Sanderford Makes Last Appeal To Voters in Gubernatorial Race

Senator Roy Sanderford of Belton, candidate for Governor, closes his gubernatorial campaign here tonight at 8:15 when he speaks to Coryell Countians at the Courthouse lawn according to Dr. Ralph Bailey.

Hon. R. B. Cross, District Judge of this district, has been selected to introduce Senator Sanderford.

Chairs will be provided and complete sound equipment so that the crowds expected may be able to hear the speaker, who will discuss mainly Old Age pensions, taxation, income tax, sales tax, law enforcement, and home ownership.

Senator Sanderford has made several trips to Gatesville during his campaign, and on one occasion was a guest at the regular Wednesday luncheon of the Gatesville Lion's Club.

GROVE RODEO PROVES BEST THIS SIDE OF CHEYENNE MANY SAY

Austin Doolittle's Rodeo, or The Grove Rodeo, as many know it, according to many who have seen rodeos all over the United States, were of the opinion that Mr. Doolittle's rodeo was the best they'd seen this side of Cheyenne.

Getting the animals out of their pens, and the animals getting the men off after they got out, was the big feature of the rodeo. Calf roping came in for a big hand, the calves proving the toughest bunch seen in a long time, and the time of 16.2 was something to write home about.

The grand finale the first day, was the 8-mule turnout which proved to be a scream, with eight riders "flying high" simultaneously off mule-back.

Emmitt Dickie's trained gray pony drew a big hand, with his clever tricks.

SUP'T. FRANK L. WILLIAMS SPEAKS OVER STA. WACO FOR PAT BULLOCK

Frank L. Williams, superintendent of Gatesville schools is scheduled to be the principal speaker at 9:15 tonight over radio station WACO in the interest of the candidacy of Pat Bullock for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Mr. Williams goes on the air at the request of the Central Texas Bullock headquarters, which is located in Waco.

BRING ON YOUR BIG PEACHES, BRING ON YOUR CREAM, PEACHES AND CREAM!

Dr. Bailey's peach story was certainly a peach! We've had a veritable peach barrage since that story came out. The latest peaches received weighed as follows: with the largest going to Hiram Swindall, a 10 oz. peach 10 1/2 inches in circumference; Mrs. R. E. Berry, 9 oz. with a girth of 10 1/4 inches; and Mrs. A. Shirley, 8 1/2 oz. 10 1/4 inch girth.

Mrs. Pat Potts's peach, which is considerable peach came in under the wire after it was too late to get an official weighing in, but it looks like a scales and tape measure are due a jolt. If some will start bringing in cream, or the other necessities for peaches and cream, or peach cobbler, these after-midnight press days, won't seem so long, when taken with our coffee and milk.

BURDICK'S ALL-TEXAS SHOWS HERE FOR WEEK'S STAY

Burdick's All-Texas Shows, a carnival attraction, will be here the week beginning July 27, under the auspices of the Gatesville Fire Department.

The Burdick Shows are highly rated and well thought of in every city they have made and we are assured by Mr. Burdick that nothing objectionable of any nature will be permitted, ladies and children being especially invited.

The Burdick organization is booked for the Reunion at McGregor and, shows in Gatesville following the close of their McGregor engagement.

TWO LOCAL FIREMEN GO TO FIREMEN'S MEET

Fire Marshall Pleas Walker and Johnny Washburn returned last week end from College Station where they attended the Fireman's short course at the A. and M. College.

Instructions given by the College for volunteer firemen each year, and as usual Gatesville had representatives there. This sending members down to the school helps to reduce the fire rate for property holders in the city.

TWO INJURED IN CAR WRECK NEAR DODD'S CREEK THURSDAY A. M.

W. M. Pope of Silsbee and daughter, a Mrs. Vivett of Beaumont figured in a car accident near Dodd's Creek about 9 a. m. yesterday, Mrs. Vivett receiving a broken left ankle, facial cuts, and broken teeth, receiving a deep gash on forehead above left eye, and cut over nose.

Woodrow and Elmer Watts, passing in a car just after the wreck, brought them to local doctors.

The car apparently skidded in loose gravel, and after several swerves headed into a bank of the road, blowing out a tire, crushing the lower part of the radiator, the bumper and the left fender.

Mr. Pope had just bought the car, Ford V-8, Wednesday morning and had only 572.2 miles on the speedometer.

Due to their injuries Lloyd Neil Kirkpatrick drove them to Beaumont.

A LA MODE, LIONS HOLD A POLITICAL RALLY AT WEDNESDAY MEET

In line with the foremost thought of the county, districts, and state at this time, Gatesville Lions gave time for member Lions who are candidates at their Wednesday meeting.

Among those who spoke were Floyd Zeigler, C. E. Alvis Jr., Chas. P. Mounce, and J. M. Witcher, who it was said, would be in the race two years from now.

Mayor C. E. Gandy did not speak politically but made mention of a proposed Junior High School, and other plans the city had in the making or are proposing.

To the Hon. R. B. Cross, Judge Presiding:

We, your Grand Jury for the July term, 1936, have examined 163 witnesses. As a result of our deliberations we have found 23 true bills: 17 felonies and 6 misdemeanors.

Coryell County is to be congratulated upon the fact that this Grand Jury had not homicide cases to investigate, and we feel that its citizens are due credit for their high regard for the sanctity of human life.

Due to the present condition of the liquor laws of the State of Texas and the frequent violation in our county of the law against operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated we desire to urge the citizenry of Coryell County to promptly report and aid in the apprehension of all drunken drivers. There is a tendency on the part of many persons to condone and fail to report drunk drivers unless an accident of a rather serious nature occurs. This attitude not only breeds a disrespect for the law but invite tragedy that might befall any innocent man, woman or child on the highway.

We would like to urge that in so far as possible all stock and poultry raisers place a distinctive brand on their property. This will not only facilitate the identification of estrays and prevent disputes of ownership but will prove an invaluable aid to the officers of this county in apprehending the theft of stock. A prompt report to your Sheriff together with a good description of the missing stock will also go far toward its discovery.

We further desire to request of the parents of this county that they impress upon their children the sanctity and solemnity of an oath. We have found that a number of our witnesses show an utter disregard of the oath.

It has also come to the attention of members of the Grand Jury that the law prohibiting the running of livestock at large on the highways is being frequently violated. Due to the apparent danger to persons traveling the highways, we recommend that these violations be reported and prosecuted.

It is our desire to commend the citizenship for its prompt response to all subpoenas issued by the Grand Jury and to thank the witnesses for their assistance to us in our efforts to reach the "truth."

We, your Grand Jury of Coryell County, commend highly to the citizenship of our county the able manner in which our officers labor day and night to keep peace and harmony among us. While we sleep oftentimes these men are seeking to curb the

General Program Chairman Says "Latch String" On Outside for Coryell County Calvacade Aug. 14

In a letter received by Rev. M. M. Chunn yesterday from R. B. Lentz, General Chairman of programs for the Texas Centennial Central Exposition at Dallas, Mr. Lentz writes as follows: "Your Coryell County program sounds very interesting. We'll be looking for you August 14."

Now, there you are, folk! Just as well wind up the old bus and get ready for that trek to Dallas Friday, August 14. Bonds, speakers with sound equipment, banners in everything will tell the story of Coryell County, Gatesville, and every town in the county, to people enroute and also at the Centennial. Coryell County will go on parade before the eyes of the world. Mark your calendar, FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, MR. AND MRS. CORYELL COUNTY.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

Many new faces will be visible in the august ranks of the United States Senate when that body convenes next January. In the elections of 1932 and 1934 Democrats made such inroads into the G. O. P. Senatorial group that only 25 remain seated and this year the donkey hopes to further reduce this number.

On the other hand, Republicans, inspired by manifestations of anti-New Deal sentiment over the country, are preparing a vigorous campaign to return their stalwarts and at the same time cut down some of the Democrats seeking re-election to the upper house.

In the traditional Republican strongholds of New Hampshire, New Jersey, and Rhode Island, Democratic candidates for the Senate have triumphed either in '32 or '34. Inspired by these victories, as well as recent gubernatorial triumphs in Rhode Island and Delaware, Democrats are this year after the political scraps of five old-time G. O. P. Senators: Keyes of New Hampshire; Barbour of New Jersey; Metcalf of Rhode Island; and White of Maine.

Although Roosevelt lost New Hampshire four years ago, and Democrats have little hope of carrying the state nationally this year, they still remember the 1932 victory over veteran senator George H. Moses, apothecosis of the Republican party.

Four years ago the Frank Hague machine of Jersey City delivered New Jersey into the Roosevelt column but lost a fight against Warren Barbour, who sought election to a four-year unexpired term in the Senate. Two years ago Democrats lost the governorship but put Governor Harry Moore into the Senate over strong Republican opposition. This year they hope to repeat with a strong New Deal vote and a victory over Senator Barbour.

Tiny Rhode Island repudiated its Republican bosses in 1932 to join its neighbors in a Hoover strike. A Democrat won the governorship and in 1934 former Senator Peter G. Gerry defeated former Republican Senator French. The same is in store for Senator Metcalf, Rhode Island Democrats declare.

Senator Hastings is a Republican of the old school of thought a typical Old Guard member. Since 1934 he has been chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, composed of Republican Senators. But this veteran who has led many an onslaught against the Democratic majority in the Senate is retiring and when the roll is called next year in the upper house, New Dealers confidently expect a Democrat to answer "present" with Delaware's Republican Senator John G. Townsend Jr.

Democrats captured control of Maine in 1932—for the first time in sixty years—when Mr. Roosevelt carried the state for President and Louis J. Brann was elected governor. Two years ago Democrat Brann was re-elected with a whooping majority and G. O. P. Senator Frederick Hale was returned by the narrowest margin. This year Governor Brann is again carrying the torch for the Democrats against Republican Senator Wallace White Jr.

Democratic incumbents seem to be having more inter-party opposition than opposition from the Republicans. Kentucky's Senator M. M. Logan faces a fight for his political life against Representative Fred M. Vinson, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee. Marcus Goolidge of Massachusetts found himself deserted by his party when the State Democratic Convention endorsed Governor James M. Curley for the Senatorial nomination.

Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and New Deal leader in the upper house, is meeting opposition from former Governor Sen-rett Connor, who has the support of Junior Senator Theodore G. Bilbo.

Oklahoma's blind Senator Thomas P. Gore lost out in the Democratic primary, being 4th in the race which saw Representative Josh Lee, Governor E. W. Marland, and Townsend vice President Gomer Smith the leaders in the order named. Lee and Marland, the runoff contenders, are both ardent New Dealers.

Senator Morris Sheppard is confronted by a Congressman, an anti-New Deal leader, and three Townsendites in the primary tomorrow. He is considered certain of receiving the nomination, probably in the first primary.

West Virginia witnessed a brisk inter-party battle between the forces of Senior Senator M. M. Neely and Junior Senator Rush D. Holt, Democrats. Neely was opposed for renomination by 30-year old Senator Holt, who charged that Neely was using WPA jobs to build up a great political machine. The strength of Senator Neely's political machine was manifested when he swamped senator Holt's candidate 3 to 1. North Carolina's Posiah W. Bailey was renominated in the Democratic primary over three opponents and is assured of reelection in November.

Following the death of G. O. P. Senator Thomas D. Schall in an auto accident in Washington last year, Minnesota's Farmer-Labor Governor Floyd B. Olson expects to exchange positions with Benson. Olson is a candidate for the Senate and Benson has announced for the governorship. Both are members of the Farmer-Labor party, which controls the government of Minnesota, and will be opposed by both Democrats and Republicans.

Democratic Chairman Farley stirred up a hornet's nest among Michigan Democrats when he endorsed Senator James Couzens, a liberal Republican who has supported Administration measures, for reelection. State Democrats, led by former Governor William A. Comstock, are in open revolt against the National Administration.

After this session Louisiana will no longer have a reminder of its flamboyant Huey Long in the United States Senate. Mrs. Huey P. Long, appointed to the unexpired term of her late husband, will retire at the end of the present session and be succeeded by former Speaker of the House Allen Ellender.

Illinois' pink whiskered Senator Hamilton Lewis, renominated a month ago by the Democrats without opposition, is in for a tough battle against united Republican forces who are determined to win one of Illinois senate seats for a member of their party.

Kansas' Senator Capper has reportedly run into difficulties with his Republican constituents as a result of his continued support of many New Deal measures.

Two Republican incumbents from the West have strong Democratic opponents for November. William Edgar Borah faces Governor Ben Ross, serving his third term as Idaho's chief executive. In Iowa, Senator Lester J. Dickinson, one of the dark horse contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, is opposed by Governor Clyde L. Herring, one of the most popular men ever to occupy the executive mansion at Des Moines.

Two more Republicans are due for easy sailing in so far as reelection is concerned. Not in many years have Nebraska Democrats nominated a candidate with the popular appeal to defeat George W. Norris. This year, Norris announced his retirement, but may consent to run in the face of popular demand and a draft movement by both Democrats and Republicans. Oregon's potent Charles L. McNary, "smartest man in the Senate," is supported by his state's overwhelming Republican sentiment.

Floyd Zeigler Has Last Word to Voters in Race For County Judge Here

To the Voters of Coryell County: It has been a pleasure to make the campaign for County Judge, meeting new people and contacting friends all over the County. It has been impossible for me to see every voter in the county, but at this time I would like to solicit the vote and influence of every voter in the county that it has not been my pleasure to see as well as those I have contacted in person. I was born and reared in Coryell County, I entered the County Attorney's office on January 1, 1933, and served in that capacity for 2½ years, and for the past eleven months have served you as County Judge, having been appointed to that position upon the resignation of Judge Robert W. Brown, on August 1, 1935. I have tried consistently to keep the financial affairs of the county on a sound basis, and at the same time carry on a progressive administration. I am happy to state that the total indebtedness of the County is several thousand dollars less than it was when I entered the County Judge's office. In soliciting your support for reelection to the County Judge's office, I pledge you, should you see proper to elect me to that responsible position, that I will keep our county on a sound financial basis and to have the very best of my ability render to every citizen fair and impartial consideration on all matters coming within my jurisdiction, and at all time lend every effort in a sincere desire to give our county a satisfactory and progressive administration. Upon this basis I seek your support and I extend to you in advance my appreciation for your vote and a kind word in my behalf on next Saturday. Sincerely, FLOYD ZEIGLER.

Chas. P. Mounce Makes Statement in Race For Co. Clerk to Voters

In these closing days of my campaign for re-election to the office of County Clerk, I take this method of publicly expressing my appreciation of the many nice things that you have done for me in the past; and my thanks to you for the many courtesies which you have shown me in this campaign.

I have not made as close a personal campaign as I would like to have made; but that was due in part to the fact that I am not able to get around as rapidly as others and because of the fact that in the past several months by staying close to my office, I have had the opportunity to repay in a small way, some of the favors which you have shown me in electing me your Clerk. By this I mean to say, in the past several months there has been lots of re-financing of personal loans through the Federal Credit departments and applications and acknowledgements for old age pensions which I felt my personal knowledge of the records in this office would help the people of Coryell County.

I know the value of keeping the many records in this office and the importance of same for the protection of your homes and farms. Although I do not own a home or any farm, my years' experience in this office has taught me the extreme importance of the records made in this office.

In conclusion let me again express to you how much I will appreciate your vote and influence; how much it means to me at this time; and to assure you that I will cheerfully abide your decision and always hold in grateful remembrance the many kindnesses that I have received at your hands.

Sincerely,
C. P. MOUNCE.

lawless and protect our homes and business. We wish to ex- press our appreciation to the following with whom we have worked:

To the Hon. R. B. Cross, Dis- trict Judge, for his masterful charge that he delivered to us at the beginning of our work.

To our Sheriff, Joe White, whose interests are for the use- ful life of our county—he is daring, yet cautious, bold, yet with the mildness of a gentle- man in all his dealings.

To our County Attorney, C. E. Alvis Jr., who thinks and acts in terms of right and is anxious to keep our county out of the scandal of wrong doing.

To Mr. Allen, the District Attorney, who has proven his manliness and interest through- out.

To the Door Bailiff and Rid- ing Bailiff that have served us so promptly throughout.

To Mason Crawford, the jan- itor, who has been so dilligent in making our accomodations pleasant, and we wish also to express our sorrow at Mr. Craw- ford's recent loss of his bro- ther.

In fact, we, your Grand Jury, feel that the officers of our county are ready and willing at all times to enforce the law, execute justice and deal fairly with all and we need the citi- zenship behind them.

Having completed our duties we respectfully asked to be discharged

Vote For Frank B. Tirey For Congress

He has always stood for helping the farmer. He knows the farmer's problems. He grew up on a farm and has engaged in farming for many years. He knows what it takes to aid the farmer.

He is a man of ability and courage. He is willing and able to serve the people.

He is an outstanding citizen of Central Texas; a splendid lawyer of wide experience for 20 years.

Frank Tirey announced for Congress after many farmers and busi- ness men throughout this District demanded that he run as a patriotic duty to his country.

W. R. POAGE'S RECORD

While serving as State Senator at Austin, Poage represented power- ful trucking corporations FOR PAY. He represented these special interests instead of the people. He voted to raise the load limit so that their trucks could carry 20,000 pound loads instead of 7,000 pounds as the lay provided. (See page 1198 of the Senate Journal of the Regular Session of the 42nd Legislature.)

Poage voted AGAINST the immediate payment of the Old Age pension. Poage voted THREE TIMES AGAINST allowing the people to vote on the Bread Bonds, and finally changed his vote when he saw it was going to pass anyway. (See Senate Journal Regular Session Texas Legislature 1933, pages 1558, 1581, and 1598.)

Poage has had no experience whatever as a farmer or a business man. He claims to be a lawyer but he has not tried as many as six District Court cases in his life. He came out of school running for office and has been run- ning ever since.

John E. Miller Makes Final Statement to Voters of Dist. 34

To my friends of Coryell County that I have failed to see, and every voter in this District, I wish to say that I have worked on the job of seeing, in a limited time, some seven or eight thousand voters, if I failed to see you personally it is not because I did not want to, but because it was a matter of impossibility.

I am asking for the office of Representative on my own merits and in making my campaign I have refrained from any mud-slinging tactics; if I have to get consideration in that way I do not wish to be considered. I would urge consideration of all candidates and in casting your vote the man you think best qualified should get the job. On the otherhand without knowing a great deal about a man, and especially is this true in the case of a young man who has never been before the people previously. Some who had character and principle, common sense and some education have proven worthy of the voters' confidence; this will be my greatest ambition should I be chosen as your Representative.

Your support would be gratefully appreciated, so go to the polls tomorrow and be sure to—

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONER'S BEAT No. 3 CORYELL COUNTY

Since January I have tried to present my candidacy to all voters of this Beat, in a fair and reasonable manner. And again to all those, and to some few that perhaps I have not been able to see personally, I take this last chance to present my case and ask for your earnest consideration when you go to the polls Saturday.

For more than 20 years this office has passed periodically between two of my opponents. No one else hardly receiving a consideration. And they now base their claim for re-election on efficiency due to long experience. The voters should be the judge as to the grade of efficiency produced over these past many years. Public servants are being changed regularly all over the country each two and four years, which proves that a change in management is often worth more to the public than experience. If new blood was not regularly put into public office, and everybody elected for life, what kind of condition would exist when the present crop of office holders with a score or more years on the public pay roll become too old to function properly?

What we need here is a "NEW DEAL," which has been effectively put into practice by our National, State, District and County offices. WHY NOT PRECINCT?

Thanking you in advance for your wholesome consideration I expect to receive, I am,

Sincerely yours,

W. T. (Bill) BANNISTER

Fastest train schedules in the world are those of the Western Railroads between Chicago and Denver, a sixteen hour trip today, and Chicago and the Pacific coast, thirty-nine hours and forty-five minutes.

Not one passenger lost his life in 1935 in a collision or derailment of a train in this country; and this despite faster schedules and heavier traffic, according to Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of railway executives.

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONER BEAT 4

As the close of this campaign draws near, I would like to say that I have tried to see all the voters in person, but some few I have probably missed, and you that I have missed I would like very much for you to consider my qualifications for the office of County Commissioner.

Again I will say I think a County Commissioner should have some road experience such as buying, operating and maintaining of County road machinery. As I understand the Commissioner has control of the Road and Bridge fund in his Beat, but the entire Commissioners' Court and County Judge as a body deals with the General Fund, Jury Fund, Permanent Improvement Fund and Court House and Jail Fund, and all other County expenditures. Any favor or consideration given me will be highly appreciated.

Respectfully,
O. A. PAINTER.

CALIFORNIA UNDER THREE FLAGS SHOWN AT REGAL - IN "SUTTER'S GOLD"

California's development under many flags is pictured in "Sutter's Gold," drama of gold rush days showing at Regal theatre Saturday night 10:30, Sunday and Monday, with Edward Arnold in the starring role as General Sutter.

Until 1846 General Sutter flew the flag of Mexico. In that year the Californians declared their independence and fashioned the Bear Flag, a banner bearing the words "California Republic," with a single large star and a bear. The first Bear Flag was made from a lady's petticoat.

Its place was soon taken by the Fremont Flag, an ensign of unusual interest. In the 40's General John C. Fremont made an exploration across the continent with a detachment of cavalry. They carried a flag with 13 stripes; in the corner there was a white field, on which were painted 26 stars and an eagle holding a sheaf of arrows. Though he had come in peace, the Indians interpreted the arrows as a warlike sign, so Fremont had painted in the eagle's other claw a calumet, or pipe of peace.

Shortly afterward the United States flag took the general form it has today. In 1868, the blue field held 37 stars. During the period of the story, the Russian flag also flew over part of California, at Fort Ross.

"Sutter's Gold" was directed by James Cruze. The enormous cast appearing in support of Arnold includes Lee Tracy, Binnie Barnes, Katherine Alexander, Montagu Love, Bryant Washburn, John Miljan, Harry Carey and Robert Warwick.

Ina Corinne Brown's Book Reviewed by a Dallas News Critic

"The Story of the American Negro," by Ina Corinne Brown, is reviewed in a recent issue of the Dallas Morning News, under a column headed "The Religious Book-of-the-Week," edited by Joseph M. Dawson. Miss Brown is a daughter of the late J. D. Brown Sr. of Gatesville, former operator of the lumber yard now owned by W. F. & J. F. Barnes Lumber Co. Miss Brown also has a number of other relatives living here.

The review is as follows: "It remained for a Texan, a graduate of Southern Methodist University, now in the department of social anthropology in the University of Chicago, to write the most concise, authentic account of the American Negro.

"Christians should be interested in 'America's Tenth Man,' because it was their ship—christened such names as 'Jesus,' 'Angel' and 'Grace of God' that brought the purchased, stolen, kidnaped Africans to these shores to be introduced as slaves, chiefly on Southern plantations.

Negro Is Not Newcomer.

"Yet the Negro has been with us from the first. Columbus might have had one with him serving as pilot of the 'Nina.' Certain it is that Navarez, in 1528, brought the Negro Estavan, who accompanied Cabeza de Vaca to Mexico, and later went with the Franciscan Monk Fray Marcos de Niza in search of the fabled Seven Cities of Cibola, only to be killed by the Indians. And the Negroes in the United States can no longer be called Africans. They constitute a new race—race whose skin is brown and not black, which now numbers four million souls, among whom may be found wealth exceeding two and a half billion dollars, seventy thousand business enterprises, seven hundred fifty thousand owned homes, fifty thousand schoolteachers, thirty thousand preachers, four thousand doctors, more than a thousand artists, authors, actors and editors, and thousands of competent bankers, businessmen and manufacturers.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

EVERY guy can see his own usefulness in the world. And generally he's got a better notion of how useful he is than anybody else has got.

There was a bass drummer that owned a little orchestra that played jazz for dances. The other fellows played saxophones and ukeleles and such things. So somebody says to the owner, "Say, you don't add much to the music with that drum of yours, do you?" "No," he says, "I can't say that I add anything to the music. But I manage to keep a good deal of the stuff from being heard."

THIS BOY'S NO PIKER; HAS FIVE GENERATIONS, THREE WAYS

Jerry Beall Wicker, very young son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wicker, who not incidentally but actually, was born July 10, at Mound, takes his generations calmly and in slues of threes.

Thereby hangs a tale! The first way he has five generations is: Exhibit A: Jerry; Wayne, his father; Mrs. Harper Wicker, his mother; Mrs. H. M. Lam, her mother; Mrs. E. P. Denny, her mother.

Exhibit B: Jerry; Mrs. Wayne Wicker, his mother; T. R. Beall, her father; Mrs. T. B. Beall, his mother; Mrs. S. Kinsey, her mother.

Exhibit C: Jerry; Mrs. Wayne Wicker, his mother; Mrs. T. R. Beall, her mother; Mrs. A. Miller, her mother; Mrs. Callie Shaw, her mother.

That's what we call ancestors, any way you take it!

GOATS FURNISHED FOR LICE DIPPING EXPERIMENT

In an article printed last week regarding dipping of goats in wettable sulphur as a new experiment for killing lice, the names of the men who furnished herds for this demonstration in Coryell County were omitted. The goats of Fred Schloeman, High Davis, W. L. and Carl Brown were dipped under the direct supervision of O. G. Babcock of the Experiment Station, College Station, Texas.

These same goats will be re-dipped on the eleventh day and a report of the experiment will be made.

The Colonial pattern of slavery, the industrial system of slavery and its breakdown, all well done by the author, we shall not deal here. The struggle upward and facing the color line, however, are two phases of the Negro's history among us that everyone should know about in order to appreciate the problem of racial understanding. One can hardly speak of "the white man's burden" in any correct sense without such appreciation. "The white man's burden" was simply one of those pious phrases of Nordic egotism which covers up a shameless economic and territorial imperialism," declares Bishop Kern, Southerner speaking to Southerners. "The white man's burden," he says, "became the black man's curse."

"Introducing Brown America" "Probably the most arresting chapter in the book is the one which introduces us to 'Brown America.' This brown America is not exactly the Negro element portrayed by Octavius Roy Cohen, expressed by Amos 'n' Andy, glimpsed in 'The Green Pastures.' It is rather represented by the celebrated singer Roland Hayes, the famous actor Paul Robeson, the true poet James Weldon Johnson, the sincere painter Henry Oswald Tanner, the noted agricultural chemist Geo. Carver, the social scientist Chas. S. Johnson, the sociologist and editor W. E. DuBois, the educator Robert Russa Moton of Tuskegee fame, and others equally prominent.

"As for religion, the time has come, thinks the author, for missioning to cease and co-operation to begin."

LIMERICK CONTEST ON THE "UP AND UP," MORE ANSWERS

The News' Limerick Contest is on the "up-and-up," with more interest being taken, and more and more limericks coming in.

Because of the slowness with which it got underway, it is believed best to have the final date August 8 on all limericks, so that those who haven't entered their limericks on the four may get the back issues and send in their "last rhyming lines."

The grand prize, which is yet to be selected, will go to the person sending in the seven best limericks, and the winner will be announced Tuesday, August 11.

So, get busy, there is something for you besides the fun and the small weekly prizes.

STATE COMMITTEE APPROVES NEW SOIL CONSERVING PRACTICE

College Station. — That the eradication of noxious weeds and grasses including Johnson Grass, Bermuda, nut grass, blue-weed and bindweed will be considered as a soil-conserving practice in Texas and will qualify farmers for a soil-conserving payment acre for acre in lieu of a soil-conserving crop, has been approved by the State Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Two methods of eradication were approved. One consisted of flat-breaking the infested land, followed by intensive cultivation during the months of July, August, and September with a knife cultivator or disc harrow.

The other method that may be used is that the infested land be bedded and rebedded with a sweep or "middle-buster" at intervals of not more than 30 days, following each time by a harrow in order to expose the roots to the weather.

Eradication can be carried out for payment only on badly infested crop land, location of which is filed with the County Committee before eradication starts.

CHAIRMAN TAYLOR PRAISES COUNTRY WEEKLIES

Country weeklies as an advertising force in modern American life have no more ardent champion than Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Railroads. In organizing the program of activities to promote more business, both passenger and freight, in the western area, Mr. Taylor carried out the unanimous resolution of the executives of the individual lines in placing the 6,036 weeklies on the list for Western Railroad advertising.

This advertising is a unique tribute to both the weekly and daily press, because of its exclusive concentration in a geographical area of the United States, extending all the way from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast and from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. The individual rail lines have been consistent users of the weekly newspapers, and what the association is doing in the current campaign is to supplement as a group the many campaigns conducted over a long period of years by the individual members.

Taylor a Former Editor

In the use of the weekly newspapers, the advertising trade press has called attention to the fact that Mr. Taylor's understanding of the powerful influence of these publications originates through his own experience in that field. For four years, he was editor and publisher of the Plaindealer at Alma, Kansas, and subsequently for ten years, he directed the Central City, Nebraska. The background of these human interest contacts was of inestimable value to him in public life while serving as a member of the Nebraska legislature and subsequently as Chairman of the State Railway Commission.

Concentrates in Newspapers

The group advertising activity on a large scale for the Western Railroads began in 1935. At that time a limited number of daily newspapers was used. When the decision was reached to renew the campaign in 1936, recognition was at once extended to the country weeklies so that both important phases in the newspaper field would be included in the 1936 campaign.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

With the Spectator

Over 1,000,000 Texans will march to the polls tomorrow to choose State, district, county and precinct officers. Poll tax payments and exemptions qualify 1,343,456 to vote—an increase of 331,096 from the figure set two years ago by Presiding Judge W. C. Morrow of the Court of Criminal Appeals, who broke all previous records by receiving 1,012,360 votes.

There are thirty-five candidates for State office this year as compared with forty-four in 1934. There are more candidates for the United States Senate than there have been in the last decade; fewer for governor than any time since 1928. Five candidates are unopposed—three for court positions and two for other positions. Chief Justice C. M. Cureton is unopposed for re-election. Richard Critz is unopposed for a full term as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and O. S. Lattimore is without an opponent for reelection as Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals. Attorney General William McCraw and Lieutenant Governor Walter F. Woodul are without opposition.

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texarkana is virtually assured of a fifth term in the upper house. United States Representative Joe H. Eagle of Houston is furnishing the chief opposition to Sheppard but has little chance of unseating him. Sheppard is a dry, originator of the Eighteenth Amendment; Eagle a wet, appealing to what is apparently strong wet sentiment in the State. Many of the wets will undoubtedly vote for Sheppard, however, because of his support for A. Smith, the wet Democratic standard bearer of 1928. Sheppard's other opponents include three Townsends—J. Edward Gleen of Kopperl, Richard C. Bush of Waco, and Joseph H. Price of Fort Worth—and an anti-New Dealer, Guy B. Fisher of San Augustine, who was a candidate against Senator Connally two years ago.

The governor's race has not been attracting as much interest as usual, probably because the four opponents of Governor Allred are conceded little chance of defeating him. Speculation consists largely of estimates of the Governor's plurality and of who will be in the runoff with him. At election time it looks like a neck and neck race between Sanderford and Hunter for second place, with the latter having slightly the better of the situation. Hunter has never gone below the 200,000 mark in his two races, polling 220,000 in 1932 and 243,000 in 1934, and if he keeps this strength he is virtually assured of a runoff position this year. The totals two years ago were: Allred 298,000; Hunter 243,000; McDonald 207,000; Small 125,000; Witt 62,000; Hughes 58,000.

Roy Sanderford is running a better race than it was thought he could two months ago. James E. Ferguson has taken the stump for him—something he failed to do two years ago for C. C. McDonald. In a recent issue of the Ferguson Forum Mr. Ferguson predicted Allred and Sanderford would be in the runoff with Fischer third and Hunter fourth. Hunter is obviously placed low in the running by Jim to keep the Ferguson followers from voting for the man Ferguson endorsed in the second primary of 1934. C. C. McDonald, who bore the Ferguson toga two years ago and finished third in the primary, states he would have been in the runoff had Maury Hughes not been in the race. Hughes, who received 58,000 votes, was an estranged Ferguson follower who entered the race after Ferguson refused to endorse him for national committeeman. Ferguson supported Charles McDonald for committeeman, had himself named in the ensuing deadlock between Hughes and McDonald, and finally John Garner was given the post. McDonald carried thirty-four counties in the primary. A third of these were in east Texas, where the Fergusons have always been the strongest, but it is from this area that Tyler's Judge F. W. Fischer will draw his principal support this year, thus drawing many to his standard who would have ordinarily voted for Sanderford. Hughes was McDonald's nemesis but Fischer is Sanderford's.

If Fischer receives as many votes in his first race as did Hunter in his, he will be in the runoff, but he faces no such situation as did Hunter in 1932. Then there were only 3 principal candidates in the field and two of them—Miriam Ferguson and Ross Sterling—were anathema to thousands of voters. Hunter profited by this and rolled up his big vote. In 1934 many thousands of voters believed Tom Hunter should have his chance and many are still of that belief.

Reports from over the State indicate that the Hunter vote is more in tact than was previously suspected. Wichita County—home of Hunter and Allred—gave Hunter 5,013 to Allred's 3,762 in the first primary and 5,886 to 4,883 in the second of 1934, and reliable reports indicate the Wichita Falls oil man and attorney will again lead Allred there. Bexar County, which gave Hunter thumping majorities in both primaries, is still strong for Tom, we are told.

Pierce Brooks of Dallas is a newcomer to politics and is regarded as having little chance to end the runoff.

That's the situation in the gubernatorial race as the voters prepare to march to the polls. Allred first, Hunter or Sanderford second, Fischer 4th, and Brooks 5th.

The race for Railroad Commissioner is much like that of 1934. Then, as now, four candidates announced against the incumbent and directed their attacks not against one another but solely against the one in office. And then, as now, the incumbent has no opposition strong enough to unseat him. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the commission, seeks election to a full term after having been appointed and subsequently elected to the unexpired term of Pat Neff in 1932. Thompson is opposed by Carl C. Hardin of Stephenville, former State Senator, Goodson Rieger of Houston, formerly an employee of the gas and oil division of the commission, H. O. Johnson of Houston, attorney and candidate for the office in 1930 and 1934, and Frank S. Morris of Dallas, attorney. Morris will likely be second man with Hardin third.

Another race of importance to all Texans is that for State Comptroller. The candidates are the incumbent George H. Sheppard, Sam Houston Terrell, who held the office from 1925 to 1931, and Walter W. Covington, formerly chief of police of Port Arthur. The Comptroller's office is one of the most important in our system of State government and consideration should be given to the merits and qualifications of the candidates for this office. The State Comptroller is responsible for more than $140,000,000 of State moneys annually, of which he collects more than half. Shepard won over three opponents in the first primary two years ago by a majority of 224,000 and has a decided edge over Terrell and Covington this year. However, his chances of victory in the first primary are minimized by the appeal which the name "Terrell" has to Texas voters.

ry Hopkins of Fort Worth and Garland Adair of Austin in his race for a fourth term as State Treasurer. Lockhart was successful over three opponents in the July primary of 1934, winning by a majority of 59,000 and will probably win the nomination tomorrow.

J. E. McDonald, candidate for a fourth term as Commissioner of Agriculture, has as opponents George B. Terrell of Alto, commissioner from 1925 to 1931 and former Congressman-at-large, Kal Segrist of Hico, old-time Dallas base ball player and Cliff Day of Plainview, who led a trek of Texas farmers to Washington last year. McDonald and Terrell look like runoff contenders with Segrist and Day distinct dark-horse treats.

Seeking to succeed the veteran J. H. Walker, retiring, as Commissioner of the General Land Office are Major John W. Hawkins, who has been chief clerk of the Land Office for 30 years, and William H. (Bill) McDonald, former tax assessor of Eastland County. Both contestants have been actively campaigning and the outcome is in doubt.

L. A. Woods, two-term incumbent as State Superintendent of Public Instruction, is opposed by A. A. Pat Bullock of San Antonio. Bullock, barred from having his nickname placed on the ballot by a ruling of the state committee, went to court and had "Pat" made part of his legal name. In 1934 Woods received the second highest total accorded any candidate in his race for a second term but Bullock is expected to run a good race.

Roy Evetts Has Final Statement for Voters In Commissioner Race

To Voters of Beat 2:

As the first primary is near at hand, I want to use this method of thanking the people for their kindness to me in this race. I appreciate the influence of words that have been spoken for me by my friends. I have enjoyed working among you people and meeting with you, and soliciting your support; to meet and become acquainted and make friends with people whom I did not know.

I have tried to visit each and everyone's home, but I know I have missed some and I want to solicit your help in this way, and, I hope that enough of you people of Beat Two can see a way clear to vote for me July 25, that I may be placed in the second Primary.

Respectfully,
ROY EVETTS,

Candidate for Commissioner of Beat 2.

Modern Gas Cookery

RETAINS VALUABLE VITAMINS AND MINERAL OILS

Vigorous boiling in lots of water destroys the valuable vitamin and mineral content of fresh vegetables. The thoughtful woman wants to retain these health-giving elements. The controlled boiling heat provided by the modern gas range does not rapidly evaporate water when boiling vegetables. Mothers can serve more healthful food by following this simple method of modern gas cookery:

1. No special pot or pan is required for semi-waterless cooking on modern gas range. Place vegetables in ordinary utensil and cover with about one-half inch water.
2. Place covered pan over simmer burner. Turn to fast heat. When boiling starts turn to simmering heat which maintains gentle boiling action until vegetables are cooked.
3. After cooking is completed nearly as much liquid remains as was originally put into vessel, and there is no loss of valuable mineral oils or vitamins.
4. Gas simmer cookery is clean and labor saving. It means cooler cooking and a cleaner kitchen for little steam escapes from a covered pot of gently boiling vegetables.

A VOTE FOR HARRY FLENTGE MEANS

—a fearless prosecution of all offenses—a lawyer of ability and character—a square deal to all. He will not be dominated by any lawyer, group or faction.

We submit that there is no candidate for reelection and that during the past 15 years Hamilton County has held the District Attorney's office about nine years and the District Judge's office about nine years, and should as a matter of fairness be willing for one of her counties to furnish a District Attorney.

TIPS FOR THE HOME

By HOUS N. HOM

ONE STEP IN REMODELING

While insulation is not generally considered as an improvement to the appearance of a home, present day methods make it possible to prevent drafts and add to the attractiveness of a home at the same time.

Where siding is badly worn, cracked and loose a new cover of building paper or a layer of a commercial "sheet" insulation, laid directly on the old wall, will adequately provide for some insulation. After this is applied thin spaced strips should be nailed vertically, and on these, new siding can be applied. The resulting job adds extra air space to the wall, and assures a well insulated house.

New siding, using the vertical strips, can be one of several types. The beveled or clapboard type is most common, but the smooth flush joint type, v-grooved type, and numerous other profile types of siding can be applied.

Where shingles, either wood or composition, are to be used, the strips should be applied horizontally, to provide a firm nailing surface.

Other re-surfacing possibilities include a number of composition types of finishing, some made to simulate brick or stone others shingles in a variety of styles.

An investment of this type whether it is made primarily to provide a new appearance or greater comfort for the home, will return double dividends, and is well worth considering when remodeling is discussed.

FRENCH PANCAKES

Four eggs, 2-3 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups flour. Beat eggs until quite light and fluffy; add salt and milk and mix well. Add flour and beat until batter is light and full of air. Pour on hot and slightly greased griddle. When air bubbles form thickly over top, the pancakes are ready to turn. A Frenchman would do this by flipping the griddle iron or long handled skillet but we American house wives had better use an egg turner for the turning of our French Pancakes.

SOUTHERN GRIDDLE CAKES

Two eggs beaten, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 4 tablespoons melted shortening, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

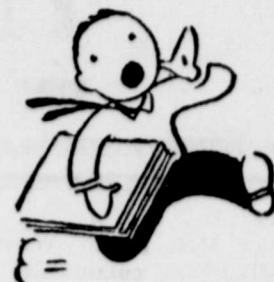

Sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together three times. Beat eggs until very light and fluffy then add milk and melted shortening and mix well. Pour this into the flour mixture and beat with an egg beater until batter is perfectly smooth. Bake on hot ungreased griddle. Let the cakes bake 2 minutes on one side then turn and bake 2 minutes on the other. Send to the table hot.

PLAIN WAFFLES

Two cups flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons melted shortening, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 eggs whites and yolks beaten separately.

Mix and sift dry ingredients together 3 times. Blend the milk and well beaten egg yolks together. Pour into flour and beat for 2 minutes. Add melted shortening and beat for a second or two again. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Bake in a hot ungrated waffle iron until the escaping steam ceases

Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament Begins at Waco

The State semi-pro baseball tournament began yesterday at Katy Park, Waco. The event is without doubt the best of its kind the state has ever seen.

There will be strong semi-pro teams from all sections of the state, and base ball fans will have the opportunity of witnessing good games every day of the tournament, which comes to a close August 2. A crowd of 5000 was expected for yesterday's opening games, and a goodly crowd will be in attendance for each performance. Base ball fans from this section will be numbered among those present, for it is their chance to catch up on their base ball, which has been sorely missing the past few years in these parts.

The winner of this tournament will be declared the official state champions and will represent the state of Texas in the national tournament to be held in Wichita, Kansas, August 14 to 26.

Soft ball

Monday night was the first games of the second half series played, and a fair sized crowd saw Doc's and the Firemen emerge victorious.

Both winners had to put on last inning rallies to win. Doc's coming under the wire first against the CCC boys, mainly thru the efforts of Wilson who belted a home run in the seventh to tie the count at 9 all. With one man out, the hashslingers scored again to win 10-9.

The Fireboys trailed the Merchants 4-5 going into the last frame and after the first batter was retired, an error, three hits and a base on balls, then scored 4 runs. The losers tried to rally in their half of the inning but scored only once, leaving the final count 9-6, with the Firemen on the big end. Bone hit a home run with a mate on the paths in the second and Shepherd duplicated the feat in the fifth to keep the Firemen in the game.

AND SUDDEN DEATH

RANDOLPH SCOTT-FRANCES DRAKE
Novelized by Wallace West from the Paramount Picture of the same name

SYNOPSIS

Arrested for speeding for the fourth time, Betty Winslow, mad-cap society girl, is brought before Lieut. Knox, handsome head of the Traffic Department, at Police Headquarters. She is sentenced to attend his traffic safety school. She brings her friends along and they treat the whole thing as a lark. One of the latter invites Knox to a barbecue at her home. Knox meets Betty on the way there. The car breaks down and they are forced to seek refuge at a "model home" along the road.

CHAPTER IV
MODEL HOME
COMPLETELY FURNISHED
A STEAL!
ASK MR. TWEETS BETTER HURRY

BETTY WINSLOW and Lieut. Knox were confronted with the sign as they walked around a bend in the seemingly endless road which led to Dodie Sloan's barbecue. The "Model Home" was situated under

"If you had any sense you'd have left it the way it was in the first place," the lieutenant said bitterly.

an oak tree in a yard barren of grass but surrounded by unpainted stakes bearing small vari-colored pennants. "Better hurry," chuckled Knox as he surveyed the forlorn development.

"Maybe we're too late already," cried Betty in mock alarm. Seizing her escort's arm she dragged him through the wicket gate, up the front path and onto the veranda. There the girl seized the shiny brass knocker and hammered vigorously on the door. Whereupon the knocker came off in her hand.

"Let's start all over again," laughed Knox, hooking the knocker back into place and rapping with his knuckles.

"Not a tweet from Mr. Tweets," sighed Betty at last. Then as they turned away she paused and looked the place over. "Poor little house—I feel sort of sorry for it, sitting out here all by itself. . ."

"I wonder if there's a telephone inside," suggested the policeman. "Let's find out." He turned the knob on the door and, when it opened, peered inside.

"No phone in sight," he reported. "But this little place isn't bad at all."

"Why, it's adorable," cried Betty, peering over his shoulder into the tiny kitchen. "Look at that breakfast nook!"

"They certainly didn't waste any space," grinned Knox. "I'd hate to get wedged in there with a full-sized steak. You'd have to break the walls down to get out."

They wandered back into the living room exclaiming over all the gadgets they found until they beheld what looked like a bird cage covered with elaborately embroidered silk which squatted on a side table near the fireplace.

"What do you suppose that is?" whispered Knox.

"I'm sure I don't know."

"Shall I try kicking it and see what happens?"

"Better be careful—there may be mice in it." Betty clung to his arm and tried to back away, ready to duck. Knox refused to budge, however. Gingerly he raised the object by a tuft of feathers attached to its top. Underneath was a telephone.

"Evidently Mr. Tweets thinks there's something not quite nice about telephones," chortled Betty. "What's Dodie Sloan's number?"

"Dial the operator and ask for Knox. Then, as he saw her eyes fill with tears, he softened. "Hurt your self badly?" He crossed quickly to her side. "Here, let me see it."

"Go away," she cried, turning away from him.

"I'm sorry, Betty," he pleaded to her back. "I'll do anything you want, I'd move the piano into the kitchen if you said so."

"Would you?" she asked demurely. For a moment he stared down into her tantalizing face, so provocatively close. Her eyes dropped before his; his arms were about to go around her—and before he could even kiss her a car screeched to a halt outside and footsteps crunched on the gravel path and stamped across the front porch. Then the door swung open and a small, shabby man carrying a bulky parcel stood blinking at them in astonishment.

"Hello, folks," this person beamed as the others disengaged themselves hurriedly. "I'm Mr. Tweets." Then he added incredulously: "You—uh—you folks didn't want to look at the house, did you?"

"Well, not exactly," answered Knox uncomfortably. "You see, we got lost."

"Oh—that explains it," sighed Mr. Tweets as he started unwrapping his bundle. "I didn't figure you could have come out here deliberately."

The parcel turned out to be a bottle. Mr. Tweets took out a cork-screw and methodically started to operate.

"Nice little place you've got here," Knox said to bridge the awkward pause.

"I think it smells," Tweets answered bluntly and bitterly as he yanked at the cork.

"We sort of—er—moved the furniture around a little bit," Betty apologized. "Just to see how it would look."

"Well—it looks a little better this way," Tweets admitted slowly as he wiped the top of the now open bottle with the heel of his hand. "But nothing could really help it much."

"You couldn't take us back to town, could you?" Knox hinted.

"Sure. Take you anywhere you want. Have a drink. It's celery tonic. Good for the nerves." As they shook their heads in polite refusal Tweets shrugged and took a long swig. Then he made a wry face. "Even my favorite drink tastes bad out here," he grumbled. "Let's start."

They bundled into the real estate man's rumble seat and for a time sat somewhat shyly in their respective corners.

"What's the matter with you two?" Tweets inquired at last, looking over his shoulders in annoyance as the old Ford bounced along. "You act like you've been fighting, or something."

"What gives you that idea?"

"Well, if you ain't there's something wrong with you—sitting in a rumble seat with a pretty girl and not having your arm around her."

"Thank you, Mr. Tweets!" laughed Knox as he obeyed instructions. "I need a little encouragement."

"It's been such a lovely, funny afternoon," said Betty wistfully as she nestled into the crook of his elbow. "I wish we didn't have to go to Dodie's party. But it's going to look scandalous enough as it is!"

"Well, if they're going to think the worst anyway . . ." grinned Knox. He slipped his hand under her chin and turned her face toward him. Mr. Tweets fully appreciated that kiss as he watched them in his rear-view mirror.
