John T. Post, Prominent Coryell County Pioneer, Buried Here Wednesday

Last rites were held from the First Baptist Church of this city Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for John T. Post, 76, one of Coryell County's most beloved figures, with Rev. Clarence A. Morton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Marcus M. Chunn, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, before a large contingent of relatives and friends from various points in Coryell County, in addition to a number from Waco, Temple, Austin and other cities, and over one hundred Cotton Belt Railroad Officials from places as far distant as Pine Bluff, Ark., who came on a special train to pay tribute to this heroic useful man.

Mr. Post died at 2 p. m. Tuesday afternoon at the family residence on Main street following a brief illness.

He was born May 19, 1861 in Troy, Ala., and came to Gatesville and Coryell County when 23 years of age; the city of Gatesville being only a few years older. He was married to Miss Martha Pouncy 52 years ago. Mr. Post was associated with the "Gatesville Advance," the "Gatesville Star" which later came to be known as "The Post". For over 20 years he was a member of the Board of Trustees of this city and was an Alderman on the City Council a number of years. He was the center and cherished figure of a lovely home life; gentle, kind, ever thoughtful, always sacrificial, and sometimes, perhaps, a little over indulgent of the pleasure never to deny his children the things he wanted them to have. His life was a rich legacy of a father's loving heart and his life leaves a lesson of the experience of the wisdom of accumulated years.

Forty-six years ago Mr. Post professed faith in Christ and joined the Baptist church. He was an honorable, Christian, gentleman, a servant of God, quiet in his manner, and always humble in spirit. Mr. Post was a member of the Building Committee for the Baptist church which was erected in this city in 1902 and when the present, new building was erected, it was with his hand that the mortar was spread to lay the corner stone on March 1, 1936.

Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, John Frank Post of this city; Kirby M. Post of Tyler; four daughters, Mesdames L. K. Thomson, Ermon Chamlee of this city; Mrs. E. L. Taylor of Tyler, and Mrs. J. T. Leeson of Abilene and 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Among the many out of town persons attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Thomson, (Continued on Page 4.)

ELECTION OF AG. COMMITTEEMEN CALLED

In a release from the County Agent's office, an election of Community Agricultural Conservation Committeemen is announced, to be held in the respective Conservation Districts of Coryell county, as the schedule below indicates, pursuant to orders from the Secretary of Agriculture.

Residents of each Conservation Districts must elect an Agricultural Conservation Committee (known as Community Committee) of three committeemen and one alternate for each of the respective seven districts.

Oglesby—Methodist church at 2 p. m. on March 11. Purlmela—Baptist church at 2 p. m. on March 11. Copperas Cove—Clement's Building at 2 p. m. on March 11. Turnersville—the High School Auditorium at 2 p. m. on March 12. Harmon—School Building at 2 p. m. on March 12. Flat—Tabernacle at 2 p. m. on March 12. Gatesville—District Court Room at 2 p. m. on March 13.

School districts which comprise the 7 Agricultural Conservation Districts of Coryell County are:

Oglesby District: Oglesby, Eagle Springs, Horse Creek, Whitley Creek, Osage, Coryell Valley, and Fields.

Gatesville District: Gatesville, Bigham, Leon, Mountain, Woodward, Spring Valley, Lincolnville, Enterprise, Hay Valley, Schley, Ewing, Turnover, Plainview, and Owl Creek.

Turnersville District: Turnersville, White Hall, Mt. Zion, Mosheim and Jonesboro.

Purlmela District: Purlmela, Murrell, Levita, Oakton, Ireland, Libbey, Evant, Cowhouse, Arnett, and Stringtown.

Harman District: Harman, Pearl, Slater, Bee House, Peabody, Topsey, Littlefield, and Belcher.

Countyites Get Work at Many Different Points In Various Other Cities

J. Y. Hamilton, of Evant, is now connected with the State Liquor Control Board with headquarters at Big Springs, Texas. Just now, however, he is at his home in Evant suffering from an attack of acute indigestion.

Miss Vera Sams began her new work in the Education Department of the WPA Office in the Superior Life Building in Waco. She began her work there March 1.

Cohen Ritcheson has a position as supervisor of WPA highway construction at Nix, Texas and will be there for some time. Cohen has previously been variously employed here and out of Waco with the WPA work.

HATSFLY ASCITY FATHERS AND TREAS. ENTER

City politics took on a new high Thursday, with the announcements, or re-announcements of J. O. Brown for re-election as Alderman, Ward 2, and R. L. (Bob) Saunders, for re-election for Alderman, Ward 1 in the coming city election April 3.

Dawson Cooper has been announced as candidate for City Treasurer, replacing Leake

Ayres, who is filling the unexpired term of the late F. W. Straw. No announcement or comment has been heard from Mr. Ayres, and it is supposed he will not enter any race, but will retire at the expiration of his term, or that of his predecessor.

Since only these names have been presented for announcement, and, since the two for re-election have only served either a part of a term, or a full term, and the City Treasurer's position will not cause much competition, the coming election will be a tame affair.

Mayor C. E. Gandy, Alderman Lewis Holmes and E. Routh are not up for re-election and are figuratively "resting on their oars". So, also, is City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy.

W. M. WHEELER KILLED BY TRACTOR TUESDAY

W. M. Wheeler, 44, of the Coryell Church community was killed instantly last Tuesday evening about six o'clock, when a tractor he was trying to drive up out of a ditch reared and fell back on him.

The accident occurred on the Sam Allen farm, about two miles from Coryell Church where Mr. Wheeler was a tenant. While trying to drive the tractor out of the ditch the nose reared up, causing the machine to topple backward on him and crushed the upper portion of his body. He was killed instantly.

Deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wheeler of Axtell, Texas, his wife and seven children, Frank, Alton, Mrs. Thelma Gill of Waco, Francis, Joe, Dorothy and Margie.

Mr. Wheeler was a member of the Coryell Missionary Baptist church and had lived in the community on the Allen farm for about two years. Interment was made on Wednesday afternoon at the Coryell Church cemetery, with Rev. A. Loper conducting the services.

CIRCULATING LIBRARY TO HAVE BRANCHES

Coryell County's Library, is to be one of a "circulating" nature, according to Mrs. John Frank Post, local librarian, and this week, librarians have been busy assembling, filing and sorting books preparatory to handling calls for these books.

Out of Gatesville, Assistant Librarians have been appointed as follows; Evant, Mrs. Etta

Lacewell; Jonesboro, Mrs. Vivian Neel; Osage, Mrs. Vernon Martin; Ewing, Miss Mattie Temple; Flat, Mrs. Lorraine Brazziel; Oglesby, Mrs. Mamie Rogers; Leon Junction, Mrs. Jonnie Whitenburg; Pearl, Mrs. Dollie Fettner; and Pideoke, Dora Wilkins; and in the Court House at Gatesville, Mrs. Bob Hope Whitley and Mrs. Osha

Mae Powell.

Books are needed to stock this library, and may be carried or sent to Mrs. John Frank Post, care of the County Library, Gatesville.

The WPA furnishes funds to pay the librarians, and as we understand it, put in the shelves, etc., but the books are furnished from other sources.

TYPING TEAM WINS HONORS IN TEMPLE CONTEST

The Gatesville high school typing team came back with high honors in a typing contest held in Temple last Saturday. Two contests were held, and the Gatesville team made the highest average. Those on the team at present are Loyd Ivy, Mary Evelyn Eubanks, and Linda Erle Hayes. This was the first contest the team has entered. Temple is coming to Gatesville soon teams will also enter.

Mr. Briggs reports that prospect for a winning team are bright. A typewriting contest will be held in the County Meet this year for the first time; it is the first time Gatesville has had any competition in the county. Mr. Briggs is the Director for the typing event in the meet.

Nine new Royal typewriters were purchased for the local typewriting department last week. This makes a total of twenty-two machines in the department. All the typewriters are new, and this means that Gatesville high school has one of the best equipped typewriting departments in this part of Texas.

TRUSTEE'S ELECTION COMES UP APRIL 3: TWO CO. MEMBERS

At the County Trustees election on April 3, trustees will be elected for the various schools of the county, and also County Board of Trustee members in Precinct 1 and 2.

Schools who have as many as seven trustees elect two this year, and those with five elect one member.

Rev. Hayden Edwards Opens Revival Here at M.-E. Church March 14

March 14, with Rev. Hayden Edwards, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Clifton, assisting Pastor M. M. Chunn, the Easter revival of the First Methodist church will begin.

Rev. Mr. Edwards will assist in the revival, lead the songs and meet with the young people each evening.

Monday night, the 15th, the message will be "The Adult Call" on Tuesday night, 16, "A Young Peoples' Appeal;" Wednesday night, 17, "Our Children;" Thursday, 18, "Singing Christ into Lives;" Friday, 19, "My Church and I."

The services will begin at 7:30 and at 8:00 p. m. This, of course, is the week of March 14 to 19, inclusive.

Everyone is invited to attend these services and a brief preparatory service will be held.

For the second week, March 21 to 28, Rev. Mr. Edwards will have services in the morning for five days, Sunday thru Friday, and also evening services with some afternoon services.

WASHINGTON WITH Congressman
W. R. (BOB)
POAGE

Waco, Feb. 27. I am writing this from Waco as I have been called home with other members of the Texas delegation to attend the funeral of our friend and colleague, Honorable James P. Buchanan of Brenham. Mr. Buchanan was one of the senior members of the Texas Delegation, and was Chairman of the most powerful of all legislative committees—Appropriation Committee—in the House. While much has been said of the vast sums of money that were appropriated by his Committee during the past few years, it must always be remembered that he has carried on the most outstanding fight for economy in Government of any present day Congressman.

He was a great man and a faithful representative and, while his funeral was attended by U. S. Senators, Governors, Congressmen, and Legislators, the most striking thing to me was the thousands of country people, evidently his friends for many years, who came through the rain to pay their last tribute. It will be hard to replace Mr. Buchanan and both Congress and Texas Delegation will miss him.

The House has been in session very little this week, because of this bereavement, but the Senate on yesterday finally passed the Summer's Bill, authorizing the retirement of members of the Supreme Court who are more than seventy years of age. This is the bill that I discussed some days ago, and I voted for the bill when it was before the House. I do not know whether it will have any immediate effect, but it is certainly a sound and desirable policy.

It is necessary for me to return to Washington tomorrow, and it will be impossible for me to meet my friends like I would like to while I am here, but on Tuesday morning, I am scheduled to meet with officials of the Brazos River District to have a conference with Mr. Hopkins in an effort to get this project underway, and that afternoon the House will probably take up the neutrality bill, which I think is one of the vital measures to come before us this year. This bill attempts to reduce the likelihood of war through taxing the prospective profits out of war.

I am sure very few of my friends can realize just how fine one feels to be back in Texas after spending a couple of months in Washington, and I will be glad when the session adjourns and I can be home for a longer stay.

SPORTS

The Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition (which last year was only the Texas Centennial) is planning on making sports one of the major attractions of the fair this year. Realizing that the Southwest is one of the Nation's hot-beds of sport the Lord-high Caliphs of the fair intend to cash in on that reputation this year.

1400-mile foot race from Mexico City to Dallas will probably be the opening spot on the sport program. $10,000 is the sum reported to be offered in cash prizes to the contestants, which is no small sum for a foot race, even if it is from Mexico City to Dallas. If there are any racers in Coryell County who hear the siren call of all that money, now is the time to start paring the corns and running to the mail box and back four times a day for practice.

The race, unlike those of ancient Greece where the art of foot racing was dearly loved and wazered on by every philosopher and astronomer in Athens with a sersersil in his pocket, will be accompanied by an auto caravan who will pitch camp very night for the racers, and also broadcast short wave accounts of the race. The racers will probably carry placards on their backs advertising "Dr. Bogg's Candid Cure for Cantankerous Corns" and "No Athletic Feet for Me." I use "Mountain Air Foot Powder." Is there nothing sacred in this commercial world?

The race is timed to end at the exposition gates on opening day, if there are any contestants left after running all the way from Mexico City. (Personally, I'll take tutti-frutti.)

Another $10,000 race is scheduled for the delight of the fans. This time a three-mile auto race through the streets of Dallas. It will be a 75-lap affair, with the start and end at the exposition gates, and each lap bringing the contestants on one side of the Exposition Park. 'Round and 'round the boys will go, and if they crack up, there will be no dough. (Whoops, it's the Major Bowes in me.) Street racing in Europe is a big affair, attracting the best in drivers and cars, and big crowds, but whether American fans will like it is doubtful.

The Pan-American Olympics will feature track, field, and boxing events, with an international boxing tournament that will bring the Golden Glove champions of the United States against the best amateurs of South America. Also officials are trying to arrange a bout between Maxie Baer and Bob Pastor, who should enter in the foot race, as he seems to excell in that sport.

It should be a mad, merry mixup of sports that will be amusing if not interesting.

Doyle Preston Is Eagle Quint Captain for 1938

Doyle Preston, former basketball flash at Pearl High School, will captain the 1937-38 North Texas Teacher's quintet when it goes into action next winter.

The stocky, aggressive sophomore guard was elected next year's captain by the present regulars on their return from Commerce where they met East Texas last week end in the schedule closer.

Preston, one of the best ever turned out by Pearl High School, has been making a name for himself ever since he enrolled in the North Texas Teacher's College. His defensive floor work and hounding of the opposition has made him one of the most valuable men of Coach Pete Shart's basketeers, who made their first serious threat to the Lone Star Conference this season for the first time in five years.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

City of Gatesville, County of Coryell, State of Texas:

By virtue of the authority vested in me, I. C. E. Gandy, Mayor of the City of Gatesville, Texas, hereby order an election to be held in the City of Gatesville on the first Tuesday in April, A. D. 1937, and which election is, for the purpose of electing for the City of Gatesville the following officers, to-wit:

Alderman for Ward No. 1, Alderman for Ward No. 2, A City Treasurer. That said election shall be held on said date in the City of Gatesville at the following places: For Ward No. 1 at the City Hall, and for Ward No. 2 on the first floor of the County Courthouse.

Mr. E. Taylor is appointed presiding officer for Ward No. 1, and C. F. Caruth is appointed presiding officer for Ward No. 2; that the polls will be open on said day at said place at the hour fixed by law and closed on the same day on the hour prescribed by law.

In evidence of which I hereto on the 2nd day of March A. D. 1937, at Gatesville, Texas, sign my name officially.

(Signed) C. E. GANDY, Mayor, City of Gatesville, Texas. Attest: Eiland Lovejoy, Secy.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THE guys in the florist stores have got to be mighty careful. It's so easy to guess wrong or hurt somebody's feelings. Now, for instance, I heard about a fellow who come into a florist shop looking kinda sad, and he says, "I want a few flowers."

"For a lady?" says the florist.

"Yeah."

"Well, now here is a nice selection of orchids at twenty dollars apiece," says the florist.

"Say, she's a lady, and she aint dead. And besides, I'm married to her and this is for our tenth anniversary. Show me a dollar's worth of daisies."

Last Rites Held Thurs. For Mrs. J. L. McNeely Who Passed Away Wed.

Funeral services were con- ducted by Rev. Clarence A. Mor- ton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, Thursday af- ternoon at 3:00 o'clock for Mrs. J. L. McNeely, who passed away Wednesday night at 12 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Crow, with whom she has made her home for the past several years. Burial fol- lowed in the Masonic Cemetery.

Mrs. McNeely, who was for- merly Miss Elizabeth Craig, was born in Tippah County, Missis- sippi on Sept. 3, 1884 and came to Gatesville in the year 1893. It was in this city that she made her many friends, raised her fam- ily and although an invalid the latter part of her life and not able to visit the homes of her friends she always brought cheer and sunshine to those who came to visit her. As long as her health would permit, she sat on the front porch of the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Crow on East Leon street and cheer- fully greeted all passers-by and loved nothing better than a friendly chat with neighbors and friends. They called her "Gran- nie" and she loved to hear it from the lips of those who loved her as if she were their own grandmother.

At the time of her demise, she had reached the age of 92 years and 6 months and her life was one sweet, Christian expe- rience which ripened with accum- ulated years. She had been a member of the Baptist church since she was sixteen years of age and being a shut in as she was the last few years of her life she was still a servant of God and often wished to go to His house to worship with her friends.

She is survived by one daugh- ter, Mrs. J. W. Crow of this city; three grandchildren; Her- man and Owen Crow of this city and Mrs. Roy Townsend of Dallas.

SYNOPSIS
Wild Bill Hickok is forced to flee Hays City when he kills three soldiers in a wild gun-fight. The soldiers were renegades in the pay of John Lattimer, who is running guns to the Indians, but General Custer orders Hickok's arrest. Hickok seeks refuge in the home of his pal, Buffalo Bill Cody. Calamity Jane, his sweetheart, warns him that soldiers are on the way there. The two lovers part but make plans to meet again in Deadwood. Later, Buffalo Bill is ordered to bring in Hickok. Deep in the Black Hills, Cody comes across Hickok. They are on foot because Indians have stolen their horses. Cody asks Hickok to return with him but the latter refuses.

CHAPTER IX
"I'm sorry you said that, Bill. I—"
He paused, and noticed that Wild Bill also was looking in the direction from which sound had come. Slowly they glanced at each other, and again looked toward the trail. Along north to John Crook on the Little Missouri."

"Then find him, Cody!" Hickok's eyes were aglare. "Ask him to make forced marches while I try to head off Lattimer at Deadwood. Either that or the West is dead and every white man in it!"
Calamity Jane was at the height of happiness. It had been quite an achievement, when at last, in the new mining city of Deadwood, she had been able to stake a claim, sell it and then open with the proceeds what she proudly called the Bella Union Saloon. But now the ultimate had come. Across the bar from her, grinning with something of his old self, stood Wild Bill Hickok. At last, Calamity came to the subject most on her mind.
"Aw, Wild Bill Hickok," she begged, "you just know you care a question to Calamity over his shoulder.

"What's he talking about?"
"This here weasel," answered Calamity, "was braggin' to me that he sneaked in and warned Lattimer, that day at Hays City—"
McCall staggered, as with an impact. His whisky-shattered nerves seemed to shake visibly. He cried out:
"She's lyin', Mr. Hickok. She's lyin'—"
"Get out of here!" snapped the gunman and McCall almost ran from the saloon. Hickok turned back to the bar. "Funny thing, a year ago, I'd have shot him on sight—"
He heard someone on the street calling:
"Here's the livery barn down here, Mr. Lattimer!"

The right hand of Hickok had flashed to his hip. There had been an explosion, a burst of smoke. Now Lattimer was staggering backward; suddenly he crumpled and fell.

the faintly worn path an Indian came slowly forward, riding a cavalry charger, and leading another, both fully equipped. He carried something which caused the hearts of these two men to leap with premonition. It was the guidon of Company E, Seventh United States Cavalry.
"That means trouble," Cody gasped.
"For the Seventh Cavalry," Wild Bill answered. "There's been a battle."
The Indian dismounted at the campfire. A pistol cracked and the bullet tore the rifle from the warrior's grasp. Then Cody and Wild Bill were on him. Hickok ripped the coat from the Indian's shoulder.
"Who killed soldier?" demanded Hickok in Sioux. The answer was the beginning of a strange chant, growing steadily louder, wilder, more exultant. On and on it went, while the faces of the two white men grew steadily more horror stricken. Cody looked unbelievably toward his partner.
"Custer wiped out—at the Little Big Horn—dead—they're all dead—"
"Yellow Hand coming up to join Sitting Bull," added Hickok. "And a white man friend bringing thunder-sticks—rifles—to Sitting Bull. In the new village in the canyon. That's Deadwood. The white man is John Lattimer! Where's the nearest regiment?"
"General Merritt's on the march lot about me. You came here and found me, didn't you?"

He scowled.
"I told you a long time ago our trails might cross. I ain't the only person that's come to Deadwood. There's thousands of others."
"Guess who's with 'em?" said Calamity. "Remember that weasel-faced little runt, Jack McCall? He's here. Came in the saloon about a half hour ago."
"I was in Tony's barber-shop gettin' slicked up—bath and everything."
"All shined up before you started out to find me, huh, Bill? Yeh, Jack McCall's up here. Blowin' about how much money he's going to make and be a big man like you. That little wart sure has got you on his mind, now, ain't he?" Suddenly she lowered her tone. "Speakin' of the devil—"
Jack McCall, a different Jack McCall from the dandified person whom Wild Bill Hickok first had met on the Steamer Lizzie Gill, had returned to the saloon. He was nervous, shaky, as if some terrific mental strain had sent him many times to the whisky bottle. Not noticing Wild Bill he came to the bar.
"Now, listen, Calamity," he said, "when I was talking in here a few minutes ago—"
He stopped dead at recognition of Hickok. Suddenly he burst forth with: "I didn't do nothin', Mr. Hickok, honest. I didn't do nothin'—"
Hickok regarded him, shooting a

"Lattimer?" snapped Wild Bill. He started toward the door, then suddenly turned back, groping as he did so for his beloved watch. "Here, Clam," he said brusquely. "It's the only thing I've got that's worth anything. And I've—I've got a funny feeling about something—that might happen to me." He blinked and shook his head. "Aw, shucks!" he grinned. Then swinging, he strode out of the saloon.
Perched on a chair at the window, Calamity Jane saw him move down the street. She watched the gathering of men about a wagon train, the contents of which she felt sure were more "farming tools." She saw the quick parrying as Bill and Lattimer met, the accusations that this wagon train carried guns and ammunition for the Indian army of Sitting Bull. She watched Wild Bill as he forced Lattimer to remove the buffalo hides which acted as camouflage for the rest of the load. Then suddenly her throat swelled with a cry of warning. Lattimer's hand was coming from beneath a robe and it held a gun.
"Bill—Bill!" cried out Calamity Jane.
It was needless. The right hand of Wild Bill Hickok had flashed to his hip. There had been an explosion, a burst of smoke. Now Lattimer was staggering backward; suddenly he crumpled and fell. Calamity Jane rushed out of the saloon, to find Wild Bill with the five teamsters herded before him.

day night.

A. B. WALLACE PASSES AWAY AT TURNERSVILLE

It is appointed unto man once to die and when this set time comes the spirit of man takes its flight to the world beyond, and the body is laid in the grave to rest until the resurrection of all flesh. This truth we again see verified as we look upon the demise of Mr. A. B. Wallace of Turnersville.

The departed was born July 29, 1871, in Tennessee, and fell asleep Sunday, February 21. The gracious Lord granted him the blessed privilege to remain conscious to the very last.

On December 19, 1899 Mr. Wallace was united in marriage to Miss Mattie Carolyn Yarborough. To this union was born six children. One son, John Arthur, preceded his father in death. Mr. Wallace professed Christianity in 1921, at which time he became a member of the Primitive Baptist Church at Oglesby, where his membership remained.

Funeral services were conducted Monday, Feb. 22 at the Methodist Church by Rev. Mr. Roach of Clifton, and Rev. D. L. Barnes.
Beside his wife and five children, he leaves two brothers and one half-brother, R. L. Wallace of Turnersville, Jim Wallace of Chillicothe, and Sam Wallace of Knox County.

Those attending the funeral from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Yerby of Dew, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Lancaster of Teague, Mrs. Cordellia Blackshur, Mrs. Orb Harriss, and Miss Estelle Harris of Purnela, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Merriot and daughter of Gatesville, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Nelson of Cranfills Gap.—Contributed.

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

HOLDS BANQUET

The Business and Professional Women's Club held their first social meeting on Tuesday evening in the banquet hall of the First Methodist church of this city, with thirty-six members and guests present.

The Junior Orchestra under the direction of D. W. Diserens played several selections, followed by a piano solo entitled "Waltz in A Flat," by Chopin by Jack Reesing, who also accompanied Miss Beulah Gamblin who gave a whistling solo. Miss Ernestine Durham then talked on "Personality," followed by a most interesting discussion on "Public Relations" by Judge Floyd Zeigler. Mrs. Turk Brown, president of the club, presided as toastmistress.

A delicious dinner consisting of combination salad, meat balls, gravy, sweet potato puffs, green string beans, hot rolls, fruit pie and hot coffee, was served the following members and guests: Misses Theima and Truie Pearl McGilvray, Minnie Lou Witt, Louise Hall, Pauline Garner, Sidney Gale Gibson, Maude Alice Painter, Mamie Sue Hallbrook, Beulah Gamblin, Bess Holmes, Mary Oldham, Frances Voss, Aurora Yongue, Linnie Fore, Ernestine Durham, Lois Grantham, Mesdames John P. SCHOOL NOTES FROM COUNTY SUPTS OFFICE

The question of the length of school terms in Coryell County will be discussed by many trustees and teachers as the closing months of school draw near. Every school in the county that has eleven grades should run 8½ or 9 months. Seventh and ninth grade schools should run 8 months. Budgets are made for terms as mentioned above. The State Aid and Local tax are the only factors that vary. State Aid is distributed on the basis of budgets formed in the schools under the direction of the State Supervisor. If more aid is asked than appropriated by the Legislature, then the aid is distributed on a per centage basis. The amount of aid sought this year permits about seventy per cent to be paid. There is a bill before the present Legislature to appropriate sufficient funds to pay salary aid, transportation, and high school tuition on the 100 per cent basis for 1936-37. Those interested in the State Aid Deficiency Bill should make known their wishes to Representatives and Senators at once.

Coryell County Meet entries should be in the County Superintendent's office by March 15, 1937. Mrs. D. I. Campbell, secretary, must have time to list all entries in their respective events. Late entries always create confusion. Schol Trustees and teachers should meet all requirements made by the State Supervisor at once. He will be in Coryell County within the next two weeks.

Card of Thanks

We make this expression of thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors who showed us so many kindnesses during the illness and death of our husband and father, A. B. Wallace. May God bless each and everyone of you is our prayer.

WORLD COMMENT

The March on Steel

If John L. Lewis succeeds in his avowed purpose of organizing automobile and rubber workers into gigantic industrial powerful labor leader this nation has ever had and one of the most potent individuals in the nation. He will be in a position to force shutdowns upon either or all of these major and vital industries.

Some idea of his methods were given by the recent General Motors strike, in which some 135 men sat down in the automobile concern's production plant and refused to labor or allow others to do so. These laborers lost a million dollars a day in wages, and stand to gain little from the negotiations now in progress between their leaders and officials of the corporation.

But the Committee for Industrial Organization, organized by Mr. Lewis in 1935 following the withdrawal of seven unions from the national convention of the American Federation of Labor that John Lewis and his cohorts have been working for two years now.

This discussion is concerned with the failure (to date) of Mr. Lewis to invade the field of unorganized labor in the steel industry and come out with any material success. Practically unknown to the public, in spite of infrequent newspaper articles, a mighty struggle is now in progress between Mr. Lewis and his C. I. O. and the contention of the steel corporation owners that there must be no intimidation or coercion exercised by anyone upon their workers to determine their attitude toward the company.

Collective bargaining, they contend, may be conducted successfully only when it is direct between the company and the men, without outside intermediaries. Company unions have been organized for the purpose of permitting the direct presentation of grievances.

The retort of labor, personified in this case by Mr. Lewis, is that the company unions, organized by those who control the steel industry, are farces which permit neither a proper presentation nor correction of grievances of the workers. They are merely foils to keep the steel workers out of the industrial unions, it is said.

Only with an all-embracing industrial union comprising all steel workers, of all steel companies can the workers' rights be protected against those who would infringe upon them, Mr. Lewis contends.

This argument might best be settled by the steel workers bitter controversy rages. They have cast an indirect ballot upon the choice of membership in a union of Mr. Lewis' making or a company union in which there would be no interference from outside sources. By a great majority, they have turned down Mr. Lewis proposal.

The one great reason for this lies in the fact that the steel workers believe in looking before jumping. Across the labor table they see the coal miners, controlled by Mr. Lewis, who, in spite of their solidarity as members of the United Mine Workers of America and energetic leadership under Mr. Lewis, are not faring so well in a financial way.

In the year when Mr. Lewis organized the C. I. O., the miners averaged a little over $500 out of which they paid their union an average of $36 for the privilege of working—and of striking. Mr. Lewis own figures show that in a peak month his miners averaged $22 per week.

How does that compare with the conditions in the unorganized steel industry? In the same year (1935) the hourly workers in a plant which may be classified as average for the industry averaged a little over 1200. This figure includes all unskilled labor, which is the lowest paid of all. In addition, practically all of the steel workers received a paid vacation of one or two weeks, and not one of these was required to pay a cent to a union.

CONNALLY INTRODUCES BILL FOR TENANT FARMERS

In a personal appearance before the House Committee on Agriculture last week, Senator Tom Connally urged the adoption of a farm tenant home purchase plan. The bill calls for a low rate of interest for the farm purchase to enable every farmer to own his own farm. Senator Connally stated that if it were necessary to do so, a billion dollars would be expended to put the program into operation, so vitally necessary is it to the economic and government aspect of the situation.

During a period of twenty months from August 1933, thru March, 1936, a study of United States Department of Labor re-

With the husband's help, Mrs. Pete Powell, of Carden, planted her garden according to the specifications issued by the garden specialist of the A & M Extension Service. Mr. Powell stepped the rows off in order to provide the necessary number of feet row space for each person in the family.

To be adequate, family gardens should provide 600 feet of row space for each member in the family. This should be made up of 200 feet of potatoes, 100 feet of leafy, green, and yellow vegetables, 175 feet of other vegetables, 100 feet of tomatoes, and 25 feet of peas and beans.

"I went right by the bulletin," stated Miss Mildred Melton, of Pecan Grove, in telling of her work in gardening. She did use the popularly written bulletin entitled "Gardening" in selecting

LANDS DEFENSE IS TAKING PLACE OF OLD SYSTEM OF EXPLOITATION

The United States is entering a new area of land use in which the originally prevailing system of land exploitation is being replaced by a system of land defense. H. H. Bennet, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service, declared today.

"Land defense based on sound methods of soil and water conservation," he said, "is as necessary for the continuing welfare of the nation as the protection of our shores from possible invasion. Accelerated soil erosion presents the nation with a physical land crisis of enormous importance to the continuing welfare of agriculture in particular and to the entire social and economic structure in general."

Although the primary purpose of erosion control is the preservation of the country's soil resources, widespread application of conservation practices can have a definitely beneficial bearing on the three-fold problem of dust storms, droughts, and floods, Bennet asserted. Agricultural measures which increase the absorptiveness of the soil and make denser vegetative cover, he said, will alleviate the intensity of drought conditions and tend to prevent dust storms.

Discussing the recent disastrous flood in the Ohio Valley, Bennet pointed out the importance of soil and water conservation work in the reduction of flood crests. The natural drainage systems of the country, he stated, have been increasingly overtaxed in recent years by the addition of millions of new, man-made tributaries. Gullies, ditches, drainage channels, and furrows between crop rows running up and down, instead of on the contour of sloping land, are examples of these new tributaries.

The executive discharge of water from these artificial tributaries, together with the accelerated run-off accompanying soil erosion, has done much, he said to accentuate the intensity of floods. Advancing soil erosion, he explained, exposes the less absorptive subsoil and leads to quickened run-off which, in turn, produces further erosion. According to Bennet, this is a vicious circle which can be broken only by the introduction of land use measures designed to slow down run-off and check erosion.

Emphasizing that there is no easy panacea for flood control and that the negligence of more than a century could not be remedied in a year or two, Bennet stated that widespread application and combination of proper land management with upstream and downstream engineering work carried on continuously in a long time program, would not only reduce the volume and velocity of run-off, but would control the waters more effectively after they have accumulated in stream channels.

her seed and in the time of planting them. She has planted Marglobe tomatoes, Bloomsdale spinach, Scarlet Globe radish, Giant Southern Curled mustard, Big Boston lettuce, Thomas Laxton English peas, Detroit Dark Red beets, and Danvers's Half-Long carrots.

The bulletin on Gardening is No. B-70 Gardening by J. R. Rosborough and any interested gardener may obtain it from A & M College, College Station, Texas, or from the Home Demonstration Agent.

Heredity Twangs The Bow—Miss Ena Dodd, an Indian girl, from The Mission Tribe of Indians of La Jolla, California, is champion of archery at Arizona State Teacher's College, where she is a student.

Another Double Play For Johnny Evers—This one is Evers-to-Bailey-to-Flood Sufferers. The great former second baseman (left) and member of the immortal Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance double play combination recently auctioned off a thirteen-year-old baseball. The ball, his most valued possession, was used in those games and later on a playing trip around the world. Evers offered it, covered with autographs of great old-time players, for the benefit of flood sufferers through Leo Bailey, sports commentator on the latter's Tydol and Veedol radio programs.

HOT STUFF

Hot Stuff travels in the wires strung by certain utilities companies. They, justly, and for your own benefit and for the benefit of your children, have put out circulars (one of which is in our window) telling you or your children what to do if your kite gets lodged in the light wires.

This is not a warning, Kite Flyers, not to enjoy this real sport, but if she takes a dive and gets tangled in wires, call the light company, and they'll get it out for you with little damage to the kite, and a lot less damage to yourself. Anyway, it's best to go to the "wide open spaces" to do your kite flying.

"NUMBER PLEASE?"

When you are awakened at three a. m. from your deep and peaceful slumber by the strident clamor of your telephone, and some hoarse voice asks urgently for "Maggie," only to be told he has the wrong number, don't curse the operator or the caller, but the man behind all this devilish invention, Alexander Graham Bell, whose birthday falls on the third of March.

Noted for more "wrong numbers" than any other man in history, Bell developed his telephone in connection with his work of teaching the deaf at Boston University in which he was experimenting with air vibrations. Since the first public experiment of the telephone in 1876 the instrument has been developed to its present day highly efficient stage where it holds an important part in the modern world.

Few people ever stop to think when they take down the receiver and speak into the transmitter what a delicate and complicated machine they have set in motion. To sit in your own office and talk to someone thousands of miles away is a dream that even Jules Verne might have balked at some years back. Today it is a common place happening that we accept for granted, but if it should be suddenly taken away what a howl of protest would go up.

What are a few "wrong numbers" compared to the immeasurable service the telephone renders the world, thanks be to Alexander Graham Bell:

THE BIRTH OF A STAR

(March 2)

A sky, blurred, blood, and blackened,
By deep mists, and impenetrable gloom
Scarred by lead and iron,
Deep gashed by dripping steel,
Despair, desolation, misery and want
Ground in by a tyrants heel.

A mass of rugged walls,
And rugged men, the bravest of the brave,
The roar of cannon, the rattle of musketry,
The stoic grappling of death, the flow of blood,
'Till death and Aztec savagery reigned,
Where the dauntless defenders had stood.

A funeral pyre, an altar to freedom,
Heaped together, built of human bodies;
Fired, burnt to crisp blackness;
In keeping with the blackness of the sky.
And clouds of flesh smoke wafting heroes souls,
From the sullen gloom, up to the most high.

Under the blacknes a smothered flame,
Like the damp fires pale, pale light,
Flickered and smothered and then seemed to glow.
Then suddenly spread over a vast domain,
Of timbered hills, of rivers, and seas,
And valley, and mountain, and plain.

Out of the gloom a star burst forth,
And the light of peace, of freedom,
Shone beautifully over a beautiful land,
In the great constellation of the free.
Still shines that star, and it shall shine,
As long as men love home and liberty.— A Staff Contributor. (F.E.S.)

Do Not Fly Kites Near Electric Wires

Boys and girls, flying kites near electric wires is dangerous! Don't take chances. Follow these suggestions and be safe:

1. Do not use wire or metallic kite strings.
2. Do not use metal kite sticks.
3. Do not fly kites with wet string or in damp rainy weather.
4. Do not climb poles to get tangled kites.
5. Do not poke sticks at kites caught in wires or try to pull them down by their tails.
6. Safest of all, fly your kites in parks, playgrounds or pastures, clear away from power lines.

If kites become entangled in wires, call our office at once. Our employees know how to remove them without endangering anyone or causing an interruption to electric service.

PARENTS: See that these suggestions are followed by the children in your neighborhood. You may save a life or prevent a serious injury.

"RARE OLD DAINTIES"

Perhaps the most remarkable dinner on record was that given by an antiquarian named Gobel in the city of Brussels.

A description of it is furnished to the Boston Cooking School by one of the guests, Mr. Amaziah Dukes of New York.

At that dinner I ate apples that ripened more than 1800 years ago; bread from wheat grown before the Children of Israel passed thru the Red Sea, and spread with butter that was made when Elizabeth was Queen of England; and I washed down the repast with wine that was old when Columbus was playing, barefoot, with the boys of Genoa. The apples were from an earthen jar taken from the ruins of Pompeii. The wheat was taken from a chamber in one of the Pyramids, the butter from a stone shelf in an old wall in Scotland, where for centuries it had lain in an earthen crock in icy water, and the wine was recovered from an old vault in the city of Corinth. There were six guests at the table, and each had a mouthful of bread and a teaspoon of wine, but was permitted to help himself bountifully to the butter, there being several pounds of it. The apple jar, held about two-thirds of a gallon. The fruit was sweet and as finely flavored as if it had been put up yesterday.

World Comment—

Records shows that in the steel industry only $226,000 in wages was lost to steel workers as a result of strikes. This compares with nearly twenty million dollars in wages lost to workers in the highly unionized coal mines of the country. Both industries employ approximately the same number of workers and Mr. John L. Lewis has just lost General Motors employees $44,000,000 in wages in the first two months of this year.

What can the steel workers gain by organization. Their wages are higher and their conditions better than those maintained under organization. If they wish to prevent a repetition in the steel industry of the devastating war which has occurred in the mining industry, they must cast an unequivocal vote of "No!" on the question of organization.

YOU NEED THESE life-saving advantages OF CONCRETE

From your own experience you know that concrete is the safest road. Its even surface makes driving easier, reduces nervous strain and results in better car control. Its gritty texture improves traction and braking, resists skidding, wet or dry. Because of its flat "crown" drivers don't tend to ride the center of the road—passing is safer.

Concrete makes night driving safer. Its light-grey surface reflects more light, helps you see better. Illuminates obstacles and pedestrians. Sharply defines the edges and helps you stay on the road.

Highway officials are striving to reduce traffic accidents. Urge them to pave with concrete and secure for your community the safest as well as most economical pavement money can buy. You can benefit by your active interest as many others have done.
