County Trustees Meet Wednesday Noon Guest of Lions at CCC Camp

A meeting of County wide trustees will take place in the district court room at 10:00 o'clock a. m. Wednesday, October 21.

Speakers of the morning are representatives of the County Board, A. M. Tate, Supervisor of District No. 15, C. M. Ellwell, Director of Rural Aid Division of the State Department, and J. C. McKelvy of Valley Mills school.

Adjournment will be at noon, when the trustees will be guests of the Lions Club and the CCC Camp, at the Camp.

Once or twice each year the trustees of all the schools of the county are called to meet for two or three hours. All school boards should have representatives present. School boards in independent school districts might reason that they manage their own school affairs, but where we have so many interlocking interests, such as high school tuition, transportation, and State Aid of other kinds, a common understanding is necessary if an intelligent administration of school interests is desired.

THREE PULLETS, OLD HEN AND COCKERELL TAKEN TO CENTENNIAL

Roy Chamlee, chicken fancier and breeder of fancy chickens here yesterday shipped three pullets, old hen, and a cockerell which will be entered in the National Rhode Island Red Association meet which is to be held at the Texas Centennial in Dallas.

Mr. Chamlee stated that since this is the "National" fi he is lucky enough to come back with ribbons or prizes, that will be some reason to have an enlarged head, and that he will know he has Some Chickens then.

Mr. Chamlee's chickens have taken numbers of banners in different shows, and it won't be much of a surpsie if he registers in the Dallas show.

Fred Robinson's Sheep Uphold Honors at the Centennial Big Shows

With 10 sheep in the flock 12 ribbons were won. The yearling ram placed first in his class. These sheep were in competition with some of the best breeders and showmen in the United States.

The entire Robinson flock was bred by Mr. Robinson himself. He contends that it is worth more to the industry for the exhibitor to have bred his own show sheep rather than to buy them throughout the country. Thus the animals on display are representative of the fine flock on some 300 registered sheep maintained on the Robinson Ranch near Pearl.

The well known showman, J. P. Heath, Argyle, Texas, fitted and is showing the Robinson sheep. This flock is now on display at the Denton County Fair. For the next showing they will be sent to the Centennial sheep and goat show at Dallas.

Representative Writes Relative to Public's Interests in Austin

Representative Earl Huddleston, who is in Austin attending the Special Session of the Legislature, has an interesting article for his constituency relative to matters being handled by the law makers in Austin.

Mr. Huddleston writes: "The session is about half over and we are getting along as well as could be expected, I think.

"The main question before the House is that of raising revenue to pay the Old Age pensions. I am working the best I know how to carry out the people's will on this subject. I think we should provide revenue at this time to pay our aged people and have worked and voted to this end. As I have stated, I think this should have been done when we here before.

"I regret that so large a number of our old people have not received their pay. I have taken the cases up with the Old Age Assistance Commission of each of these applicants who have written me about their pensions and I have asked them to assist each one.

"I am for any reasonable plan that can be worked out to pay these old people. I am always glad to hear from anyone from my district who desires to make any suggestions."

In addition, Mr. Huddleston sent copies of the House Journal which is a record of the work in that branch of the Legislature and anyone interested in these publications may see them at the News office.

Annual Red Cross Drive Is To Get Started in Coryell County Soon

Mr. Sanderson, special representative of the American Red Cross, recently visited with the Coryell County Chapter and while here assisted in the formulation of plans for the annual Roll Call. Immediately after the Roll Call there will be called a mass meeting of all members. At this meeting a board of directors will be elected which, in turn, will elect chapter officers.

Due to the fact that there have been many disasters in these last years there has been heavy demand on the national treasury. For this reason a special appeal for a more generous Roll Call is made.

M. B. Sasse, county chairman in conference with Mr. Sanderson has set the following goals for membership: Copperas Cove, 20; Coryell City, 10; Evant, 20; Flat, 10; Gatesville, 150; Ireland, 10; Jonesboro, 10; The Grove, 5; Levita, 5; Oglesby, 25; Osage, 5; Turnersville, 10. These goals have been set low enough purposely so they can be reached. Roll Call captains for each of these places will be named in the near future.

Dates for the Roll Call are from November 11 to November 30.

STOUT'S FURNITURE STORE TO OPEN HERE SOON; MAKING READY NOW

Stout's Furniture Store will be the title of the new furniture business to be opened here by Jake Stout and Francis Stout and will be located in the Stout Garage on West Main street.

In conversation with Mr. Stout Thursday, he stated that his stock of furniture had just started arriving and that he would have his complete stock in a short time.

Next door in conjunction with the new enterprise is Modern Radio Service, owned and operated by Robert Stout.

The Coryell County Teachers Association meets Saturday, October 24, in the Gatesville High School Auditorium at 10:00 o'clock.

The meeting will be divided into two sessions. First there will be a general session at which interests common to all will be discussed and announcements made. Then there will be meetings of the divisions as follows: High school division; Intermediate division, and Primary division.

Speakers for this meeting will include A. M. Tate and Miss Edgar Ellen Wilson, second assistant State Superintendent. Programs will be published elsewhere.

Teachers who are interested and expect to make teaching a business get much help and inspiration from teachers' meetings.

The County Superintendent hopes that teachers are so well informed as to attend institutes and summer schools that no one will plan to miss this meeting of the Association.

County School Board Adopts Bus Rules and Rates of Payments

In keeping with the State Department the County Board at its meeting on October 12 adopted the following schedule for salaries, expense, and bus payment: Salaries not to exceed $30 per month; expense not to exceed $40 per month; payment of one-fifth of cost of bus, or where bus is privately owned a reasonable rent may be paid, of sufficient funds remain after salaries and expenses are paid.

The board has no fund for transportation except the one and two dollars per pupil that is allowed by law. Bus lines should be arranged so that the income will pay the salary and expense. The County Board has a right to arrange the bus lines that it approves.

The County Board is as friendly to the transportation system as it can be, but unless it is placed on a safe financial basis it cannot become a permanent factor in our school system. The County Board will be glad to have any constructive suggestions that do not ask for funds which are not legally set apart for transportation.

Contracts will be signed as fast as they are filled out according to State and County requirements.

This matter will be discussed at the County Wide Trustees meeting Wednesday, October 21.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

Second Election Forecast
 The betting commissioners in the East are quoting odds of 9-5 on President Roosevelt. Lloyd's of London offer 3-2 on the chief executive.

In 1932 Lloyds offered 6-4 on Roosevelt; 1928, 13-7 on Hoover; 1924, 3-1 on Coolidge; 1920, 7-3 on Harding—all winners by decisive margins.

Out of the melter of bolts, party changes, new alignments, comes a series of straw polls attempting to name the winner of the presidential race before November 3. One of the two which has attracted wide attention will lose its reputation as a political prophet, for the results are contradictory. The Literary Digest gives the Republican nominee, Alf Landon, a lead of approximately 2 to 1 over his Democratic rival, while the poll conducted by the American can Institute of Public Opinion, under the direction of George poll conducted by the Ameri- landslide in the electoral college.

Of the two the Digest enjoys the greatest prestige due to accurate forecasts made on the last five presidential races in advance of the balloting. The 1932 poll differed from the actual major party popular vote of nearly forty millions by only three-fourth of one per cent.

Yet the possibility of any individual or organization accurately predicting the outcome of the November 3 balloting is more remote than at any time since 1916, when Hughes and Wilson ran neck and neck until the last count. The political situation of today is more complicated than at any time since 1912—the year Teddy Roosevelt's historic bolt from the G. O. P. standard. Resulting from the Hoover landslide in 1928 and the consequent rise of new leadership within the Democratic party, and the Roosevelt landslide of 1932, there really are no clearly defined party lines today. Orthodox Democrats—regular for forty years—are bolting to Governor Landon. Old time Republicans, to whom the word Democratic was heretofore heresy, flock to the support of the liberal messiah Franklin Delano Roosevelt. A third party springs up, backed by such conflicting principles as Dr. Townsend's $200 a month pension plan and Gerald Smith's fantastic dream of a Share-the-Wealth movement, and makes a weak bid for the support of the radical agrarians of the Northwestern farm bolt.

Inspired by boldness, certainly not by intelligence, your writer ventures to make a prediction, not as to the winner, but as to the state which the respective candidates will carry November 3.

Making such prediction with any degree of sincerity to the readers of this column has entailed a comprehensive study of political conditions as far back as 1888—for instance, the number of times a Republican state has voted Democratic or vice versa, in a national election throughout a number of years will naturally reflect to a certain extent how that state will go this year.

Your writer does not know whether Roosevelt or Landon will be the choice of the people next month. But I am in the same boat as thousands of contemporary writers and so I venture a guess—not on the spur of the moment, I assure you, but after intense study of all factors which I believe will effect the outcome of the election.

In September we expressed a blief that Roosevelt would carry 29 states with a total of 263 electoral votes with a reasonable amount of effort on the part of local and national committees. Landon was conceded 15 states with a total of 152 electoral votes. Four states with a total electoral vote of 116 were classed as doubtful.

This article includes no "doubtful" classification. All states are places in either the Republican (Landon) column or in the Democratic (Roosevelt) column. This is not to infer that the Midwestern states, generally regarded as "doubtful" prognosticators as "doubtful", have swung definitely to one of the major party candidates. There have, however, been developments which tend to give one of the candidates advantages in the several states of doubtful classification.

Lemke, the North Dakota representative running on the Union Party ticket, we dismiss at the start as being unable to carry a single state even with the backing of such politically powerful names as Father Coughlin and Dr. Townsend. There is an possibility that Lemke may be the deciding factor in several key states, depriving either Landon or Roosevelt of a state which they would ordinarily have carried, by taking enough Democratic votes to swing the state to Landon, or the other way around.

The Democratic cause received a big boost in Minnesota when the Democratic candidates for governor and senator, respectively, withdrew in favor of the Former-Labor candidates, thus effecting an amalgamation with the party that controls the state government. Roosevelt's lead is not impressive in Wisconsin, due to the fact that the local Democrats have put up a candidate against Governor Philip La Follette. the attitude the brothers La Follette.—Senator Bob and Governor Phil—assume at voting time toward the President will probably determine the outcome in Wisconsin.

New York, from all statistics available, is destined to enter the Republican column again this year. Being Roosevelt's home state, there will naturally be many skeptics to this assertion.

Pennsylvania, in my opinion, is more doubtful than New York, traditionally Republican, voting for Hoover in 1932, the state has nevertheless shown decided Democratic leanings in the last four years, electing a Democratic state administration and a majority Democratic congressional slate and senator. Although Governor Landon is apparently in the lead in the Quaker State, there is a distinct possibility that November will see he state go for Roosevelt.

On October 30, a final compilation will be presented in this opinions of the election and our opinions on the election and our own revised figures from the two preceding election forecasts. A word of caution before reading below: The following figures, in so far as we know, do not correspond to any made by any poll or individual. In compiling the figures, each state was submitted to a careful statistical review and there was no reference made by the writer as to the grand total until a definite opinion had been made on each of the forty eight states. In other words, the writer's personal opinions had nothing whatsoever to do with the outcome of this political forecast, which we present below:

The New England region.— All for Landon, 41 electoral votes.

The Middle Atlantic region.— New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania, for Landon, 102 electoral votes; Maryland and West Virginia for Roosevelt, 30 electoral votes.

The Southern region.— All for Roosevelt, 94 electoral votes. The lower Mississippi region— Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana for Roosevelt, 56 electoral votes.

The North-Central region.— Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, for Landon, 74 electoral votes; Indiana

Raye Virginia Rayford Weds Woodland Meador.

The marriage of Miss Raye Virginia Rayford, daughter of Mrs. Laura Priddie Rayford of this city, and Woodland Meador of Stephenville, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Meador of Valley Mills took place at high noon Wednesday in the First Baptist church of this city with the pastor, Rev. Clarence A. Morton officiating.

Palms and ferns were banked in profusion about the altar space and pedestal baskets filled with beautiful golden chrysanthemums were placed against the green background.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Sammy Martin of McGregor sang "Because" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ola Mae Parks who played the wedding marches and played softly during the ceremony.

The bride entered with her uncle, T. P. Priddie Jr. of Houston by whom she was given in marriage. Her suit of sapphire blue wool was street length and the coat was trimmed with an enormous grey fox collar which she wore over a smart silver metallic tunic fashioned with a high rolled neckline. Her small off-face hat was a shiny metallic creation and her arms were filled with a lovely bouquet of pink rose buds and bouvardia. For sentiment's sake she wore her grandmother's engagement ring and carried a wedding handkerchief belonging to her aunt.

The maid of honor, Miss Patricia Priddie of Houston and cousin of the bride, wore a smart frock of Nile green made with a bodice of shirtwaist design with long sleeves fastened with tiny self covered buttons. The slender skirt swirled in smart ripples extending street length. She wore a green felt hat with a simple ornament and all other accessories were black. Her corsage was of pink briar-cliffe roses and silver statice.

Mrs. L. K. Thomson Jr.,

who served as matron of honor, was lovely in a model of wine crepe made tunic style trimmed in grey buttons and grey military braid. She wore a grey tucked turban and a corsage of pink roses and silver statice.

W. T. Hix of this city served as best man to the groom and Chestnut Nowlin of Valley Mills and L. K. Thomson Jr. of this city were ushers.

The couple left immediately following the ceremony for a honeymoon trip to San Antonio and points south, and will be at home in Stephenville Friday, October 16.

Mr. Torbett said the flue was in good condition and the fire was caused by sparks on the outside of the flue.

The Turnersville Baptist Church will engage in a week of services beginning next Sunday, October 18.

There will be no morning services but the pastor will speak each evening at 7 o'clock. The central theme for these services will be Stewardship.

The membership of the church is especially urged to attend these services and the general public is given a cordial invitation.

KILLEEN SCRUBS 0, GATESVILLE SCRUBS 0 IN GAME WEDNESDAY

Killeen Scrubs came over on Wednesday and attacked the Gatesville Scrubs, going home with no more than they brought, barring a few bruises resulting from a scoreless tied football game played by the youngsters of the two squads.

A "good time" was had by all, and a bunch of fighting hornets and fighting Killeenites will result from friendly set-to's like this.

One local boy is reported to have said, "Papa, I had a man 165 pounds to buck, but believe me, he didn't get me out!" That's building spirit, punch, grit, and character, if we want to get editorially in a news story.

Cotton being King in this part of the country, looks like business ought to be just about 3,563 bales ahead of this time last year, and the condition of the producers' pocket books, too.

The cold germ is a constant threat to your health during winter because leading doctors tell us that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases start with a "common cold." And the invisible but dangerous cold germ finds one of his best opportunities in homes where occupants are most liable to sudden changes of temperature. Therefore, it is a wise precaution to avoid the possibility of sudden changes of temperature in your home this coming winter by providing a constant circulation of pure warm air throughout the house.

Hornets Are All Set for Clifton Cubs' Air Barrage

Game Expected to Draw 3,000 Spectators from Over County

With three victories behind them, the Gatesville High Hornets go up against some of the stiffest competition in Class B football, when they meet the strong Clifton Cubs in the Stockyard Stadium tonight.

On paper, Clifton does not look as strong as Valley Mills but woe to him who tries to place his bets by statistics. Valley Mills defeated Cranfill's Gap 53 to 0 while Clifton only beat them 45 to 0. With the defeat of Valley Mills by one touchdown then Gatesville looks like she is to be about two or three touchdowns stronger than Clifton according to the law of comparative results. A football team is too temperamental, however, from which to expect consistent returns.

The Hornets can and may, make Clifton look sick, and in return Clifton may also whip the local's ears off.

Special practice sessions have been devoted, this week to the art of pass defense, a weak feature in the Gatesville Machine. Results have been secured and the visitors may be surprised to find their aerial attack failing to gain. The entire Clifton team and coach were at the Gatesville-Valley Mills game and saw Valley Mills run the Hornets ragged in the final period with a desperate attack through the air. They probably have rosy dreams of what they will do to Gatesville via the overhead route, but they are due for a sad awakening.

The Hornets should do something themselves by passing. Wicker, Hinesly, Jones and Laxon are four rangy ends who can gather the pig skin at nearly every toss, and Byrom and Colgin are rapidly improving their slinging ability. Last Friday a pass from Byrom to Hinesly demonstrated the potential threat of the Hornets passing game, which will be more dangerous than ever tonight. Gatesville boasts of probably the best line in the district. Averaging 163 pounds from end to end, it is composed of men who are fast and hard charging.

So far, it has been a better defensive wall than offensive. Very few gains have been made through it this season and all of those were short thrusts that the line backers had no trouble stopping. Last Friday all of the Hornet gains were made thru the center of the line, Valley Mills apparently being able to do nothing with the hard fighting Hornet forward wall.

The prices of the game tonite have been lowered to 10, 15 and 25 cents, which is a very smart move on the part of the officials. The new stadium should see a capacity crowd tonight for the first time this season. Gatesville and Coryell county have not become sufficiently football-minded yet, where they will pay forty-cent admission and still enjoy the game. Twenty-five cents is a reasonable price and within the reach of most everyone. With the ideal weather prevailing there should be a crowd of some 300 people tonight.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE SITUATION

To bet on a Southwest Conference team this season a man must be either an optimist, insane or drunk. The loop is scrambled worse this fall than in many moons, and how it will end not even Major Bowes knows.

To begin with, S. M. U. played an outclassed Fordham team off its feet only to have a substitute Ram back intercept on of their passes and run 67 yards to the goal line for the only tally of the game.

"Slingin' Sammy" Baugh, the Sweetwater Menace, went into the last half of the Tulsa-T. C. U. game and saved the day for the Froggies by passing them to a 10 to 7 victory.

The A and M Boy Scouts came through with their usual 3 to 0 win over the Rice Owls to continue freely along the victor's path.

Baylor had Arkansas by their corkscrew tail until the last quarter when the Bears gave completely out and the Porkers ran over them at ease to win 14 to 10.

Texas halfway surprised fans by defeating Oklahoma 6 to 0 and the Saturday afternoon was complete with slightly bleary-eyed fans staggering off to bide their time until next Saturday when they can guess 'em wrong again.

NEW G-MAN TYPE FILM IS COMING TO THE REGAL SATURDAY NIGHT

An entirely different and unusual type of G-Man picture is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Regal Theatre beginning Saturday night 10:30, under the title of "Public Enemy's Wife," a Warner Bros. production in which Pat O'Brien, Margaret Lindsay, Robert Armstrong and Dick Foran have the lead parts.

The picture is said to be crammed with thrills, including the overpowering of guards on a train and the escape of a gangster killer; the attempted murder of the bridegroom of the divorced wife of the killer; the kidnaping of the bride; a gun battle between G-Men and the criminal band in their hide-out; the seizing of a ship chartered by the gangsters in which they plan to flee the country, taking the young bride and captured secret service operatives with them. In this climatic scene there is another and fiercer gun fight, with the chief of the crooks meeting his death.

While O'Brien plays the featured leading part, Miss Lindsay has the title role. She is a beautiful and cultured woman who falls for the blarney of a smooth and handsome crook and marries him. Her husband having been apprehended for a crime, he lets his wife take the "rap" with him although she is absolutely innocent.

After serving her term in prison, she tells her husband, who still has some years to serve, that she intends to divorce him and start life anew. He informs her that the reason he let them convict her was to keep her away from the other men, that he loves her desperately, and that if she ever attempts to marry and one else, he will get out of prison in some way and kill the man.

O'Brien, ace G-Man and his partner, Robert Armstrong, still think Miss Lindsay knows about the crime, and she is unable to convince them that she knows nothing whatever about either the gang or its operations.

Recuperating at Palm Beach, Miss Lindsay is wooed and won by Dick Foran, a rich play boy who insists on an immediate marriage. Her killer husband hears of it, offers to testify against other members of the gang.

REV. MORTON BEGINS 7th YEAR AT 1st BAPTIST

DOINGS OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE

W. R. Poage, Senator, Dist. No. 13

October 13, 1936

Both houses have been hard at work this last week. The House and Senate have each passed a bill on Employment Insurance, but so far no conference committee has been appointed. I feel sure, however, that this will be done in the near future and that some bill on this subject will be passed.

The House has been showing some sign of really trying to pass some tax measures, although so far their efforts have not been distinguished by any very well thought out plan. The sales tax people are still active and are hoping to put a sales tax on at the end of the session. They are shrewd and patient and expect to capitalize on the confusion of a parliamentary jam at the end of the session and then to tell the membership that they must take a sales tax or nothing. They have the tremendous advantage of friendly presiding officers in the Speaker and Lt. Governor. These two gentlemen control the personnel of all conference committees as well as to practically determine what can be brought up in the last days. The great majority in both of the Houses is opposed to sales tax, but most of the opponents are rather luke warm and many of them say, "well it looks like we will be forced to vote for a sales tax." Of course these men talked in a different vein last summer and would do so now if the people were heard from as loudly as are the representatives of the interest who are favoring this tax. In short the members get away from home and more or less forget the struggles of the people, or as Senator DeBerry says—"They get millionaire dust in their eyes."

Do not think, however, that all of the members have forgotten the people they represent or the promise they made. Only yesterday the House mustered a majority of one vote to pass a five cent tax on oil and would have probably made it stick but for the fact that the presiding officer immediately recognized a motion to recess, rather than to follow the customary practice of allowing the winning side to reconsider and table and thus make final its victory. During the night the pressure was put on and the highest paid lobbyist of the best financed lobby of them all was hard at work on the weak-kneed brothers and the wires were hot bringing in absent recruits. Last night you could hardly find a House member about Austin. The oil lobbyist were entertaining all of them that they could get and this morning their efforts were rewarded. The same House by a vote of 76 to 61 reversed itself and reconsidered the tax it had levied the day before. I want to say, however, that Representative Huddleston of Coryell county stood fast and voted as he had promised he would—for the tax on oil.

This afternoon the House voted down a four cent tax on oil by a vote of 68 to 3. Jones, Cagle, Ford, Huddleston, Newton, Lemens and Hodges of our district all voted for it as they did the five cent tax.

While the House has been working on an oil tax, the Senate has been holding hearings on the so-called Omnibus Tax Bill which came over from the House yesterday morning. With in less than half an hour after this bill came over from the House, The Senate had it referred to the State Affairs Committee and that Committee sitting in the Senate Chamber and attended by most of the Senate has been hearing from various affected interest since and is still in session. The bill that the House sent over has been widely heralded as a measure that will solve the tax problems, but the State Tax Commissioner just since noon appeared before the committee and estimated that the bill would only produce about $6,000,000 per year of new revenue, and this morning the pension director estimated that if his office were to go on all of the pension applications now on file we would have about 140,000 on the rolls by the first of the year, and that if they were paid out an average of $16 each per month with the State paying one-half off it would take $13,440,000 to cover the States part next year and an additional $5,183,00 to pay on the back installments due since July on a total of $18,623,00 which would mean that this bill would lack around $12,000,000 of producing enough money to care for the pensions. At the same time, this bill levies taxes on all kind of small industry and business. It taxes all amusements, hotels, mineral water, mutual life insurance, mortgage notes, etc. and transfers one-third of the cigarette tax from the school fund to the old age pension fund. It may be that this is the only way we can start paying the pensions, but I cannot believe so as long as we let oil, gas and sulphur go practically untaxed. These people would put a tax of 42 cents per barrell on mineral water that is used for baths and is given free to the crippled children at Marlin, and which has no sales value, but they will not vote to put even four cents per barrell on oil. They put a tax of $100 per ton on mineral crystals and vote against a $2.00 tax per ton on sulphur.

The Senate has passed a resolution to cooperate with the Federal Government in the permanent agriculture plan so that this State may receive a maximal plan. We also passed a mum of benefits under the Federal resolution, which I wrote and introduced calling the Federal government to speed up its proposed aid to the Brazos River District that we might get work started on the flood control program. We have also just passed another resolution which ### Appropriate Services Held Last Sunday in Recognition of Six Years of Service to the Church and Community by Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Morton.

As a prelude to the morning service last Sunday, and a surprise to the pastor and family, came the recognition by the church of the beginning of the seventh year's service together of Rev. and Mrs. Morton, and the First Baptist Church of Gatesville.

Edgar Franks came to the front after the opening hymn and asked permission to bring to the memory of the church its call, six years ago to this man of God and earnest preacher, and the joy and hope the church experienced on his acceptance. He facetiously remarked that there was, however, one misgiving at that time, the thought that Mrs. Morton seemed too young to be called "Sister," as is the church's loving custom; but, that now "time" had removed that one and only thought that gave them pause.

Mr. Franks then introduced Mr. Dan E. Graves, who spoke feelingly and tenderly of the beautiful relationship existing between pastor and church, recalling how Bro. Morton came to the church during the terrible depression and the most discouraging hour of its existence. He recalled the gloom which fell upon the church when it was discovered their building was unsafe, and they must build even in this most strenuous time. He spoke of the inspiring courage of the pastor, the heroic effort of the church, and now the happy consummation; a beautiful building, a much increased budget, and a greatly enlarged membership. Mr. Graves showed by figures that $75,424 had been contributed during that time; that 377 had joined by letter and 328 by experience and baptism; and that the net gain for the period is 467.

Mr. Graves closed his remarks by quoting the words of Peter to the man at the Gate Beautiful: "Silver and gold have we none, but such as we have give we unto thee"—our prayers, our cooperation, our love, our thankfulness for your abiding, helpful service, and hopes and prayers for its continuance through the years. As he finished, the church stood to express acquiescence in the beautiful tribute.

Bro. Morton responded with a touching and heart-warm acknowledgement of his love for the church, his deep appreciation for their very act of devotion and sacrifice. He expressed the hope that God would continue His favor upon this joyous relationship and their continued service together. The pastor then preached a sermon of strong appeal. His text was "Choose this day whom you will serve" after which three young couples asked for membership. At the evening hour the ordinance of Baptism was administered.

THE SURGICAL RACKET

Performed in rural areas particularly, this is the story of the newest that is keeping the "G" men busy.

Most of the victims have been persons suffering from eye troubles. The "lead-off" men travel over the country selling cheap eye glasses, the "lead-off" tips off the other gang members. In a few weeks they come thru the district, and making their appearance at the home of a victim appear accidental, relate that they are eye specialists.

In many cases they have convinced the patient he should submit to an operation, and the operations are performed right in the victim's home. Then the specialist collects an exorbitant fee. The operation of course is a fake and the patient is not benefited for he has never had eye trouble.

We Need Cooperation

Did you ever notice that little sentence carved on a certain desk in our school that means so much to the success to any school? That sentence, "We Need Cooperation," is the slogan that can either make or break any organization. If we don't have it—we'll break, and if we do have it—we're made.

This is just a plea for all new students, maybe you do feel lost, as well as old students to boost our school, and enter wholeheartedly into its activities and put this school-year over. It can be made a year that will go down in school history if we'll try. If you are a good student, consider yourself necessary to this organization. You are important to us and we want to be important to you—we need cooperation.

Pep Rally

A pep rally was held in the gymnasium this morning which spurred the hearts of our football team on to thoughts of victory. Several inspiring talks were made by the businessmen of our town.

The past week Miss Durham, with the help of the pep squad girls, has been gathering boxes from the downtown stores and putting them somewhere in the vicinity of the old football field. After the Hornets' next victory immediately following the usual parade, a bonfire will be held in this particular place. All of Gatesville is invited.

The Junior High

The newly completed football field will soon be pushed out of the spotlight, for before long, the construction of the Junior High School will begin.

It will accomodate the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. This will not only reduce the large number in High school, but the first grade will be allowed to move into the elementary building.

Dramatic Club

The High School Dramatic Club held its second meeting Wednesday, October 7.

Eloise Cook, captain of one of the four divisions, had charge of the program. It consisted of the reading of a mystery play—"At The Stroke of Twelve". The students taking part were Mary Ann Post, Jack Straw, Francis McCoy, and Patsy Olsen. Miss Durham read the negro part.

The meeting then adjourned after thirty minutes of good entertainment.

Gatesville-Clifton Game

After lasting the first round of the conference scramble, the Hornets will take on the Clifton team in the second conference game of the season. The Hornets came out of the game last week in fine condition, and are expected to give a good account of themselves under the arc tonite. Last week the Hornets went to Valley Mills and took the Eagles into camp by the score of 13-7. Here's wishing them luck this week, (they will need it).

Many people think this game is just a breather before the Mart game, but they are badly mistaken. The boys from Clifton will be over ready to shoot the works. Talk about giants, say, over there, if you aren't six feet tall you can't get on the team.

In the game at Valley Mills last week, Joe Baker showed the best form as he made many great plays, and also did a great job at the quarterback post while Colgin was out. Cotton Davis co-starred with C. H. Wallace in the line. All of the backfield played, an exceptionally good game, as did the linemen.

Although the Hornets have a harder contest than most people think, we are taking them and hoping that they will turn in a good game. We think the Hornets will take Clifton by the score 19-7.

Hornets Win First Conference Telt 13-7

Feathers flew thick and fast last Friday afternoon as the Hornets won their first conference game of the season by defeating the Valley Mills Eagles 13-7. Going into the fray as the favorites, they clearly showed their superiority over the boys in the green and gold. From start to finish the Hornets outclassed the Eagles in every phase of play.

Gatesville received the opening kickoff and advanced the ball to the Eagles 45 yard line before having to kick. On a reverse the entire Hornet line broke through and knocked the Eagle ball-carrier loose from the ball and co-captain Wallace recovered for the Hornets on the Valley Mills 15 yard marker, and on the fourth down, White drove Hinesly failed to convert.

In the second quarter, while the ball rested in the middle of the field, Baker, Hornet back, threw a pass that was intercepted by Ace Hord, Eagle quarterback, who galloped 55 yards for the only touchdown credited to Valley Mills. The kick for the extra point was good, putting Valley Mills in the lead by the slim margin of one point.

In the third quarter, Gatesville unleashed a furious running attack that the home boys could not cope with, Baker plunging over from the three yard line for the winning touchdown. On a fake place kick, White drove through for the extra point, making the final score thirteen to seven.

"The LAST of the MOHICANS"

RANDOLPH SCOTT • Binnie Barnes • HENRY WILCOXON
A RELIANCE PICTURE • Released 1936 UNITED ARTISTS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: It is 1757. The French General Montcalm is besieging Fort William Henry, defended by Colonel Munro. The Colonel's two daughters, Cora and Alice, on their way to the Fort, are betrayed by Magua, their Indian guide, and captured by Hurons. They are saved by Hawkeye, a Colonial scout, and his Mohican friends, Uncas and Chingachgook. They manage to elude the French and Huron pickets and to enter the Fort.

Chapter VII THE SIEGE

At French headquarters Montcalm and his officers held council of war. Magua was called in for consultation.
"How many Yengeese in earthen house?" Montcalm asked.
"Two thousand," answered Magua.
"And their wagon train?"
"Ten wagons," said Magua promptly.
"Good! They'll be short of provisions soon." Montcalm turned to an aide. "We start pounding tonight, M'sieur," he said.

Magua Stirs Up the Hurons

That night, within the fort, Uncas and Cora stood talking.
"I wonder if we'll ever meet again," said Cora softly.
"Some trails cross many times," said Uncas. "Some trails cross only once."
"I shan't forget you, Uncas."
"As many dawns as are mine," said Uncas solemnly, "so many shall my prayers be to the Great Spirit for the one with moon in her hair."
A short distance away, near a cannon-emburase, stood Hawkeye and Chingachgook, observing them. The old Indian spoke heavily.
"Fair hair make heart of Uncas weak," he said, "like water."
"Don't blame them, Sagamore," said Hawkeye.
The Indian eyed him curiously. "Hawkeye's heart like water, too."
He turned and slipped away into the darkness. Hawkeye stood leaning against the parapet, looking dreamily off into the distance, toward the lights of the French camp. A light footstep caused him to turn.
"Alice!" he cried.
The heavier tramp of men's feet was heard approaching. Alice slipped into the embrasure, drawing Hawkeye with her. A squad of sentries passed.
"I asked you to come and see me," said Alice, when the sentries were out of hearing. "You didn't. Why?"
"I'm not much of a hand at saying goodbye," said Hawkeye.
"You're leaving?"
"Yes."
"But you can't," said Alice, in dismay. "You'll never get through."
"I think I'll manage it," said Hawkeye shortly. There was a moment's pause. "I wasn't born to live in a stockade," he said.
"Neither was I," answered Alice, drawing closer to him.
Unaccountably, Hawkeye found himself holding her in his arms. A heavy burst of firing from the French cannon brought them both to their senses.
"The French guns!" Alice cried. She turned to Hawkeye quickly. "Hawkeye, why don't you stay? We need scouts."
Hawkeye nodded thoughtfully.

"Sounds like the French are changing my mind," he said.
Alice laughed delightedly. "I hope Montcalm is decorated for this," she cried.

For ten days the bombardment continued, without let-up. Yet the starved garrison, outmanned, held out against the superior forces, and the British flag continued to fly proudly over the battered ramparts.

The Colonials, however, were beginning to grumble. The promised relief army, under General Webb, had failed to arrive. Worse than their concern over their own fate, worse than the pangs of hunger, however, was their fear for the settlements — for their homes, their wives and children, with the Hurons over-running the countryside, apparently without challenge from the British armies. They were sullen and on the verge of mutiny. A group of them, given an order by Major Heyward, were openly defiant.

"I don't think General Webb was ever expected," one of them answered, "and I'm tired of fighting on an empty stomach to protect your skin."

The others murmured assent.
"Look here," said Heyward, "I give you my word that General

Webb started on the march with this as his destination.
"Suppose he doesn't get here?" the Colonial demanded.
"Then we have three choices," said Heyward firmly, "starving to death, fighting to the last man, or striking our colors. I promise you it won't be the last."
He turned on his heel and walked away.
"Well," said the Colonial, starting after him, "at least that's a straight answer."

A hasty council was held at Colonel Munro's headquarters. It was decided to send Uncas through with a message to General Webb. An Indian might slip through the surrounding army where a white man could not possibly succeed.

Uncas slipped through the gate, and broke into a loping run across the terrain separating the fort from the swamp. A French picket observed him and fired. The bullet missed the mark. An Indian marksman, with bow and arrow, was more successful. The shaft quivered from Uncas' shoulder. Uncas fell to the ground.

Without a moment's hesitation, Heyward dashed out of the gate. Hawkeye was about to follow him, but Colonel Munro checked him.
"Keep him covered, you fool!" the Colonel yelled.

Hawkeye nodded, and trained his carbine to protect Heyward. It was well that he did so. The Indian marksman had drawn his bow for another shaft. Hawkeye's bullet struck him fair between the eyes.

And now the whole French camp had taken alarm, and French and Indian warriors were rushing towards the wounded Uncas. But Heyward had already flung him over his shoulders and was headed back to the fort. Protected by Hawkeye's deadly aim, he made it in safety.

Hawkeye grasped his hand awkwardly. "He is my friend," he said. "I'm—I'm grateful."
Heyward ignored the proffered hand. "You needn't be. I didn't go to rescue him—but to keep this dispatch from falling into enemy hands."
