilantes had arrived. There must be more of them. If he could trick them into thinking that the next to come would be his friends instead of theirs.

"Sure I'm just talking," he yelled, sparring for time. "And why wouldn't I be alone? I didn't want you to run and hide as usual so I got you in this room . . . the whole bunch of you." He twisted around cautiously trying to get the rope on his wrists against the knife. "I'd come here without Joe Kincaid and the boys, wouldn't I? Sure I would if I was as big a fool as you."

An approaching thunder of hoofbeats on the road caused the Vigilantes to look at each other doubtfully.

"Listen hombres," shouted Kearney triumphantly.

"The Americans!" screamed Rosita as she ran for the door.

"Hey Joe!" yelled the captive at the top of his voice. "IN HERE. BOYS!"

The bandits rushed madly for the door. In the darkness outside there was a momentary confusion of horses, mounted men and men on foot, shouting to each other in Spanish.

"What shall we do with him?" asked Rosita, her voice shaking.

"I haven't told you this till I got you some place where you couldn't fly out at me, but I heard today when I was in town that your Senor Kearney is a friend of Kincaid's. He's joined those people and he's always carousing around with them at the Golden Nuggett."

"That can't be true!" As she spoke Rosita crawled out of the pile of hay. She was dressed as Don Carlos and a black mask covered her face. "Well, here we are at the shack at last," she continued, "so I won't have to listen to any more of your nonsense."

The girl jumped lightly from the wagon as Guadalupe continued on her way without a backward glance. She turned to open the door of the shack, then halted as she heard a man coming down the road. Through the dusk she recognized Kearney as he approached. With a startled gasp she sprang through the door and locked it behind her.

At the same instant Kearney had recognized the vigilante. As the latter disappeared into the shack he snatched at his revolver, leaped from his horse and ran toward the house. Finding the door locked he started to break it in.

When the stout panels finally gave way, the government man found himself standing face to face

Kearney whirled, hearing the horses for the first time. He flipped his gun out as a dozen men poured through the broken door. Before he could fire, Rosita gripped his arm from behind. He put up a desperate fight but soon was overpowered, dragged to a chair and tied there, his bound hands in his lap.

"What shall we do with him?" asked Rosita, her voice shaking.

"There's only one thing to do," answered a swarthy Spaniard named Gomez, who appeared to be second in command of the vigilantes. "He has seen us . . . he knows this place. . . ."

"Go ahead," shouted Kearney, who was trying to think of some ruse for escape. "Tie me up. It won't stop me. I came out here to bag a few Vigilantes and I've got them right where I want them . . . with the ringleader's girl thrown in."

As he said the last words Rosita slapped him hard across the face with her right hand. Under cover of the shawl, however, she contrived to drop a knife into his lap with her left hand.

"What does he mean?" demanded the girl of Gomez. "He was alone, wasn't he? You saw no one?"

"He is just talking," grunted her lieutenant.

It was, of course, another bunch of Vigilantes who had arrived. In a moment they recognized each other, the row quieted down and they hurried back into the hut, led by Gomez.

The room was empty. The chair was overturned. The cut ropes and the knife were on the floor. The window was open. Through it came the sound of a single horse galloping away.

Rosita entered after the others. Gomez looked at her with an ugly smile . . . picked up the knife from floor . . . handed it to her.

"Yours, Senorita?" he asked.

She took the knife mechanically, stared at it, then looked up at the men around her. They returned her glance with open hostility, fully aware that she had double-crossed them. Their lips curled in scorn. One by one they left the shack.

Gomez was the last. He was tempted to console her, but, after a moment's hesitation, he left also, having nothing to say.

For a long time Rosita stood staring at the floor. Then she moistened her dry lips and looked up, prepared to explain her actions as best she could. Finding herself alone, she burst into tears of anguish. Hearing her sobs, Guadalupe came in and led her from the hut.

Earl Thompson, Rusk county 4-H club boy, planted one acre of broom corn which produced 40 pounds of straw. This was made into brooms by the use of home made machinery. Cash cost for material was $25. Sales brought in $190.50 for the brooms.

Robert Helmers who lives near Garfield in DeWitt county recently sold a litter of pigs that averaged 225 pounds each at five months and eight days of age. These pigs were raised on sudan pasture supplemented with skim milk and corn and were finished for 38 days on a self-feeder with shelled corn and a protein supplement of tankage and cottonseed meal, according to Mr. Helmers.
