WOOL AND MOHAIR SHOW HERE THURSDAY

Rodeo Chairman States All Is in Readiness for Grand Initial Parade

In an official commitment from Robert Lee (Bob) Saunders, chairman of the 1937 Gatesville Rodeo Association, "The management of the 1937 Gatesville Rodeo announces that everything is ready.

"At an enormous expense, we are bringing to Gatesville the best line of bucking horses, the wildest Brahma Steers, and the best cowboy talent in the state of Texas for the approval and entertainment of the people of Coryell and adjoining counties."

That ought to be enough said! But construction of the pens and chutes has been completed and, no foolin', it looks just about like it's time to yank the rope and let out the first bell'r'in' Brahma rider 'n all.

Civic Organization Committee Will Report at City Hall Tonite at 7:30

The Civic Organization Committee will meet tonight at 7:30 at the City Hall. All committeemen named at the meeting last Tuesday are urged to be present. Plans for organization, financing, and duties of some type of civic organization will be discussed and presented to the men of Gatesville at a date.

With the meeting last Tuesday although there was a small bit of confusion, and this committee meeting tonight Gatesville seems assured of a Chamber of Commerce, or whatever name is chosen, in the very near future.

The city has not had such an organization in several years and the lack of it has been greatly felt whenever matters of city representation in state and county affairs have come up.

In past years Gatesville boasted a Chamber of Commerce, but due to neglect and lack of attention it was finally disbanded. Since that time an organization has been greatly missed, and the movement underfoot now is a timely one.

The cooperation of every businessman in the city is needed to start this movement and make it a permanent fixture.

ANITA LOWREY TO TELL WTCC ABOUT CORYELL, AT BROWNWOOD

Miss Anita Lowrey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Lowrey, has been selected as Gatesville and Coryell County's representative to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention to be held in Brownwood May 10-15, telling them about the good parts of our county and town.

Miss Lowrey is entered in the "My Home Town Contest," and will have as competition, students selected from forty-six towns of West Texas, who will also tell about their home towns. Included in the festivities will be twenty-two bands from as many different towns, comprising 1,000 musicians. Speakers and notables will be Governor J. V. Alfred, Wm. C. McCraw, Col. E. O. Thompson, Harry Hines, H. H. Williamson, D. P. Trent, G. W. Cottingham, R. E. Dickson, Senator E. M. Davis, and others.

One of the highlights will be the presentation of "West Texas Follies of 1937," which will include in its cast more than 50 beautiful West Texas girls, named by various WTCC affiliated towns. The most beautiful one will be selected by popular vote and crowned, "Miss West Texas of 1937!"

PEARL JUNIOR-SENIORS HAVE BANQUET AT LOCAL CAFE

Members of the Pearl High School Senior and Junior classes held their annual banquet at a local cafe last night, with the following program being presented:

Toastmaster, Mary Louise McClesky.

Welcome and challenge to Junior Class, Mary Lee Dumas. Response, Vaughn Dain Carroll.

"Dear Old Times," Narman Basham.

"After School, Then What?" Nona Jane Franks.

Introduction of Speaker, M. Sharp.

Address of the Evening, C. E. Alvis Jr.

On the roll of the two classes are B. A. Basham, Travis Ballard, Ruby Lee Bailey, Ueneva Chaffin, Mary Lee Dumas, Nellie Henderson, Sidney Howell, Edgar Kinsey, Mary Louise McClesky, Geraldene Preston Rosa Lee Sims, Weldon Upton and Cleone White, all seniors.

The entertaining Juniors were L. V. Arnett, Narman Basham, Lillie Beckett, Boyce Conner, Edwinna Conner, John H. Conner, Kenneth Conner, Vaughn Dain Conner, Elizabeth Doyle, Betty Freeman, Darlene Hogan, Otis Medart, Jack Medart, Loy Morgan, Relon Mosley, Virgie Parsons, Yvonne Preston, Cora Lee Whitt and Bonnie Mae Upton.

glary. Apparently using a siphon, some twenty gallons of gas were taken from one of the storage tanks. Bill Thomson, agent for the Humble Company, stated there was no definite way of estimating the full damage done by the thieves until district officials of the company could check up.

This is the latest outbreak of the lawless element in Gatesville. Always striking in the early hours of the morning, the thieves have successfully burgled business houses and filling stations all over the city. Police are completely baffled.

Star Performers At Pearl Keep Folks on Toes at First Rodeo

Pearl Community broke the ice with the rodeo racket in the county this year, with a large crowd Saturday last, and the first rodeo in Coryell county we've heard of in 1937.

Although there wasn't enough heat for rodeo weather on account of the "norther" that was blowing, a great deal of interest was shown and the performance was really tip-top, being handled in a snappy and business like manner.

Of special interest was Farmer Jones, colorful rodeo man who had longer hair than our "JR" formerly did, but "JR" says "just wait till winter," and he'll show somebody up. Regardless of all that, Farmer Jones and his broncs put on an interesting and impressive rodeo as well as appearance.

DAVIDSON KINDERGARTEN PRESENTS PROGRAM OF REVIEW

On Thursday morning of last week the Davidson Kindergarten under the direction of Mrs. Creg Davidson, of this city, presented a review of all their work accomplished since Christmas for the grammar school students.

This program included poems about "My Home," by Mary Sue Brown, and Shirley Heffington; poems about George Washington and Colonial Homes by Charles Lee Dickey, Nita Jean Rogers, followed by a tap dance by Carolyn Blankenship, Martha Ann Hallman, Mary Sue Brown, Nita Jean Rogers and Billie Doris White. A review of their study of Dutch Children was given by Dianne Jenson, Robert Painter, Carolyn Blankenship, Jackie Richardson, Mary Sue Brown, Patsy Ruth Schaub after which Maurice Ashby gave a reading entitled, "Sleepy Head."

In reviewing the Health and Safety Rules the children gave several exercises and Rae Juan Lee gave the poem, "Crossing the Street." "White I Like" was the name of the selection by the Rhythm band which was composed of the entire kindergarten as follows: Kent Biffle, Mary Sue Brown, Carolyn Blankenship, Billie Doris White, Dianne Jenson, Nita Jean Rogers, Rae Juan Lee, Maurice Ashby, Patsy Ann and Robert Painter, Sonny Payne, Fisher Brown, Patsy Ruth Schaub, Jackie Richardson, Charles Lee Dickie, Belva Jean Patterson, Shirley Heffington and Martha Ann Hallman.

PAPA SAM CUNNINGHAM HERE FOR "STRUGGLE" THURSDAY NIGHT

Papa Sam Cunningham and his Crystal Springs Ramblers of Ft. Worth, Texas, and unlimited radio fame, will furnish rhythm for the dance which will be held Thursday evening in the Chamlee building, according to cards placed by Barney Swenson, the manager.

Last Thursday, Milton Brown and his Musical Brownies were the musical treat, and many were the non-dancers who clogged the street in front of Chamlee's to hear the Brownies in action.

Sheep and goat men from all over Coryell County and from many distant parts of the state will converge here Thursday of this week, when Coryell County will have its Wool and Mohair Show, in accordance with the initial show which was held last year.

The classes have been arranged so that they will be most attractive to the purebred breeders as well as commercial wool producers.

Classifications as follows give every sheep man an opportunity to take part in the wool show. The classes are:

Ram Fleeces: B and C type Delaine; B and C type Rambouillet.

Ewe Fleeces: B and C type Delaine; B and C type Rambouillet.

Ram and Ewe fleeces are limited to fleeces from rams and ewes previously shorn.

Commercial Wool: One class no distinction made as to breed or type, entries limited to the first fleece of sheep.

It has been noted that the development of any industry within a locality is in direct proportion to the interest shown by those people who are closely associated with the development in question. With more than one-half million pounds of wool and mohair being produced in Coryell County annually the monetary return is of such magnitude that every person in the county, regardless of occupation, should put forth much effort to make the Wool and Mohair Show the outstanding event that it is entitled to be.

Sheep and goat men are heard to say that we do not have wool and mohair good enough to show. This is entirely wrong, because any producer should show his best fleece in each respective class, and in turn follow closely the reasons given by the judges for the placings in order that improvement can be made in next year's wool clip.

THEY SAID THERE'D BE "RAINY DAYS;" NOW IT'S "ONE RAINY AFTERNOON"

Ending with this issue, is the story, "The Princess Comes Across." The next one will be, "One Rainy Afternoon."

In keeping with our policy, we offer for your approval this very amusing story which featured Francis Lederer and Ida Lupino, movie stars of note. This story is a sequel to the prize picture of a few years back, "It Happened One Night."

In the past two years the News in its columns has given you in story form what would equal to approximately 10 full length books, each of which was up to date, some of which have been best sellers as well as best box office attractions in the motion picture world.

Notes from Co. Supt.'s Office

Concerning the funds recently appropriated by the Legislature for Coryell County schools, Supt. Witcher has received the following letter from E. M. Shepherd, director of equalization:

"I have your letter of April 27 concerning the allotment of money which was appropriated under House Bill No. 600. This Bill passed both houses of the Legislature, but as yet has not been signed by the Governor. I do not know what action he will take. If this bill receives his approval, the committee which is provided for in the Bill will determine the amount to be paid, and they in turn will notify you concerning the allotments which are to be made to the various schools."

Superintendent received the above letter yesterday in explanation of House Bill 600, giving the reason for money not being allotted to schools as yet. The letter is self explanatory.

The following schools are out or will be out this week: Dunn, Hubbard, New Olive (Leon Junction), Davidson, Osage, and Bee House.

Census reports must be completed by the middle of May and census reports not taken on children anywhere in the county should be taken immediately and sent or brought into the office.

Sneak thieves struck again in Gatesville some time last Saturday night, or early Sunday morning.

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

In these days when practically every town, city, state and millions of individuals have their hands out for public funds, it has become real news to read of any public project that is financed without expense to the taxpayer.

Silverton, Oregon, recently celebrated such an event when it dedicated a new community hospital without the aid of public funds. The hospital was made possible by the legacy of Jerome Morley, a pioneer resident, plus donations of other citizens.

In the dedicatory address, Governor Charles H. Martin (democrat) of Oregon said:

"Mr. Morley represents that fine type of American citizens who made his own way through life and did not expect to live off the government. It is refreshing in this day and age of 'gimme boys' to encounter a man of such spirit. Today the most appalling thing to me is the constant tendency of citizens in distress to turn to the government for aid."

Governor Martin took occasion to blast chiselers, sit-down strikes, parlor pink professors and pussy-footers of all kinds, whether politicians or doctors.

Yes, it was refreshing to read of an upstanding American community supplying its needs with good old-fashioned American initiative and energy, rather than with paternalistic pap. And it was still more refreshing to see a courageous public official compliment the community with remarks that were not honey-coated bait to attract votes. We need more of it.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD MONDAY FOR MRS. N. H. BRITAIN

At 4:00 at the J. W. Summers residence in Coryell City funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Byars, Presbyterian preacher of this city and Rev. H. W. Bennett of Valley Mills for Mrs. N. H. Britain, age 80, a long time resident of Coryell City. Burial followed in the Osage Cemetery.

Mrs. Britain had been ill for many weeks but up until her demise had been an active citizen faithful church worker and a loving mother, grandmother and sister. For many years she taught a Sunday School class in the Presbyterian church at Coryell City, of which she was a charter member. She was loved by the entire community and there are many who will mourn her going.

She has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Summers since the death of Mr. Britain in 1912 and is survived by the following children; Mrs. T. H. Place, Mrs. Wheeler Patton, both of Crawford; Mrs. Wayne Sadler of Valley Mills; Mrs. Ellen Touchstone, Anson, and Mrs. J. W. Summers, Coryell City; Ed and Buck Britain of Coryell City; John of Valley Mills; two brothers, John Moore of Dallas and Will Moore of Altus, Okla., several grandchildren and great grandchildren and a host of friends.

the Coryell County News, beginning work on one of our toughest days of the week, month and year, First Monday.

Wilson did a little hustling on his own and came in asked for his job. Fortunately for him (maybe) and unfortunately for Woodrow Byars, Byar's doctor recommended that he get work outside, and so now, he's with Harrell's Service Station, only a stone's throw away, doing another kind of "gassing." Ask Wilson today if the job he got yesterday is a position or a job. He spent the night with the other members of the force.

EXHIBIT OF INTEREST IS SHOWN HERE BY MEDICINE CO.

To First Monday visitors yesterday, an interesting exhibit was shown by a Waco medicine company in charge of Joe Denison which was a collection of horns of different animals from all over the world.

"WE ALWAYS SELL FOR LESS"

By BETTY BARCLAY

Whether you are a bride or a seasoned cook, the magic in a can of sweetened condensed milk is an indispensable friend. Luscious lemon pie, creamy, smooth frosting and ice cream, crunchy cookies and candy that melts in the mouth are just a few of the delicacies that can be made with this magic milk in jig time, and, best of all, these magic milk recipes are actually failure proof. The work is half done before you start because sweetened condensed milk is a pre-cooked blend of two ingredients—milk and sugar—cooked down until it is as rich and thick as heavy cream.

Never Fail Chocolate Frosting
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 tablespoon water
1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk, stir over boiling water 5 minutes until it thickens. Add water. Cool. Spread on cold cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of 2 (9-inch) layers, or top and sides of loaf cake generously, or about 24 cup cakes.

Magic Lemon Meringue Pie
1 1/2 cups sweetened condensed milk (1 can)
1/2 cup lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon or
1/4 teaspoon lemon extract
2 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
Baked pie shell (8-inch)

Blend together sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, grated lemon rind or lemon extract, and egg yolks. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating egg whites until stiff and adding sugar. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

Quick Fondant
1 1/4 cups confectioners' (4X) sugar sifted
1/4 cup sweetened condensed milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Blend sifted confectioners' sugar gradually into sweetened condensed milk, using fork. Add vanilla and continue mixing until smooth and creamy.

Uncle Jim Says

Texas farmers have learned that soil losses on minor slopes can be prevented by cover crops or by reverting the crop land on such slopes to pastures.

Legumes take nitrogen from the air and make it available in the soil for subsequent crops. Legumes are high in protein and minerals; when livestock have access to legumes, a saving in grain and protein supplement necessary to balance the ration is usually realized.

Many of the clovers have an excellent physical effect on the soil in that their roots penetrate to unusual depths and loosen up the subsoil. One of the direct benefits of this action is that the soil can absorb and store more moisture.

The farmers of Texas are using more legumes. The 1930 census figures show that 394,555 acres were devoted to legumes in 1929; while the 1935 census figures list 773,783 acres of legumes in 1934. The past year saw Texas farmers, in compliance with the Agricultural Conservation Program, plant 1,776,863 acres of legumes.

Pastures which contain a combination of legumes and grasses provide a longer period of grazing and a more balanced ration for livestock; tend to check erosions and soil losses; and build up the soil by adding humus and nitrogen.

The Agricultural Conservation Program contains provisions for carrying part of the financial burden of conservation practices, and offers aid to farmers in the task of improving and maintaining soil fertility.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

by WILL ROGERS

THE opening night of a new play is probably a lot of fun for everybody except the producer himself. Before the show is over he oughta live about seven lives just from worryin' if it's gonna be a success.

That reminds me of a theatrical manager who was producing a play, and on opening night a very long wait occurred after the second act. The orchestra kept trying to bridge the gap, but the old audience was getting mighty nervous. The producer was sitting down in front, right in the middle and could not get out without being noticed. All at once a loud sawing was heard at the back of the stage. A friend of the manager leaned over and asked him, "What's that, Tom?"

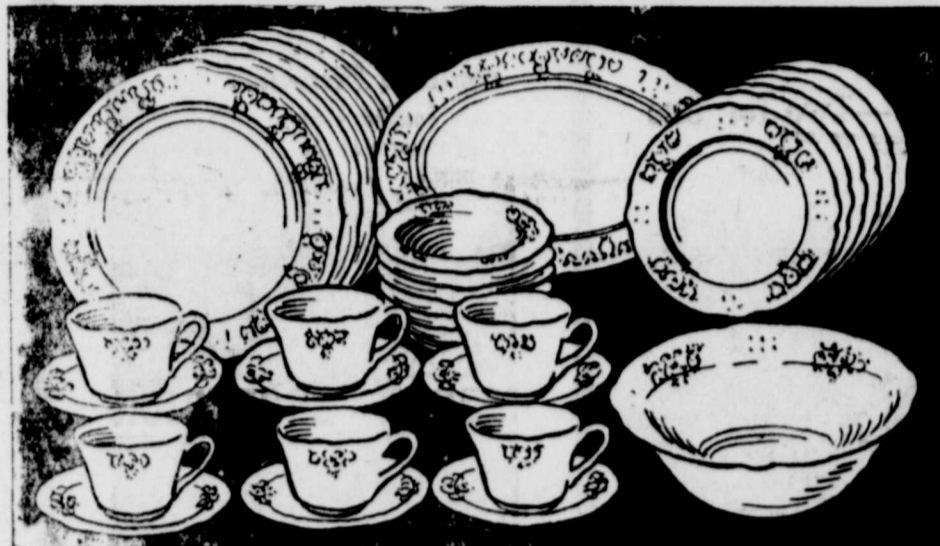

"Lord, I don't know, unless they are cutting out the third act."

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

The new neutrality bill as finally passed by the Congress is a sincere effort on the part of the lawmakers to keep America out of war, but is disappointing to those who favored and believed that only a mandatory act forbidding the exportation of war materials could constitute an effective barrier against embroiled in future world conflicts.

The new bill leaves to the discretion of the chief executive the enforcement or non-enforcement of all the provisions which it is thought might keep America neutral when Europe again plunges over the war precipice. The president may at his discretion apply certain limitations to the export of war materials to belligerents as well as prohibit outright the shipment of them of arms, ammunition and implements of war.

American merchant vessels will be prohibited from transporting to belligerents any commodities or materials which the president may designate. American sellers of such goods will be required to relinquish all title to the wares before they leave the country.

Further discretion is given the president in preserving exceptions to the "cash and carry" feature as it might apply to Canada and Mexico.

While the new neutrality bill may be lacking in many respects and may include many obvious loopholes, it is better than no neutrality law at all and is superior to the old act which is succeeds.

If, in the event of war, the president applies the embargo on war materials to all the nations in a state of war, there should be no retaliatory measures against American vessels, citizens or property such as occurred in 1916-17.

If American vessels are kept out of the war munitions carrying trade, there should be no repetition of disasters which took a death toll of several hundred lives on the Atlantic during the German submarine campaign of 1916-17. Present restrictions continues against American traveling on belligerents' vessels. Such incidents as the sinking of the Lusitania often inflame public opinion to such an extent that precipitation is taken against the offending state with consequences far out of proportion to the actual offense.

Finally, if American sellers of war commodities are required to relinquish title to their wares before they leave American shores, there can be no pressure on the government to enforce war damages against any state which might seize or destroy such goods.

"The Christian Science Monitor" wonders if the world will not in a few years look upon strikes as being in the same outmoded class as duels and trial by battle.

This year's strike record indicates that statutes and social sanction will have to be enacted to abolish the evils of dueling and trial by battle.

Statisticians calculate the cost of industrial conflict this year in millions—$400,000,000 in the automobile industry alone. The department of labor counts 1,264 strikes involving 613,056 employees during a five-month period ending March 31. It puts the loss in man days of war at 11,485,156.

The Pacific coast maritime strike was the first manifestation of labor unrest. It lasted 98 days, threw nearly 40,000 out of work, paralyzed shipping and cost an estimated $687,000,000.

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres in a Cleveland Trust Company bulletin describes statements that we are in the midst of a business boom.

"A good deal of bad economics is being talked in these days about emergency measures to prevent a business boom, extended control or restrain bans credit expansion and increased federal powers to restrain commodity advances," he said.

But with business "15 per cent or more below normal" we have not as yet definitely emerged from the depression, the Cleveland economist observed, and continued by pointing out three factors which belie any talk of a boom.

These are unemployment, the unbalanced federal budget, and the lack of harmony in labor relations.

Volume of industrial production as about as large as it was before the depression, Colonel Ayres states, but we now have about 7,000,000 more population than we had then—so the per capita output is smaller.

The National Association of Manufacturers reports that employment in the manufacturing industries reached 1929 levels on April 1.

The Association estimates that the durable goods industries and other manufacturing enterprises have absorbed 3,310,000 workers since 1933.

"The Manufacturing industries," the report of the NRM said, "have been and are swiftly re-employing the idle. With the strides that have been made and the indication for the future, if co-operation can be sup-

RESETTLEMENT A. OBSERVES SECOND BIRTHDAY

This week marks the end of the second year of the Resettlement Administration, which in Coryell County has made 368 loans to farmers for a total of $64,956.00.

J. R. Hartley, county supervisor, announced that during this two-year period the Resettlement Administration has also made 783 nonrepayable grants in the county for a total of $11,203.00, in addition to the loans.

The supervisor said when Resettlement Administration was set up two years ago, its first job was to take over farm families formerly on relief, and to make these families again self-supporting. Detailed plans of farm and home management were worked out with each family and backed by loans for the necessary supplies, livestock and equipment.

planted for industrial strife, it is only folly to speak of America with a permanent employment problem of huge proportions."

For the next fiscal year the government is all set to expend about two and a half billion dollars in providing for 11,500,000 individuals, the United States News tells us. This includes Federal, State and local relief outlays.

CALVACADE TO HAVE HUGE REVOLVING STAGE IN MAMMOTH SHOW

Dallas, May 3.—(Spl).—Construction has begun on the large, center location wagon stage for the Pan American spectacle, "Calvacade of the Americas," which opens in Dallas June 12. The stage will be mounted on rails and will roll from underneath the ramp. Huge doors, camouflaged as rocks will hide the stage when not in use.

Thirty feet of the big rolling stage may be rolled out portraying scenes on the center location. It is reality a stage within a stage, and boasts all the drops and trappings found in a well set theater. This new use of center stage is a development of the production staff of Calvacade of the Americas, who use it for the first time for this type of show.

The use of the center stage, through this method, contributes much to the out-door production, according to A. L. Vollmann, producer-director of the show. "It is just one of the many technical improvements that will make "Calvacade" the foremost show of its kind ever produced," he stated.

The main stage, the largest in the world, will be completed by May 1, in time for rehearsals to begin.

Marion Burleson Named Circulation Manager of Two East Texas Pub.

Marion Burleson, popular young Gatesville business man has just been named circulation manager of the Troup Banner and Tyler Journal, Henry Edwards Publications, edited and managed by Fred Prewitt, also, formerly of Gatesville. He will be joined by his wife, the former Miss Penelope Hardin. A one column picture of "Burley" as we know him was included in each write-up.

Both the Tyler Journal and the Troup Banner have this to say about the new promotion of Mr. Burleson: "J. M. Burleson, formerly of Gatesville, will assume duties of Circulation Manager of the Henry Edwards Publications, The Tyler Journal and The Troup Banner, on May 1.

"Burleson, a graduate of Southwestern University, has been an employee of the Texas Company for the past five years. Having a natural ability of meeting folks, and possessing those traits of good sound business judgement, Burleson has been most successful in all his undertakings. Previous experiences have brought him in contact with all classes of folk, in all types of businesses, from the laborers to the head of major companies. He easily adapts himself to the variety of surroundings which he has encountered.

"Mr. and Mrs. Burleson will arrive the latter part of this week.

These publications are keeping their pace set steadily forward to maintain their high goal as established by their late founder. It is the intention of the management to constantly abide by the principle upon which they were founded, that of offering "a constructive news service for Smith and adjoining counties, to develop East Texas resources and foster education."

The Henry Edwards publication edited and managed by Fred G. Prewitt, are taking another step toward advancement in the addition of Burleson as full-time circulation manager.

Typical "Rest Corner" for New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special)—Flowing water and shade will be one of the refreshing features furnished by the New York's World Fair in 1939 in its consideration of the comfort of the millions who will visit it. This photograph of the "Aqualons," taken of an exhibit of the Fair on the ground floor of the Empire State Building at the Fifth Avenue and 34th Street corner, shows such a rest spot as will be frequently encountered throughout the Fair grounds, either in otherwise open spaces or beside buildings or in shady patios. The Aqualons are largely cylinders of glass through which water is in constant flow, with changing colors to accentuate their simple beauty and with an endless uprise of bubbles to give them unusual animation.

SYNOPSIS

Princess Olga of Sweden, who is in reality an American showgirl from Brooklyn posing royalty to get a film contract, meets and falls in love with King Mandini, the Concertina King, aboard the S.S. Avignon bound for America. Darcy, a blackmailer, who has received money from the bogus Princess, is found dead in her stateroom. She notifies Mandini who moves Darcy's body to an empty stateroom to avoid suspicion. A group of international detectives are searching the ship for a murderer, Merko, who has passage under the name of Petroff. One of the detectives, Steindorf, is found murdered in Petroff's stateroom. Petroff is blamed for both murders, although some of the detectives still suspect Mandini and the Princess. To bring matters to a head, Mandini announces that he will name the murderer at midnight after the ship's concert, hoping that the murderer will show himself. He meets Inspector Lorel, one of the detectives and they go for a walk. Meanwhile the Princess and other officials have uncovered definite information that Merko, the murderer, is none other than Lorel. They rush to save Mandini.

CHAPTER X

IN THEIR wanderings around the deck King and Lorel finally arrived at the taff rail far up in the bow of the vessel. For a while they leaned over the side, watching the snoring waves. Then Lorel spoke.

"Monsieur," he murmured. "Why did you say Darcy was killed by one of only three persons?"

"There were three names checked on his list. He came to me first. . . ."

"Careful, my friend; do not incriminate yourself."

"I won't. Before Darcy was killed I knew he had told you of my prison record. You see, I refused to pay him off."

"That is amusing," chuckled the Frenchman, "because I did not know of your record until I radioed the Paris police for information about you after the murder."

"Didn't Darcy tell you?" King became suddenly tense.

"No."

"Then you—you must be the third victim Darcy was going to shake down."

"Surely Monsieur," Lorel was still pleasant but dignified. "You do not insinuate that Chevalier Lorel of the Paris Surete is a subject for blackmail."

"What did Darcy talk to you about?"

"We did not talk," Lorel lied graciously.

"You're a liar, Lorel!" King's eyes narrowed dangerously. "The only man who'd be walking the deck with me at this hour would be the man who killed Steindorf! I've been waiting." He stopped, his face going blank as he slowly raised his hands in the air.

"It is foolish to be too clever, my friend," said his companion, digging an automatic into his ribs. "Steindorf will tell you. . . . Before we say adieu have you any requests to make of Paul Merko?"

"Er—yes," King stalled for time.

"Will you tell me what happened to the real Lorel?"

"He recognized me on the boat train from Paris. One of us had to die." He shrugged. "I took his clothes, his passport and his name. But Darcy recognized me. Then Steindorf found my own passports. . . . One step leads to another. Monsieur, regrettable as it may seem."

"Listen, Merko, give me a break," King suddenly began pleading. "I'm King Mandini. I'm news, and I want to stay news. If I disappear over the side—it's better for you—and it means I'll always be news—the unsolved Mandini."

"Monsieur, it is what I would wish myself." Merko waved him toward the rail. "You and I, my friends, are artists. Keep moving. All will be over in a moment."

"It's practically over now, Mister," remarked Benton, as he sprang from behind a lifeboat and jammed an automatic into Merko's ribs. "Thanks for talking so much. Now give me that heater and back up against the rail."

Without moving a muscle of his when we were cleared you'd go your way and I mine. I'm on my way." He stalked off.

"Just a minute please," cried a reporter, rushing up a second later. "You're Princess Olga of Sweden?"

When she admitted it she was deluged with questions as to her ancestry, her new job, what she liked for breakfast, etc., etc., ad nauseum.

The Princess steadfastly refused to talk until a latecomer dashed up, pulled out a portable microphone and announced himself a representative of the International Films. "Just a few words," he pleaded. "This is a nation-wide radio hook up."

At that the girl stepped to the mike, sudden decision showing on her face.

"This is the Princess Olga of Sweden, talking to ze great American people," she began in dialect. Then, taking a long breath, she added: Oh, phooie! I'm really just Wanda Nash, of Brooklyn. I've been a fake but I'm coming home on the level."

"She's ill; she's raving"; wailed Lady Gertrude, who had been standing near enough to hear the whole thing. "She's in love!"

Now another man jammed his way through the gaping, incredulous crowd.

"I'm Johnson, of the International Films Company," he yelled.

"I know," the girl flamed. "I've broken my contract with your company. All right—go ahead and sue me!"

"Don't be silly!" whooped Johnson. "You've just made every front page in the country! You're box-office, and no mistake." King was completing his packing when Benton burst into the cabin, chortling with excitement.

"The Swede blew the works," he exploded. "She told the cock-eyed world she ain't no Princess!"

Before Mandini could overcome his astonishment, Wanda herself stood in the doorway. She pushed Benton out as she swept into the room and slammed the door behind her.

"So you think you could walk into my life—mess it around—get me all stirred up inside—and then walk out with a graceful wave of the hand?" she demanded furiously as she stamped her foot. "You can't push me around like that!"

"Let me get this." King was eyeing her intently. "Do you expect me to take you under my wing and keep protecting you for the rest of my life?"

"Jag solta attal till mandar volt och yar slit tachlig amkar!" she ripped out at him in the language of her girlhood. "Sent oitar glad imver manda kalt Ja imkin ihrvär."

"What does that mean, Princess?" he inquired humbly.

"Yes," she answered as she flung herself into his arms.

THE END

"Do you expect me to take you under my wing and keep protecting you for the rest of my life?" King asked. "Yes," she replied.

face the murderer handed over his gun, but he backed up, not against the rail, but against an opening in it provided for lowering the lifeboat.

"I say — Mandini," they heard Cragg's voice calling. A moment later the inspector dashed up, followed by the others. "You all right, old chap?"

"Take it easy, boys," grinned King. "And meet Mr. Paul Merko." "Monsieur Mandini. . . ." Merko was pleading in his turn now. For answer King placed a finger on Benton's arm. The latter lowered his gun.

"Well, Merko—this looks like the end," mocked Cragg.

"Yes, Monsieur," the other shouted exultantly. "The end." With those words he swung round and jumped over the side of the steamer. And, though Captain Nicholls stopped the ship and lowered searching boats, the body was not found.

The arrival of the ship at Quarantine in New York was an event. Smith's carrier pigeons had reached town long before and the whole story was smeared over the front pages of the Bulletin.

"Nothing in here to make any trouble," King told Wanda after looking the paper over carefully. "You're still a Princess." Then, as she nodded coldly he added: "Well, good-bye—and good luck. You said according to the prey they seek, there are the freshwater sportsmen who want a good fighting fish, such as spotted and large-mouthed black bass or the handsome yellow bass. On the coast "Silver King," or tarpon has won the title of "greatest of game fish" and more daring anglers set out every year to find a 30 to 300 pound specimen of him or of a sheepheads, another popular fighter.

The "barefoot boys" go after little blue-spotted sunfish and the familiar Rock Bass, both of which are found in ponds, creeks and rivers around patches of vegetation. Other common freshwater varieties out of the 130 represented in this state are the six-inch Blue and Red-eared Sunfish, the foot-long crappies or White Perch, the long, slender, destructive Little Pickerals in East Texas, and the whole family of Catfish.

The bad name given to Catfish is unfounded, since the blue and Spotted Varieties caught in the Trinity and San Jacinto rivers are excellent to eat, and caviar is made from the eggs of the spoon-bill cat in East Texas. The yellow mud-cat, which is more voracious and less clean in its habits, somewhat merits the shady reputation.

Connoisseurs search for Pampano, the royalty of Texas salt water fish so far as taste and price are concerned. Weighing about four pounds, it is no more a game fish than members of the Weakish family, so-called because they are easily torn in catching. These are known as tenderloin trout to restaurant goers, and rank first in quality and quantity combined, the commercial catch for 1930 being over 1,043,000 pounds.

Money-making fishermen also favor the salt water species, the Spanish Mackerel, averaging 8 pounds and the Gulf Pike, which sometimes reaches 20 pounds, and the Red Snappers, those rosy, valuable 30-pound fish that are easily shipped and readily marketed. Not to be left out are the flounders, croakers and the Gulf Menhaden, whose abundance makes the peculiarly suited to their use as food for all other fish.

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, May 3. Spring formals are breaking out all over the country and everywhere comes the cry, "How can I be different?" Standardization of the evening silhouette this season means that details alone can decide whether a dress shines in a crowd or is classed as "the usual thing."

Those who like the ultra-simple small-waisted, full-skirted dancing frock could try one of the sheer, hooded capes for newness. Over a dress of taffeta or some other crisp material, a filmy wreath of chiffon, loosely gathered, invisibly fastened at the neck, framing the face softly, and hanging in irregular folds almost to the floor, is good for that effectively wistful look.

Marquesettes, organdies, nets, mousseline de soie and other cloudy materials are best set off by tricky little taffeta mess jackets or by loose, big sleeved coats with four or five pleats or gore in back, usually fingertip length. So far as the dress itself is concerned, highlights which are making history with girls at Texas State College for women are narrow or broad bands of pleats around the many-yarded hemline, shirred bodices, flowers dotted over skirts and lack of bareness except for a low front neck-line.

As important as the dress itself is the slip worn with it. For sheer frocks a color combination between dress and slip will give the smart chameleon effect. For close-fitting costumes look around for one of the zipper slips that banish all fear of queer bulges in the wrong places. Since transparent fabrics are definitely leaders now, this season's petticoats should be as carefully selected as those of our grandmothers.
