Post Office Contractors Through With Job Soon; Inspection May 17

Construction Engineer Benjamin S. Hirschfield, official representative for the Post Office Department stated early this week that Dolph-Batteson Construction Company of Dallas will complete their contract with the Post Office Department on the local Post Office a little over a month ahead of schedule, and contemplate asking a general inspection either on May 17 or 18.

Inspection at that time will be made by the District Engineer's Office Representative of Dallas.

Mr. Hirschfield stated also: "Mr. Frank Price, local representative of Dolph-Batteson Construction Company of Dallas, has cooperated 100 per cent with the local government representative and his firm is to be complimented in the splendid way they have accomplished their work, due to the remoteness of the job from the main office and on account of weather conditions which handicapped them, and threw them months behind at the start of the building."

Construction engineer Hirschfield came here direct from supervising construction for the Post Office Department in San Francisco.

STREET RECONDITIONING WPA JOB COMPLETED YESTERDAY

You can go anywhere on Gatesville's pavement now! Yesterday, Foreman Bert Richardson reported to City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy that the job of re-surfacing the streets of Gatesville was completed.

The job originally called for work on Leon and Main streets only, and, contrary to some beliefs, did not include North and South Lutterloh or the square. Some patching however was done on these.

REP. R. W. (BOB) POAGE MAKES MAIDEN SPEECH ON HOUSE FLOOR

Representative R. W. (Bob) Poage of Waco, spoke on the house floor, Wednesday, May 5, declaring federal and state governments must work out their taxing systems to avoid duplication, but in such a way that states "will not be forced to depend on federal support and control."

He made a particular reference to the oil, gas and sulphur industries of Texas.

Representative Poage has been furnishing his constituent newspapers with letters from Washington, giving his views on legislative matters from the Capital, and giving his ideas and how he voted on legislation which has come up in the National House of Representatives in a straight-forward manner. He has consistently stated how and what he was asked for, making no bones about the matter, something, which is very unusual in a representative of the people.

Coryell County Boys Named Gold Star 4-H Club Boys of Texas

Distinction has come to two Coryell County 4-H Boys who, for their interest in 4-H work, have been named as State Gold Star 4-H Boys, according to announcement from County Agent Guy Powell's office. These boys are Fred Koch, Jr., and Elmo King of the Plainview community.

Each year 100 boys are selected from the entire state as being the leading club members, and from this 100 Coryell County had the two above mentioned, which is quite a feather in both the county agent's hat and also Coryell county's.

These two boys, along with the other Gold Star boys will be honored at the Tnnual Farmer's short course at A & M, August 16-19.

SUPT. EARL NESBITT'S PHOTO IS CARRIED IN WACO P. M. PAPER

With a picture of himself, the caption of which reads, "Aiding Boys," Superintendent Earl Nesbitt's picture appeared on last night's Waco paper, with a release from the Austin Bureau, stating: "Earl Nesbitt, superintendent of the boys' training school at Gatesville, has been in Austin to confer with legislators sponsoring bills to provide facilities at the Waco state neglected children's home and other institutions, to care for some of the youths improperly committed to Gatesville, whose removal a legislative committee has demanded. Superintendent Nesbitt has caused the release of hundreds of boys, for whom he had found homes, or helped find persons who would care for them."

Wool and Mohair Show Brings Sixty-Three Entries; Kelly Wins

Coryell county's Second Annual Wool and Mohair Show, closed here yesterday, with J. H. Kelly, of Pearl Star Route, taking off the grand champion ribbon for his C type Delaine ewe, which was raised and bred on his farm. Mr. Kelly stated he has been breeding for length of staple and quality of fleece, and his winning was very encouraging to him.

Reserve champion fleece of the show was shown by H. W. (Holmes) Williamson, of Killeen, Route 3, was also a C type Delaine ewe which was sired by a Fred Robinson buck, and crowned the champion fleece for the championship.

Other winners were: Kid Hair (mohair): 1st, J. O. Winslar, 2nd, Milroy Powell, 3rd, T. L. Connor.

Old Hair (mohair): 1st and 2nd, W. L. and Carl Brown, 3rd, Hugo T. Viertel, 4th, J. O. Winslar.

Other entries to the show were Joe Hanna, with two fleeces, Jim R. Saunders, 3 fleeces, T. E. Jones, one fleece, and Douglas White, three fleeces. A number of the winners entered more than one fleece, making the entries total sixty-three.

S. P. Davis, judge of the show stated that the quality exhibited was most excellent, and better than the show of 1936. He also stated in regard to raising sheep and goats: "that sheep men of this section need to think more of the lengthy staple and uniformity, which is realized thru intense breeding only, which will produce that type of sheep which will consistently produce the definitely desired types. Sheep vary between individuals and the fleece on individuals varies on different parts of the body, which in itself is most objectional. Only when we reach the stage where we can have an entire bag of wool of reasonably uniformity can we expect to demand a place in the wool market. In explaining what was meant by a smooth sheep, the judge states that this smooth type must have one or two aprons on the neck with no folds back of the shoulders, and did not recommend what is commonly called by the sheep men the plane type. Namely, that the sheep which has no wrinkles what so ever on its neck. Too many men have misinterpreted the above meaning and have the plane type of sheep which is also as indicated above, not desired."

Care in preparing the fleeces for show was noted in the 1937 show, and the majority of the fleeces were in considerably better shape than heretofore.

Besides the local people present at the show, a large number of citizens and business men attended, and several men from the U. S. Department of Agriculture were on hand, giving assistance and answering questions relative to the raising and breeding of sheeps and goats. Several loads of rams and billies were on display and many sales were made.

Sheep and Goat Raisers Association is to be congratulated on the show, and their next undertaking will be a Ram and Billy sale which will be held August 5.

BOSTON NEWSPAPER PLAYS UP TEXAS PETRIFIED
WOODS

(Canyon Prairie)

"Petrified wood is used for houses in Texas," according to a recent issue of the Christian Science Monitor, published at Boston, Massachusetts. This startling information appeared in a caption over a picture of Buffalo Courts, unique and picturesque athletic headquarters at West Texas State College.

"Scores of tons of petrified wood in various colors comprise the material that went into the walls of 22 cottages and a two-story community house recently erected on the West Texas State College campus," the Monitor continued. "The durable building material was collected from the picturesque canyons in the Northwest Texas region near Canyon."

The Courts have attracted nationwide attention for their originality of design and the variety and clever arrangement of the petrified wood and natural stone used in their construction.

A. A. Meredith, District Director of WPA, Amarillo, enclosing a clipping from the Boston paper, commented in a letter to Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the College:

"It is not surprising to me that those gathering material for this widely circulated news-agent would seize upon the opportunity to give favorable mention to a project such as you and your faculty have conceived and are building in Buffalo Courts at Canyon. We receive congratulations continually from many prominent people who see the work you have done on your campus with relief labor."

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

RUSSIAN kids learn Russian easy enough. They must be awful smart kids. Even a grown-up American can't learn it, and I've always thought Americans were about the smartest folks in the world.

There was an American oil man that was planning to go over to Russia to get away from a subpoena or to look for oil or something, so he hired a professor from the University of Chicago to teach him Russian. He got the prof to live in his house, and he told him he should talk Russian to him as much as possible.

So the professor was having dinner with the family. All the time he was trying to give the oil man his money's worth by saying things in Russian. When he picked up his fork he named it in Russian, and had the oil man pronounce it after him, and the same way with the knife and the peas and the soup.

Finally, while the professor was talking and eating at the same time, he put something in his mouth and just naturally exploded. Some of the food hit the picture of George Washington at the other end of the dining room, and the whole family started to wipe their faces with their napkins.

"Now, is that the Russian word for something, really, prof?" says the oil man. "I'm awful afraid I'll never learn to pronounce that one." The professor took a swallow of water, and then he says, "No, that was just the horseradish. It's a lot stronger than I thought."

Morris intiated the plan and he announced Tuesday that the broadcast would begin May 8 at 9:00 a. m., and continue each week through May. Chapel programs, the chorus, band, and musicians of the college will be heard. A. C. C. QUEER CRITER COMES TO
CORYELL: COMBINATION
CAUSES COMMENT

What is it, Mr. Ripley? Be it a goat or be it a sheep? Or be it what? Someone suggested the title "Geep" (spelled with a G, and not a J like Popeye's famous orchid-eating, question-answering Jeep) to include parts of both species of names, for it bears physical resemblances of both the goat and the sheep.

On its back grows mohair. On its sides grows wool. What will you have, Myrtle?

This double feature of Nature was purchased by Pierce and Jackson along with a number of teach it "Yankee Doodle" and its twin personality was not discovered until a closer examination of the flock was made.

Does it ba-a-a or does it ma-o-a-a maybe it goes Mo-a-aBa-aa (Not to owners: You teach it "Yonkee Doodle" and shp it to Major Bowes.)

Chaucey Jones was the first American to make a clock cabinets of wood, using that instead of brass.

Joe Francis Williamson, Roland Koch, Alvin Koch, Arthur Mueller and Harold Koch on last Saturday afternoon selected 7 barrows and placed them on feed. Six of these pigs were Durocs and sired by the outstanding boar which P. H. Martin purchased last year. It will be remembered that this boar placed in the money at the Ft. Worth Centennial Show. The pigs were most excellent individuals and showed the big advantage of the breeding which was back of them. The purebred Berkshire received by Joe Francis Williamson was bought from J. B. Graves. The pigs along with 3 which John Fritz of Copperas Cove is feeding would be in the heavy weight class in the fall shows.

It is expected that another group will be started on feed about June 1st for the medium weight class, whereas the third group will go on feed about July 1st to be entered in the light weight barrows.

In addition to the above there are several boys who are feeding gilts for the fall shows and to be entered as breeders.

MRS. C. H. WALLACE GIVES BOOK REVIEW AT LIONS CLUB WEDNESDAY

In reviewing Dale Carnegie's new book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People," Mrs. C. H. Wallace of this city, pointed out seven rules for making the home happier as she came before the Lion's Club luncheon Wednesday. These were, "Don't nag. Don't try to make your partner over. Don't criticize. Give honest appreciation. Pay little attentions. Be courteous. Read a book on marriage." She also gave several short excerpts from the book which were of special interest to men.

Mrs. Wallace is a graduate of the college in Fayetteville, Arkansas and since coming to Texas has studied Public Speaking in Graham where she received many honors for her high achievements. She also taught in Fayetteville, Ark.

In making friends, Mrs. Wallace says, "be interested in them and what they do instead of trying to get them interested in you."

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL FARMERS

The County Committee has set the closing date for receiving Work Sheets on the 1937 Soil Conservation Program at May 8th. Please be governed accordingly. The four range inspectors are in the field and expect to complete inspection by the end of May.

PLANE TABLE MAPPING BEGUN

Crews operating Plane Tables are now in the field making maps of all farms which are under Work Sheet for 1937. All crop land will be chained, and a map made to scale of each farm.

Since exact measurements are essential to compliance under the 1937 program it is very important that each man who signed up go with the crew or have a representative with each crew in order to definitely locate all fields and all property lines. Present instructions are that the mapping must be done not later than June 30th.

TRENCH SILOS

Silage in a trench silo weighs 30 to 40 pounds per cubic foot, depending upon the amount of silage in the trench as well as the method used in filling.

It is felt that in Coryell County each farm owner with stock should have at least one ton of silage per animal unit in storage.

To find the required size of a trench to feed a herd of a certain size for a certain period of time first figure the cross section (the width by depth) of the trench to fit the number of animals in the herd and then figure the length of a trench for the feeding period.

May 26th a meeting will be held with a representative from A. and M. College to discuss trench silos and dairy management. Watch announcements for location if this meeting.

SOFTBALL SEASON TO OPEN MAY 10

The 1937 softball season gets underway with a double-header next Monday night at the Stockyard Stadium, Gatesville's super-colossal offering to the athletic world.

The opening night's play will see the CCC Camp fight it out with the Firemen, who when they aren't playin pool or dabbin water on burning out-houses, sit around and talk about what demons they are at softball. The other game is matched between the Merchants and Doc's Sandwich Shop Softball Smoothies. As there are only four teams in the league, Monday night will give the fans a chance to see the potential strength of his or her favorite club.

Here is the schedule for the summer's games up until July: Monday, May 10: CCC vs. Fireboys, Merchants vs. Doc's. Thursday, May 13: Merchants vs. Fireboys, Doc's vs. CCC. Monday, May 17: CCC vs. Merchants, Fireboys vs. Doc's. Thursday, May 20: Doc's vs. Merchants, Fireboys vs. CCC.

Monday, May 24: Doc's vs. CCC, Merchants vs. Fireboys. Thursday, May 27: Fireboys vs. Merchants, CCC vs. Doc's. Monday, May 31: Merchants vs. CCC, Doc's vs. Fireboys.

Thursday, June 3: Merchants vs. Doc's, CCC vs. Fireboys. Monday, June 7: Fireboys vs. CCC, Doc's vs. Merchants. Thursday, June 10: Fireboys vs. Doc's, Merchants vs. CCC. Monday, June 14: Doc's vs. CCC, Fireboys vs. Merchants. Thursday, June 17: Fireboys vs. Doc's, Merchants vs. CCC.

Monday, June 21: Fireboys vs. CCC, Doc's vs. Merchants. Thursday, June 24: Merchants vs. Fireboys, Doc's vs. CCC. Monday, June 28: Merchants vs. CCC, Fireboys vs. Doc's. Thursday, July 1: CCC vs. Doc's, Fireboys vs. Merchants. Monday, July 5: Doc's vs. Fireboys, CCC vs. Merchants.

If, by July 5, there have been no murders committed or no national guard unit has been called out to quell any riots over disputed games, then the season will probably continue into the late summer months.

As far as winners are concerned, they will be easy to pick. Either the CCC or Doc's will win first, in case the Firemen or Merchants don't. Second place will go to Doc's or the Merchants, unless the Firemen or CCC nose one of them out. The other places will probably go to either the Firemen, Merchants, Doc's or the CCC. (Boy can we pick 'em!)

Monday and Thursday will be the playing nights; the place, the beautiful and spacious athletic field; the time, any old time; price of admission, none, (unless the boys turn commercially-minded later on in the season.)

FOR ONCE, WILLIAM POWELL DOES NOT GET THE GIRL!

William Powell is getting a divorce.

He is divorcing himself from most of the screen's most beautiful women.

Too long, he feels, he has been mated as "The Perfect Husband" to Myrna Loy, Louise Rainer, Rosalind Russell and other lovely stars, at least temporarily.

So Powell, in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture enacts the "menace," the man who does not win the girl.

Powell joins Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in Frederick Lonsdale's delightful mystery comedy, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," which opens a 3 day engagement at the Palace Theatre Sat.

Although Powell has been teamed with most of M-G-M's lovely stars through the past three years, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" co-stars him and Miss Crawford for the first time. Too, it is the first picture in which Powell and Montgomery have matched wits for the same reward, a beautiful woman.

As Charles, a pseudo butler in London mansions, Powell plays the role of a super-crook, but a beloved thief still possessing a noble quality of sympathy and understanding and who makes unusual sacrifices because of his love for Mrs. Cheyney.

ANNUAL CROSS-ROADS CONTEST FOR WRITERS IS UNDERWAY AGAIN

New York, May 6.—The third annual contest to find the champion country newspaper correspondent of the United States was announced today by Wheeler McMillen, editor of the Country Home Magazine, a national farm publication. Prizes totaling $400 will be awarded by the magazine, and the winner also will get a trip to New York and Washington, as in previous years.

In announcing this year's contest Mr. McMillen stated the belief that "throughout the country there were hundreds of men and women who do a fine job in their own field as do many famous reporters on the big dailies. Our annual Country Correspondents Contest is an opportunity for these able rural correspondents to gain wider recognition."

Winners in the past two years were Mrs. Mary Mahnkey of Oasis, Mo., who writes for the Forsyth, Mo., Republican, and Mrs. Susan Frawley Eisele of Blue Earth, Minn., who does a weekly column for the Fairmont, Minn., Sentinel. Both have since appeared in the Country Home Magazine, and Mrs. Eisele now also writes a weekly column for one of the metropolitan papers in her home state.

Entries for the 1936-37 awards should be sent to the magazine by June 15th. The contest is open to country correspondents in cities of 10,000 population or less. Entries may be submitted by the editors, the writers themselves or by readers, and the awards will be made by a committee of eminent journalists.

Complete rules for the contest follow:

Rules of the Contest

Only country correspondents of rural newspapers are eligible for awards. A rural newspaper is defined as one published in a town of 10,000 people or less. A country correspondent is defined as a rural contributor whose major occupation is not writing.

All material submitted must be in the form of clippings, with the name and address of the correspondent, the name and address of the newspaper which carried the item, and the date of publication plainly written in the margin or attached to each clipping.

The date of publication must be June 1, 1936, and June 1, 1937. Entries will be accepted from the United States and Canada.

Entries must be marked as submitted in one of the two classes: Class 1—Local Letters. Sometimes called "news letters" or "locals;" variegated news of a given community, published in successive paragraphs.

Class 2—Country Correspondence Not Published as Local Letters. This includes straight news stories, published under separate captions or headlines; news or articles dealing with local farm progress and home betterment, interviews, columns of comment of opinion, letters to the editor, and any other form of rural reporting or journalistic writing which is printed not as a local letter, but as an item in itself.

Each correspondent may submit or have submitted by others, five different clippings, but no more. The total of five may include clippings in both classes, or may be all in one class.

All clippings to be considered in this year's award must be in the hands of the judges by noon June 15, 1937. Entries should be addressed to Correspondence Committee, the Country Home, 250 Park Avenue, New York.

The Awards

An award of $100 will be given to the writer of the best clipping in each of the two classes.

An additional award of $100 and a trip to New York and Washington, with all expenses paid, will go to the one of these two class winners whose work is adjudged the best of all clippings submitted. In other words, the winner of the title, "Best Country Correspondent for 1936-37," will get a cash award of $200 and will be entertained by The Country Home in the nation's metropolis and the nation's capital.

Awards of $10 each will be given to the five next best letters in each class.

McCOLLUM HOTEL IS TORN DOWN

Carpenters and workmen are removing another old land mark in Gatesville, with the tearing down of the McCollum Hotel, which has been a land mark in this city for fifty-seven years, according to the best recollection of Mrs. F. T. McCollum, Sr. Mrs. McCollum and her husband bought the hotel in 1912 and have been operating it since, with the exception of two or three years when it was rented. It was a 17 room structure with a lobby and wide front porch.

Former owners were Rev. Mr. Riddle, Mrs. Andrews, the Moores, Mr. Robinson and the McCollums bought it from D. E. Graves of Miles. Mrs. McCollum thinks it was first owned by the Bennets, relatives of Mrs. J. B. Graves.

The late Bandy Poole, who was working with a lumber company here told Mrs. McCollum in 1912 that 32 years before, he had hauled the lumber for the hotel, which was among the first built in Gatesville.

Temporarily, Mrs. McCollum will soon start construction on some new houses which will be built on the old Guinn lot on North 10th street.

So passes another old historical land mark of Gatesville and Coryell county to which historical interest is attached, besides many fond memories, including romances, births and other incidents in the history of this community.

We missed a certain radio program which comes on about noon from that city, but we are certain, nearly, that "M" or "R" one, gave a testimonial over this station on a certain product from that vicinity. Any way, a convention is a great place to be, and Mr. Compton, member of a Waco undertaking fraternity here yesterday for the Wool Show stated, "75 would be listening to the speeches, lectures, etc., and the rest would be having a good time." We won't classify.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

Out of President Roosevelt's proposal to increase the membership of the supreme court may emerge widespread political realignments. Up to this time the Republicans have wisely permitted opposition senators from the Democratic ranks to lead the fight against the court reorganization plan. But indications are now that the G.O.P. leaders are going to take full advantage of the loss of popular favor sustained by the administration as a result to the court imbroglio, and of the schism within the Democratic senatorial representation.

Chairman Hamilton of the Republican National Committee broke the silence of Republican leaders on the court issue with an appeal to members of both parties to join the fight against reorganizing the judicial branch. Such issues as supreme court, budget, money, and inflation transcend party allegiance, Hamilton said.

It is from the belief prevalent among congressional members today that such issues are of more importance than party allegiance which springs rumors that Republicans and conservative Democrats will form a new party not bearing the Republican label.

The supreme court issue has brought on a rebellion of Southern and Western Democratic senators against the Roosevelt administration. Besides opposing the President's court plan, these senators have sabotaged the administrative reorganization bill sponsored by the chief executive and thrown other wrenches into the Roosevelt program. They constitute that group which believes that the time has come for congress to reassume its traditional powers relinquished to the executive during the crisis of 1933-35.

The Republicans are anxious to welcome these conservatives into their own ranks. But it is hardly likely that the G. O. P. will follow the advice of one of its nationally known leaders who contends that the party should abandon its traditional label, as conservative Southern Democrats would never join a party bearing the same name as that which directed post-Civil War reconstruction.

It is the belief in high Republican ranks that the schism within the Democratic ranks engendered by the court proposal will cause a permanent breakup of the so-called solid south which has generally gone down the line for the Democrats.

In last fall's campaign many Southern Democratic senators extended a reluctant benediction to the re-election efforts of the Democratic President. Glass and Byrd of Virginia and Smith of South Carolina are among those who did not campaign for Roosevelt in their own balliwicks. To these may now be added Clark of Missouri and Connally of Texas, who have fallen away from the Roosevelt bandwagon in the last three and a half months.

Washington observers see little chance for the breach to heal within the Democratic ranks. Senator Wheeler recently echoed the sentiments of his fellow court-oppositionists when he said that he would be extended no more postoffice patronage nor WPA grants.

Obviously such conditions are favorably to a party realignment which would favor the Republicans by adding to their ranks thousands of Democrats whose political beliefs are incompatible with those preached by the adherents of President Roosevelt.

Yet it is not among dissatisfied conservative Democrats that the Republicans will draw the voters upon which they might return to power. Disgruntled ticket, as witness the election of 1936. It is the indeterminable independent vote, numbering probably 5,000,000 voters,—the great bloc which decides each presidential election—which must furnish the force of victory for the G.O.P.

This great group swung to Roosevelt almost to the man in the last two elections, when the republicans failed to hold it as they had done in the past three elections. But it is the alienation of this group by Roosevelt boondoggling which will return the Republicans to power.

Hope for the preservation of the American state as an independent unit of our government need not vanish as long as administrative and legislative such as those enacted in Connecticut and Nebraska are undertaken.

PURMELA EX-STUDENTS

The Purmela Ex-Students met Tuesday night, April 27th, and decided to stage another play entitled, "The Black Cats." The exact date for this play will be announced at a later date. Another program of worthwhile interest will be presented soon.

Following the business meeting various games, including volley ball, furnished the diversion.

The Purmela Ex-Students Club entertained Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Weeks with a party in honor of Miss Cornelia Bertrand who has returned home from Big Springs where she has been visiting the last few months.

Refreshments were served approximately 40 club members at the conclusion of games.

MOTHER

It's the day of Homage! Mother's Day. What hardened heart, what criminal, what creature on this earth does not have a tinge of respect and adoration, when the word "Mother" is mentioned? None.

In line with the Coronation of a King and Queen in England, to whom homage will be paid by the majority of the world on May 12, Queen Mothers, on Sunday May 9, will carry more thoughts of pleasant memories and endearing moments than this aforementioned King and Queen will, with all their pomp, show and festive falsness.

Mother's Day, Sunday, May 9, will out-coronate any coronation because the thoughts of mother, besides being universal thruout every country of the civilized world, denote the down-to-earth simpler and dearer things, and not the pomp, grandeur and pageantry of a regal coronation.

Remember Mother, May 9, Sunday! She's your FRIEND.

CONFIDENCE

That must be the keynote of the newly organized civic organization. This organization is an organization of local business people, who are seeking to develop the business, civic, and social life of both Coryell county and Gatesville. Coryell county can not develop these lines without Gatesville being a part of that development, and reversing the order, developing Gatesville along these lines will, unwittingly, develop Coryell county.

Sometimes, a Chamber of Commerce (The title of the organization ONLY) is considered only an organization which is designed for the selfish development of the town or city in which it is organized. It cannot be. We are too close neighbors to all of Coryell county, and, whether we like it or not, (and we do like it) Coryell county, in its entirety is going to be directly benefited by any movement which this local civic organization attempts to foster.

Confidence is an all-coverage word. It is the explicit recognition of a movement or belief that organization of any body will help individuals concerned, directly or indirectly. Let's have Confidence in this newly organized body. They're organized for the benefit of all of us.

Twenty-five ladies were present for the study course which was conducted by Mrs. J. H. Baldridge. Delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program.

Mrs. Herman K. Henry will be hostess Tuesday, May 11 at the home of Mrs. B. D. Reynolds on East Leon street and all members are urged to be present. The time is 3 o'clock.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO MRS. ELI WILLIAMSON

Mary Josephine Sims was born in Panola County May 27, 1861. It was in this county that she spent her childhood and girlhood days, was converted and united with the Methodist church at the age of 18.

On Feb. 1, 1881 she married Eli Williamson and came to Coryell County by covered wagon in the year 1891. They first settled in Stampede Valley and from there moved to Pidcoke Village eleven years later where they lived eleven years and moved to the present home located about 2 1/2 miles west of this city. Mrs. Williamson was the mother of 12 children; 3 dying in infancy and besides her own children, a nephew, Etron Sims of Waco, was reared in this home.

Deceased is survived by her husband and the following children: B. L. of Lubbock; B. G. of Amarillo; Mrs. R. T. Stribling, Pecos; Mrs. Mae Carroll, Mrs. Roy Hayes, Holmes, Marvin, Abner, and Miss Minnie Exia, all of Gatesville; also fifteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Methodist church of this city on April 23 with her pastor, Rev. Marcus M. Chunn, officiating in the presence of friends bereaved loved ones and amidst a most beautiful floral offering dedicated to a most beautiful life.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

SALESMANSHIP is the greatest American art. It takes a genius to sell most stuff. Some guys I know can sell broken lamp chimneys for twice what they cost new, right on Broadway.

A fellow applied for a job selling toothbrushes for a jobber. "I'm the best salesman in the world," he told the jobber.

He was out a month and come back with every tooth brush unsold. "Well," he says, "I guess I ain't the best salesman in the world, exactly. I'm only second best. The guy that sold you these here rickety tooth brushes in the first place is the best in the world." (American News Features, Inc.)

Tell your friends that June 4 and 5 are Rodeo dates.

Although the Victoria, a raceful four-wheeled carriage with a high driver's seat, was popular in the southwest, it seems to have disappeared with the coming of the automobile. "Harper Scivally, Rochester, N. Y., President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has a beautiful Victoria in his famous stables," said Bernie Myer, property man. "We may be able to work out a deal with him for the use of the carriage."

The stage coach to be used in Calvacade was actually used in the early days on a route from Corpus Christi to Kingsville, Texas, and is now the property of the owners of the famous King Ranch, in Kingsville. A good-as-new buggy was found within two blocks of the Exposition grounds.

Covered wagons, and prairie schooners of the old West, are direct reproductions, as are the solid-wheeled Mexican ox-carts. The ox-carts were designed by John A. Hart.

Two Spanish Galleons, one a scale model, the other in miniature, will be built soon for the scene of Columbus discovery of the Americas. They are the most difficult problem, Meyer said.

Sixty horses, six cannon, and a Gatlin gun are also on the props list for the big show. The Gatlin gun was the first development in rapid-fire artillery, and was first used in the Spanish American war.

The gay nineties scene calls for 40 saddle horses, 20 harness horses, surreys, an open carriage, a fire engine, ox-cart, highwheel bicycles, express wagons, and three ancient automobiles. A tandem, or two-seated bicycle, also will be used in the scene which will produce the comedy angle for the show.

"We are really concerned about the Victoria carriage," said A. L. Vollmann, producer-director. "We would like to contact anyone who may have one."

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A MAN lost his wife. Her body was borne to the grave by friends and neighbors, the husband walking behind the coffin with his face set in a melancholy cast. The gate of the Churchyard was very narrow and the coffin was jarred against the gatepost. From the interior of the coffin came a hollow groan. Instantly there was a great commotion, the lid was torn off the coffin and the Doctor was sent for. As a result the wife completely recovered from the attack of catalepsy which had been mistaken for death and was restored to her husband. She lived for 10 years before dying again. Once again they bore her body to the grave, with the husband walking slowly behind. Just as they neared the graveyard he stepped forward and said to the pallbearers in a most anxious tone, "Boys, mind that gatepost." (American News Features, Inc.)

DEPARTMENT OF HOME ECONOMICS PRACTICAL COOKERY

Texas State College for Women (CIA)

Denton, April 30. From the standpoint of economy home grown crops take the lead. In the height of their season they almost entirely take the place of bought fruits on the menu, except in so far as others must be drawn upon occasionally for variety. When the crop is abundant it should be used in the fresh state in as many ways as possible. Then utilization in cooking may be resorted to if one runs out of methods to prepare the fresh fruits.

While it is often doubtful as whether it pays to buy fruit for canning there is no doubt but that the surplus of home products should be conserved by canning or by other methods of preservation.

Dried fruits give excellent values for money spent. If soaked a few hours in warm water and then cooked at a simering temperature a good grade of dried fruit can be as acceptable as stewed fresh fruits.

The juices left from canned salad fruits can be combined with a little lemon juice, diluted with water, sweetened to taste and be served as a beverage with a simple dessert. Bits of fruit and combinations of juices suitably seasoned with lemon juice or vinegar and sugar can form the basis of gelatin salads or dessert. Fruit tapicas, mock mince meat, tart fillings and sauces lend themselves to the use of combinations of odds and ends of canned, fresh, or dried fruits.

Peach Tapioca Pudding

One-half cup tapioca, one-fourth cup sugar, quarter teaspoon full salt, 1/2 can peaches, 2 tablespoon fulls powdered sugar, and boiling water. Drain the peaches, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Let stand one hour. Soak the tapioca one hr. in water cover. To the peach juice drained off all enough water to make 1 1/2 cups and heat it to the boiling point. Add the tapioca, sugar and salt and cook in a double boiler.

Chapter One

THE KISS

It is Paris and Springtime. Also it is raining in torrents. A taxicab draws up to the door of a popular cinema house, and the page boy opens the door. Inside the cab a young man is about to kiss a decidedly pretty young woman. The young man looks up in annoyance over the interruption.

"Has the rain feature started yet?" he asks.

"No sir," the page boy answers. "You're just in time."

The young man settles back in the taxi, and closes the door. "Drive on!" he says.

A few minutes later the cab returns. The page boy opens the door and again surprises the young man in the same attitude of being about to kiss the decidedly pretty young woman.

"Well," the young man says, "has it started?"

The page boy blinked. "Er . . .

balcony scene, with the lover climbing to where the picture blonde is awaiting him. This pleases Philippe.

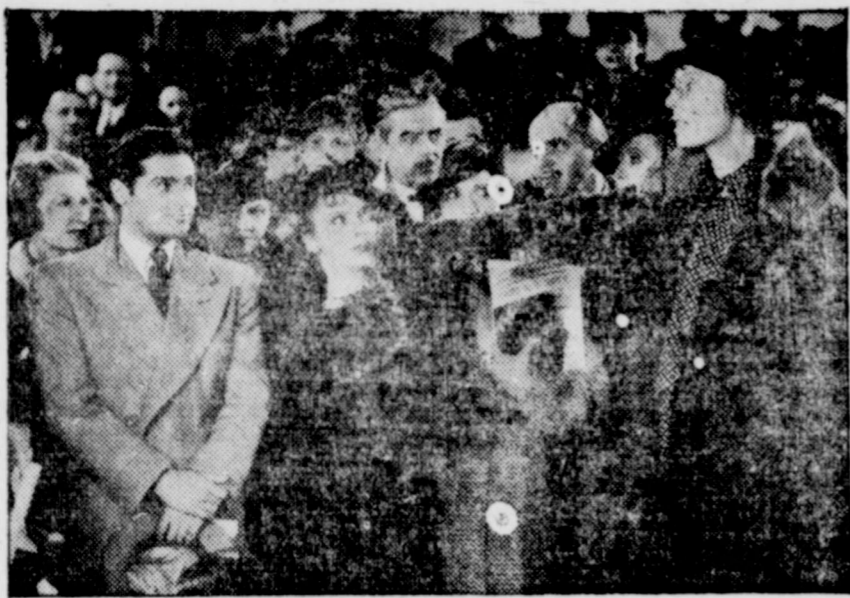

"In America," he explains, "they always make love on balconies—out of doors."

The girl next to him shrinks further away, and contemplates changing her seat.

"Let's see the program," Philippe says, and snatches it out of the astonished girl's hands.

On the screen the balcony climb is completed, and the two picture lovers fall into each other's arms.

"At last!" cries Philippe, thoroughly delighted. And carried away by the inspiration, he turns impulsively in his seat, draws the girl beside him into his arms, and before she can utter a sound, he kisses her. It is a long kiss, and the girl can do nothing but endure it in silence. The instant his arms loosen, however, she slaps him full in the face. It is quite a slap. It is questionable which Philippe will remember the longest, the kiss or the slap. The sound of it resounds not quite. You can still make it." "Drive on!"

Again the cab returns and again the scene is repeated.

"Well," says the young man. "Has it started?"

But this time the page boy shakes his head. "Now you're too late. The picture has been on for three minutes."

"Good," says the young man, and he and the young lady get out of the cab. The page boy shakes his head in complete bewilderment.

This strange occurrence which so mystified the page boy has a perfectly simple explanation. The young man is Philippe Martin, an actor, gay, handsome, and a little too susceptible to beauty and romance. He has been carrying on a mild flirtation with Yvonne, the young wife of the Minister of Justice. Yvonne enjoys the flirtation, but is nervous. She will accompany him to the cinema only when the picture has started and the house is darkened. Philippe is beginning to sigh for the day when he saw a picture at the beginning and stay until the end.

Philippe buys two tickets but they enter the theatre separately, Yvonne going first, and being escorted alone to her seat. It is then Philippe's cue to take the reserved loge seat beside her. On this occasion, however, there is a slight disarrangement of his plan. Yvonne's seat is No. 68; Philippe has No. 66. He holds his ticket upside down, and the usherette escorts him to loge seat No. 99. All unconscious of the error, Philippe settles himself comfortably beside a young lady, mistaking her in the darkness for Yvonne. For a few minutes he gives his attention to the picture, a Hollywood importation. But nothing can hold Philippe's attention for long. He turns to the girl beside him.

"I hate blondes," he says vehemently. The girl draws away from him nervously. She is a blonde.

On the screen there is a romantic through the house, and creates considerable excitement. Philippe and the girl rise in their seats: the girl incoherent with rage.

"You . . . you!" she sputters. Why this is . . . How dare you!"

Philippe is suddenly aware that she is not Yvonne.

"Mademoiselle," he begs. "I thought . . . I . . . I . . ."

"I don't care what you thought," says the young lady. "It's what you did!"

The house now is in an uproar. The screen goes dark; the lights flash on. Members of the audience crowd around Philippe and the girl. A lady inquires solicitously of her: "Did he try to steal your bag?"

"That . . . that creature kissed me!"

The audience is Parisian and liberal. A roar goes up, and there are cries of "Bravo! Encore!" On this good-humored note the matter might have ended, but in the audience is an iron-jawed lady. President of the Society for the Protection of Public Morals. She sends for the police.

The girl—she is Monique Perelin, daughter of the publisher of the influential "Morning Journal"—has by this time had enough of the matter. She wanted no scene in the first place, and she is prepared to accept Philippe's rather airy apology and call it quits. But Madame President is adamant. If a fiend can so brutally assault a young girl in a public place, then no man's daughter is safe. Not only is the sanctity of young Parisian womanhood in danger; the safety of the Republic itself is threatened.

The gendarme arrives, and on Madame President's insistence, takes the names of the parties concerned. In their excitement, Monique and Philippe give their correct names and addresses.

"I carry on," warns Madame President, "for the sake of all womankind."

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, April 30. Those who see Texas in the future as a great manufacturing state could well consider the potentialities of the woolen industry.

Leading the entire union in the production of wool, this state has to ship the whole output to New England for manufacturing and marketing. And $750,000 is the price Texas pays annually to get its wool marketed there.

A large increase in wool production over the past twenty years in Texas and small portions of East Texas are engaged in sheep raising.

Increase in quantity has been accompanied by an increase in quality of Texas sheep. The fine Rambouillet variety are principally raised in the Edwards plateau section today, and in North and East Texas are a few Shropshire and Hampshire breeds. These three have entirely replaced the Merinos brought in by the Mexicans in the early years of Texas history.

The industry is highly concentrated in the Edwards plateau region, extending west of Austin and beyond the Pecos. Only a few other sections, including the plains, North Cen-

Uncle Jim Says

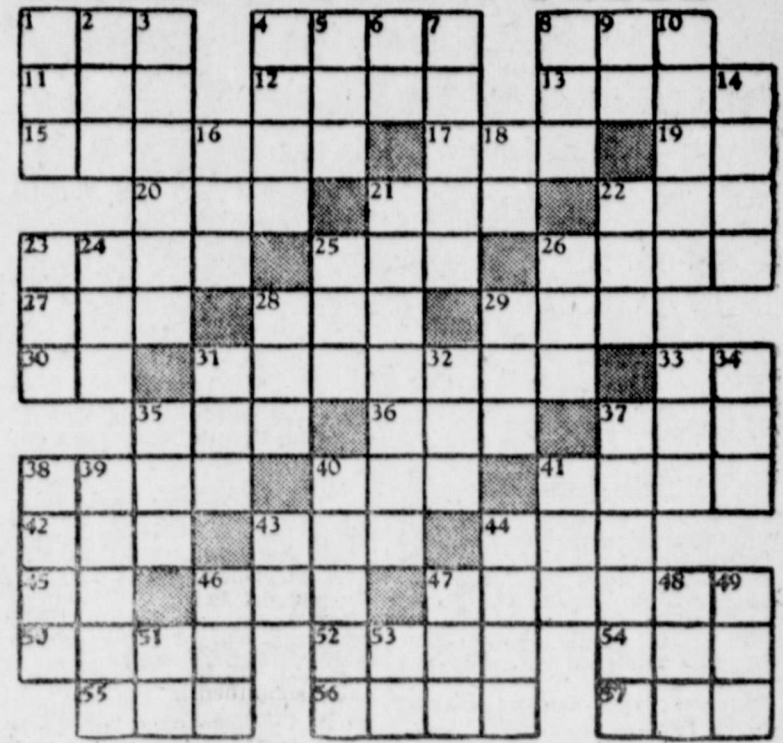

"Phosphates make pastures produce more on most any farm."

The most commonly known deficiencies in Texas pastures are generally phosphorus, humus and nitrogen. These deficiencies not only result in a lowered yield of forage and an increase of undesirable grasses, but in a lowered mineral content in all plants. In other words, if a soil is lacking in phosphorus, the grasses will not only make less growth, but animals grazing the pasture will not get enough phosphates for their needs.

Barnyard manure at the rate of eight tons an acre, and usually applied in the fall, will give good results in most pastures. Since manure is strong in nitrogen and weak in phosphorus, it should be supplemented with superphosphates.

Superphosphates alone may be the most profitable, because it costs less than the other mineral fertilizers and encourages growth of legumes, which in turn pro-

Big Progress in Chick Care and Feeding Since 1900

Weight at 6 Weeks Increased 150%; Livability Almost Doubled.

Tremendous progress has been made in poultry raising the past three decades. Both in chick feeding, and in chick management have new and important discoveries been made.

Before 1900, chicks hatched out into a world where bugs, worms, weed seeds, corn bread, rolled oats, table scraps and clabber were the chief starting feeds. Only the strongest had a chance to live. They were hatched and brooded under hens. More than half died before they were six weeks old and those that did live seldom weighed more than a pound at six weeks.

In 1900, commercial scratch feeds for chicks were first placed on the market. Chicks fed these feeds showed an improvement over those on the "bug diet." In 1904, a leading feed manufacturer brought out a laying mash for hens, which many poultrymen used as a starting feed. Although not intended for them, chicks came through the six weeks starting period far more satisfactorily on this feed. Sixty-five per cent of them lived, with an average growth of three-quarters of a pound at six weeks.

Alfalfa Meal Added

The addition of alfalfa meal to the laying mash fed baby chicks was one of the important innovations of 1915. The same feed manufacturer who had brought out the first laying mash pioneered alfalfa meal, a vegetative source of minerals, vitamins and proteins.

Research workers now turned their attention to the problem of preventing rickets in young chicks. This leg weakness which sent many chicks to an early grave, could be prevented. It was found, if enough vitamin D was included in the starting ration. Good grades of cod liver oil provided this necessary vitamin. In 1922, cod liver oil became one of the standard ingredients in chick feed. The addition of cod liver oil greatly simplified brooding since an abundance of vitamin D in the starting feed eliminated the necessity of keeping chicks in the sunshine to absorb vitamin D from the sun's rays.

80% Livability with Startena

A red-letter year in chick history came in 1922 when startena, a special mash feed made to fit the nutritional needs of baby chicks, was put on the market. Although somewhat inadequate judged by the standards of 1937, startena was a decided improvement over any feed up to that time. By feeding startena, chick raisers found that livability could be stepped up to 80 per cent, and the weight at six weeks increased to seven-eighths of a pound—almost double what chicks had weighed previous to 1900.

But there were still other valuable discoveries to be made. In 1928, soy bean meal, a rich source of protein, was added to checkerboard startena, and chicks did even better than before.

The year 1930 saw the appearance of all-mash startena, a complete, all-in-one starting feed that solved the problem of what to feed baby chicks. Almost every nutritional need of the chick was met in this new all-mash starter. Only ten per cent died, and at six weeks birds averaged one pound.

Disease Cut Down

Since 1930, progress has been even more rapid. Feeding, breeding, and management have been tremendously stepped up. Improved incubation has resulted in stronger chicks. Improved brooders have greatly helped livability. Chicks today have every opportunity to live, compared to the chicks of thirty years ago who chilled in drafty houses or followed their mothers around in damp grass. Efficient sanitation agents have been very helpful in keeping surroundings and drinking and feeding troughs clean. Disease and infection have been cut down.

Since 1931, all minerals that go into startena have been carefully balanced so that chicks get exactly the right amounts for best development. Proteins were synchronized in 1932, and the texture improved. Since 1934, ingredients going into checkerboard startena have been biologically tested for growth. The net results of balanced minerals, synchronized proteins, balanced texture and bio-testing of ingredients was 93 per cent livability, bigger bones and better feathering, and an average weight of one and one-eighth pounds at six weeks.

Puratene, Pro-Vitamin A, Added

What a feast grandmother's chicks would have on today's startena! In 1935 one of the most sensational and important announcements in animal nutrition was made by Purina research workers. A rich pro-vitamin A concentrate called puratene, which, it was found, could be profitably utilized as an ingredient in poultry mashes, was announced to the poultry world. The addition of puratene was found to produce smooth plumage and healthier pullets. Chicks fed on mashes fortified with puratene are guaranteed all the vitamin A they need for bodily requirements. As a result, livability at the present has been stepped up to 95 per cent and the weight at six weeks to a pound and one-quarter. The addition of puratene (vitamin A) to chick feed means better and faster growth.

World Comment—

Recently space was devoted in this column to proposals of Connecticut's governmental reorganization committee for revamping of the State's administrative machinery.

Among these was a proposal to unify all departments of the state government in a cabinet under the direct supervision of the governor. The Connecticut Assembly last week passed a reorganization bill embodying this proposal, authorizing the governor to centralize the government in a cabinet composed of his eleven administrative heads. The Senate has yet to act upon the bill.

The House also has passed measures establishing a State civil service and creating a legislative research body. Pending is a program which would overhaul the State's fiscal system.

Texas voters and lawmakers might well take into account the reorganization experiments in other states.

Nebraskans are extending the sign of approval to their forty-three member, one-house legislature, which has effected a saving of fifty per cent in expenses for the legislative branch of their government.

Now Connecticut enacts a series of acts designed to improve the general efficiency of the administrative branch by placing responsibility in a cabinet composed of the administrative heads, and by providing for needed coordination in state planning through a legislative research body. State civil service is another reform needed in Texas State government.

as State government. Texas solons are not in the mood for reform of their patchwork government, last week declined to risk their jobs by submitting to the people a constitutional amendment providing for a unicameral legislature on the Nebraska plan. Such a motion was defeated last week. Yet, if Nebraska's experiment with a unicameral legislature proves a success over a period of years, Austin's lawmakers will hear more of the one-house legislature.
