State Democrats Indorse Both Roosevelt and Garner 2nd Term

ADMINISTRATION ENDORSED HARMONY REIGNED AND DELEGATES TO NATIONAL CONVENTION TO MEET AT PHILADELPHIA NAMED.

Another feature of the convention was the retention of the two-thirds rule for nomination, which has caused some dissention in the party ranks, and was retained in disregard to the wishes of National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley.

Peace and harmony prevailed at the State Democratic Convention at San Antonio this week and Franklin Delano Roosevelt and John N. Garner, President and Vice President of the United States, were favored and the 100 delegates and alternates to the National Democratic Convention at Philadelphia so instructed to vote.

Harmony came very near being chaos over the endorsement of the ratification of the national child labor amendment to the Constitution. The majority report of the resolution committee asked for ratification was adopted after a minority report had been voted down.

Ring endorsement was given the national administration and the party's allegiance and confirmation of the president's policies was made.

Sam Rayburn, Congressman from the fourth district, was key note, and lauded the administration, being frequently interrupted by vociferous applause at any mention of the present administration heads.

Delegates from this section were waterbound and did not attend the convention, which from all appearances, would be carried out without any dissention, and with no disconcerting issues.

Those elected from this district to attend the National Democratic Convention in Philadelphia were Sam Roddy, L. C. Alexander, Dr. N. D. Buie, and Dury L. Helm.

CITY EMPLOYEES CHANGED; NEW APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE

Changes are continuing in the city administration, the latest being Pleas A. Walker's appointment as night watchman and T. L. Williams' appointment as water superintendent.

These men replace Ole Beard and Joyce Ryan, former night watchman and water superintendent, respectively.

TOM FREEMAN AND WESLEY FORD ATTEND REPUB. CONVENTION

Attendance at the Republican state convention in Fort Worth this week were Postmaster C. W. Ford and Tom Freeman. A harmonious session ended with the election of 25 delegates to the national convention in Cleveland, the delegates going uninstructed.

No mention of his name crept in to closely guarded speeches, but sentiment rippling thru the hall indicated that Gov. Alf Dandon of Kansas would receive Texas support.

Condemnation of the Roosevelt machine for persisting in the greatest peace time spending orgy in the history of the world prefaced a batch of resolutions unanimously endorsed by 500 howling delegates, consumed most of the time.

PALACE SHINES WITH NEW DODADS AND DECORATIONS

Like a silver streak! It's all dolled up, in the Mood Moderne! Straight lines, monel metal, metallic paint, daubed paint, acoustics-eccentric curtains and ceiling. The Palace will be a revelation, a show of beauty, when workmen finish lifting its face and it gets out of the Turkish bath it is receiving now from artisans of Dallas.

Everything will be ship-shape (and that's raring to go) when it reopens Friday night, presenting "Charlie Chan at the Circus."

Seats? Well, we could tell you more. But better, much better, go see for yourself!

The court reversed the Johnson case on the grounds that the special prosecutor made improper reference to the note in his argument to the jury and that the county attorney in his closing argument applied to Mrs. Johnson "abusive language which was not a reasonable deduction from any testimony."

THE WENDS, GERMANS AND OTHER NATIONALITIES

Although probably not having come as early as the Anglo-American people, other nationalities of people have had no little part in the early development and progress of the County. That branch of a sturdy, hardy people, so well fitted to pioneering, known as the Wend Germans, together with other folk of basic kindred, have had an important share in the history of our County.

The German Wends, racially of Slavic origin, akin to the Poles and Bohemians, and small in number, have always maintained their identity as a race, their traditions, language and literature, surrounded by large groups of kindred race. They occupied a territory little larger than Coryell County along the river Spree in Germany. In 1854 a company of 558 Wends, under the leadership of Rev. John Kilione, left Germany to find a land where they could enjoy greater religious freedom. Among these emigrants was Karl Teinert, Grandfather of G. J. Teinert of Copperas Cove. On the voyage 73 died of cholera. John Teinert saw the body of his mother let down into the sea.

A settlement was made at Serbin in Lee County; a Lutheran church was established, and the colony prospered for a while.

Upon the Wend's migrating from Serbin in later years as their numbers increased, two colonies were founded in Coryell County. One at The Grove and the other at Copperas Cove. As early as 1891 there were Wend settlements at Copperas Cove, and such names as Christian Jakob, John Falke, Nerettig, Paul Ortel, H. Huger, Bewie, and others are found. A short way from the town is a

Lutheran church in charge of Rev. C. J. Werner. Although the Wend language has given way to German, there are some families there who still speak Wendish in their homes. The Copperas Cove Wends number about 100. At The Grove the colony numbers about 200 people. Among them we find Lammerts, Lehmonis, Boerger, Dube and Winklers. The distinguished Prof. Ernest Winkler of the University of Texas, Austin, is of this Wendish family. The Wends are a people of the soil, frugal and industrious. Their chief ambition is to become comfortably established farmers. They are religious, and seldom has a criminal character of their race appeared in the State. The well ordered farms of The Grove and Copperas Cove communities attest the value these people have been to the County.

The county also has many people of strictly German origin. They are principally farmers and ranchers, but many hold business interests. While a great many of the Germans are Lutherans in religious faith, it was the Rev. J. E. Sydow, born in Germany in 1840, who established the German Baptist Church at King and at Coryell City. William Voss, a prosperous, enterprising German citizen, bears the distinction of having built the first barb-wire fence in his community, and developed the big-head millet. The contributions of the German-Americans to the progress of Coryell County are valuable and lasting.

In 1854 the Norwegians, under the leadership of the renowned Cleng Purson, founded a settlement along the tributary streams that flow into the Bosque River from the west side. The overflow from the Norse settlements soon spread into Coryell County and the people are recognized in such names as N. Pederson, Pat Olsen, Charles Liljeblad, Hendrickson, Solberg, Hanson, Anderson, Reasing, and many other names of members of that sturdy race of men who had their origin under the lights of the Aurora Borealis. We find the enterprising numbers of this thrifty people entering and mastering every field of endeavor. Among this people the author has found the greatest number of home libraries (and the most read) that he has seen among any people.

The chief contribution of the Mexican people, a race descending from the aboriginal Indian and the early Spanish settlers, is the legendary lore which in recent years has contributed quite a colorful influence to Texas literature. In Coryell County many and varied are the tales told of lost mines and buried treasures, to which only the Mexican, with his pictograph chart, has the key to finding. This is the romantic heritage left by this race, whose origin is lost so deep in the mists of Aztec antiquity that no historian may trace it.

There are but few negroes in the county and they are the decedents, principally, from former slaves brought here before the Civil War.

Miniature diplomas, with a ticket to the show was concealed inside, marked the covers for the guests. This fictitious arrest was made Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Lewis Holmes, where she was point hostess with Miss Bess Holmes and Miss Maude Alyce Painter at a bridge party and miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Simpson, bride-elect of George Dewald of Hillsboro.

Instead of the conventional numbering of tables they were given the names of towns between Gatesville and Hillsboro. Progression was made by miles Miss Simpson's sentence was to open the gifts presented her without uttering an "aye" or "nay."

On last Monday and Tuesday evenings Mrs. Ola Mae Parks concluded her year's work with a series of musical programs in the banquet hall of the First Baptist Church. Each pupil appeared both nights in piano solos, doubles and special arranged numbers in such commendable way as to bring credit to themselves as well as their instructor.

The stage was decorated with ferns and lighted with blue lights which cast a soft glow and made a beautiful setting for the pupils who were attractively attired in evening dresses of pastel shades.

At the conclusion of the program Tuesday evening the music class of 1936 presented Mrs. Parks with a beautiful antique bracelet and a dozen American Beauty roses as a token of their love and appreciation for her as a teacher and friend.

In spite of the rainy weather large crowds enjoyed both programs.

Desite rain and inclement weather, Miss Robbie D. Simpson was arrested for speeding near Hillsboro Monday evening. Little Miss Mary Margaret Holmes as speed cop, with a warrant of arrest, took her into custody. She was taken to Hillsboro for trial.

This fictitious arrest was made Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Lewis Holmes, where she was point hostess with Miss Bess Holmes and Miss Maude Alyce Painter at a bridge party and miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Simpson, bride-elect of George Dewald of Hillsboro.

Instead of the conventional numbering of tables they were given the names of towns between Gatesville and Hillsboro. Progression was made by miles Miss Simpson's sentence was to open the gifts presented her without uttering an "aye" or "nay."

Miss Louise Karl was awarded high score and Mrs. Doyle Baldrige second high.

Refreshments, consisting of banana-splits in oblong dishes, made to resemble streamlined autos, were served to thirty-two friends of the bride-elect.

Preparing for a drive about the Texas Centennial Exposition grounds in a Ford V-8, two Rangerettes, Miss Helen Stamps (at wheel) and Miss Enid Busby, received traffic instructions from George Palmer, Ford service employee, who in turn was told how visitors to the Exposition will be accommodated. The trio conferred in front of the Ford Exposition building, opening June 6.

Commencement Finishes Career of 12 Gridmen

This evening twelve boys will receive diplomas signifying that they have not only completed four years of high school work, but that they have also finished their high school football careers.

Some of these twelve boys played only one year for the black and gold, some of them two, and others three years. Some of the fellows were stand-outs in every game they played, others shone just at times and some plodded along without attracting any great amount of attention at any time. Whether they were the games' hero or just one of the eleven men they will be remembered for their fighting spirit for the many afternoons of pleasure they afforded the fans, and this writer wishes to join all the sport fans of the county in wishing them all the luck in the world in their post-high school life.

On completion of their school days, Reb Brown, Neal Chapman, Dave Culberson, Albert Dickie, Sonny Hair, Lowell Holt, Woodrow Hall, Wendell Lowrey, Nathan McDonald, Earl Martin, R. D. Meyers, and Donald Weaver only ask that those boys coming on to take their places try just as hard as they to make Gatesville High a feared and respected opponent by all.

will endeavor to end their losing streak at Mound's expense in a game at Mound, while Osage and Pidcoke perform at Osage.

Sunday games find Pearl and Levita in a struggle at Pearl; Seattle will attempt to flatten Flat flatier at Flat, and the CCC teams of Gatesville and Neff Park will throw picks and shovels away for bats at Neff Park.

County Team to play Strong Moody Nine

If and when the weather is more suitable for baseball, the county all-stars will engage the Moody Ramblers in a game that should produce some interesting base ball.

The date has not been definitely set, but will be in the near future and is to be played at Moody. As the Ramblers have one of the best teams in Central Texas, Coryell County fans will keep an interesting eye on the game, the exact date of which will be announced later.

Included in the all-stars lineup are January, Fritz and Lockhart of the Pidcoke team; Thornton and Black of the local CCC camp; B. and Joe Whigham, Long, Millsap, E. Worley, Jones, Hodge and Anderson of the Mound team, and F. Worley not a member of any team.

HAMILTON TO HOLD ANNUAL INVITATION GOLF TOURNAMENT

The Perry Country Club of Hamilton will hold its seventh annual invitation golf tournament there June 21 to 24, inclusive.

All the local divot diggers are invited to attend. Ben Sellers of the local club received an invitation and program, and through him all local followers of the Scotch pastime are invited and urged to attend.

The Hamilton officials have left nothing undone toward making this occasion one of the most enjoyable imaginable. There will be seven prizes and trophies given, a barbecue dinner, a dance, and entertainment for the ladies each day, including a bridge tournament.

All in all, a fine time will be had by all and if anyone is interested let him get in touch with Mr. Sellers who will be glad to give you more information on what to expect.

Softball

The rain has played havoc with the softball schedule and it will be next week before any more league games are played.

The league games that have been rained out this week will be played whenever it is possible, and the games of next week will be played as scheduled, lining up like this:

Tuesday, June 2, Fireboys vs. Merchants; Reds vs. Whites.

Thursday, June 4, Doc's Sandwich Shop vs. Blues.

Friday, June 5, Merchants vs. Reds; Blues vs. Reds.

Baseball Banter

County League base ball, like everything else, was brought to a standstill by the inclement weather.

If weather conditions permit games will be played this week end as per schedule. Games rained out the past week end will be played as soon as possible.

This week's schedule is: In the Saturday division Jonestown tangles with the State at the State; Turnersville

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

When George Glucksburg II was recalled to the throne of Greece on November 25, after twelve years of exile in England, he found the ancient land of Hellas racked with internal dissension and political turmoil. The populace was divided in sentiment among three belligerent groups: The Republicans, loyal to old Eleutherios Venizelos, founder of the Republic and twice premier, and leader of an abortive rebellion last year which resulted in his expulsion from the country he loved so much as a traitor; the supporters of the government of Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris, who, although head of the republic, had strong monarchist leanings; lastly, a military clique led by Gen. George Kondylis, who put down the Venizelist revolt and envisioned himself as the Fascist dictator of the Hellenes.

In an atmosphere charged and surcharged with threats and clashes among the armed supporters of Venizelos, Tsaldaris, and Kondylis, George mounted the throne while British warships grimly watched from Athens harbor, eager for Greece to have a pro-British king instead of a pro-Italian dictator.

Opposition confronted the new ruler on all sides. Venizelos, commanding the respect and support of over half the Greek voters, was violently anti-monarchist and the traditional friend and leader of republicanism in Greece. Kondylis saw in the restoration a frustration of his dictatorial ambitions. Tsaldaris was dissatisfied because he was not chosen by George to head the new cabinet.

Following the dissolution of parliament upon the accession of the new monarch, general elections to choose a new assembly were called.

Kondylis, boss of the oversized army of the republic, threatened rebellion and establishment of a military dictatorship in the Italian model if his candidates failed to win a majority in the new assembly. Kondylis lost the election—but he did not lead his revolution. With extreme suddenness, following publication of the election returns, Kondylis died "of a heart attack."

Middle of March, Eleutheros Venizelos, 72, "Father of the Greek Republic," died of the grippe in Paris, and last week former Premier Tsaldaris died of heart disease.

Hopes for constitutional government in Greece are new brighter than at any time since the establishment of the kingdom of Greece in 1832 following 379 years of Turkish domination. King George is young, alert, and vigorous, but has shown liberal tendencies in the brief months he has been on the throne.

Many problems confront this tiny nation of 6,000,000 people. On the north is Bulgaria, chafing under the restrictions of the peace treaties which limited its army and deprived it of its vital port on the Aegean Sea. Greeks fear the Bulgarians will follow the example of other defeatist powers, namely, Austria and Germany, and demand a return of former territories. Greece materially increased its territory and population at the expense of the luckless Bulgars in the war.

Italy's Duce looks covetously at the Aegean islands of Greece which offer ideal locations for air bases for an attack upon the Suez Canal, which is figuring so prominently in Italian foreign policy, or Turkey, and possible commercial centers for trade expansion into the Balkans and the Near East.

Greece needed domestic peace to cope with these problems. Death has given Greece the peace it needs.

GARDEN FURNITURE

Every building material concern carries a line of wood garden furniture that can be assembled and painted at very little cost. These pieces come in a variety of styles and are so designed to be a decided decoration to the garden or lawn.

Hickory chairs in the garden are always in favor because of their ruggedness and add a note of interest to the yard, as well as a comfortable place to rest and enjoy the beauties unfolding.

The "handy man" can make seats and benches that are a credit to any garden without spending but a few cents for a board or two; then if these pieces are painted white or weathered brown, or a good shade of green, he may well be proud of his handiwork.

"HOW MANY BULLS DO YOU NEED?" COUNTY AGT. ASKS

Following is a copy of a letter being sent out by the county agent to all dairymen whose address is in his office. All who are interested may advise the agent at once:

Dear Coryell Co. Dairymen:
High quality registered Jersey bull calves from high producing registered cows are now available at approximately $25 each up to two months of age. Ask yourself this question, "Are my heifers better milkers than their mothers?" In 100 many cases the answer is "No." Why aren't they as good or better? There is one reason—the bull they were sired by was just a male cow.

The situation is serious—the commercial Jersey cow is of value in proportion to the amount of milk she produces, therefore, if you intend to stay in the milk business you should breed them better and if you want to sell out they naturally will sell better if they milk more.

Fill out the enclosed card which obligate you in no way, and return to me indicating you want more information. The card does not require postage.

We have calves available now and will have along each month. Credit is available for reliable dairymen to buy these calves.

This proposition is open to any dairyman in Coryell county. Guy Powell, Co. Agent.

Dear County Agt.:

I need bulls and would like to know more about the calves which are available.

Yours truly,

..... Dairyman.

CONGRESS CANDIDATES OPEN CAMPAIGNS SAT.

Senator Poage Speaks to Crowd Of Enthusiastic Voters at Temple

On Saturday afternoon, May 23, at 2:30 P. M., Senator W. R. (Bob) Poage opened his campaign in Temple with a speech from the bandstand in the City Park. In spite of the weather he spoke to approximately 500 people, including about 100 who came from his home city of Waco in a motor caravan. The Waco visitors who were accompanied by a band, paraded around the business sections of Temple prior to the speaking, and the local Bell County candidates were introduced.

Senator Poage was introduced by the former citizen of Bell County, Dr. W. L. Crothwaite of Waco, who stated that he had known the candidate for 25 years, and had always known him to be the kind of man in whom he had confidence. Dr. Crothwaite referred to Poage's World War, and to the fact that Senator Poage was one of the original Roosevelt for President men in Central Texas. Dr. Crothwaite said that Sen. Poage was never a man to jump on a band wagon and that he lined up with the President long before it became the popular thing to do.

Senator Poage reviewed his life history pointing out that he was born in this District 36 years ago; that he possessed unusual legislative experience with 12 years to his credit; that his election would give the District a representative in Congress who knew legislative procedure and could hope to get things done. He said that he submitted his candidacy not on what he promised to do but on the record of what he had done.

He cited his perfect attendance in the State Senate; his election as president pro tem of the Senate; his membership on 14 committees, and his chairmanship of three, both of which he said were records, as evidence or recognition on the part of his fellow members. He pointed to his legislative work in connection with the State assumption of the County Road District Bonds, and stated that it relieved the people of this district over $4,000,000 of local taxes. He called particular attention to his connection with the legislation creating the Brazos River District and pointed out that he was author of every one of the many Brazos River Bills assed the last two years, and that the Supreme Court had held these bills to have been correctly drawn. He also condemned the utility companies for their attempt to hamper the Brazos Project and cited his record in connection with utility regulation. He expressed his approval of the rural electrification program and described it as one of the most beneficial pieces of work that the Federal Government has done.

On the question of pensions he said: "I believe that it is sound for the Government to speed the circulation of money and reduce the relief rolls thru the payment of a liberal pension to the aged. As a member of the Texas Legislature I not only voted for the State Pension but offered a natural resource tax measure with which to pay the bill. I would favor the payment of as large an amount of assistance to the aged as the Government could reasonably make, without impairment of its solvency or undue inflation of prices. I think this is as far as I could be expected to commit myself, and I am sure it is as far as our thinking citizens want a Congressman to go." In this connection, he referred to his fight to pass a tax on natural resources, and to the overlapping of State and Federal taxes.

Poage declared that the "Weakest link in our agricultural progress is its failure to guarantee to the tenant farmer and to the men and women who actually grow our cotton a fair share in the aid extended by Government." He said that this was no criticism of the President against his program, which he praised as having saved the farmers and with them the Nation. On the contrary, he said it was criticism of certain large landlords, and he called on the voters to ask the candidates for Congress just what they had personally done in this regard. He answered the question as to himself by stating that he had never taken more than one-half of the Government money and had displaced no tenants by reason of the cotton program. He said: "No nation can long endure that ignores agriculture. This Nation has ignored it too long." And added that no system can solve the agricultural problem of the South that allows a landlord to profit by putting off his tenants and forcing them on relief."

He insisted that the dole should stop and the unemployed should be provided with jobs on substantial and enduring public works. He condemned the rule that one must have been on relief in order to qualify for a public works job, and said that he considered a man's willingness to work a better test of his need than any report of a case worker. He said the present policy penalized the man who tried to

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FROM RURAL SUPERV. OFFICE

Mr. H. E. Welborn, Rural Supervisor, gives us a few of the questions asked and the answers he has given:

Q. Why do you place so much emphasis on my raising a good garden, and taking good care of my cow, keeping the hen-house clean, and seeing that the hens have fresh water, and that the brood sow is given proper care?

A. Because you must make a living before you can make money. Raise all the garden stuff you need, can enough for the winter, and have plenty of milk and butter. If you have more than one cow, manage to have them freshen at different times so you will have a supply all during the year.

Q. Why do you recommend certified seed?

A. Good seed is the cheapest item in your farming operation. You plant maize just because you have it on hand. After about five or six days scratch around in the furrow and find that you don't have a stand because your seed were not good.

Q. I see you have made an item of $50 for a milk cow. If I can get one for $35 can I spend the balance?

A. Positively no. You are not to divert any of this money unless by special authority. You are allowed $50 for a cow. The Administration will mortgage this animal for that amount. Do you think we would accept $50 mortgage on a $35 cow? If we wanted you to have "just a cow" we would have only allowed you $35 to start with. We don't mean that you MUST pay the whole amount for her, but some of us will look her over before you pay for her.

Q. I see you have allowed me an item of $100 in February. How are you going to know how I used this money?

A. When you have completed the job for which this amount was granted, come back here with the receipts for everything you bought, and be sure your receipts are genuine. They will show how much has been used. If any client, after having received his first check, cannot show by receipts where his money has gone, he may find that all future consideration by the Administration will cease.

Q. You say that an inspector will be out at my place sometime. Who is it going to be? What will he do? Will I be notified before hand?

A. I don't know who he will help himself, and summed up his position as being:

"Work for all who can work, A living wage for all who do work.

Help for all who can't work, and Hell for all who won't work."

Senator Poage concluded by pointing out that he was running on his own merits and not at the request of or as the candidate of any office holder or office seeker. He said, "If I cannot be elected on my merits, you better not elect me, because when I am elected to Congress, I am going to be the Congressman myself."

Judge Tirey of Waco Is Greeted By Large Number in Opening Speech

Belton, May 23.—"Farmers are not interested in any foreign market, or any other kind of market, unless it pays them an adequate price for their cotton, and we know that the same selfish interests that brought on the depression are now putting out the propaganda that to aid and assist agriculture is unconstitutional and against the spirit of our Government; that the farmer should be left to the mercy of those who for more than 100 years have robbed him of the fruits of his labor and his family of the comforts and advantages of life," Frank B. Tirey of Waco said, in formally opening his campaign here Saturday afternoon for Congress from the Eleventh District.

"A fair and impartial regulation of business is necessary to protect the little man from large combinations of capital," Tirey said, "Big corporations and the utilities should not be permitted to control the Government, but should be regulated and controlled by the Government."

Generous praise was accorded by Tirey to the national administration. "President Roosevelt," he said, "has preached the doctrine of being a good neighbor and taught the Nation its responsibility to the unfortunate.

"I am against confiscation or overtaxing wealth or incomes, but I believe in closing all the gaps in the income laws through which tax dodgers escape just taxes. I do not believe in squandering money, either publicly or privately," Tirey said.

Much of Tirey's opening speech was devoted to agriculture. He asserted that "no more important project has been brought to the attention of the people than the Brazos reclamation project, which has for its purpose the control of the flood waters of the Brazos River and the conservation of the soil."

Tirey said "we believe in a crop control plan; we believe in the honesty and sincerity of purpose of President Roosevelt in his declaration to put agriculture on the same plane as manufacturing. To him the farmer, the businessman and laborer feel that they owe a debt of everlasting gratitude, and under his banner we will continue to fight until agriculture takes its rightful place in the commercial world, and "if this be treason, make the most of it."

be. He will look over your operations generally. He will pay more attention than you may imagine to how you are keeping your garden, your poultry house, how you are taking care of your cow, and your brood sow and your stock generally. He will see whether or not you have made an effort to keep your crops clean. No. You will not have any notice of his coming.

Q. Do you suppose the Government is going to be "hard boiled" with us?

A. We have gone over every item of your requirements, and you and I are agreed that the amount is entirely sufficient. You have seen the Home Supervisor's various items of expense, and it is evident that everything that will be necessary for you and your family has been provided. You came in here with the proper papers showing that it is impossible for you to be financed through any other channel. Now the least you can do is to make every effort to help yourself. As you say, you may "dry out again" and not make much of a crop. But if you make the proper effort you may receive further consideration. As to that, I am authorized to say. But with the abundance of water you have in your well, and a good wind mill, I can't see how you could very well explain why you haven't raised a good garden. If you do this, and have all the milk and butter you can use the year round, and all the chickens and eggs, and all the cured hams and shoulders and bacon, you at least won't bear very heavy on relief.

In every case the borrower says, "I sure am going to do my best"

VOICE AROUND THE WORLD WILL OPEN WORLD'S FAIR!

Dallas, Texas.—A voice around the world will open the gates of the $25,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition, opening June 6.

Spoken into a microphone before the main entrance, the voice—possibly that of President or Mrs. Roosevelt—will travel over radio waves to New York, England, France, Japan, California and back to Dallas, where it will strike an electrical device inside the grounds and swing the gate open.

The words will require 9 seconds for their trip around the world.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day, the day we honor soldiers, sailors and marines, besides our loved ones who have passed on, had its beginning in the old Roman Empire, where wreaths were placed as crowns on victors and then used to decorate graves symbolizing victory over death.

The Memorial Day observance in our day began in 1868 when Gen. John A. Logan issued an order that the graves of defenders of the Union be decorated on May 30.

To this, significance has been added since the World War when so many of the over-seas men were killed in action, and sometimes their burial places have not been found. Nearly every country that participated in the World War has the grave of an Unknown Soldier which is a shrine on which flowers have been placed for those who have died in action and their burial places unknown. The Centopah, in London, the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery in Washington.

In a great many towns and cities memorial services are held and also there are Poppy sales by organizations, especially American Legion Posts, American Legion Auxiliaries and the like, the proceeds being used for various charities and Legion causes.

Thus far, we have no information of a service, sale, or celebration here. We must therefore take it upon ourselves individually and each of us, to observe this day, and revere the memory of those loved ones who have gone, and our heroes—Soldier, Sailor, and Marine!

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

When you bought Christmas seals a few years ago, you were contributing to a great and national educational campaign against tuberculosis. Today a portion of your donation pays for the finding, correcting, and preventing of this disease in public schools. It is most timely that we consider this now, although Christmas is months away, because all over the country we are in the midst of a great drive to introduce tuberculin testing in schools. No public health movement in recent years holds greater significance.

In the first place, the cure together at one spot and at the of tuberculosis depends upon finding it early. Secondly we want to protect those who do not have it.

The means of detection are the tuberculin test and the X-ray. The test is simple to administer and harmless. But we must remember that alone it is not enough. A positive reaction does not mean that the child has an active case of tuberculosis. Instead, it tells us only that at some time he was infected with the tubercle bacillus. That is why the follow-up X-ray is so important. With that it is possible to tell what damage has occurred. A good, thorough examination by a physician is also necessary. The combined facts enable your school or family physician to give you a true picture of the health status of your child.

The advantage of doing the test and X-ray through the schools is merely one of administration. In short, having all the school-age children tosame time, facilitates mass diagnosis. Doing it any other way would be very slow, as we have learned from experience. Next: a milk party for the end of school.

REAL ESTATE AND SCANDAL BOTH START WITH "DIRT".

SYNOPSIS

Scornful of the bloody feud that exists between the Tolliver and Falin clans in the Kentucky mountains, Martin Reed, young city engineer, arrives to build a railroad over their properties. When June Judd Tolliver's daughter falls in love with the unsuspecting Reed it arouses the jealousy of Dave Tolliver, her fiance, who vows to kill Reed. Reed and Dave engage in a fist fight. Reed is the victor but when the Falins appear on the scene to avenge a beating Dave had given one of them, he holds them off until Dave and June can make a getaway. He sends June to his sister in the city and returns to the camp where he learns that the Falins have been hindering progress of the railroad by sabotage. Unknown to Reed, they have planted dynamite under the bridge leading to the camp.

CHAPTER IX

WHILE the wreckage of the camp was being cleaned up the next morning Judd and Buddie Tolliver trudged in from their farm.

"Now you stay here," Judd told his son as they reached the mess tent, "till your Pappy gets through talkin' with Mr. Reed."

"I got serious things to tell you about, Mr. Reed," he continued as Martin hurried up.

"I'm..." Martin looked around at all the work yet to be done, then changed his mind. "All right. Let's go into the office."

As they walked away, Buddie's eyes followed them for a moment, then shifted to the deserted steam shovel, which crouched beside the almost-completed bridge across the creek. Unable to stand it any longer, he left the mess tent, crawled into the driver's cab of the shovel and began inspecting the levers and valves.

"I wouldn't be a-tellin' you this—only it's Melissa," Judd began when he and Martin were seated in the office tent. "She don't sing no more. Mr. Reed. Sun-up always seen her singin', you know. She's a-grievin'."

"But good heavens, man, June isn't lost—she's only away at school."

"Tain't jus' June... Dave's gone, too, you know."

"You mean on account of June?"

"Partly. But it's this." The old man indicated the camp. "He don't like it. He's dead sot ag'inst machinery an' things."

"He is, huh? I see... me included." Martin strode to the door and stared at the wreckage. "Against that, is he? Take a look at it? That's what somebody did last night... somebody who was dead set against machinery! What do you think about that?"

"Twarn't Dave."

"No! Then who?"

"Looks like the... Judd hesitated. He could have said "the Falins" but that would have been squealing and mountain folk, even when enemies, stuck together against the rest of the world."

"Twarn't Dave, Mr. Reed."

"No—it wasn't Dave!" Martin was angry and showed it. "It wasn't anybody. The thing just happened... and I'm here holding the sack."

"You're battlin' the mount'ins, Mr. Reed."

"Don't make me laugh! Even you can't think up poetic excuses nor moth-eaten ideals for a thing like that I harm nobody and they try to crush me with rocks. I bring prosperity to this God-forsaken country and I'm shot at for my pains.

"Was it jus' likin' fer us that bring you here in the first place?"

"I came here because I wanted to make money... and what's more, I'm going to make it."

"But we'uns was doing all right fore you come. It didn't take no money to make us git up every mornin' an' say 'Thanks, dear God, fer everything.' We had everything. We had love in our hearts to make us sing an' no secrets to give us the bellyache."

"So you repaid God by shooting your neighbor. That's my short cut for you." Then to Judd. "Put this here and that there... Now talk."

"What fer?"

"You wanted to talk to June, didn't you?"

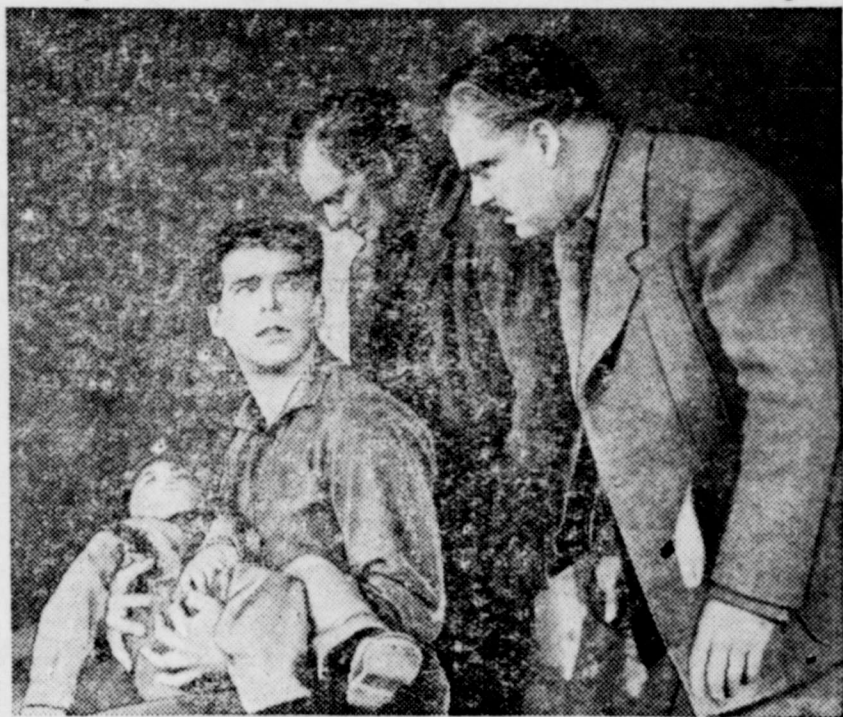

"But you said she was in Louisville..."

"Hello, pappy," the girl's voice came over the wire.

"June?" Her father's face was blank. "Where you hidin'?"

"I'm not hiding, pappy," she laughed. "I'm in Louisville."

"Is this thing hollow all the way through?" gasped Judd. As Martin nodded helplessly he added: "Well, what do you know." Then into the telephone. "Hello, little brush rabbit. Know what your maw said this mornin'? She said..."

Martin picked up Buddie and carried him into the office. "Son, it's your pappy," Judd, who was behind Martin, pleaded. "It's your pappy, son. Oh, God, please don't let him die."

to what you're driving at. You're down here to blame me for June going away—for Dave's leaving. You'd like to shove the responsibility of Melissa's suffering on my shoulders. Well, you don't. I've had enough of you and your whole stupid outfit, so get out. Get out!"

As he finished speaking the phone tinkled.

Thunderstruck at Martin's words, Judd glanced at him and at the telephone. Then he started moving awkwardly toward the door.

"Judd!" cried Martin, suddenly ashamed. "I'm sorry. Had a rotten night. I don't feel that way about you, really."

"I'm shore glad," the mountaineer answered with warmth. "I liked you the first day you walked into my house."

"I remember," Martin answered drily. "You were so sociable. Listen... do you want to talk to June?"

"Kin I?" Judd's voice was eager.

"Help yourself." Reed indicated the telephone. Then, as his visitor looked around, bewildered, he added: "My error. Wait a minute." He picked up the receiver. "Hello! Yep! Hello June... I got a surprise

There was a terrific explosion just outside the tent. Judd dropped the receiver and rushed outside with Martin just in time to be deluged with a shower of rocks and debris. The bridge was in ruins and the steam shovel, which had been sitting on the bank of the creek, was sliding and turning as, with Buddie in the cab, it tottered over the caving brink.

Men rushed from every direction. Soon they clambered down to the wrecked machine and pulled the boy from under it. Martin picked him up and carried him into the office.

"Buddie! Buddie!" he cried in agony. Then to the others who had crowded up. "Get me some water—quick. Buddie, old scout..."

Sobbing as only a man can, Judd was bent over the bleeding little body stretched out on the desk.

"Son, it's your pappy," he pleaded. "It's your pappy, son. Oh, God, don't let him die! Don't take him away from my poor Melissa."

Far off in Louisville June heard that terrible cry.

"Buddie! Buddie!" she gasped as she sat, transfixed with horror.

EXHIBIT TO SHOW FARM FOOD WORK

Dallas, May 28.—Efforts of Texas farm and ranch families to insure an abundance of food of great variety and high quality for the family table at the end of the first century of the state's independence will be shown in one of the main agricultural exhibits at the Centennial exposition in Dallas this summer.

The exhibit will feature the quantity of canned and cured products necessary to meet the nutritional needs of all members of a typical family. Material for the exhibit is being collected and arranged by representatives of the Texas A. and M. College extension service. It will feature products collected from the storage houses of approximately 75,000 Texas farm homes.

Included in the exhibit will be tomato juice from the Jacksonville section, citrus marmalade from the Rio Grande Valley, cured beef and pork products from the Lubbock area, canned rhubarb, asparagus and cherries from the high plains around Amarillo, onions from the Winter Garden section, sweet potatoes from deep east Texas, strawberries and fig preserves from the coast country. Dallas county will supply pickles and relishes and there will be peaches, pears, grapes and berries; apricots, plums and cherries; carrots, pumpkin and sweet potatoes, lima beans, English peas, green, squash and okra—all from central and east and west Texas. There also will be home canned sausage, pork tenderloin, chicken, and mince meat and country cured hams and bacon.

Needs of a typical family, as will be shown in the exhibit, require the production from 2422 row feet of vegetables in the garden of 4,785 feet of vegetables in the field, from one acre of fruit trees, from two dairy cows, one beef animal, two hogs, 50 laying hens, and necessary feed crop acreage.

We take this opportunity of extending our best wishes to the graduates of the Gatesville High School for their future success and achievements. May each of you realize some part of your desires for happiness and success. Keep your ideals so high that a full attainment will be humanly impossible, remembering that a life that honors God will be honored.

There will be two services at the Presbyterian Church next Sunday, to which everyone is most cordially invited. At 11 a. m. Mr. J. G. Whitten of Austin will speak to us. Mr. Whitten is an elder and not a minister. Since last fall he has been secretary of Synod's Causes for the Synod of Texas, U. S. We hope that a large number of our members will hear him.

The pastor will speak at 8 p. m. The public is cordially invited to worship with us.

The Friendly Church.

First Baptist Church

Despite the inclement weather the crowd was good and we had two additions last Sunday night.

Come Sunday, Sunday School will begin at 9:45 a. m., and the sermon Sunday morning will be preached by the pastor on "The Church."

The Baptist Training Union meets Sunday evening at 6:30. Sunday night will close the Better Program contest. The best Union will be photographed and their picture published in the Southern Baptist Training Union magazine.

The pastor will preach Sunday night at 7:45 on "They Were the Ruin of Him."

The YWA and WMS will meet Tuesday.

Deacons of the Church will meet Tuesday night. Wednesday night at 8 o'clock the pastor will preach on "The Judges." Welcome to our services.

B. T. U. ENLARGEMENT CAMPAIGN

There will be a B. T. U. enlargement campaign in the Leon River Association on June 21 to 28. The plan is as follows:

1. Each church participating will select their own books and teachers.

2. There will be three mass meetings of all the workers. The first will be on June 21 at 3 p. m. and is to be held at Pecan Grove. Announcements for the other meetings will be made later.

3. Each participating church will conduct classes from Monday, June 22 through Friday, June 26. These classes will be conducted at the night sessions only.

4. There will be no session on Saturday, Sunday, June 28, will be the last mass meeting at which time each church will make their report and present those who have completed the course.

5. We urge every Baptist Church in the Association to conduct a B. T. U. revival at this time. Anyone desiring additional information should communicate with me at Mound.

The warning of those who see this country turning to Communism is easily silenced. There are too many barbars for that to happen.

Choose your car for the things that count!

See first what a difference that V-8 Feeling makes

ALTHOUGH the Ford is one of the lowest-price cars, it is the only V-8 car below $1645. That's why you can't really judge it till you drive it. Till you feel the smoother flow of its 85 horsepower—its swifter pick-up—its easier power up hills and at fast cruising speeds.

And you'll find other outstanding points in a Ford V-8. The riding comfort of a 123" springbase—almost a foot longer than wheelbase. Remarkable stability over rough roads and on turns. The complete security of a steel body, with safety glass all around, and big Ford Super-Safety brakes.

These explain why Ford owners feel so pleased—as they report gas mileage equal to less powerful cars—and no oil added between regular changes. Ford owners get extra benefits in performance—yet pay no extra for them. Choose your new car as Ford owners do—for the things that count.
