AUDITORS REPORT BOOKS OF SCHOOL IN GOOD CONDITION

An auditing committee composed of Andrew Kendrick, B. K. and Dawson Cooper in a letter to C. F. Caruth Jr., president of the Gatesville School Board, reports after an audit of the books for the three year period, September 1, 1933 to Aug. 7, 1935, that the books are in good shape, as per quotations from their letter, given below in part:

"Our examination included a verification of the receipts and disbursements of the State and County Available Fund, the Local Maintenance Fund, and the General Fund, totaling approximately three thousand checks and $140,000.00.

"We found receipted bills, duly approved by the school Board, covering all disbursements, and duplicate deposit tickets for all receipts. The cash balances as shown by the school books were verified with the bank's records, and were found to be correct.

"From our examination of the receipted bills, we find that the administration has made an effort to distribute the local buying equally among Gatesville merchants.

"We wish to commend Mr. Frank L. Williams on the manner in which the records have been kept. They are accurate, complete and in condition to be really checked."

Calvacade Headed by Hwy Patrol Leaves at 5:00; Most Stores Close

TWO HUNDRED FIFTY (250) IN BUSES, 100 IN PRIVATE CARS HEAD FOR DALLAS FOR BIG DAY.

Coryell County-Gatesville Day Centennial Cavalcade, headed north at 5:00 a. m. today, with some 350 to 500 Coryell County citizens making the trip either by bus, or private car, to celebrate this county's greatest event in history.

Leading the mammoth parade, was Tom Potter, special factory representative of the Oldsmobile Motor Car Company, a branch of General Motors, in the "Voice of Safety" car and two Highway patrolmen from the State Highway Department, who will assist in making the Cavalcade a safe cavalcade, as well as a speed one.

Directly following the "Voice of Safety" car will be Mayor C. E. Gandy's car, which 2 cars will officially lead the Cavalcade to the outskirts of Dallas where they will be met by a motorcycle escort and conveyed thru Dallas to the Parry Street entrance of the Exposition.

Following these 2 official cars will be the buses then private cars from almost every section of the county, bannered, banded and decorated to n-th degree.

Following the arrival at the entrance to the Exposition the delegates proceed to the Gulf Broadcasting studio where a program will be broadcast over WFAA at 11:15, which will include Murray Kendrick and Lytle Powell, and has been handled by Murray Kendrick who has been doing vocal work in Shakespeare's Globe Theater at the Centennial, it is understood.

At 1:00 p. m. a Coryell County Program which includes Guy Powell as spokesman for the County, Miss Jacquelyn West and Jack Reesing as entertainers, will be broadcast over WRR.

It is possible that another program will be arranged for the evening some time but these arrangements will be made by the committee on the grounds.

Unprecedented cooperation by all concerned has made this trip the success it is and not only Gatesville but the entire County is falling in line to make it the success that it is.

In Gatesville approximately 75 per cent of the merchants or more are closing their doors and the names we have are as follows, with an addition of a few others whose names we did not learn:

First National Bank, Gatesville National Bank, Guaranty Bank & Trust Co., Flentge's Drug, Pollard & Coward, Dr. I. M. Franks, City Drug, Jackson & Compton, Gatesville Drug Co., Chamlees Garage, Mrs. J. B. Graves, Coryell County News, Highway Lunch Room, Gatesville Shoe Shop, Western Auto Supply Co., Shepherd Motor Co., Coryell Motor Co., Community Public Service Co., E. W. Jones & Son, J. S. Torbett, Benson's Beauty Shop, Arnold Drug, N. Pederson, Byrom & Walker, Perry Bros., Community Natural Gas, Franks & Jones Market, American Railway Express Co., Hensler-Hord & Parks, Jake Stout, Morton Scott, Horne's Bakery, Gatesville Coca Cola Co., Painter's, Jim Martin, F. F. Chamlee, Alvis-Garner Co., J. W. Crow Co., Gatesville Messenger, Johnson & Summers, J. M. Prewitt, Stout Radio Shop, Oscar Gloff, Gatesville Beauty Shop, J. R. Graham, Crawford Scott, T. C. Potts, Fletcher & Beerwinkle, A. & P., C. Bauman, L. A. Preston, H. Bauman, Pat Potts, J. Y. Franks, Coryell County Cotton Oil Co., Hallman & Voss, G. P. Schaub, Scott Motor Co., Powell Chevrolet Co., Poston Bros. & Britain, R. E. Store, Joe Hanna's Cash Store, Davidson Bros' & Co., E. T. Mayes Studio, and the Court House.

In other words it's going to be rather lonesome in Gatesville.

JACK HORNE'S BAKERY

Vote For Earnest O. Thompson for Railroad Commissioner

(SECOND TERM)

Thompson's life has been of work and service. At 9 years of age, a newsboy; at 10 a district distributor of newspapers and magazines; at 16 operated automobile repair shop. At the same time, he worked his way through the Public Schools of Amarillo. Later, he attended the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va.; and later he worked his way through Eastman Business College, New York; and thereafter received a law degree at the University of Texas.

In 1917, he enlisted for the World War. Was with the American Expeditionary forces in France, 1917-18, commanding machine gun division. For 90 days he was in the front line trenches. Was the youngest Lieutenant Colonel in the American Army; First Commander of Hanson Post, American Legion, Amarillo, 1920; appointed by President Wilson, as one of the Nation's 96 official mourners at the burial of the Unknown Soldier, Washington, D. C., Nov. 11, 1920; delegate to World Congress of Allied Veterans (Fidac) Brussels, 1923.

In 1928 he was appointed Regent of Texas Technological College; and in 1929 was elected Mayor of Amarillo, receiving 75 per cent of the votes in a field of four candidates and was re-elected Mayor in 1931 without opposition. In 1932, elected Railroad Commissioner.

While Mayor of Amarillo, taxes were reduced and water, light and telephone rates were reduced, saving to the people of Amarillo thousands of dollars in taxes and utility rates.

As Railroad Commissioner, he is known as the Commissioner who protects the rights of the "little fellow." No wonder, in 159 towns in Texas, he has ordered gas rates be reduced, thereby saving to the citizens of these towns many dollars in fuel bills.

As Railroad Commissioner, he has been a friend of the farmer. Freight rates on cotton and other farm products have been reduced; which means that our farmers will receive better prices for their products in that the buyer does not have to allow as much for expenses of shipment and can therefore pay more to the farmer. Thompson has also sponsored a return to our farmers all of that part of the cost of gasoline that is paid as taxes thereon, where the farmer uses such gasoline for operation of his farm machinery.

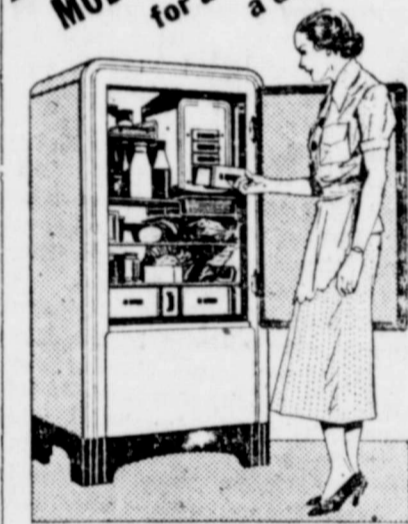

As Railroad Commissioner, he has the good will and support of laboring men. He holds the endorsement of the Legislative Committee of Railway Brotherhoods, Secretary of Texas Federation of labor and the Oil Field & Refinery Workers Union.

Thompson believes our natural resources such as oil and gas should bear a fair portion of our tax burdens; and with this in mind, he has clamped down on those oil capitalists who would take from the oil fields much hot oil, without paying the taxes thereon. The result of his fight against "hot oil" has been that the taxes derived from oil, and that goes to the Public School Funds of the State, has been increased more than $2,000,000,000. Each and every school in Coryell County gets a part of this fund.

Ex-Governor Jim Hogg was the father of the Railroad Commission of Texas; and today Mike Hogg, son of Jim Hogg, is actively supporting Thompson for Railroad Commissioner.

For all his work and services to his country, to his State and to our citizens, town and country alike, don't you think Thompson is entitled to a Second Term (Political Adv.)

JOHN MILLER IN RUN-OFF WITH HUDDLESTON

ASKS SUPPORT OF VOTERS

A tie vote between Dr. A. G. Livingston and myself for second place in the race for State Representative was discovered at a very late date. Last Monday the official tabulation showed we had 1736 votes apiece. We drew straws in the presence of W. A. Patterson, acting Democratic Chairman, and Livingston drew the short straw which was equal to elimination according to agreement.

Now at this late date I would not be able to campaign this district, (comprised of Coryell and Hamilton counties) in the way I would like to. I made the race before the first primary in a limited time and am forced to do likewise to a decided degree in the run-off, starting out after my school was out I endeavored to cover two counties unaided by any campaign manager and if I failed to meet the entire sovereignty it was because it was quite impossible and not because I did not want to see every voter.

Dr. Livingston has authorized me to state that he is giving me his wholehearted support and I feel that with this assistance my supporters will not be disappointed if they will turn out to the polls Saturday, August 22. From now until the second primary I would not have time to see all the voters so I trust that you will take this as a personal solicitation of your vote and influence.

Yours to serve,
JOHN E. MILLER

FORMER TEXANS APPEAR ON RADIO AT WACO FRI.

John Royalty and Sidney Joab of Los Angeles, California, who operate station KMPC radio artists there, appeared as the guest artists of station WACO in Waco, Friday.

These young men are the sons of Mrs. G. W. Royalty of Waco, where they are visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Joab and children are visiting the Centennial at Dallas. Both are former Texans.

AIR-CONDITIONED BUILDINGS AT CENTENNIAL COVER 310,000 SQUARE FEET

Dallas, August 13. Old Sol has co-operated with the management of the Texas Centennial Exposition in dissipating the commonly held theory that the Southwest is hot in the summer time.

Anticipating a probable warm summer Exposition officials air-conditioned the principal buildings in the grounds.

When they completed the work they found that 310,000 square feet of building had been conditioned. This represents 1,500 tons of cooling capacity, measured in terms of ice. Its operation involves 2,000 horsepower. The total area is ten acres of building.

And then weather conditions themselves entered to make the effort of the Exposition more effective. Statistics in the offices of the U. S. weather bureau in Dallas reveal it actually was cooler in Dallas and at the Exposition during July than it was in the central northern states. The variation of temperature in favor of the Exposition center amounted on most days to more than 10 degrees.

But the Exposition did not stop with the air-conditioning of ten acres of building. Mechanical ventilation takes care of some 400,000 more square feet of space, or approximately 12 acres.

Another gratifying feature to Exposition visitors has been that the principal hotels of Dallas also have made the same provisions for their comfort—and all of it has been done without an increase in prices.

LIONS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CENTENNIAL PLANS FOR CORYELL COUNTY DAY

During the Lion's Club luncheon Wednesday, Rev. M. M. Chunn, chairman in charge, with the cooperation of the Gatesville Lion's Club in the promotion of the cavalcade which left for Dallas this morning at 5:00 o'clock, gave a very interesting discussion on the outline for Coryell County Day in Dallas. In this talk Rev. Mr. Chunn stated that Messrs. Murray Kendrick and Lytle Powell will be heard over station WFAA at 11:15 a. m. today; and County Agent Guy Powell, who is also the president of the Lion's Club will speak on the agricultural interests of Coryell County, after which other locals will perform, including Miss Jacquelyn West, violinist, and Jack Reesing, pianist.

The broadcast will come from the Gulf studios and be broadcast over the Centennial grounds by loud speakers. Those of you who did not go today, should not fail to tune in and enjoy a real home talent program.

Visitors at the Lion luncheon were William E. Brady of Pecos, Dr. Dean Jones, and Supt. E. W. Brooks.

Gatesville Gets Note In All-Church Paper From Wichita, Kans.

Jim Powell of Wichita Falls, Kansas, sends us a clipping from the "Wichita Light," published by the All-Church Press of that City, in which an article by Dr. J. B. Cranfill in the Western Recorder, is quoted.

The story is as follows:

"If There Ain't Any Hell"

When I was a country editor and doctor at Gatesville, out in west Texas, there was a preacher there who had been a doctor. His name was Wills. Dr. Wills gave out that at the hall over the J. R. Saunders' store (it was the only meeting place in town except the churches) he would on a certain evening prove there was no Hell.

"Now these western men may be profane, wicked and God-forgetting, but in their religion they are orthodox. They believe in Heaven and Hell, no matter what their conduct is. The boys 'framed' Dr. Wills most cruelly.

"On the night of the address, West during my stay there."

Tie Vote: John E. Miller Wins in Draw for State Representative

GRID CLASSIC SCHEDULED

Dallas, August 13. None other than Jimmie Allred, youthful Texas Governor, is authority that the Centennial football classic September 7 between the Chicago Bears and the All-American team will be the greatest of the year. It marks the opening of the sport program on the Centennial grounds they crowded the hall. As he arose to begin his speech, two on the rear seat arose and walked out. As he unfolded his sentences, two by two the crowd walked out on him.

"At last, when only two of his auditors were left, he said: 'I came here tonight to prove was no Hell, but if there ain't no Hell, there ought to be one for such skunks as you are!' It was the first, last and only address that he made in the West during my stay there."

Very, very unusual is the situation in the State Representative's race in this district, since, due to a tie vote John E. Miller of Coryell County drew the "white bean" and Dr. A. G. Livingston of Hamilton County came out with the "black bean," giving Miller the place on the ticket, opposing Representative Earl Huddleston, candidate for re-election.

In the unofficial reports of election returns posted on bulletin boards in both Coryell and Hamilton counties errors occurred as is usual in the rush of unofficial reports. After the regular returns were canvassed by the executive committees of each county and official reports made to the state it was found that John E. Miller and Dr. A. J. Livingston had tied for second place. The two gentlemen got together and mutually agreed to "draw straws" to determine which of them would go into the second primary against Earl Huddleston. Mr. Miller drew the long or lucky straw.

A statement from Dr. A. J. Livingston, in part, tells the story: "The report of the executive committees of Hamilton and Coryell counties showed that Dr. A. J. Livingston had won second place in the race for Representative by a very small number, but an error in addition was discovered which threw the race for second place into a tie. As the time was limited, Dr. Livingston and Mr. Miller drew straws to determine the one to enter the run-off primary with Earl Huddleston. Mr. Miller pulled the lucky straw and Dr. Livingston withdrew from the race."

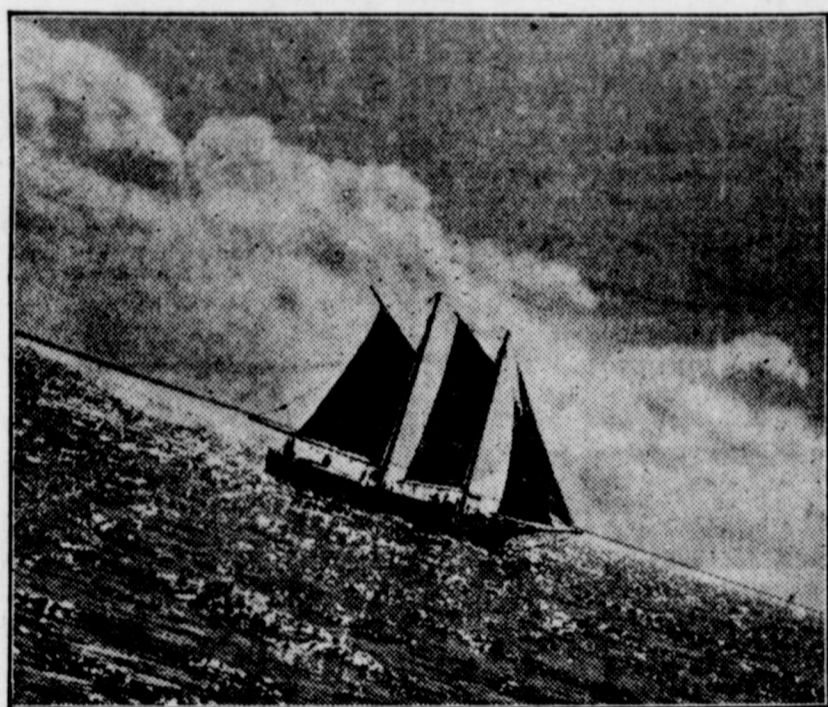

Dr. Livingston has instructed the News to state that he is thoroughly satisfied with the decision of the executive committee and with the result of the drawing and that he will throw his support to Mr. Miller."

A statement signed with typewriter comes from W. A. Patterson, acting Democratic Chairman of Hamilton county, which reads as follows:

"Two men tying for second place in the race for Representative caused the democratic chairman to get busk and have the one to really be in the run-off decided on immediately. It was time to have the ballots printed for the August 22 primary and the authorities at Austin as well as the chairmen of the Democratic Committees in Hamilton and Coryell counties were anxious to know just which man was to go into the run-off. Straws were drawn by Dr. A. G. Livingston and John E. Miller, the two men tying for second place, and Livingston drew first, and got the shortest straw which was equal to elimination according to the agreement. The drawing occurred in the presence of the Hamilton County Chairman, and as this was the only practical way to decide an even like this it showed good sportsmanship on the part of both men to abide by the decision. This is the first incident of this kind, where two men were tied for second place in a district race, and at this late date it seems to me that John E. Miller is at a disadvantage in making his campaign. In fairness to him, I sincerely hope the voters will be considerate."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Your Camera Sins Will Find You Out

Rolling down to Rio? No, an example of what happens when you don't hold your camera level.

ONE of the satisfactions of amateur photography is that Lady Luck will so often play you the kindest of tricks. Much oftener than shooting an arrow aimlessly and hitting the mark, you may shoot a picture without precaution or thinking of focus, exposure time or diaphragm opening, and, nevertheless, when the negative is developed, find that you have obtained in all respects a good photograph. Dumb luck it is, really, but a tribute also to the capability of modern photographic equipment. Modern cameras and films allow so much latitude for careless and inexperienced use that, while they are not robots in their performance, they do cover up a lot of picture-taking sins.

Fortunate as that may be, it is certain that the amateur who depends on luck entirely will get many poor pictures and waste a lot of film. There are some sins which he cannot commit with impunity. Here they are:

1. Tipping the camera with the result that in the picture buildings appear to be toppling, and rivers run uphill or downhill.
2. Allowing the camera to move as the shutter is snapped, or jerking the shutter release under the impression that it can thus be made to move faster. Result: blurred picture.
3. Dirty or misty lens. Result: picture hazy, indistinct.

4. Letting the finger tip slip over the edge of the lens. Result: silhouette of finger tip.

5. Giving a time exposure without resting the camera on some firm support. Result: blurred picture. (A shaky fence is not good for a time exposure, neither is the hood of an automobile when the engine is running.)

6. Trying to take a snapshot after a time or bulb exposure without readjusting the shutter. Result: a much jumbled up image or perhaps no picture at all.

7. Forgetting to turn key that moves the film. Result: jumble of two pictures on one negative.

8. In focusing, wrongly estimating the distance between camera and subject. Result: fuzziness.

9. With fixed focus cameras, taking pictures of subjects nearer than 8 or 10 feet without a portrait attachment. Result: blurred, out-of-focus image.

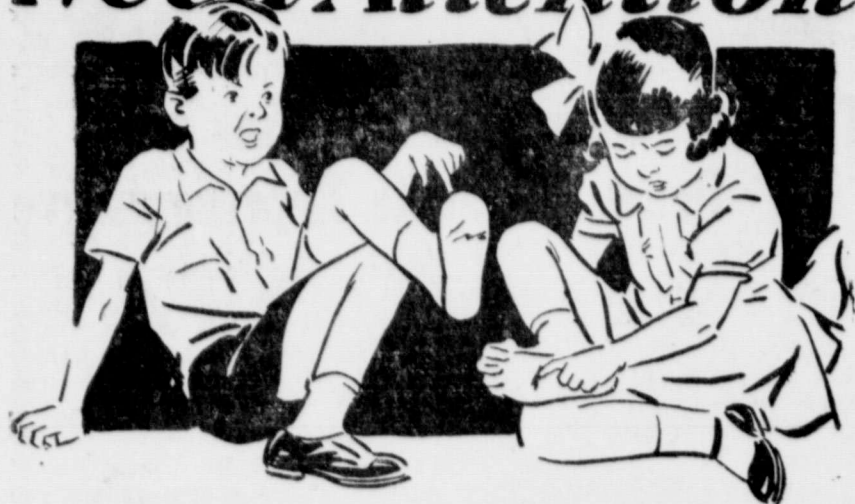

10. Using a large stop for distant views. Result: loss of distant detail.

11. Attempting broadside shots of movement too rapid for the shutter. Result: blur. (Moving objects can be "stopped" by an ordinary camera if the picture is taken from an angle and not too close.)

Yes, even in photography, brother, your sins will find you out.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Railroad Jim
 THE COLUMN CONDUCTOR Says...

Freight trains nowadays act like express specials. New freight schedules are so fast, sometimes wonder if everything has to be delivered day before yesterday.

Many of our passenger trains are running faster schedules, too. Well, one thing is sure. We make faster runs, but the first railroad commandment is still "Safety First." That's one rule they won't change.

Western railroads and allied industries provided jobs for 750,000 workers last year. Some of them live in our town. Good neighbors.

Passenger fares are now the lowest in history with substantial reductions on round trips. And no more surcharge for riding in sleeping cars.

This new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight—I heard some traveling salesmen talking about it on the train yesterday. They said it saves shippers a lot of money and centers all responsibility on the railroad. The railroad picks up the freight at shipper's door and delivers to receiver's door. Of course, local delivery men get the haul from door-to-car and car-to-door at both ends. The railroad handles the whole transaction.

When railroads are busy, I notice towns along the railroad are prosperous. The merchants put more ads in the newspapers.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

SYNOPSIS

Arrested for the fourth time for speeding, Betty Winslow, madcap society girl, meets Lieut. Knox, handsome head of the Traffic Department. Knox is campaigning for more traffic safety. Despite Betty's penchant for breaking laws, Knox falls in love with her. Betty's young brother, Jackie, crashes into a school bus while driving drunk. Betty, riding with him, takes the blame saying that she was behind the wheel. One of the children injured dies on the operating table. Betty is indicted for manslaughter. Knox's testimony sends her to prison. Harried by his conscience, Jackie decides to confess his part in the crash to Knox. But when he gets to Knox's office, he loses his nerve. Suspicious, Knox follows him.

CHAPTER X

WHEN Jackie caught sight of Knox and the reporter following him out of police headquarters he gave way to blind panic as he realized that they had discovered his secret. Leaping into his car, which had been parked in front of the building, he tore down the crowded street at breakneck speed, ignoring traffic lights and causing pedestrians to scatter in all directions.

"Look at the fool go!" cried the lieutenant as he made a dash for a patrol car nearby. "Come on, Steve. We've got to stop him, before he kills somebody else."

But catching the wild-eyed youngster proved an impossible task. He drove his big car like a thunderbolt, avoiding other cars by a miracle, turning, twisting, cutting corners, completely beside himself as he envisioned what might happen if he were arrested and charged with the murder of Bobby Sanborn.

Its siren screaming, the police car followed close behind but could not catch up, even when open country was reached.

"He's driving like a maniac," Steve shouted once above the roar of the motor. "Our only chance is to corner him or head him off."

Knox nodded grimly and pushed the accelerator to the floorboard. The reporter took a deep breath, shut his eyes and settled back into his seat as if expecting the worst to happen.

And it did. Jackie gave way to his old failing of cutting a curve too close. As a truck loomed around the head he twisted the wheel madly. The great car, traveling ninety miles an hour, swerved far out to the left side of the road, failed to recover and crashed headlong into a telephone pole . . .

When Knox's machine roared up, slowed down with a screech of brakes and skidded to a stop, Jackie was lying sprawled under a mass of twisted steel and shattered glass.

"Done for!" Steve said quietly. "He can't be," gasped Knox. "Quick. Help me drag him out of the wreck. We've got to get him to a hospital."

"How about it, Steve?" Knox asked over his shoulder a few minutes later, as the car hurtled back toward town, its siren screaming.

"You'd better hurry," answered the reporter, who was crouching over the unconscious Jackie in the rear seat. "He's going fast."

At the hospital a doctor shook his head gravely as he examined the boy. "Hopeless," he said. "He might come round for a little while with a blood transfusion." For answer Knox started stripping off his coat.

"No . . . No . . . I can't . . . I'm hurt . . . I can't do it," were the boy's first words as he partially recovered consciousness under the effects of the transfusion.

"That's it," said the doctor, stopping the flow of blood, and beginning to unstrap the officer's arm from that of the injured youth.

"Do any good, Dr. Grayson?" inquired Knox as, white and shaken from loss of blood, he rose from a wheel stretcher beside the bed.

"A little. He seems stronger."

"No . . . no . . . I can't do it. I can't . . . Please . . . Please don't." Jackie was moaning again. "I don't want them to know."

"Jackie," said Knox as he bent over the bed. "Jackie, you were trying to tell us something about that bus crash . . . What was it?"

"Don't ask me to write that," panted the boy after a slight pause. "Please. Please don't . . . Where's Betty? Betty knows . . . Betty, please don't look at me like that. I can't do it!" His voice suddenly rose to a scream and he struggled to get off the bed. Then the words trailed into a sobbing gasp as he collapsed.

Dr. Grayson leaped forward and jabbed a hypodermic needle into the patient's forearm. Then, as he relaxed and groaned faintly, he said:

"He almost went that time."

"You've got to keep him alive . . . You've got to," pleaded Knox.

"I'm doing everything I can but another shock like that will finish him."

Desperately the traffic officer looked around the room as though for help. Noticing the nurse who was working with Dr. Grayson, he took her aside and whispered earnestly with her for several moments.

As Jackie started to babble again the girl leaned over the bed and began repeating the words Betty had spoken at Mike Andrews' place.

The dying boy flung an arm across his face as though to shield it and sank back on the bed sobbing. "What's the matter, Sis?" he asked, at last in a low, dazed tone. . . . "What's happened?" There was another pause and Dr. Grayson leaned forward anxiously, hypodermic in hand. Then he went on: "Change places with you? What for? Drunk—that's right . . . They'd better not find me behind the wheel . . . I'm drunk! Sure, I'm moving . . . over . . . right . . . now." The voice trailed off into a whisper—stopped. The arm fell back against the pillows.

"He's gone!" Dr. Grayson said after applying a stethoscope.

"Well!" Knox took a long, shivering breath. "If he can look back from wherever he is, it must make him feel better to know he's told us."

Betty's release from prison was only a matter of routine as soon as her brother's confession was published. The governor granted her a pardon, and, sad and white-faced, she returned home to the accom-

Betty's release from prison was only a matter of routine as soon as her brother's confession was published.

"Jackie," she said softly. "We're just leaving Mike's place. Let me drive with you. Bangs can go with Mike."

There was a perceptible pause, then a faint smile twisted Jackie's mouth. This time the suggestion took effect.

"I get it," he muttered. "You think I'm drunk, too!"

Knox turned quickly to a court stenographer who had been called to the room by Steve and motioned excitedly for him to take down the scraps of conversation.

"Got a cigarette on you, Sis?" Jackie was mumbling. "Oh, I can get along without it . . . O. K. Stop at this hamburger stand."

Knox shook his head at this wandering and leaned forward as though to interrupt, but was silent when Steve laid a restraining hand on his arm.

"Hello, Betty . . ." the voice was meandering on. "Get 'em all right . . . No, no you don't. I'm driving now . . . gonna show you how an expert drives . . ." There was a long pause, then "Shouldn't be driving . . . Just missed that car . . . Mustn't let Betty know . . . Mustn't let Betty laugh at me . . . Drive fast so Betty won't know I'm drunk . . ."

He stopped talking. His breathing quickened perceptibly. Veins stood out on his forehead as he strained his head away from the pillow. Suddenly his eyes opened for the first time and stared glassily straight ahead of him. His expression turned to one of horror as he screamed wildly:

"Look out! Quick!" He made convulsive movement with his right foot as though jamming on brakes, then wailed: "They won't hold! . . . I can't stop! Look out . . . Betty—We're going to crash!"

paniment of the clicking of newspaper cameras.

At first she missed Jackie terribly. Despite his weaknesses he had been her pal . . . Then, so gradually that she scarcely noticed it, Lieutenant Knox began to take her brother's place. They spent many quiet hours together that spring while the color slowly returned to Betty's cheeks and the laughter to her eyes.

They were married on Labor Day, and kept the spirit of the occasion by spending the entire morning moving bag and baggage into the bungalow they had purchased from Mr. Tweets.

The little fellow fussed about them as they worked, offering innumerable suggestions which they cheerfully ignored. Finally he went out to his car and returned with the inevitable package.

"Tain't much of a wedding present, folks," he said as he laid the parcel on the kitchen stove and began removing the paper. "But it's the only thing I could think of and it's really mighty good for the nerves."

"Thanks, Mr. Tweets! That's swell of you," laughed Betty as she accepted the bottle of celery tonic. "Stay and have a drink with us."

"No, thanks, folks." Tweets shook his head and started backing out the door. "The quicker I get away from this place the better." He scampered down the front steps, but in the middle of the path suddenly turned back toward them.

"If you want your motor back," he offered, "it ain't too late."

"No, thanks. Everything's simply marvelous," the newlyweds laughed.

"Well." The sourness of the agent's face was belied by the twinkle in his eye. "Don't say I didn't warn you."

In the first game Monday night Doc's and the CCC Camp put on a thriller. With the knowledge that they had to win this game to stay in the race for second-half honors, Doc's played the best ball they have played since the first half.

The sandwich crew scored first in the initial frame when Rogers, first up, got a hit and scored on two outs. They added one more to this total in the next frame when Jones first up tripled and after two outs scored on a hit by Wilson.

The Camp scored their first run in the fourth, when with one down, Black got a hit and scored on hits by Jordan and Allen. In the sixth inning the Camp went one run ahead by scoring two runs after two were out, but Doc's came back in the last inning to score two themselves on Wiggin's double, a hit by Jones an out and a hit by Wilson, leaving the score, after the Camp failed to score in their part of the seventh, Doc's 4 and the Camp 3. The result left the Camp one game ahead of Doc's with the two teams playing again last night.

In the second game, with the Firemen still having a hard time getting their players out and an even harder time getting the opposition out, lost to the Merchants 16-5, in five innings as at this time some of the smoke eaters had enough.

Alvis pitching his first game in quite awhile, in the absence of Dr. Ray, had a difficult time finding the plate and when he did it was only to see the Merchants slam the ball all over the lot. To make matters worse the losers committed every error in the book. The Merchants now have a mighty good line-up and their play may decide the outcome of this half.

LOCALS WIN 13-INNING GAME FROM MCGREGOR

Tuesday night, Doc's Sandwich Shop softball team won a thrilling 13-inning game over McGregor 16-12.

The game started off as one of those dull affairs the fans go to sleep on, or leave for home, as at the end of the fifth inning McGregor was in the van 11-6, but at this stage the locals began playing ball and at the end of the regulation nine innings had tied the score at 11. For the next three innings the fans were kept on the edge of their seats as both teams made sensational plays to keep the opposition from scoring but in the 13th frame after Sasse flied out, Rogers and Blanton walked and Patterson beat out an infield hit to fill the bases. Jack Wiggins then banged out a hit scoring Rogers and Blanton and sending Patterson to third, Wiggins going to second on the throw to the plate. Franks then lifted lone fly to center with Patterson scoring after the catch. J. L. Wiggins then got a hit to center field which got away from the fielder allowing both the Wiggins boys to score the last runs, as Jones grounded out for the last out.

McGregor scored one run in their part of this inning when after one was down, Wadkins walked and Fletcher scored him with a triple but was out himself at the plate trying to stretch it to a home run. The next batter went out ending the game.

After the first part of the game the contest was highly interesting with both teams playing good ball. Blanton had a hard time finding the plate, walking 8 men during the game but striking out 14. The locals made quite a few errors in the early innings but settled down in the latter part of the game to play with but few mistakes. Patterson got four hits out of seven trips to the plate while Rogers out of six trips got three hits and as many walks for a perfect average.

The losers played more ragged ball than did the locals which helped lose the game for them. Baker, McGregor pitcher, did well until he weakened in the fateful 13th. Blake got three hits for the losers.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

The American Institute of Public Opinion poll on the presidential race points to one of the closest races in history with no walk-away by the entrenched forces of the New Deal. The latest nation-wide poll of the Institute gives President Roosevelt a popular vote majority of 52.4 per cent but Governor Landon is leading in electoral votes, 276 to 255.

If the vote in November is as close as the poll now indicates, the presence of William Lemke in the race may throw the election into the House of Representatives and produce another Tilden-Hayes debacle, as in 1876 when Tilden polled a plurality of popular votes but Hayes was given a majority in the electoral college by a commission appointed to hear charges of irregularity in the seating of electors in certain States.

The winning candidate must receive 266 electoral votes or the election is left up to the House to decide. Should the Roosevelt-Landon contest be thrown into the House, as a result of Lemke winning enough electoral votes to deny either of the other candidates the 266 votes, Roosevelt would probably be elected, as all indications point to another, although reduced, Democratic majority in the House. The Democrats are assured of a majority in the Senate until 1941 unless one of the normally solid Democratic states elect Republican Senators in the next four years.

Indications point to a hard-fought campaign of vituperation and slander rivaling in intensity that of 1928 when the religious and liquor questions were displayed to the political rubination of the Democratic candidate. And may the best man win!

The growing fear of war on the part of the European governments, including Germany and Italy, inspired the hasty signing of the nine-power treaty in regard to noninterference with the affairs of Spain during the critical period through which that power is now passing.

Germany and Italy at first agreed "in principle" but the prolongation of the civil conflict on the peninsula and apparent gains by the Leftist Government forces prompted them to adhere to the neutrality pact.

Inside information indicates Britain, Germany, and Italy aided respective commands. Britain, in control of the Straits of Gibraltar, could have prevented the transportation of Spanish Moroccan troops to the mainland but abstained from doing so, thus allowing Fascist commander-in-chief Francisco Franco to organize an army of Moroccan Arabs and march on Madrid.

Italy and probably Germany send men, planes and money to the Fascists in an effort to establish a Fascist regime on the Iberian Peninsula and thus surround the French Republic by three Fascist nations. Repeated efforts of the Spanish Fascists to gain a port on the Mediterranean and Bay of Biscay indicates they expect further aid from these powers in spite of the neutrality pact.

The Government forces roughly control half of the country, holding a wide strip along the Mediterranean from the French border to Gibraltar, Madrid and much of the territory of Central Spain, and a strip along the Portuguese frontier. Rebels hold all of Spanish Morocco across the Gibraltar Straits, Northwestern Spain and a large area in the South.

BETTE DAVIS IS COMING TO REGAL IN "GOLDEN ARROW"

Bette Davis, who won the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences award for the best performance by any actress in 1935, is coming to the Regal Theatre Saturday nite 10:30 Sunday and Monday, in the First National "The Golden Arrow."

For once, this great actress departs from the sinister characterization that made her famous in "Of Human Bondage," and "Dangerous." She follows her success in "The Petrified Forest," which was a tragic although sympathetic role, with an entirely new portrayal—that of a charming young American girl who yearns for romance.

The picture is based on the play by Michael Arlen, noted English playwright, and is a story of love in high society, set in a background of luxurious yachts and resort hotels.

Miss Davis plays the part of a girl who is reputed to be fabulously wealthy and who is surrounded by fortune hunters of high and low degree.

Sick and tired of their bland-young reporter to marry her, on the presumption that it is to be a marriage of convenience in order to protect her from the importunities of the fortune seekers. Really in love with the youth, she tries to win his affections, only to find that an unbending pride and a hatred of wealth on his part effectually keep them apart.

With the wiles of a purposeful young woman she resorts to flirting in order to make him jealous. But this merely enables her rival, a nouveau rich oil heiress, to ensnare the husband in her toils.

Complications pile up thick and fast to a riotous climax in which the young reporter discovers that his bride, although she had untold wealth at her command, has no money at all of her own. At the same time he finds that his wife is really in love with him and immediately reveals that he had loved her from the very first, her wealth being the barrier between them.

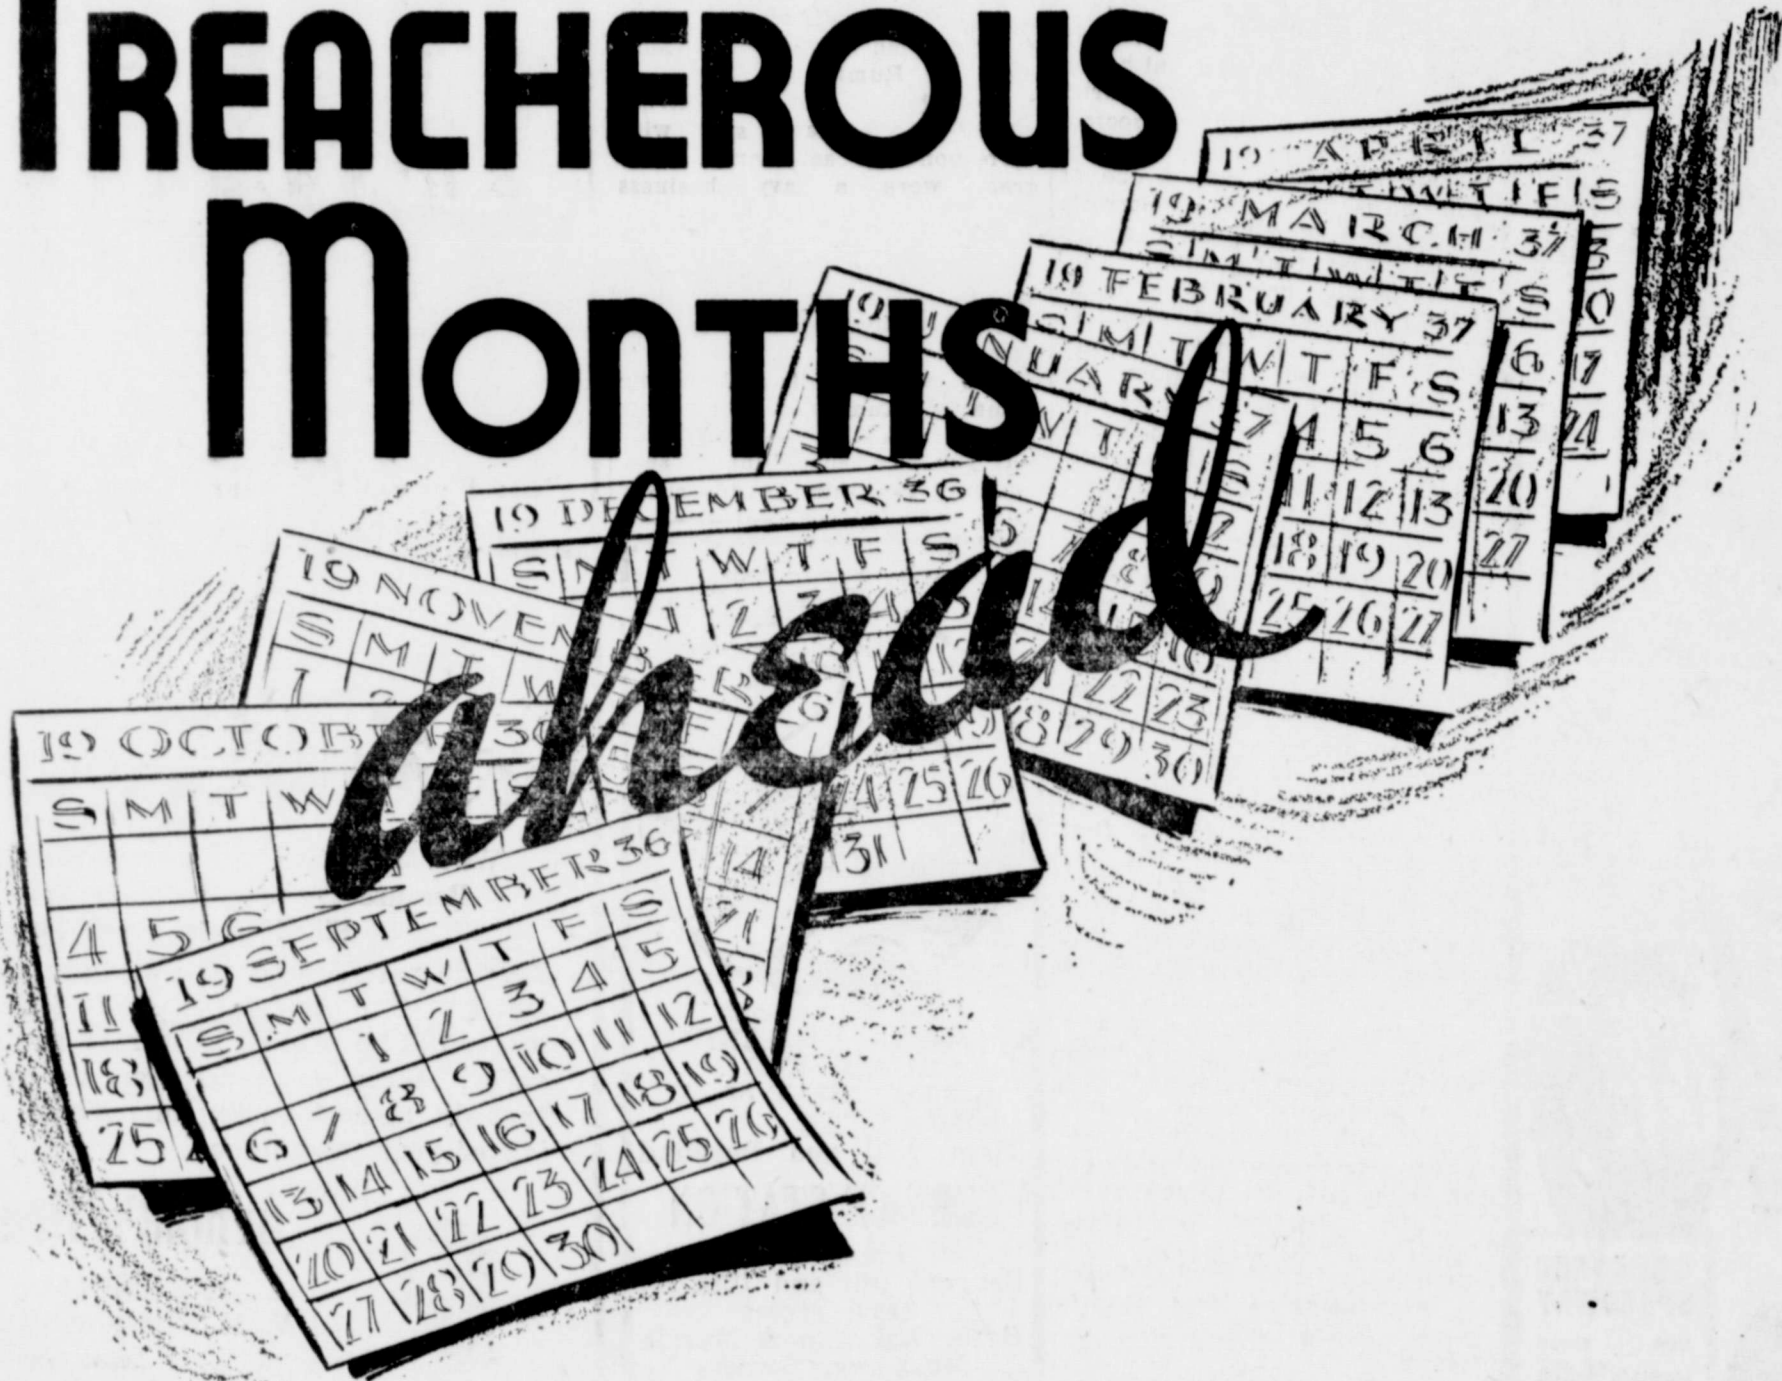

George Brent has the role of the young reporter, largely a comedy part, although involving moments of intense drama. Carol Hughes plays the part of the oil heiress. Dick Foran plays the part of a professional golf player.

TREACHEROUS MONTHS

Why do people "catch cold" more easily during winter than in summer? In most cases it is due to indoor living conditions.

The generally accepted theory of "a cold" is that you carry cold germs in your throat constantly. As soon as you become tired, overheated or chilled you are susceptible to attack. Any sudden change in temperature disturbs the heat-regulating apparatus of the body and the cold germ rises to the opportunity to undermine your health. Therefore, quick changes of temperature should be avoided.

The threat of the cold germ is limited during summer months largely because warm weather living habits make it exceedingly difficult for cold germs to become active. In summer, there is an adequate circulation of pure, warm air throughout the home. Since the temperature is approximately the same in each room during the warm weather season, your family is not subject to sudden changes.

On the other hand, UNLESS you provide adequate heat and proper circulation of pure, warm air in every room of the house during winter, sudden temperature changes are unavoidable. Members of your family go from a heated room into a cold hall or unheated adjoining room. Then shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. Each time this happens during the winter season, they have unnecessarily subjected themselves to the vicious attack of the cold germ.

It is good health insurance to take the simple precaution of providing adequate heat and proper circulation of pure, warm air in every room in the house during cold weather. Use your home to the fullest this winter as you have during the past summer. You will find it of valuable assistance in protecting your family from America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ.
