McMULLEN BRINGS FIRST BALE IN MONDAY

Dallas Press Estimate Was 1000 Visitors From County Friday 14th

THIRTEEN BUSES AND MANY CARS MADE TRIP ON SPECIAL DAY TO TEXAS CENTENNIAL AT DALLAS.

The Dallas Morning News called it 1000! Our estimate is very near that figure, or something over 750 people made the trip to Dallas Friday, celebrating Coryell County-Gatesville Day at the Texas Centennial Exposition which was sponsored by the Gatesville Lions Club.

In the mimeographed program furnished by the Centennial, "Gatesville Day," appeared in the head, and the program included 11:15 program over WFAA by Murray Kendrick and Lytle Powell, enor and pianist, respectively from Gatesville; 1:00 p. m. Gatesville Day Musician Program in Chrysler Theatre, which was a point program by Guy V. Powell, County Agent, Jack Reesing and Jacquelyn West.

At 3:00 p. m. a concert by the Gatesville Band at the Grand Plaza was scheduled, but for some reason was omitted; 6:00 p. m. Gatesville Band gave a concert at the Grand Plaza.

First the Cavalcade, headed by Mayor C. E. Gandy, was welcomed by assistant Manager Kitrell, at which time Centennial photographers took pictures of the buses and cars which were lined up near the Main Entrance to the Exposition.

In the Dallas Press, the Dallas Times-Herald had the following: "It was a special day for Gatesville, and artists of that city were to stage two musical events. Murray Kendrick, tenor, and Lytle Powell, pianist, were featured in a morning broadcast from the first Gatesville program.

"Jack Reesing, pianist, and Jacquelyn West, violinist, were featured at a recital that began at 1 p. m. in Chrysler Theater.

"Mayor C. E. Gandy was at the head of the Gatesville motorcade that came to Dallas for the day."

While the Dallas Morning News featured the County's visit in the following front page: "Gatesville and Coryell County citizens made the day memorable with their thousand-strong delegation, who arrived by safety motorcade. Mayor C. E. Gandy headed the west Texans who also brought along their thirty-piece chamber of commerce band. Murray Kendrick, tenor, and Lytle Powell, pianist, were heard in a program broadcast

Mr. McMullin's bale weighed 520 pounds and brought 13.75c, or $71.50, which was paid by Powell & Caruth, cotton buyers. This bale was raised on a farm owned by O. L. Jones of Oglesby.

No premium was paid Mr. McMullin since the ginning was done so late the premium could not be raised, but a committee will finish getting up the premium today, according to Fred G. Prewitt, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Turnersville High School, along with other schools of the County, is at this time flooring the new gymnasium which is being built there. Electricians went out yesterday to bid on the wiring, since a high voltage line is to be run into Turnersville from Valley Mills or Clifton, which will give that part of the county rural electrification.

The gym, which was at first designed for a WPA project, and which for some reason fell thru, has been made possible by a $5,500 bond issue voted by the school district, which shows even greater interest by the people of that than if it had been completed as some government project.

When completed the gym will have a floor 90x50 feet with outside dimensions of 120x86 feet. In addition there will be two rooms for Home Economics, showers, and dressing rooms. Bleachers for the spectators will be on both sides. Heating for the building has not yet been worked out, according to Superintendent Virgil Jones.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

Administration leaders are exerting pressure upon Nebraska's Senator George W. Norris to run as an independent candidate for re-election in November. Norris, veteran progressive Republican who bolted his party in 1928 for Al Smith and in 1932 for Franklin Roosevelt, has passed the 70-year mark and this spring refused to enter the Republican primary.

Nebraska Republicans nominated Robert G. Simmons, a conservative who was defeated two years ago for the Senate by E. W. Burke, a Democrat. Winner in the Democratic primary was Terry Carpenter, filling station proprietor and Townsend advocate. Pressure is being exercised at Washington to get Carpenter to withdraw in favor of Norris.

Chairman Farley and Democratic leaders are attempting to strengthen the national ticket in doubtful states by nominating strong candidates for state office, as in New York where Gov. Lehman was persuaded by a direct appeal from the President to run for a third term and in Michigan where Frank Murphy, United States High Commissioner for the Philippine Islands, was placed on the ticket as Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Senator Norris remains a power in the Western States, such as Missouri, Nebraska, and the Dakotas, where Roosevelt needs a boost to out-distance Landon and Fomke.

Machine government triumphed in Missouri's Democratic primary last week when Boss Tom Pendergast's candidate for governor, Major Lloyd C. Stark decisively defeated William Hirth head of the Missouri Farmers' Association.

Like an octopus, Thomas J. Pendergast has extended his control of Kansas City to the State Government of Missouri, where biennially he names the governor and all major State officers.

In spite of the fact that Pendergast cast best Republicans in a general election in addition to opposition in his party primary, since 1930 no Pendergast candidate has been defeated in Kansas City or the sovereign state of Missouri.

The efficiency of his machine Pendergast attributes to

In addition to "feeding 'em" in addition to "feeding 'tm" with political appointments. "I am honest with the people. I give them good government. I take care of the poor. I give out all the jobs I can find. I am the home relief of Kansas City. A political boss does not have to be a grafter, or a robber, or any of these things the papers call me in Missouri. All he has to do is to serve the public, make friends and do the right thing."

Thus was molded a political machine which ranks in efficiency and long-life with the Kelly-Nash domination of Cook county and Chicago and Boss Edward Crump's hold on Memphis, Tennessee.

The war in Spain has assumed a fiery tempo with the confiscation of Church property amounting to $25,200,000 by the radical Government forces and the cry of a "Baby Russia" echoing from the ranks of the Communists and anarchists who threaten to seize control of Madrid, the capital city.

Coincident with the burning of churches by atheist Communists come the looting of the ancient treasures hid away in the sanctity of century old vaults by nuns and monks.

The government of President Manuel Azanda and Premier Giral Pereira has its back to the wall with the threat of Fascism from one side and that of Communism and anarchism at the other. Although extremely leftist, the Azana Government was not red but only mildly pink prior to the outbreak of the month-old rebellion.

The interest of Communist Russia in the Spanish Government's cause, manifested by huge Red sympathy mass meetings and contributions of money from the Moscow Government said to be on the way to the aid of Madrid, and the open acts of sympathy on the part of Fascist Germany and Italy indicate, as said before, that the life-and-death struggle now raging with ferocious intensity on the Iberian Peninsula is a fight to the finish between Fascism as personified by Italy and Germany, and Communism, the spirit of class revolt which emanates from the Kremlin in Moscow.

BARBARA STANWICK AND A FINE CAST FROLIC IN LATEST BIG PICTURE

Lovely Barbara Stanwick makes her latest screen appearance at the Regal Theatre Saturday night 10:30, Sunday and Monday in "The Bride Walks Out," a racy, fast moving, smart comedy, surrounded by one of the more auspicious supporting casts to be seen in a feature this season. Veritably, the cream of talent in the respective branches of histrionic is represented in "The Bride Walks Out."

Miss Stanwick appears as a young bride whose proud young husband insists that she give up her job as a model, at which she makes more money than he does at a $35 per week surveyor.

Gene Raymond takes the part of her husband. He not only has trouble convincing his bride that she should become a housewife, but a gay young wag with lots of money in the person of Robert Young becomes an annoying pal of the couple.

Ned Sparks, who plays the part of Raymond's co-worker, finds his match as a "deadpan" in Helen Broderick, seen as his wife.

The locale of "The Bride Walks Out" is New York streets; a fashionable dress shop, with beautiful girls modeling the latest creations of Bernard Newman, noted fashion designer; a Coney Island boat; various city hall offices; the interior of a jail; a gay night club on New Year's Eve; several apartment interiors, and a magnificent Long Island estate and steamer pier.

Miss Stanwick's vibrant personality and dramatic ability dovetail into the the gay and breezy stellar role in "The Bride Walks Out," the first of its kind she has ever played on the screen. As the gorgeous creature accustomed to the finer things in life who is talked into the job of kitchen mechanic by a gli-tongued husband, the titan-haired beauty displays a pleasant flair for sophisticated comedy.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

With the Spectator

If Texas voters go to the polls for the August 22 runoff, it will be largely because of the interest aroused by the race for Railroad Commissioner between Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo and Attorney Frank S. Morris of Dallas.

Publication of the official primary total for the Railroad race convinced most voters that Ernest Thompson had been re-elected for a second term but submitted to the formality of a runoff campaign by his Dallas opponent, Thompson, leading all his opponents in the first primary, received 447,229 votes out of a total of 922,848 votes cast for five candidates for Commissioner. He led his present opponent by 278,644 votes, his total being only 14,044 votes short of a majority over all four of his opponents in the first primary.

Thompson received a larger vote than Morris in 242 counties, out of a total of 254 in the state. His opponent received a higher vote than Thompson in only 12 counties. In these counties Thompson's opponent led him by a total of only 9,666 votes. In the counties which Thompson carried over his opponent, Thompson's lead was 288,130 votes.

The Thompson-Morris contest has split the three-member commission, with Commissioner C. V. Terrell supporting Thompson and Commissioner Lon A. Smith backing Morris. Smith had differed with Terrell and Thompson on the proration orders issued by the two, who constitute a majority on the commission.

Smith, oddly enough, was confronted in his campaign for reelection two years ago with a situation similar to that with which Thompson is now faced. Then Smith faced four opponents in the primary, as did Thompson this year, and entered the run off with John Pundt, a Dallas attorney. Smith defeated Pundt by a comfortable majority, but most political experts place Thompson's expected second primary majority over Morris at from 100,000 to 250,000.

Colonel Thompson has defined the issue of the campaign as follows:

"The vital issue in the campaign is whether the Railroad Commission shall continue to administer and enforce the law, fairly as to all alike, for the benefit of the consumer and the general public; or whether it shall become the tool and instrument of a small group of law violators who wish to operate it for their special profit and benefit."

He has been endorsed by the Legislative Committee of the Railway Brotherhoods; Secretary of the Texas Federation of Labor; Independent Petroleum Association of Texas; Independent Petroleum Association of America; North Texas Oil & Gas Association; Ninety eight per cent of the little oil men of Texas; and the Texas Motor Freight Carriers' Association.

Vote For Earnest O. Thompson for Railroad Commissioner

(SECOND TERM)

Thompson lead in the first Primary by more than a quarter of a million votes; Thompson receiving 447,229 votes and Morris receiving only 168,585.

Thompson's life has been of work and service. At 9 years of age, a newsboy; at 10 a district distributor of newspapers and magazines; at 16 operated automobile repair shop. At the same time, he worked his way through the Public Schools of Amarillo. Later, he attended the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va.; and later he worked his way through Eastman Business College, New York; and thereafter received a law degree at the University of Texas.

In 1917, he enlisted for the World War. Was with the American Expeditionary forces in France, 1917-18, commanding machine gun division. For 90 days he was in the front line trenches. Was the youngest Lieutenant Colonel in the American Army; First Commander of Hanson Post, American Legion, Amarillo, 1920; appointed by President Wilson, as one of the Nation's 96 official mourners at the burial of the Unknown Soldier, Washington, D. C., Nov. 11, 1920; delegate to World Congress of Allied Veterans (Fidac) Brussels, 1923.

In 1928 he was appointed Regent of Texas Technological College; and in 1929 was elected Mayor of Amarillo, receiving 75 per cent of the votes in a field of four candidates and was re-elected Mayor in 1931 without opposition. In 1932, elected Railroad Commissioner.

While Mayor of Amarillo, taxes were reduced and water, light and telephone rates were reduced, saving to the people of Amarillo thousands of dollars in taxes and utility rates.

As Railroad Commissioner, he is known as the Commissioner who protects the rights of the "little fellow." No wonder, in 159 towns in Texas, he has ordered gas rates be reduced, thereby saving to the citizens of these towns many dollars in fuel bills.

As Railroad Commissioner, he has been a friend of the farmer. Freight rates on cotton and other farm products have been reduced; which means that our farmers will receive better prices for their products in that the buyer does not have to allow as much for expenses of shipment and can therefore pay more to the farmer. Thompson has also sponsored a return to our farmers all of that part of the cost of gasoline that is paid as taxes thereon, where the farmer uses such gasoline for operation of his farm machinery.

As Railroad Commissioner, he has the good will and support of laboring men. He holds the endorsement of the Legislative Committee of Railway Brotherhoods, Secretary of Texas Federation of labor and the Oil Field & Refinery Workers Union.

Thompson believes our natural resources such as oil and gas should bear a fair portion of our tax burdens; and with this in mind, he has clamped down on those oil capitalists who would take from the oil fields much hot oil, without paying the taxes thereon. The result of his fight against "hot oil" has been that the taxes derived from oil, and that goes to the Public School Funds of the State, has been increased more than $2,000,000,000. Each and every school in Coryell County gets a part of this fund.

Ex-Governor Jim Hogg was the father of the Railroad Commission of Texas; and today Mike Hogg, son of Jim Hogg, is actively supporting Thompson for Railroad Commissioner.

For all his work and services to his country, to his State and to our citizens, town and country alike, don't you think Thompson is entitled to a Second Term Profusions of greenery and pink varbenias beautifully decorated the reception room and the living room.

As the guests entered they registered in the bride's book over which Miss Maybell Carbell presided.

The hostess gave each a card and pencil and requested her to write a favorite recipe or household hint for the honoree. Following Miss Louise Walton read two selections, entitled "Foolish Questions" and "The Honey-moon."

After a very interesting and novel contest in which the honoree took part little Barbara and Maurice Ashby entered, carrying a huge basket which was placed at the feet of the bride-to-be, followed by Sandro and Donald Flentge and Burt Todd whose arms were laden with lovely gifts.

On the refreshment plate rested a miniature scroll on which was inscribed the words "Irene and Y. J., August 15." The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. George L. Walton.

The marriage of Miss Irene Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Todd, of Coryell Creek, and Y. J. Honeycutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Young Honeycutt of Waco, took place at nine o'clock Saturday morning at the Methodist parsonage.

Rev. M. M. Chunn, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated, and Miss Burnice Hunt of Waco, and cousin of the bride, played the wedding march.

The bride was lovely in a aquamarine suit trimmed in navy with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink sweet-heart roses and baby breath. The groom wore a dark business suit.

She had no attendants and only members of the immediate families and a few close friends were present at the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a honeymoon trip to points in interest in south Texas.

Mrs. Honeycutt has made her home in this city for the past five years where she attended the Gatesville High School.

"HELLO, OSCAR" TAKES THE STATE LIKE EPIDEMIC

Austin, Aug. 17. 'Hello Oscar' the fascinating new game that originated in the minds of Texas Centennial Department of Information heads has spread over Texas like an epidemic almost over night.

The prime purpose of the game is to make Texans conscious of the great number of out-of-state cars traveling over Texas during Centennial year. The novel pastime is similar to the game children play known as "stamping horses." The rules are not compulsory but may be altered according to the wishes of the players.

"Hello, Oscar" is a derivative of "Hello, Out-of-State Car." As many persons as care may play. The first to spy a car bearing an out-of-state license shouts "Hello, Oscar" and thereby gains one point. If the driver of the car answers his greeting he gains another point. Should a player see two out-of-state cars pass each other he is given five points. Of course, there is penalty of one point when a player cries "Hello, Oscar" when there is no out-of-state car in sight.

Some opine "Hello Oscar" is another step toward insanity, but everybody's playing it. It's surprising the number of out-of-state cars to be seen in Texas everyday.

MARKET FEED THRU LIVESTOCK

CENTERVILLE—Russell Long, farmer in the Niveveh community in Leon county, recently came to the decision that more money can be made out of farming by raising feed and than by raising cotton.

J.B.Short, county agricultural rearrange his farm, reports that agent, who is helping Long to this former cotton raiser intends to dig trench silos and fix feed-rangin' his fences so that all of ing pens on the hill. He is ar-h's pastures will be connected with his feeding lot. He expects to put in at least 40 acres in permame t pasture, 50 acres in temporary pasture and in feed for the livestock.

"Long will alternate the temporary pasture and feed land from year to year," the county agricultural agent stated, "and he is going to raise both hogs cattle by starting with a few good animals and gradually improving to purebred stock."

NEW USE FOR TILE

PERRYTON—To irrigate her garden, Mrs. Frank Martin of Booker home demonstration club has put down 100 feet of tile, according to Marie Ludwick, Ochiltree county home demonstration agent.

The tile which is placed in rows three feet apart, is irrigating a garden of 13 varieties of vegetables. Her garden is made up of beans, radishes, beet English and black-eyed peas, carrots Swiss chard, lettuce, cucumbers, parsley, peppers, and turuips.

McKENNEY—Sixty flour sacks were used in sanvasing the room of Maxie Ann Drain, bedroom demonstrator of the Clear Lake 4-H club in Collin county, thus cutting the expense of her bedroom improvement.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports Keturkey farmers received approximately $6,498, 000 for their principal crops, livestock and livestock products during May of this year.

North Carolina farmers have received more than $1,033,278 in cotton price adjustment payments on their 1935 crop.

Thursday night's games left the team standings rather closely bunched as Doc's won over the Camp 7-1, to go into a tie with that team for the top position, while the Merchants bet the Firemen 7-6 to remain a half game behind the leaders. Last night the Merchant's tangled with the Camp while Doc's crossed bats with the Firemen. Should the Merchants have won over the Camp and Doc's beat the Firemen, the Sandwich team now be one game ahead of the Camp and the Merchants, who would be tied for second place. Should the Camp have won last night and Doc's lost the Camp would go one game ahead of Doc's and two ahead of the Merchant's, while if both Doc's and the Camp won the standings would remain the same. Since last night's games there remain three games for each team in this half.

In the first game Thursday night the Firemen went into the last inning with a 6-3 lead on the Merchants but in the last frame the Firemen's defense went haywire, allowing the Merchants to score four runs with no out being recorded against them and leaving the sacks loaded as the winning run came in.

Doc's beat the Camp 7-1, mainly because the Camp boys only connected for one safe hit and although the winners nicked Allen, the Camp pitcher for only five hits, miscues on the part of his mates allowed the winners to build up their large total.

4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS ENJOY COMPREHENSIVE CENTENNIAL TRIP

Friday and Saturday were full days for the 4-H club boys and girls who went to Dallas. The trip began shortly after 5 o'clock Friday morning. Riding, sight-seeing, answering Texas-Do-You-Know, and getting acquainted, constituted the main entertainment until the arrival at Dallas about 11 a. m. After settling in Tent City and having dinner, guides conducted this second-largest Centennial group through the Centennial grounds. Mary Virginia Brown and Elmo King took time out to have their pictures made with some rabbits.

Friday evening Cavalcade of Texas History thrilled these Coryell County spectators. Beginning and ending each scene was the colorfully lighted water curtain. Accompanying the show was appropriate music and explanatory remarks. Settings moved by flat cars on account of their great weight contributed to the realistic portrayal. Reports of guns, hoofbeats of the horses, retreating Indians, loyal heroes added other excitement.

Saturday morning the party broke into smaller groups after the officially conducted tour of the Livestock building to see things appealing especially to them. The whole party met for dinner at the Black Forest where mountains capped with snow were visible from the dining terraces. Courteous waiters in native dress threaded in and out among the small tables, fans revolved on the ceiling, and the rest and food were thoroughly enjoyed.

Around 4 p. m. Saturday the boys and girls boarded the truck for the trip home. They carried visions of various things seen and compared notes in midglets, fishes, clothing, foods, livestock, art, animals in the museum, marionettes, souvenirs, buildings, and feet.

Those who enjoyed the trip were: Weldon Martin, Howard Lee Warren, Tomilene Young, Ruth Woodson, Virginia Powell, Mary Evelyn Eubank, Virginia Brown, Laura Williams, Erma Traueck, A. B. Bennett, Pauline Voss, Rebecca Clemons, Mary L. Bamberg, Bessie Fae Clemons, Sophia Voss, Lalla Rookh Martin, G. C. Martin Jr., Azlea Whisenhunt, Dorothy Roebuck, Elfreda Apel, Norine King, Minnie Clara McMurry, Juanell Ford, Fay Jones, Leta Belle Shoaf, Norine Smith, George Williams, Wanda Walton, Mrs. M. E. Powell, Clovis King, Albert Koch, Elmo King, John Apel, Albert Apel Jr., Robert Mack, Leroy Fritz, Louise Fritz, John Henry Fritz, John Koch, Eddie Wiegand, Sterling Barnard, Loran Brazzil, James Tippitt, Elmo Fuller, J. D. Brazzil, Arlington Barr, Helon Humes, Sidney G. Gibbson, Sonny Hale, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Powell.

JOHN E. MILLER IN RUNOFF WITH HUDDLESTON

Asks Support of Voters

A tie vote between Dr. A. G. Livingston and myself for second place in the race for State Representative was discovered at a very late date. Last week (Monday) the official tabulation showed we had 1736 votes apiece. We drew straws in the presence of W. A. Patterson, acting Democratic Chairman and Livingston drew the short straw which was equal to elimination according to agreement.

Now at this late date I would not be able to campaign this district (comprised of Coryell and Hamilton counties) in the way I would like to. I made the race before the first primary in a limited time and am forced to do likewise to a decided degree in the run-off, starting out after my school was out I endeavored to cover two counties unaided by any campaign manager and if I failed to meet the entire sovereignty it was because it was quite impossible and not because I did not want to see every voter.

Dr. Livingston has authorized me to state that he is giving me his wholehearted support and I feel that with this assistance my supporters will turn out to the polls Saturday, August 22. From now until the second primary I would not have time to see all the voters so I trust that you will take this as a personal solicitation of your vote and influence.

Yours to Serve,

JOHN E. MILLER

THE WORLD'S GREATEST HOUSEKEEPER DOESN'T KEEP HOUSE

Chicago.—The Pullman Company, operators of sleeping cars on the railroads of America, annually "sleep" on the average of one-fifth of the population of the United States, it was revealed today in a letter received by Harry G. Taylor, Chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives.

Mr. Taylor was formerly a weekly newspaper editor publishing for ten years the Nonpariel at Central City, Nebraska.

And with this huge overnight sleeping population to care for, the company has become one of the greatest housekeepers in the world, despite the fact that it does not keep house!

The company has nearly four million towels on hand at all times. There are over two million pillow slips, five hundred thousand blankets, a similar number of pillows, 250,000 mattresses, and the porter who tends these things has over one-hundred-fifty thousand white jackets on hand for his own dress.

In all the linen stock kept on hand by the "world's largest housekeeper" totals close to nine million pieces!

After digesting this figure of nine million pieces of linen always on hand, add to that the figure 2,000,000 which is the annual number of replacements made to keep this huge stock intact.

This stock must be so distributed that each of the five thousand odd Pullman cars in service has the quantity it requires. And as the five thousand cars travel some 3,000,000 miles a day, allowances must be made for picking up this linen stock on the fly from over 100 railway supply depots located throughout the country.

Each car carries 400 towels in its lockers, 250 sheets, 200 pillow slips, 56 blankets and eight porters' coats. Simple multiplication will show the size of the washings.

The same operation will show why the Pullman Company is believed to be the World's Largest Housekeeper, and with reduced rail-Pullman travel costs in effect since the first of June creating increased rail traffic throughout the country, the job becomes greater every day.

JANICE JARRATT

Texas bade goodbye to its "Sweetheart of the Texas Centennial" this week when Janice Jarratt, lovely San Antonio girl who found fame in New York as America's most photographed girl before returning to Texas as official State hostess for Centennial celebrations, signed a long-term movie contract and departed for Hollywood. Released from her duties by Centennial officials, the Texas beauty signed her contract in executive offices in Austin in the presence of Governor James V. Allred. J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, and Harry Evans, Universal casting director, flew to Texas from New York to present the contract.

HAZEL McDONALD THANKS VOTERS OF COUNTY

I wish to express my appreciation to the people for the many courtesies shown me during my race for County Treasurer. The kindness of the people made my campaign of the county pleasant. I am very proud of the new friends I have made and I have learned to appreciate my old friends more than ever because of the splendid way they have used their influence for me.

I was greatly handicapped in making the race by having very little money. I was unable to go to everyone's home. So if I failed to contact you it is my misfortune and I trust that you will accept this as a personal solicitation of your vote. I feel that I am fully qualified to do the work in the County Treasurers office and I need the job for the support of my small son and myself. I want to give him a good education and a home for us.

If you elect me to this office next Saturday I shall be very grateful and I shall do my best not to disappoint the confidence placed in me.

HAZEL McDONALD.

New Roadways Follow Old Trail

Mother Neff Park, Cut by Ancient Wagon Track, Is Brought Up to Date by CCC Boys; Stone Observation Tower, Many Picnic Tables, Mark Woods Where Tonkawa Indians Staged Cannibal Feasts

In the days of James Coryell and Gregor C. McGregor—remembered in Coryell County and the city of McGregor—an old trail led through this section of the state, and over it most of the travelers from the gulf coast to north, and vice versa, made their way. When young Robert E. Lee, later the great general of the Confederacy, was bound for old Fort Gates, his scouts are said to have laid out this trail. It crossed the northeast corner of what is now Mother Neff State Park, and two of the old trail markers are still standing, one at the north one at the south of the park. They are made of stone and embedded several feet in the earth.

Trail Has No Name

This trail is sometimes confused with the old McCulloch trail near Gatesville, but it is not the same. So far no definite name has been discovered for this ancient wagon road that left its well-worn scar across the timber and the prairies.

A CCC camp has been at work for the past 18 months building the roads of a modern generation in and around the same park, making the beauties of the site available to the public. The boys have built a stone observation tower, have erected picnic tables and benches, made picturesque paths, cleared the ground where necessary, and have generally constructed a fine public recreation ground.

As far back as 1890, the picturesque natural park was used by all nearby settlers for their social and political gatherings, and more especially for the never-to-be-forgotten camp meetings of that period. Even in this early stage of Texas' development, the park was known for its restful retreats, massive trees and general naturalistic beauties. But even though it was known throughout central Texas as a natural beauty spot long before, it was not until Pat M. Neff was serving Texas as governor that this campers' paradise was officially designated as a state park.

Was Colp's Idea

D. E. Colp started the promotion of a park system for the state of Texas during Governor Neff's administration. Colp advanced his ideas to Governor Neff with the result that Mrs. Isabella Neff, Governor Neff's mother, donated the land for Texas' first state park. It was named for the donor—Mother Neff State Park. The donation was of six acres of sylvan scenery along the historic Leon River, nine miles southwest of McGregor, near the old Neff homestead.

This area was a natural camping ground for the Tonkawa Indians. Not only was there abundance of game to be had for the hunting in the bordering cedar brakes, but there was also fish in large quantities in the Leon River for the Tonkawa to catch with his flint hook. Many Indian relics and signs of their habitation are still present there.

Had Camp Meeting

A large tabernacle capable of seating 500 people was erected in this area several years ago by Neff. It is used extensively by the residents of surrounding counties for school plays, chautauquas, political gatherings and old-fashioned camp meetings. In this tabernacle and on various objects in this original park are found many interesting quotations and proverbs gathered from hither and yon.

In 1934 Governor Neff donated 250 acres more to the park in memory of his mother. This additional grant embodies some of the most interesting scenery in this part of the state.

This new section of the park is rich in natural history and artifacts. Some Indian relics found here have shown evidence of dating back far beyond the time of the Austin colony, Hugh Sheridan and others of the early pioneers. One of the most interesting places to see while visiting

Evant Boy Narrowly Escapes Electrocutation Wednesday Last Week

McNeil Griffin, son of Chester Griffin of Evant, narrowly escaped from electrocution on Wednesday of last week.

The boy was engaged in washing automobiles at the garage, and climbed upon a tank to observe the supply of water, and his shoulder came in contact with a live electric wire. The shock caused the boy to throw out his hand and catch another wire, the contact burning out a fuse, releasing the boy, and he fell twenty-five feet to the ground. He suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, and his body was painfully bruised.

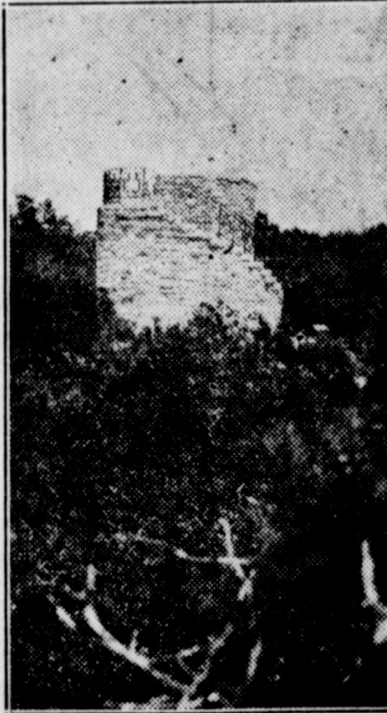

He was carried to the Hamilton hospital immediately following the accident, and the boy is reported to be recovering satisfactorily.

Mother Neff park is the Indian shelter cave, a possible former abode of the Tonkawas and later converted into a burial ground. Two skeletons have been exhumed in this cave along with a "bundle burial," which leads some archeologists to this section to believe that the Tonkawas were cannibals. The entire park is a mecca for archeologists.

Borders the River

The northern and eastern sections of the new Mother Neff park are undulating prairie, while the southern and west-

Watch Tower on the Leon CCC Boys Beautify Mother Neff Park

tern sections border on the Leon River, and are covered with a heavy growth of timber. For years this spot on the Leon has been a choice of nimrods. Bib strings of fish are caught in this area.

Small spring-fed streams have forged their way northward from the river into the rocky hillsides and cedar brakes, and along these may be found small pools or rippling shallows of sky blue water. The beds of these small streams are strewn with boulders, many of them worn into curious shapes by the continual wear of the water's flow over a period of years.

STATE BOARD ADOPTS NEW REGULATIONS ON STATE AID

At a recent meeting of the State Board of Education, regulations were adopted in the letting of State Aid, and according to L. J. Garner, State Aid will be apportioned this year according to the number of pupils instead of according to the number of teachers, as has been done heretofore.

The board refused to pay high school tuition to high schools who had taught pupils free where grades taught in the schools were the same as those taught in the high schools. The schools, however, will be given 30 days to collect this tuition from those who attended, and if it is collected, the State aid will be available to the schools affected.

CORYELL COUNTY PIONEER WOMAN PASSES AWAY AT HOME AT PEARL

At the family home near Pearl Mrs. N. T. Robertson passed away Saturday morning, Aug. 1, at 10:30 o'clock, after several months' illness. The funeral services were conducted at the King cemetery Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. Ollie Williams, assisted by Rev. Hampton. The body was laid to rest by her husband and four of their children who preceded her in death a number of years ago. The pall bearers were her grandchildren, Ernest, Louis and Wilber Collins; Glenn Blacklock, and Grady Hanes.

Miss Martha Lucenda Graham was born August 15, 1860, in Coryell County, near Sugarloaf. She was converted and joined the Baptist Church at the age of fifteen, and has always lived a devoted Christian life. She was married to A. G. Hanes in 1881, and to this union were born one child. Her husband preceded her in death in 1883. She was married to N. T. Robinson in 1886, and to this union seven children were born, he is survived by four children, A. E. Hanes, and Louis, Beula Robinson, and Ople Blacklock, all of Pearl; two stepdaughters, Mrs. John Brazzil of Pearl, and Mrs. Oliver Bykin of Evant, five brothers, Tom, and Luther Graham of New Mexico, Felix Graham of Johnson City, Sam and Aaron Graham of Bee House; six grandchildren and by two great-grandchildren to call her blessed.

On Saturday morning between the hours of ten and eleven her soul took its flight to heaven. Friends and loved ones were standing near but God whispered, "come up here."

Dear Grandma Roberts, we can not understand why you had to suffer in this old land, but all troubles and trials are passed. Thus we sing "safe home at last."

To the dear children left behind we know you'll ever bear mind, that Jesus lingers near to comfort his children dear; to other relatives and friends so true, Granma Robertson is not forever gone from you. Jesus can guide your steps aright, then you'll meet in that city where there is no night.

"As the Twig Is Bent"

Figures on accident and their costs read like the national debt, but apparently figures in themselves are not enough, for the total each year is about the same. Somehow they do not stimulate the imagination. Not until we dig thru a mountain of statistics do we get at their real meaning. Then we realize, as well as "feel" the tragic story of human ignorance, bad habits and carelessness, even this is not enough. Death, injury, deformity, suffering and loss, we seem to accept as matter-of-fact daily occurrences. Have we become calloused to needless destruction? Are we losing all regard for fellow beings?

No! It only seems that way, because we are passing through a period of learning. The machine age came so fast we were unprepared. Without natural defenses against the hazards of our creation, we have had to acquire them through experience. Slowly but surely our sum of safety knowledge is being applied in countless practical ways.

One of the most promising of these practical applications is the introduction of safety education in the public schools. It has become a great national movement. Most deservedly so, for we have always believed in "bending the young will as we would have it grow."

TEXAS DISPOSES BURDENSOME SURPLUSES

Texas was one of the 36 states of the nation which during the fiscal year ending June 30 disposed of burdensome surpluses of agricultural commodities to the Federal Government for distribution for relief purposes.

Purchases in Texas included 11,812,050 pounds of early and intermediate onions. Total purchases of fruits and vegetables under this program were: apples 1,348,355 bushels; dried beans, 1,200,000 pounds; dried peas, 7,502,040 pounds; citrus fruit, 228,529 boxes; dried prunes, 17,699,600 pounds; late carrots, 2,688,000 pounds; late onions 5,933,650 pounds; cabbage, 4,369.76 tons; and early and intermediate onions 26,116.

050 pounds, obtained in Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Oregon and other states.

The purchasing was conducted by the commodities purchase section of the AAA and the purchase financed from funds made available by Congress from customs receipts. Distribution of the commodities was made by the Federal surplus commodities corporation.

Surplus dry kiln milk, evaporated milk, butter, cheese, wheat for flour milling, figs, turnips, grapes and cherries also were handled during the year under other programs.

Care was taken in each instance to distribute these surpluses only by those who could not buy them, thus preventing them from conflicting with like commodities handled in the regular channels of trade.

BUDDING FRUIT IS GOOD INVESTMENT

San Saba, Tex.—When Sam Burk, orchard demonstrator of Northwest community in San Saba county, had budded 2,500 nursery peach trees for enlarged his orchard, the labor cost was only $7.50, reported Ross H. Brison, county agricultural agent.

"More than 90 per cent of the buds are living, and it is estimated that there will be 2,000 trees suitable for planting. Thus, he should get $200 worth of trees for a cash outlay of only $7.50, as he is doing all the other work except the budding," stated Brison.

NEGRO VERSION OF MACBETH TO BE PRESENTED AT CENTENNIAL

Dallas, August 13. The New York WPA Federal Theatre's production of Shakespeare's immortal tragedy Macbeth, with an all-Negro cast of 150, opens in the Amphitheater on the Texas Centennial grounds today and runs through Aug. 23. Macbeth comes direct from a sensational fifteen-week run in New York where it thrilled and amazed more than 100,000 blasé New York theatergoers.

The all-Negro version of the bard of Stratford-on-Avon played at the Lafayette Theater in Harlem and the Adelphi on the Broadway. The company has been literally compelled to tour the country because of the flood of requests.

Ticket scalpers sold tickets for the Broadway show as high as $50 a pair. The show has been playing to standing room only for weeks. The prices at the Centennial will be forty and sixty-five cents.

The play is an authentic presentation. For justifiable reasons the locale of the play is not in drab Scotland but in the colorful island of Haiti during the Napoleonic regime. Negro actors lend themselves easily to the elegance of colors and the change in locale improves the brilliance of the spectacle. The army of 150 actors wear splendid military costumes of the Napoleonic regime play against three major settings—atropical jungle, a majestic castle and a seacoast town. Brilliant lighting effects vividly bring out the magnificence and terrifying beauty of the scenes.

Voodooism furnishes one of the most distinctive features of Macbeth. There were three witches in the original script but witches are alien to Haitian tradition so voodoo ceremonies are substituted. The cast includes an authentic voodoo doctor, Abdul Assen. Abdul has devoted a lifetime to the study of voodooism in Africa. He goes into a trance nightly in order to cast the spell on Macbeth—a genuine trance which can only be broken by certain Arabic chants echoed by his fellow practitioners, Abdul says. Abdul will have an opportunity to cast his spell on audiences over a territory of 4,000 miles on the present summer tour the Harlem company is making.

Lets Talk about Clothes

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN (CIA)

Denton, Aug 13. Tunics have come into their own. For the past three or four years, timid approaches have been made to make this style "tops," but not until this year have designers boldly proclaimed it the most necessary item in your wardrobe. Both young and old find the garment especially attractive.

Right now we see gay printed tunics made for summer wear, but those displayed in the stores are more versatile—they show dark skirts with light tops that can be discarded when the summer months give way to fall. You can have a tunic ensemble now, and if you're smart, it will serve you many times in the coming season.

For instance, a black and white tunic ensemble is especially good. The blouse is made of white novelty crepe or a black and white check. Tunic capelet sleeves are gathered through the center with a draw string, and the neck is criss-cross style with three large black patent leather buttons following the diagonal line across the front. A black patent belt completes the frock.

Now, let's look at this dress and see what we can do with it. First of all, we need something a little more sporty, and something to wear in the fall. We can discard the white tunic for a darker one in blended plaids, or we can wear a short taffeta blouse. If your skirt is one of the dull crepes, a boucle knitted blouse will be nice with it.

With the same black skirt, for informal dinners in town, girls at Texas State College for Women suggest a bluish pink all-over lace tunic with patent leather trimmings. A wide brim black hat and matching accessories will complete the costume.

BUY CHICKENS WITH PRIZE MONEY

WACO—Doris Reuter, 4-H club girl of McClennan county, won $5.50 prize money last year and invested some of it in chickens which are paying her a profit, according to Mary Inez Scott, assistant home demonstration agent.

With $2, Doris purchased 25 white leghorn chicks at eight cents each and spent 75 cents for chick starter. She raised 21 of these, 10 of which were sold as fryers at an average of 40 cents each and 11 of which she kept for layers.

Her hens started laying at the age of five months and this 4-H club girl sold $7 worth of eggs. With $1.20 of the profit from the fryers, Doris bought 12 more chicks and paid out 45 cents for feed. Of these she raised 11, eight pullets and three roosters, two of which she sold and one of which she kept for stock.

Doris' total expense was $4.40. She made a net profit of $7.60 and her hens are still laying.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THEY'RE reforming the prisons all over the country since the boys started putting on these big shows where they burn the pens and shoot up the guards and everything. In some places they're going to build some mighty nice residences to take the place of the old fashioned joints the boys burned down and blew up. While they're waiting to hear from the legislature about whether there's to be two baths and television for each cell or only one bath and refrigerator. They're examining the convicts at one of the big stirs to find out what kind of work they'd like to do.

One guy was asked to choose the sort of work he'd like to be trained in, and he says, "Well, boss, you mean I'm to choose?"
"Sure, as long as it's something we got the equipment to teach you."
"Well, boss," he says, after thinking right hard, "I'm sure I can get my friends on the outside to furnish the equipment. And I'd sorta like to learn to be a fireman in the extension ladder department. If you can't get up a class in that there work, I'd choose to run the parachute division of the aviation school."

CHAPTER I
"BANDITS!" gasped the fat and perspiring traveling salesman who rode on top of the swaying Concord stagecoach. He grasped frantically at the bulging wallet in his breast pocket, then almost fell off the seat as Wahoo Jones, the driver, jerked his horses to a skidding stop on the narrow mountain road.

A hundred yards ahead of the coach two horsemen had materialized out of the sagebrush at the side of the road. Guns drawn, hats pulled low over their foreheads, the road agents trotted forward, their guns drawn. The taller of the two wore a black mask, the other's face was partly covered by a silk polka-dot handkerchief.

A moment later the road agents whirled away in a cloud of dust. Wahoo scrambled to the top of the coach, snatched up his rifle and tried to fire after them. But somehow the ejector jammed and he had to confine his fury to loud curses.

"The dirty, thievin', robbin', lyin', sons of coyotes—they'll rob my stage, will they!" he ranted.

"They did rob it," sighed the drummer as he climbed shakily back beside the driver. "Oh, what will the boss say when I tell him how much I lost? . . ."

That night Wahoo Jones, the Tall Bandit, (Jeff Hawkins) and Polka Dot (Sam McGee) were amicably dividing up their "earnings" around answered the stranger. Then, as the driver jumped and almost dropped the reins he added: "We Texas Rangers are out to see that such things don't happen." He patted his rifle affectionately. "Come real trouble, I'll shoot first an' ask questions afterwards. . . . All you need to do is keep good hold o' them reins."

Wahoo digested this information for many minutes. Then, as the stage stopped at a tiny village in order that the horses might be watered, he scouted hurriedly around a little adobe shack where Jeff had planned to ambush them. He found his friend just as the latter was starting to adjust his black mask. Pretending to have discovered a new passenger he dragged the startled bandit toward the coach.

"Put up your hands!" commanded the tall bandit as he drew nearer. The drummer did so immediately but Wahoo reached for his rifle. Whereupon the tall bandit fired from the hip. Jones' hat flew off and he also raised his hands.

"All right," chuckled Polka Dot. "Get down, open the door and tell the passengers to step out peacefully. The gentlemen will keep their hands up."

As Wahoo scrambled to obey, the tall bandit shouted at the salesman: "Hey, you, bring me that express box up there."

"This is a vile outrage," Wahoo fumed, as the little company lined up on the side of the road. "In fact it's a shame—these people have paid their fares and they're entitled to my protection. . . ."

"I haven't killed a stagecoach driver in a long time," grunted Polka Dot. "If you want to live, pass your hat around. This is for charity, folks," he added to the white-faced passengers. "We want all your money and jewelry."

"I want everybody to witness I'm doin' this agin' my will," shouted Wahoo as he retrieved his bullet-riddled hat and passed expertly along the shivering little line, seeing to it that each passenger "contributed" all of his or her valuables.

"This is an heirloom," pleaded a young school-teacher, as she looked pleadingly at the tall bandit while holding out a valuable ring.

"Keep it," replied the other graciously. Then, to Wahoo he added quickly. "But I'll take this!" He lifted a huge gold watch out of the driver's pocket.

"All right, Jeff," called Polka Dot, who had been rifling the express box. "You passengers get in line, face the coach and keep 'em in the air!"

a campfire in the woods when a posse caught up with them.

"I got a mind to keep this here one for Maria down in Texas," Sam was saying, as he gazed raptly at a brooch which had fallen to his lot. "What I wouldn't give to have that little enchilada settin' on my lap to-night, lookin' at me with big round eyes, runnin' her fingers through my hair an' sayin' 'Mi dulceto papacito'!"

"You fellows stay just where you are," a voice whipped out of the darkness. "We got you surrounded! Put up your hands."

"Let's take a chance and make a run for it," whispered Jeff through set lips. "Gettin' shot's better'n hangin' and we'll hang for sure if they catch us."

"They're all aroun' us. They'll be afraid of hittin' each other," Wahoo agreed nervously.

"Grab the hosses when I douse the fire," commanded Sam. As he spoke he kicked the coffee pot over, putting out the flames. A wild scramble ensued during which guns flamed through the darkness and the frantic disappointed curses of the posse members made the forest resound. In the confusion all three of the bandits made good their escape.

Down in the Texas flat lands several months later Wahoo Jones was up to his old tricks. But this time, as he drove the clumsy stage into a trap laid by his pal Jeff Hawkins, the man beside him on the box was not a drummer but a taciturn individual who carried a loaded carbine across his knees.

"You seem mighty skittish," Wahoo grumbled to his companion as they bounced rapidly through the mesquite under the broiling sun.

"You might be held up today,"

"Hello, Stranger," Wahoo belated. "Always got room for another passenger!" Then, out of the corner of his mouth he added: "Get into the coach, quick. That feller on the seat—he's a Ranger. Won't stand for any monkey business."

Thrusting the astonished Jeff inside, he clambered up the side of the vehicle and whipped up the horses.

Five miles beyond the village, Hawkins heard the familiar shout of "Throw 'em up!" from the side of the road. Cursing under his breath because someone else had beat him at his own game, Jeff thrust his head out of the window. As he did so quick shots resounded from the top of the coach. Two of the masked men who were attempting to hold up the coach fell face forward into the dusty road. A third turned to run, but threw up his hands and collapsed also as a third shot rang out.

Hawkins and the other passengers clambered out as the stage slithered to a halt. The Ranger already had jumped down and was examining the three dead men. Wahoo also leaped to the ground and sidled up beside his partner.

"That's what I was tryin' to tell you. . . ." The rawboned youth jerked a thumb at the burly passenger. "Them Texas Rangers ain't got no sense of humor. If that's a sample of how they behave I'm gonna stay clear of 'em."

"They sure are efficient," answered Jeff glumly. "And us without a dollar left to our names. And Sam somewhere down on the Rio Grande with Maria where we may never find him." He took out the "makings" and rolled a cigarette with hands that shook slightly. "It seems that we should oughter change our plans." He studied the Ranger's back thoughtfully.
