RAM AND BILLY SALE TO BE TRIED THIS YEAR?

Will there be a Ram & Billy Sale for Coryell County this year? This question has been asked many times. Many stock men have stated that they would support such a sale by having animals on hand.

Goat men who think they might offer Billys in such a sale will probably want to leave the Billys unshorn.

County Agent Powell requests interested sheep and goat men to contact the County Agent's office within the next few days and signify their desires so that a date may be set for a meeting to decide upon an appropriate sales date.

The sale which was planned for last fall attracted wide attention and it is believed that it would be well worth while to hold a sale in this area in the latter part of August.

Mr. Hampton's letter follows: "As much as I regret it, I am convinced that the best interest of my health demands that I withdraw from the race for the office of District Attorney. I am now taking treatment at Dallas, and several specialists have advised me that to make a campaign would be nothing less than suicidal. I am deeply indebted to my many friends for their interest in my race and for the encouragement they have given me.

Respectfully yours,
C. C. HAMPTON.

WILL BUY CANADIAN SILVER

Washington, March 5.—Secretary Morgenthau said today his agreement to buy newly mined Canadian silver through the Bank of Canada was expected to absorb the dominion's entire output.

The production was estimated by treasury officials at about 16,000,000 ounces per year.

Morgenthau said the treasury would fix the price to be paid for the metal rather than to be governed by the prevailing New York price. The treasury figure is about one-fourth cent an ounce higher than that quoted in New York.

Damp tobacco will probably weigh from 10 to 20 per cent more than dry tobacco.

WORLD COMMENT

By
JOE BURNS

That war lies ahead is the conviction of the great majority of the population of Europe.

This astonishing statement is made by Ward Price, eminent staff writer of the London Daily Mail in an article wirelessly to American newspapers.

The present pressure of war preparations cannot continue without an explosion, he maintains and adds that conditions are worse than in 1914. Now, the grim spectre of bankruptcy and revolution hangs over every European nation with the possible exception of Britain and Russia. Germany, Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria—the Central powers of twenty years ago—have been fighting poverty, discontent and revolution since the Armistice, and now seek a solution of their troubles by feverishly rearming and preparing for war.

According to Mr. Price, Germany is arming as no nation has ever armed before. The entire nation of 65,000,000 souls is preoccupied with the building of the world's greatest war machine. The whole of Germany is one vast, highly-organized war industry.

Not only Germany, says Mr. Price, but every European country—even if neutral in the last war—is feverishly equipping itself. The fighting strength of the Continent has doubled in ten years. (Yet it takes less to maintain a European soldier than it does an American on relief. Therein lies the secret of the ability of European nations to support seemingly limitless numbers of soldiers.)

Russia has raised its annual military budget to nearly three billion dollars—a gigantic sum, but we'll discuss the occasion for this unprecedented expenditure later.

The whole of Italian manhood is under arms. Like Germany, all of Italy is occupied with producing materials of war. France has compressed the armament program of three years into one.

This frenzy of war preparation has seized the smaller nations also. Switzerland, one of the few neutrals of the Great War, has begun the complete reorganization of her army and air force. Sweden is spending millions of pounds on air expansion and prolonging her period of military service—and hasn't participated in a war since 1717. Holland has voted $37,500,000 for defensive purposes.

Britain, not to be left behind in this mad scramble which offers such a striking parallel to 1914, will spend $1,500,000,000 on her army and navy. Ward Price maintains that his country's weakness is that she cannot organize her industrial organization for war as can the despots of Germany, Italy, and Russia. The industries of Great Britain are unorganized and independent

One thing of vital importance Mr. Price makes clear, namely, that the government of Edward VIII is distinctly friendly to Nazi Germany. This means that there will be no revival of the Triple Entente, composed of Britain, France, and Czarist Russia against Germany and her allies. Britain will attempt to maintain the balance of power between the two armed alliances—one led by Germany, the other by France. It means that Hitler, by playing his cards as he has done in the past, can keep Britain out of the next war, unless German war plans call the conquest of the British Isles and Dominions.

Another point which affects world peace was brought out by Mr. Price in his informative article. That is, the Nazi regime needs a diplomatic victory to chalk up to its credit each year. This applies to all dictatorships. It forced Mussolini into the Ethiopian venture, when no more victories could be won at home. Russia occupies its people with Five-Year Plans concerned with industrial expansion, and Japanese war scares.

Last March, it will be remembered, Hitler proclaimed the restoration of military service in Germany. And the chances are three to one that he will within three months announce that the new German army has reoccupied the demilitarized zone of the Rhineland, where both Versailles and the Locarno pact prohibit the maintenance of troops or fortresses.

A frown by John Bull is the only thing that can stop Hitler here.

Back of the vast military preparations of Germany, believes Ward Price, lies the instinct if not the intention to attack Bolshevik Russia. Hitler may believe it his destiny to lead a crusade against Communism in Russia. But his Generals will never agree to an attack on Russia without first securing Germany's western frontier against France. For this are necessary, first, military reoccupation of the Rhineland, and, secondly, building of a chain of fortresses like those which France has established on her side of the frontier. No more simultaneous fighting on west and east for the Germans.

There is little doubt among Europeans as always, that the next war will be started by Germany, or the Nazis in conjunction with Japan.

The Soviet sees itself, although more awake than the Czarist bear, a lumbering, slow-moving, gigantic land between two virile, militaristic, united peoples eager for aggrandizement and expansion on the vast and rich plains of the Russians. Germany wants the Ukraine, Russia's richest agricultural province, the world's greatest grainery, and endowed with untold mineral wealth. Japan, eager to dominate East Asia, resents the presence of the Russians at Vladivostok, which thrusts like a knife into the heart of the Japanese Empire on the Asiatic mainland. The grain-growing steppes and mineral deposits under the Siberian glacier offer tempting bait to Japanese militarists.

Soviet official newspapers declare that the far-Eastern situation, resulting from skirmishes between Russia's protegee, Mongolia, and Japan's puppet, Manchukuo, is creating the danger of "another world war."

It is here that we find the explanation for the three billion dollar Soviet military budget. Moscow realizes that an attack by Japan on the east will be followed by a German attack on the west. The eighteenth anniversary of the Red Army finds it a force of 1,300,000 men, a prodigious mass of men endowed with the true spirit of Communism and, incidentally, world revolution and dictatorship by the proletariat.

The Russian press estimates that Germans have 2,000,000 men under arms and 8,000,000 employed in munition and armament plants. The number of planes of the German air force was placed at 4,000. Japanese industry is organized, Moscow says, to produce during the first year of war thousands of field guns, a million shells, a million rifles, 1,000 tanks and 3,000 airplanes. Finland, friendly to Germany, was accused of preparing airdromes for use of German military machines.

F. C. Hearnshaw, writing in The National Review, London, outlines the course of German militarism. It is according to his belief:

First, the seizure of Memel and the destruction of Lithuania; secondly, the occupation of Danzig and the recovery of the Polish Corridor, probably by way of exchange with Poland at Lithuania's expense; thirdly, the conquest of the Ukraine from Russia; fourthly, the incorporation of Austria; fifthly, the recovery of the Tyrol from Italy; sixthly, the reclamation of Alsace and Lorraine from France; seventhly, the re-establishment of the German colonial empire by means of the defeat of Britain in the air and on the sea. Does Mr. Hearnshaw credit the Germans with ambition!

Continuing, "When Germany thinks that her hour has come she will strike with a might from which all scruple and all mercy has been eliminated. The first blow will probably be a gigantic air-raid on the part of thousands of bombing planes which will destroy the cities and the arsenals of her victims, and devastate their populations with poison gases. The German military theorists calculate that an overwhelming initial assault of this sort will be decisive."

World Comment has presented the views of these distinguished European journalists as being of interest to readers, and as interpreting the general view of British and European observers on the state of the Continent and, in particular the aims and ambitions of Nazi Germany, as being the troublemaker. In so doing we do not condemn Germany to the black list of aggressor nations, which of necessity must include Japan and Italy.

The seige of sickness that hit the local schools this week, forcing the close of classes, put a "crimp" in the already none too bright prospects of the Hornet track hopefuls. However the thinly clads received some what of a break Monday when the county committee decided to hold the track events of the county meet the first week of April instead of March 18-20 as originally planned.

The Yoe High School of Cameron is holding its annual invitation high school track and field meet March 14. This will be of no interest to any athlete in the county save Sid Goff of Evant. Goff could no doubt win the pole vault and broad jump and probably place in the high jump. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be presented first, second and third place winners in each event save the relays. We would like to see Goff attend the meet and feel reasonably sure that he would return home the proud owner of two or three medals.

Work on the new "grid iron" is progressing rather slow and if grass enough to play on is desired by next fall someone will have to "whoop" it up. Besides the sod, which is matter enough, there is the job of erecting stands and building of a fence. The big job concerning the grass after the grass is set out. The entire summer will have to be spent in watering and caring for the sod other wise.

Tuesday nite at Crawford, a unique basket ball game was played. Unique in that one of the teams was an all family affair. The three Weaver boys, Bob, "Red" and "Preach", and the Ward boys, Hazen and Tom, cousins of the Weaver brothers, all former Jonesboro stars, made up one team while their opponents were Walker's Dry Cleaners basketeers of Waco. The Waco club won by some 7 or 8 points. The Ward boys also had a brother in uniform while Paul Henson, a cousin, if we are not mistaken, of both families, was also present. Truly a family of basket ball players and good ones at that.

With the continual warm weather, fishing fever is crowding baseball fever for first place on the schedule of spring activities. And talking of fishing we think the sportsmen of the county should forget about the possibilities of stocking the county with game, other than quail or like fowl, and concentrate on fish protection. With all the streams the county affords, with very little trouble, fishing conditions in a few years would be splendid. With a small dam here and there on the various streams and with the help of the land owners in preventing seining, giggering, blasting and other illegal means of securing the fish for commercial use, Coryell County anglers would not be forced to leave home to enjoy the sport made famous by Isaac Walton.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

CHANGES IN EDUCATION

How education has changed since I went to school! Such is the popular exclamation today. Quite naturally it is followed by a question, "Why?" or "Is it necessary?"

In getting at the answer, we must remember that change is always present. Indeed, it is the essential factor in progress. Sometimes it is slow, even imperceptible. Probably such was the case in the school of your time, two or more generations ago. Today, it happens to be rapid, hence our consciousness of it. But it occurred in your school days nevertheless. Because of your age you were not aware of it.

Change is pronounced in everything today. Business, politics, industry, science, social life and what not, are feeling it. The mistake we make is in thinking it is all wrong. That is only because our old customs and habits are being shaken up a bit. But it doesn't necessarily mean disaster or even a slight fault in the structure of things. With only occasional setbacks, change is forward movement, in education as in all things. It simply means that we are learning, and as we learn we are putting knowledge into practice. Thus we move on to further knowledge. Don't worry! Education is steadily improving.

Safeguard athletes by frequent physical examination, advises Dr. Ireland in his next article.
