Earl Huddleston Thinks Legislature Should End Labors Soon as Possible

At this writing it is difficult to say whether Legislation will close May 11 or not, this day closes the four month session.

It seems like this Legislature has been confronted with more difficult problems than any other session I have attended. I have endeavored ever since I have been your representative to attend to matters as quickly as possible in order to save the tax payers from extra expense. The House has passed several revenue measures and has sent the same to the Senate. So far as I can see, the most important measures affecting the people's interest have been fairly well taken care of. However, as most of you know from reading the papers and from the Governor's statements, the Senate has refused to act on practically all measures sent over by the House. My position is that these issues should have been made by members of the Senate and acted on. Everyone knows that we must have some extra revenue to take care of running our state government, including the care of our old people. I think the House passed reasonable measures which would take care of these, with this exception, I do not believe enough was allowed to take care of the aged people. I am in favor of submitting a constitutional amendment to the people, with provision in it to provide revenue for these measures, but so far the House has not done this. I am not trying to make any liabilities for what the Legislature has done or has not done but I am willing for the people to investigate my record on these questions. I believe a representative owes it to his people to represent them fairly and honestly. This I have tried to do, as in all other sessions.

I will have something to say later as to the stand I have taken on certain issues, which have been before the Legislature affecting our people.

—Earl Huddleston.

TRUE-VALUE WEEK IS ON AT R. E. POWELL HARDWARE

Hundreds of stores thruout the nation similar in position to R. E. Powell's of Gatesville are having their TrueValue Week from May 7 to 15, and this widespread co-operative effort is making it possible to offer these needs for every household, farm, and shop at enormous saving to the public. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., a great Chicago wholesale firm is behind these stores, in their nation-wide merchandising and marketing plan, and by their co-operative purchases, merchandise of highest quality is marked down to astonishingly low prices.

Miss Mary Lou Hall, who will be remembered by many of our people as a former school teacher here, was a visitor in Gatesville Sunday.

GV. RODEO PRESS SAYS "EVER'THIN'S READY"

"Rodeo" Bob Saunders, kingfish of the Greater Gatesville Rodeo and Home-Coming, scheduled for June 4 and 5, stated yesterday in a special interview that everything was ready, and in words of compress cotton hustlers "Let Somepin' Come!"

The die is cast! The arena is smoothed off, sanded for the flying cowboys! The thrill thirsty throng is in throes of agony awaiting the announcer's balatant chant, which will mark the opening of Gatesville's 1937 Model Rodeo! What a show! Will the wonders never cease!

Even J. H. Jones, concessionaire, has his ideas about the hot dogs, weiers, soda pop, peanuts, and all those other items which are an absolute necessity at an attraction of this sort.

Appearing everywhere are the placards carrying the news of this occasion, rivaled only by the coronation of George VI and his Queen, Elizabeth, n Wednesday this week, where pageantry and pomp are uppermost.

Soon to appear are other reminders of this extravaganza which will be circulars and then, too, windshield stickers appeared Saturday marking the date, and telling of the big events to come.

Begin now and mark your calendars for June 4 and 5 when citizens of Coryell County will meet Gatesville for the biggest event in years.

GATESVILLE PEOPLE RECEIVE INJURIES IN CAR AND MOTORCYCLE JAMS

Six occupants of a '36 Chevrolet sedan belonging to Mrs. Ira Franks and driven by T. K. O'Neal of Waco, formerly of this city, suffered many injuries when the car collided with a car belonging to Melvin Booker of Caradon, driven by his son, at a cross road near Energy, a little town about 15 miles west of Hamilton on the Comanche Hiway at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mrs. Ira Franks suffered a broken nose and minor injuries; her husband and two children, Mrs. O'Neal of Waco and husband the driver, and Deam Franks of Killen were other occupants of the car and received only slight bruises. The occupants of the car wife and two sons, received minor injuries.

Mrs. Franks was taken to a physician in Hamilton where she received immediate attention. The party was enroute to Comanche to visit Mr. Franks' mother who is ill.

Cyclist Injured

James Marion Hair (Sonny), popular Soda skeet of this city, while motoring toward the State Juvenile Training School on his motorcycle Saturday afternoon at about five o'clock suffered injuries on right leg along the knee cap and received cuts and bruises on right arm. The front tire blew out, causing the machine to swerve to one side, pinning Hair underneath. He received immediate medical attention and is able to be back on duty.

"NEWS" INTERNATIONALLY KNOWN AS WELL AS ADVERTISERS

In the June issue of "Ad-Tips," aid to advertisers, which is a feature of the Stanton Super Service advertising service used by the News, a photographic copy is carried of our "Business and Professional" column, with this notation: "Here's how the Gatesville (Texas) Coryell County News puts punch in the ads used by the small space advertisers. Small illustrations from each issue of Stanton Super Service "touch up" ads for firms that might ordinarily use only the classified columns . . . and the results more than justify the slightly increased space."

We'll break down and admit we're very well pleased at this good fortune of ours, since Stanton Super Service is used by newspapers in nearly every country on this globe and thruout the entire United States.

In thanking the advertisers for their patronage, we'll give them a little "break" and name the ones who got this "international publicity," at our regular Business and Professional Rate. They are in order: Dr. Baker, Mrs. C. Bauman, C. H. McGilvray, Mrs. J. B. Graves, Robert Stout, City Barber Shop, West Side Wrecking Shop, Jackson & Compton, Wicker's Watch Shop, Dr. Elizabeth Green, Harry Flentge, B. M. Wollard Saunderson-Carlton Flower Shop, J. M. Pancake, Help Yourself Laundry, N. 19th street, and Gamblin's Dairy.

Lutterloh avenue and East Main street Saturday.

Operated by the famous chef, "Doc" of Doc's Sandwich Shop, "Doc's Dainty Delicacies" will include malted milks, ice creams, sodas, sandwiches, and his internationally famous "Poor-Boy Sandwiches," and — well, just "name your tonic."

PECULIAR LADY WANTS A SHINY TEAM INSTEAD OF SHINY CAR

(From Copperas Cove Crony) Are the good old days gone? Do you long for the days when you could find a hitching post for Dobbin when you came to town on Saturday, and had the assurance you could drive home again without the wagon blowing out a tire?

Well, why don't you do something about it?

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Vann have.

Mrs. Vann is not yet convinced that automobiles are successful enough for her to drive one. Also she has found that the steady pull of a team will get her into town with the certainty of the powerful roar of an automobile motor. And if she cares to doze while driving home she has still more certainty she will go home instead of into a ditch.

So, after a great deal of investigation, Mr. and Mrs. Vann have found and ordered a brand new surrey! It will be delivered in a few days.

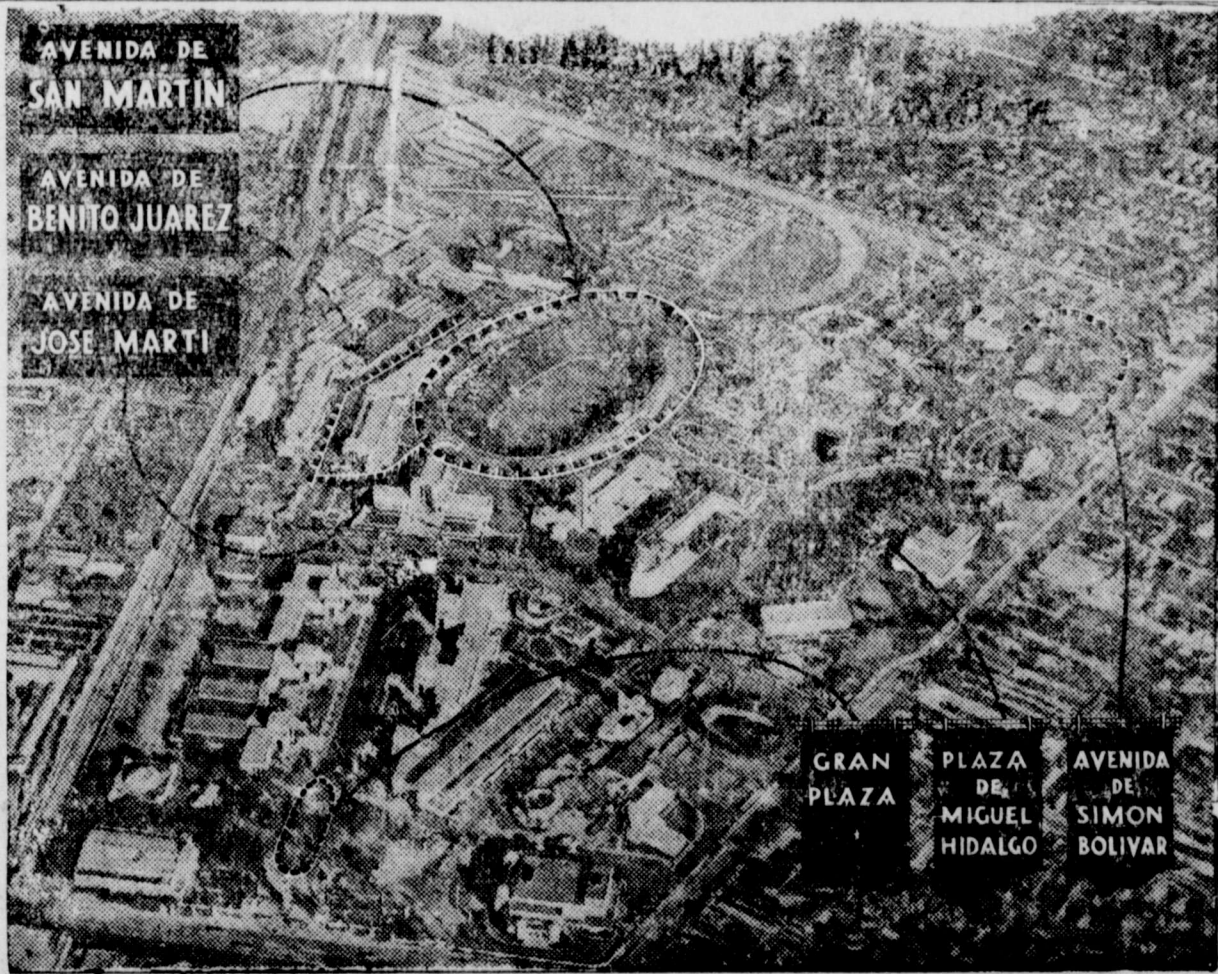

In the meantime, Louis Behrens has sold the first lumber in his career to be used in the construction of a buggy shed.

And Mrs. Vann can drive where she pleases without having to worry about the newfangled gasoline carriages—they won't even scare her horses.

COPPERAS COVE URGES MORE BUILDINGS

More houses for incoming citizens is being urged by citizens of Copperas Cove, and also it is pointed out by public spirited citizens of "The Cove" that a tourist camp is badly needed to take care of people traveling on the highway which connects Copperas Cove, Belton and Lampasas.

Copperas Cove citizens, in their thoughtfulness are anticipating a needed improvement, which

Evidently, the entire state knows now, just who's in charge at the State Juvenile Training School.

Superintendent Earl Nesbitt has made "the headline" consistently for the past three weeks or a month, thru no fault of his, and with no good results. Some members of the legislature have also "grabbed a little notoriety," we'd call it, by the "putting on the spot" of the local institution's superintendent.

Of course, people locally were not "up in the air"
about the purported conditions at the State Juvenile Training School being a "disgrace" or "deplorable," and consequently little interest was manifest in the "publicity" grabbing by some of the "investigators."

Needless to say, the incident is closed, as we expected when it first broke in the headlines, and Superintendent E.
H. Nesbitt and his co-workers will continue their routine duties of careful, constructive care of the boys of the institution who are in many instances the "victims" of hastily made laws, and hastier decisions of courts all over the state.

It seems the Legislature would stop its "week-end" trips and settle down to some constructive legislation. They have been, or a part of them, to Texas Tech, Gainesville, Gatesville, El Paso, San Jacinto Battle Monument, Houston, and a number of other trips, instead of doing what voters pay them for, that is turning out just a few laws that would "hold water," and benefit the state a little.

Even the Governor has been harrassing them to get busy and do something, but no avail, and they are making the Uni-cameral Legislature more of a certainty than ever by their continued dilly-dallying, and there'll be a lot less jobs for legislative "brains" than ever, if this comes to pass.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. DEATH RIDES THE WINGS IN THRILL HIT, "CRACK-UP" AT PALACE THURS.

A powerful fast-paced, thrill-filled melodrama of daring American flyers matching wits and courage with an international spy ring, "Crack-Up," the Twentieth Century-Fix picture which opens Thursday at the Palace Theatre, maintains its suspense from the opening scenes right to the exciting and tensely dramatic climax.

A giant air ship is being christened by Ralph Morgan its man-flyer who will pilot it, Thomas Beck, his co-pilot, and Peter Lorre, crippled half-wit and mascot of the airfield, Donlevy, the hired tool of a spy ring, tells Beck, who idolizes him, that the manufacturer from whom Helen Wood, Beck's sweetheart, is secretary has stolen the plans of a propeller from him.

Enraged at his seeming injustice, Beck visits Helen that night at her office and, without her knowledge, steals the plans from her files. Morgan learns that his wife loves his partner. Heartbroken, he hops off at midnight on a Trans-Atlantic flight with Donlevy and Beck. Early the following day the plans are missed. After questioning Helen, investigators are certain the plans are on the plane. Lorre, a stowaway on the plane, appears and says he is the spy to whom Donlevy was to sell the plans. Over the radio comes a frantic message from Helen to Beck, telling him how he has been tricked.

Beck tries to kill Donlevy, just as the plane crashes in mid-ocean. Lorre joins in the savage fight for the plans, but Beck gets them, just as a liner is sighted from the rapidly sinking plane. Subsequent scenes build up to a

"Buying Good Feed Is Cheaper Than Buying Good Cows"

Milk Cows High and Hard to Find at Present Time.

"Feeding a good dairy ration is a lot cheaper than buying good cows," says D. H. Van Pelt, dairy authority with Purina Mills, "especially in a year like this when dairy cows have increased almost 100 per cent in value over 1932 and 1933 prices. Dairy rations, on the other hand, show a price rise of only about 30 to 35 per cent, and hay about 25 per cent."

Summarizing the conditions of 1932 and 1933 Van Pelt says, "Dairy cows brought extremely low prices in those years in comparison to the cost of their development. Prices ranged from forty to sixty dollars. Milk prices were on the same level, ranging as low as ninety cents per hundred and seldom higher than $2.50. Feed prices showed similar trends, with good rations averaging about $35 per ton at retail. Hay averaged about $15 per ton."

Upward Trend in 1933

"The curve started upward in the fall of '33. All commodity prices stiffened slightly, and in general, everything pointed to a return of healthy exchange. Laborers began to find work and in consequence had more money to spend. Food consumption increased, thereby creating a greater demand for milk and milk products.

Cow prices have doubled since 1932-33; dairy feed prices have risen only a third.

"Fortunately this upward trend has been maintained. Today the outlook is greatly improved over what it was in '32 and '33," Van Pelt says. "Cow prices at present range from $90 to $125—and good ones hard to find. Milk prices vary from $1.50 per hundred pounds up to $3, depending on use and market. Dairy feeds run around $45 per ton, with hays bringing about $20 for the same grade that sold at $15 a ton a few years ago.

Milk Cows Profitable Now

"Quite a different outlook from the bleak years of '32 and '33 when profits were almost an impossibility," Van Pelt comments. "Today there are definite profits to be made in dairying, provided the dairyman thoroughly understands the problems confronting him. Besides watching prices on feeds, animals, and milk, the good dairyman must devote a great deal of consideration to the care of his herd."

Dry Cows Important

"The most important cow in the herd is the dry cow, and yet it is during this period that she is most universally neglected," according to Van Pelt. "Research shows that during the dry or preparation period dairymen have the best opportunity of developing a sound foundation for the entire lactation period that follows. The proper length for this period is about 8 weeks for a mature cow, and a little longer for the first calf heifer—10 or even 12 weeks. Eight weeks is necessary for the mature cow," the Purina dairy authority says, "because a cow carries a calf for nine months, develops 38 per cent of it in the first seven months and then hustles up and finishes the other 62 per cent in the last two months. During this period her body reserve or energy must be built up to a par with the indicated milking ability of the cow.

Loss Must Be Rebuilt

"Cows are susceptible to costly cow troubles immediately following freshening because at that time they may not have the strength and vitality to build up resistance, and may easily fall victim to the disease carrier of the herd. A large cow in calving shrinks from 130 to 150 pounds. The following three days she should regain 12 to 18 pounds of that weight. But unless the dairyman makes special feeding provisions for her she may shrink 70 to 90 pounds more in the next three months.

"Everything that a cow loses in calving cannot be immediately rebuilt," Van Pelt points out, "but a refill with good feeds will help to prevent so drastic a shrinkage as to weaken the cow."

(Editor's Note: The local merchant handling Purina feeds will be glad to supply dairy farmers with a bulletin describing in detail the complete dairy feeding and management program recommended by Purina Mills. There is no charge.)

FOUR-LETTER MAN

Lloyd Russell, recently elected assistant coach at Baylor University, is playing his last season in the Green and Gold Spangles of that institution.

Russell, for three years, has been one of the most outstanding athletes in the Southwestern conference football, basketball, track and baseball have occupied his time during his four years at Baylor, but in addition to them he has made a good scholastic record.

Russell first gained recognition in the sporting world with his crooning signal calling, dodging would-be tacklers and singing "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" at the same time. Since then he went forward in the pigskin world, until last fall, when he led the conference scoring with a total of 48 points.

Russell has made such a record on the baseball team at his shortstop position that he is a prospect for the major leagues, and is due for a trial with one of the big clubs after his graduation this spring.

"It's De Nertz! Nobody To Fight," States the Killer in an Interview

Killer Rutherford is growing impatient. That look of mayhem that was in his eye two weeks ago is still there, only twice as blood-curdling now. His manager is growing apprehensive. "If de Killer don't get a bout soon, I'm afraid he's going amuck, he whispered fearfully to our stool-pigeon the other day. (When questions as to meaning of amuck, he replied that he didn't know what it meant but it sounded pretty bad.)

The Killer has advanced the theory that as he has had no offers to do battle lately then all the local pugilists must be too cautious to risk life and limb in the squared circle with him. We have scoffed the idea. We have quoted the noble statement, "Breaths there a man with soul so dead, in the realm of Coryell who ne'er hath said, "Give me a swing with my good right hand, and I ain't askeered of no ape man."

Easy to Teach Baby Calves to Eat Dry Feed

Task Is Simple After Calf Gets First Taste.

Dairymen who visit the Purina Experimental Farm always remark on the well developed calves raised at the farm and question the men in the calf barn how calves can be taught to eat dry feed at such an early age.

"Getting the calf started on dry feed is really a simple task and does not require a great deal of time," says W. R. Arends, calf raising authority with Purina Mills. "When the calf is four days old the feeder should allow it to suck his fingers for a few moments to start the flow of saliva in the calf's mouth. While his fingers are moist the feeder should dip them into calf startena and again let the calf suck them. Thus the calf gets his first taste of dry feed.

Drop Feed Into Calf's Mouth

"The next step is to hold the calf's head up, open its mouth and put a little calf startena on its tongue.

The feeder should drop a little dry feed into the calf's mouth.

The calf starts chewing immediately and is then well started on dry feed," Arends says. Finally, the calf's head should be guided into the feeder containing the calf startena, so that thereafter it will know where to find dry feed."

No Milk After First Month

By the time the calf is a month old no milk at all is needed because the calf's complete needs are taken care of by the calf startena, hay, water, and a little salt. This eliminates all bothersome work with gruels and bucket feeding, and actually gives the calf a more complete and nourishing feed than milk alone can supply. Milk is about 87 per cent water which means that a gallon of milk weighing eight and two-thirds pounds contains little more than a pound of solid feed. A growing calf needs more solid feed than can possibly be consumed in milk alone. Feeding calf startena, hay, water, and salt along with milk the first four weeks, and then cutting out milk completely and putting the calf entirely on dry feed, eliminates the danger of scours caused by feeding too much milk.

Calf Raising Book Available

A vest pocket book on calf raising is available, without charge, at any feed store where Purina Chows are sold. It answers such questions as what the baby calf needs; when to start dry feed; how long milk should be fed; teaching the calf the easy way; calf costs; money-maker heifers; scours and dehorning; and preparing calves for the show ring.

Pan American Fair Traces Mexico's Mails Back Through Centuries to Indian Runners

PAN AMERICA, Dallas, Texas. —From the days when Aztec runners carried hieroglyphs of tribal chieftains to Montezuma and emperors before him, through the centuries down to today's super-efficient postal system of Mexico, the means of communications below the Rio Grande will be shown in an exhibit planned as part of the Mexican participation in the Pan American Exposition at Dallas.

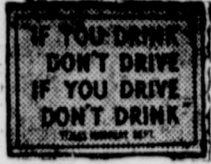

Mexico's Postmaster General Alfonso Gomez Morentin

Postmaster General Alfonso Gomez Morentin of Mexico has not committed his government definitely to the idea. In a recent visit with Director General Frank L. McNeny of Pan America, however, he described the plan he has for portraying an intriguing story; how the mail has gone through between Mexico City and points outlying from the capital since the days when it was Tenochtitlan.

Long before European governments first thought of systemized postal service, the Incas and Aztecs had a runner system of carrying their cochineal-dyed writings on silk and maguey fibers about official business of empires that flourished before the Golden Age of Greece.

In Montezuma's reign, communications had developed to the stage that, when Cortez landed his conquistadores at Vera Cruz the news was transmitted in less than twenty-four hours to the emperor at the capital, 200 miles away.

The mails from Spain and how they were carried, how mail was speeded up when the horse was introduced as a new and faster beast of burden and developments from the very start of the Mexican national government are on record as part of a treasured collection in the postoffice department at Mexico City.

CORONATION

GEORGE VI AND QUEEN ELIZABETH

What's all the fuss about these two being crowned King and Queen of the British Empire?

Simply because the two figure-heads represent the voice of 495,456,000 souls under the English Flag, a dominion on which the sun never sets. A dominion of the small matter of 13,355,526 square miles of territory. To make these figures more impressive the sparsely settled United States has a population of 122,775,046 in an area of 3,026,780, according to the latest figures.

Now, George VI and his Queen Elizabeth are to be crowned May 12, Wednesday, as the governing heads of this great country; the greatest governmental organization in the whole universe.

This is the reason so much stress is being given to this event which, by the way, probably no person living will live to see or hear of it happening again. It will be the "greatest show on earth," and literally ALL eyes will be focussed on "Old Blighty," on Wednesday of this week.

We urge you to read your newspapers, use your radio, and hear and read all about this momentous occasion that you possibly can. It's history at your very back door! History in the making. It makes you realize just what Wally's Eddie turned down for her! And from recent press dispatches, it seems Old Staid England and the royalty there are softening to this decision.

History will be made this week! Focus your attention.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

The first four months of the first session of the seventy-fifth congress have virtually been lost as a result of the proposal for enlarging the Supreme Court. No constructive legislation such as planned by the administration leaders early in January and such as could have been enacted by the top-heavy Democratic congressional majorities has been passed with the exception of the neutrality bill. Prior to the court reorganization bill, that was proposed February 5, only routine appropriation bills and minor legislation were discussed and passed by Congress.

This session of congress was really the first since Roosevelt was first inaugurated that has had an opportunity to deal with reform measures, unhampered by the economic crisis. But this opportunity has been lost by the upheaval and confusion which came out of the court bill. Likely it will be July before final consideration is given the court bill before both houses, and by the legislators will be anxious to leave the sultry heat of Washington for more pleasant surroundings. Next session congressmen's minds will be directed toward reelection efforts.

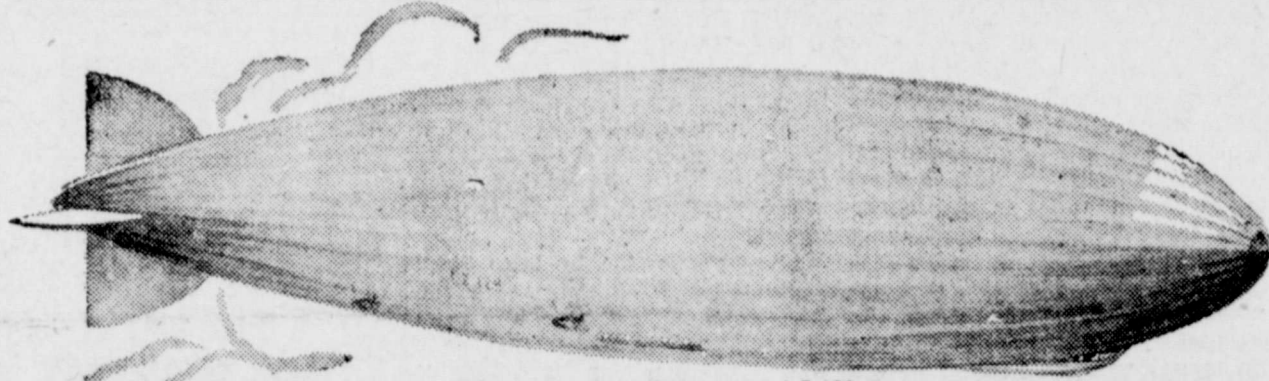

At least three important problems could have been disposed of this session. In January President Roosevelt proposed reorganization of the executive departments of the government. Many of his proposals were worthy of the serious consideration of the congress, and while not effecting need economies, would have improved the general efficiency of this branch. Yet little thought has been given these proposals since the fateful February 5.

Minimum wage and maximum hour legislation is another problem deserving of consideration in congress, yet the stalemate of the legislation in this field.

The neutrality bill deserves no better classification than stop-gap legislation. While undoubtedly an improvement over its predecessor, it is not an effective bar against embroilment of this country in future war. While no absolute bar may be set up, legislation creating more effective bars

Just completed a year ago, the LZ-129, which was named the Hindenburg, and called the "Queen of the Skies," sailed from her Friedrichshafen home May 6, last year for Lakehurst, New Jersey on her maiden trip over the blustery North Atlantic, arriving some three days later.

May 6, 1937, she burned at her

Before her maiden voyage to North America, she had made several trial flights at Friedrichshafen, and a couple of trips across the balmy South Atlantic to South America.

SUPERINTENDENT AND THE INSTITUTION ARE EXONORATED

Austin, May 7. A house committee which investigated the boys' training school at Gatesville today completed a report saying members were "agreeably surprised" and considered the institution as operated "a credit to this state."

May 1, 1937

In spite of the fact that possible means of effecting economies in governments expenditures, or at least means of giving the appearance of effecting economies continued to hold the spot-light during the past week, the House passed two large appropriation bills; the first being the Second Deficiency Bill which carried an appropriation of eighty-three million dollars. This was a saving of approximately seventeen million dollars from the budget estimate and I think was a good example of what can be done in the way of cutting appropriations if Congress will actually cut. We did not do so well, however, yesterday in the passage of the War Department appropriation bill, which carried four hundred and sixteen million dollars. This was only three hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars below the budget estimate or practically no cut at all. It is true that the bill contained some very necessary appropriations for the National guard and the reserve force which made reduction difficult, but it also provides for an increase in the personnel of the standing Army of as much as nine thousand men and it seemed to me that a saving should have been made here. There is no doubt in my mind but what this government should maintain a first-class Navy, air force and coast guard, but I think that our army should be merely a skeleton organization around which to build a great citizen's army in case we were attacked. It is necessary of course to make provisions to arm and equip such a war time force and to officer same from men trained in the National Guard and the reserve Force. It does not however, seem to me advisable to increase the number of enlisted men in the standing army and I think that this is one place where Congress did not effect the economy that it should have.

I am still hopeful about a reduction in governmental expenses, but this week has brought to light a number of interesting maneuvers intended, as I see it, more to create the idea of governmental economy than to effectuate it. Among such devices is the much talked of fifteen per cent impoundment. I look upon this as a purely political subterfuge. It would require the appropriation of all of the money covered by the appropriation bills. No money would be saved unless the President saw fit to reduce some activity of some department. He has that power now. The present appropriation bills are nothing more than authorizations to the Departments to spend a given amount of money. In other words, if the Commerce Department is authorized to spend one hundred million dollars, it can employ say one-hundred thousand people. If the President sees fit to have it employ only fifty thousand people he can do so under the present law and save one half of the appropriation and that is all that he could do under the fifteen per cent impoundment provision, except that he could, I take it, make a fifteen per cent cut in wages. I do not think that this would be advisable and if this is not intended there would not be any reason for the impoundment other than to fool the people into thinking that we are effecting a fifteen per cent saving. The only way we will effect a saving is not to send the money. I think the best way to do this is for the Appropriation Committee to make cuts as they did in the Deficiency Bill. If they will not do this it may become necessary for Congress to make a horizontal cut of say ten per cent on all bills, but I hope that we will not be forced to do this.

The House and Senate finally agreed on a Neutrality Bill, which was sent to the President at Galveston by special airplane for his signature. The bill gives the President wide powers to prevent Americans from engaging in trade with belligerents so as to jeopardize or neutral position. I think it is a splendid step in the right direction. Another evidence of the desire to keep the United States out of war is the Anti-War Profits Bill, which receive a favorable report from the House Committee on Military Affairs this week. This bill will confiscate all profits from munitions manufacturing during war times. Personally, I am in favor of its provisions, but would like to make it go further and apply to every species of increases profits during war time.

JONESBORO W.M.S. MEETS

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent in the home of Mrs. Melvin Watson, Tuesday, May 4 when she entertained the W.M.S. on their regular meeting date. An interesting program was given on the subject of "Mother's Day." The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Melvin Watson, followed by a song, "The Old Time Religion," then the scripture lesson selected from Exodus 20 by Mrs. P. H. Drake. The prayer was lead by Mrs. W. T. McBride followed by a reading "Mother's Day" by Mrs. W. J. Watson; "Mother's Influence," by Sybil Walsh; "Since Mother Went Away," given by Mrs. L. P. Foster Sr. "Only God Can Give Us Mother's" by Mrs. Melvin Watson; Special song, "My Mother's Book," sung by Mrs. Ema Drake and Miss Margaret Rutherford and closing prayer by Mrs. Mable Jones.

The social hour conducted by Mrs. Marvin Watson was very pleasant, after which the hostess passed delicious ice cream to the 28 present. We had with us P. T. Lemmons, Dee Walsch, Harry Walker. There were several old members with us. We welcome visitors and especially do we urge every member to be present for our next meeting which will be May 18 with Mrs. R. A. Russell.

Jolly Helpers Club

The club met with Mrs. Melvin Meyers April 26. There were fourteen present and a quilt was quilted and another put together and cup towels were hemmed.

Business at home was forgotten for the afternoon but it was spent in pleasant work and conversation until interrupted by an invitation into the dining room where delicious refreshments were served.

Upon suggestion by Miss Sybil Pierce a fruit shower was given Mrs. R. A. Pruitt who has been ill for several weeks. She gave many thanks for the club's thoughtfulness. We hope that she can be with us again soon.

We met early at Mrs. Bailey Herring's on May 4 for there was much work to be accomplished. We would be glad to make our visitors, Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Wilson members of our club.

Many useful gifts were exchanged since this was Pal Day. Mrs. Leona Pierce was surprised with seventeen lovely handkerchiefs for her birthday.

We were glad that Mrs. Coud was better. Myrna was with us this time and will entertain the club May 11.

Civics Class Visits Texas Legislature

After a thorough study of the Legislation Texas, the Civics class accompanied by Mr. Tharp, went to Austin to visit the Legislature.

We found to our utter disappointment, that the House of Representatives is a very untidy house. Representatives, laugh talk, smoke, flirt with their secretaries and prop their feet upon their desks.

The men we have representing our state hardly know what each bill means, however, they vote just the same. There is also an enormous lot of debating in the House

One small bill may be discussed for half a day; this is called "filibustering."

In the Senate we found a much more orderly group. Desks were not so untidy and "filibustering" was not practiced so much. Bills were discussed sensibly and efficiently.

The Civics class, as a whole, seem to favor a unicameral system of Legislation.

The class also visited the Treasury Department which was very interesting place. We saw the State Board of Control and many smaller things of particular interest.

It is even rumored that some of them climbed to the "top" of the capitol.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

MOST of the tourists are back now. The snapshots have been handed around until they are getting a bit dirty already. The romances that the staid old fellows had on the ships have begun to look kinda phoney, even to them. But they still keep on telling about their adventures in foreign fields to anybody that will listen. There was a good-for-nothing guy from Michigan that was telling how much he enjoyed Italy on such a little bit of money. He was traveling with some friends of his family, he said, and it was awful easy to get along.

"Well, so you saw a lot of Rome?" says another returned tourist at the Country Club to him. "And did you get anything out of Florence?"

"No, I can't say that I did. But her sister, Fannie, the blonde one, came across with a hundred bucks when I told her I'd have to leave the party and go to work in a restaurant."

New York, N. Y.—In this allegedly highly mod nized town things come in cycles... right now gold diggers are going to court in futile attempts to collect... the latest was a suit by an ex-Follies girl to get "back pay" for services as "secretary" to a St. Louis millionaire... it took the jury but a few minutes to throw the case out... the little girls (at last) are finding out that their "services" have dropped in value—faster than a Wall Street slump... or the clothes on a "strip tease"...

The other night in the Hotel Montclair Casino, Dorothy Parker and her husband, Allan Campbell, were discussing the theatre situation with Bob Benchley, the bon vivant, and George Jean Nathan, the critic... Benchley questioned the latter on his reason for always panning a certain actor's performances... "I don't like his exits!" replied Nathan. "His exits?" queried Benchley. "What's wrong with them?" "Oh," was Miss Parker's retort, "he doesn't make them soon enough!"... With persistent rumor that "The Show Is On," for all its popularity may close with the arrival of summer, there is likewise equally persistent rumor that both Beatrice Lillie and Bert Lahr will remain with the musical through the torrid months... Miss Lillie, on excellent authority is said to be anxious to continue the show as long as possible... Not only her songs, but her humorous sketches provide the famous Lady Peel with some of the fastest, wittiest material she has had in many years, particularly the sketches by David Freedman...

According to steamship agents, half the population of the United States is sailing to England and France this summer... Here's a hint to writers contemplating the trip... Two prizes, one of $5,000, and the other, $3,000, will be given by the Government Tourist Bureau of France for the best book on France published outside the country this year... The prizes will be awarded in conjunction with the Paris 1937 International Exposition opening in the French capital May 2nd... The two prize winners will be selected at the end of the year... They will be chosen by a jury of French authors, who will meet in Paris November 15th, 1937... Jack Delaney, who once was a jockey... opened a restaurant in Sheridan Square... To carry out the horse motif so close to his heart, Jack has fitted the bar with saddles instead of the usual stools... even the men's room is labeled "Colts" and the ladies parlor "Fillies"...

In the chorine dressing rooms of one of our most popular night spots is the following sign: What a woman needs up to the age of fourteen—good health and good parents... from fourteen to forty—good looks... from forty to sixty—personality... after sixty—cash!... Al Smith has finally sailed for Europe... and incidentally has contracted to write five articles on his first impression of the old country... at one thousand dollars each!... It's practically good-bye to Fannie Brice... the lanky comedienne has signed to forty week's work each year in Hollywood... which means her retirement from legit... The Gish sisters are all excited... having called an upholsterer to do over some furniture... they found out the man's name was Joseph Gedeon... father of the murdered model... A letter from Miami tells us... that the first Mrs. Jimmy Walker plans to open a perfume shop there... Graver Whalen has decided not to run for Mayor... no man should give up a $90,000 a year job... not even for politics!... The Broadway Parade.

Small boys have caught the government drift. Time was when they bet a million. Now their bets run into billions.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS TO SPEAK AT A. AND M. COLLEGE TODAY

College Station, May 9. Plans for President Roosevelt's visit to Texas A. and M. College Tuesday, May 11, provide for the use of Kyle Field Stadium, with seating capacity of more than 33,000 for the accomodation of visitors who wish to see and hear the President speak. Details of the program for Mr. Roosevelt's reception were announced by President T. O. Walton of the college following confirmation of the plans by M. H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to Mr. Roosevelt and in charge of the Little White House organization at Galveston during the President's fishing trip in Gulf waters.

President Roosevelt is scheduled to arrive here on special train Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock with departure on continuation of journey to Fort Worth at 3:30. Presidential salute of 21 guns, the first ever fired on the A and M campus, will greet his arrival and he will proceed immediately from his train to reviewing stand on the college drill field to receive military review in his honor by the college cadet corps.

Lets Talk about Clothes

Picnics and outings are beginning their big season right now, and that calls for a good stock of attractive and comfortable sports dresses. They're being shown with the new style trends of more sophisticated frocks plus all the new tricks of trimming and decorating.

Bidding for first place are the closely woven, rather heavy cottons that are cut on ultra-simple lines with slightly squared shoulders and flared short skirts, some of them are none-wrinkle-able, and they are being woven of in-between shades that are guaranteed to flatter your complexion.

Pique is keeping up its good work this year, and several rayon material are crashing the sport gate for the first time. This cloth is much more practical and wear-able than formerly, and will prove cooler than expected and easy to clean.

Many play dresses are being featured with skirts pleated all the way down and around the waists, combined with snug fitting plain jackets. Gored skirts are as prevalent as prevalent as in more elaborate costumes, so they will be plenty of room to hop skip and jump.

A typical outdoor dress which has been approved by girls at Texas State College for Women consists of a little red plaid number with plain cuffed sleeves, a flared and pleated skirt, and a solid red scarf at the high neck. Colored, comfortable and cute—

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

IF YOU'RE anything like me you will be about plumb sick of Scotch stories. Everywhere I go people seem to think that the only kind of a humorous story there is is one which deals with the people that wear kilties. However, sometimes there is one that seeps through with a grain of real humor in it and that's the only reason I'm passing it on to you.

Two Scotchmen went fishing with the understanding that the one who caught the first fish would have to pay for the rent of the boat. Sandy had hardly put his pole in the water when he got a bite that almost broke his line, but he refused to pull up and the fish got away. The other Scotchman was fishing without bait.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, May 8.—Little do carefree Texas fishermen realize the forethought and preparation which makes it possible for them to "haul 'em in." The energies of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission are combined with those of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries to protect and better fishing conditions both for commercial and sporting purposes.

Experimentation in the hatcheries, made necessary by a national fish shortage which began about 1884, is one of the most important phases of the commission's first tried, but did not thrive in Texas waters. Then German carp were tried, but this lack of food value.

Now the nine hatcheries, which are located to serve all sections of the state except Southeast Texas, concentrate on white perch black crappies, catfish, bream, goggleye and green perch. A total of 3,137,357 small fish were distributed over the state from the hatcheries in the fall of 1935. The commission is also working on the propagation of minnows and smaller fish, since their sale for commercial bait has caused a food scarcity for game fish.

Precautions have to be taken that game fish are not crowded by buffalo, carp, suckers and gars. Other menaces are predatory birds and snakes.

A floating laboratory has been established by the commission on the coast at Rockport. Little is now known about the habits and banks of coastal fish, but authorities say that if the Gulf banks were as well marked out as those at Newfoundland, fishing interests would have a tremendous boom.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Philippe Martin, a young Parisian actor, has been carrying on a mild flirtation with Yvonne, who is married. Their rendezvous is a motion picture theatre. Philippe, in the darkened house, takes a seat opposite Monique Pelerin, mistaking her for Yvonne. He kisses her, and she slaps him, creating a scene. The gendarmes are summoned.

Chapter Two

PHILIPPE, THE FIEND

Madame President is as good as her word. She carried on. The very next morning she pays a visit to Monique's father, publisher of the "Morning Journal." Monsieur Pelerin receives her coldly. He is not interested in her story of some maniac who bothered a girl in a motion picture theatre, he is not interested in her Society for the Protection of Public Morals, and he is not interested in her. There is more weighty news in the world. "What if the girl happened to be your daughter?" Madame President demands. "Fortunately for me," says Pelerin good-naturedly, "such is not the case." "Monsieur Pelerin," says Madame President impressively and triumphantly, "your daughter, Monique, was the girl at the cinema." Pelerin is shaken by this information, but not too much. It was only a kiss, and besides, his daughter knows how to take care of herself. But Madame President and the ladies of the S. P. P. L. are not to be so lightly dismissed. Descended from the cackling geese who once saved Rome, they are now prepared to save Paris. Madame President visits the Minister of Justice and demands action in the case. She also give the story to all the newspapers. They pick it up gleefully. The Affair of the Kiss threatens to overshadow the Dreyfuss Case, or the Stavisky Scandal. All innocent of the storm that is brewing, the principals of the affair begin their day cheerfully enough. But trouble descends upon them early. Monique is engaged to be married to the Count Alfredo Donestelli de Pignacelli di Rostigassi, etc. He is an amiable gentleman, but more distinguished for his good temper and his family than for his brains. When the newspaper photographers descend upon him he is flattered. He loses some of his good temper when at the Pelerin home he gets an inkling of the "kiss" episode. "What is this?" he asks. "Did someone kiss Monique?" "Yes," says Pelerin. "Count Alfredo turns to his fiancée. "Were you kissed, Monique?" "I was kissed," says Monique. "If there is any kissing of Monique going on," Count Alfredo says with dignity, "I should be—kept informed." "Don't worry!" says Pelerin. "The way things are going, you'll hear plenty." He does. So does Philippe. The newspapers denounce the young actor as a fiend. His fellow actors make fun of him during rehearsals. Only the prompter, Toto, sticks by him. Philippe has a minor part in a musical play that is doomed from the beginning to failure. Five of the chorus girls have already quit because they had not been paid. The electricians and stage carpenters walk out in a body for the same reason. The stage director threatens to quit, too. He has received no salary for six months. "I haven't paid myself anything for a year," says Maillot, the producer. "Maybe I ought to quit, too." He decides instead to fire somebody. The victim is Philippe. Maillot's first knowledge that he has the "fiend" in his employ comes when the reporters descend upon him. They want to know all about Philippe. Who is his favorite author? Does he prefer blondes? Has he ever attacked any of the girls around the theatre? Maillot turns to his secretary, Felice. "Has he," he asks. "Not me," answers the secretary. Maillot sighs with relief. Nevertheless, he decides to get rid of the "monster." No telling when the lunatic may break loose around the theatre. The stage director intercedes for Philippe in vain. "He's just the fellow I want," says the stage director. "Yes?" says Maillot. "Well, he's just what the police want too." And he pointed his finger at Philippe. "You couldn't act in my theatre—even if you could act." It is a hectic day for Philippe. Yvonne visits him to beg him to keep her name out of it whatever happens. He promises. A process server arrives and presents him with a summons. "What is this?" asks Philippe. "What do they want now?" "You," answers the process server. "To appear for trial at the Court of Correction on the complaint of the Society for the Protection of Public Morals." (To be continued.)

ing a willingness to compromise if the administration will approve a gradual increase in the justices of the court. The inference is clear that the opponents of the bill are unable to withstand the pressure brought to bear upon them by the President and his cohorts. Senators Burke, Wheeler, Connally and their fellow court-oppositionists have been blacklisted and deprived of all federal patronage by Chairman Farley. For one who has taken the stand of Nebraska's Burke suddenly to relent when the fight is practically won is a spectacle which will not escape the notice of the voters of his home state and of other good Americans.

The court reorganization bill is so thoroughly discredited today that only the political pressure to which I refer can force its enactment by unwilling congress. No longer are the advantages of the President's proposal extolled before the public or before Washington's legislators. But before the latter are dangled the "or less" sign by administration "must" men. If the administration pressure against the opponents of the plan were released today and a vote taken upon the proposals, not 20 senators would publicly cast an affirmative ballot.

American constitutional government is confronted with two dangers arising from the court battle. One is the subjugation of the supreme court to the dictates of the executive's will. Second is the subordination of the congress to the executive's will. If the court bill passes, the President will have proved his ability to coerce congress and acquired the power to coerce the Supreme Court. This country will have a dictator in fact if not in theory.

can and will be enacted by future congresses. The change of attitude toward the court plan on the part of Senator Burge of Nebraska, who was regarded as the leader of those in the senate irreconcilably opposed to the court-increase is disheartening to those who hoped to see the measure defeated in its entirety. Senator Burke has made a complete about-face of his attitude of the last three months, evinc-
