"ONE-MAN CENTENNIAL" CELEBRATION HERE; PAINTER'S

Taking the "cue" from the Texas Centennial Central Celebration, George B. Painter, owner and operator of Painter's large dry goods store, got from "behind the eight ball," and has a very interesting historical window, leading up to his Centennial Sale which will be announced thru the press and by circulars, which you will receive soon.

Listing the "old relics" in Painter's central window would be prohibitive here, but go look this very interesting window over, and don't stop there, go inside and see some of Painter's Centennial Sale bargains.

L. D. Griffin Is Out For County Attorney In Statement to Voters

To the Voters of Coryell Co.: In consideration of your support in the July primary election for myself for the office of County Attorney, I respectfully submit for your honest consideration the following:

I was born in Wolfe Valley, Coryell County, in 1886, and then, at the age of about fourteen, my father, B. E. (Eps) Griffin and family moved to Levita in 1900. We farmed, operated a gin and a small store, most of my life. My father is now, and has been during the past twenty-four years or longer, Postmaster at Levita.

In July 1905, I was married to Miss Luck Burkett at Levita and in 1908 we moved to Hale County. While there I attended the West Texas State Normal College at Canyon for three years. I taught six terms of public school in Hale County and studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1915, after which, in 1916, I was elected County Attorney of Hale County, and then elected County Judge and Ex-officio County Superintendent of Public Instruction. During this time many cases were appealed to higher courts, and here, permit to state, never was a judgment I rendered reversed, and County put to the expense of a retrial. I went out of the Judge's office on January 3, 1923 and have been actively engaged in the practice of law in the State and Federal Courts. In September, 1935, I made Coryell County my future home. My wife and I now reside in Gatesville at 606 Andrews street. It will be impossible for me to see each voter, but I will do my best to see each and everyone of you.

I assure you that any courtesy extended in my behalf for the nomination and election to the office of County Attorney will be gratefully appreciated, and I will endeavor to forever keep sacred you confidence entrusted to my keeping.

On my qualifications I respectfully solicit your vote and influence in the July Primary.

Respectfully submitted,
L. D. Griffin,
Candidate for County Attorney.

Information which bonus beneficiaries will need in getting papers signed up, receiving Adjustment Service Bonds, and pertaining to other matters which interest them are outlined below by Postmaster J. H. McClellan. The letter follows:

Adjustment Service Bonds will probably arrive at the local post-office on June 16. It is possible they will arrive too late to be delivered by Rural Route and City Carriers on that date.

It is expected that Rural Rt. and City Carriers will make deliveries on Wednesday, June 17. Deliveries will be made to the addressee only. No one else can, under any circumstances, receive these bonds for you. Such patrons on Rural and City routes are requested to be at home, at your mail box at time the carrier usually arrives, in order to receive them without delay. If the carrier is not acquainted with you, please have some one present who is known to the carrier, that he may identify you.

Please bear in mind that each veteran will receive a Registered envelope containing his bonds and that the Postoffice Department at Washington has given definite instructions regarding their delivery. We respectfully ask that your cooperation to the end that such deliveries may be made as speedily as possible.

We are not sure that all bonds will be received at this office the first day. However, if any do not arrive for delivery on June 17, they may be expected any day thereafter.

Those veterans who may wish to convert their bonds into cash are asked to present them in person for certification. An office for this purpose will be opened on the second floor of the Court House, with Certified Officers out of the local post-office in charge. This office will be opened Wednesday afternoon, and continue open for several days, office hours being from 7:00 o'clock a. m. to 12 noon, and from 1:00 p. m. to 6 p. m. Again it will be necessary that you be known to the officer in charge, or be properly identified by two witnesses.

Any bonds surrendered for the purpose of converting into cash will be receipted for and within a few days thereafter, possibly four or five, a Government check for the amount will be mailed to the veteran from Austin, Texas.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

With The Spectator

The State Democratic Executive Committee met in Austin Monday and certified the July primary ballot. Thirty-five candidates were given places on the ballot.

John O. Douglas of Houston, who announced against Attorney General William McCraw after the expiration time limit set by the committee for applications, was denied a place on the ticket, as were B. M. Hatfield of Fort Worth, candidate for Governor, and Jefferson T. Baker of Dallas, candidate for State Treasurer. Hatfield and Baker failed to comply with the regulation of the committee in regard to filing, although they remitted the required $100 filing fee.

The committee concurred with the request of W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas and J. Wesley Pruitt of Dallas that their names be removed from the ballot, as candidates for Land Commissioner and Comptroller respectively.

These candidates are without opposition on the official ballot. In addition to Attorney General William McCraw and Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, C. M. Cureton, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Richard Critz, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and O. S. Lattimore, Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals, are without opposition.

Only two contests will be decided in the first primary, unless a candidate polls more votes than two or more opponents combined. Only two candidates have been certified for Land Commissioner—John W. Hawkins of Austin and William H. McDonald of Eastland—and for Superintendent of Public Instruction—L. A. Woods of Waco and Pat Bullock of San Antonio.

In the primary of two years ago, several candidates were fortunate enough or popular to be nominated over several opponents.

Comptroller George Sheppard won in the first primary with a majority of 225,772 over 3 opponents. Sheppard has two opponents this year, one of whom was a former Comptroller. State Treasurer Charley Lockhart, with three opponents, won in July with a majority of 59,143. Lockhart also has two opponents this year. Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald was 12,329 votes short of a majority over three opponents and the next highest man, Fred W. Davis, withdrew and conceded the nomination to McDonald. McDonald has strong opposition this year from Geo. B. Terrell, former commissioner and Congressman-at-large, Kal Segrist, former Dallas baseball star, and Cliff Day of Plainview, leader of last year's trek of Texas farmers to Washington.

Texas has a potential vote this year of 1,343,456, according to reports from the comptroller's office. During the last taxpaying period 1,168,223 poll taxes were paid. A 15 percent addition for exemptions, or 173,233, would give a total potential vote of 1,343,456.

There is an increase of 331,096 from the high figure of 1934, although the increase in voting strength is estimated in actual figures at not more than 69,158. Two years ago President Judge W. C. Morrow of the Court of Criminal Appeals set a new high figure of 1,012,360 votes—the largest vote ever given any candidate for public office in this State. Two years ago was the first time in Texas has ever cast more than one million votes. Second to Morrow in that year L. A.

The name "Terrell" has appeared on Texas ballots more than any other family name. Twenty times have Terrells been candidates for State office and few times have they been defeated. From 1902 off and on to the present time five Terrells—not all of the same family but related—have sought office, an average of four campaigns for each.

The fact that the members of the Terrell "dynasty" have been vote-getters and office holders during a third of a century makes the family all the more interesting. George B. Terrell has been running for office for twenty-six years and has never been defeated. So much does the name Terrell preface by "George B." mean to Texas voters that in 1934 a Dallas man had his name changed to George B. Terrell, filed for State Treasurer, and without making one campaign address polled 248,000 votes against the incumbent!

The first Terrell to hold office in Texas was John J., who was elected Land Commissioner in 1903, serving until 1909. H. E. Terrell followed his father in 1915 as State Comptroller, serving until 1921.

S. H. (for Sam Houston) Terrell served as Comptroller from 1925 to 1931 and is again a candidate for the office this year. C. V. Terrell was elected State Treasurer in 1920, served three years, and resigned in 1924 to accept an appointment to the railroad commission. He has twice been reelected.

George B. Terrell was Commissioner of Agriculture from 1925 to 1931, being succeeded in that year by the present incumbent, J. E. McDonald of Waxahachie, who is a candidate for reelection. Terrell was elected Congressman-at-large in 1932, serving one term.

What was really the opening blast of the Republican campaign to defeat President Roosevelt was Senator Frederick Steiwer's keynote address before the Republican National Convention Tuesday night.

Sweeping the New Deal from etem to stern with a barrage of denunciations, Steiwer struck out vigorously against Roosevelt spending, centralization of power, and increased taxes.

As in 1932 when Franklin Roosevelt appealed to the members of all parties to vote for his New Deal, so did the Oregon Senator invite the aid and counsel of all Americans. "Regardless of political party" "There are no party lines when human liberty is at stake," he said.

Promising to give the 10,000,000 unemployed the consideration which they deserve," Steiwer appealed for the votes of those who have been affected by reduced pay checks and failures. "We propose to show the 40,000,000 now in gainful employment that economic freedom depends upon adherence to a system under which their pay envelopes will not shrink and under which their life insurance policies and savings bank deposits will be protected. If this great group of Americans will assert their heritage as Americans, they need never again fear a debacle such as we had in March 1933, when a President-elect without a conscience refused for four months to cooperate with a President who had a conscience, resulting in a bank crisis and a panic of fear and fright."

The agricultural policy of the Administration was vigorously assailed as "makeshift" and "impotent." "After three long years of complete control of every branch of the Federal Government the Administration has failed to provide a permanent farm program," the Oregonian charged. "Farm income in 1935, including the Government checks, was three billion dollars less than in the 1920's."

"They made worse the AAA program by maladministration, by making food costly and scarce. When the law was held invalid they wholly ignored the Supreme Court and shifted hysterically to a stoppage measure called the soil conservation act. Under this act they continue temporarily the regulation of production which has been held unconstitutional. The fact is the administration has no farm program and when this act is also held unconstitutional as impotent, new deal will be floundering helplessly together with the farmer when they seek to deceive."

"Our producers, entitled to complete possession of the American market, have seen it delivered to aliens. The agricultural area removed from production in our country is estimated at 36,000,000 acres, and it is further estimated that the increased importation of agricultural products into our country require for their production about the same number of acres. As our home markets were being invaded by foreign producers our farmers were at the same time losing a portion of their markets in foreign lands."

As per expectation, the increase in taxes and the national debt and the relief expenditures under the New Deal came in for vigorous criticism. A warning that inflation or repudiation of public obligations will follow continued deficits was made and the New Deal was charged with increasing the national debt by more than $14,000,000,000 (billion). "A resolute and uncompromising purpose to secure a balanced budget and honest assurance of reduction in debt are essential to restoration of public confidence," Steiwer declared, and added, "These essential assurances will start in motion the wheels of industry."

"In 1933 in a message to Congress, the President used these words: 'For three long years the Federal Government has been on the road to bankruptcy.'"

"And then he said: 'Thus we shall have piled up an accumulated deficit of five billion dollars.'"

"That was the accumulation of four years. Let us consider the accumulation of the last three long years. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, the deficit was approximately four billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, it was in excess of three and a half billion dollars. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the deficit is between three and a half and four billion dollars. For three long years the deficits have exceeded those which the President denounced."

"During the same period the Government spending has gone up. Listen to the astounding totals—for three long years:

for 1933, approximately five billion dollars; for 1934, seven billion; for 1935 seven billion four hundred million; for 1936 seven billion six hundred million dollars; and the estimate for 1937 is in excess of eight billion two hundred fifty million.

In conclusion, Senator Steiwer asked the question, "Will America live or die?" and stirring answered:

"America will live, because the people are firmly resolved that our nation shall not die. When have we ever tested the full measure of the people's strength? Not in 1778, save by the soldiers whose bloodstained tracks were left in the snow at Valley Forge. Not in 1863, except by those who dared to charge and those who dared to stand at Gettysburg. Nor was it tested in full in 1918, except by those who dared to die on the fields of France."

"The full measure and depth of a great people's will is unknown, even to themselves. The (Continued on page 6)

VALLEY MILLS SOFTBALL TEAM, 5-3

Monday night, after waiting thirty minutes for the visitors to make an appearance, Doc's Sandwich Shop, bolstered by Ray and Peterson of the Firemen, won over Valley Mills in a softball game by a 5-3 score.

Just what made the visitors arrive to late, we do not know, but we have a sneaking feeling that they stopped enroute and held a practice session with the large ball. In Valley Mills, as practically everywhere else, the small ball is used and as the local league has used the large ball all season everyone expected to take the measure of the visitors without a great amount of trouble, but the boys from Bosque County handled the oversized sphere as if they had used it all their lives.

Valley Mills started the contest off by ringing up one run in the initial inning but this was quickly wiped away as the locals marked up two runs in their half of the same frame. The score remained 2-1 until the seventh inning, at which time Valley Mills tied the count by scoring another run. The hush slingers quickly retaliated by scoring three times in their half of the seventh. The visitors scored their last run in the eighth inning.

The locals found the visiting pitcher for 11 hits, three of them going to Franks while Blanton was touched for 9 safeties.

The two teams meet in the near future in a return game and the outlook for the locals is anything but rosy.

Softball

In the first game Tuesday night Doc's won over the Merchants 8-3. Poor fielding judgment on the part of the losers was their downfall. The dish washers from Doc's got 13 hits, but a large part of them should have gone for putouts.

The winners were guilty of more than their share of miscues but always managed to have enough in reserve to pull out without much damage. The Merchants gathered 5 hits, two of them going to Culberson, while Jesse Lee Wiggins and Wilson of the winners got three each of their team's total. One of Culberson's hits was good for the circuit.

The Firemen won the second game from the Blues, 20-6. Wild playing on the part of both clubs was the order of the day as the smokeeaters tallied their 20 runs on nine hits, while the Blues only managed to get 4 safeties in scoring their total. The Camp team did a lot of switching about as they were endeavoring to find a winning combination for their newly organized team.

Starting next week the league may play on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays instead of the nights that have been used. The reason for this is the large number of fans and players alike that wish to be present at one of the local theatres on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Tonight's schedule: Blues vs. Fireboys; and Reds vs. Doc's.

Team Standings

Team	won	lost	pt.
Doc's	7	0	1.000
Firemen	4	2	.666
Reds	3	2	.600
Merchants	2	5	.286
Whites	1	4	.200
Blues	0	4	.000

Baseball Banter

At the time this is written, we had received the report on but one game of the past week.

In a Saturday game Pidcoke won over Mound 7-3. As for the records we have on hand shows that these two teams are tied for the top. Fritz was in the box for Pidcoke, while Barton started on the hillock for Mound but was replaced by Whigham.

Lack of reports of games played makes it impossible for us to report team standings further than has been shown before.

Games scheduled for Saturday are: Jonesboro vs. Mound at Jonesboro; Turnersville vs. Osage at Turnersville; Pidcoke vs. State at Pidcoke.

Sunday division: Levita vs. Seattle at Levita; Flat vs. the Gatesville CCC, at Flat; Pearl vs. Neff Park CCC, at Neff Park.

World Comment—

secret lies hidden in the omniscient mind of the Creator of all courage and all resolution. To Him let our prayers be offered than an aroused America, cast out all doubt, will vindicate the faith of the fathers. We shall not falter, but in new-found strength will hold high in the splendor of a bright dawn, the banner of a Nation's liberties."

Senator Steiwer's address was regarded as a definite bid for the vice presidential nomination and the enthusiasm with which it was received by the 15,000 Republicans crowded into the enormous convention hall at Cleveland indicates that the Oregonian will have considerable support.

The unavailability of such prominent Republicans as Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who has announced he would not accept the running mate position, apparently casting his eyes upon the presidential nomination in 1940, and Rep. James W. Wadsworth of New York, closely identified with the ultra conservative Liberty League of Alfred E. Smith and John Jacob Raskob, brings such an available candidate as Steiwer to the front. Should the presidential nomination go to a mid-westerner, Steiwer might be chosen for the running mate position to strengthen the ticket on the Pacific Coast, where the Democrats are particularly strong.

Artificial respiration was used in a fruitless effort to save the life of Ginger, champion rat-catching cat, which was asphyxiated in a fire in London.

Says Agatha Swoop

"I don't know which I like better—chocolate bars or ice cream, so I compromise on Doc's chocolate ice cream bars! I've been recommending 'em for 8 years—ever since I was four."

FARM HOMES

ANYWHERE

CAN HAVE CONVENIENCES OF FINEST

MODERN REFRIGERATION

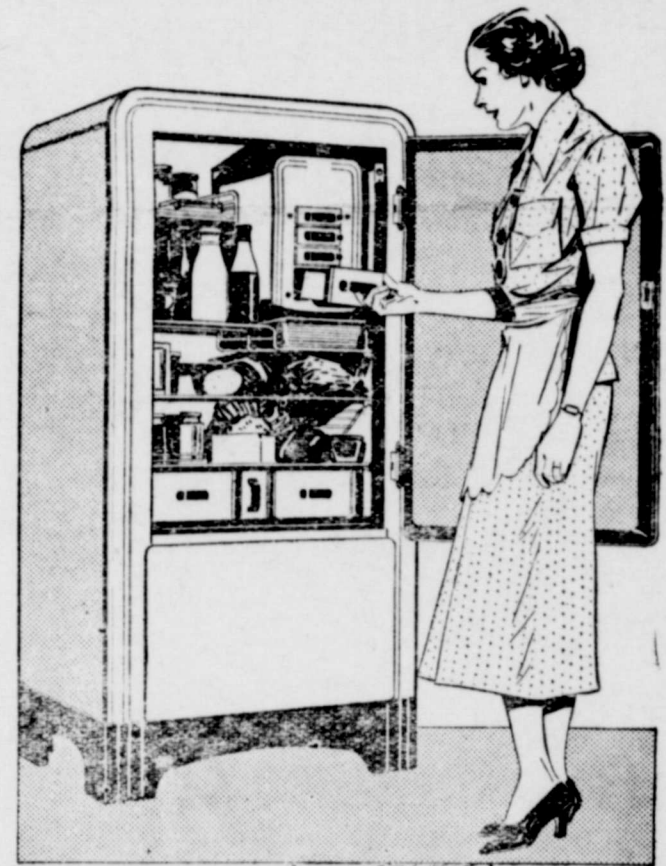

HERE'S WHAT MRS. T. N. RYAN OF DOWNSVILLE, LA., WRITES: "I wish I could see Electrolux in every home because we have tried it out and know just what it is. We saw the ad in the paper and decided we could pay for Electrolux with just what we could save by having it six months. We did!"

If you've always longed for the many worthwhile conveniences and comforts of modern city refrigeration, here's great news! Kerosene Electrolux brings farm homes anywhere all these big advantages. In all important respects, it is identical with the gas-operated Electrolux now serving finest American homes and apartments in cities from coast to coast.

You'll like the way Electrolux saves steps and food... freezes delicious desserts, plenty of ice cubes. And you'll like, too, its amazingly low cost to run. This ideal farm refrigerator operates on ordinary kerosene (coal oil) for only a few pennies a day... actually saves enough on food bills and refrigerating cost to pay for itself. One filling of the tank lasts a week or more. Electrolux uses no water.

The reason Electrolux can operate so efficiently is its simple refrigerating method. Electrolux has no moving parts at all! A wireless glow-type kerosene burner does all the work... eliminates depreciation due to moving, wearing parts. Today—clip coupon below for free literature.

NOTE ALL THESE BIG ELECTROLUX ADVANTAGES:

- No moving parts to wear
- Lasting efficiency
- Continued low running cost
- Fullest food protection
- Every worthwhile convenience
- Savings that pay for it
- Available in 4 family sizes

"COLLEEN" LATEST WARNER MUSICAL COMING TO THE REGAL

That inimitable team of screen lovers, Dick Powell with tune-ful songs on his lips, and Ruby Keeler with her rhythmic dancing, together with Joan Blondell and Jack Oakie, head the cast of Warner Brother's latest spectacular musical comedy, "Colleen" which comes to the Regal Theatre on Saturday night 10:30, Sunday and Monday.

In addition to the four stars, the cast includes Hugh Herbert, Louise Fazenda, Paul Draper, Marie Wilson and a score of other famous names besides 200 beautiful chorus girls and dancing youths.

There are two big, spectacular specialty numbers created and staged by Bobby Connolly, formerly dance director for the Ziegfeld Follies and other New York shows.

Dick Powell is the serious minded young manager of an estate for a rich and flirtatious uncle, who had purchased a modiste shop from a 'girl friend'.

Dick falls in love with the efficient secretary of the shop, and manages to win her heart after a series of entanglements filled with hilarious comedy for the audience, although heart-breaking to the young lovers. He also sings three songs.

Miss Keeler has the role of the secretary, and introduces some remarkable tap dancing, both by herself and with Paul Draper.

Jack Oakie and Joan Blondell portray a pair of gold diggers out for all the loot they can get out of the eccentric millionaire. His wife, constantly upset by her husband's philanderings, is portrayed by Louise Fazenda.

Draper makes his first bow in this picture. He has been the rage of New York, and is said to do some of his finest lyric dancing.

The Ireland Independent school district is a county-line district lying in Coryell and partly in Hamilton County. Although the school building, together with the town of Ireland are situated wholly in Coryell County, something near one-half of the school district lies in Hamilton County, or about half of the student body come from that county.

Until the school year 1934-1935, the school maintained eleven grades, but due to the fact that the district did not have the required number of scholastics, nor the required number of teachers to meet the state requirements, the school had no recognition to that degree from the state. During the school year 1934-35 the citizens asked to be reclassified as a tenth grade school, which recognition was promptly given. With this classification the citizens at once went to work to get standardization during that session of school, and passed the state requirements at the close of the school term.

With the ground-floor made secure the citizens then renewed their efforts toward getting affiliation. During the summer of 1935 arrangements were made for the pupils of the Murrell school above the seventh grade and those of the Levita school above the ninth grade to be transferred to Ireland for their advanced work. Consequently a bus route was established and transportation of the pupils of these schools have been successfully carried out.

This arrangement has given Ireland the required number of scholastics, the seventh teacher was added to the faculty for the term of 1935-1936, and application was filed for state classification as a four-year standard high school, and at the same time application was made for affiliation.

All physical requirements were met early in the year and the school as classified by the State as a standard four year high school. The next objective was to put over a class of work which would satisfy the scrutiny of the State Supervisor. Students worked earnestly, diligently, and conscientiously to put over a character of work second to none. A physical laboratory has been built and well equipped at the opening of the session. Teachers, pupils, school board, and patrons cooperated together with the churches, to raise the standard of the school system.

Recently the board was notified that the school had met the requirements and had been granted nine units of affiliated credits, with the definite promise that next year, if the good work continues, Ireland will be a fully affiliated high school.

Now, as a precautionary step to make sure the high standard of work will continue, the local board of trustees have employed a faculty that every teacher in the next school term shall hold at least an A.B. or B.S. degree, with two or more years' experience in teaching. The school is endeavoring to meet every standard set up, as required by the County Superintendent, the County Board of Trustees, and the State Board of Education, and with the continued cooperation the school will soon be doing work equal to that of any school in the county.

Signed,

M. L. Bannister, Supt.,
H. N. Johnson, President,
T. N. Grubb, Secretary,
Mrs. G. N. Coston, local trustees.

W. A. (Son) Shofner of Temple, and E. A. Tweedy of Valley Mills, both candidates for the office of State Senator from the 21st District, were pleasant callers at our office this week.

Like candidates for every other office, these gentlemen are earnestly and honestly trying to present their cases before the voters and to see as many of them as is humanly possible before the deadline, July 25.

FARM TERRACES MUST BE CARED FOR TO REALIZE CONSTRUCTION COST

Terraces, like farm machinery and automobiles, require good care if they are to give good service. Unless the terraces are in grass, the channels should be plowed out at least once or twice a year to maintain effectiveness, says T. B. Chambers, erosion control engineer of the Soil Conservation Service.

With careful plowing and a little regular repair work by hand or with scraper or shovel after rains, terraces will remain effective for years, he says. The life of an average terrace, however, depends on the kind of soil, the slope of the field, and the rainfall.

Under normal cropping conditions, it is often impractical to plow out terrace channels during the growing season, Mr. Chambers points out, and as a result, the necessary maintenance work must be done by hand. But, as a rule not much of this work is necessary, since the crops help prevent soil from washing into the terrace channels and also hold down the flow of water.

The time between harvesting and planting is the danger period for terraces, he says, because fields are often left bare and heavy rains wash considerable quantities of soil into the terrace channels, reducing their carrying capacity and thus increasing the chance that runoff water may overflow and break the terraces.

Another danger period in terrace maintenance is in spring, immediately after the ground has been plowed and planted. "Farmers should give particular attention to their terraces at this time," Chambers says, "because the ground that has been broken by plows and pulverized by discs and harrows, is easily washed by rain.

"When a terrace channel fills up with this soil material, the runoff from the next rain is likely to wash right across the top of the terrace, and concentrate in a single, fast flow." The protection against this possibility, according to Chambers, is an inspection of terraces after every rain, followed by prompt maintenance work.

Here's Your Present State Supt. and now Is Asking Relection

Above is a picture of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, L. A. Woods of Waco, who has been directing the affairs of the schools of the state for the past four years.

Mr. Woods began his school career as a rural school teacher, then a high school teacher, principal, superintendent, and then county superintendent in order. Then he was elected as State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He holds the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Laws from Baylor University.

According to his folder which he has had published, he states he has kept the following promises: Not to reduce the per capita apportionment; to equalize educational opportunities; to close the chasm between urban and rural schools; to emphasize vocational training; to provide more supervision and less inspection; to administer school affairs with economy and efficiency; to provide a more practical course of study; and to provide more school for the money.

Mr. Woods is a Waco man, having been superintendent of the Waco public school system for a number of years, and is endorsed by many Wacoans and school officials from all over the state, as his folder shows.

The History of Coryell County

By FRANK E. SIMMONS

Authorized by County Commissioners, as Official History for Texas Centennial Celebration.

JESS KERBY, OLDEST COUNTY RESIDENT

There is always something interesting about old men. They usually have some story to tell of pioneer days. Uncle Jess Kerby of Oglesby, as he is familiarly known, has probably lived longer in Coryell County than any other living person.

Mr. Kerby was born in Milam County January 7, 1845 and, with his parents, came to old Fort Gates in June of the same year. Through all these 82 years since that early June day in that distant year when the cargo of his father's ox wagon was unloaded at Fort Gates up to the present time, Mr. Kerby has lived in this county. The home which was built near the old Fort with logs and a stone chimney. Here the Kerby's lived for one or two years, but suffered a great deal from chills and malarial fever.

One day the elder Kerby went over the mountain north of Fort Gates hunting, with the hope of killing a bear, deer, or wild turkey to replenish the family larder. About a mile from where the Caufield school house now stands he found a large spring of water. Upon his return home he reported this to be a most beautiful spot to build a home. He then asked his wife, "Would you rather stay at the Fort and fight chills and fever, or move to the spring and take chances with the Indians?" Mrs. Kerby, without hesitation answered, "I'll chance the Indians." So they moved to Cougar Spring, for it was called in those days, and built a home.

A log house was built, a little farm cleared and fenced with cedar rails; stock were secured and everything was moving nicely toward the building of a permanent home.

In those days all cooking was done on the hearth of the fireplace. There were dogirons, and "swing pot hooks" for boiling fastened to the jambs of the fireplace. The family was well established. In the late 1850's a disastrous prairie and brush fire burned all the buildings and fences and almost everything they had accumulated.

In 1860 a home was built on Plum Creek about 10 miles west of Gatesville, but a year later, when the Civil War broke out, the family moved back to the old place at Cougar Spring and re-established their home. The elder Kerby volunteered for service in the Confederate army and was assigned to Captain George Arrowood's Company of Rangers and sent to the frontier, but later served with the armies in the south.

The mother and children had a struggle, but were equal to the task. All cloth for clothing was woven at home, ropes were woven of long buffalo hair, salt was almost unobtainable. For a time, rawhide was used in place of leather but ingenuity overcame this handicap.

Large cottonwood logs were secured and hollowed out like troughs. The hair was removed from the hides with wood ashes and lime. The lime having been burned in log heaps by placing a layer of logs then a layer of limestone rock, having a number of layers of each, and when the heap was complete, fire was set to the logs and after burning away the logs, the stones were burned to a fine quality of quicklime. The hides thus cleaned of hair were then placed in the troughs. Over them was poured an ooze made by boiling cedar foliage. The hides were allowed to remain in this ooze until they had the proper curing for good leather. This leather was made into saddles, harness, shoes, belts and every article for which leather was required.

Oxen were the only draft animals. Mr. Kerby remembers having seen many bear killed in the hills near where Gatesville now stands. He relates once having a pet bear, not so much of a pet either, for it once almost stripped the clothing from a man who came within the length of the chain which held him.

Mr. Kerby's first schooling was in an old log cabin about one mile from the site of the present County Poor Farm. He says a Mr. Harris taught the school.

In 1869 the Kerby's moved to a farm now owned by the McElvains. To this farm were moved the logs from their Cougar Spring home. These logs were re-erected into a log house which is still standing and is a relic of the heroic days when men, now old, toiled to make a solid civilization for generations to follow.

In 1878 Jess Kerby married Amanda Cole. They now own a home and farm in the old Martin King Colony on Tonk Creek. Mr. Kerby's greatest wealth lies in the esteem in which a large number of friends hold his memory.

Candidate for Legislature This District

A. G. LIVINGSTON
 of Hamilton County
 Candidate for
 State Representative of the 94th
 District, Hamilton and Coryell Counties.

It is not possible for me to state hereing my stand upon all issues of public interest, but will give the following:
 I favor and shall work for a higher tax upon the unlimited natural resources of the state such as oil, gas, and sulphur. But a small part of these products are consumed within the State. It is my belief that if these natural resources of the state bear their just portion of taxation, a sales tax will not be necessary.
 I favor a change in the present laws regulating the truck industry in Texas. Texas trucks are allowed to handle only 7,000 pounds; adjoining states permit from 40,000 gross up. Texas has the lowest weight limit in the United States, and Texas has one of the highest license fee for 7,000 pounds in the United States. Texas is the only state in the Union where it is illegal for a person to haul his own property between two incorporated cities and sell it at a profit without a railroad permit.
 Out of the total taxes for the State of Texas last year of $113,342,782, the trucks paid $14,000,000 of this tax.
 Believing that the prosperity of this District depends largely upon fair prices for the products of the farmers and stockmen, I shall favor laws seeking to encourage same, as well as better transportation facilities for marketing same.
 I shall appreciate your support and vote in the July primary.

OBITUARY AS READ AT FUNERAL OF WALTER P. JONES

Walter P. Jones was born January 28, 1883, son of T. B. and Leon Jones, born on the old Jones homestead ten miles east of Gatesville, on Coryell creek.
 He was one of sixteen children, four of whom died in infancy.
 Walter P. Jones was married to Martha Easter at Gatesville on Sunday, May 26, 1912. To this union were born five children, two boys and three girls, all of whom are now living.
 In August 1921, he made a confession of faith under the preaching of Rev. Armstrong at Pecan Grove tabernacle, and in September he was united with the Baptist church at Pecan Grove, being the Coryell Creek Baptist Church. In January of the following year he was chosen as a deacon and was ordained with two other at the same service.
 He lived an humble, consecrated life. He was a friend to all and an enemy to no one. He was a kind husband and devoted father.

On Sunday, May 24, he was taken suddenly with influenza, and on the following Saturday afternoon he contracted double pneumonia and lingered until yesterday when the end came.
 About two hours before the end, when loved ones were ministering to his needs, he said to them, "I'm ready to go."
 His mother passed away 4 years ago, the first day of January, and his father passed away three years ago the 23rd day of February.
 He leaves, besides a broken hearted wife and five children, six brothers and five sisters, and a host of other relatives and friends who are grieved because they see his face no more nor hear his voice again here on earth.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE:
 Longfellow Deeds, author of sentimental ditties for greeting cards, tuba player and volunteer fireman in Mandrake Falls, inherits his uncle's twenty million dollar estate. He goes to New York to claim his inheritance and is immediately besieged by all sorts of chiselers, cranks and fanatics. Thanks to "Corny" Cobb, hard-boiled ex-newspaperman, only a few of them actually get through to Longfellow. Elected to fill his uncle's place as chairman of the board of directors of the opera, Longfellow refuses to make up the opera's $180,000 deficit and cannot understand why they should continue opera performances when they are not profitable. After the meeting he goes out to explore the city alone. Babe Bennett, clever young newspaper-woman, pretends to faint on the street in order to meet him and get a story. She is hungry and tired from a long day of job hunting, she says. Longfellow insists on taking her to dinner at Tullio's, favorite eating place of the literati. He asks the waiter to point out any famous people who come in.

it, brother, and seek it good." Longfellow smiled. "It's all over now. I got it off my chest." "I think you're swell," Morrow continued. "You're my guest from now on." "Thanks, but Miss Dawson (That's the name Babe had given him) and I were going out to see the sights." "Fine. Hop aboard my magic carpet and you'll see sights you've never seen before. Friend, we're going on a real, good binge!" Late the next afternoon Walter Deeds' valet, was having his troubles waking Longfellow. After a particularly violent shake, Longfellow opened one eye and looked at Walter. "Good afternoon, sir," Walter said. "If you'll permit me to say so, sir, you were out on quite a bender last night." "Bender?" Longfellow shook his head. "Oh, no. We started to go out on a binge but we never got to it. Has Miss Dawson called yet?" "Miss Dawson? No, sir." "I must call her up and apologize. I don't remember taking her home." "I'd venture to say you don't remember much of anything last night." "What do you mean?" Longfellow was indignant. "I remember everything. Hand me my pants." Walter smiled apologetically. "You have no pants, sir. You came home without them. Matter of fact you came home without any clothes. You were in your shorts." Longfellow was skeptical. "Now, that's silly, Walter. You know I couldn't walk around the streets without clothes. I'd be arrested." Walter agreed. "Yes, sir. That's what the two policemen who brought you home said. They said you and another man were standing in the street in your shorts, feeding doughnuts to a horse and shouting 'Back to nature!' They said you were feeding doughnuts to the horse to see how many he'd

TIPS FOR THE HOME

By HOUS N. HOM

SOME POINTERS ON PAINT

Certain rules must always be observed if a paint job is to be successful. The requirements for finishing different types of wood vary, and the correct procedure for using paint necessarily varies with each type of paint. Therefore, observing the directions of the manufacturer is the first step toward a satisfactory refinishing job.

Practically all paint manufacturers recommend a thorough cleaning before painting. This is important, and sandpapering, removing grease and dusting should be taken care of before the brush touches the opened can!

Good paint deserves a good brush! Buy good ones. Cheap brushes have a way of losing their bristles right in the middle of a smooth surface, and you'll lose time picking them out of you're making a cheap brush do the job.

Don't paint on a wet surface. Paint will not cling to a damp piece of wood or metal. If there is any doubt about the piece you're painting, postpone the job until you're sure that it's thoroughly dry.

Use a paint mixed for the purpose you have in mind. Different ingredients and binders are used to give the paint you buy the qualities the manufacturer specifies. Only the correct paint will give you a satisfactory job, and it should be used for only one purpose.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
Chapter Three

"Feel better now?" Longfellow smiled across the table. "Um!" Babe smiled right back at him. "I don't know how to thank you, Mr. Deeds. You've had quite an exciting time since you came to New York. Meetings, business deals, society people—aren't you having fun?" Longfellow shook his head. "No. At least I didn't. Not till now. I like talking to you."

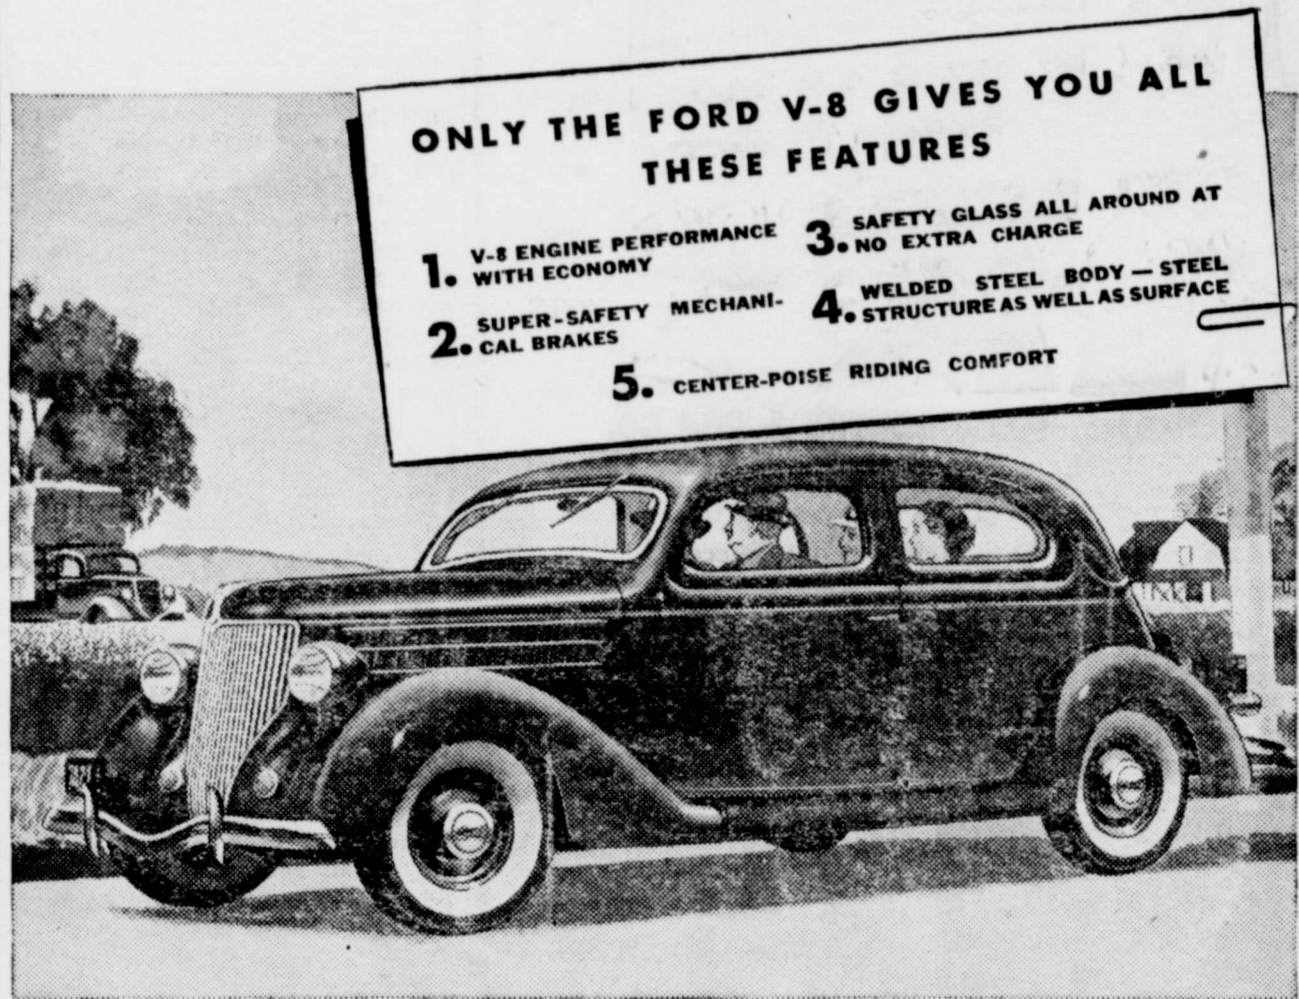

"Go right ahead," Babe said, "don't worry about me."
 (Posed by Jean Arthur and Gary Cooper)

Across the room Longfellow's waiter had stopped at a table where three men were sitting. He told them about Longfellow and his request to meet celebrities. "Let's invite him over," said one of the trio. "Might get some laughs." Longfellow was thrilled to meet Hensberry, Morrow and Bookfield and it was some few minutes before he realized that their pretended interest in how he composed his jingles for post cards and their extravagant compliments were their method of kidding him. When he did understand their motives he was deeply hurt. "I guess I get the idea," he told them. "You invited me over here to make fun of me. It's easy to make fun of somebody if you don't care how much you hurt them. I know I must look funny to you, but maybe if you came to Mandrake Falls you'd look funny to us. But nobody would laugh at you and make you ridiculous—cause that wouldn't be good manners. If it weren't for the young lady who is with me, I'd probably bump your heads together." "Go right ahead," Babe interposed. "Don't worry about me." That was enough for Longfellow. As Brookfield and Hensberry rose from their chairs, Deeds launched two swift punches that sent them both sprawling. Then he turned to Babe. "We can go now," he said. "I feel better." But they did not get far. Before they had reached the door Morrow had overtaken them. "Hey, there," he called, "you left me out." Pointing to his chin he continued, "Sock eat before asking for a cup of coffee." Longfellow shook a finger at Walter. "If a man by the name of Morrow calls me, Walter, tell him I'm not in. That man is crazy, Walter." At that moment Cobb burst into Longfellow's bedroom, his hands filled with newspapers. "Well," he shouted, "have you gone nuts? What did you do last night? Who were you with? Why did you do it? Look at these papers!" He flung the armful of papers at Longfellow. Screaming headlines jumped at Longfellow. "CINDERELLA MAN ON A SPREE" PUNCHES LITERARY LIGHTS AT TULLIO'S. FEEDING DOUGHNUTS TO HORSES. HICK TOWN POET LAUREATE SHOWS BIG CITY HOW TO 'CUT UP' PUNCHES LITERARY LIGHT AT TULLIO'S. Longfellow jumped out of bed. "What do they mean by this?" he demanded. "Cinderella Man!" "Listen, Longfellow," Cobb pleaded, "you've got brains. You'll get along fine if you'll only control your homicidal instincts. And keep your trap shut! Don't talk to anybody. Those reporters are laying for you." "You're right," said Longfellow. "I mustn't talk to anybody." "Eg pardon, sir," Walter interrupted. "Miss Dawson on the 'phone." Longfellow beamed. "Fine! I'll talk to her! Hand me the 'phone. She's the only one I'm going to talk to from now on."
