Among the thousands in Fort Worth Monday night to hear the world renowned Evangelist, Rev. These were Rev. Marcus M. Chunn, Mrs. Pearl White, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hamilton and daughter, Harvey Jean and Mrs. A. C. Schloeman.

NEAR TRAGEDY OCCURS ON BOONE GORDON FARM

A. P. Cox was badly injured and skinned last week while roping a cow on the Boone Gordon ranch near here.

Cox was attempting to rope a yearling, when the horse he was riding ran into a steer, throwing its self. Then being scared, the horse ran away, and in some way the lariat was wrapped around Cox's shoulder and neck and he was dragged over 200 yards.

Charlie Maynard, with quick work with his lariat roped the horse and prevented Cox's being killed.

"RATTLE SNAKE HUNTERS" KILL FIVE-FOOT RATTLESN

Failing to find any rattlers in a den Sunday, three Coryell County boys, J. C. Bunnell, Joe Frances Williamson and J. D. Williamson, came home disgusted.

Their disgust was soon dissipated when, on their return to the J.C. Bunnell home on the Pidcoke road, 6 miles from Gatesville, they encountered the "daddy of them all," a big one, five feet, 2 inches long and 5 inches in diameter with 15 rattles and one button. A 22-caliber rifle was used to snuff out his life.

Warm weather, it seems, brings out the bad things as well as the good ones.

DOSSEY AND TRUSSELL LEAD BAP. REVIVAL

Although the revival at the First Baptist Church started Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock service, the principal leaders, Evangelist C. Y. Dossey and Gospel Singer Joe Trussell had not arrived, but came Monday to continue with the services.

Services are at 10 o'clock in the mornings throughout the meeting and the evening services have been changed to 7:45 instead of 7:30 as had been previously announced.

Effort is being made to get out as large crowds as possible for the morning services, and committees have been working the business district in an effort to get merchants to allow their employees to attend these services.

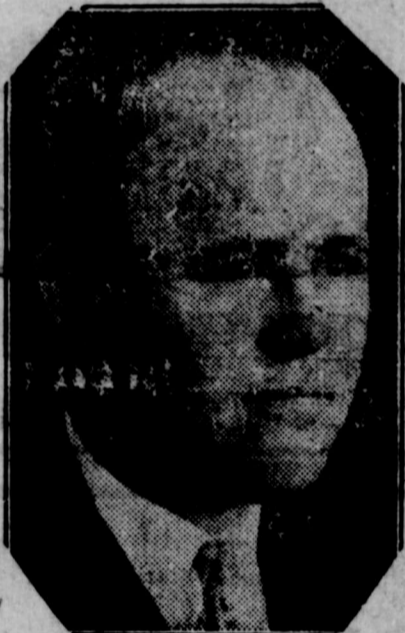

Rev. C. A. Morton has been the evangelist during the first few services, and stated in one of his services he was "laying the foundation" for the evangelists when they arrive.

Special music will be under the direction of Mrs. Ota Mae Perks, church musician, and Glenn McLaughlin, church choir leader, assisting.

Dr. Dossey, is of Dallas, and a Baptist Evangelist. He is a graduate of Baylor University and the Seminary at Ft. Worth. He was the pastor of the First Church at McKinney before he entered into evangelistic work. For the past nine years, he has been employed as a Baptist evangelist and is busy the entire year, with the exception of a possible two weeks vacation.

Gospel Singer Joe Trussell of Brownwood, needs no introduction here, since he has sung during a number of meetings at this church, this being his fifth revival meeting here. He has a special following among the young people, and has proven himself in every phase of his work.

CITIZENS TO MEET IN CITY HALL WED. 9 A. M.

Are you a citizen of Gatesville? That's all the admission you need to be present at the City Hall Auditorium, Wednesday morning at 9 a. m. where you will learn something, and take part in a very important discussion relative to the cloudy future of Gatesville. There'll be no alibis for not being there. You must, or, anyway, ort to. This meeting is in the nature of a mystery, and is "your very own business," and will materially effect you, if your "shiny" face (attention to cosmeticians) doesn't appear in that aforementioned spot on or about Wednesday, 9 a. m.

You've been wanting something in Gatesville and Coryell County for yea's and yea's and now is your opportunity to see that it is put over the way YOU want it, and if you don't show up, don't try to come around later, and try to tell those who do come, what to do in this situation.

Then, too, you might have some pet ideas that would go over big, and sell yourself into the life of the community, and make you "the life of the party, when you sat down to play."

The big idea is YOU BE THERE.

LLANO SHOW MAN WRECKS CAR RECEIVING ONLY SLIGHT INJURIES

A blowout on a rear tire while traveling at high speed caused a wreck on the stretch of road between Chicktown and the Dodd's Creek Bridge about one o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The lone occupant of the car, a Mr. Garner, from Llano, suffered minor bruises and scratches but no serious injuries. The car was badly wrecked, turning over three times and then crashing into trees that line the road at that point.

Garner, Llano picture show owner, was coming to Gatesville on business when the accident occurred.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

A British M. P. (member of Parliament) recently expressed the fear that Europe would be embroiled in war before the year was out by a German invasion of Czechoslovakia.

That Europe's statesmen are fully aware of this prospect is born out by several significant events of the last twelve months. The most significant are the alliance between France and Czechoslovakia, and the alliance between Soviet Russia and Czechoslovakia. Both alliances are of the same nature, pledging signatory powers to aid one another in the event either is attacked by a third power.

The alliance between France and Czechoslovakia is supplementary to the agreement between France and the little Entente of Rumania, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia. This alliance came into existence at the conclusion of the World War.

Czechoslovakia's agreement with Soviet Russia was signed after France concluded its mutual assistance pact with the U.S.S.R. a year and a half ago. It has provoked much criticism upon Czechoslovak authorities, because of a provision of the alliance which permits the Soviets use of Czechoslovak airports during wartime. Germany, in particular, has been vehement in its attacks upon the alliance, asserting the Soviets would have a foothold in Central Europe from which to launch their air hordes.

Thus do France and Soviet Russia control a spear which is directed at the very heart of Germany, as your map will show. But more emphasis was placed upon the Czechoslovak Republic with the conclusion of a new alliance between France and Poland, by which it is believed the Polish definitely cast in their lot with the French and Russians against the Germans. Poland has been wooed by German's new masters since 1933, and had been believed drifting away from its prewar alliance with France, but the acceptance of a military loan of $119,000,000 from France dispelled this view.

It is this closing of the door to Russia by the Franco-Polish alliance that has directed Germany's new mechanized army strike at the richest portion of Russia—the Ukraine, the world's greatest grainery and one of the greatest mineral depositories of the world.

Relations between Germany and Czechoslovakia have never been friendly since the creation of the latter state 20 years ago. Cause of the dissent and mutual distrust in the fact that 3,000,000 Germans were included within Czechoslovakia when it was made into a free state. These Germans—a fourth of the total population—have made no attempts to hide their desire to join the fatherland of Herr Hitler, and the efforts of the Prague authorities to suppress these nationalistic feelings have been a constant source of ill-feeling between the two states.

Czechoslovakia has been termed in recent years "the Belgium of the next war." This explains its efforts to secure the aid of France and Russia against what it believes will be a German attack at the outset of the next war.

What would be the line-up of states if Europe went to war today? The system of alliances now in force and the current relations between the continental states furnish a good criterion which is better than a guess.

In spite of Hitler's protestations of good faith toward France and what all neutral observers concede is a genuine desire of the part of the Germans to keep France out of the next war, a German attack upon Russia would likely—probably—be followed by France's entrance into the war. The alliance with Russia would automatically draw the French in, not to speak of the unwillingness of France to stand by and watch while the Nazis crush the Soviets.

While the incompatibility of German and Italian interests would make the latter power hesitate before joining the Na-

Dignity of the Olympic tradition is borne out in the official emblem of the Pan American Games, in which athletes of two continents will compete at the international fair in Dallas, Texas, opening June 12.

The design, approved by a smiling Texanite, depicts a modern Mercury, god of speed, skill and strength, testing the "friendship links" of the two Americas in his powerful grasp above the globe of the Western Hemisphere.

Athletes of Mexico, Central and South America will compete with United States' entrants in the Olympic events of track and field, soccer and boxing scheduled for June 30, July 1, 2 and 3.

World Comment—

zis against France and Russia, the chances are that the Italians would finally cast their lots with the Germans. For the Italians are well aware that a Franco-Russian Triumph over Germany would be followed by an increase in Communist influence in the Paris government, and perhaps the Sovietizations of France which Rome could not countenance. In addition, Italy would stand to gain nothing by siding with France and Russia, while an Italo-German victory over the French would leave the rich French colonies in North Africa open to Italian exploitation.

Where England would stand nobody can say. It's probable position is the most uncertain of all the states. But it may be said that its position is the most uncertain of all the states. But it may be said that its position be one of two alternatives: complete neutrality, or an ally of France. If the Germans leave Belgium and Holland alone, and do nothing to provoke the French Britain would probably stay out, as the future Tommies have repeatedly stated that they will not fight Germany to save Soviet Russia from annihilation. Indeed, if Germany were permitted to fight the Soviets alone British sympathies would certainly be with the Germans. But if France, impelled by its Soviet alliance, enters the conflict against Germany, British participation is almost certain. Just as Britain would not countenance the defeat of France and Belgium in 1914, so would it not today.

A factor of great importance in the so-called Fascist line-up would be Japan, which is 100 to 1 bet to side with the Germans against the Russians.

Conditions today point to this probable lineup: France, Russia, Czechoslovakia, against Germany, Italy, and Japan, with Poland and Britain as indeterminate factors.

Uncle Jim Says

(Title)—"You can't make a fair living, no matter how hard you work, when erosion has gullied your fields and washed away your soil."

(Legend)—Of the total of 35-500,000 acres of crop land in Texas, more than half, or approximately 19,500,000 acres, should be protected against erosion, according to M. R. Bentley agricultural engineer of the Extension Service. Of the area needing protection against loss of soil and water, 7,800,000 acres require terracing or contouring to prevent loss of rainfall, while the remaining suffer from loss of both soil and water.

Texas farmers and ranchmen have already terraced or contoured more than 12 million acres. Allowing for land which has been re-terraced or reworked, Bentley estimates that some 6½ million acres have been terraced to conserve soil and rainfall and that additional 4½ million acres have been terraced or contoured to hold water.

In 1936, under the supervision and leadership of county agricultural agents, more than 2,388,000 acres were terraced or contoured, more than twice the amount protected as any previous year. Other agencies and individuals accounted for almost an additional million acres in 1936.

While the above figures are only approximations, Bentley points out that much progress has been made, and that the job is not finished. Some 16 million acres of unprotected land remain to be terraced or contoured.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, April 12.—Credit for high standing as a shipping state should go entirely to the fact that the coast line is long and jagged, for its thirteen deep-water ports are all man-made. Age-old deposits of silt have made these excavations necessary.

The most man-made of them all, Houston, now ranks fourth in total commerce in the whole United States, exceeded only by New York, Philadelphia and Duluth-Superior. First in cotton exports and third in exports to foreign countries, Houston is also a major export point for crude petroleum and petroleum products. An enormous coastwise business, both outbound and inbound, adds to the total.

Grandfather of all Texas Ports is Galveston, whose island position and land-locked bay give it qualifications which were first recognized by Privateer Jean Lafitte. In 1934, 2,569,477 tons of cotton, vegetable and animal products, wheat and flour, crude sulphur, ores, and others passed through its docks.

On the Sabine Neches waterway are Beaumont, Port Arthur, Port Neches, and Orange all of which export crude oil and products, timber products, rice, scrap iron and steel. Texas City is concerned mainly with the exportation of petroleum and cotton, doing a large import business in raw sugar.

Freeport sends out a great deal of crude sulphur, this being the center of the largest sulphur industry in the world. Corpus Christi's principal export is cotton, and petroleum leads in Port Aransas. Two recently opened ports are Brownsville and Port Isabel.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS AGAIN INVITED GUESTS OF B. UNIVERSITY

Waco, Texas, April 6 — For the fifth successive year Baylor University and the Baptist Woman's Missionary union of District 14 are inviting the high school seniors of Gatesville to be their guests for an all-day "At Home" on the Baylor Campus Saturday, April 24, when a program of entertainment and a dinner will be provided for them. The invitation also includes the seniors of all high schools in District 14, including McLennan, Coryell, Navarro, Falls, Bosque, Hill, Freestone, Limestone and Leon counties.

A total of 16000 visitors from 66 high schools attended the occasion last year, and a still larger number is expected this season, President

Pat M. Neff says.

Among the items in the program in addition to addresses of welcome by President Neff and Mrs. J. R. Comer of Hillsboro, district president of the W. M. U., there will be meetings from representative students, songs by the Keys quadruplets and the new acappella choir, motion pictures of Baylor activities the picnic dinner, and a baseball game on Carroll Field between Baylor and the University of Texas in the afternoon. A new feature for this year's program is that motion pictures will be made of various events, thus giving many visitors their first opportunity to appear in the movies.

The program will begin in Waco hall at 10 a. m. and will conclude with the baseball game in the afternoon. All schools having 100 per cent of their seniors register here will be given a complimentary copy of the 1937 Round-Up, Baylor annual for their libraries. Last year eleven high schools registered all their seniors.

Local representatives of the W. M. U. who will cooperate with the school authorities in sponsoring the trip, will be provided with sufficient numbers of tickets for each event, to supply all their seniors.

The picnic dinner, provided by the W. M. U., has been planned and will be served by the home economics students under the direction of Mrs. T. C. Cardwell, chairman of that department, and Mrs. J. E. Watts, dining room superintendent of Burleson Hall.

In the interim between the luncheon and the baseball game the visitors will be conducted on a tour of points of interest on the campus by students from their respective communities now attending Baylor.

CARD OF THANKS

To those who were so kind and helpful during the illness and death of our dear sister and aunt, Miss Lammie Baird, we give our heartfelt thanks. May God bless each and everyone of you. Especially do we wish to thank Dr. Ralph Bailey and Mrs. Pearl Brown.

Signed: Miss Bythella Baird, Mr. Knox, Dr. Valliant and Locksley Baird; Mrs. J. D. Ashby; Mrs. O. C. Shaffer, Mrs. S. J. Williams.

strongest in the realm of active sportswear this spring, with wool jersey and linen leading as materials used. At this early date a light weight black wool skirt and light white wool short coat is absolutely tops. This adaptable woolen cloth is also good for smart black dresses with white trimming or white jackets in the newest lengths. Shoe-string lacings, slide fasteners, appliqued motifs and rick-rack braiding are at the head of the list in the way of trimming.

As the sun grows hotter and the days longer, the time arrives to replace these woolens with linens; that is except where slacks are concerned, because nothing makes more suitable ones than wool jersey. A pair of white jersey slacks topped by a black halter and a large patterned black and white coat vies in smartness with a black linen skirt with a printed black and white bolero.

Hats and accessories repeat the idea, with trimming in contrasting, gabardine, and other materials. Thus, according to girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA), the reigning combination of the last several summers, brown and white, will have to look to its laurels to out-do its older competitors this season.

ODORLESS COOKING NEWEST BOON OF SCIENCE

By Mary Talbot

There are a lot of good things to eat that are practically outlawed because it's impossible to cook them without advertising the fact to everybody in your house, and usually the neighbor's house as well. Broiled mackerel is a fine example, broccoli is another, and cauliflower, too.

This is all perfectly all right when you're eating alone, but the hostess who has pride in her home doesn't like to usher her guests into a cauliflower-laden atmosphere — it just isn't in keeping with good taste.

Mary Talbot

I've found the perfect answer to this old problem, and you don't have to go around waving burning coffee or performing mysterious rites over the stove with vinegar, as our grandmothers used to do. It's also a lot simpler than wrapping your vegetables up in absorbent paper before cooking.

This new product, an odorless household deodorant, is conveniently packed as a clean white powder, in several size cans, and you just mix it with water to form a simple solution. About three minutes before you start cooking your vegetables or whatnot, start the solution simmering over a burner (half a burner will do), and presto! even corned beef and cabbage, when it starts to cook, is miraculously without any odor at all. Remember, don't apologize—deodorize!

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, April 12.—While Paris and all good fashion followers cry wildly that "color is everything!" the never-failing popularity of black and white furnishes an interesting paradox. This faithful combination is

THEY FOLLOW THEIR EYES

Success and Beauty With a Simple Makeup Formula
by Eve Hogarth

THE girl next door has made good! Maybe she's private secretary to the head of the firm. Maybe she married a big boy down the block. Maybe she is starring in the movies. In any rate, more and more American women are learning how to dramatize their appearance and personality in a way that steals thunder from glamorous over-seas beauties.

How do they do it? We asked four stars of the sensational musical "Top of the Town." The four girls confessed to the beauty secret: they match their makeup to their eyes! "I've always given a lot of thought to makeup," said Doris Nolan, blonde young movie megawatt whose captivating charm has brought her to top-ranking stardom in less than a year in Hollywood. "In the theatrical business, your face is at least two-thirds of your fortune, and making the most of yourself is as important a part of your business routine as organizing lines. Skin changes with weather and one's physical condition. Hair loses life and color. But eye-color remains constant. That, in brief, is why I've learned to key my makeup to my eyes." Sparkling brown-eyed Ella Logan, a newcomer to the movies from radio, put almost the same idea in different words. "I look best in warm, orangish shades," she said emphatically, "So I carry that color scheme through my whole wardrobe. "It's stupid to think you can only wear one color, however. With the right makeup you can wear certain shades of every color. I match my makeup to my eyes, since I think of them as my personality color. Then, even if I try my luck against blondes and wear blue, I make sure that somewhere about the throat of my dress there's a bit of rust or gold, something to bring my frock into focus with my personality color." Every woman knows that certain shades are much more becoming than others. Not just certain colors, but particular shades of those colors. If she analyzes this she will find that these are the shades which reflect the color of her eyes. If this is true in the case of clothes, how much truer it is in the case of makeup. The hazel-eyed girl like Doris Nolan should look for sunny, rusty reds for her rouge and lipstick, subtle bluish greens if eye-shadow and mascara are to help her to achieve scientifically sure beauty and not just guesswork good looks. The blue-eyed woman will find her best makeup bet in Dresden-like shades that are keyed to the blue of her eyes. Blue-eyed Gertrude Niesen, gray-eyed Janice Jarratt both solve the problem of off-stage makeup in this same simple way. And certainly it seems an easy, effective guide to good looks that is more than worth the trouble of a little experiment on the part of any woman.

A precious one from us has gone; a place is vacant in our home. Our darling baby, oh, how we miss you. Those words you were just learning to say, we will never forget. That voice we loved is still. That sweet little smile we cannot see. Your place in our home can never be filled. An angel came and entered our happy home and took the lovely flower to her eternal home. Weep not dear mother and father for little Kenneth has gained a far better place where only the pure and righteous tread. Though it is strange why the precious one was called from us but we know the Savior does nothing wrong so do not weep but follow our Savior's steps until your life is ended and you are, called by Death. He cannot come back to you but you can go to him. He has gone to prepare a place for you; prepare to meet your baby in Heaven. Angels, blessed shining angels soon will bear us to that shore where the wicked cease from troubling and sad parting come no more. There we will part again no never, with joy and tongue can tell, we shall live together ever where angel's spirit dwell. By his aunt, Mrs. C. C. Crawford.

INFLUENZA

Influenza is an acute, highly communicable disease usually characterized by cough, fever and generalized aching of the body. The onset is usually abrupt and the prostration is usually out of all proportion to the symptoms present. An intestinal form has been described. The term influenza has been highly abused by the laity and medical profession as well. It is often applied to common colds, brief febrile attacks of unknown origin, and other conditions characterized by obscure or indefinite symptoms.

The cause of influenza, or La Grippe, is unknown. Several bacteria have been described as the causative agents, but such claims have not been substantiated. Some investigators place the offending agent in the class of filterable viruses. By the last term we mean some communicable substance that is so small that it is able to pass through the pores of a porcelain filter and cannot be seen with the present day microscope. The disease probably enters through the nose and throat.

It occurs in all seasons but is more prevalent during the cold months. At irregular intervals, it assumes pandemic proportions. In 1918-19 it was world-wide in its distribution. It attacks the old, the young the rich, the poor, the strong and the weak. In itself it is rarely fatal, but complications are prone to develop, especially pneumonia. Crowding and close contact seem to promote its spread.

No preventative measures have proved of distinct value. Prevention resolves itself into maintaining the maximum efficiency rest, sleeping, exercise and diet. Contact with the active cases of the disease is to be avoided.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
ART AND PHOTOGRAPHY

Here is an example of the innumerable opportunities given to the owner of a camera to satisfy his feelings for the artistic.

WHAT can I do—I can't paint or draw," is often the complaint of persons who have strong feelings for the artistic and the desire to express them.

Not all these persons realize that within the past few years modern cameras and photographic materials have opened the door of artistic expression practically to everybody. Because of the capability of today's improved equipment to produce good photographs under a wide range of light conditions, and because no great difficulty is met in mastering the technique of photography, the desire to express artistic feelings by means of pictures is no longer limited by the refusal of one's brain to cooperate with a paint brush. And by pictures is not meant merely photographic records of places or people usually interesting only to those familiar with them, but pictures evoking pleasure for all who behold them, because of their universal appeal to the senses, emotions or imagination.

With a camera in his hand, reasonably good powers of observation are virtually all Mr. Average Man needs in order to satisfy his desire for artistic expression. These powers he may exercise by selecting artistic pictures from the inexhaustible supply already composed for him by Nature. It is a matter of seeing the picture and choosing the best viewpoint from which to photograph it. Or he may create his own artistic composition with movable objects and with light he is able to control. In either case, he may work with the same art factors as does the artist of pen or pencil—forms, masses, light and dark areas, interesting line, center of interest, balance—and obtain artistic composition on his negative. This anyone unskilled in drawing may do with a camera.

But he can go still farther in the satisfaction of his artistic tastes if he will master the technique of producing his own prints. In such things as the selection of the type of photographic paper suitable to the negative, the manipulation of light in the printing process, the masking of portions of the negative, and trimming the prints to improve the original composition, he is given still further opportunity for exercising his artistic talents.

Keep on wishing you could draw or paint, if you like, but don't be stopped by your inability to do so. Realize the possibilities of your camera. Appraise from the artistic standpoint reproductions of photographs in magazines and newspapers. Go to photographic exhibits, and observe how many pictures please the senses exceedingly because of their beauty, or arouse the emotions or stimulate the imagination. These are the purposes, we are told, of all art expression. With these purposes in view, see what you can do with your own camera. There are opportunities everywhere.

Uncle Jim Says

No. 2 Title: "When nature takes 500 years to make an inch of topsoil, it's a shame folks don't realize how fast good land goes when the erosion starts."

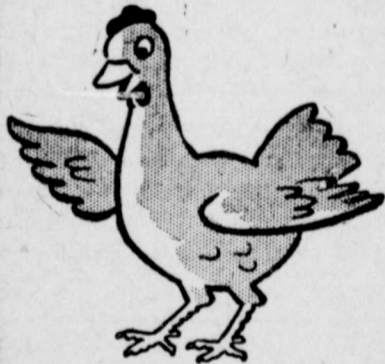

Legend: Approximately 50 million acres of farm land in the United States are already so badly eroded as to be essentially unfit for cultivated crops; another 50 million acres are in a condition almost as bad.

There are now in cultivation some 100 million acres seriously impaired by erosion and misuse and another 100 million acres on which erosion and poor management have begun to take toll.

Part of this condition has been due to the plowing up of grasslands which should have been left in sod. Most has been due to the farmers' inability, in the face of distressingly low prices for their products, to take proper care of their land.

A recent report from the National Resources Committee to the President pointed out that "... in another century this great American granary may have become inadequate to support our population if erosion is permitted to continue at the present rate."

More than a score of years the Texas Extension Service began its campaign to save soil and conserve moisture by terracing. More than 12 million acres have been terraced and contoured in Texas since that time; and in 1936, under the stimulus of the Agricultural Conservation Program, more than two million acres were terraced or contoured under the supervision and leadership of county agricultural agents in this state.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

WASHINGTON WITH Congressman
W. R. (BOB)
POAGE

April 5, 1937
I doubt that anyone would ever again criticize the Texas Legislature for delay if they could but watch the Congress for a few weeks. Last week the House did nothing other than to pass the Legislative Appropriation Bill for the District of Columbia.

The Legislative Appropriation Bill is supposedly to simply cover the cost of the House of Representatives and Senate but in fact it includes all of the expenses of the Capitol, all activities related to legislation in any way, the Library of Congress (which is not really a Congressional Library at all but simply the National Library) and such unrelated but tremendously expensive branches of government as the Government Printing Office and for some unknown reason the Botanical Garden. The total appropriation is $24,001,734.00 of which only four and one-half million dollars is represented by salaries of Senators and Representatives.

The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill provides for a lump sum contribution of $5,000,000.00 by the United States government to the support of the government of the District of Columbia. This is much less than many members desire. They want the United States government to pay a larger part of the expenses of the District, and of course, all the Washington papers and most of the people here are complaining loudly as this bill will necessitate an increase in taxes in the District but as I see it the Federal Government is generous in making this gift to their local government. Their ad valorem tax is only $1.70 per hundred in Washington and they have only a 2 cent gasoline tax. It will therefore, be seen that they pay only about one-half as much taxes as we pay in most Texas cities. I am not in favor of increasing the contribution of the Federal Government but it is surprising to find so many members who promise Washington citizens to give them more Federal money. In fact the Legislative Committee on the District of Columbia vigorously opposed most of the retrenchment features of this appropriation bill which was brought in by the Appropriations Committee.

There has been considerable discussion of the "sit-down" strikes, but so far there has been no action here. I am shocked at the willingness many of the members express to allow these practices to go unnoticed. I believe in the right to strike but I cannot believe that any group or individual has the right to take the property of another and hold it by force. If such a right exists we need not bother further about selling our cotton crop or any other products will simply take them. I am glad to read that the governor has announced that he will tolerate no such violence in Texas.

It seems that the second Summers Court Reform Bill providing for speeding up the decisions in cases involving Constitutional questions and other changes in procedure advocated by the President will probably come up in the House this next week. It came before some time ago and was withdrawn but I hope it will be voted on this time. I think it is good and I expect to support it.

In connection with the Court and Old Age Pension questions let me say that I appreciate any communication from any citizen of our district at any time and I am sure that the other members welcome communications from their constituents, but it is little more than a waste of everyone's time to send the printed slips that some many organizations on both sides of these questions send out. I cannot but feel that any citizen can do a great deal better service by writing his Senator or Representatives and setting out his own reasons had by simply signing somebody's petition. I cannot keep from remembering that I have had many of the same names on petitions on both sides of the same questions. However, when one of our citizens gives me his reasons I appreciate it and it helps me do a better job for the district.

NO "HANDOUTS"

It cannot be too often emphasized that foresighted agricultural cooperative selling groups must reject the blandishments of prospective doles and subsidies.

A business which cannot exist without financial favoritism has no right to exist. A business which must seek sustenance at the public trough is economically and socially unsound.

The heads of our principal agricultural cooperatives understand this thoroughly. As a result, they insist that their organizations stand on their own feet, pay their own way, and solve their own problems. They are sticking to their last—which is the efficient production and distribution of crops at wholesale. They are not entering alien fields of endeavor—which is usually certain suicide for any business—and they aren't looking for "handouts."

FARM COOPERATIVES SERVE CONSUMERS

Agricultural cooperatives, though it is not generally realized, are of service to the consumer as well as the producer of foods.

The major co-ops have been signally successful in maintaining prices that assure the farmer a fair profit, and still give the buyer his money's worth. Equally important, they have done fine work in assuring the consumer a constant supply of high quality products day in and day out.

In some fields, such as milk, the co-ops have worked with authorities in establishing high sanitary standards, and in lessening the danger of disease. This has been of inestimable benefit to the public.

BUYING THEIR OWN SECURITY

"Government in the insurance business"—put there by the Social Security Act—hasn't stopped the public from purchasing insurance coverage from private companies in unprecedented amounts.

The largest insurance company in the world closed last year with more life insurance in force than ever before—$21,000,000,000. This is indicative of the experience of other companies.

The American people still want to produce future security for themselves and their dependents through their own thrift, wisdom and savings. This is not a criticism of governmental security—it is just praise for the millions of our people who aren't satisfied to depend on it entirely for their old age.

TRENCH SILOS

For a time let us discuss the above subject.

What is a trench silo? Who has a trench silo? Why have a trench silo? Can I afford to have a trench silo? How can I build a trench silo? What are the advantages of a trench silo? What are the disadvantages of a trench silo? What should be put in a trench silo, etc.

From time to time we shall endeavor to give discussions on the above points under the heading of trench silos in this column. Every available source will be used in order to bring out a true picture for the reader to base future action upon. Experiences of local men, who have used trench silos, will be given as well as opinions of people located other than in Coryell County. Your comments will be appreciated.

SPORTS

First and last in the sporting curriculum of the modern school is football. With the start of class room activities in September, King Football takes his undisputed throne and beams benignly upon his slightly screwy subjects until winter's icy breath finally usurps his kingdom for the moment.

With the budding of the trees and the twittering of the birds in the springtime (tra-la-la-la) the toppled throne is again upright and the warriors of the gridiron buckle on their armament to sally forth and butt heads in a little preparatory-training for the regular fall season.

Yes 'tis true, football is with us again, in the guise of spring training. 18 aspirants have reported to coaches Worley and Schwarz and were issued suits last Monday. Out of these 18 candidates for a regular berth next fall, 9 are lettermen, and all are squadmen from last season's campaign.

Those reporting for spring training are: Joe Ned Brown, Harry Voss, Zack Fore, Weldon Campbell, Esteen Poston, James Weaver, Jack Hearn, C. H. Wallace, Bill Morgan, Glenn White, Lester Williams, Byron Gilbreath, Bayne Blankenship, Alvis Ingram, Roy Adams, Felix Newland, Bruce Jones and John Frank Post Jr.

Out of this list 11 are line-men and the rest are either backs or neutrals, who can be switched to either line or back-field.

Two lettermen will not report for spring practice, but will probably be available for service in the fall. Neal "Badger" Hinsley is nursing a broken arm, sustained during track practice, and Burl Davis was recently operated on for appendicitis. Hinsley will be remembered as the boy who brought the fans to their feet in the McGregor game last fall with his sensational passing. Both boys will be badly needed for the coming campaign.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, April 12.—Checking up on the barber around the corner and waging a heroic fight against the malaria menace are two of the varied activities which come under the supervision of the Texas board of health.

Considering the peculiar health problems of Texas, the ten board members and their staff have a difficult job. Besides the inspection problems presented by 900 miles of Mexican border, the long coast line adds the dangers of disease transmission from foreign vessels.

With the aid of a wide-spread organization of county and city officials, however, the situation is being capably handled. At an annual expense of $272,114.37 for the conservation of health and sanitation, according to the 1936 figures, the state maintains seven departments. These are the boards of Rural Sanitation, Barber's Examiners, Medical Examiners Dental Examiners, the Department of Vital Statistics and the Administration of the General Fund.

In addition to the maintenance of these departments, which come immediately under the State Health Board, Texas also advances the cause of healthful living through its eleemosynary and correctional institutions and through its medical branch of education at Galveston. Also, in an emergency such as the New London tragedy, the board offers its services and cooperation in getting doctors, nurses and supplies to the scene of the tragedy.

These activities contribute to the fact that the mortality rate of Texas, which is 9.8 deaths per 1,000 of the population, is lower than that of a nation as a whole, which is 11 deaths per 1,000.

SYNOPSIS

As a result of a mixup in their suites, King Mandini, the Concertina King, meets Princess Olga of Sweden, who is in reality a show-girl posing as royalty to get a Hollywood film contract. The Princess likes King but she has to keep up pretenses so is decidedly haughty. Also on board is Darcy, a black-mailer, who tries to shake down King on his past prison record. King kicks him out of his cabin. The Princess loses her purse and Mandini returns it. In conversation, the Princess lets the purse drop into an aquarium. Mandini fishes it out and while drying the wet money accidentally tears it in two.

CHAPTER IV

KING, in full evening dress, personally supervised arrangements for his rendezvous with the Princess in the cocktail bar that evening. He had just finished purchasing the ship's complete supply of orchids when Her Highness and Lady Gertrude swept up and then started to sweep on by without deigning to notice him.

"Good evening," smiled the concertina player, "I've arranged for..."

"What is this?" interrupted Lady Gertrude haughtily.

"Cocktails," King finished weakly as the Princess burst out laughing.

"But you are so naive," said Her Highness, looking at him as though he were a stupid child. "Your invitation this afternoon. You did not think we accepted seriously?"

"Of course I did," gulped King. "What's happened to make you act like this? Why this afternoon..."

The Princess stiffened. "In our country," she announced, "it is not good manners to recall leetle indiscretions of royalty. You are fortunate it is the twentieth century. In the time of my great grandmother, a famous queen, there was a foreign musician came to court—a conceited nobodee. He misunderstood certain theengs; he was impudent—tiresome—And then he was never seen nor heard of again."

"Not like me," King had recovered from his shock. "I'll be around till we get to New York."

"I think there is no more to be said," she sniffed.

"And only one more thing to be done." He handed her the orchids.

"What does thees mean?"

"They're in memory of a girl I talked to this afternoon! a girl who was a princess all over—but forgot it." He turned and hurried away.

At the same time when King's castles were being demolished a heated conference was going on between the ship's captain and the five detectives.

"Here you are, gentlemen," the officer announced when his distinguished guests had gathered in his cabin. "The description of Paul Merko which the French police forwarded to Monsieur Lorel."

As the detectives bent over the description a steward entered carrying a tray with glasses and ingredients for highballs, and started fussing about mixing drinks.

"But this is useless!" Steindorf slammed the description on the captain's table. "A waste of time. Because always the man with disguises his appearance conceals." He referred to the paper. "A young woman—an old professor—a smart officer. Never twice the same. Who do we look for?"

"Mais, tiens! We have now his Bertillon measurements," said Lorel.

"Absolutely right, old boy," agreed Cragg. "He can't disguise them."

"Yet, comrades, it is still useless," Morevitch spoke up softly. "First you must catch the man to measure him. When you have caught him—what good are the measurements?"

As the Russian spoke he carelessly tossed the cablegram on the table. It slid off onto the floor, whereupon the steward unobtrusively stooped over, picked it up and while the others stared at Morevitch in amazement at his stupidly shrewd remark, stuck it in his pocket and walked out of the room.

"If Merko is aboard, we will find him," thundered Steindorf.

"Yes?" Kawati glanced at his old enemy with a slit of a smile. "You clever man."

"Say," muttered the Captain as he noticed the tray of drinks for the

"Sir," sputtered the Lady in Waiting. "You are intruding. This is the suite of Her Highness, the Princess Olga."

Darcy shook his bald head and smiled skeptically.

"Sorry, ladies," he answered. "But you see, I happen to be a very close friend of George Marson, the theatrical agent in London. It's a little late in the day to talk business, but still... you two are playing with dynamite. They call it 'obtaining money under false pretenses.'"

"There's nothing crooked about it," answered the Princess, her beautiful face white. "In a little while I'll tell them myself. I had to do something! We were stranded—miles from home—broke hungry." She stood up and began pacing the room. "We've had years of that, Mr.

"But you are so naive," said Her Highness, looking at him as though he were a stupid child.

first time. "Did any one of you order these highballs?"

There was a chorus of "No's" from the group.

"Well, I didn't order them." The Captain was distressed. "Why do I get a tray of drinks I didn't order?" He pushed a button on the wall. A moment later a steward—not the one who had been in the room before—entered hurriedly.

"Did you bring this tray?" barked the Captain.

"No, sir."

"No?" As the chief officer scratched his head in puzzlement the ship's Purser entered, and saluted.

"Captain Nicholls, sir," he reported. "In checking the passenger list as you ordered, we found one passenger missing. Cabin B-50, registered to Mr. Petroff, is empty sir. Petroff's luggage came aboard but we cannot locate him."

"Have him paged," growled his superior. "If he's aboard, find him and report to me."

"Yes sir." The Purser dashed out.

"Ve vaste time," snarled Steindorf. "It is not a German custom. Now I commence to search—in my own way. Eh, Kawati?" His expression changed to blank surprise. Kawati's chair was empty. He was not in the cabin.

In B-33, the Royal Suite, a steward had just finished serving the Princess and Lady Gertrude with coffee. As he opened the door to depart, Darcy, who had been waiting outside, entered without a by-your-leave.

Darcy. This was our only out. A girl can't just walk into a studio. I've tried that—I've tried everything. You've got nothing on us. Nobody'll be hurt by what we're doing.

"Nobody but International Films." Darcy was not impressed.

"They'll get their money's worth," pleaded Lady Gertrude. "This child's got talent—lots of it. All she needs is a chance. One day she'll be a star—and the whole world will laugh at this."

"You don't have to sell me, girls," smirked Darcy. "I'm on your side. I'm cheering for you... Now, how much shall we say?"

"Oh, what's the use, Gertie... pay him off," sighed Olga.

The other woman opened her mouth to say something, changed her mind and opened the handbag which King had rescued from the goldfish bowl. Darcy took it from her, pulled out all the soaked bills, and tossed the bag on the table.

"I've been admiring that ring," he insinuated.

Completely whipped, the Princess removed the band from her finger and handed it to him.

"You know, you girls got me wrong," chuckled the blackmailer. "I'm not a bad guy at heart. He pulled the roll out of his pocket, peeled off a couple of bills and tossed them on the table. "For your tips," he winked.

"Just a moment," interrupted Lady Gertrude. "What assurance have we that you won't try to shake us down again?"

"You haven't got anything left," he answered as he departed.

chiffon, either in the belt or in bright-colored flowers for the dress or hat. Chiffon itself also makes a good trimming for hats and dresses of other materials, and it comes in solid colors and prints.

The clever idea of using taffeta for day dresses was discovered last spring by girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA) and they find that it is still a good trick. This crisp cloth is being shown in gaudy checks, stripes and plaids and demure navy blue so it can please anyone, whether her tastes run toward the more giddy or sober tones.

Noisy silk petticoats are being worn with sheer wools, dull crepes, suit skirts, and ensembles so the swish can be obtained without the purchase of a complete dress. Some of these undershirts have fluted ruffle edges, and others lean toward flounces, but all of them ruhtle.

Chiffon appears in hat-trimmings, blouses, frocks and scarfs, with bright tones leading in favor. A navy blue dress, tucked from neck-line to hem and edged with white pique, makes a suitable number for street wear and demonstrates the practicality of the sheer weave.

Patent leather trimmings are employed with a smart effect on

Bit's O'PHILOSOPHY by DEAN E.V. WHITE

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE for WOMEN (C)

A fast tongue and a slow brain are poor companions.

The boss watches him who watches the clock.

Golden thoughts and silver tongues do not abide in temples of brass.

One way to stand up the boss is to go on a sit-down strike.

Freedom of speech is not a license to lie.

The road to success is not always paved.

Let your brain think faster than your tongue talks.

Be sure that your bread is buttered on the right side.

Have humility, but don't look up to one who is lower than you.

Convalescence is the inevitable.

SPECIAL NOTICE

We, the undersigned, do hereby offer this as a token of our heartfelt thanks and sincere appreciation to the good people in and around Waco, for your many donations of money, food, and clothing, that has enabled us to care for so many of our poor and hungry in Waco.
