PUBLIC TO CAPTURE BALLOONS IN INSECT SURVEY DROP TAGS IN P. O.

More than 4000 yellow balloons about 8 to 9 inches in diameter, each carrying a numbered tag to be detached and then dropped in the mail by the finder, are to be placed in an interesting experiment to determine the effect of winds upon the spread of the cotton flea hopper, and other injurious insects. This experiment is being conducted cooperatively by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Releases are to be made from South and Central Texas areas where cotton weeds and goatweeds are abundant, and during a period when the cotton flea hopper adults are migrating to cotton or about May 12 to June 1. It is already known that these insects are carried considerable distances on the winds, and it is hoped that additional information may be obtained regarding the direction of the air currents and the probable distances that the insects might drift. Persons finding the balloons are requested to fill out the tags with location where found, their own names and addresses, so that acknowledgement may be made with information regarding the experiment. No postage is required. It is desired that the balloons be allowed to settle to the ground or nearly so. Releases of the balloons are being made in the following counties: Madison, Brazos, Milam, Robertson, Burien, Lee, Bastrop, Caldwell, Guadalupe, Gonzales, Austin, Colorado, Lavaca, DeWitt, Goliad, Calhoun, Nueces Islands.

DR. J. S. WHEELER RELATES TALES OF TRAVEL AT LIONS CLUB

The local Lions Club was fortunate in having as guest entertainer on last Wednesday noon, Dr. J. S. Wheeler of Coryell City, who gave an illustrated discussion of some of his travels and hunts in Europe and other foreign countries, bringing with him specimens of his museum and guns used by five past generations, explaining the histories of each. Of special interest to the group was the huge skin of an anaconda, which is the largest known snake in the world, this particular skin measuring over 35 feet in length. He also had other animal skins, whale teeth, and guns from Germany and other countries. He invited the club to visit his home if they were interested in seeing other specimens, which he was unable to bring with him.

Guests for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Turner of Copperas Cove, Barney Morgan of Jonesboro, Vic McBride of Topsey and Mr. Humes, members of the County School Board.

SHEEP-GOAT RAISERS ADD NEW MEMBERS TO NEW ASSOCIATION

About a year ago a small group of sheep and goat raisers of Coryell County met in the County Agent's office for the purpose of making plans for the first Ram and Billy sale ever held in this County. At the same time there was organized the Coryell County Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, with A. T. Humes as president; Fred Robinson, High Davis, L. P. Clark, Kit Bridges, H. J. White, and N. Foote, directors, and W. E. Lasseter is secretary. These men have carried on the work of the organization since it was organized.

One of the primary objects of the organization is to secure enough members so that some protection may be offered against and some organized steps taken to stop the wholesale and petty stealing of sheep and goats in the county, and to secure some needed legislation that will afford a measure of protection against rustling.

During the recent wool show sponsored by the organization, a membership drive was made and the following new names added to the membership list: J. W. Reese, J. Frank Brown, J. H. Nabors, James Shults, W. H. Williamson, W. L. Brown & Son, L. P. Clark, A. C. Schloeman, L. C. Meharg, R. H. Alexander, M. E. Hayes, J. D. Brown Jr., W. A. Culbertson, Brown & Bridges, C. P. Liljeblad Jr., High Davis & Son, N. Foote, J. H. Kelly, R. L. Jones, Hugo T. Viertel, W. T. Perryman, Fred Robinson, G. C. Martin, T. L. Conner, D. V. Poston, A. T. Humes, and J. H. White.

A small membership fee is charged per year and it is hoped that every sheep and goat raiser in the county will join the association. Those desiring to do so may leave their name and fee at the County Agent's office, or mail their membership to W. E. Lasseter, Gatesville.

Jr. Hi Excavation Work Continues; Building Is To Be Ready By Sept.

The Junior High School building, now being constructed on the campus of the high school, will be ready for the fall term, according to announcement from Supt. Ercell W. Brooks yesterday.

The building, costing approximately $28,000, is a much needed improvement in Gatesville's school system and will greatly relieve the crowded condition in the present high school.

The two-story structure will include seven ordinary sized classrooms, one manual training shop equal to three classrooms in size, a study hall, principal's office, and eight garages.

Classes included in the Junior High school are the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades.

Excavation is now going on for the south side of the building, on which will be located the manual training room and garages, with classrooms overhead.

The completion of such a building means that Gatesville may now be classified as a "little city," and that another step forward in civic improvement has been taken.

Razzberries? Strawberries? Nossir! But Lots of Blackberries, Yessir!

To the north, to the south! To the east, to the west! Black berries for sale! Gallons and gallons of 'em, just waiting to be plucked. Everywhere you look they're there. And if you'll look in the Want Ad section of the News you'll find almost any location or price you want.

"It's de berries," seems to be the cry of Coryell County with this bumper berry crop on us. Those that escape Junior's watering mouth will probably find their way into one of Mama's blackberry pies, with a great many of the remainder ending up at the Canning Plant, which opens the 17th of this month.

Break out your Mary Jane syrup cans and old gloves. "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their berry patch."

FAMED SPEAKER TO APPEAR AT G. H. S. MAY 17

There is a genuine inspiration in the life of Samuel Grathwell, who will speak at Gatesville before the High School, May 17th at 11:30 a. m. as goodwill ambassador of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta.

Born in Cincinnati's tenement, he was left fatherless at seven spent, six years in a children's home and at nineteen entered the sixth grade of a high school. With the aid of an interested friend, he attended Bo-rea College in Kentucky and later studied at Pacific University in Oregon. At the age of thirty, he graduated from Leland Stanford University, where he was awarded highest platform honors. He had previously won three state oratorical contests in Oregon and also the interstate contest for the Pacific Coast.

On the very day of his graduation, Mr. Grathwell embarked upon his career as a public speaker, the occasion being a political campaign in California.

Since then, he has been in demand as a speaker in every state and province of North America, as well as in Alaska, Japan and Europe. He has made several trips to Europe and capitals and one trip to the Orient. He is a constant student and traveler.

As a forerunner of the new and larger Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta of 1937, Mr. Grathwell will give an oral preview of Billy Rose' new mammoth entertainment features which are being produced to make Fort Worth and Texas the amusement center of America, from June to October.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

I SUPPOSE everybody knows that, as lariat throwers go, I'm a pretty good one. So I must have hung about a cow ranch at some time or other. And that reminds me of a story of an old Irishman that ran a cow ranch in Montana.

He used to sell a good bit of milk to a dairy in a nearby city, and there came a time when the manager of the dairy complained to him about the quality of the milk. It seems it was awfully weak. Well, the old Tad had an alibi.

"You see," he says, "Cows don't get enough grass feed this time of year and them cows are just as sorry as I am. I often see 'em crying, regular crying, real tears flowing down their faces, as they feel as how their milk don't do 'em credit, and they are ashamed."

The dairy manager replied, "Well, that's alright Pat, I don't mind them crying about it, but don't let them hold their heads over the milk buckets, when they cry."

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it. So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember:

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low — with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $30 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service — for parts — and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 85 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Check and see how much Ford saves you.

Ford V-8 Prices Begin at $529

This price is for the 60-hp. Coupe equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wiper, sun visor, glove compartment and ash tray.

JOSEPHINE CHASED NAPOLEON

CATHERINE CHASED TOO MANY

VENUS CHASED ADONIS

CLEOPATRA CHASED CAESAR

HELEN OF TROY CHASED PARIS

AND MIRIAM HOPKINS says "WOMAN CHASES MAN"

THE long procession of amatory history, according to sociologists and psychologists, reverses the biological formula. It is Woman who chases Man. The most spectacular love affairs in the world, the twosomes of classical tradition, all point to the picture of an aggressive predatory Woman hounding a vainly elusive Man into the deadly clutches of the softer emotion. Josephine pursued Napoleon across a Europe ravaged by war, and caught him—and married him. Cleopatra got Caesar out on a fancy barge, ployed him with soft music and incense—and he lost his dream of empire and his head. Helen of Troy leered at Paris and precipitated a long war, ending only when the Greeks managed to jockey their horse across the line first. Venus chased Adonis over a mythological hill and dale (she had arms then), and Catherine the Great, of Russia, outdid them all. She was a sort of nineteenth century sweetheart of Sigma Chi. And now Miss Miriam Hopkins chases Joel McCrea, in "Woman Chases Man," a comedy produced by Samuel Goldwyn and dedicated to the thesis that man just ain't fast enough.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
 Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
 Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
 Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
 There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

WORLD COMMENT

UNEMPLOYMENT CENSUS

The practical necessity for a census of the unemployment has been apparent since the government assumed the task of providing relief for thousands of jobless early in 1933. Fortunately, today, pressure is being brought to bear by responsible Congressmen for a count of the unemployed after a costly delay of five years, during which time the administration refused to undertake the task.

President Roosevelt has asked Congress for a billion and a half dollars for work-relief for the fiscal year 1937-38. The same request for relief billions has been forthcoming every year since he assumed office. Whether with the annual expenditure of billions for direct relief and work-relief the number of unemployed is decreasing is a question no one can answer—for no authoritative check has been made since the unemployment problem became a national issue.

Logical proposals have been submitted to the executive for checking the number of jobless, and total cost of which would not exceed fifteen million dollars. Gen. Hugh Johnson and Bernard M. Baruch, who was chairman of the War Industries Board, propose a census by means of war-time draft board system for registration in one day. Only those who register would be eligible for relief.

The need for the census is no less than acute from the taxpayer's viewpoint. A dozen different statisticians attempt to gauge the rise and fall of unemployment, but none of their figures tallies. Nor do the estimates of the various agencies, departments, and leaders of the government correspond.

Senator Vandenberg says there are 3,000,000 unemployed, while Secretary of Labor maintains 8,000,000 are out of work. Under such a haphazard, guess-work system of estimation as this, how can the government institute a sound and economical relief program?

There is but one inference to be drawn from President Roosevelt's refusal to sanction a census before the regular biennial census of 1940. That is that a census of the unemployed would reveal no reduction in the relief load the government has carried for five years commensurate with the expenditure of money; thousands on the relief rolls with adequate resources for their own maintenance; other thousands who have refused jobs in private industry for work relief jobs; and thousands of unnaturalized aliens who are subsisting on government relief—provided by Tommy Taxpayer.

Since the reduction of foreign immigration quotas, thousands of aliens from the Orient and the central European countries have illegally entered this country. With jobs difficult or impossible to find, with no resources of their own, they have willingly turned to the government for succor. Representative Martin Dies, a Texas member of Congress, estimated several years ago there are six millions of unnaturalized aliens in this country, although all of these are not on relief.

If no census report on the

Billy Rose Chooses Six 'Beautiful Ladies'

LEON RIVER BAPTIST T. U. TO MEET MAY 14

The Leon River Baptist Training Union will meet with the Pecan Grove Baptist church at 8:15 p. m., May 14, 1937. The song service will be led by Mr. Alton Dalton, followed by devotional by Rev. W. H. Buening. Business and roll call with the program subject, "Growing in Grace."

The following talks will be given: "Growing in Fellowship," by Rev. Roy Clayton; "Growing in Love," Rev. Raymond Sims; "Growing in Service," by Mrs. Edgar Langley.

jobless is made until 1940, the Roosevelt Administration will be making its exit from the political scene and will not have to face political repercussions if the report is unfavorable. But before the 1938 congressional elections the American people have a right to know what their money is being spent for, and where and for what that billion and a half is going next year.

If the number of unemployed has remained relatively stationary throughout the depression and into the recovery period of the last two years, it is obvious that the Administration's relief program has failed and remedial steps must be taken.

TRENCH SILOS

In continuation of our discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of a trench silo, and also the question, "Can a livestock owner afford not to have a trench silo?", we quote the following letter which has been received:

"Regarding the advantages and disadvantages of a trench silo, personally, I find the disadvantages very small as compared with the benefits received.

"My brother and I dug our silo in the spring of 1934. The total time for digging was approximately one and one-half days, being done at odd times. The dimensions are: 50 feet long, 5 feet deep, and 7 feet wide at top, sloping to a 5-foot width at bottom. The only equipment necessary is a plow and a fresno. Keep in mind that the walls must be kept fairly smooth, however, this is not difficult if the trench is properly started.

"We filled our silo in the early part of August, 1934, with green corn, stalk and all, cutting the binds after the bundles were properly placed, lengthwise, in the silo. There is no fear of using too much water.

"We commenced feeding out of this silo the latter part of November, 1936, wintering 25 head of range cattle, 4 milk cows, 114 head of sheep, and

6 head of work stock. "We hope to fill the silo to full capacity again this year, however, before filling we plan to wall the sides with concrete to keep them from caving, and to keep them smooth in wet weather. Other than the last mentioned there are no disadvantages."

DEMONSTRATION AGENTS OFFICE

Quality Products Stressed in Canning Demonstration

Miss Gladys Kimbrough of Munice, Indiana, definitely stated that any product "is ready to can when it is in the most perfect condition for table use." She demonstrated canning an acid and a non-acid type of food Monday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock in the City Hall auditorium to forty Coryell County women interested in home canning.

All food authorities agree on types of canners for acid and non-acid foods. The water bath is satisfactory for canning acid foods, such as fruits and tomatoes, and steam pressure cooker is required for non-acid foods, such as leafy, green, yellow vegetables and beans and peas. Growth of yeast and molds is discouraged by the water bath method and growth of bacteria is retarded by the steam pressure processing.

Choosing asparagus as an example of a non-acid food, Miss Kimbrough washed, cut, and covered it with boiling water. At the end of 3 minutes, she packed it into a clean jar and processed it for 35 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Tomato juice was the acid food demonstrated by washing the tomatoes, coring them, and pressing out the juice. Next it was heated to 180 degrees F. and poured into a clean container, sealed, and processed for 5 minutes, in boiling water. Vine ripened, firm tomatoes are the type for making the best tomato juice.

"You can be a 5-cent or 25-cent home canner," is one statement made by Miss Kimbrough in stressing high quality of home canned foods. The best products, or those put up by the "25-cent canner," are canned immediately, strictly fresh, handled in small quantities, graded for size, color, and condition, and washed carefully.

Ewing 4-H Clothing Storage

The Ewing 4-H Club girls are showing decided interest in their Clothing Storage work.

The Clothing Demonstrator, Martha Elizabeth Smith, and 3 of her cooperators, Ara Mae Black, Mary Virginia Brown, and Billie Margaret Eubanks, have made shoe racks and hat stands and painted them at the cost for all of only 20 cents.

The shoe racks and hat stands were cut by the boys in the Ewing school shop from scrap lumber. The four girls together bought a can of pink enamel and painted the stands and racks.

These are not only pretty articles, but very useful.

Leon Junction 4-H Clothing Books

For keeping the best account of their clothing, the 4-H Club girls keep clothing books containing inventory, plan of clothing, account, and growing sheet.

Two clever Leon Junction girls took the mimeographed cards which explained the clothing book, cut the headings out and thumb indexed their books.

Mary Nell Whigham, and Helen Whigham, both cooperators in the club, have their books complete with all of the different headings and are checking the grooming sheet.

The most important single factor in determining a satisfactory pig harvest is sanitation, says C. W. McCampbell, animal husbandry at Kansas State College.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

EVERYBODY knows a lot of stories about women and traffic cops so it just might be that this here one has been in the family circle, but as it was new to me and a good story, here it is.

A woman went by a red light in New York some time ago and the traffic cop on the far side held up his hand, but the lady went scooting right along. Then he grabbed his whistle and blew a couple of long, loud blasts, but the lady paid no attention to him at all. So he got aboard of another car and after chasing it for a couple of blocks he shouted his usual, "Pull over to the curb, young lady."

Well, the lady pulled over and the cop said, Madam, didn't you see me hold up my hand?"

"I did not," answered the lady.

"Didn't you hear me blow my whistle?" asked the cop.

"I did not," answered the lady.

"Well," said the cop, "I guess I might as well go home, I don't seem to be doing much good around here."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Philippe Martin, a young Parisian actor, takes a seat in a darkened movie theatre next to Monique Pelerin, mistaking her for his friend, Yvonne. He kisses her and she slaps him. The president of the Society for the Protection of Public Morals makes an issue of the episode. The newspapers picture Philippe as a "fiend". He loses his job, and is summoned to appear in court.

Chapter Three THE TRIAL

The courtroom is packed to the doors and the stairs and corridors jammed with disappointed spectators. The trial of Philippe Martin is on.
On the witness stand is Madame President of the S. P. P. M., who converts her testimony into an impassioned plea for the right of that is placed near Philippe's. "At the cinema she was much nearer," Philippe objects.

"A little nearer, if you please, Mademoiselle," the judge instructs Monique.
Monique hesitantly edged closer. "Very well," says the judge. "Let's proceed. No, before kissing the plaintiff did you make any advances."
"He said he hated blondes," said Monique furiously.
"But I don't," said Philippe.
"He stole my program."
"I didn't steal it! I merely borrowed it," says Philippe.
"And then what did you do?" asks the judge.
"Nothing. I just kissed her, that's all."
"Put how? Illustrate . . . Let us see."
Philippe obligingly starts to put his arm around Monique, but she draws away.
"Don't you touch me!" she exclaims.
Philippe appeals to the Judge. "She didn't say that in the cinema."

young ladies to attend the cinema without being kissed.
"In the face of this testimony," she concludes, "who can doubt that this dastardly despoiler stands guilty of one of the most atrocious crimes in the annals of French criminology."
There are mingled cheers and hisses from the audience.
Philippe takes the stand. His handsome appearance makes a considerable impression on the spectators, particularly on the women.
"Defendant," says the Judge sternly, "have you ever been sentenced before for a similar . . . er . . ."
"Well, Your Excellency, I have kissed a few times in my life but I have never been sent to jail for it."
General laughter and some applause! Even Monique is amused, and tries to hide a smile.
The Judge raps his gavel sharply. "Very well. Now in this instance, how did the Plaintiff react?"
Having tasted applause Philippe had completely gained his usual self-possession.
"During the act, she didn't react."
This is too much for Monique. She jumps from her seat. "I did! I did! I slapped him!"
"That was afterwards," Philippe argues gently. "While I was putting my arms around you, you didn't budge."
"Because I was paralyzed with shock," Monique says, furiously.
"Oh-h! I don't paralyze people when I kiss them."
Again laughter and applause, which Philippe acknowledges with a bow. He is beginning to enjoy the trial.
"The only way we can get to the truth of this," the judge decides, "is to re-enact the crime just as it occurred at the cinema."
Monique balks at this, but the judge assures her that she is "under the fatherly protection of Justice," and has nothing to fear. Accordingly she takes her seat on a chair

The Judge is frankly puzzled. "The Court is confused. It still does not understand—the why of the kiss."
Philippe shrugs his shoulders and sighs helplessly.
"You mean," the judge suggests, "that the temptation was—irresistible."
This suggestion saves the ship. Philippe sees a way to defend himself without implicating Yvonne.
"That's it," he exclaims. "May I speak freely?"
The Judge assents. "You are permitted to speak in your own defense."
Philippe then launches into an impassioned bit of oratory, appealing to the gallant instincts of every Parisian, to the world-famous gallantry of the French courts, to the divine spark in every man. He points to Mademoiselle's beauty, her adorable little ears, her irresistible charm. In conclusion, he says:
"Your Excellency, if I am convicted for kissing a girl—a beautiful girl—it will be the first time such a thing has happened in France since the days of Charlemagne."
Even the Judge is impressed. "You have appealed to the most chivalrous instincts of the Court. You have done wisely. But what would the world come to if young men went about kissing every girl who had a sweet little ear? Making allowances for the little ear, we find you guilty of merely creating a disturbance in public, and inflict a minimum penalty of three days in jail—or 150 francs and costs."
"I will pay the fine," says Philippe.
The voice of the court clerk begins to drone.
"Fine 150 francs, plus city taxes, plus special taxes, plus government taxes, plus registration fee. Total 1000 francs, 80 centimes."
"Your Excellency," says Philippe, "would you mind giving me the address of your jail?"

Overflowing milk pails

Spring is the season of overflowing milk pails. Every pound of this huge supply has to find an outlet. Months of planning must precede high production and months of selling must follow so that cash for the spring milk crop can flow back to the producer in an uninterrupted stream.

To help this along, Borden advertising and selling effort are aggressively pushing every opportunity to find and develop new markets for milk and milk products. Borden research is dedicated to increasing the usefulness of the nation's basic food.

In flush season and out, salesmanship and research are the twin forces that keep milk moving from farm to household.
