Committees Named to Get Money for Derao. Presidential Campaign

With a quota of $892.00 for the Democratic National campaign, which was allotted to Coryell County by the State Democratic Executive Committee, headed by Roy Miller of Austin, local committees have been named by C. H. McGilvray, chairman of the Coryell County Democratic Executive Committee.

It is hoped that as near this quota as possible will be raised, since a number of counties of the same size and like value assessment have already raised their quota. Those who have received major benefits from the present administration should not have to be urged to do their part in the raising of these funds. Farmers and business people alike have profited from this administration materially, and a quota of this size for a county boasting 20,000 souls should be raised easily, especially, since two or three millions have been paid to people of this county since the administration's advent in power in March 1932.

Named on the committees are Mayor C. E. Gandy, Eiland Lovejoy, Eugene Alvis Jr., Guy Powell, Floyd Zeigler, H. E. Welborn, Hurl McClellan, Earl Nesbitt, S. L. Bellamy, Eric Sharp, Dr. H. M. Haynes, John Y. Franks, W. Mat Jones, Fred G. Prewitt, L. S. Holmes, Pat Holt, Richard Dickie, Ivy Edmondson and Roy H. Gough.

Additional members are the Precinct Chairmen of the 33 voting precincts in the county.

In talking to County Chairman C. H. McGilvray Monday night, he stated that the committee would like to close this campaign by Saturday night, if at all possible, due to the proximity of the General Election, which is on November 3rd.

Maddog Scare Real Here with 5 Bitten or Scratched by Mad Hound

Five persons in Gatesville were bitten or scratched by a dog that had gone mad, and some are now taking the anti-rabies vaccine, and these are Mrs. Bob Saunders, Mrs. Monroe Murray, Mrs. W. C. Bradley, her son Billy Carl, and one of the janitors at the local schools. Dr. K. R. Jones, City Health Officer, has been giving the vaccine.

A telegram from Dr. S. W. Bohls, director of the State laboratory, Austin, to Chief of Police J. B. Graves late last week, reads:

"Austin, Tex., 11:33 p. m. Positive evidence of rabies stop Report for treatment if inoculated.

Dr. S. W. Bohls." In a meeting of pharmacists and doctors in Marlin last week, Dr. Bohls had the following to say with reference to rabies:

"During 1935 and up to September of that year there were 821 cases of rabies reported in Texas. For the same period of 1936 there were 935 cases.

"Stringent regulatory measures are necessary to prevent the spread of this disease. Stray and ownerless dogs are the greatest cause of rabies."

Dr. Bohls pointed out that rabies are more prevalent in the winter months and that a number of old beliefs in regard to rabies had been disproved by science. Among these were the use of "mad stones," and the belief that the skunk is a natural carrier of hydrophobia.

He recommended immediate attention to and examination of any dog or animal thought to be afflicted with rabies, pointing out that only by examination of the animal's brain could it be determined if the animal were afflicted.

Dr. Bohls said, rabies, once developed, is 100 per cent fatal and that preventive treatment should be started as soon as it has been determined the animal was afflicted with rabies.

Construction of New U.S. P. O. Starts Monday, Oct. Nineteenth

T. C. Bateson of the Dolph-Bateson Construction Co., of Dallas, who were awarded the contract for the new U. S. post office building here, was in the city Monday looking over the site, and stated to the News that construction work would start on the project Monday of next week.

Mr. Bateson said that due to the fact that the government required that all blue prints, specifications and other matters pertaining to the building must be approved by the Post Office Department before construction could start was the reason for the delay. "It usually takes 30 days or more to get things wound up and approved by the Government," he stated. Mr. Bateson stated his company could have begun excavating some time ago, but due to the fact that rain would have partially filled the excavation it was thought wiser to await the final approval of all plans before starting any work. The job will be high pressured and completed as soon as humanly possible, according to Mr. Bateson.

The bids opened Aug. 12 for the construction of the new $72,000 post office, and the Dolph-Bateson Co. were awarded the contract some 30 days ago. Equipment will be moved in this week in preparation for the start early Monday morning.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

Two issues of controversy in the presidential race the the public debt and bank statistics regarding the safety of bank deposits.

The gross national debt of today from which President Roosevelt deducts payment of loans to railroads, farmers and others is approximately $34,000,000,000. In 1932 the debt was $22,530,000,000, indicating an increase of about eleven billion under President Roosevelt. The figures show an increase from $16,931,000,000 in 1929 when President Hoover entered the White House to $22,530,000,000 when he retired in 1933 or a gross increase of approximately five and one-half billions under the Republican Administration which, incidentally, experienced 3 years of depression also.

Here we are quoting figures alone. It is not at this time our purpose to go into the benefits derived from the last two national administrations from the expenditure of such large sums. The figures, as shown above, show the increased debt under Roosevelt to have been about twice that under Hoover.

In the matter of bank statistics two things must be noted: national bank closings and the increase in bank deposits. Answering charges of Frank Knox, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, that "no life insurance policy is safe, no savings account in secure," the Democrats have prepared from statistics in the office of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Bank Deposit Insurance Corporation a report to prove that all is fine in the banking business now.

The study—covering the period from 1921 to 1935—estimated depositors and shareholders during the 1929-1933 period, lost in a total more than two billion dollars. During that period, 1,240 national banks with $1,463,000,000 (billion) in deposits and 4,741 state and private banks with deposits totaling $2,596,500,000 (billion) closed, the report said. This would be a total of 5,981 banks with $4,059,2000,000 (billion) in deposits.

From March 15, 1933, thru 1935, there were seven national banks closing, involving deposits of $6,416,752, and 256 State and private banks, with total deposits of $170,487,752, the report showed.

President Roosevelt pointed out in his Pittsburgh, Pa. address there had been a national bank failure for the year ended Oct. 1, for the first time in fifty-five years.

If, as reports indicate, Premier Mussolini is grooming his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, as his successor, he is acting with more foresight than dictators usually manifest.

Ciano, although only 33 years old, holds high positions in the Fascist party and at present time is foreign minister in the government. The Count, who married Edda, Mussolini's favorite daughter, has a good personality, makes friends easily, is wide-traveled and boasts an excellent knowledge of languages.

Il Duce, political circles assert, would remain as dictator under his title of "Capo Del Governo" (head of the government). Il Duce bears the double title "Capo Del Gerno e Primo Ministro" (head of the government and prime minister). Political experts say he can separate the first official designations and give the second of these to another without af-

LONE STAR GAS CASE TO THE HIGHEST COURT

Officials of the Lone Star Gas Company have announced that they expect to appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the decision of the Texas Supreme court denying the company an appeal in the company's gate rate case. Attorney's for the company will first ask for a rehearing and if this is denied, they plan to go the highest tribunal in the land, they stated.

This case involves an order of the Texas Railroad Commission reducing the city gate rate from 40 cents per thousand cubic feet to 32 cents. The company appealed from this order to the Travis County district court and a jury decided for the company holding that the commissioner's orders were unreasonable. The state then appealed to the Court of Civil Appeals which reversed the jury verdict. The State Supreme Court was then asked to review the case but has declined to do so.

Officials of the company stated they believe the jury verdict was correct and that in order to protect their service to customers they are bound to go with the case. They also expressed the opinion that because of increasing taxation and regulatory expenses and the increase in cost of doing business, is more than ever necessary to maintain present rates.

World Comment—

votes of the Empire State lies on the majority each candidate will be able to pile up in his favored section.

In 1932 Hoover carried the up-State New York counties by sizable margin but Roosevelt came out of New York City with enough votes to carry the State by 600,000. The votes outside New York City were 1,353,907. In New York City Roosevelt received 1,455,176 to Hoover's 584,056. This year's Republicans are banking on dissension within Tammany to permit Landon to garner more than Hoover's 1932 total and to keep Democrats away from the polls. Democrats, on the other hand, point to the fact that the (Republican) Fusion Mayor of New York City, Fiorello LaGuardia, has endorsed Roosevelt and believe the smooth working State machine of James A. Farley (who is New York State Chairman in addition to National Democratic Chairman) will carry several normally G. O. P. counties for Roosevelt.

Illinois is a key state with its 29 electoral votes. There, again it is largely a conflict between a Democratic city machine and a Republican rural section. In Chicago, Democratic bosses Patrick Nash and Edward Kelly regularly deliver a 250,000 majority for their mayoralty candidates and hope to do so for President Roosevelt. Over 1,700,000 Chicagoans are eligible to vote in the November general election.

Downstate Illinois, largely rural but with large industrial establishments, quadrennially votes for the Republican presidential nominee. In the 1932 general election, the State of Illinois

"I don't mind staying in my kitchen so much, now," remarked Mrs. M. S. Pendleton, cooperator in the Union Home Demonstration Club. These substitutes for canvas are giving satisfactory service and the appearance of the kitchen walls is greatly improved by the new paper.

CENTRAL TEX: EXPOSITION OPENS IN TEMPLE OCT: 26

Temple, Texas Oct. 12—With $750 offered in prizes for agricultural exhibits and a score of special attractions scheduled, the Central Texas Exposition to be held here October 26 to 31 inclusive is expected to draw in an excess of 100,000 visitors.

The Exposition will stage on the Baker Field, Temple's baseball arena, with a full-sized circus tent and several smaller tents housing the exhibits.

In addition to agricultural exhibits which will be sent from 12 Central Texas counties, the largest display of commercial exhibits in Temple's history has been contracted for.

With a smart parade opening the Exposition Monday and with special days set aside for various organizations and Central Texas towns during the week, there will be action all the time. Any town desiring a special day designated should communicate with the Exposition and ask for the day it desires.

There is no cost to such designation and the towns having these days will bring their own bands and other entertainment features to perform on the platform in front of the Baker Field grandstand.

There will be a carnival and free nightly performance of the famous aerial act of the Flying Millers.

"The exhibits to be featured during the Exposition have been planned as a salute to the fertility and productivity of Central Texas and as a compliment to its citizenship," so Bob Gresham, Directing Manager, states.

Ford Winners Meet Sales Director as Company Guests

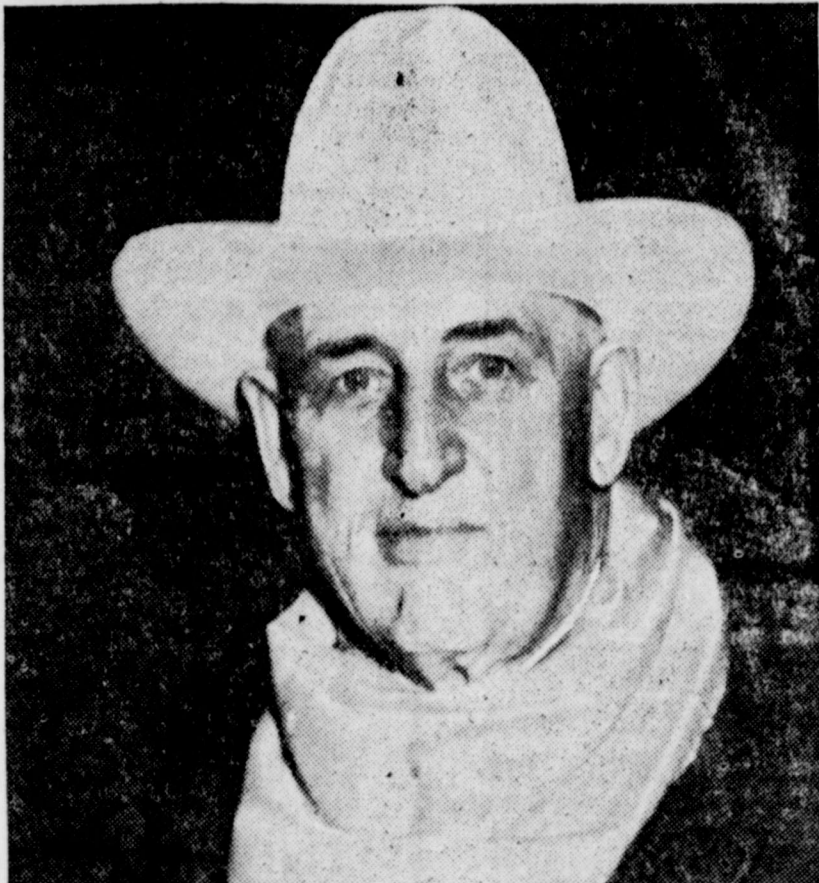

The second and largest delegation of leading Ford dealers in the United States, holding a roundup in Dallas, arrived to be greeted in typical western fashion—a greeting such as was extended to nearly 100 visitors and their wives in an earlier group. A band played as the trains rolled in, a reception committee was decked out in cowboy garb and several types of wagons paraded the newcomers to the hotel.

Prize winning Ford dealers who were brought to Dallas as guests of the Ford Motor Company consist of two groups. The first group was made up of members of the 100-car club. These men, about 73 and their wives, were awarded the trip because they had sold at least 100 cars for two consecutive months, July and August.

The second group of visitors is made up of STS Harvest sales winners. In this group are four dealers from each of the company's thirty-six branch territories, a total of 144. They come from virtually every state in the Union.

The big event of the day was the luncheon. The room had been beautifully and appropriately decorated to carry out the round-up idea.

At the speaker's table sat W. C. Cowling, director of sales, present with a group of officials from Dearborn. In addition to Mr. Cowling, who made the principal speech, the following were seated: A. S. Hatch, in charge of Lincoln Motor Company sales; D. J. Hutchins, head of truck and commercial sales; H. C. Butkiewicz, manager of the new business division of the Universal Credit Company; J. P. Hoek, in charge of used and retail car sales; C. B. Ostrander, Dallas branch manager; Harry Mack, Dearborn branch manager; B. W. Slagle, Houston branch manager; C. I. Kenney, Oklahoma City branch manager; Harry Murray, Dallas manager, Universal Credit Company; Rex Ryan, Ford exhibit; Verlin E. Doonan, general sales department, and F. L. Black, who acted

When S. T. S. contest winners and 100-car club dealers came to Dallas as guests of the Ford Motor Company, they saw a bit of the old-time west. Ten-gallon hats, flowing handkerchiefs, and a two-team western stage coach met them. Here is W. C. Cowling, director of sales for the Ford Motor Company, garbed in hat and kerchief as he greeted the incomers.

Captain Pack of the Rangers gave the visitors a thrill when he rode his horse into the crowded room between the tables and presented Mr. Cowling with a pair of "six-guns," the personal gift of Mr. Ostrander to the sales executive. The horse was easily carried to the banquet room on the 21st floor in the freight elevator.

A motion picture introducing the 1937 model Lincoln-Zephyrs was shown.

Mr. Cowling devoted most of his talk on success in life and what it means to the average person. He emphasized the importance of truthfulness in the manufacture and selling of a product.

At the conclusion of the sales executive's talk he personally presented each 100-car club member with an engraved watch. Each watch was inscribed as a gift from Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Brown were Dallas business visitors Monday of this week.

Martin Perry of Amarillo, a former resident of Gatesville, was a visitor this week with his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. George Perry.

Miss Voncille Turner spent the week end in Waco the past week.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a farmer in Texas come into town with a badly injured man and took him to a hospital. When the nurse come to get a history of the case the farmer says, "Well, you see, this fellow was my hired man. He just went to work for me Monday, and I never knew that he hadn't any farm experience. I sent him out plowing before ever I knew that he had never worked anywhere only in a garage, mending cars. Well, one of them mules balked, and the boob didn't know that a stalled mule ain't of the same temper as a stalled engine, and the first thing I knew here was this first-class garage mechanic out on his back under that balky mule!"

MODERN MEAT

Means a Lot

DOWN in the "hot country" in old Mexico, where they have no ice, they drive a cow into the yard, kill it, cut off a piece, cook it and eat it—just like that. And anyone who has exercised his jaws on it will assure you that it's plenty tough.

But they're about four hundred years behind the times in those remote districts in old Mexico. Almost anywhere in this country with all our modern refrigerating devices, we can hang meat until it has reached exactly the right tenderness. But there still remains the problem of cooking it.

Another Step in Advance

Not always, however. We wonder sometimes whether the people here who always cook all the meat they eat aren't a few hundred years behind the times, too. We're not recommending that you eat it raw, but haven't you ever heard of canned meats?

If you haven't tried them, or have tried only one or two, you have a revelation before you. It means a lot to have good meat, and saves on fuel when all you have to do is heat it unless it happens to be a meat that you want to eat cold.

A Wide Choice

Canned meats offer you a wide choice. They include beef (corned, dried and roast), beef steak with onions, beef stew, chicken (boneless, deviled, in tamales and whole), frankfurters, ham (deviled, loaf, sliced and whole), hash, roast mutton, pig's feet, potted meats, sausage, tongue (calf's, lamb and ox), tripe, turkey, veal loaf and veal roast.

In addition to these there are entrées all ready to serve such as beef à la mode, chicken à la King, chicken curry, chop suey, Hungarian goulash, lobster Newburg, a rice dinner and Irish stew.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A MAN and his wife that had just got them a lot of money out of oil were talking over the plans for their new house. Mrs. Dozey had been going around getting all kinds of ideas from architects and antique dealers, and she had just about decided that she was going to have a little mixture of this and that, so everybody would be satisfied.

"What are you going to do with the attic, Jenny?" says Pa Dozey. "Why, I reckon I got that all laid out here in the sketch. Yep, here it is, made up into four Italian bedrooms and two Spanish bedrooms for the maids."

"That's terrible," says Pa. "You know mighty well we'll never be able to get anything like Spanish and Italian maids out here. The best we can do is Irish, and I think you better change them rooms right away."

"Twosing" with TOMATOES

TOMATOES and squash, tomatoes and spinach, tomatoes and celery and potatoes—have you ever thought of combining them? It can be done, you know, because the tomato is a flirtatious vegetable which adapts itself tenderly to "twosing" of this kind. Here you see it in a blissful embrace with a white summer squash:

Baked Squash and Tomatoes: Peel one white summer squash and cut in small pieces, removing seeds. Put squash and one tablespoon chopped onion in buttered baking dish, dust with salt and pepper and dot with two tablespoons butter. Heat contents of one No. 2 can tomatoes, season to taste, and pour over and bake until squash is tender—from forty-five minutes to an hour in a moderate oven. Serves six.

More Sentiment

And here it comes to close grips with some green young spinach in this

Spinach and Tomato au Gratin: Drain off liquor from a No. 2 1/2 can spinach, reserving it for soup. Put half the spinach in baking dish and cover with a layer of sliced tomatoes (you'll need two fresh tomatoes), sprinkling with salt and pepper. Repeat. Spread one-half cup grated cheese over top and bake in hot oven till cheese is melted and browned. Makes six servings.

Here it must have been caught "twosing" with two other vegetables because it gets in the soup.

Cream of Tomato and Potato Soup: Put the contents of a No. 2 can tomatoes, one and a half cups raw potato cubes, one and a half cups diced raw celery, two slices onion and one-half cup water into a saucepan and cook gently, covered, until vegetables are tender, then press through sieve. Pour slowly into two cups scalded hot milk, season to taste and serve at once. Serves four.

COPPERAS COVE SCHOOL TO HAVE SCHOOL NEWSPAPER

Sponsored by the High School English department, "The Bulger," a high school paper will make its first appearance today in the Copperas Cove School.

With Margaret Baker acting as sponsor, Frank Shaw as editor-in-chief and a large reportorial staff the paper promises to cover thoroughly the news of the entire school.

The paper is to be published every four weeks. The subscription rate is five cents per copy, or thirty-five cents for the nine months.—Copperas Cove Crony.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT

Advertising is of great antiquity. Egyptian advertising over 4,000 years old has been discovered. Picture advertising were used for the most part up to the time of and through the middle ages. The earliest newspaper advertisement was said to have been in German, 1591.

It is estimated that 400,000 persons enter and leave the penal institutions of the United States annually.

A hundred years ago the best cows seldom produced more than 2,000 pounds of milk a year whereas dairies today average 5,000 pounds per cow.

The first encyclopedia written in English and with the articles alphabetically arranged was a "Universal English Dictionary of Arts and Sciences," by John Harris, a London clergyman, published in 1704.

The bat is not a bird, but a mammal; that is, it is warm boded, covered with hair and gives birth to its young alive.

"CAN YOU IMAGINE" IS TITLE OF ANNONMOUS ARTICLES

Quite mysteriously, we have been receiving from an anonymous correspondent, or columnist, a column, we suppose, entitled, "Can You Imagine". We can't!

Here's a part of it: (spelling and all) "Una grieving because Earnest won't ask her to kiss him" "Willie sleeping on the Poarch because Hazel snores so loud." "Can you imagine who they are and who wrote this. If you do no Please drop me aline" We don't.

THIS WEEK IN TEXAS HISTORY

1819—On October 11 the royalist of Spain attacked the trading post of Captain Johnson on the Brazos, and took eleven of the party prisoners.

1834—The first strictly revolutionary meeting Texas was held at Bexar on Oct. 13 in pursuance of the recommendation of the representatives and superior judge of the department.

1835—The first news of the Texas revolution was received at New Orleans on October 13 and the same evening a meeting was held to raise funds and call volunteers.

LOW RAIL RATES GIVEN TO TEXAS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Residents of Gatesville and surrounding territory will have the opportunity of visiting the Texas Centennial Exposition on November 22 and 23 at the unprecedentedly low rate of one cent a mile for the round trip. Railroad fare is only $1.80.

The occasion is the movement to the Exposition by districts of the 1,500,000 Texas school children, for whom the railroads granted the rate, now extended to all adults who may be in the party.

Operation will be in day coaches, good for two full days at the Exposition. Further concessions to the scholastics include admission to the Exposition at half price, a viewing of the historic Cavalcade of Texas at half price, and numerous concessions have announced special prices.

An all-expense trip, which includes housing and meals at the Exposition is at a maximum cost of $2.85 per student.

Movement of the students has been proclaimed officially by Governor James V. Allred and endorsed by State Superintendent L. A. Woods.

An annual event, but designed to be greater than ever before this year, the South Texas State Fair at Beaumont, Oct. 15-25, may be expected to be a great Texas Centennial Celebration of importance.

Low Rail Rates Bring Children in Swarms to Texas Centennial

The vanguard of more than million Texas school children who are expected to visit the Texas Centennial Exposition, in Dallas before its close November 29 are already swarming the grounds. A half a cent a mile railroad fare has been granted all children and any adults, teachers or members of their families who may accompany them. The rates are the lowest in many years. The Centennial Exposition offers reduced prices in its attractions and special accommodations for board and lodging have been made for children and their grown-up companions. School holidays have been proclaimed in every Texas school district by Governor

James V. Allred and State Superintendent L. A. Woods. The picture show some of the thousands of youngsters taking the exhibits and shows of the $25,000,000 Texas World Fair by storm.

Friday, Thirteenth, Is Her Birthday

Helen Boyd, bass violinist with Jose Manzanares and his South American orchestra, has been a member of the group since 1932. The Manzanares organization plays daily in the Ford court at the Ford Exposition in the Texas Centennial, Dallas.

Because she was born on a Friday, the thirteenth, Helen Boyd, bass violinist with Jose Manzanares and his South American orchestra, has no fear of that ominous combination. In fact this member of the group which plays nightly in the court of the Ford building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas, looks forward to such an eclipse of days and dates because in the past many of the finest experiences of her life have taken place on Friday, the thirteenth.

One of the first proofs Helen had of this fortunate combination came when she received, on Friday, the thirteenth, her first offer to broadcast as a violinist. The engagement was proffered by KFSD in San Diego, California.

On May 13, 1932, another Friday, Helen's phone rang with an SOS call from a friend who was playing with Jose Manzanares and his South American orchestra. The friend told her the bass violinist had quit suddenly that morning and the job was hers if she wanted it. Weary of playing popular music, she welcomed the opportunity to play the unusual Latin American tunes for which Jose's orchestra is noted.

MAKE A GAME OF SAFE DRIVING

It might help safety statistics if a lot of us took careful driving as seriously as we take golf—and played at it as hard.

Do you "slice" on curves?
Do you "hook" on hills?

Every night when you get home (if you get home) rehash your day's driving. How many times did you darned near have an accident? How many narrow squeaks did you have? How many times were you foolish? How many times were you rash and reckless when you should have taken a little more time and played safe?

Did you dart out of line on curves or hills when you should have waited a little longer? According to statistics gathered by The Travelers Insurance Company, that is one of the worst traffic sins.

In golf and in driving, a good score is a matter of keeping your head.

"Poise under stress" is what Bobby Jones calls it.

A good golfer or a good driver lets nobody hurry or rattle him.

How many times in your day's driving today did you "blow up?"

There ought to be loving cups for people who make exceptional driving records. I'd give a cup, for example, to William Lavin, a chauffeur of Toledo, who has driven 500,000 miles without an accident.

"You've got to give more than you take," says Mr. Lavin. "Even if you have the right of way, it doesn't mean you have to take it. It's only a matter of half a minute to stop or slow down." And "I always give the pedestrian the right of way. If he walks into your car, he won't damage it. But if you drive into him . . ."

There's a man I nominate for the National Safe Driving Championship—and a loving cup. Can you beat him?

FAIR PREVENTION

We've got just about the best "preventers" in these parts we ever heard of. January was not very old, and there had not been very much Centennial publicity in any newspapers before a few interested souls here got interested in a "Midget Centennial" right here in Coryell County.

"Fair Preventers" got busy, the proper committees were named, a nomination committee was named and they nominated a "Fair Preventers" committee which has proven Ace High in this capacity.

Today is October 13 and there is no Fair in sight. A perfect job of fair prevention has been done! Still, we have no fair. Shame and a disgrace! But what can be done about it? The committee has been appointed, delegated with the sole authority, and have done a swell job of "Fair Prevention." So. What?

In The Legislature

By Senator Poage

Apparently there is a well organized group in the House that wants to force a second called session this fall. This group includes a majority of those who are going out (Lame Ducks), and they are being very powerfully helped by the anti-tax special privilege group who want to see that no new taxes are levied. Of course, it has always been a practice if those who are opposed to all new taxes to waste so much time as they could at the beginning of the session, while they will probably pass some kind of a tax bill in the latter part of the session it will likely be sent to the Senate to late that it can not be intelligently acted upon, and then they hope to kill it in the Conference Committee. It should be borne in mind that the Senate can do nothing in this connection until the House passes some kind of tax measure and send it over to us, as our constitution makes it impossible for a tax measure to originate in the Senate. Consequently, both groups, those who are simply wanting to stay here and draw the pay and those who are primarily interested in defeating all tax measures, have united to delay consideration of the tax bills to prolong the hearings thereon, to refuse to pass any tax bills at this time and to drag out all of the investigation they can, thus making the chances if getting any action at this session more remote. Certainly the votes in the House Thursday, where they refused to set a tax bill for special order today and where they refused to ask the committee to report on these measures in thirty hours, are both indicative of the desire of members to delay the proceedings. I can see no other reason for asking for prolonged hearings on these tax bills. This very Legislature has heard the argument on every one of these tax bills, and know the objections of the respective lobbyist by heart. I feel that it might be of material help if the Governor would definitely and firmly announce that under no circumstances would there be another session called of the 44th Legislature, and I believe that if some of the Lame Ducks who are simply wanting to stay here sixty days would section 4, ar-

Article 3 of the Constitution, which limits the term of a member of the house to two years "from the time of his election." I am inclined to think that there might not be so much delay.

October 6, 1936

There seems to have been a complete change of attitude on the part of the House of Representatives over the week end. Last week I mentioned the possible effects of the proposed investigation if the passage of revenue measures by this session. Since that time the House has been fit to devote one entire week of the session to an investigation of the Old Age Assistance Commission with the House sitting as a committee of the whole which investigation, it seems to me, should have been carried on by some small committee while the House should have devoted its time to the passage of some revenue bill. In the meantime, there has been practically nothing the Senate could do as all revenue or tax raising bills must, under our Constitution, originate in the House, but beginning yesterday morning the members who want to get something done seemed to have taken control and last night, the House Committee on Revenue and Taxation made a favorable report on the so-called Omnibus Tax Bill. Of course, this is only the first step—the bill must pass the House on two separate votes, then be heard by the Senate Committee, then pass the Senate on two different votes, and then probably go to the Conference Committee of the two houses, and then the report of the Conference Committee must be adopted without amendment by each House, but it is encouraging to see some progress made.

There are at least two groups who want to delay action. The first group are those Representatives who are opposed to taxing anything, particularly oil, sulphur, utilities, pipe lines, etc. This group is present in every Legislature, but at this time delay is vital to the success of their plan, as they know that every day's delay means thousands of dollars saved to the industries they want to protect, and if they can postpone action so that no tax is levied this session, they will have saved their friends at the expense of the old people of the State. This group is able, intelligent, and ruthless. Fortunately they do not constitute a majority but where you add, to their forces the group of selfish members who are interested chiefly in prolonging the session that they might draw their pay, you probably account for a majority of the House, and this situation is making it difficult to get any action on tax bills. Nor do I want to be understood as intimating that all of the opposition to tax bills is in the House. I fear that when these bills reach the Senate, there will be the same prolonged fight against any tax that will fall on those able to pay and the same effort to unload the tax on the masses of people thru a sales tax.

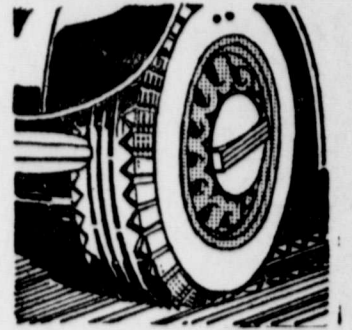

Personally, I am still for a tax system that will place a major portion of the burden on the natural resources of the State. In this way, and only in this way, will we be able to shift any considerable portion of our tax burden out of the State. We are still paying taxes in Texas to support the manufacturing states of the North and East every time we buy their products, but we have absolutely refused to force them to help support our own state government. Nor will we solve this problem by adding some fraction of a cent to the tax on oil. This is not a gesture. If we are to adopt a real policy of taxing natural resources, we must recognize that we must levy a substantial tax. A tax of 5 cents per barrel on oil and $1.50 per ton on sulphur might care for the pensions at this time, and is probably as far as we hope to go, but I had rather see us put 10 cents on oil and $2.00 on sulphur and abandon the State Ad Valorem Tax as well as care for the old people. In this way we could carry out two promises that most members have made to the people—care for the old people and reduce the ad valorem taxes resting on the people.

Both the House and Senate have given some work to the Unemployment Insurance problem which the Governor has submitted. The House has passed a bill on the subject but did so without any consideration or discussion. The Senate is conducting hearings on the subject before the Committee on Labor, of which I am a member. This State will probably pass such a bill in order to salvage what it can from the pay roll tax that has levied by the Federal government. Under the terms of the Social Securities Bill, the Federal government levies a tax of 3 per cent, 2 percent and one per cent on the first two years on all industrial pay rolls of eight or more employees. This money goes into the general treasury of the United States. However, if the State sets up a so-called "approved" plan of unemployment insurance, any tax credited for that purpose may be credited by the employee up to 90 per cent on (Continued on last page)

Gatesville Comes From Behind in 2nd Half to Gain Third in a Row

By J R Saunders

In a dazzling rough and tumble exhibition the Gatesville High Hornets successfully overcome the traditional jinx last Friday afternoon to defeat the Valley Mills Eagles 13 to 7. Supported by a fighting line crossed pay dirt twice to put the locals ahead in the scoring, and then hung on their lead with a bulldog grip until the final gun.

It was a case of two green inexperienced teams meeting, with the Hornets proving their mettle under fire by virtue of superior coaching, material and training.

The game was marked by several mistakes on the Hornet's part, but no more than is due a green team. Valley Mills scored through a badly called play and Gatesville had a chance to score two more touchdowns, but failed to realize opportunity when it knocked. As a green team, meeting opposition for the first time however, the Hornets performed well, and proved themselves a very definite threat in the district title race.

High Spots of the Game
On the second play of the game a pass from Byrom to Baker was good for thirty-five yards, causing the fans to go into hysterics. Valley Mills then held the Hornets and Baker got off a good kick to the enemy 20 yard line. On sweeping reverses the Eagles fumbled on the first play, and Wallace recovered for Gatesville on the 10 yard line. White and Baker started pounding the line and on the fourth down White plunged over through a beautiful hole opened by the center of the line. Hinesly failed to convert, leaving the score Gatesville, 6 and Valley Mills 0, in the first five minutes of the game.

In the middle of the second quarter, Asa Horq, smashing Eagle quarterback, intercepted Byrom's pass to McDonald and raced 45 yards to a touchdown without a Hornet man touching him. Valley Mills converted the extra point and at the half the score still remained Valley Mills 7 and Gatesville, 6.

Beginning a drive from mid field in the early part of the third quarter, the Hornet power plays began to open up. The Eagle forward wall began to wilt under the driving slash of Gatesville's powerful line and Baker, White and Colgin successively ripped off nice gains for three first downs to place the ball on Valley Mills' 10 yard line. White ripped off 5 five yards through center of the line and on the third down Baker smashed over through a gaping hole for the Hornets second marker. White converted the extra point, going over standing up. The Hornet line looked impressive in paving the way for this winning touchdown drive.

With seven minutes to go until the end of the game, Valley Mills completed a long pass that would have scored had not the receiver stepped out of bounds on Gatesville's 20 yard line.

Wallace recovered a fumbled Eagle pass to stop their fighting rally momentarily. Joe Baker smashed through the line for a nice 20 yard gain, but the play was called back on a penalty. After failing to gain, the Hornets called a pass on the fourth down, which failed, and Valley Mills took possession of the ball on Gatesville's 45 yard line.

The Eagles started their final goal line drive with a desperate passing attack. Five passes were good for three first downs, with the Hornets apparently able to do nothing about it. The game ended with the ball in Valley Mills possession on Gatesville's 20 yard line with only one yard to go for a first down.

The game drew a great deal of comment as to the ability of the Hornets. Many of the "Monday-morning" quarterbacks say that Gatesville lucked out on Valley Mills and deserve no real credit for the game. Others say the Hornets played bangup football and will win the district hands down.

There is truth in both sides of the argument. Gatesville did get several good breaks that were important to winning the game. Their first touchdown came as a result of an Eagle fumble that set up a touchdown on the ten yard line. However, the reason for that fumble and recovery was the heads up and smothering defense work of the Hornets.

Valley Mills scored on an intercepted pass that probably shouldn't have been called when the running attack was performing creditably. However, if that so-called ill-timed pass had been good for a touchdown the quarterback would have been hailed as a smart general for crossing up the defense with an unexpected pass.

Gatesville outclassed the Eagles, and no matter how many their mistakes still deserve their victory on their football ability and not their luck.

Byrom and Colgin, flashes of the two preceding games, were bottled up last Friday as the tough Eagle ends smeared up most of their sweeper plays. Coach Larkin probably had his boys pointing for these two rabbit backs since he witnessed them run wild against Bruceville-Eddy. As it was, Baker and White emerged the stars of the backfield. Hitting the line with power and drive, these boys successively ripped off gain after gain that were responsible for the two Hornet touchdowns.

From end to end the Hornet line played stellar football. Every man played a jambup game with no particular star outstanding. All of Gatesville's gains were made through the line with the Eagles unable to stand the pressure the hard-charging Hornet forward wall put on. Line coach Freddie Schwarz is finally getting his boys to understand that touchdowns are made by going forward and not by standing still. The line was the greatest worry of the coaches before the season started, but already they are performing like veterans.

It appears that the town of Gatesville is at last getting football minded in a big way and has decided to support the team. There were as many, or more, Gatesville than Valley Mills people at the game last Friday. If a town gives support like that then a team naturally plays a better game. The game with Clifton next Friday night should draw the record crowd of the season, to date.

Clifton Cubs Next on List

Triumphant over three good opponents, the Gatesville High Hornets take on Clifton High in the third night game of the home season. Resuming war on the home gridiron, the Hornets are in fine shape for the Sweeping Swedes and are anxious to all another scalp to their string of victories. Gatesville emerged from Valley Mills game without an injury and will be up to their full strength for Friday night's battle.

With the floods over and all roads open, the game is expected to draw spectators from over all the county, some who will witness their first football game. The new stadium got off to a bad start when the rains detracted from the opening game with Moody, but Friday night should see a record crowd.

In honor of Gen. Munique Mexia, the city of Mexia will hold its Centennial Fiesta de Mexia October 15-17. The city was named for the distinguished Mexican who owned a large tract of land where the town now stands.

Make Your Own Exposure Guide

Pictures like this usually need an exposure different from that required for a landscape. It's better to know than to guess.

THE trouble with a good many amateurs is that they never get beyond the stage of happy-go-lucky shutter clicking. They keep on making haphazard guesses at exposures notwithstanding the indistinct pictures that too often result. They would be surprised at what they could accomplish as a regular thing if they really knew just what stop and shutter speed are needed with the type of camera they use for the existing light conditions each time they take a picture.

To be sure, exposure is a bit of a bugaboo even to the most experienced, which is why so many "advanced amateurs" use exposure meters. But, if you are still a guesser, nothing prevents you from learning to be a good one. Here is a suggestion to help you lick the problem.

Take the time some day soon to make an experiment with different stops and shutter speeds on the same subject. Have a pad of paper with you on which you have written the date, time of day and light conditions and the type of film. Then for every shot you make, put down the exposure data, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. Make two series of experiments like this, first with a group of persons, then with a landscape.

For the first experiment, why not get the cooperation of your family? Get them out on the lawn some afternoon and start shooting. Suppose it is not less than an hour before sunset and the sky is bright. Yours is a folding camera, with anastigmat lens, shutter speeds from 1/10 second to 1/100, and stops from f.6.3 to f.32. You have the family in the shade of a tree on a bright sunny day. An exposure of 1/25 second at f.8 seems right. Make that exposure No. 1 and carefully put down the data. Then make three other snapshots at f.8, No. 2 at 1/10, No. 3 at 1/50 and No. 4 at 1/100. Then make four more at f.6.3 and four more at f.11 at the same shutter speeds. This assortment has provided you with overexposures and underexposures of the same subject but surely several correctly exposed negatives at different stop openings under the same conditions.

Now get your photo finisher to make you the best possible prints of each negative. Then ask him to print all the negatives, in groups of four, on one sheet of paper, using the grade that will give the best print for the best negative of all. Result: you have learned something! And you will have a record to refer to of what different exposures will do to a picture and among them a correct one to emulate.

Do the same thing for a landscape picture, say at f.16, f.22 and f.32.

Right! The records will not serve precisely for other light conditions, but they will help you immensely to make the necessary adjustments. You will see for one thing that underexposure is a much more hopeless failing than overexposure; hence, in the future, you will tend to be more liberal in your estimates.

TEXAS PRESS COMMITTEE TO INQUIRE INTO TEXAS' FUTURE ADVERTISING

The Texas Press Educational Bureau of the Texas Press Association is mailing out this week an important questionnaire concerning future "advertising and selling" plans for "Texas of Tomorrow" following the close of Centennial year.

For some months the Texas Press Educational Bureau has been going into his matter very thoroughly with the hope that definite plans will be created and put into effect for an extensive publicity and advertising campaign throughout the nation as a follow-up of the great activity brought about by the Texas Centennial Celebrations during the year.

The purpose of the questionnaire being sent out is to get the reaction and recommendations from a cross section of Texas in the matter. If the returns are favorable, then the Bureau will co-operate fully in a campaign to secure the necessary funds.

Just as soon as the questionnaires have been filled out and returned, the Texas Press Educational Bureau will call a meeting of its committee at Austin to canvass the returns and make future plans according to information and inspiration shown in the questionnaire.

The mailing list of the questionnaire includes every newspaper and periodical and every Chamber of Commerce in Texas—including the Board of Directors of the three Regional Chambers, all members of the Texas Centennial executive groups, all members of both the houses of the Legislature, all state officials and many prominent and professional executives of Texas.

The personnel of the Texas Press Educational Bureau having this work in charge include representative members from every section of the state.

The LAST of the MOHICANS

RANDOLPH SCOTT • RINNIE BARNES • HENRY WILCOXON
A RELIANCE PICTURE • Released 1927 UNITED ARTISTS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: The year 1757. Cora and Alice Munro, daughters of Colonel Munro, are on their way to Fort William Henry, to join their father. With them is Major Heyward and an Indian guide, Magua. The guide betrays them; they are captured by the Hurons, but are rescued by Hawkeye, a Colonial hunter, and two friendly Mohicans, Chingachgook and his son, Uncas.

Chapter VI

FORT WILLIAM HENRY

At Fort William Henry, Colonel Munro awaited the arrival of his daughters, long overdue. He paced the ramparts like a restless lion, repeatedly asking the same question of the sentry:

"Any sign of Major Heyward's party?"

And received always the same answer: "Not yet, sir."

Suddenly the sentry pointed excitedly:

"Look! There's a flicker in the woods—like a torch light, sir."

Munro turned with relief to his aide. "Hurry! Send a detail to guide them in."

The words were scarcely out of rode along the lines, surveying the front. As they passed a group of Hurons, one of the Indians suddenly raised his rifle and fired to the lake, apparently at a brush-covered log floating in the water.

The French general reproached him gently: "Pardon, my friend," he said smiling, "We brought you here to shoot Red-coats—not floating logs."

The Huron half-turned, moistened a finger, and held it up against the wind, as he replied: "Log float against wind."

General Montcalm started. Other Hurons were now firing; bullets splashed around the log from all corners.

The cunning Hurons were right. Behind the log were concealed Hawkeye, his Indian friends, and their charges, the girls supporting themselves by clinging to the branches, the men paddling frantically with their free hands and their feet. Bullets whined past, some coming dangerously close. The swimmers redoubled their efforts; they were now quite close to the fort—in shallow water, in fact.

"We'll have to run for it!" Hawkeye cried.

As they rushed up the shore, the girls, impeded by their clinging skirts, half-dragged along by his mouth, however, when the whole woods seemed to burst into flame, dozens of bright points of fire at intervals of fifty feet.

Hawkeye and Alice

"The French!" The aide cried excitedly. "Sound the alarm!"

Montcalm had reached the fort ahead of time, by forced marches. The garrison was surrounded!

Colonel Munro moaned. "Alice—Cora—they'll never get through!"

He had no time, however, to dwell upon his personal anguish. The alarm sounded, British and Colonial troops were pouring out from the inner stockade, muskets in hand, to man the outer earthworks. The heavy guns were swung into position—gun crews rushed forward with ammunition. There began some desultory firing, but this ceased when it became apparent that the French were out of range.

Fort William Henry was little more than a log stockade, surrounded by earthworks built around heavy timbers, with a wide moat running around three sides. The unprotected side faced a wide lake, swampy on all sides and considered impassible. The French, therefore, when they invested the fort, built their own earthworks hardly extending to the water's edge.

The importance of the Fort as an outpost was indicated by the fact that General Montcalm, himself—the same who fell later before Quebec—headed the invading army. With him were his Huron allies—of whom Magua's band was a part. The French were superior not only in numbers, but also in artillery. Hope for the beleaguered forces lay in holding out long enough for relief to arrive.

This possibility formed the topic of Montcalm's conversation with his aides, as the French officers the men, Montcalm suddenly threw up his arm.

"Stop firing!" he shouted. "They're women."

The Hurons stared at him in amazement, but obeyed the order long enough to give Hawkeye and the others time to reach the ramparts to safety. The gates were thrown open to receive them, and hastily clanged shut. Alice and Cora flung themselves into the arms of their rejoicing father.

"My darlings!" Munro exclaimed. "You're safe, safe at last."

And turning to Munro, he said: "I'm very grateful. I'll never forget this."

"Don't thank me, sir," Heyward answered. "The credit belongs to this Scout, sir."

Munro turned to the Scout. "I hadn't suspected you as an ally," he said, smiling.

"I'm not," Hawkeye answered stiffly. "My only reason for helping the Major was because of the ladies."

"At any rate," Munro said, still smiling, "accept my thanks."

Alice, too, approached the scout, and laid her hand on his arm.

"Will you come to the Colonel's quarters?" she asked. "I want to thank you, too."

Heyward observed the affectionate gesture, and interposed.

"I'll attend to that, my dear, and reward him personally."

Hawkeye eyed him quizzically. "Any reward I've got coming from you, I can do without." And he turned on his heel and walked away.

"I wish," said Heyward irritably, "you wouldn't be so familiar with that fellow."

Alice stared after the departing figure of the scout.

"Duncan," she said, "you're talking like a fool."

A seven room house accommodating seven girls and a supervisor has been leased, by the Texas State College for Women (CIA) for practical work in home management. This is the third cotaget operated by the

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, Oct. 12—Appreciative papers are watching the new winter coat collections most enthusiastically. They're so different that even the keenest of shoppers mistake them for stunning outer tops of particularly distinctive ensembles. They're long and fitted, they're graceful without a single suggestion of bulk or shapelessness anywhere. The fur is attached, as decoration, not just thrown hit or miss anywhere on the wool.

A stone gray wool has a flaring skirtline, a neatly accented waistline with a gray suede belt; long, very modestly full sleeves, and shows silky rich brown nutris for the chest protector effect, the rounded moderate large collar and, the narrow bands around the cuffs. This coat will be especially smart with old gold dresses or a gray wool suit of a larker tone. The coat dresses up or down to whatever you decide to wear.

Tuxedo collars are big successes with girls at Texas College for Women (CIA). The plump individual looks inches thinner, even taller, and the tall can wear them with equal dash. The tuxedo collar of Pedsian lamb on gray wool dramatizes another high fashion note. It looks distinctly Russian with the flare to the skirt, the slenderizing long collar, and the wide, loose sleeves also cuffed with fur.

Silver fox is working into flattering collars on some of the black wool coats, and civet cat fur is especially smart on dull green coats.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

his payroll tax. Thus the states are practically forced to get into the plan because the tax is collected in an event an if the State does not set up a local agency the money all goes out of the State. If, however, the State sets up a plan that gains approval by the Federal Social Security Board, the unemployed of the State will in two years time become eligible under the bill.

We are advised, however, by a representation of the Social Security Board from Washington that all taxes collected by the State must be deposited in the Federal treasury and turned to the State when and as the Federal Board sees fit. In short, as I see it, this whole complicated plan is but an effort to avoid the constitutional provision which probably made it impossible for the Federal government to engage in this directly. This is important as there is no doubt but what this greatly increases the cost of administration. In fact, this is one of the most dangerous features of a number of Federal State agencies. The overhead is all out of proportion to the work to be done and there is no place where responsibility can be fixed. Each agency blames the other and no one, state or federal, seems to have authority to control the matter. It seems to me that we must adopt a policy that will make either the State or Federal government definitely supreme in each given field. W. R. Poage, Senator, Dist. 13.
