Colt Show Looms as Feature of First of Next Week's Big Event

Coryell County's Second Annual Colt Show gets underway at the lot just south of the gin next to the athletic field, Monday morning with the entries clicking at 10:30 under the auspices of the Future Farmers of America. Incidentally, another young Democratic Colt will be nervous as he competes with an Elephant the very next day for patronage of each and every voter in the United States.

For the gin lot show, prizes have been offered in a number of classes, and since this county has been the leader in mules, a great turnout in this class is expected.

Judging will begin at 11 a. m. and the classes are mule colts, horse colts, light or saddle, and horse colts, heavy or draft animals.

In addition, some of the owners of Jacks and studs will give individual prizes to the winners.

No entry fee or charge will be made for entries in the show according to W. E. Lasseter, Vocational Agricultural teacher, who will be general superintendent of the show.

Entries will be received by either Mr. Lasseter or the County Agent.

BIG PECAN MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAY TO BE HELD IN WACO

All pecan growers of Central Texas are invited and urged to attend the fall meeting of the Central Texas Pecan Growers Association which is open to everyone interested in pecans.

The meeting will be held in the Cotton Palace Coliseum on Wednesday, November 4; 9:00 a. m. through 4 p. m.

Among those who will appear on the program are Jack Shelton, Vice-Director and State Agent of the Extension Service, "Livestock in the Pecan Grove"; W. D. Sims, State Department of Agriculture, "Nut Tariffs and Pecan Subsidies"; Andrew Winkler, "What Pecan Growers can do through Organization"; Dr. C. L. Smith, U. S. Pecan Field Station, "Pecan Rosette"; and other speakers of note.

UP 'TIL MOONLIGHT THURS: THE RAIN WAS A TOTAL OF THREE INCHES

Mother Earth hereabouts got her face washed up until moonlight Thursday night to the tune of three inches.

Most of this came down in a slow drizzle, and the moon-worshippers are out in force to night, hoping the sun will be out this aye to take its place.

Postponed Basket Ball Games to Be Played Sat. Nite at Turnville

Celebrating the completion of their new gym, Turnersville High School opens their new gym Saturday night of this week with the Turnersville Senior boys and girls meeting the Flat Senior boys and girls on the gym floor.

Turnersville is to be congratulated on the new gym which they have built, as it outfits their school equipment to equal any in the county, giving them three buildings to their spacious campus.

Other games will be scheduled in the gym weekly, since this school has no football field, and they concentrate entirely on the game of basket ball.

This county is fast placing itself in the ranks of well equipped schools, both in physical equipment and instructors, showing probably more improvement per school than any county in the state.

INTERESTING INFORMATION FROM OFFICE OF CO. SUPERINTENDENT

By J. M. Witcher
Coryell County, through its efficient County School Board, is making progress towards a county school system which will give every boy and girl in the county a chance to attend and finish high school in an affiliated high school and yet be at home each night. This may seem ideal but those who know school work and school finance, say that Coryell County is making progress toward the above goal.

Many factors have contributed to this end. Trustees have shown a wonderful interest in their local districts. The County Board has continually shown a broad impartial workable policy, keeping in view the child's needs as most important and local interest as secondary. Trustees of the rural and independent districts have tried to assist in this program by attending County Wide meetings where State representatives could give firsthand information. The meeting on last Wednesday was such that the approximately one hundred thirty trustees present were greatly helped by their association with each other and other educational representatives.

The teachers of the county contribute in a great way to the fostering of a wide awake aggressive educational work. Saturday was very inclement, according to the weather man yet all parts of the County were represented by one hundred forty teachers at four first County Associational meeting this school year. Policies advocated are being put into action by those who were present.

Budgets for 1936-37 will be carried to the State Department today.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT BROWN CREEK

There will be a Halloween party at the Brown Creek school house Friday night, October 31. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy a spooky time.

Hazard Survey Is Made By G-ville Fire Dept. Few Hazards Found

The Gatesville Fire Department acting on the suggestion of the Texas Fire Insurance Department has just completed a home inspection campaign co-operating with the Gatesville Schools. This report is one advance in a movement to educate the citizenry on fire prevention with the ultimate purpose in mind of reducing the number of fires in Gatesville, the amount of losses and the consequent reduction of fire insurance rates.

Typical questions: "What fuel is used in your home for the heating," and "If gas is used, are all curtains, drapes and furniture well away from open flames of all the stoves?"

Inspection blanks containing 18 pertinent questions were distributed among the students, filled out and returned signed by the parents and the student. The result of the inspection showed a surprisingly few hazards in our town. Total number disclosed by the tabulation of the returns showed only 53 reported hazards.

The Gatesville Fire Department appreciate the splendid co-operation given the inspection campaign by the schools, the students and their parents and sincerely hopes that these efforts will result in the elimination of many of our local fire hazards.

CLUB BOYS TO EXHIBIT AT TWO STATE SHOWS NEXT TWO WEEKS

The 4-H Club boys of Coryell County left yesterday for two weeks shows. The first show will be the Brazos Valley Free Fair at Waco October 29 to November 6. On November 5 to 14 the boys will move the lambs and pigs to Dallas to the Junior Livestock Show at the Texas Centennial.

The boys who are exhibiting stock at these shows are Fred Koch Jr., 1 Poland barrow and 1 Hampshire barrow; Eddie Wiegand, 1 Duroc gilt; Elmo King, 1 Duroc gilt; Robert Mack, 1 Poland barrow; Alton Quicksall, 1 Poland gilt; Elton Quicksall, 1 Poland gilt; Travis Harper, 2 Hampshire gilts and 1 Hampshire barrow; Taylor I. Young Jr., 1 Hereford calf; George Williams, 11 lambs; Roland Martin, 8 lambs; G. C. Martin Jr., 6 lambs.

Saturday, October 31 is the day for all 4-H Club and Vocational Agriculture boys' exhibits to be judged at Waco. It is hoped that many local people will go to the show and give the boys encouragement from the ringside.

HALLOWE'EN CARNIVAL AT ANTELOPE SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT

There will be a Halloween Carnival at the Antelope school Friday night, October 30, with the regular haunted house with the spooky rooms, fish pond, and other Halloween shows furnishing the entertainment.

PLAINVIEW SCHOOL TO HAVE HALLOWE'EN BOX SUPPER

Everybody is invited to come to the Plainview School party and box supper at the school building Friday night, Oct. 30.

We are going to have an evening of real fun with all the spooks of the community gathered together for a big parade.

There will be games to play, contests to win and suppers to eat. Prizes will be given all contest winners, even to the champion tobacco spitter. People are all betting on their favorite spitter. Come and see who wins. After a general malee of fun, boxes containing fine delicacies will be auctioned off to highest bidders.

As usual the funds will be used to supplement our athletic funds.

You are invited to come and enjoy the evening with us.

EVERYTHING READY FOR LAMPASAS LIVESTOCK AGRI- PECAN SHOW

Fred Wolf, President of the Lampasas Chamber of Commerce and general manager of the Fall Livestock, Agricultural and Pecan Show announces that everything is in readiness for a real show to be held at the Fair Grounds on November 5. Mr. Wolf says there will be no extra charge for any persons wanting to show their exhibits, and for this reason he believes that there will be more exhibits this year than in previous years, and there will be no gate fees of any kind and naturally this will tend to draw a larger crowd of spectators than usual. Prizes totaling $300.00 in cash awards and ribbons, made possible by the merchants of Lampasas, will be given to the winners. This show is for every one in the Lampasas trades territory and if anyone has anything they want to enter in the show, they are urged to get in touch with the chairman of the different divisions. The following men are chairmen of the different committees: "Dusty" Bales of the Highway Garage, Chairman of Horses, E. M. Pharr of the Lampasas Record, Chairman of Agricultural exhibits, Frank Baker, Ranch and pecan man, Chairman of pecan exhibits, Clyde Glimp, sheep breeder of Lameta, chairman of sheep exhibit, G. L. Boswell of the Producers Produce Company, chairman of chickens and turkeys exhibit, Thurman Walker, rancher of Adamsville, chairman of cattle exhibits, Buford Briggs, rancher of Kempener, chairman of club calves.

The following men have been secured up to this time to act as judges: J. T. Kelly, pecan specialist from the State Department of Agriculture, Austin, will judge the pecan exhibits; Ben Strickland and Charlie White, prominent ranchmen of McCollough county, will judge the horses; Tol J. Roberts, prominent cattleman from McCollough county, has been requested to judge the cattle; County Agent A. J. Cotten, Burnett, will be judge of the poultry exhibit and Truman Craddock, County Agent from Hamilton county, will act as judge for club calves.

From November 4 to 8, the Methodist pastors and presiding elders of all Texas conferences will convene in Houston for an annual conference and for re-appointments by the Bishop of the conferences.

At this meeting will be two very fine men from Gatesville; two men who have, for three years served the Methodist church and its people very faithfully and in a way benefitting their names of Reverend. These men are Rev. M. M. Chunn, pastor of the Gatesville First Methodist Church and Rev. J. H. Baldrige, presiding elder of the Gatesville District. The people of this city and this district are looking forward to their return for a fourth year which is the crowning glory of any pastor.

Others from Gatesville who will attend the conference in Houston are Mr. and Mrs. Leake Ayres, and Mrs. Pearl White. Mr. Ayres is treasurer of the Central Texas Conference.

RE-DRAWING FOR FREE MDSE TO BE HELD MONDAY AT 4 O'CLOCK P. M.

Due to inclement weather and bad roads, citizens of the county who expected to bring their tickets to the drawing at Joe Hanna's Cash Store, and couldn't come on account of the weather, are advised that a drawing will be held at Mr. Hanna's store at 4 p. m. Monday of next week, which is First Monday.

Quite a few were in this popular store on last Wednesday, and the drawing took place, but another is to be held Monday also.

FISH BEING PLANTED IN THE STREAMS OF COUNTY

Twelve containers of fish have been planted in Coryell County streams under the direct supervision of Dawson Cooper, County Agent Powell and Mr. Cooper have been working on this matter for some time, and received these fish through the courtesy of Texas Fish, Game and Oyster Commission. Earl McCracken, local game warden, made it possible for the fish to be obtained. Mr. Proctor of the Cisco Hatchery delivered the fish to Gatesville. Mr. Cooper aided in the locating of the fish in Coryell County streams.

It is possible through proper cooperation to replenish the wild game, including fish, of Coryell County in as far as the local people desire it to be done.

Mrs. Hazen Ament of Waco visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Colgin Thursday.

Legislature at Last Minute Makes Changes in Old Age Pension Law

(Oct. 27, 1936)

It is now Tuesday night and the sine die adjournment is only four hours away and, while it will be necessary for both Houses to remain in session in order to get the bills enrolled, the real important work was completed about an hour ago when the House accepted the Conference report on the tax bill with 103 affirmative votes, placing it in immediate effect. This measure contains in addition to a large number of various forms of taxes, a complete revamping of the Old Age Assistance law. The present pension setup is abolished and the whole department is placed under the supervision of the Board of Control.

Appropriations for old age assistance is fixed at $7,000,000 for the remaining ten months of the fiscal year. (Of course this is only the State money).

The granting of old age assistance is materially restricted. The authors of the provisions (the Small amendment) stated that it was their intention to restrict payment of old age assistance to those really in need. I felt that they were probably going too far and voted against the Small amendment, although I voted for the adoption of the Conference committee report when it was a matter of taking the bill as presented or getting no tax whatever. The tax provisions in this bill, in my opinion, are entirely inadequate, but if we are not going to tax our natural resources, then this bill does spread the burden over many industries, who will, of course, all complain, but we must keep in mind that someone must pay the bill if we are to pay the pensions. I offered a resolution which was adopted by the Senate immediately after we adopted the Conference report, expressly providing that it was the legislative intent not to include contributions made by friends and relatives in securing the necessities of life as income or resources of the applicant, and that in all cases

"income" of applicants should be construed as meaning "net" income. This resolution was adopted by the Senate and will be voted on by the house tonight.

Another major piece of legislation that was passed, by this session is the Unemployment Insurance bill which was signed by the Governor today. This bill relates primarily to industrial enterprises. I expect to try to review some of these acts a little more fully later on, as I do not have time tonight to go into any details.

I do want to call attention to one of the Constitutional amendments that is to be voted on a week from today. This is the one that limits the number of representatives that a county may have in the House. It provides that no county shall have more than seven representatives until it reaches a population of one million, and then one should be added for each one hundred thousand additional population. As I see it this amendment is important to all of the middle size counties such as those in Central Texas. If the representatives were apportioned strictly in proportion to population, nearly one-fourth of them would come from four counties—Harris, Dallas, Bexar, and Tarrant. I do not think that this is good public policy and feel that the rural sections should take some steps to protect their representation in the House before it is too late.

MORRIS FEDERATION MEETS SATURDAY

The Morris Federation, which meets regularly on the last Saturday afternoon in each month from September to May, will hold a session Saturday afternoon with Mrs. J. H. Hamilton at her home on Main street. The hour is three o'clock.

Mexico is the subject for study this year and the theme of this program is "Mexico in the Nineteenth Century." Miss Vera Sams will discuss "Maximilian's Empire." "Early Life and Regime of Diaz," by Mrs. E. G. Beerwinkle. "Pyramids of Mexico," to be discussed by Mrs. J. H. Baldridge; and as a fitting conclusion, Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook will give a piano selection.

Purmela H. D. Club

On Wednesday, October 21, Mrs. Q. F. Adams and Miss Winifred entertained the Purmela H. D. Club. Bouquets of orange cosmos were used throughout the rooms and further carried out the Halloween motif. Mrs. Adams, who is the pantry demonstrator of the club, exhibited her canned products and some were chosen for the exhibit held in the court house.

A delicious refreshment plate consisting of fruit salad, ginger bread and coffee was served. On each plate was a dainty favor made of cosmos tied with a black and orange ribbon.

Those present were Mesdames J. N. Weeks, R. A. Bertrand, G. T. Moore, E. Fletcher, W. O. Smith, T. Scott, O. A. Hagan, J. B. Watkins, A. G. Robinson, and Miss Myrtle Robinson.

Maple Primrose Club

The Club met with Mrs. Gilbert Colvin October 22. The afternoon was spent in quilting.

Mrs. D. J. McBride and Miss Erma Dean Phillips received their birthday showers.

Mrs. Howard Powell was received as a new member of the club. The hostess served delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cakes and coffee. Fifteen members were present, and the next meeting will be held on November 5, with Mrs. O. C. Marshall as hostess.

V. V. Lively was sick the latter part of last week.

B. D. Reynolds spent the week in Dallas.

George Galloway and M. J. White of Skidmore were guests of Miss Louise Voss over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harper of Oglesby spent the week end in this city visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Harper and Mrs. R. W. Cacey.

SOCIETY

Mrs. A. W. Gartman
Club Hostess.

The Thursday Contract Club met at the home of Mrs. A. W. Gartman on Waco street Thursday afternoon. A Hallowe'en motif was carried out in decorations, tallies and refreshments.

Mesdames T. R. Mears and Robert W. Brown were awarded high score awards and Mrs. D. R. Boone was awarded a prize for highest cut.

Fruit cake topped with whipped cream, mints and coffee were served the following: Mesdames Robert W. Brown, R. W. Ward, R. B. Cross, C. W. McConnaughey, E. L. Stewart, D. R. Boone, Clay Stinnett, H. K. Jackson, Billy Nesbitt, Laura Rayford, T. R. Mears, and Mrs. W. H. Satterfield. Mesdames Erceel W. Brooks and Fred Schwarz were callers.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Recent Bride.

Mrs. Willard Tipton of this city, formerly Miss Mae Terry of the Coryell Church community, was tendered a miscellaneous shower Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Fields at Coryell Church.

After several interesting games and contests the honoree was presented a most numerous collection of beautiful and useful gifts in a novel manner.

As a befitting conclusion to the afternoon's entertainment a delicious refreshment plate was served to some fifty guests.

Senior Class Enjoys Hallowe'en Party.

Tuesday night, October 27, the Seniors of the Gatesville High School gathered in the Gymnasium for a very entertaining Hallowe'en party.

Miscellaneous games, under the direction of Miss Ruth Himilton, who is chairman of the entertainment committee furnished the diversion the first part of the evening and a Fashion Show was held the latter part. Miss Oleta Sanders and Herman Fryer were judged to have dressed in the most becoming and best looking Hallowe'en costume.

Other entertainment was furnished by Madame Patski Olesenski, who foretold the future of those seeking her knowledge; after which the group gathered around an open fire to hear the telling of several gresome ghost stories.

Refreshments consisting of pimento cheese sandwiches, cookies and hot chocolate were served members of the class and the faculty.

Mrs. Jim J. Brown Hostess to Club.

The Wednesday Contract Club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jim J. Brown on West Leon street. A Hallowe'en theme was carried out in the decoration and tallies.

Those present were Mesdames E. W. Jones Jr., L. K. Thomson Jr., Peyton Morgan, Billy Nesbitt, Sherrill Kendrick, Kirby Perryman, Johnnie Washburn, Clark Jensen, and Misses Lindsay Belle Dickie, Ruth Baby Franks, Dorothy Culberson, and Grace Richardson. Miss Dorothy Culberson and Mrs. Peyton Morgan won high score awards. As a final courtesy the hostess served refreshments of cinnamon rolls topped with whipped cream, and coffee.

Mrs. Irvin McCreary Entertains Thursday Club.

At her home on 1311 North 7th street, Temple, Mrs. Irvin McCreary, formerly of this city entertained the Gatesville Thursday Contract Club on Tuesday afternoon, this week.

The luncheon at Kyle Hotel was an attractive affair honoring the guests upon their arrival in Temple. Autumn fruits were heaped around a huge pumpkin which centered the table, while at each place was a dainty cellophane bag of bright colored candies with Hallowe'en place cards attached.

In games of bridge Mesdames I. F. Johnson Jr., and H. K. Jackson won high score awards. The guest list included Mesdames Laura Rayford, I. F. Johnson, H. K. Jackson, Byron Leaird Jr., L. S. Holmes, L. K. Thomson Sr., C. W. McConnaughey, J. E. McClellan, Miller Stinnett, Mable Gardner, R. B. Cross, R. H. Miller, and Doyle Baldrige of Temple.

Mrs. B. B. Garrett Club Hostess.

The Thursday Contract Club was entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. B. Garrett on South 10th street. Bouquets of roses were used for decorating the party rooms.

Mesdames Clay Stinnett and Hugh Saunders were recipients of high and second high score awards.

Cinamon apples topped with whipped cream, wafers, cheese and coffee were served the following: Mesdames R. W. Brown, A. L. Chollar, Francis Caruth, D. R. Boone, Harry Flentge, O. N. Hix, R. B. Cross, D. D. McCoy, W. H. Satterfield, Noris Hammack of Dallas, George Painter, Laura Rayford, R. L. Saunders, Hugh Saunders, Clay Stinnett, Stewart Williams.

Mesdames Wesley Ford and B. F. Battle were callers.

Wesley Bible Class Entertains Conference.

After a business session, conducted by Rev. J. H. Baldrige, presiding elder of the Gatesville District, members of the official staff of the First Methodist Church of this city and guests were entertained by the Ladies Wesley Bible Class in the recreation hall of the church.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and hot chocolate were served the following: Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Baldrige, Rev. Marcus M. Chunn, Mr. and Mrs. Leake Ayres, Mrs. Pearl White, E. G. Beerwinkle, Roger Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Percie Witt, C. E. Alvis Jr., Mr. and Mrs. D. D. McCoy, C. W. McConnaughey, Misses Waldine Wharton, Bess Chapman and Beulah Gamblin.

Mrs. Lester Britain, president of the Wesley Bible Class, and Mesdames W. L. Rivers, J. F. Wright, and D. D. McCoy were responsible for the delightful surprise.

Master Kent Biffle Celebrates Birthday.

Complimenting Kent Biffle, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Biffle, who celebrated his fourth birthday, the Davidson Kindergarten on College street was the scene for this happy occasion Friday morning.

The party rooms were beautifully decorated, Hallowe'en fashion with orange and black jack o' lantern made by the kindergarten pupils and the refreshment plate further carried out the Hallowe'en theme.

Devils food, cake, iced with orange and black pumpkin faces, cheese ritz and orangeade were served the following kindergarten pupils and guests: Maurice Ashby, Margaret Ann Jones, Dianne Jensen, Rose Marie Martin, Tommy Lee Carlton, Rose Ella McCoy, Martha Ann Davidson, Roger Miller, Martha Ann Hallman, Billy Doris White, Billy Hesse, Charles Dickie, Carolyn Blankenship, Jackie Richardson, Neta Jean Rogers, Joyce Marie Boynton, Patsy Ruth Schaub, Billy Carl Bradley, Robert and Patsy Ann Painter, Richard Bean, Harrold Huffman, Mary Sue and Fisher Brown, Tommy Ray Wallace and the honoree.

Carolyn Blankenship and Joyce Marie Boynton, dressed as clowns, presented the honoree with a number of lovely gifts.

CAR DRIVER NAMED ON MURDER CHARGE IN WACO ACCIDENT

Roy Smith, Wacoan, is facing a murder charge, the result of a collision which at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday took the life of Joe Alton Hix of Clifton, and critically injured Claude Jameson of Hico.

Sheriff Mobley said several witnesses told him that Smith was driving at a rate of from 65 to 80 miles an hour on the wrong side of the road, and nearly collided with another Clifton party a few seconds before he crashed with the Hix car.

W. T. and Mr. and Mrs. O. Hix is a relative of Messrs. N. Hix of this city.

HOSTESSES WELCOME NEW STREAMLINED TOASTER

College co-eds, young business women and home girls are among the hostesses everywhere who are exclaiming over the streamlining and moderne design of the season's new Toastmaster toaster. It is shown here with its equally new hospitality tray, providing an after-study snack for two fair collegians. The fully-automatic toaster and the tray, both totally different from previous models, have a number of innovations, including wooden lap trays which are replicas of the large tray. The popularity of this "tenth anniversary set" is sweeping the country where it is in demand for bridge luncheons, teas, midnight snacks and all informal gatherings.

EIGHTEEN ABSENTEE VOTES CAST FOR GENERAL ELECTION

Out of the some twenty-four requests for absentee votes 18 have been returned, according to Charlie Mounce, County Clerk. During the primaries some 75 or 80 absentee votes were counted, showing the lack of interest which should be apparent during this General Election.

Absentee voting, according to Mr. Mounce, closes, Saturday, October 31.

RICH PAGEANT

Of America, Once Shunned as "Too Educational," Now Furnishes Cycle of Film and Radio Hits

THE entertainment world has discovered America. With increasing frequency, in the past year or so, stage, screen and radio have turned to the rich cavalcade of America's growth and development for what now amounts to a cycle of romantic historical drama.

A few years ago, any such trend was almost impossible, for the guiding spirits of the entertainment world dismissed history as "much too educational" for popular consumption. The dry, textbook flavor of history seemed too formidable for consideration.

Largely responsible for the change has been the discovery that historical facts could be as fascinating as sheer fiction and that the saga of America's development from pilgrim and pioneer days to fast-paced modern life held every conceivable element of drama and type of character.

The screen has recently turned to outstanding events and personalities of American history in such hits as "The Mighty Barnum," "San Francisco," "Diamond Jim," "Sutter's Gold," "Silver Dollar" and many others. On the air, the story of America's development has furnished material for many programs which have not only ranked as first class entertainment but as well have been invaluable in spreading a better knowledge of American history, notably in the "Cavalcade of America" series, a familiar and popular Wednesday night program dramatizing realistic episodes about people and events which have made America what it is today.

Radio and the films have made great contributions to our concepts of American history, for their painstaking research has brought out many obscure and little-known facts and incidents, and the humanizing technique of radio and screen has added a fascination to history which was lacking in so many text-books. History teachers are more and more leaning to radio and the screen as educational instruments. And the modern youth is learning that such figures as Victor Herbert, Stephen Foster, P. T. Barnum, and many other colorful personalities played a large part, along with presidents and statesmen in shaping America and its life.

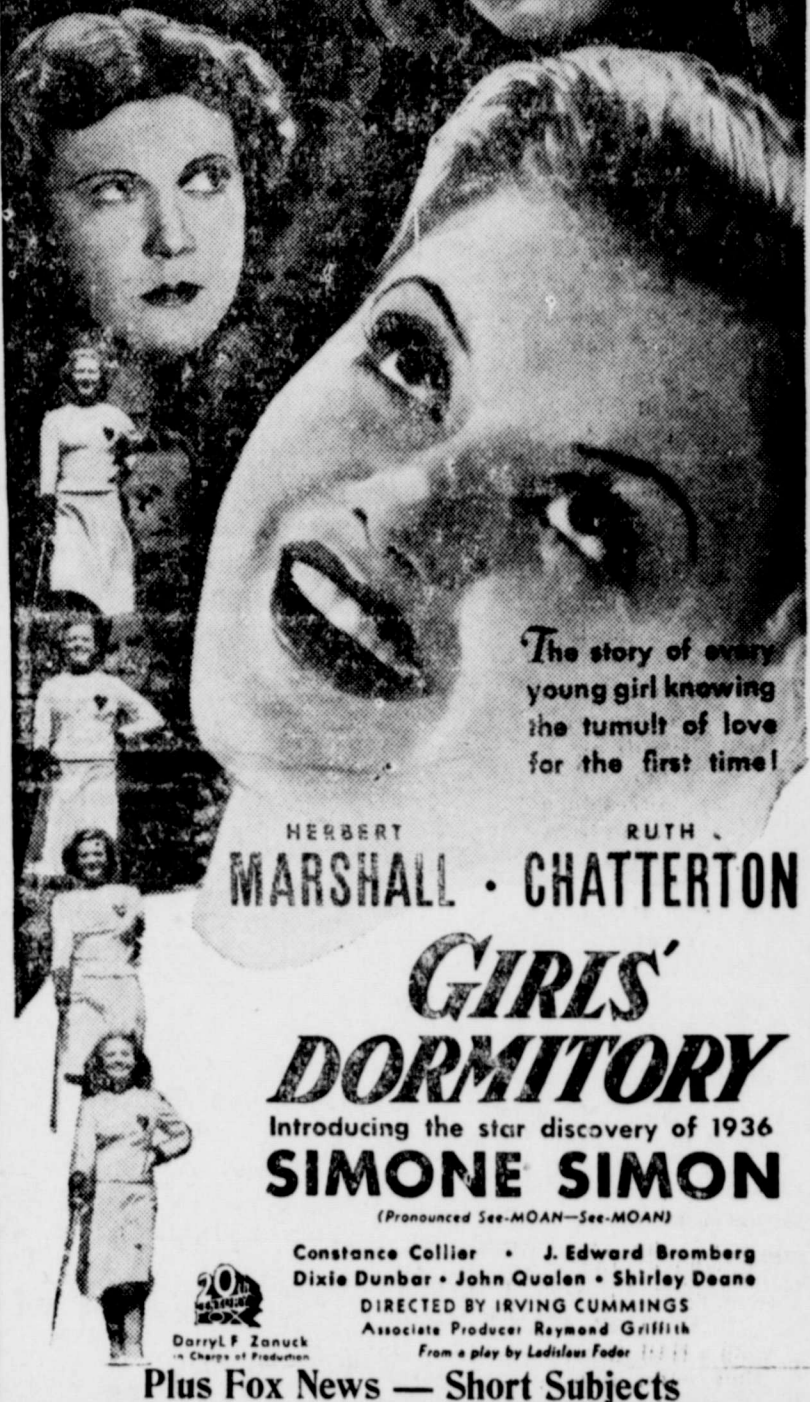

It is true that liberties have been taken with historical fact, but, in most cases, producers now take pains to rely on the counsel of history professors and authorities. Especially is this true in radio, where one mistake at the microphone will bring scores, or hundreds of complaints and corrections. The producers of "Cavalcade of America," for instance, rely on no less an authority on American history than Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, President of Union College, who serves the program as research adviser and historical consultant, carefully checking every script for historical accuracy.

Coach Accommodations Rival

Comforts of Exclusive Clubs

THIS picture was not taken in an exclusive club or hotel, but in the women's dressing room of a day coach on the new 12-car stainless steel, light-weight Denver Zephyr of the Burlington Railroad, longest streamlined train in the world. Two of the trains were built by the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company in Philadelphia for overnight service between Chicago and Denver.

This day coach dressing room with its leather-upholstered chairs and sofa, modern dressing table and mirrors, electric clock, electric outlet for curling iron or pad, dental fountain and other conveniences is typical of the luxury throughout this modern streamliner.

Among the features of the train are telephone service between the cocktail lounge, diner and parlor-observation car; individual radios and air-conditioning control in the compartments, drawing rooms and bedrooms; extra long berths for tall passengers; an air curtain in the diner to eliminate odors from the kitchen; and a hostess known as a Zephyrette.

CENTRAL TEXAS HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER? WHY NOT?

We are indebted to the "Brady Standard" for a copy of their front page editorial suggesting and backing Rufus F. Higgs of Stephenville for a place on the State Highway Commission.

Quoted in part, their editorial reads: "Sometime between the present writing and Feb. 1, Governor James V. Allred will make a decision of interest and importance to the citizenry of the entire state of Texas, viz: His choice for appointment to the place on the Texas State Commission. The one certainty in the matter appears that Hon. D. K. Martin, present member of the Commission and whose term expires February 1 will retire.

Since the selecting of a man to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Martin's term of office and his anticipated retirement, appears open, we venture to place a nominee, a man whom, we thing, would not only fill the position creditably and capably, but one whose appointment by the governor would meet with wide spread approval throughout the State. We refer to Rufus F. Higgs of Stephenville.

"Starting from the ground up, Mr. Higgs has by sheer ability, energy and indomitable will, attained to a position as one of the leading, most forceable and most successful of newspapermen in the weekly publication field of Texas."

Mr. Higgs is well known over the state and is of this part of the state, and might have to go over Coryell county roads to Austin, and if he ever did, and was on the Highway Commission, it wouldn't be long before Coryell county would have some highways even with the local objection that in the past has manifested itself.

Anyway, if Mr. Higgs could do as good job for this part of the state on highways as he has done with his newspaper, The Stephenville Enterprise, he's our No. 1 selection to replace Mr. D. K. Martin as a member of that august board.

Mrs. S. E. Derden of Enid, Oklahoma, Mrs. J. E. Teat, Mrs. John Robbins of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Blanche Cox and Mrs. Jewel Hall of Fort Worth have been visiting Rev. G. L. Derrick and family of White Hall this week.

Miss Irma Lee Rutherford, who is a student in Howard Payne College, Brownwood, spent the past week end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Rutherford.

HORNETS TAKE ON TROJANS AT WEST TODAY

Gatesville Grimly Determined To Avoid the Third Lose of Season

The class will please take its seat and the Old Professor will begin his lecture on mythology and football.

According to Homer, (breathe his name in reverence) the men of Troy were defeated by a wooden horse, a peace offering from the Hostile Greeks. After the horse had been dragged into the city and the gates locked again by the still suspicious Trojans, the Greeks withdrew to their camps outside the besieged city to bide their time. And it came to pass that in the dead of night when the city was deep in slumber the belly of the horse opened and from it descended a daring band of Greeks, led by no less than the son of Achilles. Slaughtering the sleep-bound guards at the gates, they threw the portals open wide to the waiting Grecian hordes and Troy, at last, fell.

Time marched on, as it has a habit of doing, and history repeated itself, as the alarmists say.

In the year of our Roosevelt, all hail, nineteen hundred and thirty-two, the men of Troy,

(who have moved to West, Texas, in the intervening years) were on to the old wooden horse gag and repulsed the Grecians, (who have changed their name to Hornets, just for fun) in a horrible battle. The following year told the same story, and again the next year. Leaving their city behind them in the year nineteen hundred and thirty five, the Trojans ventured into the very citadel of the Grecians (Hornets), but instead of coming, seeing, and conquering, had to take it and leave it alone, retreating from the field of battle with heavy casualties.

And lo, it has come to pass that the Grecians are again girding their loins to scale the walls of Troy, to bring honor to their ravished record.

The shoulder pad has been substituted for the bucler and the rind of the swine for the sword, but the hostile spirit remains the same. Will Achilles sulk in his tent again this time, or will he come forth to smite the Trojans so that with another trick, such as the wooden horse of ancient days, or will coaches disguise their boys as a real football team to enable them to enter that sacred ground known as the "end zone?" Will his tory repeat itself and the walls of Troy again crumble under the attackers' onslaught, or are the Trojans all full of Bohemian beer and tough enough to tweak the invaders' noses with impunity? Time marches on!

This afternoon the Clifton game may be replayed, with Dvoracek of the Trojans taking the place of Bronstaad and running wild over the Hornets. It may also see a reversal of form and see the Hornets play as they should have played in the disastrous Clifton game. With two straight losses under their belts, they should be in the right state of mind to win a game.

In the Mart game they were outclassed by a superior team, but kept fighting until the final gun. The less said about the Clifton game the better, for that is only history now. West is the team to be played this afternoon and it should be a fairly evenly matched game.

Dvoracek is supposed to be one of the best backs in the district and has starred in every game he has played in so far. From his fullback post he has thrown his one hundred and eighty pounds around very effectively so far, but there is yet to be made the big men that can't be stopped. A smart linesman can gum up interference so that the linebackers have no trouble stopping the ball carrier. Of course, the Hornets have exhibited such tact very rarely so far, but perhaps this is the turning point. Smart football is preferred every time to the heedless bruising type.

The calamity howlers who have been pointing to the fact that West beat Clifton and Clifton beat Gatesville and are already conceding the game to the Trojans, have lost sight of the fact that Gatesville should have defeated Clifton too, although they didn't.

The game is no more than a toss-up. The smartest and hardest playing team will win, as usual. Which team that is will be decided on the field, not beforehand.

Gatesville is due a win, and West is due a letdown after their win over Clifton 19 to 0.

Don't bet either way, but if you do, take the Hornets to win, 18 to 12.

EXCERPTS FROM LETTER BY FORMER OLD-TIMER IN CORYELL

Mrs. J. P. Jones of Donna, Texas, who styles herself as an "old timer" in Coryell County writes a very interesting letter regarding a recent trip to the Rio Grande Valley, in which she says in part.

"I am an old timer in Coryell County and this Valley is a bright spot in Texas and has a bright future before it. Having deep water and large ships coming into Port Isabel and Port Brownsville from Germany, Italy and from all points of the world while I was there. There were very large ships anchored there ready to be loaded with cotton from a shed that looked like it was almost a quarter of a mile long.

"Now Hidalgo county is assured of an oil pool, a fine cotton crop, and the citrus possibilities all make it the coming country of the U. S. A."

VACANCIES IN AIR CORPS AT BROOKS FIELD IN SAN ANTONIO

There are a limited number of vacancies in the Air Corps at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas. Single men of character, temperate habits, and good physical condition, between the ages of 18 and 35 years who have completed high school are eligible for enlistment. Those between 18 and 21 years of age must have the consent of parents or guardian.

Enlistment in the Air Corps does not necessarily give one a chance to learn to fly a plane, but it does give men an opportunity for flights as passenger. Duty is on the ground and men are assigned to the particular kind of work for which they are best qualified and most needed at the time. Airplane mechanics, engine mechanics, welders, woodworkers, blacksmiths, chauffeurs, carpenters, radio operators, typists, general office workers, draftsmen, automobile mechanics, and workers in other trade are needed. Original enlistment are made in the grade of Private only. Promotion to higher grades and ratings depends upon the soldier's performance of and attention to duty.

A soldier has plenty of time for recreation. There is football, baseball, boxing, swimming, basketball, etc. The War Department theatre shows popular movies at very reasonable prices. Busses operate between the Field and San Antonio on a thirty minute schedule.

Those interested may write Recruiting Officer, Brooks Field, Texas, for further information; or, if they believe themselves eligible for enlistment, they may present themselves at Brooks Field for examination.

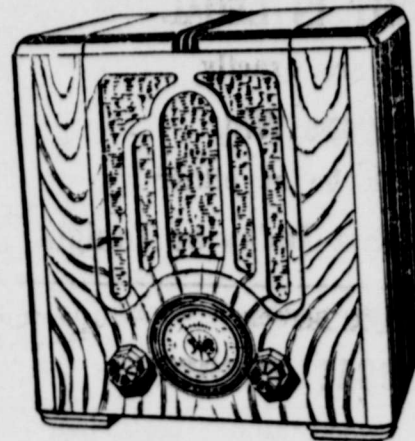

WINFRED BYROM ELECTED MEMBER COLLEGE CLUB

CANNING MEAT IN THE HOME

Cool weather is here again and bringing with it time for canning meat. Meat spoils more easily if canned in hot weather, so now is the best time to can your meats.

"The U. S. Depart of Agriculture and Texas A. and M. College Extension service recommend that all meats be processed under steam pressure. If no pressure canner is available, it is recommended that methods of preservation other than canning be used.

When large carcasses are to be canned in a single day or much of the processing done out of doors, tin cans are suggested. The pressure can be released at once and the cans easily and rapidly cooled in cold water. Glass jars are satisfactory when the time is not limited, the quantity to be canned in one day is not large, and the work is to be done indoors. The wide mouthed containers of either tin or glass facilitates the packing of larger pieces and results in a more attractive service. This is especially true of roasts.

The tenderness of meats can be preserved by proper cutting. For plain roasts the pieces should be cut large enough to fit in the can after the shrinkage of precooking. The muscle fiber should run lengthwise of the piece of meat. This permits slicing across the grain. Rolled roasts should be rolled so that they may be sliced across the grain when served. Steaks should never be cut less than three-fourths inch thick and always across to grain. The tougher or more scrappy parts of the carcass may be cut into small cubes for stew or hash or ground for meat loaf, chili, or hamburgers.

Sear meat one minute in very hot fat.

The seared meat may be packed directly into the containers and then filled containers may be preheated in a pressure cooker. 15 pounds for 20 minutes for No. 2 cans and 30 minutes for No. 3 cans.

Seal and process according to the cut of meat and recipe used—see bulletin C-55, "Canning Meat in the Home" for recipes, and methods of canning.

Included are these recipes for Pork: sausage, roasts, pork chops and spare ribs, head cheese mince meat, scrapple, liver paste, and pickled pigs feet. Recipes for beef, lam, and chevon: plain roast, steaks and chops, rolled roast, Swiss steak, stews, meat loaf, hamburger, chili, soup stock, has meat, brains, sweet breads, tongue, and heart.

This bulletin on meat canning may be obtained from the County Home Demonstrator at her office in the District Clerk's office.

Quality meat is firm, well cooked, but not stringy or broken by overcooking. The broth will congeal, and fat is less than one-fourth broth. The flavor is that of freshly cooked meat with an even blend of seasoning and being free of metallic or flat sour taste.

DURWARD TAYLOR ACCEPTS POSITION AT PECOS

Durward Taylor, projectionist for the Regal and Ritz Theatres of this city for the past three years, left Sunday morning for Pecos, Texas, where he will hold a like position at the Grand Theatre in that city.

Mr. Taylor goes well recommended, and our loss will be Pecos' gain. Mrs. Taylor will join him about first of the new year.

Robert Oldham, who has been assistant operator at the Regal and Ritz for the past two years, will be retained to take the place of Taylor. Bill Young, a former operator with the local movies, has also been employed by Mr. Brown as operator.

Mrs. Harry Benson, who has been in Wichita Falls for several weeks, returned to her home here Tuesday.

MRS. M. J. LIPSEY PASSES AWAY THURSDAY AFTER TWO WEEKS ILLNESS

Funeral services will be held today, Friday, October 30, for Mrs. M. J. Lipsey, 85, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ira Franks, on Thursday at 3 o'clock a. m. Reverends Clarence A. Morton and Marcus M. Chunn will conduct the service at the First Baptist Church this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Interment will be in the Union Cemetery, near Pidcoke.

Mrs. Lipsey was born August 13, 1851, in Lounds County, Alabama, and in March 16, 1869 became the wife of James Lipsey in Mississippi. To this union eight children were born, six of whom live to survive her passing; two sons having preceded her in death, and Mr. Lipsey having passed away in 1916.

Deceased has been a resident of Coryell County the past 59 years and has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ira Franks, of this city for the past 16 years. For four years she lived with another daughter, Mrs. I. N. Franks of Plainview.

Mrs. Lipsey had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church since childhood and was loved by all who knew her.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. R. P. Stone, Brownwood, Mrs. E. C. Woodlock of Abilene; Mrs. Ira Franks of this city; Mrs. I. N. Franks of the Plainview community; and two sons, Charlie L. Lipsey of Ames, and W. M. Lipsey of this city; by twenty-nine grandchildren, nine granddaughters, five great-grandsons, and nine great-granddaughters.

Pall bearers will be grandsons of the deceased.

Father La Blanc, pastor of St. Marie's Church in Lampasas and who is in charge of the Coryell, Burnet and Lampasas district, was here Monday and said mass.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

FINAL ELECTION FORECAST

The thirty-eighth presidential campaign nears its November 3 climax with President Roosevelt a pronounced favorite over Governor Alfred M. Landon. Although the odds on the Democratic nominee vary according to locality, 3 to 2 quotations are the most prevalent. This would seem to indicate that the country is in for a close contest, for since 1920 the odds have been one-sided in favor of one candidate. In 1920 experts bet 6 to 1 on Harding against Cox; in 1924 50 to 1 on Coolidge vs. Davis; in 1928, 10 to 1 on Hoover against Smith; and in 1932 5 to 1 on Roosevelt vs. Hoover.

All indications point to a grand total of about 44,000,000 votes this year as compared to 38,572,052 in 1912. Seven candidates representing as many parties or causes will share this vote with the winner undoubtedly being either Franklin Roosevelt or Alfred M. Landon. The contestants in this mammoth marathon are Alfred M. Landon (Republican), Franklin Roosevelt (Democrat), William Lemke (Unionist), Norman Thomas (Socialist), Earl Browder (Communist), D. Leigh Colvin (Prohibitionist), and John W. Aiken (Socialist-Laborite).

In the memorable year of 1932 Franklin Roosevelt polled 2,813,786 votes to Herbert Hoover's 15,758,266, a plurality of 7,054,520. Thomas, the Socialist candidate, received 881,951 votes; Foster, the communist candidate, 102,758; Upshaw, the prohibitionist nominee, 77,528; Harvey, of the Liberty party, which has not certified a candidate this year, 53,446; and Reynolds, Socialist Labor party, 34,034.

The emergence of a third party of greater potential strength than the minor parties listed above has projected a factor into the 1936 campaign which was not present in 1932. William Lemke, United States Representative from North Dakota, has entered his name in thirty-two states as a candidate for the Union Party, backed by Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the $200 a month pension advocate, Father Charles E. Coughlin, president of the National Union for Social Justice, and Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, self-styled heir to the throne of Huey P. Long as leader of the Share-the-Wealth movement. All indices point to a Lemke popular vote of about 1,500,000 in spite of assertions by Townsend, Coughlin and Smith that they can swing 10,000,000 votes or thereabouts to the third party candidate. Lemke, it is believed, does not constitute the threat which Robert La Follette the First did in 1924, when he polled 4,000,000 protest votes and carried his home state of Wisconsin.

The innumerable complex factors which make the 1936 race so undecided, have brought numerous defections from the ranks of both the Republicans and the Democrats. Among the G.O.P. bolters are United States Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, John W. Winant, former Governor of New Hampshire, the late James Couzens of Michigan, and Senators Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, George W. Norris of Nebraska, and R. M. La Follette Jr., of Wisconsin. Two former Democratic presidential nominees, Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis, and Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, James A. Reed, Joseph B. Ely, former chief executive of Massachusetts, Newton W. Baker, wartime War Secretary, William R. Hearst, W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, George N. Peek, and Henry Breckenridge are among those Democrats actively opposing the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Among the factors tending to turn the balance in favor of the Administration Paul Mallon, competent Washington observer, lists these, which we believe cover the list in its entirety:

I. Officeholders, including all those nominally on the Republican list, with these additions:

(a) Thirty-eight State Governors, seventy Democratic Senators and about 318 Representatives with State and district organizations.

(b) The number of new direct Federal employees, which the Civil Service Commission conservatively puts at 127,932, all of whose friends and families will vote.

(c) About 3,000 county agents under the agricultural program.

II. Direct beneficiaries:

(a) Six hundred thousand persons in the Civilian Conservation Corps, practically all of whom are of voting age, and their families.

(b) Those on relief (15,000,000 people).

(c) Recipients of farm benefit payments (3,000,000 persons) and their families.

Latest available reports of the Literary Digest poll and of the Institute of Public Opinion poll report, in the first instance, Governor Landon leading with 548 per cent to 40.7 per cent in the state by state vote for all parties. The latter computation places President Roosevelt ahead with 51.4 per cent to 43.8 per cent.

A poll conducted by "Current History" magazine among newspaper publishers shows the press of the Nation to favor Governor Landon by a ratio of about 3 to 2. One hundred fifty-four papers were polled. Ninety-two declared for Landon and sixty-two for Roosevelt. Among the critics in the newspaper field of the Roosevelt Administration are the Hearst publications (29 newspapers) and the Gannett chain (17 newspapers). The Tribune and News of Chicago, owned respectively by Col. Robert R. McCormick and Republican vice presidential nominee, Frank Knox have been particularly vitriolic in their criticisms of the party in power and of the chief executive. The Scripps-Howard of 23 newspapers, the News and the Times of New York City, and most of the papers in the South have backed the Administration and its policies.

Regardless of the outcome of the November election, the Democrats will control the Senate and probably the House for two or four years. As pointed out before in this column, the Democrats are assured of 59 mem-

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Hallowe'en Is Here Again

What madcap mischief is being plotted here? Thanks to camera and photo-flash these Hallowe'en dreadfuls have been caught in the act.

W H O O - O O ! B o o ! W h i s h - s h ! Clunk! Here is Hallowe'en coming on apace and all of us remembering the warning that on that night—

"The Gobble-uns 'll git you
If you don't watch out."

Well, what do you say, folks, to turning the tables this year and "gitting" the goblins? It can be done. What's more, you can expose them. How? By shooting these night-prowling scaremongers with your camera. In so doing you expose them and "git" them at the same time—on your film. See?

Yes, you can easily take Hallowe'en pictures, inside the house or out, dark and fearsome as the night may be. To photograph the outdoor goblins, the witches, ghosts, jack-o-lantern bogies and other horrors that come to play their spooky tricks at your windows and front door, you will need one or more photographic flashlight bulbs. For the regular indoor Hallowe'en party photographic floodlight bulbs for your electric light sockets may be used or flashlight bulbs, if you prefer. Inexpensive reflectors help.

The uninvited outdoor apparitions may not be expected to stay and pose for you if you alarm them by being in evidence when they approach; so you may have to lie in wait and surprise them—all the better for the picture. This means some ingenuity in finding a place of concealment from which your camera may be trained on them as they tip-toe up your walk. For this kind of picture, you must use a flashlight bulb. Your lens, of course, must be open at "time" when you set off the flash. If lights of any sort are within range of your lens, have your camera on a tripod or other rigid support; otherwise, you can hold the camera in your hand. Your young visitors will be surprised all right, but perhaps not unwilling to stay for another picture if you will allay their fears of being collared.

In the case of the invited spirits and such, coming as welcome guests to your Hallowe'en party, amusing pictures may be made indoors of the whole group posed in their fantastic costumes, and of two or three at a time playing the Hallowe'en games or doing their stunts.

For these pictures, do you know that there is a new floodlight bulb on the market with which you can take snapshots indoors at night with the slower-lens cameras, including even those of the box type? If yours is of this kind, you can make snapshot pictures of your guests by using a couple of these new floodlights, in reflectors, placed three or four feet from your subject, super-sensitive film, and the largest stop opening.

For snapshots with No. 1 floodlights, you should use two or three and a camera with an f.6.3 lens or faster, super-sensitive film and an exposure of 1/25 second, with the lens at the f.6.3, or larger, opening. If your lens is not so fast as f.6.3, make a short time exposure with these floodlights; or use a flashlight bulb in the same manner as for an outdoor picture at night, but turn out all the lights near your subject before you open the lens. Always, quicker exposures can be made with super-sensitive film, but with the flash bulb the chrome type will also yield splendid pictures.

Will this be fun? Try it. The spooks and goblins who see the pictures will be delighted at being exposed in this fashion and thus the pleasures and shudders of a memorable Hallowe'en can be enjoyed over and over again.

JOHN VAN GUILDER

EXPERIMENT STATION MAN DISCUSSES DISEASES OF SHEEP AND GOATS

"Sore Mouth is a most serious problem for sheep and goat men," stated Dr. H. Schmidt of the Texas Experiment Station to a group of Coryell County sheep and goat owners Tuesday afternoon in the district court room.

Sore Mouth is an infectious disease transmitted by contact only. Young sheep and goats are more susceptible than older animals. The first notable signs of infection are swelling of lips and the appearance of blisters on the lips. The blisters break and heavy scabs form in some cases to a very thick proportion making it most difficult and in many cases impossible for the animals to nurse and eat food. Emaciation and stunting of growth normally follow such conditions. One of the greatest worries is the breaking of the scabs and screw worm infection sets in which in itself runs the loss to many figures. Through the efforts of Dr. Schmidt sheep and goat raisers can now avoid with much efficiency Sore Mouth in their young animals. "The method of prevention is very simple, easy to administer and most effective, and costs only 1 cent per animal," stated Dr. Schmidt. Dr. Schmidt further states, "Once a pasture is infested it is a good practice to vaccinate or infest all lambs and kids early in the spring before fly time, and thus immunize the animals for life." The method for vaccination is very simple and is done by making on the inside of the back leg clean and applying Sore Mouth vaccine to a small area, approximately 1/2 inch square. The location of the vaccination should be far enough down on the leg that the sore will not rub against the belly of the animal. In approximately 5 weeks' time the resulting scab will fall off the animal and immunity has been realized. It is suggested that vaccination be done at the time the lambs are castrated and docked, but may be done any time the owner desires after the animal is one day old.

Dr. Schmidt next discussed intestinal parasites or stomach worms in sheep and goats, stating that most careful pasture management and drenching the animals was the most practical method of handling this continuous trouble affecting sheep and goats. Due to the mild climate of our section stomach worms are active the year round. Dr. Schmidt suggested that Blue Stone, Blackleaf 40 treatment for stomach worms had proven very effective. The formula for making this drench as suggested by Dr. Schmidt was 1 3-4 per cent blue stone and 8 per cent blackleaf 40 to be given as a drench at the rate of one C.C. per pound of body weight for the animal treated, thus a mature Rambouillet or Delaine sheep would receive approximately 4 ounces of drench. This drench to be most effective under commercial ranching conditions should be administered not less than twice at intervals of 15 days.

The Boys Vocational Agriculture classes of Gatesville High School set in on this most interesting discussion. County Agent A. J. Cotton of Burnet County stated that he had driven the 75 miles from his county here to get this information (Continued on last page)

DR. BLOCK, CENTRAL TEXAS WEATHERMAN SAYS "NO FREEZE"

Although the mercury was due to drop last night, and did, to below 40, Dr. Block, meteorologist for Central Texas, stated he did not think the freezing point would be reached.

Dr. J. L. Cline, Dallas weather observer, said east Texas would be colder and West Texas would see still more frigid weather, but the temperature would rise after today.

Desire

Many have a desire to graduate this year, others have the desire to pass their math course. At any rate, everybody has their pet desires. Hoping, rushing, yearning for the goal. After all, what would life be without desires and yearnings? Just a mere existence.

Maybe many were disappointed at their report cards this week, but now don't you have a desire to redeem yourself this coming six weeks? So, don't give up.

A desire is hard to express and yet too hard to suppress. Thinking it rather silly, you want to keep it to yourself, however, before you realize it you are trying to tell someone about it. No matter what your desire is, little or big, never give up until you have had it fulfilled and have reached your goal.—Odell Moore.

Centennial Trip

Recently, as everyone has probably read in the papers, Governor Allred proclaimed two days for each of the school districts of Texas to have their day at the Centennial.

This plan was readily approved and adopted, by almost all the teachers and parents in the State, and everyone is looking forward to his district's day, so that he can go.

The railroads also liked the plan and started offering special rates for the trip. Also special shows are shown of the "Cavalcade of Texas" the history of Texas shown in less than two hours' time.

An example of a town taking in the Centennial is that of the Beaumont district when they went last Monday because they could only carry one thousand and five hundred their original days and had to get two extra days to bring another thousand. Pretty good don't you think? Nearly everyone in Texas likes the plan and it would be very disappointing if any district or even any school if they missed going.—G. L. Schley.

Gatesville-Mart Game

The Hornets and the Mart Panthers engaged in a mud fight last Friday night with the Panthers the favorites. Although the Hornets showed much fight they were subdued by the Panthers by a 25-0 score. The Hornets were a much improved aggregation from the one the spectators saw the week before.

The Mart team was just too powerful for the Hornets. We have never seen such fine blocking and such a fast man on a class B team. Three of the four touchdowns went to the credit of Sandig. Mart also has another man for the district team. His name is Brady and the one that played such a fine game at guard.

The whole Hornet team played an exceptionally good game. The Hornet backs played a great game but the Mart team had a great defense. The Hornets played a great game and fought hard but the Mart team was too powerful.—Jack Straw.

Sport Flashes from G. H. S.

History has been made in the last five weeks. Not the kind that the next generation will be reading about, but football history. Up to date, three conference games have been played one won, two lost.

With a new field and under lights, the Hornets, unknown but potentially district champs, started their season against

Moody. The Hornets came out of this fray dragging a 26-0 victory. Out of the game came J. C. Byrom, who had proven (Continued on p. 11)

FOR DARNING!

I. E. S. BETTER SIGHT LAMP

- 1 Wide opening at top throws light to ceiling, eliminating shadows.
- 2 Glass bowl softens light, prevents glare.
- 3 Wide shade plus extra height of lamp spreads light over wide area.

If the mere thought of darning socks gives you a headache, cheer up! For "measured light" is coming to your rescue.

Scientists says it's perfectly natural that mending should be more tiring than reading a well-printed book. There's so little contrast between the sock and the darn that your eyes may demand many times more light.

And that's where the new scientific Light Meter comes in. It not only measures light as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature, its dial tells instantly how much light your eyes need for any given seeing task.

The I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp (left) provides several times as much light as the ordinary lamp using the same amount of current. It is scientifically designed for safe seeing.

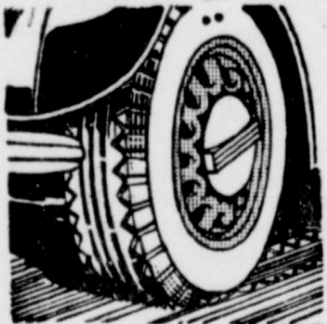

We'll be glad to measure your lighting with one of these new Light Meters without any cost or obligation on your part. Phone for an appointment today!

The LAST of the MOHICANS

RANDOLPH SCOTT • BINNIE BARNES • HENRY WILCOXON

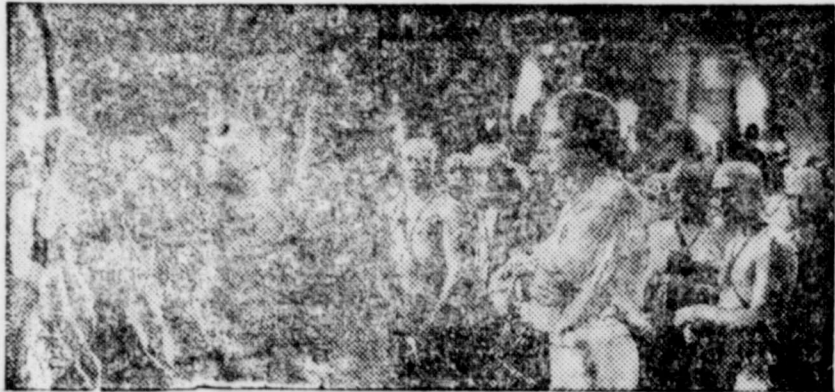

A RELIANCE PICTURE • Released thru UNITED ARTISTS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
The year 1757. Colonel Munro, defending Fort William Henry against General Montcalm, is forced to surrender. The Hurons, allies of the French, begin to massacre the helpless garrison. The Colonel is killed defending his two daughters, Cora and Alice, who are carried away by the Hurons. Hawkeye, a Colonial hunter, and his Mohican friends, Uncas and Chingachgook, have been imprisoned by Munro for insubordination, but they escape, and set out to rescue the girls.

Chapter XI

UNCAS AND MAGUA

Uncas drew his tomahawk and stepped to the edge of the cliff. As the first of the Hurons burst on to the ledge, Uncas was upon him like a whirlwind. The Huron dropped, the sharp stone in his skull. Magua's head appeared. His arm drew back. As Uncas spun to meet him, Magua's tomahawk struck him full in the side. Writhing on the ground, Uncas drew his knife, and sought to raise himself on one elbow. But Magua, con-temptuously, with one foot topped him off the ledge, to go hurtling down, two hundred feet below.

Magua breathed deeply, and advanced upon Cora. She, facing him, her eyes courageous, backed slowly towards the edge of the cliff as he advanced, and then, soundlessly, flung herself over the edge. Her body struck near the bank of the stream below. She was killed instantly. Uncas, still alive, crawled painfully towards her until he could barely touch her with his hand. And then his body, too, was still.

As Magua and the remaining Hurons peered over the cliff, grimly surveying their handiwork, a shot rang out. The Huron slumped on the ledge. Magua jumped back to safety.

It was Hawkeye's deadly rifle that had fired the shot. Now he began to reload, watching Magua, but Chingachgook shook his head. Hawkeye nodded. Magua belonged to Chingachgook. The Mohican cupped his hands and shouted: "Magua. Come down!"

Magua accepted the challenge. Tomahawk in hand, he began to clamber down the cliff, where Chingachgook, his rifle slung aside, awaited him.

As Hawkeye and Heyward watched grimly, there began a duel fought between two adversaries of equal strength and cunning. They parried and struck with their tomahawks with all the skill of fencers. Suddenly, they came to grips, and rolled to the ground. Chingachgook was on top, holding Magua's armed hand helpless to the ground with his left, while in his right hand the tomahawk was poised aloft, ready to strike, stayed only by Magua's taut free hand.

For a moment the implacable enemies glared their hatred. And then Chingachgook tore his hand free, and his tomahawk descended with fearful force. Magua was still. Breathing hard, the Mohican arose, sheathed his tomahawk, and stood impassive, with folded arms.

Silhouetted in the mist against the sky, near the edge of a great lake, were two cairns, containing the bodies of the unfortunate Uncas and Cora, united in death as they could never have been in life. Hawkeye and Heyward stood with bowed heads while Chingachgook spoke over the bier of his son.

"Great Spirit," said Chingachgook, "a warrior goes to you, swift and straight and unseen as an arrow shot into the sun. Welcome him and let him take his place at the council fire of my tribe which burns forever on the endless plains of the Happy Hunting Ground, for he is Uncas, my son. Bid them patience, and bid death speed, for they are all there but one — I, Chingachgook — last of the Mohicans."

As solemnly, Heyward recited all he could remember of the Church of England burial service for Cora. The last rites observed, Hawkeye and Heyward then held consultation, while Chingachgook remained passive, on the best method of saving Alice.

It appeared hopeless. The guards would be more watchful than ever. To attack the whole Huron village was out of question. Hawkeye could think of only one plan.

"If the Hurons had a prisoner they prized more highly than Alice," he said slowly.

Heyward understood at once. "I'll go."

Hawkeye shook his head. "I said a prisoner they valued more highly. In this war they've had British officers by the bushel. But they've waited a long time to burn me."

Heyward was nettled, but he concealed his irritation. A plan was forming in his mind.

"Do these Hurons know you?"

"Only by costume. It's sorter distinctive."

Heyward smiled, and suddenly snatched out his pistol, and with the butt end hit Hawkeye over the head. The scout slumped to the ground. Heyward bent over, and began to unfasten Hawkeye's clothes.

In the center of the Huron village, the stake had been set for Alice. One warrior was pounding it in place with a heavy wooden sledge, while the women piled brushwood around its foot. The torches lit up the scene for some distance around as Heyward entered the village, dressed in Hawkeye's clothes, and holding his hand aloft in a sign of peace. The Hurons gathered around him as he walked composed up to the stake.

"I am Hawkeye," he said, "tribe brother of the Mohicans. My rifle has slain many of your warriors."

The warriors muttered angrily. "What does Yangseese want," the Sachem demanded.

"You have paleface woman prisoner here. What are you going to do with her?"

"She dies in our fire," the Sachem answered.

"There is no honor in burning a woman." He paused. "But there is honor for the Hurons if a warrior burns." He pointed to himself. "A warrior as great as Hawkeye."

The Hurons were incredulous. "Will Hawkeye go to stake in place of squaw—if we let squaw go?"

Heyward nodded his head. The Hurons grunted with satisfaction.

"Hawkeye's word is good. The Hurons promise to let squaw go."

At a signal, two warriors seized Heyward and swiftly bound his hands. Alice was led from the tepee. She cried out when she saw him—"Duncan!"

"I am Hawkeye," Heyward said sternly.

"Now that's interesting," a voice drawled out from the shadows. "And maybe I'm the major. I never thought they'd make me into a lobsterback."

Hawkeye stepped forward into the light. The Sachem strode up to him. "Who are you?"

"I am Hawkeye."

BIG AIR THRILLER, "CHINA CLIPPER" BOOKED BY REGAL THEATRE

"China Clipper" which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Regal Theatre, beginning Saturday night 10:30 and continuing Sunday and Monday, is a glamorous romance of the air, marking a milestone in the pictorial history of daring aviation.

There is an exceptionally talented cast which includes Pat O'Brien, Beverly Roberts, and others as noted.

The picture treats of the daring long distance flights of the pioneers of aviation, men who gambled with death to drive their ships through storm and fog to make regular air service possible.

While the story itself is fictitious, it is based, to a large extent, on the hazardous flights of the famous China Clipper of the Pan-American Airways which not so long ago established an air service between Alameda, on the Pacific Coast near San Francisco, and the Philippine Islands.

O'Brien has the leading role, that of a war ace, who conceives the idea of establishing definite air routes from the U. S. to the South American countries, then to China, to span the world.

He has no trouble in interesting flyers in his work, men who are eager to risk their lives to fly the ocean, but he finds that capital is cautious and farid. Obsessed with the idea and enthused almost to the point of fanaticism, he finally manages to import some of his enthusiasm to men of wealth who join in his enterprise half heartedly.

His wife is estranged, his home broken up, but he struggles doggedly on. Beverly Roberts plays the role of his wife.

Ross Alexander plays the part of a war buddy of O'Brien's, who is his right hand man in the new enterprise. Bogart is another ace flyer in the service, but he becomes disgruntled at O'Brien's driving methods and quits him after a fierce hand to hand battle. But he too, finally sees O'Brien's vision and returns to fly his ship.

Miss Wilson has the role of a harum scarum girl who is in love with Alexander, but who turns up to get married to him just as he is about to leave for another part of the world.

The picture winds up in a glorious climax with the men of vision finally conquering the elements. The picture was directed by Raymond Enright.

himself one of the districts best broken-field runners. We learned that the Hornets had a great quarterback in John R. Colgia also a highstepper of note. Then came the Eagles from Bruceville-Eddy. The Hornets took this game by 26-7. In this game, all the linemen showed up nicely and a boy by the name of do. The first conference game do. The first conference game was coming up an so off the Hornets went to Valley Mills. In this game Joe Baker scampered all over the field and gave the Hornets the decision by 13-7. Again the line played a good game. The Hornets were now given the edge for the district title. But all good things must come to an end at one time or another. Clifton Cubs came to Gatesville and, dragged the Hornets into their den and slaughtered them by the score of 32-0. The trouble was: The Hornets were over confident and could not get cooperation. Then came Mart; the Hornets, red blood in their eyes, they went on the field, but they were beaten by a superior team. The score was 25-0. In this contest, the Hornets showed that they were a fighting team. —Jack Straw.

Dramatic Club

The fourth meeting of the High School Dramatic Club met Oct. 21. After the minutes were read and the roll was called, Miss Durham continued the reading of a comedy, entitled, Josiah's First Courting. Also another play was discussed and read. It was decided that the club would start work on three one-act plays and try outs would be made just after football season ended. Joe Baker will have charge of the program at next meeting. Ruth Bradford.

Straw and Jack Hestilow. Bob Thomas is the interlocuter. Very unique costumes and stage settings are being planned. You will hear more about the minstrel from time to time, and we hope and believe that it will be a success. —Jane Thomson.

Bus to West

It was announced Tuesday that only one bus would go to West today for the game. This one, of course, will carry the football players. There will be many Gatesville fans, but the pep squad will not attend the game. —Jenny Frank.

Future Farmers

Last Thursday morning, 11:30 o'clock the Gatesville chapter of Future Farmers assembled in the high school gymnasium for their regular business meeting. Quite a bit of business was attended to.

The meeting began by going through the opening ceremony then the house was opened for any business which should be brought up. First the Chapter Sweetheart was elected, then plans for the Coryell County Colt Show, which is to be held at the Powell and Caruth gin on Monday, November 2, were finished. The meeting then adjourned with the closing ceremony. —Raby Alford.

Report Cards

The report cards showing the record of the first six weeks were issued Tuesday. All were returned Wednesday, except those that do not have contact with their parents every night. Some were disappointed, and others happy, but it tells whether to start studying or not.

Personals

Mr. Maurice Ewing and Miss Alleyne Kinsey made a short visit to Gatesville last Saturday night. Mr. Ewing and Miss Kinsey taught in Gatesville High School last year.

Gladys Marie Phillips and Jack Reesing attended a concert in Waco Thursday night.

Grace Walker was absent two days last week.

Doris Polk visited in Waco last Saturday.

Helen Chamlee spent last Sunday in Waco.

Florence Martin has been absent for the last two weeks with mumps.

Jack Stray went to Waco last Saturday and attended the Baylor-A. and M. football game.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club met Monday, October 26. There was a short program given. Lura Williams gave a very interesting talk on Business Opportunities for Girls. Azalea Whisenhunt gave a talk on Business Opportunities for Girls With Home Economics Training. Sarah Henson gave a talk on Education a Necessity to Good Business.

The program committee announced that the club yearbook will be completed by the end of this week, and in the yearbook will be found programs for the entire year. Outstanding of the November programs will be an Armistice Day program on November 9, and a program on November 13, commemorating the birthday of Ellen H. Richards one of the pioneers in the field of Home Economics.

The Club adjourned to meet the following Monday, November 2, in its usual meeting. —Azalea Whisenhunt.

West-Gatesville Game

13 to 6, West! According to critics, that is to be the score of the game today between the Gatesville Hornets and West. But the score will be decided largely by the way the Hornets step Dvoracek, West's big full-back. Going by previous games, which the two teams have played with Clifton, West is 51 points better than Gatesville. However, the Hornets are scheduled to knock off a large part of this lead. Another disadvantage to the Hornets is that the game is to be played at West and, because of the distance, there is likely to be only a handful of Hornet rooters there. The dope gives a slight edge in the score of the game to West, but anything can happen in a football game.

Negro Minstrel

Under the direction of Mrs. Crist, the speech teacher in the Elementary School, a negro minstrel, composed of a chorus of high school boys and girls, is being practiced. The proceeds of the minstrel will be given to funds for an annual. The minstrel will consist of several song and dance numbers, solos, trios, etc. The four end men are Jack Reesing, Jack Hearn, Jack gardless of who is elected president. Although the Democrats will start out with 102 Southern states representatives, the Grand Old Party is counting on heavy gains in such normally Republican states as Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, New York, and Pennsylvania, which now have majority Democratic delegations.

Several senatorial contents are of particular interest to the entire nation. Predictions are that Idaho's William E. Borah will be re-elected; that Alf Landon's state will send Arthur Capper, Republican, back for another six years; that the Republicans will capture the Michigan seat of the late James Couzens; that it is possible Iowa's Lester J. Dickinson will be defeated; that James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, of Illinois, is in for the fight of his life; that Oregon will re-elect Charles L. McNary, Republican; that Delaware's veteran Daniel O. Hastings may be defeated; and that Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is in for the fight of his long career.

In this issue the writer makes a last pre-election forecast as to the probable results of the election. Two other forecasts—one in September, the second in the middle of October—have been printed in this column. In September we expressed the belief that Roosevelt would carry 29 states with a total of 263 electoral votes, Landon was conceded 15 states with 152 electoral votes, and four states with a total electoral vote of 116 were classed as "doubtful". Our second forecast, printed October 16, gave Roosevelt 272 electoral votes (a majority in the electoral college in 266) from

JUST HUMANS

By GENE CARR

"You're Right, Kid, Don't Wash Ya Face if Ya Hands Are Clean!"

28 states and Landon 259 electoral votes from 20 states.

Five changes are made in this, the final state-by-state compilation, from the October 16 prediction. New York shifts to the Democratic column; Colorado deserts the Landon cause for Roosevelt; Idaho enters the Roosevelt column after a previous classification for Landon; Illinois, one of the most doubtful of the doubtful states, abruptly swings to Roosevelt, and on the Pacific Coast, Oregon hastily changes course to return to Roosevelt.

And here is the final forecast:

The New England Region—All for Landon. 41 electoral votes. (This region is composed of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.)

The Middle Atlantic Region—New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware for Landon, 55 electoral votes. New York, Maryland and West Virginia for Roosevelt, 63 electoral votes.

The South—All for Roosevelt, 94 electoral votes.

The Southwestern Region—and their number may rise to 60 or above. The Republicans bers in the Senate next year Utah, Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico, for Roosevelt, 13 electoral votes.

The Northwestern Region—Wyoming for Landon, 3 electoral votes; Idaho, Colorado and Montana for Roosevelt, 14 electoral votes.

The Prairie Region—Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota for Landon, 24 electoral votes; Nebraska, Minnesota and North Dakota for Roosevelt, 22 electoral votes.

The Lower Mississippi Region—Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana for Roosevelt, 5 electoral votes.

The North Central Region—Michigan and Ohio for Landon 45 electoral votes; Wisconsin, Kentucky, Illinois, and Indiana for Roosevelt, electoral votes.

The Pacific Coast Region—Oregon Washington and California for Roosevelt, 35 electoral votes.

Grand total: Landon, 168; Roosevelt, 363.

Dr. Schmidt Talks—

for his sheep and goat men.

Much concern is being expressed by sheep and goatmen in this county because of an outbreak of Sore Mouth this season. But since we now know how the disease can be completely controlled, it will not be necessary to have the same trouble in the future.

The great losses from Stomach Worms have been most prevalent in this section than Sore Mouth in the past. Those who have used control methods this year are fully in accord with the statement that planned systematic drenching and pasture management must be followed if the best results are to be obtained.
