1st. Anniversary Baptist Church Observed Sunday

Gatesville Wins, 46-47, in T.A.A.F. Finals at Ft. Worth Saturday Nite

Paced by Johnny Edwards, the Painters Independent basketball team upset all dope at the T. A. A. F. meet at Fort Worth by taking on the best in the state and beating the best in the state.

In the finals, against the touted Houston Magnolia club, Edwards, Red Walsh, Jack Thornton, and Hazen Ward, made 16 field goals, 15 of which were tossed through the net with one hand. Edwards had the crowd-biting their nails with his mid-court shots which sailed to the ceiling and dropped through the hoop without touching the backboard or rim.

Houston forged ahead at the start of the game when Hal Albrecht, former Texas University star, made two crisp shots, but Gatesville started their offense and quickly tied up the score. At the end of the first half the Coryell County boys were leading 21 to 20.

In the second half the Painter's team stepped ahead 35 to 25, and kept their lead all the way until the end, when the scoreboard read 46 to 37 in favor of the "unheard of team" that was not conceded a chance to beat the highly favored Houston Magnolias.

The Houston team was made up of five former Southwestern Conference stars who failed to "shine" before the dazzling attack of the "country boys" representing Painter Dry Goods Store, Eaton of Rice, Albrecht and Thompson of Texas, and Bisby of Texas A & M were all helpless against the long distance shooting of Walsh and Edwards and the clever play of Ward, Thornton, and the Weaver boys.

The Painter's Club started their career when they entered the District 9 meet of the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation, backed by George Painter, breezing thru the district meet held at Waco, they came off with the championship and a handsome bronze trophy, and decided to enter the state meet held at Fort Worth.

Unheralded and unsung they entered the meet, just a "country team from some hick town" that no one had ever heard of. In the first round of play they beat the Avoca team 29 to 25, and first began to attract attention. In the second round of play they met the defending state champions, the Second Presbyterian Church of Houston, and successfully took their measure.

KILLEEN FARMER FOUND DEAD IN CORN FIELD

D. S. Cox was found dead on his farm near Killeen by a searching party early Wednesday morning.

Cox had gone to his field to plant corn Tuesday and had told his wife not to worry if he was late in returning home, as he intended to work as late as possible. When a late hour arrived and he had failed to return his wife became alarmed and called neighbors to organize a searching party. The body was found in the corn field, lying by a planter, by the searchers early Wednesday morning.

It is believed that death came some time Tuesday afternoon as a result of heart failure.

The funeral was conducted in the Nolanville Methodist church Thursday morning, with interment in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his wife and six children, his father, C. L. Cox, six brothers and four sisters.

NEW TELEPHONE BUILDING AT HAMILTON OPENS TODAY

Hamilton's newest building, the new home of the Gulf States Telephone Company at Hamilton is holding open house today, March 9, 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

At this time all the friends of the company and its patrons are invited to visit the new telephone office at which time an official or employee of the company will explain the operations and service on all of our of a modern telephone service, own radios."

Sunday, March 7, marked the first anniversary of the First Baptist Church in this city, of worship in their new building. Though unheralded and unannounced, the Sunday School and Baptist Training Union both registered high marks of attendance. Two large worshipful audiences greeted the pastor, Rev. Clarence A. Morton, who in his sermons, discussed "The Dignity and Glory of the Church."

He said, "Two conceptions of the Church's mission had brought on an unfavorable attitude by many toward the Church at large; First, the Papal claim to direct the affairs of the State; and second, the pagan conception of the State to rule the Church; Neither of which find approval in the Bible. The Church of the New Testament calls for separation of Church and State—for a Free Church in a Free State, such as is guaranteed to the citizens of the United States by the Constitution. Many tell you what is wrong with the Church. The Church is not perfect. Improvement should come in the lives of its members; but the Church is more right than wrong. The Church is right in its relationship to Time—the Gates of Hell shall not prevail against it. It is right in its contributions to the world in the field of art, literature, music, and education, being the mother of all these. The Church is right in its position in the world. No man cares to live in a community where there is no church. Therefore, men should love and support the Church. The Church is right in its mission and message to the world. The Church is of Divine origin and carries the Divine message of redemption through the blood of Jesus. It offers the best in life, and the assurance of a home in Heaven."

Floral decorations for this first dedication anniversary of the new building, were presented by Mesdames C. L. Bellamy and J. O. Brown in keeping with the occasion. At the close there were additions to the Church. Many visitors were present at this meeting.

Dear Sirs:

As I am an old settler of Coryell County, and have great regards for all, am sending you a little letter for your good paper. I am now at my daughters, Mrs. W. W. Manning. I was in Austin at the Confederate home for five weeks. It is a fine place, but too big for me. I am now at the city of Cisco, but not in the oil business, but just sit around and read.

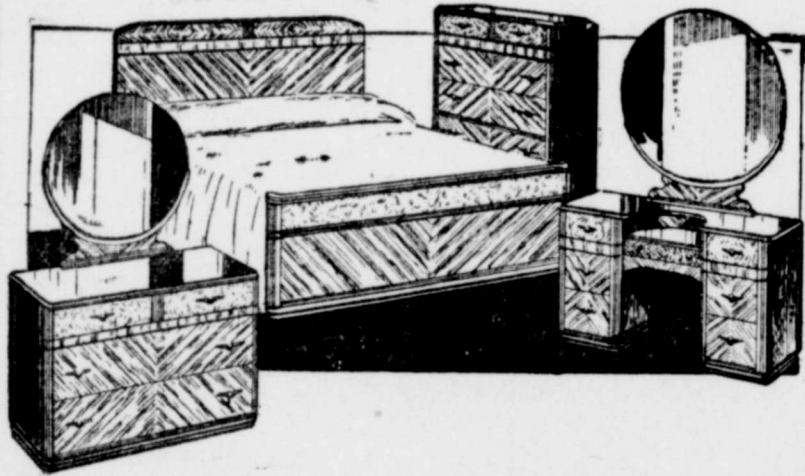

I am very well and get interested in the great oil town. Every person is in a hurry here and they are still drilling oil wells, and roads which are fine for any county in Texas. I wish there were some good roads in Coryell, and as I read the Coryell County News, I see there are some changes in the roads, and schools are much better than they were when I first went to the county forty-five years ago. However, I have a great many old friends there and send best wishes to them all, and if any of them pass this

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

It was apparent from the time revolutionary proposal for the increasing of the membership of the Supreme Court that there would be no compromise—that a crisis has been precipitated that would be fought out to the finish. There has been no change in this condition in the intervening weeks.

During one of the recent White House discussions between the President and a group of Senate members, an unnamed Senator supporting the President's plan advanced a compromise proposal, by which the President would be empowered to name two new high court justices, increasing the total membership to eleven in place of the usual nine, and would abandon the proposal of naming new judges for those who do not retire or resign when over seventy years of age.

The president evinced no enthusiasm for the plan, we are told, and reiterated his determination to pursue his objective to a successful termination. Such a plan, we are also informed, would be entirely unsatisfactory to the opponents of the original proposal.

Thus there is and will be no break in the deadlock between the new dealers on the one hand and the people as personified by the Senate on the other.

The recent turn of events indicates that the best plan of action for the president is to beat a hasty and dignified retreat from his present untenable position. The lineup of conditions in the Senate and in the nation at large points to a certain defeat for the President if he insists upon enactment of his proposal into law. Public opinion is crying out with every increasing animosity toward the President's plan.

The number of avowed opponents of the proposals in the Senate has increased to 36, while 28 have publicly declared in favor of the plan. The non-committal list numbers 32 at this writing. Senator Donahay of Ohio, a Democrat, is the latest to speak his opposition to the plan, insisting the issues involved should be referred to the people.

The opposition includes such true statesmen as Senators Borah, Burke of Nebraska, Connally, Copeland of New York, Glas and Byrd of Virginia, Johnson of California, McNary of Oregon, Vandenberg of Michigan, Van Nuys of Indiana, and Wheeler of Montana.

More and more the tide of public opinion is swinging to the viewpoint of Senator Donahay and other opponents of the proposal. If the nation is really at the crossroads in its inspiring history, if the constitution must be altered to give the people a proper voice in their affairs, the voice of the people must be heard.

Instead, we find the new dealers and administration forces using every means of political pressure at their command to force reluctant and unwilling representatives into support of the President's measure in spite of the rising tide of resentment among the representative's constituents which is as perceptible to the new dealers and it is to the affected representatives. The chief executive and his associates are thus cast in the rather dark light of seeking to gain their ends regardless of the will of the people, and in opposition to the will of the people if necessary.

The Democratic campaign platform upon which Roosevelt and

DAVIDSON KINDERGARTEN COMPLETES SCRAPBOOK ON HOME PROJECT

The Davidson Kindergarten has just completed an interesting project on "The Home." They began the project by studying the modern homes; their place as young children in the home and their place in the care for the home. Colorful scrapbooks were made by the children illustrating each individual child's home including pictures of each member of the family. A lovely poem entitled, "My Home" was learned and pasted in each book. Following this they took up the study of "Colonial Homes" and the study of George Washington. Posters of colonial life and of the life of George Washington were made and poems entitled, "The Flag" and "I Love the Flag" were memorized.

This month a garden has been planted and health rules are being studied by games, drills, posters and songs. The garden is worked and cared for entirely by the children of the Kindergarten.

During the month of April, Mrs. Davidson wishes to introduce one of the newest, most interesting mediums in free artistic expressions of art in finger paint especially recommended for the very young child, by the leading educational authorities.

"THESE THREE," IS NAME OF NEW STORY STARTING IN NEWS FRIDAY

Friday of this week, we present another story, "These Three" an amazing story of three people whose lives were nearly wrecked because of a vicious lie. A story which starred Miriam Hopkins, Merle Oberon and Joel McCrea. It was a United Artists picture and has played at a local theatre.

In today's issue of the News, the finish of "The Plainsman," is here for your pleasure. This story has proved one of the best stories as well as movies shown in recent months.

"KNOCK-KNOCKS" HELPED BAXTER TO WIN STARDOM

"Knock-Knock" is an old game to Warner Baxter. He played it years ago—for money.

The famous Twentieth Century-Fox star, who appears Thurs. and Fri. with June Lang in "White Hunter," coming to the Palace Theatre, had, however, his own variation of "knock, knock."

"I would go up to a door," said Warner, "and go knock-knock with my knuckles. If I talked fast and convincingly I came away with a life insurance

SYNOPSIS
Wild Bill Hickok is forced to flee Hays City when he kills three soldiers in a wild gun fight. The soldiers were renegades in the employ of John Lattimer, who is running guns to the Indians, but General Custer orders his arrest. Hickok escapes into the wilds after promising his sweetheart, Calamity Jane, that he would meet her in Deadwood. Later, his pal, Buffalo Bill Cody, is ordered by General Custer to bring in Hickok. Deep in the Black Hills, Cody meets Hickok. They ambush an Indian at a waterhole. From the Indian, they learn that Custer's army has been massacred and that the Indians under Chief Yellow Hand were on their way to join Sitting Bull. Lattimer is in Deadwood with a consignment of guns for the combined tribes. Wild Bill hurries to Deadwood to ward off Lattimer while Cody leaves for help. Calamity Jane has opened a saloon in Deadwood. Hickok surprises Lattimer in the street and kills him in self-defense. He rounds up the rest of the Lattimer gang and herds them into Calamity Jane's saloon.

CHAPTER X
"KEEP your hands off your guns," came his cold command, "or they'll be more dead men than the town can afford to bury. Now get ahead of me, into the saloon there. Calamity!"

"Yes, Bill."
"Ride on the back trail, Merritt and Cody are due here any minute with the Fifth Cavalry. Tell 'em what's happened—an' ask 'em to hurry!"
"Yes, Bill. Hey, you missed Jack McCall, Bill."
The little tin horn hung back.
"I don't belong to that outfit," he begged.
Wild Bill surveyed him.
"You'd better come along anyway. You talk too much."

Already Calamity was on her way. Wild Bill Hickok, a crowd following him, forced his captives into the Bella Union.
"Lattimer's dead," he told them. "You're going to be turned over to the cavalry. And you might as well make yourselves comfortable where I can watch you. Sit down."
He indicated the poker table. Lattimer's foreman shrugged his shoulders.
"Do we play a hand of draw?"
"If you mean draw poker, it ain't a bad idea," answered Hickok. "I never miss watching men I play poker with. Jack," he half turned. "Suppose you tend bar—and suppose you bring us a deck of cards?"
But it was not tending bar which held Jack McCall's attention as he obeyed the order and hurried back to mix drinks. Nor was it this strange situation in which a man, trained throughout the years to watch the every action of those against whom he played, chose this method by which to guard his captives. Only one thought was pounding in the brain of the weak-minded fool. There was Wild Bill Hickok, the biggest man in the West, sitting with his back to the bar. Again the old temptation pounded—the man who killed Bill Hickok would be the greatest—

The game was in progress. Hickok had won a hand. The foreman jibed him.
"You're a big man, Bill Hickok."
A big man. The thought raced again through Jack McCall's brain.
"Just about the biggest man in the West, eh?" added the foreman.
And the man, thought Jack McCall, who killed the biggest man in the West—
An Indian entered. A friendly one. He saluted Wild Bill Hickok.
"Friend of mine," said the plainsman. "Though he did take a shot at me once—before the tribe surrendered."

"Yes, sir. Hickok, with all the reputation you've got—all the men you've killed—all the shooting you've done—it'd be a real hero who'd ever pull a gun on you and get away with it!"
A compound of envy, desire, crazy resolution came into Jack McCall's eyes. And above his yearning to be a big man was something else, something overpowering. Suppose Hickok should change his mind about that affair in Hays City? Suppose he should decide to wipe out the man who had told Lattimer that Wild Bill was looking for him? Suppose—
His hand closed over the gun butt. This was not murder, he told himself, it was self defense, protection against a man who might at any moment whirl about and—
He did not realize that he had turned and was holding the gun tautly before him. He hardly knew

"I've got a hunch, Calamity, this is going to be my last camp," Bill told the girl on the other side of the bar. "I've a feeling I won't leave this gulch alive."

The foreman grinned viciously. "Too bad you weren't closer."
"He got my horse," said Hickok studying his cards.
The foreman half turned. He knew Jack McCall's weakness. Too many times on the trail in late months, he had sat by the campfire listening to this new recruit's obsession—the man who killed Wild Bill Hickok—
"That injun would have been about the biggest man in the West if he'd killed Wild Bill Hickok," urged the foreman.
At the bar, Jack McCall half turned away, as if to free his brain from the crazy things which raced there. Suddenly he halted, staring. The drawer from which he had taken the cards and chips remained open. And there, half revealed, was the black butt of a revolver. Again there came the insistent voice of the foreman:

makeshift jail. In all his dreams of greatness, he had not thought of this.
Back in the saloon, Wild Bill lay stretched where he finally had fallen with the overturning of the table in the mad rush of his captives to escape. That, of course, had been impossible. All now were in the hands of General Merritt's men, as well as the tell-tale evidence of the "farming tools" in the dead Lattimer's wagons. Cody had come into the Bella Union to shout the news of his arrival, then stand aghast at the sight of his dead partner.
Beside the dead man knelt Calamity sobbing. Her hands caressed the long hair of the dead plainsman. They touched his eyes, they smoothed his cheeks. At last she bent low. She kissed the inanimate lips.
"There — Bill," came softly. "There's one—you won't wipe off."

FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. J. P. JONES AT LIVE OAK TUESDAY

Mrs. Mary Frances Jones, the faithful and much loved companion of J. P. Jones for more than fifty-six years, passed away at the family home in the Liberty community on Monday morning, March 1, at the beginning of the day.

Mrs. Jones was not called upon to endure a long illness, but keenly conscious at all times of the uncertainties of life, she had expressed her desires as to final arrangements; designating by name those who she wished to officiate at her funeral; and also that she wanted to be laid to rest in beautiful Live Oak cemetery, and other desires, and every wish was carried out by her loved ones as far as possible.

Memorial services were held at Live Oak tabernacle on Tuesday morning at ten o'clock with her pastor, Rev. L. M. Greenshaw, Rev. B. F. Reynolds of Pearl and a former pastor, Rev. B. M. Studer of Ireland, a friend throughout the life of Mrs. Jones. Tributes in words of praise of the woman whose life had been so beautiful, kind, considerate and useful; tributes of tears shed in the loneliness and sorrow that friends in the earthly separation were an epitome to one whose stay on earth is a luminous memory, perfumed as a perpetual springtime in the minds of everyone privileged to know Mrs. Jones.

Friends serving as pall bearers for Mrs. Jones were Ollie Strickland, Frank Blair, Paul Hampton, E. B. Hedgpeth, A. L. McFadden and Mike Boyd.

Mrs. "Joe" Jones, who came as a lively young matron with her husband to the Liberty community to make her home 51 years ago was a native of Alabama. She was born in Birmingham, April 12, 1863. At the age of twelve years she came to Gatesville, Texas, with her parents to make her home. In that town, then a village, Mary Frances Walker grew to womanhood, beautiful and lovable and became the bride of J. P. Jones on September 2 1880.

Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Jones, and with their aged feeble father moron the death of one who to them was the very center of the universe of love. A wonderful family has been given to the world out of a home where honor, fidelity and happiness were virtues taught from the cradle to the years when each launched out for themselves on the voyage of life, and each has steered a straight course. By name they are Mrs. Aileen Cook, Canadian, Mrs. Jannie Harris, Liberty; Wiley Jones, Slaton; Jim Jones, Liberty; Lowe Jones, Post; Johnnie Jones, Tohaka; Mrs. Ernie Jones, Post, Mrs. Maurine Glaze, Liberty; Mrs. Vallie Newsome, Indian Gap; Mrs. Lillie Asby, Gatesville. She also reared two grandchildren in her home Lois and Willie Jones, daughter and son of Wiley Jones. Her descendants number forty-eight grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren.

For half century Mrs. Jones lived in the Kingdom of her Master. She was converted and united with the Methodist church worshipping with the church body and supporting the programs until she reached the "station of embarkation" on her trip to the Holy City. Her influence was always used rightly and there are multitudinous stars in her crown.

May the bereaved family and all those whose lives seem so empty now be able to vision her glorified face and be comforted in the knowledge of the unbounded freedom and joy of Mother and Friend.

Relatives from Gatesville attending the funeral of Mrs. Jones were Mrs. Andy Payne, son and daughter, Dick Payne and wife and Mrs. Kenneth Adams and husband; Mrs. J. T. Davis and daughter; Mrs. Alan Bell and family. Friends who were present for the last rites were Barney Wollard, J. W. Thompson, Mrs. Earl Ashby, Mrs. Seaborn Ashby, Mrs. Percie Witt and daughter Minnie Lou, of Gatesville; Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Strickland, Mrs. Tom Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harris, Miss Carolyn Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newsome and family of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Fiesler of Star.—Hamilton Herald-Record.

World Comment—

Garner rode to victory stated: "we have sought and will continue to seek to meet these problems through legislation within the constitution. If these problems cannot be effectively solved by legislation within the constitution, we shall seek such clarifying amendments as will assure... the necessary power to congress and the several states.

But do we find the Democratic leaders seeking "clarifying amendments" to assure the power of congress to legislate in all fields of current problems? Four months after the American people gave Mr. Roosevelt the "go ahead" sign, we find him using every means at his command to alter the constitution.

Mr. Roosevelt had two years after the defeat of the NRA to decide what methods he would use to insure the constitutionality of such measures as he considered essential to the welfare of the American people—two years before heaced the people asking reelection.

But one slight mention of increasing the membership of the Supreme Court or of altering the constitution or of forcing Supreme Court members to resign upon reaching a certain age was made during the period from June to November 1936. Mr. Roosevelt had ample time before that period to make up his mind on the issues of the day and if he overlooked the Supreme Court issue, it was certainly brought to his attention not only by his Republican opponent but by the public spirited associations throughout the land which wished to ascertain his intentions toward the Supreme Court and toward constitutional amendments before placing their stamp of approval upon his candidacy. Dr. Gallup took a special poll of the nation on the issue of a constitutional amendment to lessen the power of the higher court and reported a majority against such an amendment before the November election.

But neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Garner nor Mr. Farley mentioned any constitutional changes which would be projected should Mr. Roosevelt be reelected. Lessen lights in the Democratic organization were told that the constitutional issue was taboo for the duration of the campaign—that the voters were a bit "touchy" about tampering with the constitution.

So these who maintain that Mr. Roosevelt was given a mandate in November to go ahead, removing all obstacles to his program, by the people are misguided, because the people were not informed of the issue which threatens to prepare the way for a change in the fundamental system of government. That is the reason why Senator Donahy and thirty-five of his colleagues are right in insisting that the issues involved should be referred to the people.

FLAT RESIDENT CLAIMED BY DEATH AT THE AGE OF 65

L. F. (Ran) Brazzil, one of Coryell County's most substantial and highly respected citizens died at his home at Flat, Feb. 13, 1937 after several weeks illness.

His death was not unexpected as he had been in failing health for some time. Immediate members of the family and a group of friends were at the bedside when the end came.

Mr. Brazzil was born in Marion County, Texas on Nov. 15, 1852 and moved to Coryell County in December, 1872 and was married to Miss Elizabeth Gillespie, Dec. 14, 1876 to which union 10 children were born, six of whom preceded him in death. Surviving him are his widow and four children, Mrs. Orphis Dickerson, Waco; W. B. Brazzil, The Grove; Mrs. Zelma Short, Flat; Roy Brazzil, Flat. He also leaves two brothers and two sister; Dock, of Flat and Charlie of The Grove; Mrs. Angie Morrison of Dillings, Montana and Mrs. Webb of McGregor and several grandchildren and great grandchildren who were present for the funeral. All of the above named were present except, Mrs. Woodrow Mardis and baby, the former Miss Lila Roy Brazzil of Los Angeles, California.

He was converted and united with the Methodist church at Minis Chapel in Marion County at the age of 18 years and lived a devoted Christian until death.

In the passing of Mr. Brazzil, his wife loses a very dearly devoted companion, his children and grandchildren, such a kind and loving father and grandfather. He and his good wife ever walking hand in hand helped to fight the battles of pioneer life; always on the upbuilding of schools and churches of today. He was always for the advantage of tomorrow; ever ready to help the rising generation every possible way.

Funeral services were held at Flint Creek cemetery by the pastor, Rev. Ben Reynolds. Pall bearers were B. P. Holt, Raymond Worthington, Boise, Boyd and Esco Dickerson and Bob Short.—Contributed.

GATESVILLE WINS—

39 to 34. Painters began to attract attention with their long distance shooting and smart floor work.

In the third round of play they breezed over the Wharton quint in an easy win 41 to 36, and were surprising team star and were conceded the most surprising team in the meet. Here was a team of boys, who had no highly specialized training, but who had played the game all their lives just for fun, and from a little town in central Texas that few people had ever heard of, that was taking on the best teams in the state and brushing them off with very little effort.

Advancing to the semi-finals, the Gatesville five knocked off the Beaumont Mobiloilers in a tight game, 22 to 20. Each team scored eight field goals, but Gatesville collected six free throws for the extra margin.

On last Saturday night the two teams that had survived the large field of entrants, ran out on the court to decide the amateur championship of the State of Texas. The Painter's team was not conceded a chance against the powerful Houston Magnolias, boys who had made a name for themselves on the courts of the Southwestern Conference.

But when the final whistle blew, Gatesville had won its fifth straight game and the championship of the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation. A "story book" team come to life, the country boys beating the "city slickers."

Coryell County is proud of their team and well they should be Johnnie Edwards, Bob Weaver, Cullen Walsh, Lorraine Weaver, Haden Watson, Logan Drake, Hazen Ward, Jack Thornton, Tom Ward, Ray Jones, Theo Whatley, Rabon Balch, coach, Sam Weaver, manager, and Geoge Painter, their backer, all did a marvelous job and deserve the congratulations of the entire county.
