Derby Day Draws; Dealers Donate Sister, Sonny Secures Surprise Soon

At the sound of the gong marking the New Year, anything can happen! The parents of the first brand new youngster born after the last stroke of 12:00, midnight, tonight, if properly certified, registered and whatnot, will be "on the receiving end" of a number of nice prizes from our advertisers in the News.

Announcement of the winner will NOT be forthcoming until January 8, Friday of next week. No information will be given out as to who is the lucky boy or girl until that time. The entries close at 12:00 noon, Thursday, January 7, and your papers must be in order to be considered in this Stork Derby. The requirements are: A doctor's certificate, birth certificate, name, address, all certified before a Notary Public, and brought to the News office before that hour.

At that time certification of the winner or winners will be made to the merchants who have given so generously of their prizes, and assisted in putting over Coryell County's Stork Derby.

Don't delay. Get the youngster entered.

Merchants who have donated prizes, announced in Tuesday's and today's paper are: Gambin's Dairy, Mrs. J. B. Graves, Morton Scott, Leaird's Department Store, Painter's, Regal and Ritz, First National Bank, E. Price Bauman's Clover Leaf Store, Jim Martin, Milton Powell Memorial Hospital and the Coryell County News.

EMMITT HOLLINGSWORTH IS NEW BARBER AT THE CITY SHOP

Emmitt Hollingsworth of Turnersville has come to Gatesville and is employed in the City Barber Shop, cutting the locks and cleaning off the grizzly faces of Coryell County gentlemen.

Mr. Hollingsworth has been in Turnersville for the past 25 years where he operated a barber shop. He began working at the City Shop Wednesday.

Mr. Hollingsworth did not state whether or not he would move to Gatesville permanently.

"NORTHER COMING," SO SAYS WEATHER PREDICTERS

The U. S. Weather Bureau observers stated last night in Dallas that today's temperatures would drop between 16 and 24 degrees in the Texas Panhandle last night, and all of north Texas would be considerably colder.

Dr. J. L. Cline said he expected the cold wave to be of short duration, and would creep into south Texas today.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Weeks of Wheeler spent several days this week with Mrs. Weeks' sister, Mrs. E. S. McClarty, and Mr. Weeks' sister, Mrs. E. B. McCoy.

SPECIAL MENTION IS DUE OUT-OF-TOWN ADS IN THIS ISSUE

In the Coryell County News, it is not amiss to carry advertisements for out of town patrons. About two-thirds of the subscribers of any country newspaper live outside the city limits. There are other businesses in the county besides those in town, and this being a "County" newspaper, we are pleased to carry these advertisements for these merchants.

Among those we especially mention are Huggins & Watson, Jonesboro; Aubrey Davidson, Mound; O. & C. Clawson, Flat; Fisher's Garage, Ireland; Herman Flentge, Pidoke road.; and J. M. Clemons, Carden.

In our Christmas edition we also carried an adv for Tippitt Brothers, Flat, and W. C. Nite, 2 miles west on Highway 7.

"WE DIDN'T MEAN IT;" MISS GIBSON NOT IN WRECK

"Did we mean it when we stated that Miss Sidney Gibson, Coryell County Home Demonstration Agent, was in a wreck? We did, and so did a lot of other folks. We'll back track, however, because she iterates she was not in a wreck.

She was in this office about an hour before a wreck happened near Carden, stated she was going to her home in Trinity. We saw both cars in the case one being pushed to town which was a "carbon copy" of hers, (why don't they make every car different) and we were practically positive it was her wreck. We just put two' and two together, and this time it didn't make four. A thousand pardons, Miss Gibson, for this excess publicity.

A. W. Gartman is transacting business in Coleman this week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Myers of Fort Worth spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson of the Pancake community.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walker has as their week end guest, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Laxson, Mrs. Nora Roberts, and Miss Annette Roberts, all of Lampasas.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Walker spent Christmas Day in Purlmela with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Turner of Stephenville spent several days here this week with their two daughters and other relatives.

Mrs. Dale Waldrop, who has been in Dallas several days attending the bedside of Mr. Waldrop's father, reports his condition improved.

Miss Mary Alice Bennett, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bennett of Waco is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Saunders of near Slater.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Caruth Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Caruth Sr., one of the city's most respected pioneer couples, held open house Monday night at their home on South Lutterloh to observe their golden wedding anniversary. They have made Gatesville their home since their marriage, with the exception of three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Caruth were united in marriage at the old T. D. Bone home place near Gatesville on December 28, 1886, with the Rev. Judson Chandler officiating.

BURGLARS NEED RIBBON: TRY TO TAKE ONE AT SWIFT'S

Sunday night, burglars entered Swift & Co. building and attempted to take the ribbon off the adding machine, according to Henry Daniels, local manager. Nothing else was bothered and no attempt was made to get into the cash box.

Entrance to the establishment was made thru a window on the east side of the building.

JOE MARTIN KILLED BY ACCIDENT

(The following account of the death of Joe Martin of Wichita, Kans., was taken from the Wichita Sunday Eagle, and sent to us by Jim Powell, former resident of this city.)

Joseph E. Martin, 27, 318 South Osage, died last night in a local hospital following injuries suffered Saturday evening when he was struck by a bus near Sycamore and Douglas.

His death brings the total traffic fatalities in Wichita to 15 for the year.

Martin died almost 24 hours to the minute after he had walked into the path of a slow moving bus, which was driven by George D. Peluso, 25, 1128 North St. Francis.

Passengers aboard the bus, who witnessed the accident, told police Martin was crossing from the north to the south side of the street at the time.

Right Temple Crushed

The windshield of the bus struck Martin's head, and the force of the impact threw him to the pavement. The man's jaw was broken in two places and his right temple crushed.

He was rushed to the hospital, but the attending physician despaired of his life, as he was suffering from a brain hemorrhage, causing a cranial pressure.

Martin was with Walter M. Smith, 608 South Emporia, in a cafe in a cafe on the north side of the street preceding the accident. He had just taken his leave of Smith and was walking across the south side of the street to get his car when he was struck down by the bus.

In Wichita Six Years

He had resided in Wichita six years and was a dry cleaner and presser in a local laundry. Martin who came here from Hamilton, Texas, was a member of the Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Lorraine who kept a vigil at his bedside from the time he was injured until he died, and a step-daughter, Donna Cullen, both at home; Two sisters, Miss Bessie Martin and Mrs. Jack Stanford, both of Hamilton, Tex., three brothers, Fred of McFarland, Cal., Jim, Gatesville, and Tommy, Hamilton, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Martin of Hamilton.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Downing mortuary.

Fred Kock Jr. Tells Experiences of Trip To Chicago 4-H Club

Fred Kock, Jr. who recently was awarded a prize of a free trip to Chicago for his 4-H Club work, has some very interesting experiences to tell of the entertainment and courtesy extended to him on the trip.

He left November 27, and was greeted by four other 4-H Club boys at Fort Worth, who also made the trip with him. Each Texas boy was given a Texas cowboy hat. Thirty-nine 4-H Club and County Agents made the trip, and arrived Sunday, Nov. 29 in Chicago. They were taken on a sight-seeing trip of fifty miles, visiting the livestock show grounds, entertained at a banquet through the courtesy of the Sears Roebuck and Co. visited several packing houses, visited the Fields museum of Natural History, visited some of the largest theatres in Chicago, and stopped at Peoria, Ill., for a visit with relatives on the return trip.

Fred states that he enjoyed the trip very much, and really liked Illinois, but still believes Texas and Coryell County has all others bested.

REVIEW OF THE 1936 COUNTY HOME DEMONSTRATION PROGRAM

Organizations carrying on the Home Demonstration policies during 1936 in Coryell County were 15 women's Clubs and 15 Girl's Clubs. The County Home Demonstration Council acted advisory in capacity with Mrs. Pete Powell and Mrs. Wes Davidson as Chairmen and Mrs. Fred Rodway, Jr. as Secretary-Treasurer. Activities of the Council included sponsoring organization of the County Recreation Association, 4-H Council, Annual exhibit, besides the regular function of expansion, education, and recreation standing committees.

Women's Home Demonstration Clubs carried the Home Food Supply and Wardrobe demonstrations as outlined by the Cooperative Extension Service of A. and M. College and the United States Department of Agriculture.

Storage and construction were emphasized in the Wardrobe demonstration and the following reported achieving goals:

- 1 Provided adequate clothing storage—60;
- 2 Made slip and dress using foundation pattern—56;
- 3 Exhibited garments and patterns at county-wide contest—56.

Preparation of vegetables was stressed in Home Food Supply and the following reported achieving goals:

- 1 Planned food budget—42;
- 2 Presented one leafy, green, or yellow vegetable for scoring—3;
- 3 Added ten tested vegetable recipes to recipe file—3.

Mrs. C. J. Fellrath Brakes Hip and Dies As Result at Belton

Mrs. C. J. (Charlie) Fellrath, for the last several years a resident of Belton, died at the hospital there at 10 a. m. Wednesday. A few days ago, Mrs. Fellrath stooped over and became overbalanced and fell and broke her hip. She was taken immediately to the hospital in Belton, but developed both pneumonia and nephritis here who mourned her passing.

Mrs. Fellrath will be remembered as Mrs. Annie Fellrath, a sister of Mrs. T. D. Hendrickson, Mrs. Willis M. Jones, Mrs. John Powell and M. C. Bigham. Besides these, she has a large number of nieces and nephews here who mourn her passing.

Out of State relatives who will probably be in Belton today for the funeral, which will be held at 2:00 p. m., are Mrs. Fred Samson and son, J. R., of Duncan, Oklahoma, Joe Fellrath, wife and daughter of Enid, Okla., and a daughter and son in California. Services will be held at the First Christian Church, interment will be in a Belton cemetery.

A full account of the out-of-Belton attendants at the funeral will be carried in Tuesday's News.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Saunders and son Jack of Slater spent several days recently with Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Bennett of Waco.

Miss Iris Morse, who is employed in Corpus Christi, spent several days last week with her parents near Spring Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lewis of Fort Worth spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilson of Pancake and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Pancake of the Training School.

Mrs. J. R. Nettles of the State Training School is spending this week in Abilene as the guest of her brother, Robert McKinney.

Grady Carson and Miss Sylvia Harvey of Abilene spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kit Carson.

report shows a total of 18,585 quarts of fruits, vegetables, jellies and preserves, meats canned and vegetables pickled and dried. Also 22,632 pounds of dried, cured, and stored meat, fruits and vegetables.

Girls' 4-H demonstrations were gardening and clothing. In gardening leafy, green and yellow vegetables were specialized on and the following reports complete of goals set in 1936.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Powell, observing a silver wedding anniversary this week, have made their home in this city since their marriage. Mr. Powell has served as an employee of the Cotton Belt railroad for the past twenty-seven years.

WORLD COMMENT

Significantly, 1937 finds those nations adhering to democratic principles facing far more promising prospects than those relying upon dictators for their economic and political salvation.

With world confidence returning following the near deathblow of the war and the depression and world trade approaching 1929 heights, the democratic nations face the future with confidence and with their horizons generally clear, marred only by the prospects of war engendered by dictators. Muddled finances, economic restrictions, crushing taxes characterized the dictatorships.

Italy won a new empire in the sixteenth year of Italian Fascism. But the Italian Duce will never live to see Ethiopia the flowering garden of which he dreams. Ethiopians are still resisting the hated invaders in small, scattered bodies. The natives stand no chance of repossessing their country, but their nuisance value is great and thus far they have prevented mass colonization or mineral exploitation on the part of the Fascists.

Impartial observers predict that fifty years will be necessary to make of Ethiopia a fertile ground of colonization and source of raw materials for the new Italy. Enormous outlays of capital are necessary to develop the huge potential storehouse that is Ethiopia. These modern Italy lacks.

Germans have only a few days of hope toward which to look in 1937. Last year was a trying period for all Germans—from Hitler to the lowest burgomaster. Outwardly, the bold moves of the Fuehrer were cheered and the Germans gloated over the remilitarization of the Rhineland and the scrapping of the Versailles Treaty.

But beneath this was a secret fear that the nation would be plunged into war with Russia or France or Poland. And Germans of all classes have not forgotten the horrors of starvation and of death of the last conflict.

The gold reserve of the nation has dwindled to $29,000,000—not enough to construct one modern battleship. A serious food shortage complicates matters with the Nazis striving to build a mighty army, navy, and air force.

For five years Japanese diplomacy has been marked by numerous and repeated blunders and 1936 was no exception. By scrapping the naval agreement with Britain and the U. S. A., the Japanese forfeited the friendship of the entire world, and as a result of intensified en- themselves isolated without any friends or allies.

China is fastly approaching a position where it can offer resistance of a nature which the Japs understand to military moves against its territory. Financially embarrassed along with Germany and Italy, Tokio finds itself upon the brink with an irate and determined Russia, numerically superior in fighting forces and possessing armies of greater fighting forces than the armies of Emperor Hirohito.

On the other side of the political fence, Britain and the U. S. A. are leading the way toward recovery. Safely embarked upon a new course with its new king, Britain promises to join hands with the United States as a factor for peace and for peaceful relations among the nations. As evidence of this, and as a preliminary step, the two nations along with France signed an agreement for economic stabilization within their territories.

The greatest year since 1923 is in prospect for this country. Given a greater vote of confidence program for four more years, institute a new era of recovery and reform that will leave stabilized prosperity with a prosperous people.

But even the democratic nations contributed to the dark side of 1936. Expenditures for armaments in all countries and for the world as a whole topped armament expenditures for 1914 and for any other year in the history of the world.

Britain, France, the U. S. A. all joined in the parade staged for Mars. Nations traditionally devoted to peace and neutrality, such as the Netherlands and Switzerland, have instituted peace plans in the face of feverish measures for war on the part of their neighbors.

A justified excuse for Britain, France and the U. S. A. is that preparatory measures were necessitated by warlike moves on the part of such nations as Germany, Italy and Japan, which threaten their territories, colonies or home security. Certainly Britain has no desires for war, wishing only to maintain connections with her far-flung empire. France does not covet the territories of her neighbors, nor does this country wish to extend its boundaries.

But for Britain and France to allow their armed strengths to lapse while Germany, Italy and Russia are arming to the teeth would be national suicide for those powers. Nazi Germany's threaten France and Britain; Italy's warlike gestures toward certain parts of the British Empire, particularly Egypt, are the ament in great part.

In spite of the fact that army and navy appropriations made by the last Congress were the greatest in the peacetime history of the nation, this country still lags far behind the other great powers in armed strength.

Only on the water does the U. S. A. measure favorably with Britain, France, Japan and the other powers. There, in total tonnage, this country ranks second with 1,073,000 tons compared to Britain's 1,161,000 tons, Japan's 850,000 tons, France's 502,000 tons and Italy's 416,500 tons. But total tonnage figures do not tell the whole story. Obsolescent tonnage must be taken into account, and the amount in the Japanese fleet is said to be particularly nil while Britain is fastly reducing her obsolescent tonnage.

In training and in personnel the American Army compares favorably with the armed forces of those nations mentioned above, in the modern equipment of war this nation lags woefully behind. Tanks, artillery, gas masks and the like left over from the war are being used. The standing army totals only 140,000 men, although it is proposed to increase this force to 165,000 this year. The National Guard of 185,000 and a first line reserve force of 115,000 may be added to the standing army, making an immediate force of 465,000.

It is in the air that the disparity between the European powers and the U. S. force is so apparent and appalling. In this category we rank sixth, below the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Germany and Italy, which rank in the order listed in aircraft strength. Each of the named powers has twice as many aircraft or more than this country.

Congress should rectify this situation before this country falls irreparably behind in aircraft production and aircraft strength. Germany is producing 300 planes a month; Britain is aiming at a force of 1,750 planes of first line fighting calibre while it already has an air strength of 3,500 craft, more than double the strength of this nation.

CHURCHES

Methodist Church

Next Sunday is the New Year. We must look upon it with gladness and thanksgiving, yes and determination.

There are uppermost thoughts running through our minds just now so hear the sermons both entirely new at the morning and evening hours.

Sunday School at 9:45. Sermon, "The Lost Word," at the morning hour, 10:55.

Young People playing the game meeting at 6:15 p. m.

Sermon, "Crashes," at 7 p. m. We keep welcome always in every service. This church never has a seclusive service. The doors swing open all the time.

We were delighted last Sunday with so many of our neighbors being with us. Sorry our good pastor, Rev. C. A. Morton, was out temporarily, but his people gladdened us.

A good past, a better future.

First Baptist Church
An humble spirit and a sense of gratitude prompts me to express the thanks from the pastor's family for every kindness and remembrance of the Christmas Season.

The services Sunday are: Sunday School, 9:45 a. m. Baptist Training Union Sunday evening 5:45 o'clock.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning, and Sunday night at seven o'clock.

Deacons Meeting will be held Tuesday at 7 p. m.

The YWA meets Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Prayer meeting and conference will be held Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

God make your New Year a happy one!
Clarence A. Morton, Pastor.

At Regal Next Tuesday
Facing the camera for the first time, nine famous football gladiators show their All-American wears in RKO Radio's gridiron saga, "The Big Game," with Phillip Huston, June Travis, James Gleason, Bruce Cabot and Andy Devine featured.

To insure authenticity and expert action, the director drafted the nationally-known pigskinners from the four corners of the country. Lewin "King Kong" Klein, giant tackle from N. Y. U. hails from Manhattan; Jay Berwanger brilliant Chicago U. halfback; Bill Shakespeare of Notre Dame, Gomer Jones of Ohio State and Chuck Bennis if Illinois U. represent the middle west; Bobby Wilson, diminutive halfback from SMU is from Dixie, and Robert Bones Hamilton, Jim Monk Moserip and Frank Alusitza from Stanford University.

Adding color and realism to the football game sequences the exteriors were filmed almost entirely at the Rose Bowl.

Every football fan should see this picture at the Regal Tues.

SYNOPSIS
Ossie Merrill, All-American fullback at Sierra College in California, returns to Bellport to receive the plaudits of his home town. Cheers Reynolds, with whom Ossie was in love before he went to Sierra, now gets the cold shoulder from him. Paddy O'Riley, who is second string quarterback at Green Ridge, a small eastern college, adores Cheers but refuses to admit it. His room mate, Dutch Schultz, varsity fullback, acts as Cupid by sending Cheers a letter telling her how much Paddy loves her. Cheers is baffled. Green Ridge wins national attention as a Rose Bowl possibility by defeating some of the best teams in the East. After the Green Ridge defeat of Pittsburgh, Cheers surprises Paddy and Dutch in a conversation about her. She accuses Paddy of getting Dutch to write her about him. Paddy is furious at Dutch and vows revenge.

CHAPTER VI

GENTLEMEN—We have called this special meeting of the Board of Regents of Green Ridge college to discuss a very important matter regarding athletics. William Hay, president of the board of directors, began pompously. "Coach Moreland has given us a winning team this year—so far."

"As far as the Rose Bowl is concerned, here's the setup," the coach continued softly. "If we take Erie—and we're going to try—we're one of four teams eligible. One of 'em will high hat it, a couple have rules against it. . . ."

"Then that makes us the logical choice?" asked Hay.

"It's not that easy. Unfortunately, we're not a big, well-known college. The public likes color in the game. But—we can get the Rose Bowl, gentlemen, if we sell the country on the idea it wants to see us there. . . . I suggest that we get our publicity department busy at once."

Shortly after the directors' meeting had concluded Paddy was walking across the campus, reading a letter he had just received.

"Dear Mr. O'Riley": (it read) Here's the photograph you asked for. Knowing August as I do, I can hardly believe he was too bashful to write for it himself. At any rate, they tell

Dutch inquired of one of the players who was limping slightly. "Housemaid's knee?"

"No. I just tackled O'Riley, the invisible man. By the way, Paddy, how's about giving out with the blue print of that sidwinder of yours?"

"That's like asking a fan dancer to wave goodbye," chuckled Dutch as his friend said nothing but began to whistle blithely. "You take that from O'Riley and you take all." He sat down and picked up a newspaper.

"Yeah," persisted Donovan, "but I've got it all figured out how I could use that run against the Erie line."

"So have I," murmured Paddy.

"Who did this?" Dutch interrupted the chatter hoarsely. His thick hand shook as he held out the paper he had been reading. The sports page featured a story headlined as "WILL SHE SAY YES?" and subtitled: "If Green Ridge Receives Rose Bowl Nomination Dutch Schultz Will Win Star's Favor, 'tis Said." Underneath was Florence's autographed picture, one of Dutch, and a half-column story.

"Wow! What a piperola!" shouted Donovan, grabbing the paper. "And she knew him when. . . and how!"

"Listen, Irish," Dutch broke in angrily. "I know you did this. I'm not clowning. If this puts me in the dog house with Florence. . . ."

. . . it'll be because she's got no romance in her soul, huh, August dear?" mimicked his roommate.

There was rejoicing out at the Occidental studios in Hollywood when the story about Florence Taylor broke.

"Just what the front office ordered," chortled Burke, the head of the publicity department. "Here's our angle to put Taylor over."

"This Green Ridge publicity kid doesn't know what he's got," agreed an assistant.

"We'll tell him. Come on, crack out with some ideas."

"Say," cried Burke's secretary. "I saw Florence at the Grove Saturday night with Ossie Merrill, the Sierra fullback. . . ."

"They're a cinch to represent the West," Burke was jubilant. "A Rose Bowl triangle! What could be cuter? Gertie—take a wire! 'Publicity Director, Green Ridge University. Follow our campaign. We'll put you in Rose Bowl. Keep Schultz in line. Advise any new angles. Hop it up.'"

"But what will Taylor say?" the assistant inquired dubiously.

"She'll be sore at first but when I explain she'll eat it up. Schultz wants to make the Rose Bowl doesn't he, and she wants to be in lights. It's natural."

"Say, you don't think she really likes that dumb-looking Schultz kid, do you?" inquired Gertie.

"Heck! There's nothing wrong with him that a good haircut won't fix."

"Did you read this guff?" Paddy demanded of his roommate one night not long after the publicity mills had started to grind. "They've got Cheers smeared all over the papers. Listen to this: 'The gridiron triangle is now a quadrangle. A dispatch from Bellport, Ohio, former home town of Ossie Merrill, reveals that Ossie may be engaged to Mary (Cheers) Reynolds, the girl he left behind and whom he visited last summer. Another revelation is that Paddy O'Riley, second string quarterback for Green Ridge, is also a Bellport boy and is carrying the torch for Cheers. When questioned last night Ossie didn't seem to remember Cheers' name. So if Green Ridge meets Sierra at Pasadena on New Year's Day—look out for fireworks.'"

Looking up from his reading Paddy saw his former friend shaking with silent laughter.

"Say," he shouted, "Did you. . . ?" "Yeah!" jeered Dutch. "And how do you like them apples?"

(To be continued)

Little did Dutch Schultz know that his old high school romance with Florence Taylor would be the means by which Green Ridge would be catapulted into national recognition as a Rose Bowl possibility.

"We've been lucky," Soapy spoke up deprecatingly, although he had smiled at the "so far." "Might not happen again for ten years in a small college like this."

"Now, I think it all boils down to this," Hay continued, looking at the sober faces which lined the director's table. "If our team defeats Erie we're in line for an invitation to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena. Sierra will probably represent the West. Are you for it, gentlemen?"

"I'm against it," growled Henry Wallace, a lean and hungry individual at the far end of the table. "It gives Green Ridge the wrong kind of advertising. It places emphasis on the wrong thing. Green Ridge is an institution of learning—not a training school for athletes."

"But a winning football team builds enrollment."

"And college football has no equal in moulding men," interposed another member of the board.

"What have you to say, Coach?" Hay appealed.

"Well," Soapy rose and picked his words carefully. "As far as football being a moulder of men, or college either, for that matter, I think that's a lot of malarkey." As the directors started and frowned he continued imperturbably. "I think kids get a few pointers from their folks when they're young. When we get 'em they're either made or spoiled—we just add a few trimmings to the job. But I'll tell you what I think a football team does do—it gives a man something to yell for—something to be proud of when it's good—something to try to fix when it's bad—and something to come back to when he's old. Anybody needs that."

He looked down the table. With the exception of Wallace, the directors nodded agreement.

me an actress can't neglect her fan mail, so here it is.

Sincerely,
Florence Taylor."

Grinning all over his face, Paddy glanced from the letter to the picture which accompanied it. The latter was inscribed: "To August dear from Florence—Who remembers when and how!"

As he started to replace the photograph in its envelope he almost bumped into the student publicity director, Bob Hope.

"There's one of them football mugs, now," Hope groaned.

"What's the matter with football mugs?" Paddy was up in arms at once.

"Oh, nothing! Nothing at all!" Hope was sarcastic. "I've just got to publicize you muscle men into the Rose Bowl. Soapy's dumped it right into my lap."

"No can help." O'Riley was anxious to present his picture to Dutch. "I never was a newspaperman once myself."

"On the level," Hope's voice was plaintive. "Does anything ever happen to you guys that would make good reading?"

"Nothing the papers could print," Paddy started on, then stopped suddenly, struck by a great thought. "Wait a minute," he chortled. "Wait a minute! Maybe I can think of something that the papers would like to print. . . Follow me, Horace Greeley!" He took Hope's arm and led him toward the door of the publicity office.

Several days after Paddy's meeting with the publicity man he and the rest of the team were relaxing in the dressing room after one of the toughest workouts of the season.

"What's the matter, Donovan?"

The Jones Family

AND YOU

Earl Martin Host At Holiday Dance.

On Friday evening at his home on South 14th street, Earl Martin entertained a group of the younger set with a party.

Christmas decorations were placed attractively throughout the party rooms where dancing furnished the principal diversion. Approximately forty guests were invited. Out of town guests included Misses Maurene Little of Dallas, Miss Katherine Langston of Fort Worth and Miss Daisy Edith Shirley of Port Arthur.

Fidelis Class Has Annual Dinner.

On Tuesday evening of last week the Fidelis Class of the First Baptist church of this city had their annual Christmas dinner at Baker's Cafe. The Yuletide motif was carried out in the decorations, place cards and the exchanging of gifts around the Christmas trees.

A three-course turkey dinner was served twenty-four members and guests. Mrs. J. O. Brown, teacher; Miss Vera Sams, president and Miss Ethel Routh, social chairman.

Sunday School Class Has Social.

Mesdames Floyd Murray, R. P. Walker, Lester Britain and Mrs. Bailey Curry were joint hostesses Thursday night of last week at the home of the former on East Leon street, when they entertained members and guests of the Pearl White Bible Class with a Christmas party.

A Christmas motif was carried out in decorations, and gifts were exchanged around a brightly lighted Christmas tree. Games of 84 furnished the principal diversion of the evening.

Refreshments were served the ried out in decorations, and gifts Leonard Milner, Floyd Zeigler, Johnnie Neubauer, Loriane Webb, Guy Powell, Elmo Washburn; Mesdames Johnnie Washburn, J. H. Hamilton, J. W. Millard; Messrs. R. P. Walker, Lester Britain, and Floyd Murray. Mrs. J. H. Hamilton is teacher of the class.

J. R. Saunders Honors Guests at Dance.

Naming Mr. and Mrs. Joe King honor guests, James Read Saunders entertained the younger set of the city Christmas night with a dance at his home on East Bridge street. Holly and cedar decorated the party rooms.

Refreshments were served the following guests: Misses Joyce Baker, Eloise Cook, Grace Richards, Carolyn Hampton, Beverly Chamlee, Buchie Wollard, Dorothy Culberson, Dolly Farmer, Ruth Raby Franks, Polly Sadler, Lindsay Belle Dickie, Vonnelle Turner; Messrs. Jack Bone and A. H. Meadows of the Texas University; Neal Chapman of Texas Tech, Lubbock; Billy Mc-Mordie, David Franks, Talley and Henry Yongue, W. T. Hix, J. B. Martin, Billy Bloodworth, Johnnie Bradford, Clinton Chamlee of Baylor University, Waco; Huron McCoy of Dallas, Byron Lejrid McClellan, student in the University of Texas; Charles Baker, Aurelius Poston, Harry Dillishaw, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bathe of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Saunders, and the honorees.

Mr. King, a former Gatesville resident, is now connected with the Tayloe Paper Co., located in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Friendly Bible Class Enjoys Social.

Mesdames H. Tom Chapman, D. H. Culberson, T. M. Davidson, Tom Lutterloh, George Perry, W. C. Guggolz, Tom Bone, Albert Edwards and Mrs. Reb J. Brown were hostesses Thursday afternoon of last week when the Friendly Bible Class of the First Methodist church of this city entertained with a social in the church.

Christmas decorations and other Yuletide symbols were used in decorating the rooms. A program which consisted of a medley of Christmas music by Mrs. P. D. Holt, the devotional by Mrs. J. H. Baldrige and a Christmas story given by Mrs. C. E. Alvis Sr., were presented first, after which gifts were exchanged around a tinseled Christmas tree.

Refreshments of jello topped with whipped cream, cake squares and hot tea were served thirty-one guests.

Students Entertained At Dinner.

Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. Jess Wiggins were joint hostess on Monday evening, at the Wilson home northwest of the city, at a turkey dinner complimenting their sons, Woodrow Wilson and Jack Wiggins, students of the Independence (Kans.) Junior College.

Gold and black were the colors chosen for decorations.

Guests sharing the courtesy with the honorees were Charles Baker Jr., Ted Harris, Ray Jones, Truman Blanton and Horace Blanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rivers Entertain with 84.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rivers entertained a number of their friends with an 84 party Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. E. Franks, on Main street.

The party rooms were made attractive with decorations of colorful blossoms and red berries. Small pots of red berries centered four tables.

As a final courtesy the hostess served fruit cake, whipped cream and coffee to the following guests: Messrs. and Mesdames Edgar Franks, E. G. Beerwinkle, D. D. McCoy, Tom Carlton, Roy Hayes, Kay Ament, C. E. Jones, Clebourn McCarver, R. G. Dickie, Tom L. Robinson, Read Powell, Bill Maxwell, John Webb; Mrs. Pleas Walker Dr. and Mrs. I. M. Franks, and Boone Gordon.

EDMONDSON REUNION

Children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, one brother, one niece, nephews, and friends gathered at the old Polk Edmondson homestead where Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dillard now reside, for their annual Christmas reunion.

Each family brought well-filled baskets to supply the previously planned menu. The delicious food was spread on a long table in the beautifully decorated dining room, and such a spread it was!

After dinner was eaten the guests were asked to draw names (Continued on next page.)

18 MILLION BET ON THE BANGTAILS

J. R. Saunders, Sports-Ed.

Those who held up their hands in holy horror when the State inaugurated the pari-mutual betting system, should take a look at these statistics for the year.

In 240 racing days in 1936 eighteen million dollars were bet on various ponies by those who like to back their bangtails with something more than moral support.

The Texas State Racing Commission reported to the Governor the other day that $18,751,174 were bet on horses during this year. Out of this sum the State collected $469,162 in taxes, which is no small potatoes in any man's language. To this add $16,100 in licenses to swell the State's revenues.

By many this is claimed to be ill-gained money, etc. However, the fact remains that the State thereby has several additional to apply on Grandma's pension that they wouldn't otherwise have, and maybe Grandma does not care whether the money from the sweat of honest horses' brows or not, just as long as the check comes every month.

Football Still With Us

The Rose Bowl, the Sugar

Bowl, the Cotton Bowl, the Sun Bowl, and the Orange Bowl! Now, what next? Too many bowls and not enough championship teams are ruining interest in the game that formerly knew only the Rose Bowl, the mythical championship!

Who cares if Rushing Through the Rye College beats Twirp University in a post-season game in the Finger Bowl? Both teams have been defeated already and neither has power enough to beat their breasts. Let's all take our money and go to see the Monday night wrestling matches.

Now there is entertainment for you. Even just an average card will boast of such headliners as "Marshall Blackstock, the Chattering Chattanooga."

Boxing

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram is to be congratulated for sponsoring the first Golden Gloves Amateur boxing tournament ever to be held in Texas.

Tournaments will be held in various sections of the State to decide on the final bouts to be held in Fort Worth, and from there a team will enter the National Golden Glove tournament in Chicago in February.

Promising youngsters who wish to enter into a fistic career will get their chance now, and if they possess enough ability to deliver will probably be snapped up by some shrewd manager. Out of the ranks of the Golden Glove contestants have come some of the world's best fighters, for instance, Joseph Lewis, the shuffling Brown Bomber.

AT THE REGAL

Jean Arthur's captivating charm, so much in evidence as "Mr. Deeds" enamorata and as "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford," will sparkle anew on the Regal Theatre screen starting Saturday night at 10:30, running Sunday and Monday, when she literally "goes to town" with Joel McCrea in "Adventure in Manhattan."

Jean and Joel both at the peak of their respective careers, promise one of the most engaging screen teams since the Gable-Colbert rumpus that happened one night. Their diverting adventures run the range of high comedy and gripping melodrama with an engaging romance deftly entwined in the surprise-packed plot.

"Adventure in Manhattan" relates the exciting escapades of a prominent detective story author who presumes to predict the theft of various art and jewel treasures. Furthermore, he is assigned by a newspaper to write about these crimes-to-be in a series of special articles. It is then that he meets Jean Arthur, star of a play still in production, and launches the adventures that carry the two thru every conceivable romantic and melodramatic complication that two young lovers on Broadway could possibly get into.

J. W. Millard of Waco spent the week end here visiting his wife and mother.
