E. Price Bauman New Moniker for Grocery Clover Farm Store

Formerly known as H. Bauman & Son and owned jointly by H. Bauman and son Price Bauman, E. Price Bauman's Clover Farm Store is having its re-opening Saturday of this week, with a renewed interior, new stocks and a new purchasing arrangement.

Mr. Bauman stated, "Our store will still be locally owned, but by arrangement with the Clover Farm Stores, we are able to make distribution of merchandise to our market in Gatesville without waste, and by this joint purchasing arrangement, we are able to sell better merchandise at a cheaper rate than we have heretofore."

Newly finished in green and ivory, the colors of the national organization, the Clover Leaf Stores, Mr. Bauman's new store has a gas heating system that keeps the store at even temperatures at all times. A direct connection with a refrigerating plant, keeps meats in the department fresh and clean at all times.

Music, souvenirs, free groceries and special prices will greet the visitors to the E. Price Bauman's Clover Farm Store on Saturday, December 12.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD TO HOLD MEETING HERE DECEMBER 17

According to the County Superintendent, J. M. Witcher, there will be a meeting of the County School Board Thursday morning, Dec. 17, in the District Court room at the court house.

Mr. Witcher also stated that A. M. Tate, State Supervisor, would complete his visits to all schools in this county Monday and Tuesday of next week.

ROARING LIONS SOOTHED BY POPULAR CROONIN' WEDNESDAY NOON

To the enjoyment of all present was the program presented at the Lions Luncheon Wednesday when Jack Hearn, accompanied by Miss Belva McCoy at the piano, sang the "Organ Grinder's Swing," followed by another popular selection, "When Did You Leave Heaven" and in encore Miss McCoy sang "Me and the Moon."

Jack Barber of Pentress was a guest at the meeting.

THIRTY YEARS IN SERVICE WITH EXPRESS CO. IS MAYOR'S RECORD

Mayor C. E. Gandy, local agent for the Railway Express Company here, Tuesday completed 25 years continuous service at Gatesville with his company and their predecessors.

Mr. Gandy entered the service here December 6, 1911, as agent for Wells Fargo & Co., express, and when all the major companies were merged under the name of American Railway Express, and placed under government control, there was no change made at Gatesville. Later when the company was turned back to private industry there was still no change in the local management.

Mr. Gandy entered railroad service early in September 1906, and has already served more than thirty years continuously in transportation service.

When Mr. Gandy started here, the express company was using the familiar one-horse truck for hauling express. These large old draft horses were always a sight for the locals, since there are so few in this vicinity. Long ago, however, the horse was replaced by the light delivery truck, but the truck still bears a striking resemblance to the wagon of the past.

Mr. Gandy was elected Mayor of the city of Gatesville at the last city election and this, in addition to this late honor is something that Mr. Gandy, his friends, and the city of Gatesville should be proud to boast.

"EAT AT KELLEY'S" IS NEW SLOGAN AT NEW CAFE JUST OPENED

It probably isn't the slogan, but, with the nice tables, comfortable counters, speedy service on short orders, dinner coffee and, or whatever you want, you get it at the new Kelley's Cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley are owners and operators, and are welcomed here from Haskell, where they were operating a catering business there. They are related to the famous "Abe" Kelley of Baylor University fame, both in glorious victory and tragic accident.

We welcome these people, and in their new business you will find pleasing service, meals, short orders and what-not.

Banquet for Hornets Held at Gym Tuesday Evening; 250 Present

Over two hundred fifty people were dined and entertained at the delightful Annual Hornet Banquet held at the high school gym Tuesday evening of this week.

Under the able toastmastership of Judge R. B. Cross, the program moved off with precision and finesse which was remarkable for a banquet. The occasion was made possible by the Gatesville Lions Club.

Following, and in between a menu consisting of grapefruit cocktail, roast turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, creamed potatoes, English peas, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, apple pie whipped cream and coffee, the program given was as follows:

Invocation, Rev. C. A. Morton.

Toasts

To the Hornets of '36, Pat Olsen.

Response, Joe Satterfield.

To the Coaches, Judge Floyd Zeigler.

Response, Coach Earle Worley, and Fred Schwarz.

To the Pep Squad, Joe Baker.

Response, Frances McCoy and D. W. Diserens.

Presentation of present to Miss Ernestine Durham, Ruth Hamilton.

Response, Miss Ernestine Durham.

Presentation of award to the Most Valuable Player, Pat Holt. The School's Interest, Supt. Erceel W. Brooks.

Special Entertainment, Miss June Sevier, C. G. Whitcomb, and Jack Reesing.

Address of the evening, Ralph Wolf, Director of Athletics, Baylor University.

School Song, the Assembly.

Joe Baker, who among any critics, would be declared the most valuable man on the Hornet 1936 club, was presented a token in recognition of his able work.

Miss Sevier's numbers included two tap routines and a costume number, while C. G. Whitcomb, able songster, presented three creditably received numbers. Jack Reesing, local pianist of note, was accompanist for both artists.

Mr. Wolf in his talk stressed the moulding of character as well as physique in the building and training of high school students in the rudiments of football, and stated the winning of games should not be the main ideal of the high school team, although this was a necessary goal to strive toward.

DICK HINSON NOT AT JIM MARTIN TAILOR SHOP

FORMER INMATE OF STATE SCHOOL HOLDS UP WACO SALESMAN

F. R. Shaver, Waco salesman, was held up by a young gunman with an automatic Tuesday afternoon after he had taken his assailant out to demonstrate a car to him.

The boy was on parole from the State Juvenile Training School here, and took Shaver's car and money and disappeared. He was picked up four hours later and identified by Shaver.

New Zealand reports that that it has many vacant cells in its prisons which were crowded 5 years ago.

King Edward VIII abdicated yesterday from the throne of Great Britain, renouncing for love, the rulership over the world's greatest empire and one-quarter of the inhabitants of the globe. Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson was one of the main reasons for this decision, although it is stated he didn't want to be King anyway.

The Duke of York, who will become King of England in his stead, was officially made king in a meeting of both Houses of Parliament at a meeting at 5:00 a. m., Eastern Standard time, (11:00 a. m. London time) this morning and, according to radio broadcast last night, will be called either King George VI or King Albert I.

Mrs. Simpson, at present in the home of Herman L. Rogers villa at Cannes, France, on the Riviera, is in seclusion and will remain there thru Christmas. She was informed before the general public that the king would abdicate, thru a telephone call from the Prince on Wednesday, in a monosyllabic telephone message, and immediately retired to her room sobbing, according to radio press reports.

The Duke of York, who is now King of England, is loved by all his subjects as examples of royal and personal virtues. The Queen, who will be known as Queen Elizabeth is the daughter of a Scottish peer of comparative security, but she has risen to the position of seteam and public affection.

The Duke, christened Albert Frederick Arthur George, was born December 14, 1895 at York Cottage, Sandringham. He studied at Osborne in the Naval academy and went to sea for six months.

The Prince will leave shortly for Cannes, it is supposed, and has his baggage packed and sent to Fort Belvedere, where for seven days he fought out the conflict between duty and love.

The King, in conversation with Premier Baldwin stated to him, "I am going to marry Mrs. Simpson and I am prepared to go." Such was the informal message given by the king when he, a few days ago said he had something he wanted to say to the Premier.

Baptists Banquet Members and Visitors

Featuring deer meat, brought by two interpid local sportsmen churchmen, the Annual Baptist Fellowship Banquet was held last night in the Banquet hall of the First Baptist Church, Horace Jackson, acting as toastmaster. Approximately 250 men were present.

After a major portion of the menu consisting of sweet potatoes, snap beans, Irish potatoes, roast vension, pickles and a delicious concoction know as perfection salad, pecan pie with whipped cream, and coffee actually with cream and sugar, the program got underway with: Invocation, Rev. C. A. Morton, Pastor.

Welcome ..... Lee Colwick

Appreciation for the youngsters ..... Ed Foster

To the Youth.....Erceel W. Brooks.

To the Newcomers....Garner Stockburger.

To the Oldsters....Dan E. Graves.

Following the brief program a pantomime of a routine of a deacon's meeting, originated by Mrs. B. K. Cooper, was cleverly acted by a number of younger people present, each personifying such men as Dan E. Graves, Rev. C. A. Morton, Ed. Foster, Jeff Bates, Willis M.

Jones, J. M. Prewitt, J. M. Witcher, Cyril Hudson, Price Graves, and the other members of the Board of Deacons of the church, thus ending a very enjoyable occasion, and the climax of the big week of banquets, which will be good preparation for the Christmas "stuffing" which is just about to break.

The ladies of the church, the committees on arrangements, the program committee, the dear deer hunters, and all others who had a hand in the lovely and very edible spread are to be congratulated on the splendid way the whole evening's entertainment was handled.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

I RECKON a jockey has a tough time of it, because he can't always win, and he gets blamed for everything the horse don't do. I heard that the owner of a fast racehorse was awful mad lately when his nag finished away back in a mighty important race. He called the jockey in and gave him an awful pawing that could be heard clear outdoors.

He says, at last, "Ain't instructions anything to you? Didn't I tell you to pass 'em all at the home stretch, and come in two lengths ahead?"

"Yeah, you did, all right," says the jockey, kinda shamefaced like, "and I reckon I should'a done it. But I couldn't a-bear to come in without the horse; I'm that fond of him, sir!"

Miss Ruth Raby Franks Is Hostess Wednesday.

Christmas decorations beautified the home of Miss Ruth Raby Franks on College street Wednesday afternoon when she entertained members and guests of the Wednesday Contract Club.

In games of bridge Mesdames Floyd Zeigler and Billy Nesbitt won high score awards.

At the conclusion of games the hostess served a dessert course of red and green fruit jello, nut cookies and stuffed dates to the following: Mesdames Louis Neuman, Billy Nesbitt, Sherrill Kendrick, Peyton Morgan, Jim J. Brown, Floyd Zeigler, E. W. Jones Jr., Charles Powell, Clark Jensen, Kirby Perryman and Misses Grace Richards and Elaine Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barber and children of Fentress were guests of her mother, Mrs. Milton Patillo, the first part of this week. Mrs. Barber was the former Miss Dorothy Patillo before her marriage.

J. E. Neel of Ft. Worth Buried at Jonesboro Wednesday Afternoon

Funeral services were held at Jonesboro Wednesday at 4 p. m. for J. E. Neel, age 53, of 1212 Lowe street, Fort Worth, who was killed Tuesday from a fall at Austin.

For the past twenty years, Mr. Neel had made Fort Worth his home. He had been employed in Austin less than two weeks when the fatal accident occurred. He was doing some construction work on one of the buildings at the University of Texas when he slipped and fell eight feet to the ground below, breaking his neck.

He is survived by his widow two daughters, Mrs. O. W. McCurdy, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Earl Pate, and one son Du Edwin Neel, Hobbs, New Mexico, and four grandchildren.

Mr. Neel had been engaged in construction work for a number of years and was working for the J. E. Morgan Con. Co. He was a member of the Baptist church.

French Pie Crust

Two and one-half cups flour, 1 tsp. salt 3-4 cups shortening, cold water.

Sift flour once, then sift once with salt. Cut shortening into flour with knife. Crumble with tip of fingers until mixture of the consistency of large grains of corn. Cut the liquid in with the edge of a spoon. Toss onto floured board and knead for 2 or 3 minutes. Roll out in a thin sheet and bake in pie tin at 400 degrees F. for about ten minutes.

Old-Fashioned Cobbler Pie Dough

Two cups flour, 1/2 cup shortening or butter, 3-4 tsp. salt, enough cold water to make a stiff dough.

Sift flour and salt together 4 times. Cut shortening in with knife and crumble with tips of fingers, but DO NOT cream the shortening with the flour, simply crumble it with the flour. Add water slowly and cut it in with the edge of a spoon until stiff dough has been formed. Toss onto dough board, knead for a second or two and roll out. This dough can be kept several days by rolling it in oil paper, placing it in the refrigerator in a covered bowl.

Peach Cobbler

Heat peaches, fresh or canned, until hot through and through. Cover sides and bottom of pie dish with Old-Fashioned Cobbler Pie Dough which has been rolled out 1-4 inch thick. Pour into this the hot peaches, enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Add 1/2 cup granulated sugar if canned peaches are used and 1 cup if fresh peaches are used. Shake lightly with cinnamon. Dr. with butter. Cover top of peaches with thinly rolled out layer of pastry, another layer of peaches, sugar and butter in the same manner, then strip the top, with narrow strips of pastry lengthwise and then across sprinkle top with sugar. Bake in a 400 degree F. oven for 40 or 45 minutes.

Popovers

These popovers may be used as part of any variety.

One cup flour, 2 eggs, 1 tbsp. melted butter, 2-3 cup milk, 1/2 cup salt, 1 tsp. sugar. Beat eggs well. Add soft or melted butter, 2-3 cup milk, 1/2 Beat for two or three minutes. Pour this into the flour sifted four times and beat again for two or three minutes. Pour into hot, well buttered muffin tins about 2-3 full and bake in hot oven 450 degrees F. for 30 minutes or until a golden brown.

When used for tarts, take a sharp knife and slice a very thin slice from top, trim out center, fill with any desired filling and then press the slice from top back in place.

SPORTS

The latest version of the Gatesville High School Hornets takes to the hardwood floor of the local gym tomorrow night to meet the strong Brownwood Lions.

Rated as one of the best high school basketball teams in the state, Brownwood will bring a smooth working quintet here tonight seldom witnessed in local sport circles. In the last four years Coach Mac Miller has taken his basketball team to the State Finals three times, which is some indication of their consistent strength.

The Lions only started their practice training December 1, and have had no games so far. Their strength can not be estimated yet but a letter from Mac Miller game some interesting information as to their prospects for the season.

Fifty men are working out but only one letter man, Johnnie McHorse, is back. The average height of the team is 5 feet, 11½ inches, and most of the boys are seniors and juniors with plenty of experience. Alfred McBride, center, boasts of the unusual height of 6 feet, 5 inches, and should be something to watch in action.

Probable Lion Starting Lineup

Fisher and Sellers, forwards,

nos. 27 and 25, 6 ft. and 6 ft.

McBride center, no. 23, 6 ft.,

5 inches.

McHorse and Snider, guards,

nos. 24 and 29, 5 ft., 11 in., and 5 ft., 9 in.

How the Hornets will fare

in these two engagements Friday and Saturday nights will be a good indication of their strength and prospects for a successful season.

With the addition of an excellent gymnasium to the extracurricular activities of Gatesville

High school there is no reason why the school should not boast a strong aggregation every year.

From the rural districts of Cory-yell county comes basketball material as good as any in the state. In former years Gatesville has had excellent teams and with this added incentive basketball stock should soar.

The ability of the Hornet quintet is little known as yet. In the three games they have played this season, they have won from McGregor and the Gatesville C. C. C. Camp and lost to Jonesboro.

Turner, Moore, Gilbreth, White and King will probably get the starting call tonight for the Black and Gold. For the basketball fan, tonight's card will afford real entertainment.

For a bangup football team give me the Alley Rats any time. I humbly take off my hat to them for their defeat of the High School Seniors. Anyone who can live the lives they have and then go out and play football like that is deserving of highest honors.

Ward, Poston, Anderson, Ricketts, Thompson, Holt, McClarty, Hair and all the rest played a brand of football that was really amazing considering the conditions under which they labored and the length of time they have been out of the harness.

The Seniors had every pregame advantage but proved inadequate to the ramming tactics of the Rats. Despite the inclement weather the game was above par and worth braving the elements to witness.

For the Rats, Ward and Rogers starred on the offense and Cummings, Poston and Holt were mountains of defense. For the Seniors, Baker and Byrom stood out.

Speaking of athletics, why not give the muscle-dancer at the Football Banquet a big hand. Although we paid little attention to her rhythmic tributes to Terpsichore her initial costume did catch our eye.

By request we are repeating the program for the Turnersville Basketball Tournament on December 11 and 12

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

If the British people could speak to day, they would tell King Edward to take Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson as his wife. But in England, the perfect example of a democratic nation, the majority is not speaking today in the gravest constitutional crisis the empire has faced in the long space of 600 years.

While he is sincerely voicing the convictions of a small majority who comprise the aristocracy and bourgeois of Britain, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, austere, conservative, a bit headstrong, constitutes the chief obstacle to the marriage of the monarch to the American girl from Baltimore.

Of the three aparent reasons for opposing marriage on the part of the British Cabinet, the fact that Mrs. Simpson has two living former husbands predominates over the fact that she is foreign born and is a commoner and constitutes the principal cause of controversy.

The impasse created by the last weeks events will probably be broken this week and England will either have a new ruler or be faced with the prospect of an American queen in the quite near future.

The Bishop of Badford precipitated the swift drama by making the first public reference (in England) to the affair when he declared the King needed more grace to be fit for coronation as Britain's ruler. The long-silent British press then opened up and spilled the entire story in the laps of an astounded British populace, who heretofore had heard of Mrs. Simpson's relations with their King only through gossip channels.

Following the Bishops utterances, the Cabinet summoned the king and notified His Majesty that he could not marry Mrs. Simpson and retain his throne. Thursday Premier Baldwin conferred with Edward and reportedly gave him until 7 p. m. Friday to declare his intentions. On Friday Baldwin announced that there is no such as a morganatic marriage under British laws and that Edward could not marry Mrs. Simpson and remain King of England. On the same day the King sent Mrs. Simpson with two of his secretaries to France. Saturday the Cabinet met, but failed to make any progress, adjourning until this week.

As to the outcome of the Simpson affair nothing can be predicted with any degree of accuracy. The press and the common people of England are believed to be swinging toward the king and thus two powerful obstacles may be placed in the path of Prime Minister Baldwin's plans for forcing abdication by Edward if he fails to capitulate to the demands of the conservative leader.

On the other hand, parliament is the real ruler of England and Baldwin controls a majority in parliament.

Last week the press of London stated the case in frank and sometimes harsh language. Said the "Daily Telegraph," a most reserved, conservative, organ:

"We could not utter a single derogatory word regarding the lady whom King Edward has expressed his determination to marry. Nor does the lady's rank or absence of title count in this reckoning.

"But it matters in the highest degree, it matters radically, it matters constitutionally, that the first lady of the land shall be untouched by such rumors as of late have been in general circulated throughout the world.

"Queen Mary, Queen Alexandra, Queen Victoria—these have been the Queens of England whom this country and Empire have known for a full century. And they will not tolerate any other or different standard of queenship."

The editorial quoted above may be said to be a fair criteria of that case of the conservatives as personified by Mr. Baldwin.

"The Times," regarded in this emergency as the authoritative voice of the government, said: "Let there be no misunderstanding about the character of the objection to such a marriage as the King has been understood to contemplate.

"It has been diligently put about in other countries and repeated here that the root of it lies in some old-fashioned conventional dislike of the marriage of the King with a 'commoner' or an American. Nothing could possibly be farther from the truth.

"One objection, and it is an overwhelming objection, to the marriage which His Majesty is believed to have projected is that the lady in question already has two former husbands living, from which in succession she has obtained divorce."

Staid Britishers, shocked but sympathetic Americans, must not deceive themselves in believing there's nothing new nor novel about an English king marrying a commoner.

In days gone by when English kings, like the present Edward VIII, found love and such outside the royal circles, they married, protest, if any, notwithstanding.

The Review of Reviews points out that close to one-third of the kings of England have married non-royalty. Included in this group was, of course, Henry VIII, the fellow who had six wives four of them commoners. William, the Conqueror married royalty but his mother was a tanner's daughter. Henry IV was the son of a non-royal couple. Henry II married a divorced woman, Eleanor of Aquitaine, ex-wife of the French king. The noblest battler of them all, "The Black Prince," Edward, Prince of Wales, died before he reached the throne, but had he been crowned the queen would have been a commoner.

Edward IV married a widow—a commoner. Edward himself was non-royalty as far as his parents were concerned.

Take them one by one—there was John, who married an heiress; Richard III, who was wedded a politician's daughter; James II, whose common wife died and the royal lady he later married caused him to be chased off the throne.

Of course, there was George IV, alleged first gentleman of fashion, who said, "I do" with Mary Anne Fitzherbert by his side. She was twice a widow, and a Catholic in the bargain.

Oliver and Richard Cromwell married commoners, Mary, queen of Scots, specialized there. She married three one of which had her husband's head cut off.

And in the King's own family there exists non-royal wedlocks. Three of his brothers and sisters, the Dukes of York and Gloucester and Princess Mary, have married non-royals.

Small establishments, such as barber shops, beauty parlors, and cleaning and dyeing shops did a $2,000,000,000 business in the United States in 1935.

The reign of Pepi II of the sixth Egyptian dynasty is believed to have been the longest in history. Historians say he ascended the throne of Egypt about 2566 B. C., when he was six years old and reigned from 90 to 100 years.

A complete set of autographs of the president of the United States, from Washington to Hoover, with an engraved portrait of each, sold in New York recently for $675.

Numerically, barber shops lead the country's small "service establishments."

There are only 25,000 species of backboneed animals but 250,000 of those without backbone.

STATE-AID APPROPRIATION FOR COPPERAS COVE SCHOOL INCREASED

State aid appropriation of $2,345 for the Copperas Cove school was made following the recent visit of A. M. Tate of Waco, deputy state superintendent, as was announced by J. C. Culwell, superintendent of the Copperas Cove Schools.

The appropriation is larger than any ever appropriated was the belief of Mr. Culwell.

The visit to the school was for inspection for state aid, and the inspector will return in the near future to inspect the school for accrediting.—Copperas Cove Crony.

T. P. & L. PLANNING THREE RURAL LINES FROM COPPERAS COVE

Electric service may soon be available for persons living along the highway between Copperas Cove and Clear Creek, it was announced Monday by Ausin Griffin, a representative of the Texas Power and Light Company, who is in Copperas Cove working on the project.

Tentative plans call for the line to be extended from Copperas Cove along the highway to Clear Creek, serving the residents along the highway.

Whether the line will be erected depends upon the number of people along the proposed line who will make the service.

Two other lines proposed by T. P. & L., one extending from Copperas Cove to Antelope and the other to extend from Copperas Cove to Kempner.

Construction of any lines from Copperas Cove will probably start about January 1, this being the earliest possible date.—Copperas Cove Crony.

MRS. REBEKAH E. BONDS PASSES AWAY MON.

Mrs. Rebekah E. Bonds was born January 4, 1854 in Tippecanoe county, Miss., and came to Coryell County in Texas, 1863. She was married to W. R. Bonds of Coryell County where she resided since she was fourteen years of age. To this union were born eleven children.

Mrs. Bonds professed faith in Christ while a girl and was baptised into the fellowship of the Baptist Church and has been a consistent Christian all of her life.

The deceased has been ill for some time and passed away at her home in this city Monday, Dec. 7. Funeral services were held in the Bethel cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. O. Jolly of Waco officiated at both services.

She is survived by the following children Joe, Press, Luther, Walter Allen and Mrs. Rosa Patterson, Mrs. Etta Clemons, Mrs. Jamie Cummings and Mrs. Laura Robertson.

BIT'S PHILOSOPHY by DEAN E. V. WHITE TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

A homely person does not have to get over being beautiful. Anything gained by underhanded methods is not worth having.

Knocking another compliments him while belittling yourself.

If your feelings are healthy, no one is strong enough to wound them.

Do not try to acquire a reputation that you cannot live up to.

We seldom accuse another of lying as long as he compliments us.

It is a poor ambition that permits a man to desire pity.

Slamming the door never caused a pleasant thought.

Old people may ride, but only youth will always ride in the saddle.

Some people hop in front of the crowd that is already started and call themselves leaders.

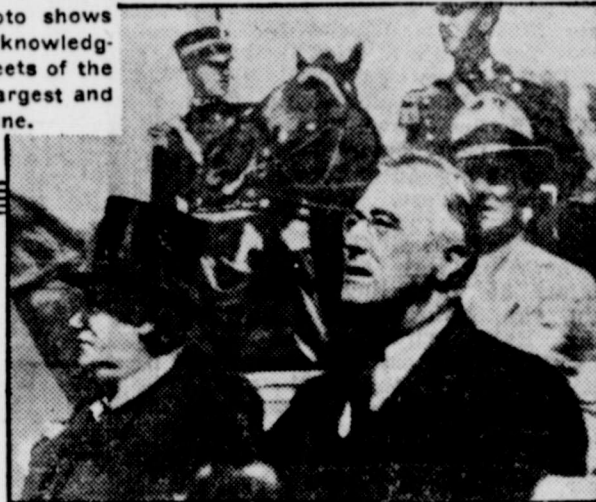

13 days 'till Christmas.

Threading a Needle

Threading a needle is as difficult and as nerve-racking for some people as solving a very complicated math problem. From outside appearances what possibly could be more simpler and easier than threading a needle? It isn't a known fact whether threading a needle is really an art or otherwise. At any rate, it is a known fact that it can wear one's nerves to a frazzle in an astonishingly quick time. And the person with even the sweetest temper sometimes mutters unintelligible words under their breath.

Not only does threading a needle call for self control, but everything in every walk of life calls for the same thing. So, if you can manage self-control all the time and at any time, you deserve a gold medal and your bones laid in Westminster Abbey.

Senior "Alley Rat" Game

Monday night at the new football stadium, the Seniors of 1936 tangled with the well-known Alley Rats of Gatesville in a football game.

The starting line-up for both teams was as follows:

Alley Rats	Position	Seniors
Poston	r e	Wicker
Holt	r t	McDonald
R. Brown	r g	Ivy
Cummings (c)	l g	Davis
Thompson	l t	King
Hinesley	l t	Brazzil
Ward	l e (c)	Satterfield
Ricketts	q b	(c) Baker
Anderson	h b	Byrom
McClarty	h b	Colgin
Hall	f b	White

The Seniors kicked to the Seniors 24 yard line. The Alley Rats, not able to gain, kicked to the Seniors on their own 45 yard line. Unable to gain, the Seniors kicked back to the Alley Rats on their own 39 yard line. Ricketts taking the ball made a first down to the 28 yard line. The Alley Rats kicked to the Seniors 42 yard line. Baker taking the ball made 4 yards on the next play he lost four yards. Byrom taking the ball on the third down ran 38 yards for a touchdown. Shortly after that the first quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Alley Rats ball on the 32 yd. line. Ricketts made two yards on the first play. A pass completed for nine yards making it a first down. Unable to gain, the Alley Rats kicked to the Seniors 45 yard line where the Seniors picked up five yards on the first play. Unable to make more yardage, the Seniors kicked to the Alley Rats 42 yard line. The Alley Rats made no gain on first down. A pass completed from Hair to Ward for a touchdown. Failed to make extra point on flat zone pass. The Alley Rats kicked to Seniors 2 yard line. The seniors kicked back to the Seniors 33 yard line. The Alley Rats picked up five yards on first down. On second down a pass completed from Hair to Hall on 2 yard line. Half ended there.

Third Quarter

The Alley Rats kicked to the Seniors 35 yard line. After no gain, the Seniors kicked to the Alley Rats own 33 yard line. Ricketts made a first down. Rogers taking the ball made another first down. Rogers in bucking the line made no gain. Another first down made by Hair. Another first down made by McClarty on a pass. The next play Byrom intercepted a pass on 35 yard line. First play Seniors made no gain. On second down a pass was completed from Byrom to Wicker for 6 yards. Baker taking the ball made a first down. A pass was attempted but was incomplete. Unable to gain, the Seniors kicked to the Alley Rats 32 yard line. The Alley Rats picked up 11 yards for a first down, then 6 yards, then 8 yards for another first down on the 11 yard line. No gain was made on the next play. The quarter ended there with the score 7-6.

Fourth Quarter

A pass completed from Hair to Rogers on 2 yard line which made a first down. Pass completed from Hair to Ward for a touchdown. Extra point was not made, the score was now 12-7 in favor of the Alley Rats. The Alley Rats kicked to the Seniors 31 yard line. Pass tried on first down but incomplete. Hair intercepted the pass and ran to the 35 yard line. The Seniors intercepted a pass on the 40 yard line and tackled there. Long pass tried but failed. Byrom took ball and made first down. Pass completed to Wicker to 30 yard line. Byrom again made a first down to 11 yard line. Poston intercepted pass running to 29 yard line. Game ended there with the score still 12-7.

Passes Tried

Alley Rats ..... 11
Seniors ..... 17

Passes Completed

Alley Rats ..... 7
Seniors ..... 9

First Downs

The fans were well satisfied with the way the two teams fought throughout the entire period. Byrom and Baker starred on the Senior team while Hair Rogers and McClarty starred for the Alley Rats. McClarty showed nice hustle and fighting even if he is a soft drink dispenser. Little Hair's passes were true and counted for the Alley Rats markers, Ward making some nice catches.

Friday Chapel Program

Last Friday a very interesting program was presented in chapel. A no-talking one act play with C. H. Wallace as the leading man and John Rufus Colgin as his servant was first presented. The story was of a young man advertising for a wife. Many candidates were presented such as the Widow, played by Bertha Lillian Stewart, the movie star by Jane Thomson, and Miss Voice played by Helen Waley. Some other interesting things were a reading by Betty Jo Warren and a scene by Jimmy Wardell and Betty Jo Warren. Some of these character were from Grammar School but most of them were students of the High School. The program as enjoyed immensely by everyone.

advances into 1937 with the
and new operating economy

THE ADDITION of a new 60-horsepower engine to the Ford line for 1937 brings you a new, low price and gives you a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines. 85 horsepower for maximum performance. 60 horsepower for maximum economy.

The 60-horsepower V-8 engine was originally developed for use in England and France, where fuel costs are high. It has been proven there for two years with brilliant success. Now, brought to America, it creates an entirely new standard of modern motoring economy!

The "60" engine, available in five body types, is built in exactly the same body size and wheelbase — to the same advanced design — with the same comfort and convenience as the "85." And it delivers V-8 smoothness at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Two engine sizes—but only one car and one purpose—to give you more miles and more satisfaction for your money in 1937.

HORNETS' NEST—

Of the most promising students to leave G. H. S. Cotton Davis has organized a "Chump Club"—their pass word chump, chump, chump. For the first three games the total score was 68 points to the opposition's 13 and the Sport's Editor, Jack Straw, predicted the total scores 66 to the enemy's 12—a doggone good prediction. Before the "Alley-Rat" game was played, there was a rumor going around that when the "Rats" got the ball someone was going to turn out the lights so they could run for a touchdown and Joe Satterfield as complaining until Ruth Hamilton shut him up with, "What's the matter, Joe, scared of the dark?" Utense Sellers will be missed around the campus. If anyone ever had the school spirit it was "Tense." How many remember when Cotton Davis and Mary Ann Post were counting the stars together. When Cotton introduced Mary Ann to his mother, he said, "Mama, this is my gal." Overheard: I don't believe that Mrs. Simpson loves the King, she never has said she does." To which her companion retorted, "She isn't supposed to tell the world, she's supposed to tell him." Margaret Kelso's contribution to the pep yell is this one—"Beans and soup, beans and soup, we want a touchdown, poop-poop-a-doop." Hey, you slug, that egg you threw wasn't rotten, it was petrified.

F. F. A. News

Mr. W. E. Lasseter, the local Vocational Agriculture teacher, accompanied by Supt. Brooks and Mrs. Ned Chapman, the Home Economics teacher, all from the Gatesville High School left last Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, to attend a teacher's meeting in San Antonio.

During his absence, he had appointed Mr. Goff from the local CCC Camp and Mr. Guy Powell, the County Agent to speak to the F. F. A. boys.

Mr. Goff gave a very interesting talk Thursday on soil erosion. He explained how destructive sheet and gully erosion are and how they can be controlled. He also explained the farm maps which have been made of different farms in this county and what each symbol on the map means.

Mr. Powell spoke Friday giving some valuable information on how to prepare livestock for the show ring to make them appear their best. He also stated that the people in Coryell County should take more interest in livestock and make this county grow important in the livestock industry.

Notice

The Father and Son banquet which was planned for Wednesday evening has been postponed due to a conflict in banquets this week.

Football Banquet

The annual football banquet was held Tuesday night, December 8, 1936. Ralph Wolfe of Baylor was the principal speaker. Judge R. B. Cross acted as toastmaster, and Rev. C. A. Morton gave the invocation. Others taking part on the program were Supt. Erceell W. Brooks, C. E. Alvis Jr., Joe Satterfield, Floyd Zeigler Joe Baker, Frances McCoy, Pat Holt, June Sevier and Mr. C. J. Whitcomb. The Lions Club sponsored the banquet, and the pep squad leaders and their sponsor, Miss Durham, and the football boys were their guests.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club met Monday, 7 as it was the first Monday of the month, the club dues were paid. Plans were discussed and made for serving at the football banquet Tuesday night. It was announced that a short play would be given at the next meeting.

The social committee served tea and ritz sandwiches. The club adjourned to meet the following Monday, December 14.

Nicknames

Maxine Dollins nickname is "Dynamite," wonder how she got it? But there is no doubt as to how Sara Hinson got her nickname, "Haywire." Annie Ruth Witt is "Little Annie Rooney." They call Mary Ann Post "Map." Did she get it from her initials or that pan of hers? Burl Davis is called "Cotton." and the other day we heard one of those freshmen yelling, "Nancy Satterfield is a Nannie Goat."

American Vocational Association

On Thursday and Friday of last week, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Lasseter, and Mrs. Chapman attended the annual meeting of the American Vocational Association which was held in San Antonio. This was the first time in the history of the Association that the meeting has been held in the south. This association is composed of teachers of Home Economics, Agriculture, Industries, Commercial Work and Part-Time Departments supported in whole or partly by the Federal Government, together with teacher-trainers and state supervisors, responsible for the administration of the funds and work. Conventions of this nature are worth while in that they afford opportunity to exchange ideas, and to plan for a uniform progressive program of work in each department throughout the country. At this meeting some fifteen hundred teachers, teacher-trainers, and state supervisors were in attendance.

Latin Banquet

The annual banquet given by the second year Latin Class will be held in the gymnasium Dec. 17. The chosen speaker for the occasion is Mrs. J. P. Kendrick. The theme of the banquet this year will be that of Christmas, as near like the Roman Saturnalia as possible. The guests will be dressed in Roman costumes.

Sport Flashes from G. H. S.

At the first of the season we reviewed the games that the Hornets had played so far. Now that the season is over we will try to tell the readers of this column what happened during the Hornets 1936 season.

The season started with the Hornets meeting the Moody team on the home field. They ran the Moody team ragged and the game ended with a Hornet victory, 26-0. Next came the Bruceville-Eddy aggregation with Mr.

Dutch Snider hoping to beat his Alma Mater, but the Hornets were too much for them and they went home with a 27-7 defeat marring their record. Now comes the first conference game and the Hornets move into Valley Mills for the contest. The boys from Valley Mills were favored, but the "fighting" Hornets, behind the effective end runs by Joe Baker, came from behind and won the game 13-7. The Clifton Cubs now come to Gatesville and for the first time in a long time, the Hornets are favored to win. But because of over-confidence and other things, the Hornets played a poor game and the Cubs won by 32-0. Mart was next on the schedule and was picked to run over the Hornets. But much to the surprise of fans, the Hornets held Sandig to 25 points and the home team lost by 25-0. One week later, the Mt. Calm team, whom the Hornets have never played before, came to Gatesville and were thoroughly outclassed and outscored. The score was 6-0. At Hamilton, the Hornet had many hard breaks and lost by 15-0. The teams were evenly matched, but because of the bad breaks and the fumbles, the Hornets lost. Now comes Turkey Day Sunday.

and who comes to Gatesville but the McGregor Bulldogs. The Bulldogs came to the home of the Hornets seeking revenge for the 6-0 defeat they suffered last year. The Hornets outplayed, out-passed, and out-scored the McGregor team to the tune of 13-7.

Hornets vs. Brownwood

Basketball is in the air and one of Gatesville's biggest games is now upon us, for tonight and tomorrow night the Hornets play Brownwood High School. Brownwood produces basketball teams that do things. It's teams are foted contenders for state honors. However, neither the Hornets or Brownwood have played many games this season so we cannot estimate the score very accurately. The Hornets have what could be called a veteran team this year. Their starting line-up for Friday night's game will probably be: Herbert (Streetcar) Turner and G. T. Moore, forwards; Clovis King and Douglas White, guards and Glibreth, center. If the Hornets win this game it will prove that they have a team that's hard to beat.

CHAPTER I

IT was Thanksgiving Day and the annual high school football classic of the Ohio valley was drawing to a close at Bellport. There had been no scores during the hard-fought game and the crowd was begging and praying for just one touchdown.

Pennants waved madly, quick shrieks were torn from youthful throats as the teams hacked and tore at each other without gaining a yard. Youngsters pumped heartily, if not too harmoniously, at band instruments. The home side of the field took up the song and chanted with all the earnestness of a great faith:

"Bellport will shine tonight! Bellport will shine!"

"Cheers" Reynolds, the Bellport cheerleader, exhorted the crowd during this performance. She used every muscle of her slim body and her dark eyes flashed as she encouraged and threatened with small arms and tiny fists. Clad in white

The farewell party for Ossie, who was moving with his parents to Los Angeles, was a great success. Most of the Bellport High seniors gathered at the little confectionery which Cheers and her elder sister Susie operated with the help of Paddy O'Riley. There they held high revel on ice cream sodas and pop until Susie chased them home at the unearthly hour of 11 P. M.

"It's been a swell party, Cheers," said Ossie after the other youngsters had departed. "Thanks."

"Sure," cracked Paddy from behind the counter as he removed his apron. "Saying goodbye to Ossie's been a pleasure."

"I was going to out-wait that gang if it took all night," the football hero ignored the interruption.

"And it almost did, didn't it?" Paddy inquired innocently.

"Let's get out of this crowd," Ossie extended his arm to Cheers.

"Back to help in a minute, family," the girl called over her shoulder.

"Hear that?" Paddy glared after

"I know," his answer was casual. "Want to make something of it?" "Do you?"

"Why not?" Ossie was very much the man of the world.

"Then you put it on my finger I'll wear it all my life."

Paddy was polishing the last of the glasses when Cheers returned and climbed disconsolately upon a stool before the counter.

"Paddy—do you think the influence of Hollywood will change Ossie much?" demanded the girl in her best Camille manner.

"No such luck." The answer was violent. "Nothing will ever change that swell head!"

"Why, Paddy!" Cheers was jarred out of her preoccupation. She looked at him, startled, then assumed an attitude of womanly pity.

"Paddy," she continued softly. "I know how you feel about me. Oh, I'm not blind. But—I've got to tell you."

She became very noble. "On account of Ossie, nothing can ever come of it." She looked down at

"But if you feel that way about me," Cheers said, "I'll let you kiss me—just once."

sweater and slacks, she swayed to the music and shook her blue-black hair which hung in a long bob under a precariously balanced toboggan cap.

At that moment Ossie Merrill, Bellport's star fullback, broke through the surging line and started a long sprint down the field which ended in a touchdown just before the final gun cracked.

Cheers did a back flip, threw her hands joyously to the skies, then ran out on the field to shout personal congratulations to Ossie. The latter, a rangy, handsome blond, took her adulation and that of the crowd with a superior calm, as if it were something he must endure. Then he dodged into the shower room, leaving the girl staring foolishly after him.

"Take it easy, Cheers," teased Paddy O'Riley, one of the second stringers on the team. "Some day you may sprain your tonsils or," he winked in the direction Ossie had taken, "or break your heart."

"It's a cinch you'll never break anything—sitting on the bench all season." She wrinkled her small nose at him. "Since you're not even tired you'd better come along to the Sweetery with me as soon as you change your clothes. I'm giving a going-away party for Ossie at the store tonight and Sis and I will need you to help fix the place up."

"Yes, boss," he grinned impishly. "And I hope you won't mind if I put a little arsenic in the drinks I mix for that big, conceited. . . I mean for Bellport's greatest fullback Austin Merrill."

"Not if you put a double dose in yours," she slipped back at him as she picked up her megaphone and headed toward the exit to the field.

them. "Family! The way Cheers treats me I might as well be her brother or something!" He slammed a glass down so hard on the bar that it shattered.

"Sure, I got it all figured out," soothed Susie in her best motherly tone. "You like Cheers and Cheers likes Ossie and Ossie's just as crazy about—Ossie. It's tough."

Under the street lamp which swung in the crisp autumn breeze outside the store, Cheers and Ossie were having difficulty with their leave-taking.

"You know, Cheers," the boy began expansively, "I'm going to miss Bellport . . . part of Bellport anyway."

"What part?" his companion strove to be casual.

"I mean you, Cheers." As he spoke the street lamp winked out above them.

"Gosh!" Cheers laughed shakily. "This certainly is a nine o'clock town. I suppose in Hollywood the lights are on all night . . . and I suppose you'll stay up to see 'em."

"No, I won't. If I play football at Sierra next year I'll have to get a lot of sleep." He broke off abruptly. There seemed no more to say on that subject. They looked at each other, completely stymied.

"Well," said Cheers at last. "I guess this could go on all night . . ."

"Oh, no it couldn't." Ossie suddenly found courage to kiss her. They clung together for a moment, then parted bashfully.

"Golly," whispered Cheers, her eyes starry.

"Want to wear this?" Spurred to further heights by her flattering reception of his attentions, Ossie slipped off his class ring and held it toward her.

"But Ossie!" Cheers was incredulous. "It's your class ring!"

the ring and sighed deeply. Paddy also looked at it and a great light dawned.

"Hey!" he exploded, ready to die rather than let her know how he really felt. "Aren't you kind of jumping the gun?"

"But, if you feel that way," Cheers continued with great pitying generosity, "I'll let you kiss me—just once."

"What makes you think I want to kiss you?" he snorted.

"Well, don't you?" Her eyes opened wide.

"Not much!" His dark, pug-nosed face was flushed. "And what's more—Why don't you wait until you're asked! And what's more—where do you get this slush stuff anyway!"

"Very well, Mr. O'Riley," Cheers slipped off the stool and drew herself up with great dignity as she turned toward the door. "I was merely trying to be—well kind of kind. Goodnight! Lock up, will you? You've been doing it for a year, so I guess you know how."

Paddy looked after her, his jaw thrust out pugnaciously. Then he jerked off his apron and switched out all the lights except a tiny one over the soda fountain, which hung above a football mounted between two miniature goal posts. This souvenir bore the inscription "To Cheers from Ossie."

It suddenly was too much for him. He squared off and swung his fist at the football. It shot between the goal posts, crashed into a pile of glasses on the fountain, shattered them.

"What's all that racket?" called Susie from the back of the shop.

"That was Paddy O'Riley making his first touchdown," the boy answered loudly as he slammed out the front door.
