10 More Indictments Made by the Grand Jury; And, They're Still At It

In addition to the fifteen bills of indictment brought by the January Grand Jury which have been reported in the last issue of the News, they come forth with 10 additional bills since that time. What's more, they're still in session, and according to Doorkeeper Joyce Ryan, they haven't given any inclination that they are thru yet.

According to District Clerk Carl McClendon, the petit jury which was summoned for appearance yesterday, has been dismissed and asked to return Monday, February 8, another indication that this January term of court will be somewhat long-drawn-out.

So far, a few cases, which have already been reported, have been disposed of, but very little of county-wide interest.

Approximately 125 have made their appearance before the Grand Jury since they started working, Monday, January 11.

TWO FIRES OVER WEEK-END; CLAUD HOLMES' HOME AND DAIRY BARN

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Claud Holmes, (colored) in north Gatesville about 9:30 p. m. Saturday, only a few quilts being saved. The fire department made the call, but the fire had too much headway for them to do

COPPERAS COVE FOLKS IN FAVOR OF BRANCH BANKING ACT

Copperas Cove citizens are considerably heartened over receipt of a letter from Representative Earl Huddleston to the effect that the legalization of branch banking in Texas would be a benefit to the state, as shown in a letter received by The Copperas Cove Crony.

Effort is being made by Copperas Cove and other small towns thruout the State who are interested in this feature of banking.

A petition was circulated Saturday in Copperas Cove and those interested in obtaining this law were urged to sign the petition which will be presented to the legislature when the bill comes up.

LOCAL TOTS ON BREAD RADIO PROGRAM AT WACO

Featured on "The Kiddies' Hour", sponsored by Jones Eread Company of Waco, were four Gatesville youngsters, Saturday morning at 10 a. m. under the direction of Miss Francis Crist.

Their parts on the program were: "Dressed For Walking," a reading by La Nell Brooks; "The Janitor's Child", by Janette Sadler; "Dolly Will Not Learn at All", Harvey Jean Hamilton, and "Columbus" by Ralph Bailey.

Many telephone calls and letters have been received following this program, according to reports. Arrangement of the program was by Mrs. Nan Frazier of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. Ercell W. Brooks made the trip with the children.

EVANT INSTALLS CITY PUMP EQUIPMENT

The recent collapse of the new water system tower and tank at Evant with the tragic results of one workman killed and two maimed for life, centers interest on any activities with regard to replacing the service that was just being installed.

The Herald-Record was reliably informed the first of this week that Evant-Brooks, president of the Evant Water System organization, and J. Y. Hamilton supt. of labor employment in the construction of the system, had returned from San Antonio with a jack pump which is being installed for temporary use at the city water works well.

The San Antonio company, who had the contract for supplying the water works of the town, will replace the demolished steel tower and tank at the earliest possible date.

Claude A. Blythe, the construction foreman in the employ of the San Antonio concern, who lost his left leg above the knee by amputation made necessary by the injuries sustained in the collapse of the steel tower and the demolished water tank, is recovering at the Hamilton sanitarium, and within the next few weeks will return to his home in San Antonio.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION LOOKS GOOD; GOVT. AID POSSIBLE

According to N. Foote, Rural Electrification Administration representative for Coryell county, the outlook is good for this work and the possibility of government assistance looks better than ever.

Some 200 applications are on file with Mr. Foote in the county agent's office of persons who may be reached by these proposed lines, which are tentatively scheduled to run by Hurst, Pancake, Jonesboro, Ames, Flat, Grove, Mound and Leon Junction.

Residents of these sections who wish to participate in this service are asked to file application with Mr. Foote. The permanent lines have not yet been marked out, according to P. T.

Business Men to Hold Important Hiway Meeting in Courthouse, 7:30

METHODIST OFFICIALS WILL ATTEND GEN. TEX. RALLY AT FORT WORTH

Reverends J. H. Baldrige and Marcus M. Chunn will leave Wednesday morning for Fort Worth where they will attend a Central Texas Conference Rally at the First Methodist Church of Fort Worth. Included in the days program will be the following important speakers; Bishop, H. A. Boaz of Fort Worth, Paul E. Kern of Charlotte, North Carolina, W. N. Ainsworth of Atlanta, Ga., Dr. J. Y. Yang of the Orient, Dr. W. G. Cram, J. F. Rawls and Miss Daisy Davies of Nashville, Tenn.

Following is a schedule of the days program: 9:30 a. m. Meeting of committees; 10:00 a. m. Mass Meeting; 12:00 a. m. Luncheon; 1:30 p. m. Chunn will be guests at a dinner given in honor of the bishops at the Blackstone Hotel; 7:30 p. m. Mass meeting concluded.

Others included in the motor party are Mesdames Pearl White and W. C. Guggolz.

The Gatesville district Missionary meeting will convene on January 29. Among the many speakers will be Dr. Roy A. Langston, conference Missionary secretary; Dr. F. P. Culver, president of the Board of Missions; Mrs. J. H. Spivey, president of the Conference Missionary Society and Dr. H. P. Myres, returned missionary from Japan.

Phoenicians were the greatest seafaring people of antiquity. Monfort. of the Texas C. R. E. A. of College Station.

Rural Electrification

Counties included in this area of the Rural Electrification are McLennan, Falls, Bell, Coryell and Bosque.

Business men, highway enthusiasts and all others interested in improved highways in Coryell county are urged to be present in the District Court room in the courthouse, at 7:30 tonight, where a discussion of the highway situation as it effects this county will be held.

Pursuant to the appointment of a Lions club highway committee recently, this club is taking the initiative and asking everyone who is at all interested in highways to be present. And who doesn't this include?

Judge Floyd Zeigler will give some information on the highway situation as it comes to him from correspondence with the various members of the State Highway Department.

Members of the Lions committee include Horace K. Jackson, chairman, W. E. Lasseter, Pat Holt, Rev. M. M. Chunn, W. C. Guggolz, and Judge Floyd Zeigler.

Contract Let in Mills

Bids for the biggest highway topping contract that has been let by the State Highway Department in the past six years will be received in Austin today for the 19,305 miles between Goldthwaite and the Brown county line on State highway 7, the cost to be between $150,000 and $200,000, according to a story in Friday's Goldthwaite Eagle.

Saturday's Waco Times-Herald carried a story stating that the highway commission would hear requests yesterday from 19 delegations for improvement projects.

Heading the list, was Mills-Highway 7, construction through Goldthwaite.

RE-INAUGURATION OF NATION'S AND STATE'S CHIEFS ON TUES. AND WED.

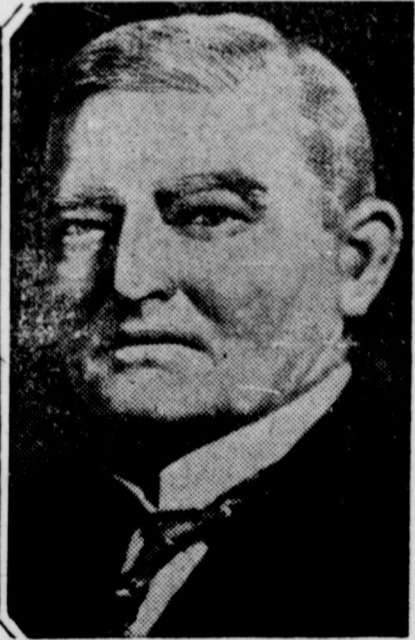

Re-inauguration holds the attention of both the state and nation today and tomorrow, as today Governor James V. Allred and Lieutenant Walter Woodul hold the spotlight in the colorful inauguration ceremonies at Austin, followed tomorrow by the inauguration of the President of the United States, Franklin Delano Roosevelt and his co-worker John Nance Garner as Vice President.

The movement in Texas is toward Austin today, as Texans journey there to attend the re-inauguration of the 37-year-old Governor James V. Allred and Lieutenant Governor Woodul. The Senate and House committee in charge of arrangements have charge of the preparation. Associate Justice John H. Sharp of the Supreme Court will administer the oath. The Governor will be introduced by President Pat M. Neff of Waco, president of Baylor University. The Governor will be brief in his inaugural address.

Salute for the Governor will be fired by Battery E, 132nd Field Artillery, T. N. G. commanded by Capt. Hal C. Johnson. Officials of the Eighth Corps Area at San Antonio have been invited.

Ceremonies will end with a brilliant reception and ball Tuesday night at Gregory Gymnasium. The Governor will be accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Renne Allred of Bowie.

In Washington, Wednesday

noon, the President will stand before a throng at the capitol and receive the traditional constitution-prescribed oath of office from Chief Justice Hughes. He will then deliver an address to which Washington is looking forward as sounding the keynote of his second administration and expanding the definition of objectives outlined in his recent message to congress.

The inauguration scene, with Chief Justice Hughes at front stage, will call sharply to mind the president's persistent clash with the supreme court, and his recent insistence that courts adopt a more "enlightened" interpretation of the constitution.

Behind this clash lies an issue which may become the central theme of Mr. Roosevelt's second administration—whether congress has, or shall be given authority to enact laws regulating the minimum wages and maximum hours of labor, and the business and competitive practices of its employers.

THRIFT WEEK

Thrift is, this year, from January 17 to 23 inclusive. Why all this "Week" business anyway?

Primarily, we suppose, it is a chance for merchants, newspapers and others to have something to talk about in order to handle merchandise. There is or ought to be, however, other reasons. Most of these weeks have something good about them. They give ideas, and new slants on old ideas, and in the truth of the matter, new or revamped ideas are what makes the world go around. If the same ideas were used in Adam's time, we would certainly be a backward lot. If his ideas are the same, then they certainly have been reshaped a lot and gotten at at different angles.

Now for this Thrift Week. The whole idea in this week is not penny-pinching, but careful systematized spending which in itself denotes Thrift. This little six letter word has certainly been abused. Thrift ends where there is penny-pinching, or is out where tightness begins.

This week is all associated with Benjamin Franklin a shrewd business man, inventor and what not of several years back. It is connected with him because he was thrifty, but not thrifty to the penny-pinching stage. He was a Progressive Thrifter. That's what we all should try to be.

Careful, wise spending is always Thrift; not penny-pinching.

PRESIDENT'S BALL

We are loathe to mention this again. We have "ranted" about this matter, both this year and last. It has been like some other ideas we thought were admirable and needed support, which, however have not gone over locally. Since there is so much opposition to dancing here, we beg to state, a dance is not necessary. This noble charity—and isn't it a noble—could be well supported by an entertainment in either the City Hall Auditorium, the high school auditorium or gym or some other suitable place. 70 per cent of the funds raised remain in the locality, and with the calls for assistance here, that in itself should be an incentive. The other 30 per cent goes to the Warm Springs Foundation for the help of children afflicted with the dreaded infantile paralysis, the promotion and sponsorship of which the President of the United States is very much interested.

For leadership in this movement, we don't know where to go; in this, as well as other similar matters. However, someone should "take the leap" and lead on to a successful entertainment in line with the plans for the January 30th Warm Springs Foundation entertainments which are to be held thruout the United States.

Who'll do this?

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

Dispatches from the interior of China carry an ominous note against continued peace in the Orient. Soldiers of the war-lord Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang, now captive of the Chinese Government at Nanking following his kidnapping of the Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, have joined forces with Communist hordes operating in Shensi province to form a huge Communist state in northwest China.

The action of the Manchurian soldiers who formerly lived off the fat of the land in what is now the Japanese-controlled state of Manchuko was not expected. Exiled along with their leader, the "Young Marshal" Chang, to the desert wilderness that is Shensi province, they are now leaderless with their general preparing to leave for Europe on an "extended vacation."

For China, the 250,000-odd Communists operating three of the northwest provinces constitute no great threat other than to divert thousands of Generalissimo Chiang's troops. But there is no doubt that China is the most fertile field in the world for the expansion of the theories of government. And to the Japanese the spread of Communism in China is not to be looked upon with complacency.

Since the release of Chiang by Chang, rumors have been prevalent that some agreement was made by Chiang with the Chinese Communist for a crusade against the Japanese. Both Chinese Communist and Nationalists (personified by General Chiang) ardently oppose Japanese aggression against their ancient state.

It can be authoritatively said that the Nipponese will not permit an alliance between Communists and Government forces whether said alliance is directed against Tokio or not. Nor can the acquiescence of Tokio be expected for the creation of an Chinese Provinces are only a few of the provocative acts of independent Communist state in China near the borders of their Manchukuoan Empire.

An alliance between Nanking and the Chinese Communists of Shensi and surrounding provinces would be but a cloak to hide a Nanking-Moscow alliance. Moscow would like nothing better than to bring about a conciliation between General Chiang and the Chinese Communists which would give the latter a foothold in the Nanking Government. In the event of a Soviet-Japanese armed conflict, the Chinese could render valuable assistance to the Soviets.

The logical position of the Chinese in war between the Soviets and the Japanese would be on the side of the Soviets, for the Chinese have much to gain by a military defeat of Japan.

Yet Chiang Kai-Shek hesitates to align himself too definitely with the Moscow regime for fear of losing his personal control at Nanking to the Communists. And it is his last wish that China go Communists.

It is the perpetual fear of the Japanese that some agreement will be concluded between Moscow and Nanking whereby the Chinese Communists will join forces with the strong armies of Chiang. Such a contingency sends chills down the spinal cords of Japanese of all classes. China is rapidly approaching the position where it alone would be formidable food for the legions of the Mikado to subdue; the U. S. S. R. (Russia) is probably too strong for the Nipponese to defeat in Siberia.

There may have been justificatory reasons for the conquest of Manchuria by the Japanese, but there are no reasons which can be justified explaining the general attitude on the part of Tokio toward the Chinese Republic. Dope smuggling, refusal to pay custom duties, the stationing of troops in Peiping, and the seizure of territories in North the Nippnese authorities within the last year. Interference in the internal affairs of a weaker neighbor is never justified under international law. Acts of aggression have brought the condemnation of the world upon the shoulders of Japan, Italy and Germany in this century alone. But if the Communists succeed in establishing an independent state within the present territorial limits of China, from which they could direct a steady stream of propaganda against both the Chinese Nationalist and the Japanese Governments, and from which they could base attacks against the recognized government will be justified in taking punitive action in China toward preventing and abolishing such a state.

This is the reason: the avowed aim of all Communists is to extend their doctrines, theories and system of government to all hemispheres, overthrowing the present systems of government, be the democratic, fascist, or monarchial.

In Moscow today is to be found the International Workingmen's Association, better known as The Internationale, fostered, protected and financed by the Soviet Government, whose sole purpose is to disseminate propaganda in all countries of the world directed toward the establishment of Communist regimes in those countries. The Communist party of America, and those of Britain, powers take their orders from The Internationale which is directed by and responsible to the Soviet Government.

For national safety, for the preservation of the monarchy and of the state itself, the Japanese will never permit Communism, and as a possible ally of Communism through desperation that is brought about by Japanese aggression, the logical ally of China's dictator against the Communist armies would be his neighbor, Japan. But the attitude pursued by Tokio toward the Chinese has never been one of either friendliness or equality and has engendered only hostility toward everything Japanese on the part of the Chinese.

How could Chaing turn to the Japanese when they were seizing his provinces, shelling his ports, and generally following a policy of cold hostility toward his people?

Therein lies the key to the entire situation in the Orient today. Chaing has been or may be forced into an unwilling alliance with the Soviets to keep China out of the greedy grasp of the Japanese militarist. Whereas the pursuance of a different attitude on the part of the Japanese would have placed that power in the position of friend, ally and protector of China against the Soviets and their insidious doctrine of Communism.

There is no evidence to the contrary that the Chinese would have opposed Japanese immigration to Manchuria under the old regime in that unhappy province. And the Japanese would have found a far better market for their manufactured products in a friendly China than they do under the present state of affairs.

By cooperating with China, the Japanese could have abolished the anarchy reigning in many parts of that state since the turn of the century and with the establishment of order the threat of Soviet domination would have been ended. A grateful China would have turned to Japan as its neighbor and friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Walker
Entertain Club

Members and guests of the Owl Club were entertained Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Walker on So. 14th street. Attractive arrangements of yellow garzas and lace fern were used for decorations, and games of 84 furnished the diversion of the evening.

A delicious salad course was served the following: Messrs. and Mesdames D. D. McCoy, D. R. Boone, Tom L. Robinson, D. I. Glass, Jeff Bates, Edgar Franks, G. W. Byrom, A. W. Gartman, E. G. Beerwinkle, Vernon C. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Ricketts.

Mr. and Mrs. George Painter
Entertain Friday Night

Complimenting the store force, Mr. and Mrs. George Painter were hosts Friday evening at a buffet supper at their home on Collega street. The house was beautifully decorated with seasonal flowers and the guests were seated at small tables upon arrival.

The supper, which was served buffet style with Mrs. Cyril Hudson assisting the hostess, consisted of congealed fruit salad, turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, candied sweet potatoes, pickles, rolls, cherry pie and coffee. Games of Bingo were played following the supper.

Those enjoying the courtesy were Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sydow, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Melbern, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rankin, Mrs. Bill Maxwell and Mrs. Geraldine Perdue.

Former Gatesville Boy
Marries Wacoan
The marriage of Miss Beverly

Bowen and Ralph L. Wiley of Waco took place Saturday at high noon in the Austin Avenue Methodist Church with the pastor, Rev. Walter Anthony, officiating in the presence of immediate families of both.

The bride was lovely in a rose light wool suit and she wore navy accessories and a shoulder corsage of sweetheart buds and lillies of the valley. For "something old" she wore a diamond bar pin which belongs to her grandmother.

Mrs. Wiley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert R. Bowen of 2517 Bosque boulevard, received her education in Waco, and Mr. Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wiley of Gatesville, is a former lieutenant in the United States Air Corps and is now connected with a Waco Oil concern.

Following a short wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will be at home at 2020 Colcord avenue.

MISS DOLA BOYKIN DOES SPLENDID WORK AT SANATORIUM, TEX.

Following is a portion of a letter received Monday from the reporter of the Junior Class of Nursing at Sanatorium, Texas. "As reporter of the Junior Class, I feel that it is my duty to express to the people of Gatesville the appreciation of the class for Miss Dola Boykin. Her progress in nursing has been above par and her character of work is of the highest type.

Miss Boykin is one of the most popular nurses on the campus, in both social and religious affairs. On duty her life is revealed in the services rendered commanding the respect of patients and fellow workers.

Her class work is very outstanding, which proves her desire to make this work a life's service. During the first semester her average was 91 and one-fourth."

We feel sure that Dola is making good and have been happy to receive this letter verifying the fact. Her many friends in this city wish for her greater achievements in her pursuit of this chosen profession.

E. D. PETRIE BURIED AT COPPERAS COVE JAN. 12

Funeral services for E. D. Petrie, who for a quarter of a century was a resident of Copperas Cove, were held last Tuesday afternoon with Rev. Mr. Cantrell, officiating. Interment followed in the Copperas Cove cemetery.

Mr. Petrie passed away at 2 a. m. Tuesday morning after several days illness. He was 87 years, 10 months and twelve days old, and is survived by a son, Oscar, two daughters, Mrs. Bessie Mayes, and Miss Kit Petrie and two grandchildren.

any good beyond protecting the nearby sheds and tanks of the oil agencies.

Sunday evening, about 6:30, one of the dairy barns at the State Juvenile Training School was afire for unknown cause. The local fire department along with the state's equipment put the fire out before much damage was done. One state employee, Ernest Blankenship, got his eye slightly injured when two hose crews ran together. All the dairy cattle were removed from the shed before damage was done to them.

NOTES FROM COUNTY SUPT'S. OFFICE

Letter has been received that $9,000 for transportation and $15,687 State Aid will be in the county within the next few days for distribution to the 28 out of 38 schools of the county that have had the attendance and met the other requirements.

However, the $9,000 goes to the County Board and will be handled by that body.

Total State aid requested this year, was $41,701, and the total (if all are paid) will amount to $68,197.66, according to information from the Superintendent's office.

There are 6,295 scholastics in the county, and with the state allowable of $18.75 per scholastic, the amount that should be netted for these is $128,031.00. $22,500 has been asked for transportation of students in the county.

An important meeting of the County Board of Trustees will be held in the district court room of the courthouse at 10 a. m. Wednesday morning.

Routine matters concerning the various schools will be handled at this meeting, and all schools with problems are asked to have their representatives present.

SPORTS

Basketball

The Hornets, both boys and girls, kept up their series of wins by taking the strong Levita cagers into camp last Friday night.

The girls second string defeated the Levita feminine basketeers 22 to 18 in a hotly contested battle, and the boys won by a lop-sided score of 22 to 10.

Levita is supposedly one of the strongest clubs in the rural district but could not stand up to the high-pressure shooting of the Hornet marksmen.

Tonight the Hornets are again scheduled to travel to Turnersville, preceding games having been postponed by adverse weather, and on Thursday night Turnersville comes to the local gym for a return engagement.

On Saturday, the Hornets go to Temple to engage in "big time" competition, entering the tournament there against such schools as Waco, Temple and Bryan.

How the Hornets will fare after this week is doubtful. Ineligibility will cause Worley to lose practically his entire team. Turner, King, White, and Newton will all have to be dropped after mid-term, and it is doubtful if the scrubs replacing them can keep up the pace they have set.

The Hornet teams have set brilliant records so far this season, with the easy defeats of Brownwood and Waco the highlights. By losing so many of a winning combination however, the win column will probably be greatly cut down.

Pros Vs. All-Stars Again?

Matty Bell and Dutch Meyer are willing to again match a team of graduating all star collegians against the Chicago Bears, crack professional club, next September at the Texas Centennial.

George Halas, famous president-treasurer-coach of the Bears, is thirsting for revenge and eager for a chance to show the Southwest he can beat them. The defeat of the Bears last September in the Cotton Bowl was the first defeat of a professional football team by a collegiate aggregation in the history of football and it has probably ranked in Mr. Halas' bosom since then.

The challenge, directed to Dutch Meyer of T. C. U. and Matty Bell of S. M. U., was received with interest. Both men are eager for a return engagement with the Bears and seem to feel that Halas is making a personal affair of it, since the challenge was sent to them.

The heads of the Texas Centennial are also eager for a repetition of the "dream game" held last September. Frank L. McNeny, president of the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition, which opens June 12 and runs to October 31, said that the game last year was one of the most profitable promotions of the entire Exposition as well as the best football game the Southwest had ever witnessed. W. H. Hitzelberger, chairman of the Exposition athletic committee, is also in accordance with McNeny.

Your correspondent, having seen the game last September, can assure you that such a return engagement will be well worth your time to witness. The play of both teams was well above the average, and it would pay any lover of football to go out of his way to see another such "dream game".

Carl Wicker, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Lampasas for the past two weeks, has returned home.

Miss Margaret Dixon, teacher in the Plainview school and her guest, Miss Ouida Campbell, spent the week end with the former's mother, Mrs. Emma Dixon and family, near White Hall.

Chapter One

"Come and get it! Come and get it! Set up or we'll throw it out!" called the chore boy of Camp Six in a high squeaky voice as he hammered the iron triangle, summoning the lumberjacks to breakfast.

"Here, son," said Barney Glasgow, as he strolled up to the cookhouse. "Let me show you how to do that. Put some zing into your mitt!" And he struck the triangle a resounding blow with the rod. At the top of his lungs he bellowed, "Come and get it!"

"Gee, mister!" The boy looked up at Barney with roundeyed admiration. "You never was a chore boy, was you?"

Barney Glasgow threw back his handsome head and laughed. His eyes, clear and blue as the Wisconsin sky overhead, swept the lumber camp and the giant pines which flled the landscape as far as his gaze could reach. Majestic in their mantle of white, they glistened in the morning sun. Within six weeks, two months at the most, the spring thaw would melt the snow and ice, would waken the frozen river into swelling, torrential life.

Yes, Barney recalled with a nostalgic pain somewhere in the region of his heart, he'd been a chore boy, all right. How long ago was it? Fifteen years? Twenty? He was a scrawny little devil then, and why not? Up at dawn, run-fatherly pride in his steady progress.

"You old polecat!" exclaimed Barney.

"Barney, you big dude!" cried Swan, thumping him on the back affectionately.

The news of Barney's promotion was received with a yelp of delight. By Jimminy, cried Swan, they'd celebrate, paint the town red, black and blue. Barney agreed heartily, but first the timber must be sent down to the mills. A hundred million feet of straight grain pine in that tract had to be cut down. Next year the whole outfit was moving up north, where old man Hewitt had enough timber to triple the cut. There were going to be thirty camps instead of ten, Barney told the beaming Swan.

Two months later, with Barney and Swan driving the men at top speed, the air of Camp Six vibrated with activity. The giant pines fell groaning to the ground and were carried by horse team down to the river. The thermometer was going up; Barney could feel the south wind on his cheek. The spring breakup would come soon now. They had made a record cut. Hewitt would be pleased.

Shyly Swan broached a subject which had been bothering him lately. He had heard the men talking, hinting about Barney and Hewitt's daughter, Emmy Louise. He decided to risk it.

"Barney," Swan began, and hesitated. "You going to marry The Old Man's daughter — maybe?"

ning his legs off from the cookhouse into the big room at the back where the lumberjacks sat at the long tables, his arms loaded with steaming platters of steaks and fried potatoes, stacks of flapjacks, bowls of savory baked beans, gallons of coffee.

Breakfast was followed by mid-day dinner, dinner by supper. At midnight, after the last dish had been dried and put away, he fell into the cot in his mother's room, more dead than alive. His mother . . . that queer pain tugged at his heart again. Standing over the blazing stove, cooking meal after endless meal for the ravenous men, her face feverishly flushed, her eyes faded and tired, she was the husk of a woman. Killing herself by inches so that he could go to school in the summer, skimping and saving to get him out of the cookhouse — out of the woods. Barney, her little Barney, must have a chance—a chance for an education, a chance to become something better than just another lumberjack, like his father before him.

Ah, he thought, if she could have lived to see him now! Bless her heart, she wanted him to amount to something. Well, after twenty years in the office of Silas Hewitt's paper mill at Butte des Morts, he had learned everything there was to know about the business! Getting to be indispensable to Hewitt, too. Hadn't Hewitt just promoted him to Big Boss of the Line?

As a wave of satisfaction passed over him, he quickly brushed aside the painful memory of his mother, her years of patient sacrifice. There was work to be done.

He strode into the cookhouse. The lumberjacks greeted him noisily, and he returned their familiar salutations.

"Where's Swan?" he asked.

The greeting of Barney and Swan Bostrom was a more personal one. Swan was his friend. The big Swede loved Barney and took an almost

"Barney," he began, and hesitated. "You—you going to marry the Old Man's daughter—maybe?"

"No maybe about it," Barney replied with a broad grin.

With a whoop and a yell of delight Swan made a dive at Barney, grabbing him around the middle and bowling him over on his back.

"Barney! On the square? Why don't you tell me? Why do I have to squeeze it out of you like you was a clam?"

Still grinning, and saying nothing, Barney picked himself up.

"By Jimminy," chortled Swan. "Is she pretty, Barney? She never come to the camps."

Barney evaded his friend's penetrating and kindly gaze. Pretty? No, he couldn't exactly describe Emmy Louise as pretty. She was plain as a fence. But . . . his brain swam with the realization of what the marriage would mean. Power! When Hewitt died, the lumber camps, the hundreds of miles of timber land and the prosperous paper mill at Butte des Morts would all be his. His! That's what his mother would have wanted. And that was what he wanted.

"She's got a good head on her," he told Swan simply.

A month after the spring thaw set in Barney and Swan stood in Hewitt's office at the mill at Iron Ridge. The lumber was piled high in the yard. Every decent stick of it, and eleven days ahead of time. Hewitt was grudgingly pleased. He'd get the thousand dollar bonus he'd promised him, Hewitt assured Barney, and added that he was going down to Butte des Morts for a few days. Would Barney like to go along? Emmy Louise was expecting him. But Barney had other plans; he had promised the boys a little jamboree at Iron Ridge and they were going to get it. Emmy Louise could wait.

DO YOU PLAN TO HAVE A GARDEN?

It is wise to make a plan of every garden before it is planted. Such a plan enables the gardener to proportion the desired quantity of each vegetable for a balanced supply of all classes of vegetables. To supply a cup of vegetables for each member of the family daily, your garden plan should provide for 145 feet of row of garden fruit, and 145 feet of row of starchy vegetables, 145 feet of row of leafy vegetables, for each member of the family and therefore it is valuable enough to be planned, not guessed at.

January is the time to apply manure to the garden. How much? Let's say at least 10 wagon loads for a half acre garden. No, it won't burn the vegetable-tubblers up next summer. The idea is to apply it now, turn it under and let it rot before planting time.

It is safest to purchase seed from a reliable seed house and give enough time and thought to the purchasing of the seed to be sure that the varieties selected are adapted to this locality.

Tomato seed should be planted in the hot bed or house box not later than January 20th. One ounce of seed will produce enough plants to set an acre. Sow seed 5 to 7 per inch in rows 4 inches apart and covering 1-4 inch deep. Although it is the safest to have a hot bed in which to grow tomatoes, they can be grown in shallow indoor boxes. Place some stones or crushed rock in the bottom of the box and cover with 4 to 5 inches of fertile soil. Sow the seed 8 to 10 weeks before the plants are to be set in the garden. Keep the box outside as much as possible when the temperature is above 50. Do not water plants too much. Transplant the plants to a cold frame or larger box when the first pair of true leaves are developed. Set the plants 4x4 to give plants more room and prevent them from being "spindly."

If the weather continues to be wet and cold, the plants should be transplanted to 5x5. Several good varieties of tomatoes are grown in our section of Texas: Break O'Day is an early variety, Marglobe, Pritchard and June Pink are wilt resistant and good for canning purposes. The Extension Service Bulletin, "Hotbeds for Home Gardens" is available at the County Home Demonstration Agent's office.

On farms, trees are very useful in shading the outhouses from the eye and centering attention on the place of most interest, the home. Informal arrangements of trees and shrubs lead the eye naturally, so let the house be the center of attraction and deserve the attention.

CORYELL COUNTY 4-H CLUB BOYS IN GOLD STAR CONTEST

Guy Powell, Coryell County Agent, announced today he has entered the 1936 record books of five Coryell County 4-H boys in the state 4-H club gold star contest.

The boys are: G. C. Martin Jr., Fred Kock Jr., and Elmo King, all of Gatesville; Travis Harper of Flat and George Williams of Pearl. All of the boys won prizes or showed prize winning animals at various shows during the year. Club record books are taken from each county to pick the outstanding 100 4-H boys in the state.

WHITE HALL NEWS

Health in this community is good at present except for a few colds.

We have had plenty of cold weather, sleet and rain and everyone is waiting for the sun to shine again.

Mrs. D. L. McCallister and Ruth visited Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McCallister of Coryell City recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler of Moheim visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sims of White Hall last week.

Misses Imogene Young and Inex Stockwell and Ruth Kunkel, teachers in the White Hall school, visited Mrs. Wright recently.

Several in this community attended the funeral of Fred J. Touchstone at Turnersville Wed. afternoon.

Alvin Dorsey visited Bob and Lews McCallister Tuesday afternoon.

We are sorry that little Billy Powell is ill at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Meharg.

COOPERATIVE EXTENSION WORK IN AGR. AND HOME ECO. SHRUBS

This is the time of year that we should think about shrubs if we intend to have any this year. Now is the time to plan many varieties.

There are many good and beautiful varieties of the commercial shrub, but some of the prettiest are the native shrubs which have been transplanted and arranged to suit the conditions of the homes. The most important part when planning the amount and kind of shrubbery to buy is the relationship of the proposed shrubs to the home and the other buildings around it.

Because of the formal arrangements in laying out city blocks, the shrubs are naturally in more formal arrangements than they would be in the country. Country homes are farther apart and have different problems to contend with in selecting shrubs, but in all instances, these rules can apply. Low Shrubs and flowers make the best borders and are best around a low porch. Taller bushes should be planted at the corner of the house or against a plain wall instead of in front of a low object.

"In any arrangement, several plants of the same kind should be used together, and all the plantings grouped so that a harmonious arrangement of color, texture, size and form results rather than a display of individual showy plants each clamoring for attention."

Shrubs suitable for low edgings are Eunymus, Jasmine, Santolina. Tall shrubs are Japonica, Privet, Crepe Myrtle, Pomgranite, Butterfly Bush, Bush Honey Suckle, and Salt Cedar.

Mrs. Reuben Fry of the Mountain Home Demonstration Club is now planting shrubbery. She has dug ditches for her foundation planting and is planting roses to beautify her home.

The Extension Service Bulletin, "Beautifying the County Home" may be obtained at the County Home Demonstration Agent's office.

LIGHT WIRES DOWN; EVANT IN DARKNESS

It was learned here Tuesday that Evant had been without electric power and lights since Friday of last week. Linemen struggled with ice-laden wires from the beginning of the storm up until the weather moderated Monday afternoon.

The Texas-Louisiana Light and Power service was crippled in Evant and that section of the state that power was not fully restored up until Thursday of this week.
