STUMPIN' THE STATE

With the Spectator

Former Governor James E. Ferguson has taken the stump for Senator Roy Sanderford, his choice for governor, and will make a whirlwind campaign throughout the State for him in the remaining two weeks of before the primary.

Ferguson spoke at Brady July 4 only a few hours after Governor Allred made an address there. Yesterday he spoke at Lamapas, today he is at Brownwood, and he will be at San Angelo tomorrow.

Two years ago Ferguson endorsed C. C. McDonald for the governorship but did not speak for him. McDonald failed to enter the second primary. This year "Farmer Jim" hopes his "pistol-pocket vote" will put Sanderford into the runoff and result in his nomination at the second primary, August 22.

Senator Morris Sheppard, veteran of 23 years service in the United States Senate, opened his campaign for reelection at Corsicana with a pledge of continued cooperation with President Roosevelt and the presentation of a five-plank platform.

He declared the Democratic program of the last three and one-half years had snatched the country from the "brink of collapse and placed it on foundations of new hope and strength" and paid tribute to the leadership of the country in these words:

"Fortunately it is for the country that we have in power in Washington at the present time a President, a Vice President, and a party devoted to the idea that the highest test of a nation's progress is the opportunity it affords the average man."

Planks in Sheppard's platform include non-involvement of the United States in war and foreign complications, extension of foreign trade and development of American resources, as far as possible providing the largest opportunity for economic independence and security of the average individual, including proper care of those unavoidable disabled by old age, and finally the arrest and repression of monopoly.

Exponents of the plan of F. W. Fischer, gubernatorial candidate, to increase taxes on natural resources from the recent action of the Louisiana Legislature in levying a tax of one per cent on sales of natural gas to raise funds for social security.

The measure was unanimously passed by both the Senate and House at the suggestion of Gov. Richard L. Leche. The revenue derived from the tax will be used in part to provide adequate pensions for the aged of Louisiana.

Fischer proposed, to raise $100,000,000 annually by an increased tax on oil, sulphur, and natural gas. With the taxes so obtained he promises to pay a pension of $15 a month to all over 65, raise the salaries of school teachers, take the state ad valorem tax off all real estate, and reduce the gasoline tax from four to two cents per gallon.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST TO HOLD ASSOCIATION AT OGLESBY

The Bosque River Little Flock Primitive Baptist Association will convene with Salem Church of Oglesby, beginning next Thursday night, July 16, and continue through Sunday July 19. The public is extended a cor-poean Grove.

Somewhat puzzling to the voters of the state is the extended speaking itinerary of Attorney General William McCraw. McCraw has been speaking at Rodeos, barbecues, picnics, and public gatherings for two months and his schedule calls for addresses throughout the summer months.

Not that there is anything strange about an officeholder making a speaking tour in election year. McCraw is a candidate for reelection as Attorney General but he has no opponent and it is not the custom to campaign extensively when there is no opposition.

At Belton's giant July 4 celebration, which attracted 20,000 persons, McCraw was the principal speaker. On the same day he made the principal address before the two-day gathering of the Fifth Division and the Seventeenth District of the American Legion at Stamford.

To the puzzled voter, let us say that Attorney General McCraw is an ardent believer in the old proverb, "The early bird always gets the worm." McCraw is campaigning for governor—not against Governor Allred—but against whoever may announce in 1938.

Following his surprise election two years ago over Senator Walter Woodward for Attorney General, McCraw has had his eyes on the governor's chair and considered running against Allred this year but decided to postpone his campaign until 1938. McCraw is a brilliant speaker and tireless campaigner and will undoubtedly run a good race two years hence.

HILL FAMILY REUNION HELD JULY 4

On July 4 the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hill and a number of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Carroll. Swimming, target practice, and various games were the main attraction of the day. Dinner was served to approximately thirty-nine guests.

All the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Hill were present.

A shower was also given the recently married Mr. and Mrs. Keaton Hodge of Lampasas. Many nice and useful gifts were presented this excellent couple. Mrs. Hodge was formerly Miss Azelea Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hill.

SEN. CARL HARDIN AGAINST ONE-MAN R. R. COMM. CONTROL

Stephenville, July 9.—Rich oil fields of Texas that hold millions in wealth, are controlled by a one-man commission, according to charges made last week by former State Senator Carl C. Hardin of this city in talks made in interest of his candidacy for Railroad Commissioner. He said the "one man" is the incumbent E. O. Thompson, and declared that Thompson is in the power of the Standard Oil Company.

During the remainder of the campaign, Mr. Hardin will be in many Texas counties, speaking on an average of ten times daily.

"Time will not permit me to visit every county," he said, "but I would like to do so that all the people of our state might be informed as to the conditions that exist in our Railroad Commission."

Predictions were made during the last speeches made by Mr. Hardin, that the oil allowable production cuts will be even greater when the primary is over. He declared that when he is elected he will be for more production which will bring about cheaper gasoline and oil and taxes that would sufficiently meet the demands of the old age pension fund.

He also stated that if the natural resources of this State are properly developed there will be sufficient funds to properly maintain the educational institutions and to permit boys and girls to get an education at lower cost.

Unemployment would be greatly relieved if increased development of the State's natural resources was allowed, Mr. Hardin is declaring in his talks.

Since 1902 more than 46,000 prisoners have been incarcerated at the federal prison at Atlanta.

HENRY FORD TRADE SCHOOL YOUTHS SHOW RESULTS

Selected from an enrollment of 1,700, eight boys between the ages of 12 and 18 years have been brought from the Henry Ford Trade School in Dearborn, Michigan, to operate one of the interesting exhibits in the Ford Building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. The boys are to show in part what they learn and exactly how this knowledge is applied.

Boys who attend the Henry Ford Trade school are chosen from a long waiting list, as the institution has many unusually attractive features. The school, which was started in 1916, established an enviable reputation. Its program was founded upon three basic principles: First, the boys were to be kept boys and not changed into premature workmen; Second, the academic training was to go hand in hand with the industrial instructions; Third, the boys were to be given a sense of pride and responsibility by having them build articles which were to be used.

The trade school's complete academic course includes three years high school English, four years of mathematical drawing, civics, commercial geography, auto mechanics, shop arithmetic, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, general chemistry, qualitative and quantitative analysis, metallography and shop theory.

Boys are paid 20c an hour at the beginning. Satisfactory marks for a six-weeks' period automatically entitles a boy to an increase in pay of one cent an hour. If a lad progresses normally he should be receiving at the end of the first year a scholarship of 27 cents, with an increase of 8 cents an hour for each succeeding year until the maximum of 60 cents an hour for boys under 18 is reached. Boys doing exceptionally good work are advanced more rapidly. At present the average rate is approximately 35 cents, or a little more than $700 a year.

New students are given an extra $2 the first month. This money must be deposited in a bank and the bank book turned over to the school to be checked for as long as the boy keeps his bank fund in tact a like amount is given him each succeeding month. This item, added to the cost of a hot lunch served the boys each day, makes the maximum rate in excess of $530 and the maximum slightly more than $1100 each year.

Boys in the Ford Exposition building show how their co-workers in Dearborn make thousands and thousands of articles in a year. These articles must pass the same rigid standards of quality as those set by the Ford Motor Company which is the chief market for the output of the school.

Visitors to the Ford Exposition building are invited to ask the boys working in the exhibit questions pertaining to their work. All are qualified and eager to talk about their studies and jobs.

Crowds Marvel at Replica of Huge Ford Foundry

Of the hundreds of thousands who have visited the great Ford Exposition at the Dallas Centennial, many, as the photograph indicates, have shown marked interest in the model exhibit of the foundry at the Ford Motor Company's River Rouge plant at Dearborn, Michigan. The foundry covers more than 30 acres and turns approximately 3,200 tons of metal every 16 hours.

BISCUITS

SOUTHERN SPOON BREAD
Two cups cornmeal, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 quart milk, 3 eggs, 3 tablespoons melted butter.

Heat milk to boiling point, then stir in meal and salt; add butter and cook 5 minutes. Cool mixture, add yolks of eggs well beaten, then beat whites of eggs to stiff froth and fold in. Pour batter into buttered 2-quart pan and bake in moderate oven 40 minutes. Serve while hot, using a spoon with which to serve it. This is especially good served with roast pork.

OVER NIGHT YEAST BREAD
One yeast cake, 1 quart water, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon shortening, 3 quarts sifted flour, 1 tablespoon salt.

The over-night straight dough has one special advantage which is, the process of baking may be completed during the morning hours. Dissolve yeast and sugar in the liquid which should be luke warm in winter and cool in summer. Add salt, shortening and half the flour. Beat until smooth, then add balance of flour or enough to make stiff dough. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in well greased bowl, cover and set aside to rise over night or about ten hours. In the morning mould into loaves. Fill well greased pans about half full, cover, set aside in warm place and let rise until is almost level with top of pan which will require about one and a half hours. Bake in moderately hot oven until a golden brown crust is formed. Bread should be thoroughly baked in 50 minutes.

SPEECH DEFECTS AGAIN

My two earlier articles on speech defects brought a number of inquiries. Incidentally while I was glad to answer these I am not in a position to undertake a question and answer service nor to carry on correspondence.

The essence of my replies was this: First, most speech defects in young children can be corrected. Indeed, the outlook is very hopeful. To know this, so that your attitude is one of encouragement before the child goes a long way toward cure. Always be hopeful and show it.

Kindness and patience are very important, because fear of speech errors is the child's worst handicap. Help him over that hurdle by avoiding emotional upsets.

Be sure that the cause of the defect is not a structural fault that is, a physical deformity of the mouth, throat, or voice box. Enlist the aid of a child specialist or a throat doctor to determine this point.

For corrective treatment consult the school superintendent or principal. In most school systems today there is some teacher who has had training in speech correction. Failing in this, talk with a music or elocution teacher in the community. Either can give you helpful suggestions to carry out at home.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THEY say the dude ranch business is getting to be a right profitable business, and lots of business men are going into it. They take good care of the folks that go out to these ranches, and if a fellow don't know about ranch life, they ease it to him right gently. But a few years ago, before they got so much business efficiency into it, there used to be rough guys working on some of these ranches that used to like to see a city guy get thrown off a horse. Course, that wasn't good for business, and it ain't done any more.

There was one city guy with a lot of dough went out to a dude ranch, and one of the cowboys brought around a horse for him. The guy was all dressed up in swell riding togs, and he had a swell pair of spurs on, but he said to the cowboy, just when it was time for him to get into the saddle, "Say, I feel kinda funny. Do you know, bo, I've never been on a horse before?"

"Oh, that's all right, mister," says the cowpuncher. "You ain't got nothing on this here pony. He feels kinda funny too. He ain't never been rode before. So the two of you kin learn together."

SCHLAGFERTIGE ANTWORTEN

Die hohe Stellung, die gekroente Haaupter einnehmen, macht sie durchaus nicht unempfindlich gegen einen guten Scherz. Es gab un gibt viele Herrscher, die sind ebensogern einmal einen Scherz mit ihren Untergebenen erlauben, als auch gern gute miene zum boesen Spiel machten, wenn sie zur Zielscheibe eines guten Scherzes gemacht wurden. Zu den Anekdoten, die ueber gekroente Haaupter im Umlauf sind, moegen noch folgende weniger bekannte hinzugefuegt sein.

Karl II. von England, der gutmuetige und leichtloige Stuart, fragte einst seinen Kaplan Dr. Stillingfleet: "Warum lesen sie Ihre Predigten vor mir stets aus einem Buche ab, waehrend Sie doch, wie ich bemerkt habe, anderwaerts ohne Buch und ohne Notizen vorzueglich predigen koennen?" Der gute Kaplan antwortete, dasz ihn die Gegenwart der Majestaet so verwirre, dasz er sich dagegen nicht anders schuetzen koenne, als durch das Ablesen seiner Predigten, und fuhr dann fort: "Und nun, Majestaet, wuerden Sie Ihre Reden stets ablesen, da Ihnen doch eine gleiche Entschuldigung nicht sur Verfuegung seh."

Als Georg III von England zum ersten Male Sir John Irwin, eine ueberaus durstige Seele, vorgestellt wurde, bemerkte er leutselig zu ihm: "Man hat mir erzaeht, Sir John, Ihr liebt ein Glaeschen Wein ueber alles." "O, Majestaet" erwiderte Sir John ernsten Tones, "die Leute, die Ew. Majestaet derart informieren, taten mir bitter Unrecht, Flasche muszten sie sagen, Flasche!"

Eine heisende Antwort empfang einst Koenig Georg von Horne Tooke, bei dem der sich erkundigte, ob er Karten spiele. "Majestaet," erwiderte dieser, "ich kann einmal einen Bube von einem Koenig nicht unterscheiden!"

Als Kronprinz speiste Koenig Goerg einst bei einem Admiral der englischen Flotte und sagte zu ihm: "Wenn ich erst Koenig bin, mein Lieber, dann werden Sie nicht lenger Admiral bleiben, das versichere ich Ihnen—was sagen Sie dazu?" "Alles, was ich dazu sage," erwiderte der witzige Seeoffizier, ist: "God, save the King!"

Ludwig XIV. war als Knabe ein leidenschaftlicher Freund des Ringens und baltge sich gern mit seinen Spielgefaherten herum, zum groeszten Leidwesen seines Erziehers Laporte. Bei einer solchen Gelegenheit waelzte er sich einst mit dem Grafen von Artois auf dem Pusboden, taub gegen alle Ermahnungen seines Erziehers. Schweigend setzte sich Laporte seinen Hut auf, nahm auf einem Stuhl Platz und begann zu lesen. Der jung Prinz, der auf seine koengliche Wuerde nicht

DAS SCHICKSAL DER GEISTLICHEN IN RUSZLAND

Nach amtlichen sowietrussischen Nachrichten sind in den 18 Jaren bolschewistischer Herrschaft in den Kronzentration-lagern 42,800 Personen geistlichen Standes gestorben. Gegenwaertig leben in Ruzland noch 1200 Geistlich von denen nur ein geringer Teil in den Gemeinden taetig ist.

Lutherische Pastoren leben in Ruzland noch 87. Davon stehen 8 im Amt, wenn auch unter groszen Schwierigkeiten. 31 Pastoren genieszen die "Freiheit," duerfen aber nicht amtierien; sie waren bis kuerzlich im Gefaengnis oder in der Verbannung und sind in groszer Rot. 48 Pastoren sind sur Zeit im Gefaengnis oder in der Verbannung, einige davon sind zum Tode verurteilt, ueber das Schicksal der ander weisz man nichts Naeheres.

wenig stolz war, schrie wuetend: "Wie koennen Sie es wagen, in Ihres Koenigs Gegenwart sich zu setzan und bedekt zu bleiben." "Verzeihung, Sire," erwiderte Laporte, "aber ich glaube nicha, daz ein Koenig sich in diesem Zimmer befindet."

Ein treffende Antwort emfang auch Friederich der Grosze, der sich einst ueber seinen Leibartz lustig machen wollte, indem er ihn fragte: "Nun, wieviel Menschen, Doktor, haben Sie schon in die andere Welt gesandt." "Nicho ganz soviel wie Ew. Majestaet, aber mit unendlich weniger Ruhm."

Amuesanter ist das Rencontre Fraderich's des Groszen mit seinem Leibkutscher, der ihn einstmas umgeworfen hatte. Der Kutscher entwarfnete den koen iglichen Zorn durch die Frage: "Majestaet, haben Sie nie eine Schlacht verloren."—Aus Der Abenschule.

100 BALLOTS SENT VOTERS; NINE ABSENTEES VOTED AS ELECTION NEARS

Chas. P. Mounce, County Clerk, and custodian of the absentee votes, stated yesterday morning something over 100 ballots had been mailed absentees who were out of town and who had paid poll taxes here.

Nine people in the county who plan to be away from home on election day have already scratched their tickets and filed them with the County Clerk, in accordance with law.

109 votes may decide a great many of the races, and too it shows considerable interest in the present lack-luster election.

BROWN & GILMORE RODEO AT JONESBORO FRIDAY JULY 17

Brown & Gilmore, rodeotricians, (since everything has gone technician) have announced their annual Jonesboro Rodeo for July 17, at the old Jonesboro bridge, and the program includes the "aerial" acts of bucking horses, mules, brahma steers, and the "wrestling" events include bulldogging and calf roping, with a free barbecue included with the price of admission.

At present the arena is being repaired, from the rough usage last year, and everything is being put in readiness for a grand and glorious time. Coffee will be furnished by Mr. Moritz representing a well known coffee firm.

Everything will be in top shape for this event, and we'll see you Coryell Countians there, says both Mr. Gilmore and Mr. Brown.

A. Shirley Makes His Statement to Voters in Justice Precinct 1

To the voters of Prec. No. 1: As you all know the primary election is near, and as it is impossible to see each and every voter in person, I am just taking this method to remind you that I am in the race for reelection. I thank you for your support in the past and thank you for your support in the coming primary, and I hope you will not feel slighted because I have not seen you in person for it is impossible to meet everyone.

I have filled the office I believe just as well as any one has in several years; I am here practically all the time and have been here for duty every day since I was elected, unless called away in sickness. I am up with the duties of the office ready for any new cases that might come up, so nothing has to wait and be prolonged on my account, I have tried to do justice between parties that were involved in suits and very often got a compromise instead of a long suit. I have taken care of the office and used the supplies on hand, economized by not buying a lot of unnecessary papers when they were already in the office, I have turned in all moneys and everything that belonged to the County or office, and would be glad for anyone to investigate for themselves. I have not heard one word of complaint in regard to my work or the way I have filled the office, and will say this: If you see proper to put me back in office I will continue to do what is right the best I know how and try to fill the office with honor to myself and to the voters.

I thank you again for apst favors and also for the vote you will cast for me July 25, when I hope you can say "he was faithful over a few things, let us make him ruler over many."

Yours Respt.,
A. Shirley, J. P.,

Scotch whisky distillers report that the season just closed was one of the best in years.

Coryell County's July term of District Court convenes here Monday, with Judge R. B. Cross presiding. Monday will be devoted to impaneling the grand jury and delivering of the charge to that body by Judge Cross.

Headed by the civil docket which is rather light this term as to new cases, with the exception of divorce cases, the court will have a considerable carry-over from the January term.

As to the criminal docket, nothing exciting is expected, since there have been no crimes of any import since the last term of court.

Tuesday morning the appearance docket will be called and cases set for trial, and the following Monday the civil and jury dockets will be taken up. The Monday following that, the criminal docket will be taken up.

"SAY NOT SO! SAY NOT SO!"

We've been saying so ever since we first heard of it! Like many other Gatesville and Coryell County people, we've been fortunate enough to see for ourselves, the really GREAT fair and exposition that we have in this state, the Texas Centennial Central Exposition in Dallas.

The Century of Progress had nothing on the Texas Centennial, with the exception of the fact that it was many miles further from Gatesville than the 150 to Dallas. The world is at Texas' feet. We're in a show window which is passed by the whole world. Why shouldn't WE take advantage of it and SELL ourselves to the world? Not a man, woman or child in Coryell County should miss this Texas Centennial Exposition.

Digressing a bit, let us also urge, as before, that Gatesville and Coryell County must not miss having a supplementary Centennial Celebration while the world is in Texas. It is truly an opportunity of a century. Can we miss it? We say no!

Coryell County leads the WORLD in the production of Mules, the State in the production of OATS. We have the mules and the oats to feed them on! What a talking point, what a fact for ballyhoo, publicity and everything that goes to make up a splendid fair, exposition or other exhibition.

Let's get our heads together and DO something!

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

The controversy over James A. Farley holding two jobs as Postmaster General and Chairman of the Democratic National Committee has at last been settled in so far as Democrats are concerned by Farley taking a leave of absence from the Postoffice Department for the duration of the campaign. But the issue of Farley remaining technically the head of the Postoffice Department and at the same time directing the campaign of President Roosevelt is by no means a dead one, for Republicans are sure to make a target of the situation.

Farley has been the object of criticism by Republicans ever since the President issued an order two years ago requiring all members of the national appointive Federal positions to resign. Farley held on to his two positions and he is, in addition to Democratic National Chairman and Postmaster General, State Democratic Chairman of New York.

Ethiopia is no ready for mass colonization by Italians, although Italian taxpayers coughed up one billion dollars to make it so. As the British, French and Germans found in their colonial exploits, the Italians will find that the greatest cost in money and lives will come in pacification of the country after all organized opposition has been crushed.

The noted aviator, Antonio Locatelli, a general, a colonel, and six other aviators attached to the Italian army of occupation were ambushed and slain when they alighted from planes in Jimma Province, southwest of Addis Ababa, for the purpose of establishing a military garrison there.

Locatelli attempted a non-stop flight from Italy to America in 1924 but was forced down and rescued from the sea off Greenland by a United States battle cruiser. He was a member of the Balbo flight to the Chicago Century of Progress in 1933.

If events of this nature continue, Mussolini may resort to the same methods employed by the early American settlers—extermination of the native inhabitants. With poison gas which can be spread by planes over thousands of square miles, annihilating every living creature with which it comes in contact, the process would be much easier for the Duce than for the American settlers.

Senator Borah, who has been sulking in his Idaho home since the Republican National Convention nominated Alf Landon for the presidency, has thrown his support to the Landon-Knox ticket and declared for the party platform.

At Boise, Idaho, state capital, Borah clarified his position with these words: "I have no intention of bolting the ticket. I am supporting the platform and I have been supporting it from the beginning."

At Cleveland, the Landon leaders bent every effort toward conciliating the Idaho lion by granting his request for an anti-monopoly plank in the platform, but the Idahoan was in no mood to be conciliated and left the convention asserting he thought Landon has "betrayed" the party by his telegram containing his own interpretations of several planks of the platform.

Borah hurt his cause both in the nation and in his home State of Idaho, where he faces a stiff battle in his Senate race, by his sulking attitude pursued following the Cleveland convention. He remains, however, a power in the Western farm States and would be a

SOIL LOSSES BY SHEET EROSION AND GULLIES

Erosion surveys made by the Gatesville Soil Conservation Camp indicate that every farm in Coryell County is affected to some degree by sheet erosion.

The Annual Report of the Camp points out that sheet erosion is severe on a comparatively small acreage but moderate sheet erosion is apparent on almost the entire area including both cultivated and pasture land. Erosion surveys on 72 farms show 95.6 percent of the land damaged by sheet erosion and 29.6 percent affected by gullies. An average of the different erosion classifications reveals that 26 percent of the top soil has been lost by erosion. The amount of land damaged by gullies has increased rapidly within the past year.

The greater part of the cultivated land has now reached the accelerated stage of erosion and unless corrective measures are applied immediately, destruction from this source will gain momentum each year. Less time will be required to lose an additional 26 percent of top soil than has been required to lose the first 26 percent.

The outstanding feature of this area is that the diversification found here has not been incorporated into a soil conservation program. The greatest need and also the greatest opportunity is to coordinate this diversified agriculture and erosion control by a better distribution over the farms of soil erosion resisting crops, the use of green manures and soil building crops and improved crop rotations using contour cultivation and contour strip cropping on practically all of the cultivated land and terracing where necessary.

To control erosion on pasture lands the outstanding needs are for controlled grazing and control of brush and weeds, however, contour ridges, re-vegetation, and gully control are required for some areas.

An encouraging feature of the Camp Annual Report is that interest is increasing in soil conservation work. Within the past year, numerous farmers have made a start in the right direction and have instituted soil conservation practices as demonstrated on farms cooperating with the SCS Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Alvis Sr. held open house Tuesday evening honoring their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Alvis Jr. The lovely affair was held on the spacious lawns of their home on South Tenth.

Guests were met on the lawn by Misses Bertha Lillian Stewart, Jack Hestilow, Chambliss Gresham of Temple, and Louis Woodall.

Guests then registered in the bride's book which was presided over by Miss Nell Routh, after which Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Guggolz invited them into the living room where Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Woodall presided.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Mrs. C. A. Morton and Miss Mary Kathryn Gresham of Temple, vocalist accompanied by Jack Reesing for the first hour period, and Miss Beverly Chamlee accompanied by Miss Mayme Sue Halbrook for the second period.

The attractively dining room with its soft red light which added to its loveliness, was decorated with pink gladiolas and roses.

The dining table was laid with a Normany lace cloth. Pink gladiolas were attractively decorated around the huge hand painted punch bowl. Pink roses in a silver basket were placed on the buffet. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
 When David Langston builds a house on his farmstead, tongues begin wagging in the Lamberlost country. Although David is devoted to Ruth Jameson, a young orphan who, with her sister Naomi, lives with Granny Moreland on the adjacent farm, Mrs. Biddle and her scheming daughter Thelma, trick him into asking Thelma to be his wife. To little Ruth, Mrs. Biddle brings her into her home as a menial, and arranges for little Naomi to be sent away to the orphan asylum. Old Granny Moreland, grieving over the loss of the two girls, becomes gravely ill. Ruth and David hurry to her side.

Chapter Five

Ruth looked at David through tear-drenched eyes. Nothing could ever be the same again! They had changed David... Naomi was gone... And now Granny... She began to sob silently, and when David put his arm comfortably about her she clung to him, frightened, desperate. David! David! her heart cried out to him despairingly.

They knelt beside Granny's bed. "Don't go away, Granny!" Ruth sobbed. "Don't leave me!"

"I'm not leaving you..." Granny's

Naomi. "I can't understand your change of attitude, Mrs. Biddle," he said sternly. "It was you who were so insistent the child should be here."

Mrs. Biddle fluttered uncomfortably. She hadn't wanted David to know that. Men were so stupid! Always saying and doing the wrong thing.

David faced her sternly. "Did you have Naomi put here?"

"Why — why — yes," she stammered. "I thought it was for the child's good —"

"And so it is," Mr. Prewett agreed. "And she'll have to stay here until some responsible person —"

"Am I responsible?" David interrupted.

"Are you insane?" Thelma demanded coldly.

"Not any more..." David's voice was quiet. "I'll adopt her."

"I guess I have something to say about that!" Thelma flashed, while Ruth caught her breath in a sudden sweet uprush of hope.

Stars Behind the Mist

David looked soberly at Thelma, at her angry, flashing eyes and determined mien. He hadn't meant to break it to her here and now, but the revelation of Mrs. Biddle's duplicity had brought things to a head. "I promised to marry you, Thelma," he said slowly, "and I'll keep my word. But I also promised Granny I'd look after Naomi — and I intend to do it!"

"I'm not going to live in the same thin, sweet voice came faintly. "Just going — a little ways — ahead..." She turned to David. "You've been a good boy, Davey... Like my own... I want you to look after my girls... Promise me you'll take care of Ruth and Naomi..." Perhaps, after all, she thought as the shadows closed in, it was not too late to give them the last gift of happiness. "I promise," David said solemnly, and he put his arm about Ruth's shoulders.

"Stay with us, Granny!" Ruth cried piteously. But already she felt the frail hand in hers relax. Granny had gone, smiling, with David's promise in her keeping.

The last person from whom David would have expected support was Mr. Biddle. But now suddenly that much-managed man found his voice. For once in his life he was going to say what he thought and not what Mrs. Biddle dictated. He had, Mr. Biddle told David, a prospective purchaser for the house — but he advised David to think carefully before letting it go.

"Don't make the mistake I did," he said soberly. "I've never known a moment's peace... You'll never be happy away from your land... Think it over, David!"

Mrs. Biddle Exposed

David didn't need to think it over. He knew what he was going to do. But the older man's unexpected support gave him added courage for the difficult task ahead. He and Ruth... Oh how, he wondered, could any man have been so blind, so long! Ruth didn't care for that Bert Monroe — he knew that now. Nor did he love Thelma! How well he knew that now! He didn't know what Thelma would say, or do — but nothing — nothing should separate him from Ruth now!

He went with Mrs. Biddle to the orphanage, to get Naomi. It was Mrs. Biddle's plan to send Naomi with Ruth out to her sister in Terre Haute, since Ruth had flatly refused to do without her. But they were not going to Terre Haute, David knew!

But Mr. Prewett demurred. He didn't see how Ruth, working as a servant, could support and care for house with that brat!" Thelma cried shrilly.

"I am," David said. "I'm going to live in that house and be happy! If you want to come along, you're welcome... It's up to you!"

He turned to Mr. Prewett. "You can draw up the necessary papers. From now on, I'll be responsible for Naomi."

"Very well, David," Prewett nodded understandingly.

Angrily Thelma jerked the ring from her finger and threw it at David. David bent and picked it up. Across the room he saw Ezra Biddle smile at him approvingly.

And now David turned to Ruth and Naomi, who stood, bewildered by this incredible, this wonderful change, clinging to each other. But behind the midst in their eyes stars shone now. David took Naomi's hand in his. "Come, Ruth," he said.

And together they went out, down the long road, toward — home!

Mrs. Biddle gasped indignantly. "Why they — why, he — he can't do that! I'll — I'll —"

But her husband, so long silent under her domination, stopped her. As if he had surprisingly grown in stature, he faced her sternly. "You'll do nothing!" he said stoutly. "I'm running this family. Do you understand?"

And now spring came to the Lamberlost, bright with promise. And the house that David Langston had built welcomed his bride and her little sister. And David knew now the meaning of those sweet and formless dreams.

It was Saturday and Naomi was home from school. But outside the fields were waiting for the plough and David went out to harness the old horse to it.

Ruth followed, walking arm in arm with him behind the plough, watching the rich earth curve in a brown wave before the shining blade. Naomi, perched on the back of the horse, clutched at the reins and pretended that she was doing the work herself.

David smiled. Tilting Ruth's face up to his, he kissed her.

Behind them Belshazzar followed contentedly.

With charges of reckless extravagance being made by Republicans against the Administration and just as volatile defense coming from New Dealers, it is gratifying to the voter to have the official figures of the Treasury on New Deal spending during the three years' incumbency of President Roosevelt.

If the New Deal has been indiscriminate and careless as the trustee of the taxpayers' money, this is the time when the voters should know it. On the other hand, if the expenditures under Roosevelt have been beneficial and not for political purposes as charged, the voters likewise should be acquainted with the facts, for this is election year and the time when the voters must make a choice between the present incumbent and the one who would succeed him.

The Federal Treasury closed the 1936 fiscal year—marking the end of the three Roosevelt years—with the national debt standing at $33,013,000,000.

The accumulative deficit in the last six years—three years under Hoover and three years under Roosevelt—had been $19,386,000,000. Of this amount $13,969,000,000 has been incurred since the inception of

Doc's Win Over Firemen to Cop Softball Title

Hashslingers Win First Half Title 4-3 in Softball schedule Before Large Crowd Fans.

Wednesday night in a game even closer than the score indicates, Doc's Sandwich Shop team won the first half title in the local softball league by defeating a hard fighting crew of Firemen, 4-3.

As stated, the score doesn't begin to tell just how close the game really was. In the initial inning the Firemen filled the bases with no outs and failed to score when Doc's tightened up their defense. Doc's went out in order in their half of the inning. The losers went out, one, two, three in the second, while the Hashslingers filled the bases after two were out in their part of this inning, but failed to score. The Firemen drew first blood in the third when an error and a couple of outs accounted for the game's first run. Doc's quickly made up for this run and threw in another in their half of the inning when the first man up drew a base on balls and completed the circuit on two hits while the second run came as the result of two outs and a wild heave home from the outfield.

Both sides went out in order in the fourth, but in the fifth the losers tied the game up when the first man walked and a fielder's choice and a couple of outs brought in the tying run. The tie was short lived, however, as in the same inning the first batter for Doc's received a free ticket to first and came home with the run, on a wild pitch and two infield outs. In the sixth the first two Firemen walked but the next three were easy outs, with no chance of the base runners advancing. Doc's scored their last and what proved to be the winning run in the frame when with one out, two hits and an infield out brought the marker around. The Firemen came to bat their last time with blood in their eyes and things looked bad for the Sandwich crew as B. Patterson, first up, got a hit. He was forced out at second but the next man walked. The next batter went out with no advance being made and the next one walked, filling the bases with two down. The next man walked forcing in a run, but the next one went out, ending the great ball game.

The game witnessed by the largest crowd of the season and everyone present should have been well entertained for the game was as exciting as one could possibly ask for.

SOFTBALL

Monday night the Merchants upset the Firemen by a score of 8-1, while Doc's had an easy time disposing of the Whites a score of 18-0.

After the two games had ended Monday night Doc's was one game in the van of the Firemen, and on Wednesday night won over the smoke eaters, to win the first half title.

Next week will be an off week for league play as plans will be made for the second half. However, attempts will be made to bring some strong out of town teams to play on the local diamond.
