GRAVES FAMILY REUNION HELD LATE LAST WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Graves were visitors with relatives here. Mr. Graves is vice-president of the Federal Farm Loan Bank of Houston. Mrs. Cicero Graves of Waco, was also here attending the family reunion of the Graves, when Major-General and Mrs. W. S. Graves of Shrewsbury, New Jersey were the celebrants. Major-General Graves was the Commander of the American Expeditionary forces in Siberia during the World War.

The reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Graves, Dr. Ed Graves and Miss Josie Graves.

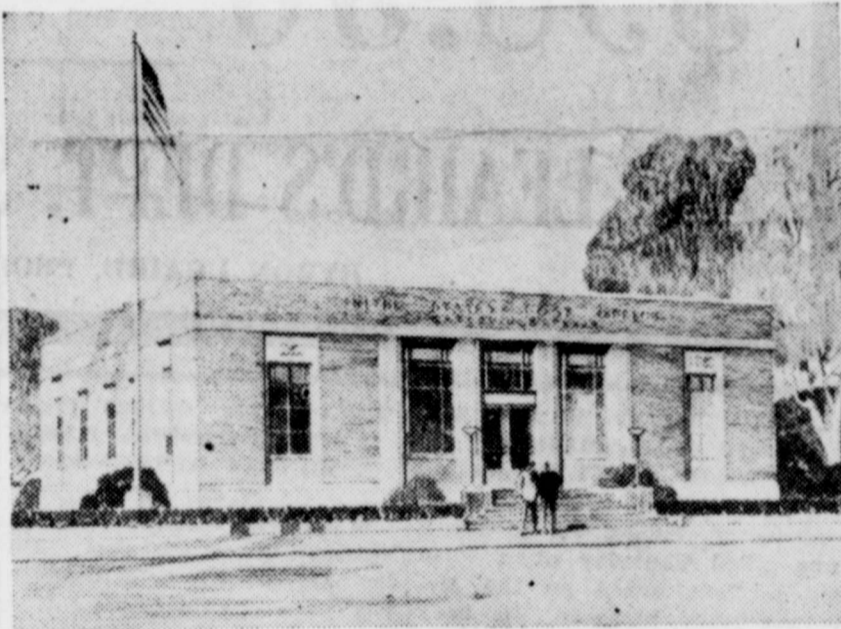

Actual construction of the new U. S. Post Office at Gatesville began yesterday morning, with T. C. Bateson, of the Dolph-Bateson Construction company of Dallas in charge of 15 men and three teams hitched to frenos started the excavation for the foundation.

H. Frank Price of Dallas, Superintendent of Construction for the company, will remain on the job in complete charge and C. A. Montgomery of Dallas, Carpenter Foreman, will be in charge of the carpenter work on the job.

Mr. Price said yesterday to a representative of the News that the cement would be placed as soon as possible, depending of course, on the weather, but that they hoped to be pouring the foundation by the latter part of next week.

Construction has started on the office and tool house, and lumber for this was moved on the premises yesterday.

According to Hurl McClellan, Postmaster here, the plans call for an outlay, when completed of some $72,000.00 A basement with a heating plant will be one feature, and a cement drive in the rear for the use of R. F. D. carriers and other conveyances in handling the mail will be built.

PAINTER'S SHOWS NOTHING IN WINDOW SUNDAY NEW FRONT

Some of us were worrying about why Painters didn't have something in their window Sunday, and yesterday construction started on a brand new front for this enterprising store. Representatives of a glass company were on hand taking out the old plate glass windows, and Frank Smith, contractor on the job, will re-work the front.

Specifications call for raising the show windows some 15 inches, and the front will be entirely modern, in black glass bases and supports, trimmed in shiny monel or other nicked finishes.

Things are going modern hereabouts, and this is just another step in the modernization of our city.

Mrs. G. B. McCombs of Dallas spent the latter part of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Matthews. Mrs. McCombs, before her marriage, was Miss Louise Matthews.

Funeral services will be held at Killeen today, Tuesday.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THE kids sometimes get funny ideas about what the grown folks are trying to teach them. Kids often bring home kinda twisted stories from Sunday school because they don't always understand the words and phrases they hear out of the Bible. There was a kid that was learning a lot about the Old Testament at Sunday School. He had heard about the Prodigal Son and was telling his mother the story when he got home.

"The worst thing about it," he says, "was when the old man hurt his throat."

"So?" says the mother. "I don't seem to remember about any throat trouble."

"Yeah, but there was. The Dad, running out to meet the kid that come home, hurt his throat. See, it tells about it here in the book. I can prove it to you."

And he pointed out in the story where it said that the father saw his son coming and run out and "fell on his neck."

The Tell Tale Squint

- a sign of Poor Home Lighting

If your child squints while reading or studying at home, don't overlook it. For squinting is often a tell tale sign of poor lighting.

Guard your child's sight—and your own—with better light. In rooms where members of your family read, study or sew be sure there is plenty of light, well shaded and free from glare. The whole room should be lighted, too, not just parts of it.

Poor home lighting can be corrected easily and inexpensively. Defective eyesight, on the other hand, is difficult to correct and sometimes costly. Play safe. Make sure that the lighting in your home conforms with safe seeing standards by having it measured with a Light Meter. We'll gladly perform this service for you free of charge. Phone for an appointment today!

The I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp (right) provides several times as much light as the ordinary lamp using the same amount of current. It is scientifically designed for safe seeing.

I. E. S. BETTER SIGHT LAMP

- 1 Wide opening at top throws light to ceiling, eliminating shadows.
- 2 Glass bowl softens light, prevents glare.
- 3 Wide shade plus extra height of lamp spreads light over wide area.

Bronstaad and Spangle Cubs Defeat Gatesville

Hornet Team Gives Clifton Mild Workout While the Fans Yawn

The Gatesville High football team, playfully called the "Fighting Hornets," entertained the Clifton High Cubs last Friday night in the new Stockyard Stadium.

The field was tastefully decorated in natural colors of green and contrasting stripes of white, with blazing lights overhead adding to the holiday spirit of the occasion. The happy cheering crowd was seated in the comfortable grandstands situated on each side of the playing field.

The Gatesville team arrived first on the field, as fitting their position of host of the occasion. The boys were dressed in well fitted golden uniforms with contrasting black stripes on the backs of the legs and black bars across the shoulders. The Clifton guests came on the field soon after, dressed in green football togs with smart green and white helmets.

After the customary greetings between the two captains it was arranged for the game to start and soon the boys were enjoying themselves with a rousing good game of football.

Mr. Bronstaad and Mr. Spangle of Clifton spent most of the evening throwing the ball back and forth between them and running across Gatesville's goal line which drew some comment from the spectators, especially when they knocked several of our boys down when they would run with the ball.

The Hornets, however, were all perfect hosts and gentlemen and did nothing to stop their visitors rough play. No grumbling or growling was heard from any of the Gatesville boys nor did they resort to the rough play of forcibly knocking a man off his feet as did the Cubs. The Hornets all played gentlemanly like and only tagged their opponents instead of tackling them. Gatesville would probably have made a touchdown themselves if the Clifton boys had not prevented it by rudely knocking down the man with the ball.

Prizes of 5 touchdowns were awarded to Mr. Bronstaad and Mr. Spangle, of the visiting Clifton eleven and the Hornets were given a large, lovely goose egg for their part in the game. The spectators and Gatesville coaches were given the figurative bag.

A lovely time was had by all, and everyone is eagerly awaiting the social with Mart to be held next Friday night, same place, same hour.

Through the weeping and wailing after the game last Friday night came the plaintive cry over and over, "I thought we had a football team!" It seems that everyone had the same idea, that the Hornets would win in a walk, including the team itself. That is, everyone but the Clifton team had the same idea. In spite of all the pre-game dope that was circulated so freely about the game, the Cubs paid no attention in the least, and came to Gatesville with the idea of winning and did win. It is not so astounding, for many teams upset the dope bucket every season, but this particular game was astounding in the way it was played.

It has been this writer's privilege to witness many football games, some good and some bad, but the game last Friday night was the sorriest exhibition of a team attempting to play football probably ever attempted in the world of sport.

"Pardon me, fellows, while I make this touchdown," said Bronstaad, big No. 23 of the Cubs, and the Hornets would obligingly stand aside while he galloped at ease down the field.

"Excuse me, gentlemen, while I throw this pass to Mr. Bronstaad," said Spangle, smart little No. 12, and the Hornet line would back off and allow the pass to be thrown.

If such a game had been played in professional circles, there probably would have been a senatorial investigation of it, because, speaking frankly, the whole thing stunk, stank, or what have you? Rotten is no word for such a disgraceful exhibition.

There could be alibis put up for the Hornets' losing, such as they were due a lose after the game with Valley Mills, but such an alibi would not be authentic. The Hornets lost because of one thing, Clifton took the ball and ran at will over the Gatesville Lord Fauntleroy's.

Gatesville from the start has been weak on pass defense. In the preceding three games all opponents have completed passes over them but in those games the defenders were at least trying to break up those passes. In the Clifton game the line backers looked sick when the Cub receivers went down the field. Only one pass out of the fourteen that Clifton tried was batted down by a Hornet man, and that only because of a bad, low pass that any grammar school boy could have broken up. Seven of the Cub passes were completed, two of which were good for touchdowns. Once or twice, a Hornet linebacker would feebly wave his hand at an enemy pass, but usually he would run along with the receiver, watch him complete the pass, and then trot across the goal line after him.

Three substitutes were the only outstanding men for the Hornets. Joe Ned Brown, Zack Fore, and Jack Hearne played a fair game in an otherwise sewing circle aggregation. Colgin called his poorest game of the season. Byrom had ten pounds of lead in each shoe, and Baker and White would have been more valuable on the bench.

The line, which at one time we called "the fighting line," couldn't have slapped a mosquito down. The ends stood out particularly, in the way in which they were successfully taken out of every play. Instead of using their hands to fight off the offense they merely threw them up over their heads as if they were shouting, "Stop right here, boys, you must go no farther."

Strange as it seems, the Clifton Fisheaters paid no attention to their frantic motions but rudely ran right over them. During the game one good, clean tackle was made by a Hornet player, and that was all. Bronstaad never had to duck his head to plow ahead. Running straight up he brushed by all the Gatesville tacklers' weak grasps at his shoulders and shook his heels in their faces.

Mart will show them no mercy next Friday night. Where Clifton allowed Gatesville to roll up sixteen first downs to their eleven, Mart will not be so considerate. The boys over there play football for keeps, and in addition to a powerful passing attack they have one of the best runners in the district in Sandig.

Clifton had nothing much except a passing attack, until Gatesville folded up, and then the Cubs ran over them at ease. Football is supposed to be a game for boys that don't give up when they are losing but fight harder.

Friday night gives the ex-fighting Hornets a chance to redeem themselves. We can't expect a win but we can look forward to a good, hard fight, (cross your fingers, please) that will give the spectators a good show.

Mart is virtually conceded the district championship. All we are wondering is how low Gatesville can hold the score.

Mart walloped Valley Mills 25 to 0 Friday night. That is just a slight indication of their strength. Gatesville had a tough time in defeating the Eagles 13 to 7, so draw your conclusions as to what Mart will do to Gatesville.

COPPERAS COVE BULLDOGS LOSE TO LOMETA

Lometa ran wild over Copperas Cove Friday to the tune of 32 to 0. This is the first time that our neighboring town has had a team, so they have some excuse for losing.

PECAN GROVE 4-H CLUB

Some of the members of the Girl's 4-H Club of Pecan Grove met Saturday, October 17, at the Pecan Grove school building to elect officers and learn new songs.

Miss Gibson, county home demonstrator, met with the girls, and the following officers were elected: Mildred Melton, sponsor; Virginia Davidson, president, and clothing demonstrator; Jewel Melton, vice president; Flossie Melton, secretary; Charlotte Davidson, bed room demonstrator; Freda Beaty, pantry demonstrator; Hazel Walters, reporter; Doris Arowood, Wilma Dean Ivy and Gene Scott in charge of programs.

Songs practiced will be used in a play to be given at Gatesville October 24. The girls are sorry to lose one of their members, the former Miss Hazel Scott, now Mrs. Hubert Morris, but wish her much happiness.

These Two Beauties Not Jealous of Each Other

These two beauties visited the Texas Centennial Exposition the other day for the first time. Miss Topaz Riles Centennial Queen of Hot Springs National Park, Arkansas went for the new 1937 Lincoln-Zephyr in a big way when it was introduced to the public at the Ford exhibit building. Miss Riles winner of many beauty and popularity contests, is a student of Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, and made the trip south especially to participate in the Centennial program at Dallas.

Good Photographs Are Worth Taking Care Of

Pictures like this you don't want to lose. The place for them is in an album.

POSSESSING the picture, turning to it repeatedly and showing it to friends are the chief delights of photography. Making the exposure is, to be sure, exciting. But the process is momentary whereas the product lasts.

Each print is proof of your handwork with a camera, plus a graphic reminder of some incident that thrilled you, occasion that you enjoyed, or place that you visited; plus an expression of what you saw in the subject at the time. Thus a picture can furnish permanent pleasure, a pleasure that may be shared with other people.

To be fully enjoyed, however, pictures must be treated like the valuable possessions that they really are. Soiled or broken prints, astray in boxes and drawers, can hardly be a source of pride to their owner.
They deserve proper care. Are your photographs a reproach to you in this respect? Here comes a dare!

Give yourself a photographic evening, devoted to organizing your pictures into a collection that you may be proud to show.

Assemble all your old negatives and pick out those for which prints are lacking. Some of the best may be missing. Almost everyone gives prints away and a collection that is planned without consulting old neg-atives is likely to be short of many fine specimens.

With your complete lot of pictures before you, classify them by topics or dates and put them into an album. Put them into an album—that's the remedy. There they will be safe from such sufferings as broken edges, curled corners, thumb brands and other afflictions which rage among prints that do not get proper care. Then you'll have your pictures in such shape that you can find them without delay—and give your friends a peek now and then without apology.

4-H CLUB GIRLS STUDY TABLE MANNERS IN OCT. 5TH MEETING

"A table manner movie has been prepared to aid 4-H Club girls in Table Etiquette," said Miss Sidney Gale Gibson, Coryell Co. Home Demonstration Agent, at a meeting with the Pearl 4-H Club girls in the Pearl High School building Monday, October 5.

The Table Manner Movie will be of much help to the 4-H club girls, as some of the interesting topics include suggestions for serving, suggested rules for table setting, and how to conduct at the table.

Seventeen members were present for this meeting, and after a business session, the club adjourned to meet Monday, October 19, with Mrs. Eula Mae Cox, club sponsor.

RECORD OF COMMERCIAL FAILURES IN TEXAS LOW AT PRESENT

Austin, Texas, Oct. 19—Record of commercial failures occurring in Texas during September reflected a highly favorable status in Texas business conditions, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research pointed out. According to Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., only nine failures occurred, a decrease of 47.1 per cent from August and 30.8 per cent from September of last year. For the entire third quarter of the year, failures totaling 38, a decline of 44 per cent from the total during the like period last year.

Average liability per failure was $13,000, 13.3 per cent below that of the preceding month but 8.3 per cent above that of September failure last year. For the entire third quarter, average liability per failure was 50 per cent below that of the same corresponding quarter last year.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

Word that Mrs. Earnest Simpson, beautiful American friend of King Edward VIII of England, is suing her ship-broker husband evokes added speculation as to the possibility of an American becoming Queen of England.

The British Library of Information, an official institution supported by the British government, points out that while there is no precedents under modern statutes for the marriage of a British sovereign to a commoner, there is no legal barrier in the way of one. This statement is in contradiction to many made in American periodicals in recent weeks.

The last English King to marry a woman without rank was Henry VIII, whose wedding to Anne Beelyn provoked legal ailments for which the headman's ax proved the only remedy.

The Royal Marriage Act of 1772 does not specifically forbid the heirs and successors of the reigning sovereign to marry at all without the consent of the monarch. On twelve months notice and with the approval of the Privy Council, subsequently subject to the approbation of both houses of Parliament, such a marriage may take place, however.

Under this law it may be observed that, should King Edward intend to marry Mrs. Simpson, all he would have to do according to law, is give himself permission and then declare his intention.

Since 1772, date of the Royal Marriage Act, there has been but one marriage of a sovereign after accession to the throne, that of Queen Victoria. The only problem to arise in connection with her marriage to Duke Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was what title to give her husband.

A maxim of British law is that the wife shares all the titles and honors of her husband. Mrs. Simpson, if wedded to King Edward, automatically would become Queen. Children of this union would be in line for succession to the throne. The law is not clear on the last point but if King Edward sanctioned his own marriage, it would be legal according to the Royal Marriage Act.

It has been pointed out that Mrs. Simpson's status as a commoner would not arouse as much opposition as the fact that she is a divorcee. British royalty has frequently married among those without title, the most recent such marriage having been between the Duke of York and Elizabeth Bowes Lyon who, while the daughter of an Earl, had no title herself. At her marriage carried through with the consent of King George V, she of course became the Duchess of York.

France is confronted by one of the most critical international situations it has occupied since the critical year of 1870. On three sides it faces Fascist powers; on the fourth side it is Britain, more reluctant to go to war than any time in the recent history of the island empire. To add to the woes of the Paris government, Belgium, its most faithful and loyal ally since 1914, has joined the so-called list of "neutral" powers in a brave attempt to maintain its independent status in the next European outbreak.

The capitals of the world momentarily expect the Spanish (Facist) (revolutionary) to break the Madrid defense and enter the city in triumph, to mark the creation of another Facist state on the models of Italy and Germany.

Strongly indebted to Italy and Germany, as well as to the neighboring state of Facist Portugal, the new Madrid Government would undoubtedly adopt

Legion Singers Visit Exposition

The famous Hot Springs National Park trio and their accompanist are pictured here in the court of the Ford building at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas. The trio captured first honors at the recent American Legion convention in Cleveland. They were part of a motorcade of 200 Arkansas citizens who visited the Centennial and Ford Exposition in Dallas. FARMERS FRIEND

Roosevelt, and the Democratic Party, since it's inauguration into power, has been the "Farmers Friend." Isn't that true!

Farm prices have risen, corn, sotton hogs, cattle and nearly every other kind of checks have been sent to the farmer, landowner, renter and rancher. The farmer has had four years of increasing prosperity since the Democratic Party got into office. As far as that goes, the government employee, national, state, county, city and precinct have monetarily benefited from this Democratic Party. Also, nine-tenths of the rest of us. Look at the WPA, PWA, NRA, and all the other alphabets, that have built roads, buildings—in fact, nearly everything we have asked for including the CCC camps, NYA for unemployed, and unable-to-go-to-school and college youngsters.

Now, is the Farmer and the rest of us a friend of ROOSEVELT?

An allotment has been made to Coryell county in line with other Texas counties of like value, of $892.00 to be raised as a fund for the 1936 Democratic Presidential Campaign. Precinct, federal, city and county employees are going to give this fund. Business men are going to be contacted to raise this amount.

As far as we know, the biggest benefitter, the Farmer, will not be contacted to give to this worthy cause which has made his prosperity since the decease of the Hoover Administration.

It should not, and cannot be necessary to contact the Farmer after what has been done for him by his government during the past four years. Chairman C. H. McGilvray who is in charge of raising this fund should be covered with checks from farmers, landowners, renters and rehabilitated farmers, who have all benefited from this Administration.

PANCAKE YOUNG PEOPLE HOST TO UNION

The Eastside Gatesville District Union of Methodist Young People held its regular monthly meeting Friday night at Pancake, where a splendid program was presented.

Special music for the occasion was given by young people from Ames, and Rev. D. L.

Barnes, Union recreational leader, conducted the recreational period, after which delicious refreshments of sandwiches and hot chocolate were served to approximately eighty people.

The next meeting will be held in Gatesville Methodist Church, Friday night, November 13.

PEARL DEMONSTRATION CLUB HELPS

Proposes to Contribute 1-3 of Cost of Electric Clock for the Pearl School:

At a meeting of the Home Demonstration Club, on Oct. 1, it was proposed that the club contribute to the cost of buying an electric clock and automatic bell-ringer for the school. The question was discussed thoroughly and it was put into motion that the club contribute one-third of the cost of the clock for the school. The motion was seconded and carried, thus the Pearl school receives a contribution of $20 to the buying of an electric clock for the school.

The clock is one of the most useful and most needed things that the school possesses. May we express our honest and sincere thanks to the Ladies Club for the support it has given the school.—The Hill Crest (Pearl school paper.)

An UP-TO-DATE

TIME SAVER

ECONOMISTS tell us that every labor saving device ultimately makes more work for everyone because more of the thing that is made so easily is consumed, and so it takes more people to make the increased amount in the easy way. It all sounds very complicated to us, and we don't know. We wouldn't advocate going back to doing everything by hand, and we privately prefer traveling in a car to walking, or riding a horse, but that's just a personal idiosyncrasy of our own. And we believe that a greater proportion of our population is employed making cars than ever worked at making harness and carriages or buggies. We do know of one up-to-date time saver, however, which not only saves time, labor and trouble, but results in a far better product than was ever made by hand. We refer to the ready mixed vegetables that come in cans and are being used all over the country in rapidly increasing quantities. And we're willing to bet anything, from a diamond tiara to an old silk hat, that more mixed vegetable dishes containing five or six vegetables are made in a year today than were formerly made in a hundred years by hand. Can you conceive of an old-fashioned housewife cleaning and preparing half a dozen different vegetables to cook in a dish like the following

Delicious Dish

Scalloped Mixed Vegetables: Drain the contents of a No. 2 can mixed vegetables, turn into a buttered baking dish, and pour over one-half cup cream. Mix together one-fourth cup grated cheese and one-fourth cup buttered crumbs, and sprinkle over top. Brown in an oven. Makes five servings.

IRVIN SCOTT RETURNS FROM HUDSON PREVIEW

Irvin Scott, dealer of Hudson and Terraplane automobiles in this vicinity, has just returned from Dallas where he attended a series of sales meetings and viewed the 1937 models which are soon to make their appearance here.

"I went to this meeting expecting a real treat and I was not disappointed," states Mr. Scott. "It will not be long before I am in a position to disclose these completely new cars to the people of this vicinity. The 1937 Hudsons and Terraplanes will score an even greater success than did the models of 1936—and the latter set a seven year record for sales for our company.

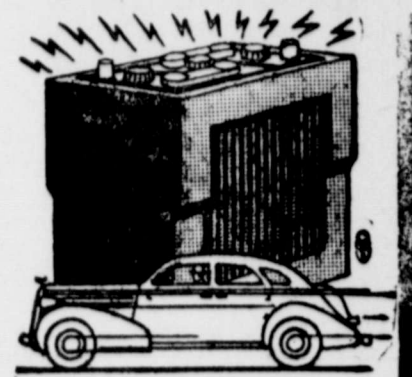

"All of the details that the public is demanding in cars are to be found in them. They are larger, lower, wider, more powerful, lower, wider, more powerful in spite of this, more economical. How this has been accomplished, I know will be of intense interest to those who follow automobiles, when we are at liberty to disclose the details. From an appearance standpoint Hudson has scored another big hit for the coming year. Also, there are many items of convenience and luxury to be found in these cars which ordinarily would not be expected to any where near the price.

"In all my experience in the automobile industry, I have never looked forward with more enthusiasm to the introduction of a new model than I do for this coming year. The 1937 Hudsons and Terraplanes have everything it takes to make a man in the automobile business happy!"

1-MINUTE SAFETY TALKS

By Don Herold

SO I'M A HYPOCHONDRIAC?

One of my friends (in fact, it was my older daughter) has accused me of being a "hypochondriac" on this subject of automobile accidents.

All right, then, the railroad companies are hypochondriacs on the subject of safety.

That's what makes them safe. When your train stops in a station, you see and hear men tapping the wheels and brakes, looking for possible trouble.

Railroad hypochondriacs, I guess. Afraid of accidents—the sissies!

All along the railroad tracks are red and green lights, to keep trains from bustin' into each other. If the engineer sees a red light, he's just enough of a hypochondriac to stop his train.

Constant inspection and constant care are the price the railroads pay for their enviable safety records. They know that they can't depend on luck or bravery. The railroads are not afraid to be cowardly careful.

We motorists can't depend on double tracks or red light signals to keep us from smashing into each other, but we can heed the red lights of last year's accident records and of today's papers' reports of yesterday's crashes.

We can face 1935 figures gathered by The Travelers Insurance Company, for instance: automobile accident deaths, 36,100; persons injured, 895,280; accidents caused by drivers exceeding speed limit, 121,460; wrong side of road, 85,770; cars with defective brakes in accidents, 18,690; with glaring or "out" headlights, 10,750; punctures or blowouts, 7,360.

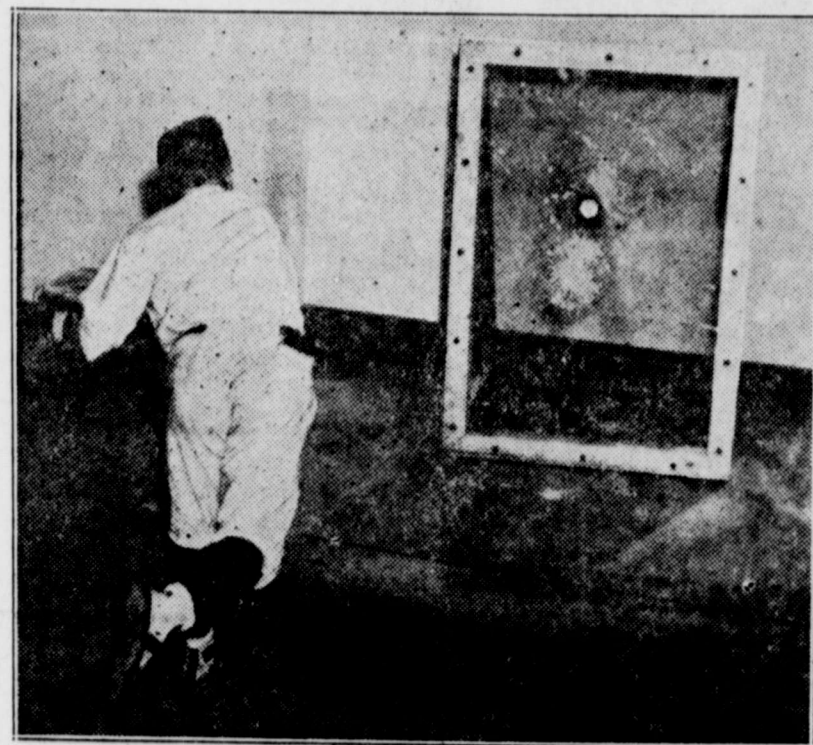

And we can have our brakes and steering apparatus and lights inspected freely and we can throw our old tires away, and we can drive with brains instead of bravado—even if we are accused of being a little hypochondriac on the subject of safety.

SPEED BALL ARTIST FAILS TO SHATTER "RUBBER" GLASS

'Rubber' Glass, Under Impact, Stretches But Will Not Shatter

Greater motoring safety is seen with a new type of laminated safety glass, made with a rubberlike plastic filler, which is five times stronger than ordinary safety glass. In a recent demonstration the new glass defied such tests as the kick of a mule, the full weight of a man jumping upon it, and the swiftest throw of a well-known baseball pitcher.

This latest advancement in protective glass has been made possible through Vinyl, a synthetic, resinous compound developed after six years research by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and a leading chemical concern. Vinyl, the filler in the glass sandwich, adheres directly to the glass, requiring no cementing materials and no sealing of the edges.

Under impact, this new high-test safety glass acts just like regular safety glass except that it bulges and stretches with the blow. When a pane breaks, particles have a tendency to stick to the plastic filler and the splintered sheet may be stretched or even rolled up like a rug.

Due to the rubberlike qualities of Vinyl, this new safety glass has a greater tensile strength than any other products of a similar nature.

The LAST of the MOHICANS

RANDOLPH SCOTT • BARNES • LEXON
A RELIANCE PICTURE • Released by UNITED ARTISTS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: The French, under General Montcalm, are besieging Fort William Henry, defended by Colonel Munro with a force of British troops and Colonial Irregulars. Major Heyward and Munro's two daughters, on their way to the Fort, are captured by Hurons, but saved by Hawkeye, a hunter, and two Mohican chiefs, Chingachgook and Uncas, father and son. Uncas slips out to deliver a message for relief, but is wounded by Huron pickets, and rescued by Heyward.

Chapter VIII

TWO LOYALTIES

Uncas' wound was superficial. It was the force of the blow that had brought him down. He hardly winced when Chingachgook, brushing the surgeon aside, grasped the arrow shaft with both hands, and forced the barb through. Uncas was placed in the fort hospital, however, where Cora insisted on nursing him. She was with him when Hawkeye entered with Chingachgook.

"They'll hang you"

"Is he all right?" Hawkeye inquired.
"No," Chingachgook answered grumpily, in his own language. "Got squaw-fever."
Hawkeye grinned. His smile faded, however, when he noticed the arrow taken from the wound. "Ottawa arrow!" he exclaimed. He and Chingachgook exchanged significant glances. The Ottawa were a large tribe, and notoriously cruel in their treatment of white prisoners.
That night Hawkeye and Chingachgook went on a reconnoiter of their own. As they snaked towards the French lines, the form of an Indian picket loomed before them. Hawkeye leaped, and before the Indian could cry alarm, had throttled him. Chingachgook's knife accounted for a second picket. Delaying only for the Indian to secure the scalps, the two proceeded stealthily within the French lines.
Around a blazing campfire, Magua was addressing his fellow Hurons. His paint-streaked features were further contorted with anger. His arms moved eloquently in keeping with his Indian oratory.
"Must we stay," he demanded, "and watch big guns firing at Yengeese fort? Our brothers, the Ottawa are leaving—they will gather scalps in Yengeese village."
The Hurons grunted approval.
"I do not speak with crooked tongue. There is no honor for Hurons if others gather pale-face scalps. We must make our tomahawks red with the blood of our enemies! I have spoken."
The tom-toms thumped. The Hurons' war whoops arose as the savages broke into a war dance. Hawkeye and his ally waited to hear no more, but slipped back through the lines to Fort William Henry.

At Munro's headquarters, Hawkeye pounded on the desk.
"I tell you, we saw them—heard them! Magua's working them into a frenzy!"
His voice lowered, and he began to plead with the men seated before him. They were Munro, Major Heyward and Winthrop, leader of the Colonial Irregulars.

"If they and the Ottawas raid the settlements," Hawkeye continued desperately, "it will be the bloodiest massacre the frontier has ever known. And the blood, Colonel, will not be all on their hands."

"But, my good man," Munro sought to assure him, "Montcalm is in command of them, and I assure you that he's a soldier and a gentleman, not a butcher."

"And I assure you," Hawkeye said firmly, "that he hasn't the power to stop them."

But Colonel Munro was stubborn. In vain Hawkeye reminded him of his promise to release the Colonials for the protection of their homes and families.

"My promise still holds, gentlemen," he said firmly, "but I must have more definite proof than this man's word."

Winthrop, commanding the Irregulars, was not, however, to be dismissed.

"His word has been good on the frontier a long time before you came, Colonel," he said coldly.

When the news reached the Colonials, their rebellion became outright. The single men agreed to stay with the British, but those with families decided at once to abandon the fort. Hawkeye, fully aware of what he laid himself liable to under military law, aided them in their departure, showing them the trail through the swamp by which he had slipped in. He, himself, elected to remain behind. The last Colonial had slipped over the parapet and was well on his way to the swamp when a British picket observed him and the others, and notified Major Heyward. The British officer rushed to the parapet in high rage, and gave orders to his soldiers to fire at the deserters.

At this moment Hawkeye and the Mohicans emerged from their concealment, and a fight ensued. Hawkeye, Chingachgook and Uncas, the last still bandaged, were overpowered, but not before the Colonials had made good their escape.
"Put these men in irons," Heyward yelled.
The order was obeyed, and the three men committed to the dungeon, to await trial and sentence for their insubordination.
Alice managed to wheedle permission out of the sentry to see Hawkeye.
"Why did you do it?" she demanded.
"You saw the settlement after an Indian raid," Hawkeye answered steadily.
"But they trusted you."
"Then they made the same mistake the Colonials did when they trusted your father."
Alice was torn between two loyalties. "I don't know the right or wrong of it," she said tearfully. "All I know is they hang traitors. They'll hang you."
"Knowing the Red-Coats," Hawkeye said with a wry smile, "I bet they don't tie the knot right."
But Alice refused to permit joking about the matter. "Oh, Hawkeye," she cried, "why didn't you leave with the others."
Hawkeye shrugged his shoulders. "I guess I'm in love with you."
Through the bars, they clung to each other.

SNAKE BITE DOES NOT PROVE FATAL

Mr. G. B. Chambers was confronted with a large rattlesnake on his farm near Bee House Thursday, October 1. The rattlesnake bit him on both legs. Mr. Chambers was scared as well as hurt. The rattlesnake was killed and the doctor was called. After a few hours he was pronounced out of danger.

Mr. Chambers is doing fine, and is up and walking around. We hope that he will soon be hale and hearty again.—The Hill Crest (Pearl school paper).

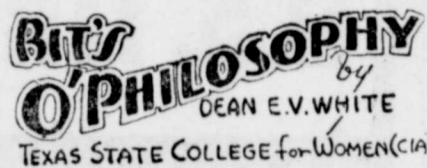

Drought has cut China's rice yield this year.

Denton, Oct. 19—Some of the most effectively decorated dinner and dance dresses are fashioned of net. By all votes of the masculine dancing partners, it is the big time favorite, and inspired designers are using it with telling results. Young fashionables wear net and gloat over the fact that these filmy focks are distractions for any appreciative stag line.

We sleuthed the shops and found some new arrivals that are just in time for all the parties on the winter schedule. A roly blue net has bands of grosgrain ribbon going around and around the skirt and the short sleeve bodice fastens with tiny pearl buttons. The whole thing billows over a clinging slip of blue.

Girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA) are partial to a ginger brown velvet ribbon on the full gathered skirt. All kinds of utterly lovely filmy black nets are dramatized with black velvet and are just as easy to buy and wear as the colored creations. Don't overlook net among the coming attractions for appealingly feminine and picturesque party clothes. Although gloaming metallics, slinky dark toned velvets, and stiff taffetas fashion the season's most spectacular creations, your best buy for an all-around party dress is net.

Don't expect others to think more of you than you think of yourself.

A groan a day helps the pain to stay.

Straight thinking does not emate from a crooked mind.

Stop starting and you will soon start stopping.

Be careful what you say when you talk to yourself.

CARD OF THANKS

We deeply appreciate every expression of sympathy extended to us in the tragic hour when our wife and mother was taken from our home. The Gatesville Baptist Church which she loved well, found many ways to extend comfort. Our friends and neighbors who remembered us in our sorrow, we will never forget. God bless you, each and all.

World Comment—

an unfriendly attitude toward France, its northern neighbor, who has helped the Government forces in their fight against the Facists.

Spain on the south; Italy on the east; Germany on the north and east—this is the situation with which the Paris Government of Premier Lein Blum is confronted.

Germany, following the re-occupation of the Rhineland, is building at a furious rate concrete and steel fortifications along the French, Swiss and Belgain frontiers and are constructing airdromes within easy striking distance of Paris for heavy bombers.

Premier Mussolini is emulating Herr Hitler by constructing similar lines of fortifications and airdromes along the Italo-French border. It must be remembered that Italy is none to friendly with France following the Anglo-French effort to starve Italy into submission during the Ethiopian war.
