ROBERTS, ON PLOUGH HORSE WINS TEXAS' DAMAGING 184 MILE DERBY.

D. A. Roberts galloped Bold Hazel, his bay mare, across the finish line Saturday to win the $1,000 Lampasas to Dallas Marathon horse race which was promoted by L. A. Parton, advertising manager of the Evant News.

Bold Hazel left her cultivator in the field the day before on account of Mr. Roberts couldn't plow because it was too wet, and ankled "on to Dallas" to bring home the Grand Prix in one of the most publicised horse races on record.

Close behind "Hazel" was Neai Jackson who had been the leader until late afternoon on the gruelling 184-mile race.

Seven-year-old Bill Shirley Standard showed his stamina riding into Dallas some time after "Hazel" and her man got unsaddled.

Time for the winner was 38 hours and 34 minutes.

POAGE QUALIFIED BY TEN YEARS' LEGISLATIVE EXPERIENCE

Senator R. W. (Bob) Poage candidate for Congress from this, the eleventh district of Texas, carried his campaign into this County Saturday on the Courthouse lawn in a ringing speech to a large crowd of interested who gathered to hear him.

Following a few selections by the high school band under the direction of D. W. Diserens, Senator Poage was introduced by County Judge Floyd Zeigler.

Mr. Poage, after thanking the crowd for their interest in his candidacy, and in public affairs, briefly outlined his life, stating, "like nearly every other candidate, he was born on a farm." He was fortunate enough to go to grade school and then finish high school, after which time he attended both Baylor and the University of Texas, receiving degrees at both.

After finishing school, he entered the practice of law at Waco, and was elected to State Legislature as Representative from his district. Then, entering the senatorial race he was elected State Senator from his district.

For a short period during the war, he was in the U. S. Navy, but stated "he never got to go to sea."

Experience in the Legislature has encouraged him to seek the next highest step, that of Congressman from the eleventh district of Texas.

While in Austin, Senator Poage was on the job as the records will show, and has only missed two days during his tenure of office.

He stated that he is a member of fourteen regular Legislative Committees of the Senate, something no other Senator has ever attained, being chairman of three of these committees, which in itself is a record.

GULF STATES TELEPHONE CO. STARTS INSTALLING IN NEW BUILDING

Workmen last week began the installation of equipment in the new Gulf States Telephone building at 10th and Main sts., which was completed some months ago. Other work on installing outside cables and changing old cable lines as well as open wire lines is going forward throught the city.

Constructed specifically for a telephone building the structure is very efficiently arranged, two phone booths being just inside the lobby, one of which can be reached when the office is closed and locked at night. Across the counter is the business office, and cashier's desk and counters. The operators are to be in a large room, with brand new switchboards of the latest type. The night operator's room will be on the southeast corner of the building.

Included in the building, which is complete in every detail are wash rooms, storage closets, ceiling lighting, and gas floor heaters.

Workmen at the building stated the installation would be completed sometime in July.

TEXAS' $25,000,000 SPECTACLE AT DALLAS

117,625 PEOPLE SAW IT SUNDAY.

Last Sunday, second day of the Texas Centennial, 117,625 awe-struck United Statesians rang the counters at the gates of Texas' magnificent $25,000,000 Centennial Central Exposition in Dallas for the full day "opener." The Texas "blow-out" netted only a few hundred under the 118,000 who entered the Century of Progress at Chicago on its opening day.

More than 2,000,000 tickets have been sold in advance, ac-ording to officials, and a forecast of a minimum of ten million paid admissions before the Exposition closes is now being talked.

PRESIDENT DUE FRIDAY

The opening being over, civic and exposition officials started laying elaborate plans for the visit of President Roosevelt Friday. The peak of the fair was expected to be reached when the chief executive delivers an address in the massive cotton bowl, football stadium, with a 50,000 capacity.

Coryell Countians who attended the impressive opening ceremonies whom we have heard of are listed elsewhere in these pages. If you go, and you will, you should, you must, phone or let us know. We'd like to know how many leave our gates and go in Dallas gates during this magnificent exposition. If we miss you one issue, see that we get your name the next. Thanks!

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

"The most significant political announcement of the year thus far" is what one periodical calls the statement of New York's Governor Herbert H. Lehman that he would not be a candidate for reelection. There were three widely varying responses to Lehman's statement: In Washington, consternation; at Tammany Hall, satisfaction; in Empire State Republican circles, hope.

The consternation in Washington is attributable to the fact that New York is no longer regarded as a "sure" state by the Democrats, and President Roosevelt was counting upon the prestige of Lehman on the ticket to carry the State for the Democrats. New York has 47 electoral votes or almost 9 percent of the total of 521. The importance of such a large block of votes in a close contest for the presidency—such as ensued in 1916 when Woodrow won over Hughes by only 23 electoral votes—is the difference between victory and defeat. President Roosevelt has privately estimated his minimum electoral vote at 325, but loss of his home state would cut that figure to 278 or only 12 more than the necessary 266.

In most States it is not the rule for the candidate of a popular gubernatorial candidate to help the presidential candidate of the party but New York State is an exception. In 1928, with New York on the doubtful list of States, Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential candidate hoped to carry the State by putting up a vote getting slate for State offices. He chose Franklin Roosevelt for Governor and Herbert Lehman for Lieutenant Governor. So valuable as assistant did Lehman become to Governor Roosevelt that he was his logical successor for the Governorship when Roosevelt accepted the Democratic nomination for President in 1932.

The popularity of Lehman as a candidate is attested by the fact that he ran 125,000 votes ahead of Roosevelt in 1932. His continued popularity as Governor is shown by his total in 1934, when he was a candidate for a second term, which gave him an unprecedented majority of 848,000 over his Republican opponent.

The real story of why Governor Lehman refuses to run for a third term in the face of recognized popularity in his home State and a "draft" moment among national Democratic officials is not known. Tammany Hall, which controls New York City Democracy, is demanding his scalp but Lehman has been at outs with the tiger since he became Governor four years ago. World wide criticism of Jews is said to have prompted the Governor's decision, as he feared by a continuance in office for a third term he might bring condemnation upon his race, which numbers 2,000,000 in New York State. Before he entered politics in 1928, Lehman was a member of a potent banking firm of Lehman Bros. of New York City, and the recent death of his brother Arthur is said to have created a need for his return to the firm. Republicans contend that Lehman differs with President Roosevelt on many of the latter's fundamental policies and wishes to avoid an open break by continuing in office.

The satisfaction of Tammany Hall is explained by the fact that Lehman is a Roosevelt man —outwardly at least—and Tammany has never accepted the present chief executive as the leader of the Democratic Party. It hopes by Lehman's withdrawal from the political scene to capture control of the State government from both Farleyites (National Chairman James A. Farley is also New York State Chairman) and the Republicans.

Republicans see in the Lehman declaration their only hope of carrying the State for their presidential candidate and capturing the State government for the first time in fourteen years. Chief among the candidates mentioned for the Republican gubernatorial nomination is Representative James W. Wadsworth, former United States Senator and now one of the bitterest foes of the New Deal.

Democrats have a wide field from which to choose Lehman's successor. Farley is the unquestioned leader of the State's Democratic party but he can hardly be spared from the national campaign. New Dealers like Robert H. Jackson of Jamestown, counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau, but Tammany is opposed to him. A movement is under way to draft Owen D. Young, who, it is said, can help Roosevelt carry New York more than anyone else. Other possibilities include New York's Senators, Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner, State Attorney General John J. Bennett, and Syracuse's flamboyant mayor, Roland B. Marvin.

Shooting From High Places

The effect of altitude is enhanced in these two pictures, (below) by including in the foreground the brow of the hill, and (right) by the shadow of the building (Empire State) from which the downward shot was made. The pictures were taken at exposures, respectively, of 1/50 second at f.16 and 1/25 second at f.16.

IN RECALLING your vacation tours, did it ever occur to you how often you were taken or went to high elevations for a view? The summit of a hill, the edge of a precipice, the mountain peak, the skyscraper, the lofty monument, the church tower, the crow's nest of a ship, not to mention going aloft in airplanes.

Therein lies a picture-taking idea for the next time you start going places. Forget not your camera, and whenever you find yourself "on top of the world" somewhere, make yourself "monarch of all you survey" by snapping the picture below. Reserve a part of your album for such pictures with an intriguing title—"Jumping Off Places I Have Known," "Scenes from High Perches," "My Camera Goes Aloft," "Topsy-turvy Snaps," "Hitting the High Spots" or what better can you think of? If you will take advantage of such opportunities—and once you get started on this hobby, you are likely to see that you go to high places purposely for picture-taking—you will soon have a collection of compelling, not to say dizzy, interest.

The impression that you want to give in these pictures is that of every altitude. To do this it isn't necessary to teeter on the brink of your perch or otherwise to risk your life while you snap the picture. It is better for you and the picture to stand far enough back to include a little of the brink in the foreground, thereby intensifying the feeling of height. Having the horizon line well toward the top of the picture also helps by adding distance and vastness.

You may be tempted to poke your camera over the edge of a retaining wall or window ledge and shoot down. If it be a country landscape, shooting down will not usually give the perspective that conveys the effect of great altitude, so well as shooting with the camera held level, although the picture may still be interesting. In any case, when you do shoot down, the effect will be helped by taking in a nearby object located on the way, such as a protruding gargoyle from a church tower, a jutting rock from a precipice, or a bit of the wing or wheel of your airplane. Have the sun at your back, because the shadow of your elevation on the terrain below also helps to tell that you were high up when that picture was taken.

In all such snapshooting it is advisable to use a small lens opening, otherwise, you will lose a little detail in the distance. Frequently, too, it is worth while to use a filter, particularly if your picture is to include a cloud-studded horizon or if there is haze.

They say that boxing, or the art of knuckle-pushing, is the third oldest sport and that foot racing followed by wrestling won the statistical handicap by a nose or should I say a foot.

I didn't see the first contest but you can take it from me that Eve first swung a hay-maker at Adam and then the old boy invented foot racing.

All of which is by the way of saying that many thousands of years later we are about to see a shuffling brown menace, tagged Joe Louis, climb into a ring in Yankee Stadium in the Big Town to do dirt to a Nordic invasion from across the sea dubbed Maxie Schmeling.

Maybe we all won't see it but enor Mike Jacobs who inherited Tex Rickard's chairmanship of the cauliflower industry is preparing to play host to over 90,000 guests. I might add paying guests starting at $5.75 an invite and working up to $40. for near-sighted fans.

But if we don't see it we'll hear it and hear it called by Clem McCarthy who's a handy man at the microphone whether he's calling Bold Venture by a nose or Joe Louis by a left to the button.

Mr. Jacobs and his gladiators may play to a gate of $1,000,000 but if Buick Mac doesn't hit an audience of more than a million rooting, tooting fight fans, far from Yankee Stadium, we'll be badly fooled.

On paper, and looking at the records, it should be Shuffling Joe's fight in two heats but this boy Schmeling can hit, he can take it, and he can box. Whether you watch the fight with your eyes glued to the ring or let Buick Mac's crisp voice tell you about it, you'll know there's been a fight.

Short Notes at Long Odds

June is the bridal month but if Schmeling thinks there'll be a bride on Joe Louis he is playing the wrong rodeo.

Max Schmeling can mark down June 18 in his diary as the night of brown skin putsch.

James J. Braddock, the former PWA man, says he knows how to trounce Louis. Maybe he wants to bring his pock-axe in the ring with him.

Max Schmeling rode a five-day boat getting over here but he can go home in 46 hours on the Hindenburg.

When the brown Bomber meets the Berlin Blunderbuss there's bound to be an explosion but Mike Jacobs will pick up all the pieces.

Softball

Thursday night Doc's continued their winning ways by winning both ends of a double header with the Blues and the Firemen respectively.

In the first game the Sandwich crew won a slugfest 16-10. Wilson was in the box for the winners while Grisham toiled for the Camp team.

The second game ended 10-2 with the Firemen being held scoreless until the fifth inning and to a lone scratch rit. In the fifth Blanton hit a wild streak which combined with three hits enabled the Firemen to push over their two runs. The offerings of Dr. Ray and Fred Worley, who relieved him in the fifth inning, were combed for an even dozen blows.

The two victories left Doc's 2½ games in the van and the smoke eaters left them tied with the Reds for second place.

Friday night the Merchants, minus one or two of their stars, were defeated in 8 innings by the Reds 13-8.

The two clubs entered the 8th inning tied at 8 all but Sasse weakened, allowing the Camp boys to chase across 5 runs, enough to win the contest and go into a tie with the Firemen for second place.

Team Standings

	won	lost	pc.
Doc's	6	0	1.000
Firemen	3	2	.600
Reds	3	2	.600
Merchants	2	4	.333
Whites	1	3	.250
Blues	0	4	.000

Tonight's schedule: The first game finds Doc's playing the Merchants while in the second game the Fireboys tangle with the Whites.

Thursday's schedule: The Blues and Reds cross bats in the curtain raiser while the Whites and Merchants put on the finale.

Starting tonight there will be a fourth team from town playing in the place of one of the Camp teams. Bugs Rutherford will probably manage this new club and any one desiring to play should get in touch with him.

The change came about when the Camp teams decided that with only two teams instead of three their chances were better toward winning. The change is a good one as another strong team can be recruited in town also leaving the two remaining Camp teams vastly improved, thereby making the league a great deal stronger and more interesting.

The new team can choose whatever name it desires but will play the schedule of the withdrawing Camp team, also taking the standing of the said team.

Each man signing the new club must pay an entrance fee of fifty cents before he is eligible to play.

LOCALS WIN BY LOPSIDED SCORE OVER WACO SERVICE MEN

Saturday night a local softball team, made up of Firemen and members of Doc's Sandwich Shop team, won over the Cities Service team from Waco by a score of 28-1.

The visitors were handicapped by the loss of several of their regulars and also by the poor lighting of the local diamond, but they encountered their tightest obstacle in the big bats of the locals. The base hits rang out like a barrage of heavy artillery and in practically every inning every time you looked up someone was crossing the plate. Having played all season with the large ball, the game was played with the small ball, the local sluggers found the opposing pitcher and the smaller pellet to their liking and fattened their batting averages no small amount. Bug Jones banged out 5 hits in as many trips to the plate, including a home run. Busby, first man up for the locals lined out a home run as did Jesse Lee Wiggins. The losers found difficulty in connecting with the ball for any great amount of success, and scored their lone tally in the initial frame on a hit, a walk, and an error.

A return game will try to be arranged in the near future. Starting lineup for the locals was as follows: Jones c, Blanton p, Ray 1b, E. Warley 2b, Franks ss, Busby 3b, P. Peaterson sf, Baker lf, F. Warley cf, Rankin rf.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

With The Spectator

Two changes have been made since the printing of the July primary ballot in this column Friday. W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas, who filed as a candidate for Secretary of Agriculture, has withdrawn his application and asked the State Democratic Executive Committee to omit his name from the ballot.

The list of candidates running without opposition was reduced to four when John O. Douglas of Houston made a last-minute announcement for Attorney General. There has been considerable controversy over whether Douglas name will be placed on the ballot, due to the fact that he did not make his announcement within the time limit set by the State Executive Committee. Strangely enough, Attorney General William McCraw will rule on whether his opponent's name will be placed upon the ballot. McCraw, in Dallas for the opening of the Exposition there, announced he would not appear in Austin at the meeting of the committee to contest with Douglas his right to a place on the ticket.

To McCraw, reelection as Attorney means a great deal. Swept into office two years ago over a veteran and seasoned campaigner, McCraw demonstrated his ability as a speaker and vote-getter and is planning to run for Governor two years from now when he completes his second term.

Had Jimmie made a "now or never" race for the United States Senate this year against incumbent Morris Sheppard, McCraw, Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, and Speaker of the House Coke Stevenson of Junction would have been out in front for the gubernatorial position.

Governor Allred's decision to seek a second term as the State's chief executive and leave the field open for Sheppard brought about announcements for reelection by both McCraw and Railroad Commissioner races this year, for the defeat of McCraw or Thompson will eliminate one or both of the most likely candidates for governor two years hence.

Coke Stevenson, upon the completion of his second term as Speaker of the House, will return to his law practice at Junction and is not likely to be heard from in 1938. Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul of Houston, who also would probably have been in the race with McCraw and Thompson had Allred retired, is a candidate for reelection and may enter the lists against them in 1938.

The gubernatorial race got under way last week with Hunter and Fischer making their opening addresses respectively at Austin and Tyler. Roy Sanderford opened at Alvarado in April; Pierce Brooks has been campaigning for some time; Governor Allred opens at Waxahachie June 20.

Tom Hunter's address differentiated somewhat from those made during his first two campaigns for Governor. Within the shadow of the Capitol dome and but two blocks from the executive mansion, the Wichita Falls candidate abandoned his vitriolic attacks upon his opponents and confined himself to a quiet criticism of Chief Opponent James V. Allred.

Hunter centered his attack upon alleged interference in the State Departments by Governor Allred, charging that Jimmie was building up a powerful political machine with Highway Department patronage. "I am cognizant of the threat that the present (Allred) administration, if continued in power, means to disrupt the extremely efficient Highway Department with a ruthless political ax, and there already is dissension in the Health Department of Allred's political policy of shelving efficiency, where he can, for the spoils system," he said.

In addition, Hunter, to play old-age pensions "without discrimination" to all who are not barred by constitutional restrictions, reduce the expenses of the State government, and balance the budget and make the pension payments by a gross income tax on incomes above $6,000 a year.

With such distinguished Texans as Coke Stevenson and Lee

Simmons on the platform, F. W. Fischer sounded the keynote of his campaign at Tyler as "tax the untaxed and untax the taxed."

"I have become a candidate for Governor for the purpose of presenting to the people the question of placing a greater direct tax on natural resources so that the revenue therefrom can pay every man and woman in Texas of more than 65 a pension of $15 a month," Fischer announced. Natural resources—oil, gas, sulphur, and the like—are being exhausted at the rate of more than a billion dollars a year, the Tyler candidate declares, and proposes a tax upon natural resources which he maintains will lift the burden of ad valorem taxes from real estate and enable the payment of old age pensions.

"Shall we continue the Governor's policy of permitting gigantic corporations to take away a few billions before we wake up and protect our State from such ruthlessness exploitation?" Fischer asked, and proposed "that we simply transfer and take off of the backs of the automobile users one-half of the gasoline tax burden and place it on crude oil, where 90 percent of it will be paid by consumers outside the State.

In conclusion Fischer said the Roosevelt Democratic Clubs of Texas, in a Statewide convention at Austin April 17, endorsed his platform, as did the Texas Federation of Labor at Houston May 14.

Lovely "Sweetheart of Texas"

To millions of people throughout the nation, who have read with interest the Texas Centennial's booklets describing the beauties of Texas, lovely Janice Jarratt was known simply as the "girl on the cover". But in response to a wide public demand Centennial officials revealed her identity as the San Antonio girl who won fame in New York as America's best-loved model and became ranked as one of the world's most beautiful women. Back to Texas she came last week, and in an elaborate ceremony attended by hundreds Governor James V. Allred bestowed upon her the official state commission as "Sweetheart of the Texas Centennial." It will be her duty to reign with charm and gracious distinction over many of the scores of Centennial celebrations being held throughout all Texas.

SHIRLEY BOOTH, pert star of the uproarious comedy, "Three Men On A Horse," now in its second year on Broadway, is shown here in "The Bride's House" wearing a smart new Spring ensemble. Her hat of natural colored straw reflects the Paris trend, its chic quality emphasized by a short, stiff veil and a blue ribbon bow. The dress is a gay navy print, with a cluster of flowers at the neck, and Miss Booth's fur-trimmed coat is beige in color, of coarse basket-weave design. Her shoes are of the new navy gabardine with calf trim outlined in white. The heels are scuffless. Beige gloves to complement a dark calf purse complete. Miss Booth's smart ensemble, which is suitable for both town and country wear, have not already signed and had notarized the form for this may receive them at the News office any time this week, and they may be left here.

THAT a Canadian honker goose and a lamb, inseparable companions on a Modoc farm near Berkley, California, understand each other perfectly. When the goose is lonely and wants the lamb for company, it honks; when the lamb wants company it bleats. Each always responds.

THAT there is a manicure shop for canaries in New York.

THAT there is a city in Canada which is south of a city in Michigan! (Windsor, Ontario, is south of Detroit, Michigan.)

THAT in China the storekeepers cut chewing gum in half because less than one Chinese in 10,000 can afford to buy a whole stick.

THAT the ancient reason for wedding rings was that a small artery connected the ring finger with the heart.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATIONS

- June 11 to 13
- June 11, Fayetteville, Centennial Tomato Festival.
- June 11-13, Fort Stockton, Water Carnival.
- June 13, Woodville, Tyler County Homecoming.

ENTIRE WORLD SHOWS ITS INTEREST IN CENTENNIAL

Dallas, June 5.—Interest in the state of Texas and its Centennial year celebrations is world wide, according to requests for literature and information. Several thousand inquiries are received each week as the result of the extensive advertising campaign carried on by the state organization.

Inquiries have been received practically every foreign country. Canada leads in number with England sending in the most requests from Europe. Numerous inquiries, however, are being received from Spain, Germany, Italy, Greece, Sweden, Norway, France, Denmark, Holland, Portugal, and Poland and other countries. South America countries have manifested great interest and Mexico has sent in many requests for information.

The state department answers each inquiry with a varied assortment of printed matter, descriptive of the Lone Star State and its state-wide Centennial celebrations.

STREETS OF PARIS IS "EYE FULL" AT CENTENNIAL

Dallas, June 5.—The Streets of Paris with its sensational pieturization of Gay Paree bids fair to be the most popular spot on the entire Texas Centennial grounds. Fashioned after the Latin Quarter of Paris, with a replica of the SS Normandie as the central piece in the place, it is attracting more attention than any other attraction on the grounds.

Located aboard the SS Normandie is the Centennial Club where royalty will be entertained, if royalty attends the Centennial Exposition. Three decks of the Normandie are devoted to Centennial Club rooms, two of these being air conditioned.

Famous for its peep shows, its grisettes, its sidewalk cafes, its casinos and dance pavilions, the Streets of Paris opens the Centennial with a bang. Featured as the stage show in the attraction is Andre Lasky's French Revue, with 45 Centennial Artists, and 24 Parisienne models. Another feature will be Francis Dittrich's Art Institute, where living models will be sketched by visiting artists. Room will be reserved for spectators who seek to see how an art institute is run. Thirteen prominent artist models from Chicago have been brought here for this feature of the Streets of Paris.

Many sensational acts have been signed for the Streets of Paris to augment the French Revue. Among these are four high diving acts. Maudin, the world's most famous high diver. Another act is the Venus in the Shell, and many other famous acts.

VACATION

"The act of vacating; intermission of a stated employment, or judicial proceedings; school holidays."—Webster.

Now we know! It means surcease from toil. It means picnics, outings, fishing, red bugs, sunburn. Fatigue. It's vacation. It's good for you.

If you can't do more than go to the nearest creek, cock up your legs and flatten out on your back and watch the billowy clouds float lazily by, and relax, do it. It's a vacation.

Wherever there is any toil, routine work or labor, there should be a vacation. If you are lucky enough not to work, or have to, take a real vacation and "work" a little. To you, that will be a real vacation.

Vacation, the good part of it, is the change from the same old walls, the hum-drum of the daily task, a change of scenery, a change of people—in fact—a change. It is an interruption, a new experience. Let's make it a real vacation, but by ALL means, take one!

A GOVERNOR WHO ISN'T PROVINCIAL

Those candidates for governor who are trying to make political capital out of the fact that Governor Allred has visited a great many Texas communities during his term and officiated frequently at such affairs as bridge openings, cornerstone layings and queen crownings, do not seem to be showing good judgment. To criticize the governor for attending these functions is to criticize the communities which invited him. Governor Allred has not gone anywhere except when urgently invited to do so. To jeer at him for participating in community affairs is to slap at the communities themselves. Which isn't real good politics.

There is another angle to this business and it is for some politicians to realize it. It is just this: Texas has had enough provincial governors, and it doesn't want any more. There have been governors in the past who seemed to think that the 98th meridian was the western boundary of Texas. West Texas, into which Governor Allred has made a number of trips, is glad that he has made the most of every opportunity to get acquainted with this section and its needs and problems. It is not inclined to look with favor on candidates who so blatantly proclaim their provincialism.—Amarillo News.

THIS WEEK IN TEXAS HISTORY

Week of June 7

1836—On June 9 three commissioners were sent to Matamoros under the flag of truce to see if all the Texas prisoners had been released. They the prisoners held in custody in violation of the flag of treaty so they sent a letter to General T. J. Rusk setting forth the situation.

1829—The law requiring the President of the Republic of Texas and his cabinet to reside at the new seat of government after the first of the succeeding October was passed on June 8.

1844—The American Senate, after long discussion of the treaty of annexation, rejected

it on June 8 by a vote of 16 to 35.

1846—Between June 8, 1846 and November 4, 1851, Henry McCulloch commanded six different companies of Texas rangers.—CIA press.

ENROLLMENT AT TEXAS CIA REACHES NEW HIGH

Denton, June 5.—Enrollment figures at Texas State College for Women (CIA) reached 955 after two and a half days of registration for the first term of the summer session. This total exceeds by a small margin the number that had enrolled at the same period last year, when an all-time record was set. Late registrations will be accepted throughout the week, according to Walker King, registrar.

Extent of Soil Erosion Work in State Viewed By Department Head

"Erosion control work on the Soil Conservation Service Projects is serving as a guide in the fight to control erosion and conserve the soils of the nation," said H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, during a recent visit to Texas. Mr. Bennett, accompanied by Louis P. Merrill, Regional Conservator, and Paul H. Walsler, State Coordinator, spent several days the first part of the week inspecting the work of a number of the Soil Conservation Service Watershed Projects and Camps in Texas.

"Damage done to sloping cultivated fields by the recent heavy rains shows that without a complete coordinated program of erosion control a large share of the lands of the nation are doomed."

Mr. Bennett continued with the statement that the protection of farm lands from impoverishment and ruin by wind and water erosion is one of the most important national problems of the day. Upon its solution depends the ability of the soil to support that great segment of our population which takes its living directly from the land, as well as the ability of the nation to continue to produce from its own soil the necessities of national existence. The ability to produce plentifully and in variety, he stated, made America great; it must be sustained if America is to stay great. It can be sustained only if the fountain of production—the soil—is guarded and preserved.

"The problem of erosion control and soil conservation is by no means solely agricultural. It affects those who live in cities as surely as it affects the farmer. Its solution is of vital concern to all America, because all America must have materials for food and clothing from the soil.

"Conservation of the soil and water is largely a matter of using the land in accordance with the dictates of nature. Hitherto, in this country, we have sought unsuccessfully to repeal natural laws that interfered with our use of the land. We have stripped away the vegetative cover that protected the soil from wind and rain for countless centuries before white man came. We have farmed steeply sloping fields without thought of gravity or the erosive powers of the water. We have bared our plains and prairies with seldom a thought for the power of wind. Now we see the consequences of our wastefulness in vast areas of ruined and depleted land."

Commenting on his visit to Soil Conservation Service experiment stations and projects areas in Texas, Mr. Bennett said: "One heavy rain on cotton land in the Erosion Experiment Station at Tyler early this month swept off soil at the rate of sixty-three ton per acre and lost 31 percent of the precipitation in run off. On the same kind of land, but which was covered with grass, not a particle of soil was lost and the loss of rainfall in run off was reduced to three tenths of one percent. Last year at the erosion Experiment Station at Temple, land with 4 percent slope in cotton lost 105 tons of soil per acre and 25 percent of the precipitation in run off. At the same station Bermuda grass lost only three hundredths of one ton of soil per acre and only four hundredths of one percent of the rainfall by run off. These records show that by the proper use of vegetation we can greatly reduce soil losses on our farming lands."

visited, Mr. Bennett said that in suite of the record rains of the past week that erosion control measures applied to the farms of cooperators with the Service hold to a degree of 95 percent effectiveness while on untreated neighboring farms soil losses were tragic and terrible. "This work is so good," Mr. Bennett continued, "that it marks a real historic step in the agricultural history of Texas.

"I am convinced that this erosion control work being done by the Soil Conservation Service is the only possible method of saving the indispensable agricultural lands of this country," he concluded.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE:
Three mysterious strangers come to Mandrake Falls and seek out Longfellow Deeds, tuba player in the town band, volunteer fireman and author of the sentimental doggerel that appears on greeting cards. They are John Cedar, a New York lawyer, Cornelius Cobb, cynical and disillusioned ex-newspaperman,
an obsequious clerk from Cedar's office. They have come to inform Deeds that an uncle he has never seen has died and he, Deeds, is the sole heir to a twenty million dollar estate. Reluctantly, Longfellow allows them to persuade him to come to New York to take over his inheritance. They set out for New York, Longfellow with his trusty tuba tucked safely under one arm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
Chapter Two

"He's news, I tell you! Every time he blows his nose, it's news.
A corn-fed bohunk like that falling into the Semple fortune is hot copy.
What's he think about? How's it feel to be a millionaire? Is he going to get married? What's he think of New York? Is he smart?
Is he dumb?"

"He's been here three days and what have you numbskulls brought in?" The managing editor glared at the reporters grouped around his desk. "A lot of flat, uninteresting routine stuff. Any green cub could have done better. Now get out of here before I tell you what I really think of you."

The reporters filed out of the office, all of them, that is, but Babe Bennett. A pert, vivacious little blonde, Babe had been very busy throughout the managing editor's tirade doing things with lipstick and powder puff. It was not until

"I think we should explain to you, Mr. Deeds," the treasurer said,
"that the opera is not conducted for profit."
"Why not?" Longfellow asked.
"The opera is an artistic institution and—"
"We own an opera house, don't we? And we give shows?"
"We provide opera," the treasurer chided.
"But you charge—I mean, you sell tickets?" Longfellow insisted.
"Of course."
"And it doesn't pay?"
"That would be impossible. The opera never paid."
"Then we must give the wrong
kind of shows," Longfellow concluded.
"But opera's an art!" they insisted. "You cannot think of it in terms of profit and loss."
"Well then, where's the hundred and eighty thousand dollars coming from?" Longfellow asked.
"We were expecting it from you.
Your uncle always felt privileged to make up the opera's deficits."
"From me?"
"Naturally."
"Excuse me, gentlemen, but there's nothing natural about that," Longfellow told them. "Somebody here must be crazy and I guess it must be me—cause if I had a grocery store that wasn't paying, I'd go out of the business. I don't see why the same thing doesn't apply to opera. Well, gentlemen, you'll have to excuse me now for I must go.
Thank you for making me chairman."
With that Longfellow and Cobb left the flabbergasted directors.
But Cobb, with a malicious gleam
in his eyes, poked his head back in through the door a moment later.
"You'll find the smelling salts in the medicine cabinet, gentlemen,"
he said.
With equal bluntness Longfellow disposed of a conniving lawyer who came to him as the attorney for a woman who claimed to be his late

"I'll have your story for you and you can plaster it all over page one."
(Posed by Jean Arthur and George Bancroft)

the others had left that the editor spied her. "You, too, Babe," he growled. "Thought I could depend on you. You're getting as dumb as the rest of them."
Babe continued with her repaint
job. "Takes time to get a good idea, Mac," she said.
Mac changed his tactics. "Listen, Babe," he pleaded, "get me some good human interest stuff on this guy and—and I'll give you a month's vacation with pay!"
Babe looked at him. "On the level?"
"On the level," he said solemnly.
"Shake," said Babe, extending her hand. "I'll have your story for you and you can plaster it all over page one tomorrow."
Meanwhile Longfellow, established in his uncle's home, had discovered that the life a millionaire was not all beer and skittles. With Cobb as his mentor and guide he found that his day was one long round of bewildering conferences. Cobb had summoned a tailor to work on Longfellow's wardrobe, Cedar was importuning him—just a little bit too insistently, Longfellow thought —to give the firm of Cedar, Cedar, Cedar and Budington power of attorney to handle his business affairs and, at the moment the directors of the opera association, of which his uncle had long been chairman,
were waiting to meet with him.
Longfellow excused himself from the others and, with Cobb, went to meet the opera directors. After introductions had been completed
the board unanimously elected him to the chairmanship vacated by his uncle's death. As the meeting progressed Longfellow was shocked to learn that there was a $180,000 deficit in the operating costs of the opera.

uncle's common law wife. After Cedar and the others had left and after Cobb had said his farewells for the night Longfellow decided that he would set out by himself, have dinner at some quiet restaurant and explore the city.
As he left the house Babe Bennett, who had been waiting for just this opportunity, started to walk toward him. She staggered ever so slightly as she passed him and, when she came to a tree she clutched at it weakly and then crumpled to the ground. Longfellow rushed to her side and lifted her head from the sidewalk. Babe opened her eyes, feigned bewilderment.
Longfellow smiled at her. "You fainted," he explained. "Can I help you?"
Babe struggled weakly to her feet. "No, thank you," she said,
"I'm all right." Then, once again, she appeared to become faint and leaned heavily against him, dropping her purse as she did. "Guess I walked too much today," she explained. "Been looking for a job.
Found one, too. I start tomorrow."
Longfellow stooped to pick up her purse and its contents which had scattered around. He noted, as Babe had hoped he would, that she had no money in the purse. He looked thoughtfully for a moment and then he glanced up at Babe understandingly.
"Come on, Miss," he said. "You're a lady in distress and I'm going to be your gallant knight. Let's begin by you having dinner with me.
All right?"
Babe appeared to hesitate for a moment and then she smiled at him
wanly. "All right," she said.

FLY INFESTED SCHOOLS

I am sure we can truthfully say that a fly-infested school is not necessary.
We know, for example, all
there is to know about the life cycle of the fly, including where it
breeds and its food
supply.
This and other information is readily available in books on science and public health departments, insurance companies, and federal departments. The latter are usually free or at very small cost. One of the best sources is the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

One of the weaknesses in modern health education is our energy in talking health and our lassitude in doing something about it.

What children learn in facts has no significance unless they put the information to practical use. Not only is this my philosophy of health education but it expresses very well the whole philosophy of modern education.

I suggest, therefore, that we attack the fly problem from that point of view. Study it, and then carry out the steps necessary to put the fly out of business.
Such lessons are never forgotten.

STATE AGRICULTURE COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED

College Station. A state Agricultural Council was recently organized here composed of representatives of the twelve Extension districts. Each member of this Council came from a county farm demonstration council.

V. C. Marshall, Heidenheimer, Bell county, was elected chairman; L. P. Cooke, Christi, Nueces county, vice chairman; and J. H. Watson, New Castle, Young county, secretary.

The function of this Council is to cooperate with the Texas Extension Service in an advisory capacity, in all of its Extension activities, including the administration of the new Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act.

During the first organized meeting recently at College Station, the members of the Council unanimously passed a resolution favoring all farmers filling out work sheets in the Soil Conservation program on the grounds that such cooperation does not obligate the farmer in any way, that it is needed to make the program most effective this year, and that it will help in the 1937 program.

Members of the Council who met here with the Extension staff and with the Soil Conservation committee are: V. C. Marshall, chairman; L. P. Cooke, vice chairman; J. H. Watson, secretary; L. R. Connor, Perryton; C. H. Day, Plainview; L. F. Johnston, Arlington; H. A. Terry, Clarksville; Terry Elkin, Midland; J. Walter Hammond, Tye; T. M. Drew, Onalaska; S. A. Burchard, Gonzales; and George Slaughter, Wharton.

EARLY JUNE GARDEN HINTS FROM COLLEGE STATION

J. F. Rosborough, Extension horticulturist, recently gave some garden hints for the early June season.

In regard to Irish potatoes, he said, "In harvesting Irish potatoes, place them in a sandy place as soon as dug where they can 'dry off' for 24 to 48 hours before storing."

He explained that when onion tops have fallen over, pull up the onions and pile them in a sandy place and the second day clip the tops back to one-half to one-fourth of an inch in length. Onions of the Bermuda type can be stored for a short while. The sweet Spanish or globe type of onions are preferable for long storage.

Rosborough went on to say that, "Should the lower leaves of the tomato plants have small brown or black areas and the general lower foliage of the plant begin to turn yellow, it is a sign that leaf spot is starting, and the plants should be sprayed with one pound of bluestone, two pounds of hydrated lime to 12 gallons of water."

"At this time of the year, the orchard should be kept under close observation. The thin skinned early varieties of peaches are subject to brown rot and to protect them, spraying should be done," Rosborough stated.

The Extension horticulturist said that the spray should consist of four pounds of hydrated lime, four pounds of sulphur mixed together with five gallons of boiling water. Heat until dissolved, and add enough water to make 25 gallons of spray.

"Give the trees a good spraying now and at intervals of three to four weeks apart until the fruit is harvested," he said. Some of the suggestions he gave on care of berry vines were to cut old berry vines now and as soon as all of this year's crop of berries are picked, cut the old vine off at the ground level, and leave the new sucker growth on which next year's crop will be borne.

"Young grape vines should be tied to the wire of the trellis in order to build a framework for next year's crop. The old vines making extra growth may be pruned at this time by pinching out the ends. This will prevent the vines from trailing on the ground, making cultivation and spraying less difficult," Rosborough concluded.

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, June 5.—White is tops for summer wear. You see it taking first place in all ranks of the fashion world, and particularly among women of the South. We especially point out the new white silk crepe ensembles that are being unpacked daily by fashion shops.

Dresses are mostly of the one-piece style with very short sleeves or a tuck shoulder cape effect. Skirts are pleated and the pleats stitched down to the knee line. The color contrast is achieved with belts, pocket flaps, or trick lacings down the center of the chest. The jackets are either hip length or belted swaggar type, with fairly wide loose sleeves.

Huge wild blazing checks in as many as four colors make stunning jackets, and you can also wear them with cotton or linen dresses as well as the more dressy frocks. Solid bright colors in grass green, scarlet, old gold, and even violet contrast other dresses that use the same colors for bows and neck bands.

All white ensembles use chiffon ascots, scallops or pointed edgings of the white silk as trim. Some three piece white crepe outfits feature printed silk blouse tops with short sleeves, and use the printed silk for cuff facing and color bands on the jacket.

White palm beach is a smart material for the new summer suits, and silk linen ranks high with its non-wrinkle qualities. For those casual "round about the neighborhood" frocks, girls at Texas CIA suggest French seersucker—a new material with all the daintiness of handkerchief linen, yet as wearable and cool as old batiste.

teed. The cost per pound of gain was approximately 4.5 cts. One of the pigs, a Duroc-Jersey, gained approximately 2.4 pounds a day during the entire feeding period.

"The pigs were sold on the market at $7.75 per hundred pounds on a day when the market supply was high and prices low," the assistant county agent said. "This 4-H club boy's demonstration, however, showed that proper handling of livestock brings a profit in spite of the low prices."

Tuition-free summer schools are made possible by 56 students at Texas CIA who are doing practice teaching in the Denton public schools.

Occupation of the new fine arts building at Texas CIA for the summer session marks the third completed unit in the $1,300,000 building project underway on the campus.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS
THE way kids talk back to their elders these days is kinda shocking to some of us oldsters. It seems like we was kidded into believing that whatever the old folks said was right, when we was little. Now the youngsters are supposed to have opinions of their own on everything from mud pies to a corrupt judiciary, before they're six years old. Bobbie was about that old when his Grandma saw him standing on his head on the lawn, and she was afraid he'd fall over the retaining wall and kill himself. So she says very gently, "Bobbie, I don't think I'd stand on my head there." "No," says Bobbie, without getting down, "I reckon you'd better not, Grandma. You're getting old for this kind of stuff." 300,000 WORK SHEETS FILLED OUT IN NEW AGRICULTURAL PROGRAM

College Station—Approximately 300,000 work sheets have been filled out by Texas farmers to participate in the Agricultural Conservation Program, it was estimated recently by the State Agricultural Conservation Committee upon surveying reports from county agricultural agents up to June 1.

Members of the State Committee further pointed out that the 300,000 work sheets represent about 75 per cent of all Texas farm acreage.

They said that out of the 500,000 farms in the State, some 400,000 should be eligible to receive grants.

It was for the purpose of giving farmers more time to sign up work sheets that June 10 was set as the final date in Texas.
