CCC CAMP HOLDS FOURTH ANNIVERSARY AT LOCAL CAMP APRIL 5

In line with the other Civilian Conservation Corps camps of the country the local camp is holding their fourth anniversary celebration April 5, this coming Sunday.

A special program, as yet, unannounced, will be given, but who the speakers will be or what other kind of program will be had could not be gotten at the time of going to press.

Summarizing the year's work in a small way, enrollees of this camp have laid off to definite engineering specifications terrace lines for the construction of 173 miles of terraces which are being constructed by them under the direction of trained agronomists, engineers and other technicians.

Two hundred nineteen temporary dams have been built and farms whose total acreage amounts to 5,113 acres in cultivated lands have been improved, according to E. E. McAlister, Technician in charge at the Camp.

LOCAL REP. IS FOR RURAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE SCHOOLS

Representative Earl Huddleston has written stating that an emergency appropriation for the rural schools is up before the legislature and that he is doing all he can to get this bill thru for the benefit of the schools.

Mr. Huddleston has constantly kept the voters informed as to important pending legislation which materially affects his constituents, and is, it is believed, working for the best interests of the people of the county.

THREE FIRE ALARMS DURING WEEK INCLUDED CAR AND TWO HOUSES

Tuesday morning about nine o'clock the car belonging to Tom Coskrey caught fire at a filling station at 10th and Main and was slightly damaged. The ignition was shorted out, causing the fire, it was thought. The fire was put out before much damage was done.

Saturday morning about noon the home and contents of Jack Glenn (colored) was burned. No one was injured. Firemen made the call, but it was too late to save the building.

Sunday at 10:45 a. m. the house belonging to Sid Gregory near the highway department office caught fire from a flue. The fire department answered the call, and very little damage was done, other than the shingles around the flue. Mr. Brumbalow is occupying the house.

POSTON BROS. ATTEND BIG INTERNATIONAL MOTOR TRUCK MEETING

Mr. Poston of Gatesville has just returned from Dallas where he was guest at a big dealer meeting of the International Harvester motor truck organization. The occasion was the announcement of an entirely new line of International motor trucks.

Mr. Poston is most enthusiastic about various improvements incorporated in the new Internationals. The complete new line consists of twenty-six models in seventy-seven wheelbases, with gross vehicle weights ranging from 4,400 to 62,000 pounds. They include conventional four-wheel units, six wheelers, with both dual drive and trailing axle and cab-over-engine types. Powerful truck engines, numerous wheelbases, a variety of rear axle ratios, two speed rear axles and multiple speed transmissions, especially in the heavy duty models, permit accurate selection to satisfy many special hauling needs.

Mr. Poston also stated that much was said at the meeting about International Harvester's expansion of research, engineering laboratories, manufacturing, and proving ground facilities. Two big truck works at Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Springfield, Ohio, were enlarged by addition of new buildings and new, modern machine equipment. At Ft. Wayne an axle manufacturing unit with 125,000 square feet of floor space was built. Engine production departments were also enlarged. At the Springfield works, where light duty International trucks are manufactured new buildings totaling more than 300,000 square feet of floor space were erected. These include a new assembly unit, one of the most modern in the automotive industry. There are three parallel assembly lines, each almost 1,200 feet long. Other new buildings provide greatly increased cab, body and sheet metal parts production and painting facilities.

Ladies Learn to Cook At Kelvinator Cooking School Held Yesterday

One hundred twenty-five Coryell County Cooks attended the 1937 Kelvinator Cooking School held in the City Auditorium yesterday afternoon at 2:30 by the Community Public Service Company, in spite of the rain.

Today, one hundred and twenty-five cook books go where all little cook books go, back in the trunk, and the same diet goes on the table. But, anyhow, a good time was had by all and the school conducted by Mrs. Marie M. Henry of Dallas, assisted by L. V. Schunder of the Clifton office of the Community Public Service Company, and by G. B. Smith of the Graybar Electric Company of Dallas making the introductory remarks about Kelvinators.

Mrs. McHenry demonstrated the convenient arrangements of foods in the refrigerator, after which she prepared a meal in a Nesco roaster.

As the women arrived they were registered and prizes were given to Mrs. Tom Saunders, a student lamp; Mrs. Will Rutherford received a roost; Mrs. Jim Burleson, the oven meal; Mrs. B. D. Reynolds, the meat loaf; Mrs. V. C. Bradford of Goldthwaite, the vegetable meal and Mrs. Ned Chapman, the ice cream.

Hot spiced tea was served to all present.

MRS. J. B. GRAVES, FLORIST, MOVES SHOP ACROSS STREET

Mrs. J. B. Graves, florist, who formerly located in the building next to Chamlee's Garage, will be moved to her new location in a half front of the Coryell County News office after April 1st.

Mrs. Graves has been a florist in Gatesville for some eleven years, and her customers will now find her at her new location, "just across the street."

MUDDY WINDSHIELD CAUSES TRUCK TO TURN OVER

M. C. Mahler, Kirby Mohler, and Oce Gribble all escaped unhurt when their truck, in which they were riding, overturned yesterday on the old Waco highway about two miles east of Gatesville.

Mud on the windshield caused the accident, Mohler getting too close to the ditch when his vision was obstructed and lost control of the truck.

Although the truck plunged off into a deep gully no one was hurt. Only the cab and windows of the truck suffered damage.

County Meet Starts off with Bang Despite the Biting Blasts of Winter

The following committeemen have been elected to handle the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program in Coryell County:

County Committee: N. Foote, Frank J. Brown, and J. Frank Blair, with Geo. J. Fritz as alternate.

Purmel community committee: J. Frank Blair, T. E. Venable, and A. L. Freeman; C. P. Sutton, alternate.

CORYELL LICENSE BUYERS NOT FILING OUT CARDS

With approximately 4600 vehicles affected by the registration law, car owners of Coryell County have returned to the Highway Planning Survey only 79 of the post cards that were handed to them at the time they paid their 1937 automobile license fees at the office of Mr. D. H. Culbertson, County Tax Assessor and Collector. Car owners of Coryell County have failed to respond to pleas of the Highway Planning Survey to provide information on which the highway programs of the future will be based, a tabulation of returns received to last Wednesday disclosed. The number of car owners sending in information on cards received when they registered their vehicles is insufficient to provide an accurate picture of the road needs of this County. The information which is being collected will be used by the highway department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in planning the future construction and maintenance of roads and highways in this County and in this section of the State. Local motorists should be sufficiently interested in improving the road system of this County to ask for these cards at the time they pay their license fees and should fill in the cards and mail them, because information collected by the Highway Planning Survey will be used in designating federal funds which soon will be spent on improving the secondary road system of Texas.

Two or more persons in Britain may share a taxi if a new road traffic bill becomes a law.

by Narmon Basham
Editor Hillcrest, Pearl High

The County Meet brought large and eager crowds of people together early Thursday morning. The first hour or so were busy ones for the officials, for the people were so anxious that they were almost uncontrollable. It appeared as if there were very few wise ones who profited from previous meets and took it easy, so as to be able to last the full three days.

The children simply went wild over the tight games, and showed their enthusiasm by screaming and jumping up and down.

Therefore, we were not surprised when the sounds from choral singers later in the day caused babies to look around for the celebrated "Jumping Frog." The sounds were not the only peculiarities of the Choral Clubs, I know of one event, for instance, in which a Pearl boy wore a red-headed girl's blouse, and another in which a boy stayed on the "right" side of an overly plump girl, so as to hide his "duckin" trousers from the crowd.

The teams of the county have credited Gatesville's winning streak to fear of Coach Schwarz, but I am of the opinion that his own teams are the only ones in the county that are not afraid of him. Every player jumps when he "hollers," I'll admit, but if you notice they usually come down in the same spot.

Before the first day was completed, I heard several girls fervently moaning for overalls, sweat pants or anything to cover them up before the biting blast of the chilly wind. Flashy abbreviated uniforms disappeared rapidly in favor of more conservative but warmer coats and sweaters.

The Gatesville Junior High boys got good track practice when they played Pearl High for the class A division softball event. The Hornets displayed their

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was at one time a Resident of, I think it was Johnstown, and he was the Hero of the Johnstown flood. They made quite a Hero out of him. When he died he was buried as "The Hero of the Johnstown Flood." When St. Peter received him he was told to go on up into the City of Heaven and make himself known to everybody, in fact, to relate who he was.

The Pennsylvanian resident did so. The first man he came to was an old man with a long beard. He stopped him and told him the story of the Johnstown Flood. The old fellow didn't pay any attention to him. He thought he must be deaf.

so he told him again the story of what he had done at the flood. Finally he held the old fellow's sleeve and fairly shouted into his ear his exploits during the flood of Bunker Hill, but the old fellow shook him off and shouted: "Damn the Johnstown Flood," and walked off.

The Hero of many rescues from the valley felt very discouraged, so he walked over to another fellow whose golden wings were kinder mouthing and asked him, "What's the matter with that old fellow over there. I told him about me and the Great Johnstown flood and he wouldn't listen to me, who is that old Bird, anyway?"

"That? Why, that's NOAH."

GLASS BOOK ENDS

An unusual and useful gift is a pair of book ends which are actually two glass bricks. The solid type brick is heavier and consequently better for this purpose. Their simple design makes them appropriate for any room.

COUNTY MEET—

skill in relay racing as they succeeded each other around the diamond. They ran in 19 scores while Pearl scored 3 times.

The results of the game left Gatesville winner, with Pearl second, and Flat third.

Mound, the rural champion in boy's playground ball, won three games in succession by one point each. Coryell City, one of Mound's victim's, placed as second and Pidcoke third.

Copperas Cove won the County in the Grammar School division with ease and waited eagerly for the results between Mound and Gatesville. Gatesville won.

Copperas Cove boys, who have always had the name of being "fighters" then tackled Gatesville High for the county championship. The Hornets were too sure of themselves or the long tall pitcher was too much for them one, for they lost.

In the volley ball events, Gatesville boys won first and Levita second. In the girls division, Gatesville won first place, and again Levita second.

Due to the adverse weather, the other events of track and field were postponed to a later date.

In the intellectual events; Copperas Cove, Turnersville, and Pearl won first, second, and third places respectively in the senior boys declamation contest. Gatesville, Flat, and Pearl placed in that order in the junior boys declamation.

In the senior girls declamation contest, Jonesboro won first, with Turnersville and Pearl placing second and third. Jonesboro, Turnersville and Pearl won in the junior girls event.

In the choral singing, Gatesville won first, with Turnersville and Pearl second and third in the grammar school division. In the high school bracket Gatesville won first, with Copperas Cove and Turnersville second and third.

In the high school girl's extemporaneous speech event Gatesville won first, with Pearl second. In the grammar school division, the Pearl boys won first and Pearl girls first in the girls division.

The track and field events, which were postponed due to bad weather, will start promptly at 9 o'clock next Saturday morning.

All the intellectual events have been completed, but results have not been tabulated as yet and no cups have been awarded.

W. A. McCAULEY, 87, BURIED SUNDAY NEAR MOODY

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. from the First Baptist Church at Moody for W. A. McCauley, 87, who died at his home at Whitson, five miles west of Moody at 10:30 p. m. Friday after a few day illness with pneumonia. Rev. A. Loper of Gatesville officiated with Rev. C. A. Morton of this city, Rev. R. L. Brown of Waco and J. H. McAfee, Moody assisting.

R. McCauley, Mrs. A. T. Nelson and Miss Nora McCauley, all of Moody; Mrs. Curtis E. Ritchie of this city. His wife preceded him in death by only a few months, having passed away in June, 1936.

Pallbearers were, Jeff Ritchie, John Perryman, B. B. Naylor, H. A. Collins, Charles Welch and C. W. Woods.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

WOMEN sometimes like to show off a little at bridge parties. Right away when they come in they show off their clothes and their good looks, but they ain't satisfied with that very often. Not but what they got plenty of fine clothes and lots of good looks, but they just naturally are ambitious. So they talk about how rich their husbands are. They don't say it just that way, but that's what the conversation is about.

One lady was kinda embarrassed by the talk. She wasn't married very long, and she knew her husband's business wasn't doing so good, but she didn't know much about business anyhow. She heard the others telling how their husbands were building new plants and taking on new help and all that. So she says, "Yes, it must be that times are getting awful good. Now, my husband's business is growing all the time. Why, just last night he told me that he was going to have a receiver appointed for it, and you know there must be a lot of cash coming in when they have to get a special receiver to handle it."

The bride with her parents moved with her parents from this city to Stephenville only a few years ago and is a junior in high school. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Evans of Stephenville and a graduate of the high school there and is a pre-med student this year in John Tarleton College. The couple left for a short honeymoon trip to Fort Worth where they attended the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Motif of Easter Season Used at Birthday Party

The seasonal motif of Easter was effectively carried out Friday evening at the lovely party given by Mr. H. B. Davis at her home on East Main street when she entertained a group of young ladies in honor of her daughter, Jerry's twelfth birthday anniversary.

Games of hearts furnished the diversion of the evening and high score awards went to Norma Joy Pollard and low score prize to Mary Margaret Holmes.

The dining table was centered with a lovely birthday cake which was iced with white embossed in pink and graced by twelve tiny pink tapers. The refreshment plate drew forth a special comment. Plate favors were gay colored filled Easter baskets and delicious refreshments of sandwiches, birthday cake and hot chocolate were served the following: Norma Joy Pollard, June Marie Chamlee, Mary Margaret Holmes, Josephine McClellan, Gene Stinnett, Dorothy Chamlee, Martha Lou Phillips, Mary Jane Slone, Sarah Frances Graham, Mable Marion Brown and the honoree.

The ceremony will be read in the First Baptist church of this city on the morning of the appointed date.

Betrothal Announced At Saturday Tea

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Verona Franks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Franks of this city, to Mr. P. K. O'Neal Jr. of Breckenridge was made Saturday afternoon when the bride-elect's sister in law, Mrs. Howard Franks, entertained with a tea at her home on West Leon street.

Miniature Easter eggs tinted in pastel green bearing the names of the betrothed couple and the date, April 8, revealed the wedding plans. The ceremony will be read at the First Baptist church of this city at 8:00 Misses Elizabeth McGilvray of Clifton and Sallie Brannum of Waco will be attendants of the bride and Curtis Lipsey of this city and Joe Kelly of Waco will attend the groom. Mrs. D. I. Glass of this city will furnish the vocal music accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ola Mae Parks.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Francis Powell and forming the receiving line were Mrs. Howard Franks, Mrs. Ira Franks, mother of the bride-to-be, Miss Verona Franks, Mrs. Howard Compton, Miss Elizabeth McGilvray, of Clifton and Miss Sallie Brannum of Waco. Mrs. K. R. Jones invited guests into the dining room where Mrs. Marion Burleson poured tea. The dining table was laid with an Irish lace cloth centered with a lovely arrangement of pink sweetheart rosebuds and pink tapers burned on either side in crystal holders. Two miniature oil der-ricks linked together by a miniature banner bearing the names of the betrothed couple and the date, added further decorations to the dining room.

Assisting in the dining room service were Mesdames W. Mat Jones and Bailey Curry. Mrs. R. W. Ward invited the guests to the Bride's Book over which Miss Louise Hall presided assisted by Miss Maude Alyce Painter.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

The Sit-Down Strikes

It is clearly evident that the great body of the American people is out of sympathy with the sit-down strike as a method for enforcing collective bargaining. The failure of the federal government to intervene in a situation which has clearly passed out of control of state officials, particularly in Michigan, has invoked righteous criticism upon President Roosevelt and the Department of Labor.

It is the contention of administration leaders in congress, which may or may not reflect the opinion of the chief executive, that the federal government is powerless to interfere unless a state asks for aid. Senator Robinson, the majority leader in the senate, says the federal government is powerless to interfere until the supreme court passes upon the Wagner labor relations act, which deals with such contingencies as the sit-down strike in addition to hours and wages.

Such a statement does not constitute a sound or valid reason for the failure of Washington authorities to take steps to eliminate the sit-down strike. If a solution to the vexacious problem is truly embodied in the provisions of the Wagner labor relations act, then the government is fully empowered to go ahead with whatever steps it may deem necessary, for the fact is that the Wagner act has been approved by congress and made into a law and remains as such until the supreme court declares it unconstitutional. Such a procedure as awaiting a verdict from the court on an act, particularly when the enforcement of the act is so needed, has not been the custom of the New Deal officials of the past. A great deal of trouble and expense might have been spared the people if such a decision had been asked on the NRA and AAA before the policies of those acts were instituted.

The strange silence from the White House on the Strike problem can be explained by no one. The failure of the President to act has brought forth rather bold explanations which may account for his silence. One that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. John Lewis, who is responsible for the sit-down strikes in the automobile and steel industries are bound so closely together by political ties and mutual political sympathies that the chief executive will not express public disapproval of his friend's policies. Mr. Lewis, as shall be remembered was the largest contributor to the Democratic campaign fund last year.

Such, in my opinion, is not the case. While Mr. Roosevelt was undoubtedly grateful for the help in money and votes which Mr. Lewis tendered him, his is not the nature to be dominated or even influenced by personal friendship when it involves a situation as momentous as that of the sit-down strike, which, in addition to the grave economic in Texas. I call upon the schools, churches, clubs, newspapers, the radio, civic organizations and all good citizens to co-operate in the observance of this week. I further urge that all our citizens consult with their city officials as to the best ways and means of conducting this campaign so that each community may receive maximum benefits.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have here unto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of State to be impressed hereon at Austin, this, the 10th day of March, A. D. 1937.

Governor of Texas

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION

In accordance with the proclamation issued by the Hon. James V. Allred, Governor of Texas, in which he sets forth the interests of public health, fire prevention and safety campaign, to be served by State Clean-up Week and by authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Gatesville.

I, therefore, set aside and proclaim the week of April 4 to 11, 1937, as Clean-Up Week.

I call upon the schools, churches, clubs, newspapers, civic organizations, and all good citizens to cooperate in the observance of this week to the end that Gatesville be given a thorough CLEAN-UP.

In testimony thereof, I have hereunto signed my name officially at Gatesville, Texas, this, the 30 day of March, 1937.

C. E. Gandy,
Mayor of Gatesville, Texas

reaction it provokes, involves disregard for the processes of law as well.

When, at the outset of the General Motors strike, Mr. Lewis publicly called for the support of the President, reminding him (the President) of his political obligation to the leader of the United Mine Workers of America. Mr. Lewis was rebuked with a stony silence from the White House and there was not federal intervention on behalf of the strikers.

The other explanation of the failure of the President to act came from utterances of high officials at Washington, accusing the supreme court of depriving the government of the power to act in labor disputes. Last week Senator Robinson, after stating that a solution of the strike problem would be difficult until the supreme court passed judgement on the Wagner act, added:

"Right now I don't see much Supreme Court has held that neither the federal government nor the states can deal with labor problems." and the senator from Arkansas was one of those who cast an affirmative vote for the Wagner act, which gives the federal government broad powers to act in labor disputes, determining minimum wages, etc.

The implication is that officialdom in Washington is on a sit-down as strike regards to the sit-down strikes. If the blame for the failure or inability of the federal government to act can be blamed on the supreme court, then perhaps an exasperated public will consent to the proposed changes in the composition of the court.

LAST RITES HELD FOR J. B. (GOV.) TAYLOR WED. AT 3 O'CLOCK

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist church of this city Wednesday at 3 p. m. for J. B. Taylor, formerly Justice of the Peace for Coryell County. Rev. Marcus M. Chunn, pastor of the church officiated.

Mr. Taylor was born in Kentucky in 1858 and came to Texas when a child. He was given the nickname of "Governor" because he was of distant kin to the Gov. Taylor's in Tennessee. He was a member of the Methodist church of this city and attended regularly until his health forced him to stop.

He passed away at his home at the County Farm just east of Gatesville early Tuesday morning. He is survived by a son in San Antonio.

His body was laid to rest in the City Cemetery with Scott Funeral Directors in charge.

Chapter 4

When Vicente Cordova, who was engaged in a conspiracy to organize the Indians against the Texans, left for Mexico in 1839 to secure gifts and ammunition for his savage allies, five thousand of the latter congregated on the South Bosque and encamped to await his return. They were doomed to disappointment, for Cordova's party was attacked and their leader killed by the Texans under General Edward Burleson near the present city of Seguin. A few months later a party of seventeen Texans intercepted Manuel Flores and a large party of Mexicans returning from Matamoros with expected gifts for their Indian allies killed Flores in a fight on San Gabriel, and captured the horses and supplies, including letters from General Filisola to Indian chiefs which explained the Cordova-Flores conspiracy. What Santa Anna and his legion had failed to do the Mexican government hoped to do with the aid of the Indians but since neither Cordova or Flores reached the South Bosque encampment with the expected ammunition, the various tribes there gathered, dispersed to their own occasions.

The present center of Texas population, as will be seen from the foregoing, was the bloodiest frontier during the days of the Republic, and its rapid permanent occupation and development awaited the establishment of the Federal Fort Gates (Gatesville), Graham (Hill County), and Worth on the upper Trinity.

Mustangs and buffaloes still ranged the luxuriant prairies in season. Old Viesra which had once had 200 people never recovered its prestige after the Revolution. A blockhouse settlement not far away attracted most of the new settlers, and as "Bucksnot" (so named by a tipsy wit) became the first post office in what is now Falls county. When the county was formed, Marlin (until then called "Adams' Spring") became the county seat and by 1852 Bucksnot was no more.

During the fifteen years following annexation the frontier advanced rapidly. Robertson and Millam Counties were divided and re-divided. Limestone, Leon, and Navarro counties were created in 1846, Bell, Falls, and McClellan in 1850, Hill in 1853, Bosque, Corvell and Johnson in 1854, Comanche in 1856. "Erath's Empire" now centering at Waco lay within the area protected by the Indians by the Frontier Regiment, during the war between the States, but was not freed from occasional depredations until the '70's.

The future metropolis of the region at the site of the Hueco village did not take form until 1849, when Captain Shapley Ross installed a ferry across the river and Major Erath had laid off a townsite. The ford at the Falls soon ceased to be the principal crossing for westbound immigrants to the virgin prairies beyond. Ross' Ferry was superseded in 1870 by the suspension bridge (still in use) and in 1889 it was bought by the county and made free. Waco thus clinched her position as the crossroads of Central Texas, and in 1871 got rail connection with the outside world through the "Waco Tap" from Bremond, which also put Marlin on the line.

MRS. ANNA SEAY BURIED AT PIDCOKE SUNDAY MARCH 21

Mrs. Anna Seay was born in Alabama, in 1861, and died Saturday morning, March 21, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Perkins at Pidcoke.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Baptist Church of Pidcoke. Rev. Solon, a life long friend of the family officiating in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives who loved Mrs. Seay for what her life had been.

Sorrow had touched every heart, for she had been known and loved by both young and old in this part of her life. Mrs. Seay's life had been sublimely useful. Consideration for her children and others came first with her.

A review of her self-sacrificing as a wife, mother, and friend presents a beautiful picture. Truly her faith in her religion was sublime. She loved her church and was a constant supplicator at the throne of grace.

She was the daughter of the late T. B. Lovejoy of Pidcoke, and is survived by the following children; Bird, of San Antonio; Earl, of Greenville; Boone of Rosebud; Homer of Marble Falls and one daughter, Mrs. Will Perkins of Pidcoke.

She has two sisters and three brothers living, O. K. Lovejoy and Mrs. Ola Moore of Gatesville, Jim Lovejoy of Pidcoke, Mabe Lovejoy of Carlsbad, New Mexico and Mrs. Minnie Moseley of Topsey.

Those attending the funeral from Gatesville were: Eiland Lovejoy, Mr. and Mrs. O. K.

Lovejoy, Mrs. Ola Moore, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gandy and children, Mrs. J. B. White, and Mrs. Robert Stout.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
 Martha, Dobie and Karen Wright, orphaned young ladies, have found happiness in an old farmhouse which they have converted into a private school for girls. Karen is engaged to be married to Dr. Cardin. But an ugly rumor concerning Cardin and Martha started by a malicious pupil threatens to ruin their lives. The mothers of the neighborhood remove their children from the school. The three unhappy people institute a slander suit, and lose.

Chapter Six

Martha, Karen and Dr. Cardin made their way through a jeering crowd. Worse was awaiting them. Back at the hospital, Dr. Cardin was informed that he would have to give up his post. Meanwhile, Karen, despite Martha's entreaties and assurances, revealed that she was considerably shaken by the ugly rumors.

Into the gloomy household now burst an unwelcome visitor — Mrs. Mortar, turning up again like a bad penny. The girls reproached her bitterly. Why hadn't she answered their telegrams? Why hadn't she come to their assistance during the trial. Mrs. Mortar answered nervously, but with her usual complete lack of understanding.

"We were opening in a new play, and the curtain must go up, you know. Now, don't let's talk about these things any more. I'll go upstairs and unpack and, —"

Martha could restrain herself no longer. "She very carefully waited until the whole thing was over," she cried. "Listen: We have been trying for months now to defend ourselves in a courtroom against the lies of a child called Mary Tilford. A great part of the Tilford case was based on remarks made by Lily Mortar, actress, against her niece. That's me. And a greater part of the case rested on the telling fact that Mrs. Mortar would not appear in court to deny or explain those remarks. As you probably read in the papers we lost the case."

But Mrs. Mortar still defended herself. "It wouldn't have done any good for all of us to get mixed up in that unpleasant..." She broke off seeing that bitter look on Martha's face. "Well," she said hastily, "now that I'm here, I'm going to stand shoulder to shoulder with you. I'm going to help."

"There's a six o'clock train," said Martha sternly. "Get on it!"

Mrs. Mortar drew herself up. "When you wish to apologize, I will be temporarily in my rooms." And she made a dignified exit.

When Dr. Cardin arrived, shortly afterwards, Karen tried hard to receive him as if nothing had happened, but it was a poor attempt.

"Darling," the young doctor said, "We're going to Vienna. I've cabled Fisher and he says I can have my old job back. I'll buy you coffee cakes for a wedding present and..."

Karen interrupted. "You don't want to go to Vienna."

"We can't stay here," Dr. Cardin argued. "We must start again and start quick — with all this far Behind Karen confessed her doubts. Dr. Cardin pleaded desperately. "Karen, Martha and I have never even thought of each other. Can't you believe me?"

"People don't believe, darling," Karen said gently, "because other people tell them to believe. It's not only that. It's that I'd never know. Nor could anything that Dr. Cardin said shake her from this position. They parted sadly.

"If ever you can believe me," Dr. Cardin said, "anywhere, anytime — I'll be there for you."

Martha, too, when she learned of Dr. Cardin's departure—he had not even said Goodbye to her—decided to leave. To remain with Karen now, in an atmosphere of suspicion and secret hostility, was out of the question. Little Mary Tilford had done a good job of wrecking all their lives.

On the train pulling out, Mrs. Mortar was again her garrulous self. Oblivious to her niece's tragedy, blind to the part she had played in wrecking her life, she babbled on and on.

A little boy of four came down the aisle, dragged along by his mother. At Martha's seat he dropped an orange on the floor and Martha leaned down to pick it up.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Broadway expatriates, back from Miami with a dark sunburn, only fool urbanites the native Floridian seldom allows the sun to strike below the level of his wide-brimmed straw . . . and unlike New Yorkers, he knows that the loveliest tans cover neither explorers nor athletes—but rather vice-presidents of Seventh Avenue suit-and-cloak outfits . . . and their shattered nerves! . . . Many sign-carrying pickets walking up and down around town these days . . . some complaints are pretty far-fetched for instance, those in front of Macy's . . . warning patrons that "the electrical equipment being installed in this store is delivered by non-union truck helpers"

The "Hollywood" favorite night spot of Broadwayites, who like their chorines young and shapely, is the scene of a private skit between Gary Cooper and the socialite escort of a notorious young damsel. "May I introduce Miss Lee?" . . . pleads Mr. Park Avenue "Of the Virginia Lees?"

Gary asks "Oh, no, the society gent explains . . . of the hotel Lees!"

Bill Yulen, who probably knows more about the doings in this town than any one I know, tells me that Fred Allen to the contrary, Jack Benny actually did play the violin at one time in his career . . . as a sailor during the war, Jack played for the Seamen's Benefit Fund, and his name may be seen on the program in the files of the organization . . . When Benny came to town recently one of the "musts" on his program was a visit to the organization headquarters to view the program!

Here's a tip some sponsor will thank me for!—Back in the booming '20's, when I first saw him, Jack Diamant was conducting an orchestra and soloing his fiddle in Shepherd's Hotel, famous wintering place of Cairo, Egypt . . . he was riding high then . . . and considered one of the best. Yesterday, I met him again . . . on 50th Street . . . looking for a hard-to-find job . . . a great artist, trying to beat the competition of "canned music" . . . Somebody named "A Constant Reader" from out Iowa way, writes in on McAlpin Hotel stationery: "I like you best when you're informative . . . so many attractions in New York baffle me . . . please mention some interesting spots" . . . Glad to oblige!

What will you have?—Here's a double thrill: The Rainbow Room, up 65 stories in Mr. Rockefeller's Centre . . . where you can gaze at front-page socialites and be entertained with some of the best international talent . . . an English chap named Alec Templeton heads the bill . . . and in my humble opinion he is one of the cleverest mimics to hit these shores in years! . . . How about an unusual personality? . . .

Your "Unseen Friend" Hindu philosopher of radio fame, scholar and Oxford graduate . . . who is independently wealthy . . . and runs the twelve table "Rajah" restaurant for himself and his friends—simply because he can't get real Hindu food any place else! . . . A smart play?—see Lucille Watson in "Yes, My Darling Daughter" . . . Lucille, by the way, must be figuring on a long run in this little town . . . Soon after the show opened . . . and was labeled a hit by the critics . . . she bought a private house on East 63rd Street, furnished it and called it her permanent home . . . Optimistic—what? . . . The Broadway Parade.

MY MOTHER, MRS. ELNORA BAKER

On the 10th of March at 6:30 p. m. God Called my dear Mama away to dwell with Him in that far away land where all is happiness and rest. Where there will be no more pain or sorrows. Where there will be no more disappointments and where we will never grow old.

It is hard to give you up, dear Mother, and I am sad and lonely as I sit alone in the home that is not home any more without you. Your room is dark tonight and your chair is vacant, I miss you everywhere. But in my loneliness there is a ray of sunshine for I have fond memories left of many loving deeds of love and kindness. And the the assurance of your acceptance of Jesus when only a girl, of your true christian life, of your guidance of me to the narrow way, teaching me to pray, trust, and love a Heavenly Father. On who can help and comfort me in time of trouble, and someday by having known and trusted this Heavenly Father I can see you again, dear mother.
