Observances on Memorial Day Also Do Honor to Artists and Architects Who Are Advancing Memorial Arts Throughout the Country

WHEN Americans by the million turn out on Decoration Day to honor the nation's heroes, they also pay a tribute to the artistic genius of the country as expressed in numerous memorials.

The desire of patriotic communities to offer homage to those who gave their lives for their fellowmen has been a challenge to the sculptors, designers and architects of the country. The variety and beauty of American war memorials and other public and private monuments are proof that the challenge has been met.

Each of these monuments is the center of patriotic ceremonies in which local communities show their gratitude for the sacrifices of their countrymen in the paths of war and of peace. A committee of seventy-five prominent Americans, including outstanding educators, religious leaders and heads of patriotic societies, this year appealed to the country to make Memorial Day observances wider and more reverend.

The achievement of higher standards of monument and memorial art in the United States is one of the primary objects of the Memorial Extension Commission. On the basis of a survey of public and private monuments erected in recent years, the organization declared that "we are witnessing what amounts to a renaissance of memorial art in America."

"The natural human impulse to memorialize those whose work is done," said Roswell M. Austin, secretary of the Commission, "has been through all history the greatest single stimulus to art. A large proportion of the art that has come down to us from ancient times—from the Egyptian sphinx to the Roman sarcophagi—is memorial in its nature. It is only in recent generations that this art form has taken a secondary place in the workshops of the Muses. The tendency to revive that art points, we believe, to a deepening of the sentiments of national patriotism and family loyalty which find expression in memorials."

WITH THE

SHIP OF STATE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the President away and the ether still shivering with the echoes of debate, Washington has settled down to contemplation of its annual gala day when the cherry blossoms bloom along the river.

To Mr. Average Citizen, Cherry Blossom Day means also that Income Tax Day is just a memory. He sighs with relief—not because the raid on his bank account is over—but because he may have interpreted correctly (if he has!) such clauses as for instance the following:

"Surtax.—The surtax on any amount of surtax net income not shown in the table below is computed by adding to the surtax for the largest amount shown which is less than the income, the surtax upon the excess over that amount at the rate indicated on the table."

After that one, he'll have little difficulties with life's lesser problems!

To our way of thinking, Mr. Roosevelt never has enjoyed the job of being President quite so much as he does these days. The opposition to his court plans is violent and the going rough, yet there is no concealing his high spirits and relish for the battle. The fight is testing his ingenuity and persuasive powers. He is listening to no particular adviser in shaping his strategy—even writing his own speeches and messages. Win or lose—and the result is by no means certain—Mr. Roosevelt is making this battle his personal responsibility. A luxury only a President in his last term can afford.

Up to date three Senators have returned the $1,000 offered them for their endorsement of "a light smoke." All because of the "spoofing" they received following the revelation that fifteen Senators had agreed to the use of their names in advertising the cigarette. The gentlemen requested that their names be not revealed—to save embarrassment to the other members who have decided to go through with the program—very, very considerate!

The liquor industry seems filled with concern over recrudescence of prohibition agitation. And all because the results of last November's local option elections in a few scattered districts resulted in a 50-50 draw between wets and dries. W. Forbes Morgan, far removed relative of Mrs. Roosevelt, was drafted to head the Distilled Spirits Institute. The first shot in Mr. Morgan's campaign to bolster the industry will be a drive to publicize the liquor business' contribution to recovery. He can safely claim a 100 percent gain in Government revenue—and a "partial" loss to bootleggers.

A Texas correspondent writes: "We'll soon have a Roosevelt marrying a Du Pont, why not Al Smith for best man and Father Coughlin to perform the ceremony!"

An excellent suggestion, but why not Dr. Townsend and Representative Lemke as honored guests, thereby furthering the President's "good neighbor" policy?

The gun which Helen Stamps, Texas Exposition Rangerette, holds, is from the collections of A. W. Discher, of Dallas. Eighteen notches on its stock attest to its efficiency in frontier Indian fighting. This, an 1827 Spencer Indian and Buffalo gun, and others from the Discher collection will be displayed during the Exposition which opens in Dallas June 6.

Weak feet are said to be one of the results of influenza. The Arkansas Razorbacks tossed more than 30 passes in each game of their first six 1936 football games.

Girls such as this beauty will be seen in Gatesville on June 4th and 5th, when Gatesville, Coryell and adjoining counties meet for the first annual Rodeo and Home-Coming.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A LADY that had just moved in to a swell neighborhood in Oklahoma City was trying to keep up with her fashionable neighbors. She did all kinds of silly things, and when she read in the papers that the Crowleys were giving a coming out party for their daughter, she decided to give one for her son Jim. She met Mrs. Crowley at the store and says, "Say, I want you to be sure and come over tonight, and bring that there charming daughter of yours. We're having a coming-out party for Jim." "Hurrah!" says Mrs. Crowley. "What was Jim in for?"

THE STORY SO FAR:
 B. J. Nolan has lost a fortune backing worthless inventions. His son, Kenneth, with a million left him by his mother, won't give his father $100,000 to build Nolan Heights, B. J.'s dream of a model village. Pursued by process servers, B. J. takes Virginia Travis, a lovely penniless girl who came to his office for a job, home with him. The palatial Nolan home at Smithport, Long Island, is servantless, and the gas is turned off. Virginia gets her pals, Judy and Hunk, former theatre ushers, to pose as maid and butler. She and B. J. put their heads together and decide to make Kenneth cough up the $100,000 by fair means or foul. The following day Kenneth arrives from Europe with Nina Tennyson, an attractive fortune-hunter, and Henri Saffron, her "Uncle."

Chapter Two

Kenneth was furious. As a home-coming this was a bust. He had told Nina and Henri that his father would be at the dock to meet them. But he was not at the dock, nor was he at home. Hawkins and Marie were gone, and they were greeted by a snip of a girl who introduced herself as Virginia Travis and said she was a friend of his father's. And two comic servants he'd never set eyes on before who acted less like maid and butler than — well, theatre ushers. Kenneth's suspicions were thoroughly aroused. "Now, Miss Travis," he demanded as soon as Nina and Henri had gone upstairs to their room, "Where's my father?" "Your father's in Chicago," replied Virginia in a loud voice, hoping B. J. would hear her in the kitchen.

"Where in Chicago?" persisted Kenneth.

"I'm sure I don't know — he went there on a big business deal." Growing more alarmed by the minute, Kenneth questioned her about the servants. They had, she said, all been discharged for one reason or another. Obviously, her story was fishy. Hunk interrupted with something about fare for the taxi drivers. They wanted four dollars each.

"Well, pay them!" snapped Kenneth impatiently.

"What Hunk means," Virginia explained sweetly, "is that Mr. Nolan didn't leave any cash."

Kenneth produced a bill. "Here's ten. Tip them each a dollar."

"Oke-oke!" said Hunk cheerfully, and bounded out of the room.

That was the last straw. Kenneth decided to waste no more time. He picked up the telephone and asked for Police Headquarters. But before he could say a word Virginia landed on the floor, Virginia struggling to grab the telephone. Kenneth beating her off. Soon Hunk and Judy joined in the melee. While Kenneth and Hunk grappled, Virginia spied an envelope in Judy's hand. It was the letter B. J. had misplaced, the letter that would explain everything to Kenneth. She stuck it under Kenneth's nose, yelling it to Hunk to assist.

Breathless and tounded, Kenneth began to read:

"Dear Kenneth: Please take care of Miss Travis, a trustworthy friend, while I am in Chicago. I am deeply indebted to her."

Sorry I couldn't meet you but business is business. Will be home soon.

Love,
 Father.

P. S. I had to let Hawkins and Marie go. Anna left for reason I will explain later. Walter involved. Hunk and Judy honest, loyal, inexperienced, but friendly."

No sooner had Kenneth finished than a police siren sounded outside. "The cops!" screamed Judy and Hunk in terrified unison.

This was going to be very embarrassing, thought Kenneth. Damn it, why hadn't she shown him the letter before? Well, he would have to get rid of them.

"I just got back from Europe," he sheepishly explained to the two uniformed men. "Found a strange woman here. But it's all right now. She's all right. Friend of my father's."

The cops grinned knowingly. "Oh. Okay. I get it," said one, and winked broadly at Kenneth. "Call us if any more show up, Mr. Nolan!"

Kenneth apologized to everyone and told Judy and Hunk to go if nothing had happened.

"Oke-oke. Shake!" said the comic Hunk. "No hard feelings, fella."

Kenneth shook hands with Virginia too. He was sure they would be good friends. Everyone departed to prepare for dinner. Dinner! Virginia had completely forgotten about that. The cupboard was bare and to make matters worse, they were broke. In the kitchen B. J. pounced on her, fuming.

"Who's that girl he brought home?" he demanded. "We've got to get her out of here! She'll ruin everything — she'll take all his money."

"I don't know who she is," was Virginia's distracted answer. "Well, come to that later. The question is, how are we going to rustle up a dinner?"

Dinner for four was a serious problem. Virginia couldn't cook, nor could Hunk, and the best Judy could do was fry cheese. B. J. confessed he could cook, but only out of doors. Hunk produced two dollars — the tip he had carefully neglected to give the cab drivers. B. J. had a ten spot hidden in his shoe. Things were looking up.

"The way to a man's heart," announced Virginia, "is through his stomach. Hunk, run downtown and get bread, meat, cans. B. J. will cook on a camp fire in the backyard. You two will serve and I'll help eat. What are we having for dinner, B. J.?"

"Well," said B. J. doubtfully, "if it comes out all right, it's called Fisherman's Fright."

The dinner was a huge success. At least, it was for Kenneth and Virginia. Nina and Henri pecked at their plates distastefully. Kenneth remarked that Hunter's Frush was a favorite delicacy of his father's. Hunk repeated the remark to B. J. "Frush?" bellowed B. J. "He's crazy. This is Fisherman's Fright." "Oke-oke," agreed Hunk. "They want more. Let's go, fella."

B. J. licked the spoon speculatively. "Good Lord!" he exclaimed. "It is Frush!"

In the dining room Kenneth poured wine for everyone, but drank none himself.

"I've given up wines and liquors," he explained. Not that I'm a prude, mind you. It's just that they make me lose my sense of balance. What I mean is, I go a little haywire. Do anything. Buy anything."

Virginia sat bolt upright. "Buy anything?" she repeated with emphasis.

"Uh-huh. Last time I got tight I — uh — went out and bought a team of horses. Kinda silly, don't you think?" He laughed in embarrassment.

Desert turned out to be a frozen pudding representing Nolan Heights in the snow. It was a lovely pudding; Virginia took her cue.

"Mind if I talked a little about Nolan Heights?" she asked timidly.

Kenneth laughed. "I can see father's steamed you all up. Come into the library. I want to show you something I don't generally show people."

When they were alone Nina and Henri entered into whispered consultation.

"This business gives me the woolies, Nina. Why can't we scam away?"

"You're losing your nerve, Henri. Keep your mind on your work."

"Nina, I love you and you are so cruel! You think only of the material. Only three things in life are important — love, happiness, honor."

"What about breakfast, dinner, supper?" inquired Nina sarcastically.

Henri pulled a wry face. "Supper! Frunter's hush! Ugh!"

"Must I carry the burden alone?" wailed Nina. "Isn't it enough that I should have that — that designing woman to worry about? I don't trust her."

"You are being ridiculous," scoffed Henri.

"Kenneth must be warned," Nina decided. "A woman can't warn a man against another woman. It must be man to man. So you'll warn him. Tonight!"

"Me?" Henri was indignant. "No! Henri Saffron, he will not cast an aspersion at a woman." But seeing the hard gleam in Nina's eye, he reconsidered. "I am putty in your hands, Nina mia."

Nina's eyes narrowed thoughtfully. "She's after his money."

Henri threw up his hands. "And who is not?" He burst into a guffaw.

Washington, D. C.—James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany and now President Roosevelt's special representative at the Coronation in London, decided to boycott American tailors in his breeches trade. Mr. Gerard said he had them made in England because English tailors "know how to make breeches that look like breeches." Ambassadors Bingham and Gerard are prepared to do their duty—if it kills them—by wearing the court costume proper to the occasion. Reminded by Illinois Representative E. M. Dirksen that "those silk pants will split down the seams when they genuflect," Mr. Gerard said that he would attend in a "gunny sack with holes cut for arms" if English tradition demanded him to do so.

There is no reason why Americans should balk at wearing the prescribed costume. Haven't we experienced the riggings of the Elks and Shriners? Many people will recall that former President Taft, Frank A. Munsey, Marshall Field and Mr. Gerard wore knee breeches when the four dined with the late King George V. in 1921. All that Messrs Bingham and Gerard need—is the courage to face the cameras.

All that Messrs Bingham and Gerard need—is the courage to face the cameras.

The rumor persists that at least two Justices of the Supreme Court are giving thought to retirement at the end of the present term of the Court. Another rumor credits Chief Justice Hughes for bringing about a Supreme Court majority sympathetic with the Wagner Act and with having brought about the reversal of the Court's attitude on minimum wage laws.

Col. Lindbergh has written a friend here advising against the proposed trans-Atlantic air race to the Paris Exposition, in commemoration of his flight. The Colonel's objection is that all comers will be permitted to enter the race, some lacking the skill or even the proper equipment—which would not help aviation much. There is now talk of the race being called off.

Many people are wondering who paid for the services of the huge airplane which flew over the major league ball park on opening day. The flying machine towed a large red sign which read "Play the game, don't pack the Supreme Court." The sponsors probably figured that every good member of Congress could be reached that way.

Watson Comer of Waco will preach at the Purnela Baptist Church next Sunday, May 30. Everyone come out to hear Rev. Comer and bring someone with you. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chandler and Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Chandler visited in the Newt Freeman home near Pearl recently. Mr. and Mrs. David are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Robinson. The U. S. Costal lighthouse service was fairly well completed in the last century.

HUMBLE EXHIBIT IS TO BE ENLARGED FOR PAN AMERICAN SHOW

Houston, May 27.—Humble's Hall of Texas History, widely acclaimed as one of the most interesting and educational exhibits at the Central Centennial Exposition in Dallas last year, by popular request will be reopened and enlarged for the 1937 showing of the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition. Announcement was made recently after much favorable public comment and numerous requests for another showing had been received. At the same time it was agreed to expand the Hall and include more informative material about oil—the major industry of Texas. The entire exhibit of last year, historical dioramas and geological maps and miniature models, will be retained intact, and a wing of some 1,500 square feet will be added to accommodate a series of new materials explaining the work of the geologist, paleontologist and physicist in their combined search for petroleum deposits. This is being done in answer to a multitude of requests during the 1936 showing for facts about the instruments and methods employed in the relentless probing for oil. A seismograph sound truck, torsion balance instrument and magnetometer—all delicate recording instruments used in exploration work—will be shown. Translight photographs and explanatory graphs and charts to make clear to the lay men the somewhat puzzling story of how oil is found underground. For several weeks the geologic and geophysics departments of the Company have been engaged in special research, and at this time work is going ahead in Dallas with the construction and installation of materials for the addition to the exhibit. Along with these improvements the entire exhibit hall will be redecorated in keeping with the spirit and flavor of the Pan-American exposition. Typical Texas scenes which adorned the ways will be placed by others reflecting the tone of Mexico and neighboring Countries of the South.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

SCOTCH stories are about worn out. First off I could never see why there were so many of them, because if Scotchmen did tell all those stories they wouldn't have no time to be so all-fired thrifty. But here's one that makes both sense and is purty good besides. Sandy Gow was walking down a street and bumped into an old friend of his. "Sandy," said his friend, "when is Mary McDougal goin' to let you marry her?" "It's verra uncertain, mon," said Sandy. "Some fool sent her a big box of stationery with her name engraved on it and she won't get married 'til it's all used up." "And," added Sandy, "she writes verra few letters account of the postage."

HE solved a problem for the OIL REFINER

YOU might not expect the farmers of America to make your motor oil purer. Yet they do. Today their crops are being put to a new and amazing use in the oil industry.

Science has discovered a remarkable new oil purifier, Furfural, in oats, corn, wheat, cotton seed, sugar cane . . . In refining oil, it is a perfect cleanser. New Texaco Motor Oil, produced by the Furfural Process, is free from impurities.

Crude oils always contain heavy foreign particles. If not removed, engine heat turns them to tar and gum. That leaves less oil in your crankcase. Besides, a dirty engine sucks up oil at every stroke. Then you have to add an extra quart . . . and another . . . and another.

Taking out the impurities means you get full lubrication, without buying so much oil.

Drive into the next Texaco Dealer's you come to. Let him start you today getting finer, longer-lasting, pure lubrication for your engine.

25¢ A QUART From tons of farm products we extract a new oil purifier, Furfural. In passing through all it dissolves and removes all the particles of wasteful, harmful non-lubricating material.

History

CORYELL COUNTY

(Excerpt from the "History of Coryell County," Frank E. Simmons, author; Coryell County News, publisher. Issued in 1936.)

The county as organized, embraces an area of 1,085 square miles in central Texas. It was originally a part of Milam County and later a part of Bell until organized as a separate county. The county was named for James Coryell. In 1854 when the county was organized, it had a population of 250 or 300 people, including a number of slaves and some free negroes. The 1930 census showed a population of approximately 20,000 or about 18.4 per square mile. It also showed the wealth of the county to be approximately $30,000,000.

The county is located in that part of Texas known as the Grand Prairie. The terrain is a rolling prairie cut by deep valleys. The prairies present a table land topped a rugged hill country. The prairies belong to the rich black lime lands while the valleys are composed of sandy soils. Cotton, corn, and grain are the predominating crops while all the fruits and vegetables known to the temperate climates do well in their proper location in the valleys. This is said to be the greatest oats producing county in the state.

It is the ideal country for poultry, stock raising, and general farming. Gatesville with nearly 3,000 population, is one of the leading produce markets in the state.

The school and church organizations are as good as can be found. There are but few high schools in the state that are as highly rated as the Gatesville School.

The beautiful scenic hills and valleys of this county present a park-like view from whatever angle they are viewed, interspersed with blue cedared hills and ranges spreading and reaching out into the blue distance and wide valleys dotted with farms. Every landscape inspires beauty. The location of every farmhouse is romantic. It is a poetic land with music and harmony expressed in every line.

In the beginning, this county had its trials, the first few years were marked with recurring droughts of severe intensity. Crops were short and the people suffered for bread stuffs, however, the range was good, and livestock did well and game was plentiful, so that the hardy pioneers with great fortitude maintained their homes.

The Civil War came on and Coryell County offered her full quota of volunteers for the Confederate armies, the ranchmen horses and beeves for the army of the South. Companies of men went to the armies, and other companies were sent to protect the frontier from raiding Comanches. The close of the war found the flower of young manhood had been laid to rest on the battle fields of the South, but the homes had been maintained by the heroic women left behind.

saw a period of lawlessness prevail in this state that more or less effected Coryell County during the same period. Rufians flocked to Texas. The cattle business reached its zenith on the open range. Contending big cattle interests, disputing the rights of the range, brought on bloody wars, during which time some outfits were entirely killed out or driven out. There was an element of free-booters—the cattle and horse rustlers that stole stock from all who were not aligned to them. Out of this condition grew a period of mob rule during which time there was no effective law. Each clan was a law unto itself. It thus came about that mob violence dispatched the lives of many outlaws and some good citizens. One old pioneer related that "We buckled on our six shooters as often as we drew on our boots. There was no law."

In 1872 a new courthouse was built, occupying the site of the present building, but it was to be occupied for only about twenty-five years, for in 1897 the present courthouse was erected. By this time outlawry had been stamped out and Coryell County whose foundation was laid by a people of sterling worth, was again a progressive, peaceful community.

An event of great importance to Coryell County was the entrance of St. L. S. W. Railway in 1881. At first, a narrow gauge line was operated. It, however, enabled the people of the county to obtain speedier deliveries of consignments of freight.

Previous to 1882 goods had been freighted into the county by wagon trains. In earlier years by ox teams from as far away as the Gulf ports. As the railroads penetrated farther into Texas, shipping terminals for railroads were Bremond, Waco, and other points along the advancing railroad lines, so that with each extension of rail transportation the wagon haul for goods to Coryell County was shortened. With the coming of the coming of the railroad the old team freighting and stage lines were relegated to the past. A short time after the Cotton Belt line reached Gatesville, the G. C. & S. F. crossed the southwest corner of the county and Copperas Cove became a railroad town.

In this outline of Coryell County history we deem it quite appropriate to quote a part of Judge Robert W. Brown's report as of July, 1935, at the time he resigned the office of County Judge, showing the further progress and latest developments in roads, public building and excellent financial condition of the county. He says, in part:

"We have bought Right-of-Way and had three highway construction jobs. Our jail was condemned and we built one of the best modern small jails in Texas. We have built lateral roads and our commissioners have graveled more roads than was ever done in twice the time. In the early days of the depression I was the first judge in Texas to advocate and put through a general reduction of tax values. Our county owes less than it has owed for fifty years. All our funds except one road beat is on a cash basis. There are only six small counties in Texas that owe less money. Considering our population and tax values, there is no county in Texas in better financial condition."

'These Texas Gals,' Sighs Andy-'Oh, Me'

When oil business brought Charles Correll flying to Texas, a welcoming Texanita of the Pan American Exposition prompted him to repeat the sigh that, as Andy, of Amos and Andy, he has given on the radio networks many nights lately—"These Texas gals, Oh, me!" Victim of a "Texas gal" and her father in an oil promotion in the radio skit continuity, "Andy" gave out no details of reason for his hasty trip. American Heroes of Peace Share Homage

HEROES of peace share honors with heroes of war in Memorial Day exercises in many parts of the country this year, as a result of a campaign for widening the significance of Memorial Day undertaken in recent years by a group of several score outstanding Americans, organized as a national Memorial Day Committee.

While calling for reverend and widespread honors to the soldiers and sailors who died in defense of the country, the committee urges that the graves of "civic heroes"—scientists, educators, inventors, philanthropists, preachers, etc.—should also be decorated. Americans are also called upon to visit and memorialize the graves of their own relatives and friends.

In Cincinnati, Ohio, a Peace Heroes Memorial Society has been in existence for many years with the specific purpose of honoring on Memorial Day "those men and women who, in the course of their ordinary peaceful occupations, give their lives to others." Among those who are thus memorialized are physicians, nurses, policemen, firemen, railroaders, miners, mothers "and others upon whose risks and sufferings life depends."

Among the advocates of Memorial Day tributes to civic as well as military heroes is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"It seems to me," Mrs. Roosevelt once declared, in a published article, "that it is a mistake not to use this day, on which we always honor our illustrious dead, to revivify memories of our history as a whole. There is hardly any part of the country where there is not a tradition of some hero who, through his inventive genius, has served our industrial or agricultural development, or through scientific achievements improved the health and safety of our people."

Founded originally to commemorate the sacrifices of the Civil War, Memorial Day has expanded until today it is an occasion for reverence to those who gave their lives to their country in other wars and in peace-time services.

Memorialization of the graves of local celebrities and of family burial places is increasingly recognized by patriotic and civic leaders as part of the observance of the day set aside for memory.

WHERE STATES MAY EXHIBIT AT NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK, (Special).—When in 1939 the residents of the several states and territories visit the New York World's Fair, they will find their official representatives and the "home" exhibits in the "Hall of States", shown here at the right in a first drawing of the "Plaza of Governments", ceremonial centre of the $125,000,000 international exposition.

The quadrangle will be large enough to permit such exercises as the massing of the flags of the states or of the colors of the world—while tens of thousands of spectators watch from the vantage of the broad flights of steps which form one architectural feature of the many already planned by the Fair Corporation.

In the background is the proposed

"Federal Hall" and, at the left, a range of other Government buildings. The principal approach to the great Plaza will be from the direction of the "Thematic Centre" of the Fair, over an extraordinarily broad avenue lined with row upon row of grown shade trees flanking low water basins and cascades.

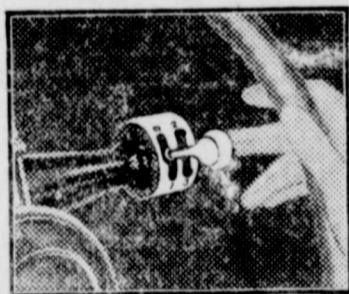

"HERE'S MY GEAR SHIFT"

It's small . . . because it works at the flick of a finger. It's up at the steering wheel . . . so hands never need to leave the wheel when you're shifting gears. It's the new way to drive . . . tested and proved by more than 115,000 owners in more than a billion miles of driving.

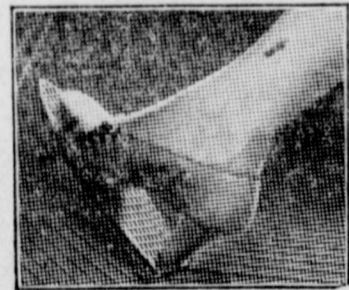

And that's only part of the news about Hudson's Selective Automatic Shift . . . an optional extra on all 1937 Hudsons and Terraplanes. When you flick a finger up at the steering wheel and lift a toe down at the accelerator . . . gears shift themselves!

The front floor is all clear of levers . . . nothing to stumble over. There's nothing new to learn, gear positions are unchanged. But you no longer need tug at a hand gear lever, or even touch the clutch pedal.

Come in now . . . drive today, tomorrow's way. You'll enjoy it . . . and we'll enjoy having you discover all it means to you.

Flick a finger . . . Lift a toe . . . AND GEARS SHIFT!

CHAIN STORE TAX DECISION

The line of reasoning pursued by Louisiana's legislature in levying an exorbitant and unreasonable tax on chain stores within its boundaries is difficult to understand. Undoubtedly purpose of the tax levy was to raise funds to pay off the crushing state debt imposed upon the people by the Huey Long regime. But economists decry any tax which destroys its source and that is exactly what the Louisiana levy will do.

The law provides that where a chain has a total of ten stores or fewer anywhere in the world, each Louisiana store of the chain must pay a tax of $10. The highest tax is paid by chains having more than 500 stores. They must pay a tax of $550 a year on each store they operate in Louisiana.

The constitutionality of the levy was challenged by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. which operates 15,000 outlets for its grocery goods. This chain has 100 stores in Louisiana, and will be liable for taxes totaling $55,000 yearly for the 100 stores.

The A & P did not object to a tax calculated on the number of stores it operated in the state of Louisiana alone, whereby a $50 per store tax would have been levied. The supreme court sustained the law as passed by the Louisiana Legislature, which law levies a graduated tax upon the entire number of stores operated by a chain in the United States. The decision of the court is as incomprehensible as was the law passed by the Baton Rouge legislators.

Chances are that, as counsel for the food chain contended, the A & P will now or eventually be driven from Louisiana to escape the burden of taxes upon its stores.

The whole question of chain store taxes reverts back to the belief prevalent in many quarters that the chains are a blight upon economic order and should be broken up by legislation. Whether consciously or not, that is exactly what is being done in Louisiana and other states, where the chains have been made the goats in appropriation bills during the difficult years of depression.

The writer is making no attempt to picture the chains as saints upon the economic horizon, but is concerned solely with their status in and benefits to the economic order of the day.

First, it must be remembered that many of the old arguments against chain store operation no longer hold good. The Robinson-Patman act outlaws price discrimination and many of the other advantages long enjoyed by A & P and other mass buyers. No longer is the small buyer handicapped by discounts and preferential treatment accorded

EDITORIAL

WELCOME, STRANGER

We say, "Welcome, Stranger," only if you CAN be a stranger in Coryell County. Our latch-string's out! It's your Rodeo and Home-Coming, and we (all Gatesville) want you to thoroughly enjoy every hilarious minute of it. Again, we say, "Welcome."

MODERN GATESVILLE

Gatesville is a modernizing town! It has a gradual growth tempered with conservatism. Not the radical, over built, over-estimated city that many are.

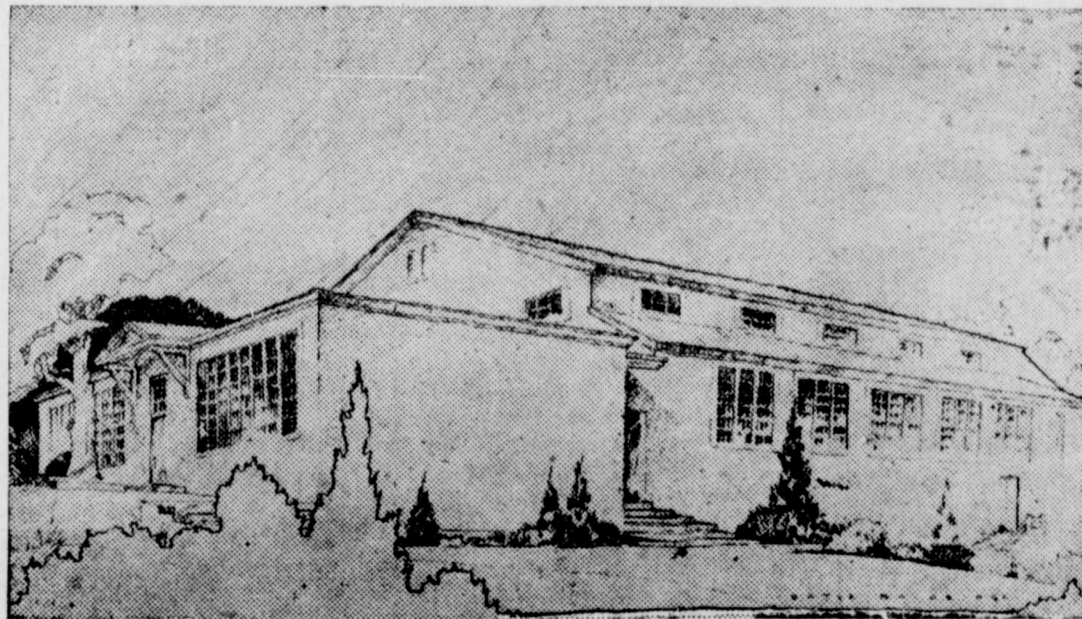

Gatesville, since its founding as a frontier town, has taken its growth with a grain of salt, slow, and solid as an oak, a town that will stand the gaff of years to come, because of its careful, steady and slow growth.

Gatesville, now, with the advent of the streamlined age, is gradually and carefully being streamlined, so as to keep up with the modern trends thruout the world, and not in a hurried way, which shocks and disturbs the gradual processes of civilization and progress.

In this growth and progress, not one of us is responsible for this care in achievement, but all of us. It takes concerted, cooperative, progressive, foresighted aims and ideals to forward anything including a municipality or a community, and that is what we have here in Gatesville and Coryell County.

It is your assistance, help, suggestions and beliefs that will make this possible. May we have them?

HIGH SCHOOL GYMNASIUM CONSTRUCTED IN 1935

The new high school gymnasium, designed by Doyle Baldrige, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Baldrige, is one of the greatest additions to the school equipment. It has been used for the past two years. Special Drawing by Doyle Baldrige, and engraving made in the News photo-engraving department.

Teachers Invited to Free Curriculum School At Baylor, June 4-5

Waco, Tex. May 29—All public school teachers of Central Texas are invited to attend, without charge or fees of any kind, the special two-day curriculum conference that will be held on the Baylor University campus here June 4 and 5, under the sponsorship of the Baylor school of education.

Heading up the list of the more notable educators who will lead the discussions of various aspects of present curriculum problems are such men as Dr. Ellsworth Collings, dean of the college of education at the University of Oklahoma; Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction in Texas; Dr. C. F. Arrowood, professor of education at the University of Texas; Prof. W. A. Stigler, Austin, co-director of curriculum in the state department of education; Dr. T. C. Brooks, dean of the graduate school of Texas A. & M. College; Prof. A. M. Tate, Austin, deputy state supervisor of the state department of education, and Superintendent R. H. Brister of the Waco Public Schools.

Representing Coryell County on the program will be Mrs. J. E. Huddleston of the Oglesby school, who will speak on "One Way of Teaching the Home Unit in the Primary Grades" before the primary teachers Saturday morning.

World Comment—

the large buyer by the manufacturer and producer. If the independent does not merchandise his goods as cheaply as does the chain, it is because he greedily demands a larger profit which the consumer is under no obligation to pay.

Secondly, the attitude of the consumer toward the chain must be considered. Certainly his attitude toward the chain store is not one of hostility, as evidenced by the millions who are daily purchasers at the chain store. The truth of the matter is that the chain store has brought advantages to the buyer with small capital and small salary for which he is grateful.

Lastly, what would result in a breakup of the great chain organizations? The most evident result would be the discharge of thousands of laborers who, under present conditions, could but enter the vast army of the unemployed. Would this benefit the consumer, who pays taxes to support the jobless?

Another aspect: Would prices remain at their present low level if the chains were driven out? Without the stimulating competition of the chain store, would not the independent rocket the prices of his goods to the level preceding the advent of the chain store?

Louisiana's chain stores pay needed taxes into the Long-depleted treasury when those store are no more, the independent merchandisers who clamor for the chain store tax must shoulder the extra burden vacated by the closed chain store. Three losers: consumer, independent merchandiser, chain store operator and his employees.

New York World's Fair Site From 9,000 Feet Up

NEW YORK, (Special).—Photography and ingenuity combine to show about how the New York Fair will appear in 1939 to visitors arriving from the west in planes flying at an altitude of one and three-quarters miles. Cameraman made this "shot" from a plane over the New Jersey meadows. Shown in the foreground is the shipping along the Hudson—Manhattan with its towers grouped about the Empire State building (center) which houses present headquarters of the Fair—and in the middle distance the 1,216½ acre site of the 1939 international exposition. To the right lies Brooklyn and, beyond, the hinterland of Long Island. At the extreme left, spanning the East river, is the new Triborough bridge over which many of the 50,000,000 visitors expected at the Fair will motor to the convenient parking lots. A photograph of the table model of the Fair has been superimposed on the negative of the air view to show the grid of the central exhibit zone, the boat basin being constructed on Flushing Bay and the lagoons that will feature the exposition's amusement zone.

The census bureau reported recently that domestic consumption of 678,064 bales of cotton in January set an all time record for the month. The previous high was 663,268 in January, 1929.

The new January peak was slightly smaller than the previous month.

December consumption of 692,922 bales set a new consumption mark for that month, the bureau said.

For the first six months of this season, ended January 31, domestic consumption of 3,848,195 bales was more than 800,000 ahead of the first half of last season's 3,014,381 bales.

FIT GEM AND EVER-READY RAZORS

On the eve of Gatesville's First Annual Rodeo and Home-Coming let us pause and cast a ruminative eye on these events that are casting their shadows before them.

Although much preparatory work has been done and many conferences and councils have been held a rodeo is a simple affair. There are three fundamental facts for the basis of a successful rodeo:

1. Get as large a crowd together as possible (at so much per head).
2. Collect a number of wild-eyed, foamingmouthed beasts that have an inherent hatred for mankind.
3. Set some blankety-blank individual (who isn't too bright) on top of one of these man-eating mammals, and holler, "Yippee, cowboy, ride 'im!" The rest takes care of itself. (which usually is, to wit: 1. a snorting, head-tossing, heel-kicking horse at one end of arena. 2. A disheveled, dusty cowboy sitting on his posterior, with a sheepish grin on his face, at the other end of the arena.

These, of course, are the bare essentials of a rodeo. Other things must be taken in account to insure a successful and profitable evening's entertainment.

If it can be arranged to have someone killed, either with a broken neck or crushed skull, then the gathering is 100 per cent successful. The next performance will draw thousands and thousands of eager-eyed fans. If a good bloody accident isn't available then the next best thing is to have some sky riding bronc peeler soar gracefully through the ozone, up and over the railing, to alight in an innocent bystander's lap. In case of such an event there is always some village wit who will rise up and shout, "Throw the next one my way!"

There have been rodeos in which no contestants has been legitimately killed or injured. When such a calamity happens then trickery and chicanery must be resorted to, or the crowd shows its disgust by various loud outcries, such as "wake up Myrtle, this is where we came in."

A ringer is inserted in the program. A performer is given his orders to go out and simulate near-death for the enjoyment of the customers. He may resort to several tricks, one of which is known as the "Dragging Walk." After being dashed to the ground by his mount, he attempts to rise. One leg buckles under him and he sprawls to the ground uttering strange moaning cries. Two of his buddies, having received their cue, rush out to his aid and drag him from the arena, trailing his limbs behind him while he expresses agonized torture. The audience, appeased, sinks back into its respective seats and waits breathlessly for the next victim. Etc., etc.

Young men, escorting their love lives to the occasion, would do well to take first-aid precautions before starting. It is advisable to wrap the right arm well with very heavy tape, imparting a rigid, iron-like quality to it, for protection against vise-like grips from the sweet young thing during tense moments. Trained observers, standing outside entrances to exciting sporting events, have reported that 73 to 84 per cent of young men accompanied by female companions leave such events with their right arms swollen beyond belief. Three instances on medical records show complete paralysis of the right arm as a result of the frenzied of some frilly doll who thinks "it's just too exciting for words." A word to the wise should be sufficient.

There is also some doubt as to the questionability of consuming popcorn, candy, peanuts, or soft drinks during the actual entertainment. A handful of peanuts chucked in the expiglottis at the wrong moment will produce momentary strangulation, causing the victim to choke and gasp while his neighbors must pound him on the back until the bluish tint is gone from his face and he can breathe normally once more. Drinking out of a bottle while watching an exciting encounter between man and beast is frowned upon in polite society. If an involuntary exclamation going up meets a gulp of (name your own pizen) coming down, then the two rows of spectators below will be treated with a spontaneous shower. It is something to be guarded against.

In spite of all these complications, a rodeo is still essentially a simple affair, suited for rugged hearts. All that is really necessary to enjoy it is to just lean back in your seat and shout, "Hook 'im cowboy! E-e-e-e-Yow!"

HISTORY BOOKS TO EMPHASIZE PEACE

The Mexican government, cooperating with 18 other Latin American countries, is changing its history books so school children will begin to study more of peace and less of war. The department of education has begun the work of revising history texts to eliminate references to Mexican victories over other countries which reflect upon the moral spirit of the vanquished. Elements that might stir up radical prejudice or unfriendly criticism of other nations will be minimized.

Residents of Montecito, Cal., are said to have more wealth per capita than those of any other settlement in the world.

World's Greatest Pianist Says: "I Hated Piano"

Preferred Pony; Writes Memoires

EIGHTEEN years ago this month the greatest Polish pianist became the first Prime Minister of Poland. Caught in the swirl of post-war events, Paderewski gave all his fortune to help Poland gain independence, and his sharp intelligence gained world-wide recognition among the powers at Versailles.

Today, Paderewski, 76 years old, has retired. But this month from his mountain retreat in Switzerland the old gentleman speaks again, not of politics, but of his own dramatic and often amusing experiences since his early childhood in war-torn Poland.

The autobiography, as told to Mary Lawton, distinguished actress-writer, and put together by her with infinite charm and sympathy, appears in the Saturday Evening Post, beginning with the January 23rd issue.

The bare facts of Paderewski's life are common knowledge. How at four he saw his native village wiped out and his father carried away to a Russian prison; his persistent struggles to fight against the handicap of an early musical education so limited as to be of no real use to him later; his studies with Leschetizky; his tragic first love affair that left him a widower and a father at the end of one brief year, these are as well known as his sacrifice of art and fortune for the cause of Poland during the later years of the World War, and his election as first Premier of United Poland, January 12, 1919.

In the memoirs these facts are set off by a series of anecdotes both tender and serious, which bring the titan of the music world within delightful understanding of every layman. Paderewski, at seven, preferred his pony to his piano! Stranger still, for many years during his adult life, he actually hated the instrument and brought himself to play only by terrific pressure of will power.

Of chief interest to Americans may well be the large portion of the work that deals with his impressions of the United States and his American friends. His first American tour with practice so strenuous that he has never entirely recovered from the strain on his arms and fourth finger; his strange two weeks at the Chicago Fair, when he slept in rooms at the Fair Grounds where the plaster was not yet dry; the extraordinary appearance in Texas at a Confederate Veterans Convention where the crashing chords of the Chopin Military Polonaise aroused the old soldiers to such enthusiasm that war days walked again and they broke out into battle cries and Rebel yells in the midst of the concert, frightening the poor pianist who thought the wooden hall was on fire; his first night of a sky-scraper, in Chicago — not New York — on and on march the anecdotes.

More than once Paderewski points out the sacrifices of time and energy necessary to the making of such a career. There was little time for friends, and at times animals seemed more sympathetic than human beings. There was the musical spider, for instance, and the impertinent dog at the German Spa. And there was "Cockney Roberts," the Australian parrot! Out of all those pages, if the reader walks away with one friend besides Paderewski, that friend will be surely Cockney Roberts!

That impudent, raucous, sentimental parrot travelled with the Paderewskis for fifteen years. He hated sea trips and Paderewski's stateroom would resound with cries of "wretch, wretch!... Go to hell" as the poor parrot in his cage slid up and down the swaying stateroom and regarded the seasick artist with baleful eye. But Cockney Roberts loved music. When Paderewski practiced, hour after hour, he sat perched on his foot, crying from time to time in his hoarse voice, "Ah, how beautiful, how beautiful." It was "touching."

He had a vocabulary of over 1000 words, did Cockney Roberts, and a voice so ugly that Paderewski was finally forced to leave him at home to escape the rasping sound that was never still from morning till night.

Yet with a curious telepathy Paderewski tells how first voice cried in his imagination again and again the night Cockney Roberts died, alone in a hen house in Switzerland.

And, if one would pay tribute to the frank and charming life story of the great man, one could find no more fitting phrase than Cockney Roberts' words: "How beautiful!"

Meals and Memories on Memorial Day

By Betty Barclay

There may be Paraders in your family today. There may be sad visits to last resting places. There may be cheerful, youthful salutes to the photographs of family heroes. There may be nothing more than relaxation and reflection.

But the inner man must be served. Dainties are expected on Memorial Day—especially if the usual Memorial Day guests arrive.

Strawberry Brazil Nut Charlotte

- 1 pint strawberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1 cup sliced Brazil nuts
- Salt
- 1 cup cream
- 6 whole Brazil nuts

Wash and pick over strawberries and reserve half a dozen for garnishing. Hull remaining berries and crush with sugar. Set in a warm place until sugar is dissolved. Soak gelatin in cold water a few minutes and stir over hot water until dissolved. Stir into strawberry mixture, stir occasionally until mixture is cool and add sliced Brazil nuts. Add salt to cream, whip and fold into strawberry mixture. Pour into mold, chill several hours until set, turn out of mold and garnish with strawberries and whole Brazil nuts.

Pineapple Sabayon

- 2 egg yolks
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1/2 cup Hawaiian pineapple juice
 - Pinch of salt
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - Few drops rum flavoring
- Beat yolks of eggs until thick and creamy, add sugar and place in top of double boiler and continue to beat. Add the pineapple juice, salt and flavoring. Remove beater and stir well with a wooden spoon for 2 minutes longer.

Keep water in bottom of the double boiler below the boiling point or the mixture will curdle.

Serve hot in small sherbet glasses and with several lady fingers on the plate. This may also be used as a sauce for bread or fruit puddings. 2 average servings.

Italian Spaghetti Sauce

A tasty and delicious sauce for macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles may be simple or elaborate, meatless or with meat, as desired.

Meatless Sauce

- 1 can tomatoes (strained)
- 1 can tomato paste
- 2 onions (sliced)
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Salt and pepper

Cook above ingredients for about an hour, or till thick, stirring frequently. Boil spaghetti, macaroni or egg noodles till tender, in plenty of salted water. Drain. Pour sauce over boiled spaghetti and serve hot.

Meat Sauce

To the ingredients for the meatless sauce, add a half pound of ground fresh or left-over meat. Cook as directed.

(1) A more elaborate sauce is made by adding such flavoring elements as mushrooms, pimientos, garlic, celery, sage, thyme, bay-leaves, allspice, etc.

(2) Put surplus sauce in a tight jar; keep in cool place for later use, re-heating as needed.

On Your Doorstep

On your doorstep this morning is an extra supply of milk—for your guests or perhaps for your first picnic of the season. Parade or no parade, picnic or no picnic, guests or no guests, modern methods of distributing this healthful food, insure delivery. Milk is one of the oldest foods known to man. In the Bible the story of the Promised Land visioned—not gold—but a land of "milk and honey." Milk provides almost every type of nourishment needed by the human body. Truly your milk supply is as dependable as daybreak.

"Nation's Fair" Their Objective

Mrs. Vincent Astor
Winthrop W. Aldrich

NEW YORK (Special)—Mrs. Vincent Astor, society leader and civic worker, has been appointed Chairman of a National Women's Advisory Committee for the New York World's Fair of 1939. Winthrop W. Aldrich, Chairman of the Chase National Bank, is heading the men's National Committee. Together they will enlist more than 10,000 committee workers in a nationwide campaign to arouse interest in and create support for the New York Fair. Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation has announced that State Chairmen will be named later and that every state will be brought into active participation in the New York Fair, making it truly national.

1939 World's Fair Has New Ideas About Amusement Features

NEW YORK, (Special).—"Only seeing will be believing," says President Grover Whalen of the New York World's Fair 1939 Corporation, as he tries to envision what the Fair is planning, more than two years in advance, in the way of facilities for recreation, entertainment and amusement.

Every man, woman and child in the United States, he says, has an interest in the 1939 Fair and to some degree or other has a part in the building of that Fair. The exposition, therefore, will surpass all previous fairs, not only in the demonstration of the wonders of the world or present-day life and in the projection of the World of Tomorrow, but also in providing the utmost variety of entertainment and amusement for every man, woman and child.

The entire world will be tapped for every amusement possibility. The tiresome mediocrity of stunts and side shows—the stock-in-trade relics of the amusement world of yesterday—will give way to a new and modern standard of excellence. The plan of the New York World's Fair has anticipated the requirements for entertainment and is making them a part of the general scheme of the Fair, rather than allowing them to spring up as an appendage or an afterthought. Even the tiny children will have a playground reserved exclusively for their own use.

New Lighting, Even Bubbles in Color To Beautify Fair

NEW YORK, (Special).—None of the scientific discoveries or developments being hurried from the laboratories to make the New York World's Fair unusual and thrilling will produce more startling results than the latest technique in illumination.

This statement was issued by Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, at the inauguration of experiments by the Fair's staff of engineers and illumination experts or their consultants. These men are already at work with quarter-inch scale models of the Fair types of lighting equipment never before used in comprehensive manner, and utterly new principles never developed practically. They are dealing with everything from fluorescent dies and colored bubbles to concentrating lamps and floodlight systems.

The plan is not to create spectacular effects in the usual sense of the term, says Mr. Whalen, but rather to create designs in light that will make their appeal through their magnitude and their sheer beauty.

MELODRAMA OF HIWIATHA TO BE GIVEN AS RECITAL WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Frances Crist presents Miss Patsy Olsen and Miss Frances McCoy in recital Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Methodist church Jack Reesing will play the accompaniment. This program includes selections from the poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow with musical setting for Pianoforte by Saidie Knowland. Miss Belva McCoy and Nell Goddall will sing "Pale Moon."

Misses McCoy and Olsen will wear costumes and the setting will be typically Indian. Clearer lighting effects and music will make the reading of this poem very effective and beautiful.

Misses Anita Lowrey and Rosylene Anderson will act as ushers. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THIS story may not prove the efficacy of prayer but it's a good story just the same.

A negro who was very poor was caught trying to steal a chicken in a small town down South. His defense was that he was too poor to buy any fowl for the holidays which were then only a week off.

The pastor of the church got him off with a promise that he would steal no more and then told the poor man that if he prayer fervently for the Lord to send him a fowl, that surely he would receive one.

The darkey went home and three days later the pastor visited his parishioner and asked him how his prayers were making out. "Ve'y po'ly," answered the darkey, "don't seem like the Lord hears my prayers at all. I benn praying ev'ry night, Oh, Lawd send me a turkey! but none ain't come yit."

"Don't despair," said the parson, "renew your prayers with vigor and dey will be answered."

Two days later the parson madd another visit to the house of his parishioner and smelled the savors of a frying fowl. "Ah, my brother," said the preacher, "I see the Lord has answered you at last."

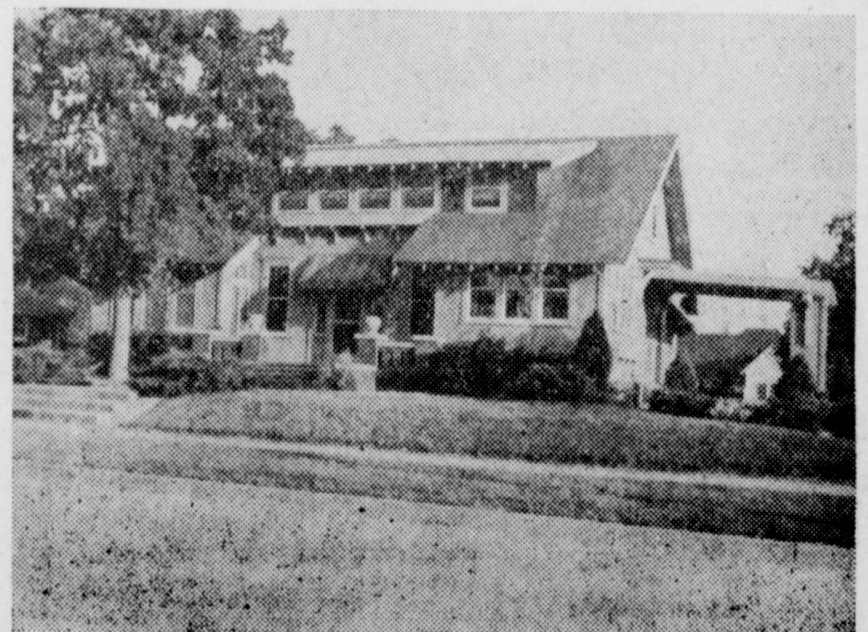

"Yes," said the poor darkey. "But only after I changed my prayer around a bit. You see he didn't answer when I prayed, Oh Lawd, send me a turkey, so last night I said, Oh Lawd, send me to a turkey and parson would you believe it! He sent me one inside of ten minutes."

The first newspaper published west of the Alleghenies, the Kentucky Gazette, was established at Lexington, Ky., in 1787.

BRYAN ARNOLD, WEST POINT GRADUATE YESTERDAY AT ACADEMY

Graduation ceremonies at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, which will conclude the four year tour as a cadet of two hundred and ninety-nine aspirants toward a Second Lieutenants' commission in the United States Army, will be held on June 12th in the beautiful new amphitheatre, situated on the slopes of the Hudson, just north of the West Point plain. Bryan Arnold, formerly of Gatesville is a member of this class.

General Malin Craig, Chief of Staff, United States Army, will present the diplomas to the BRYAN ARNOLD graduating class, and will deliver the graduation address. General Craig graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1898.

Following the exercises the graduating cadets will be granted a three months' leave of absence before reporting to their first station for duty as officers. The majority of the class has indicated that they will spend this leave at home, although a few have obtained permission from the War Department to visit Europe.

Bryan C. Arnold entered West Point after receiving an appointment from Representative O. H. Cross, 11th Dist., Texas. He attended and graduated from Gatesville High School and studied at the John Tarleton College, Stephenville, for two years, before entering the military academy. He stands 250th in his class academically. In athletics, he has participated in football, playing tackle. He also was a

JUDGE R. B. CROSS SPEAKS BEFORE THE COMANCHE HIGH SCHOOL

District Judge R. B. Cross was the commencement speaker at Comanche high school Tuesday evening of last week, when 55 members of the graduating class received their diplomas from that high school.

Judge Cross stated in part that he was "grieved by the fact that there were more than 700,000 American boys and girls of high school age in the United States who had committed some major crime." He also stated, that "obedience to the law is one of the primary essentials to success."

KIDDIE'S KARNIVAL LAUDED BEST CHILDREN'S SHOW STAGED IN THE CITY

Amid a setting depicting a Karnival scene pupils of the Davidson Kindergarten, with ages ranging from 2½ years to 6, presented their final program of the year in the form of a Kiddie's Karnival on the stage of the Regal Theatre, Thursday night, before a very enthusiastic audience. Mrs. Creg Davidson, teacher, was assisted by Mrs. Sherill Kendrick, dancing teacher and Mrs. Earnest Blankenship, piano accompanist.

The Sugar Cookie Band played the following numbers, "Sugar Cookie March," "Wedding of Jack and Jill" and "Organ Grinders Swing." Members of the band wore cookie colored uniforms with prune buttons and flat cookie hats centered with a prune.

A gay musical, drill with five lovely little ladies whirling ruffled parasols which matched their long garden dresses was next presented the Karnival audience after which flower girls entered scattering rose petals for the entrance of the Queen. Little Miss Billie Doris White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo White, in all solemn dignity her royal title bestowed entered wearing a long pink satin gown studded in jewels and her train, also of pink satin, had a high stand-up collar of silver.

member of the Cadet Choir, and participated in the One Hundredth Night Shows, annual productions given by the cadets one hundred days before June. Arnold was also company representative for the Pointer, the cadet bi-weekly publication.

Before entering the academy, he was a member of the R.O.T. C. Unit of the John Tarleton College, Stephenville, Texas for two years, and also serving with the Texas National Guard for one year.

He will be commissioned in the infantry upon graduation.

MRS. WALLIS WARFIELD SIMPSON NOW

JUNE 3 SHE'LL BE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

A disturber of thrones, kingdoms, nations, individuals, and one heart we know of, is the stately Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, who Thursday of this week, "gets her man," the Duke of Windsor, again proving that "Woman Chases Man," as the story goes which is now going on in the News.

It is forbidden by the powers that be in Old England, to call her Her Royal Highness, but what else could anyone call such a lady. We ask you?

Regardless, on Thursday of this week, two "ouis," will again make two one, with Cupid the victor over the kingdoms and palaces as usual.

They'll never know it, but we believe you'll join us in wishing them a happy, prosperous life, and extend them an invitation to visit the United States, if not Coryell County.

MEETING AT CHURCH OF CHRIST WILL CONT. TWO WEEKS

Jesse Powell, pastor of the Church of Christ at Arlington, is conducting a two week's gospel meeting at the local Church of Christ.

The new Church of Christ building, completed last August, is the scene of the meeting and the public is invited to hear this convincing and forceful speaker. Services begin each morning at 10 o'clock, and each evening at 8 o'clock.

PAINTER MODERNIZES CURB LOWERING SO FENDERS WON'T BE BENT

Modernization is the theme of the day and is being further carried out by Painter's this week, when the curb in front of this store was lowered so the 1937 modern automobile fenders won't be bent against the curb, or the bumpers won't hang.

Most of the curbs in Gatesville were built during the era when horse and buggies, surreys and wagons were the rage. The curbs at this time were built so that a wagon or buggy could be driven up and supplies loaded into them more conveniently.

Poage Is Speaker When Eighty-Two Graduate At High School Gym

Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage was the commencement speaker for the 1937 Gatesville high school graduating class, Thursday evening in the gymnasium before a near capacity crowd. He was introduced by Judge R. B. Cross of this city.

Dorothy Swindall, gave the Satutory address, and as an award, was given a choice of scholarships in nearly any Southern college or university.

John P. Reesing, Jr., better known as "Jack," the Valedictorian, was awarded a scholarship in Baylor University and accepted, altho he was offered other scholarships.

Other awards were: Freshman; Marguerite Kelso, gold medal donated by J. M. Prewitt Co.; Sophomore; Martha Moore, gold medal, by Guaranty Bank & Trust Co.

Junior award: Mary Evelyn Eubanks, gold medal, H. S. Compton, Senior All-around; Bob Thomas, gold medal, donated by Byron Leaird, Sr.

All-around athlete: Joe Baker, gold medal, donated by White and Brown, Home Economics award: Frances McCoy, gold medal, donated by Fletcher and Beerwinkle.

Typing Honors: For winning district, regional, and going to the state finals, Linda Erle Hayes and Mary Evelyn Eubanks, medals, donated by the Woodstock Typewriter Company.

Presentation of awards were made by Edgar Franks, President of the School Board; presentation of scholarships was made by Principal Erle Worley, and presentation of diplomas was made by Superintendent Er-cell W. Brooks. Rev. C. A. Morton pronounced the benediction, and Rev. M. M. Chunn gave the invocation. Music was furnished by the Junior Orchestra under the direction of D. W. Sirens, and special numbers were given by Belva McCoy, Dorothy Dillshaw, Ethel Diserens, Nelle Goodall, and Bertha Lillian Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler and family of South Bend, Texas spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Culberson and family.

Swinging into action after months of preparation Gatesville will present its first Annual Rodeo and Homecoming Friday and Saturday of this week.

Starting with a large and colorful parade at 12:30 on Friday the gates of the rodeo will open promptly at 1 o'clock with the performance scheduled to start an hour later. Crowds from all over Central Texas are expected to fill the grandstands of the Athletic Field to capacity.

Outlaw horses and mean-tempered Brahma steers will arrive in Gatesville some time Wednesday. Emmett Digsby and Doc Spence, who are in charge of the rodeo program, have been combing the ranges of South Texas for several weeks to find these animals and have sent advance word that they are "wildest and meanest" they have ever seen.

The parade, which precedes the opening performance Friday afternoon, will have many interesting features. The rodeo contestants, attired in the colorful and traditional holiday regalia and mounted on prancing cow ponies, will be seen, as well as the Gatesville High School Band, clad in their new golden uniforms, the State Training School band, the football squad and the pep squad from Gatesville High School, a real Western chuck wagon, dozens of children on bicycles, and City and Rodeo officials. The parade will proceed from the Methodist Church down main street and around the square to the rodeo grounds, The Athletic Field, with a seating capacity of 2000, has been remodeled for this special occasion into a modern rodeo arena. Chutes and pens for the stock have been constructed and details worked out so that the show will move with precision from one event to the next. To protect spectators from jumping Brahma steers the fence around the field has been heightened.

Two shows daily, at 2 and 8 p. m., an Friday and Saturday will give everyone an opportunity to witness Gatesville's epic Wild West celebration. "Meet me in Gatesville June 4 and 5."

Lets Talk about Clothes
TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN (CIA)

Denton, May 27.—Now is the time for good women to figure out their hairdresses for the rest of the Spring and Summer. Most of the new hats are designed to expose the coiffure, so one must be sure to have something worth exposing.

Variety is as present in hair styles as in hats, with longer bobs, almost shoulder length, definitely coming in again. The "flat on top" styles are most favored except for formal wear, when small bunches of curls can be perched all around the crown of one's head. Unless a natural curl is present, the foundation of a permanent is necessary for every fashion.

For the pill-box or shallow basket hats, try the new page-boy coiffure, with some medieval picture contributed to the modern scene. The hair hangs straight to the nape of the neck where it turns under in a thick roll. Straight bangs are effective with this style, if one can manage them without loss of dignity.

Large soft waves one each side of the face are best with profile hats, and for the rounded brims thick curls which lap over them give a polished, completed appearance.

General rules which will keep one on the right path are: first, those fortunates with perfect features can wear sculptured curls with the sides swept backward and upward; second, tall slender faced people usually find bangs becoming; and third, hair dressing is a necessary preliminary to hat shopping, because now more than ever before your hat and hair must complement each other, thus doubly complementing you.

Miss Dolyc Ray Harman Weds Dallasite

In a single ring ceremony performed by the Rev. E. D. Shelton at his home on Fouts street, on Saturday evening, May 29th, at 7:00, Miss Dolyc Ray Harman became the bride of J. Drué Marbut of Dallas. Accompanying the young couple were Miss Clyde and Lyndon Harman, sister and brother of the bride, Dauris E. Rhoades, and the groom's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coates of Covington.

The bride wore a smart suit of navy alpaca, with touches of white, and chose white accessories.

Mrs. Marbut is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harman of the Harman community. After finishing high school at Lampasas, she attended Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos, and for the past four years has been teaching in the Harman school.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Marbut of Covington, Texas. He also attended the Teachers College at San Marcos where he was a popular member of the Glee Club and Men's Quartet. He taught in the rural schools of Wilson County, and is now employed with the Resettlement Administration in Dallas.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left for a brief wedding trip, after which they will be at home to their friends at 712 3rd. Avenue, Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. E. L. Stewart Club Hostess

Members and guests of the Thursday Bridge Club were entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. L. Stewart on East Bridge street.

Those sharing the courtesy were, Mesdames C. E. Gandy, R. B. Cross, Laura Rayford, B. D. Reynolds, D. D. McCoy, R. W. Ward, Lee Colwick, Robert W. Brown, Miller Stinnett, Stewart Williams, R. L. Saunders, W. H. Satterfield. Delicious refreshments were served at conclusion of games.

Mrs. George Bean Extended Lovely Courtesy

Mrs. A. L. Chollar entertained a group of friends at her home on East Main street Friday afternoon as a compliment to Mrs. George Bean who moved to Sonora, Sunday. Pink Carnations and pink verbenas arranged in vases were used for decorating the party rooms and a lovely corsage of pastel shades of sweet peas marked the honoree's place.

In games of bride high score awards were presented Mesdames Hugh R. Saunders and E. L. Stewart. A guest prize was given the honoree.

A salad course was served at conclusion of games. O. N. Hix, H. C. Stinnett, Lee Colwick, H. R. Saunders, George Painter, Kermit R. Jones, Robert W. Brown, E. L. Stewart, W. H. Satterfield, Frances Caruth, Miss Vera Casey and the honoree. Callers were Mesdames Charles P. McGregor and Walfter F. Budinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Nesbitt Entertain Club

The Thursday Night Bridge Club was entertained Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Nesbitt on East Main street. Bouquets of summer flowers were placed throughout the party rooms.

Delicious refreshments of angel food sticks and grape juice marlow were served the following: Messrs and Mesdames E. W. Jones Jr., Johnnie Bradford, Floyd Zeigler, L. K. Thomson Jr., Mrs. Clark Jensen and David Franks. High score awards were presented Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Thomson Jr.

Merry Wives Club Entertained

Mrs. Hugh R. Saunders was hostess Thursday afternoon to members of the Merry Wives Club at her home on East Bridge street. Bowls of roses were used for decorating the party rooms.

Games of "84" furnished the diversion of the afternoon, at the conclusion of which, the hostess served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Those present were Mesdames B. B. Garrett, J. M. Prewitt, P. D. Holt, Edgar Franks, Jeff Bates, B. H. Melbern, T. M. Davidson, Frank Kelse, Charlie Caruth, J. O. Brown, F. J. Battle, Ed McMordie, Levi Anderson, E. H. Nesbitt, E. G. Beerwinkle, W. C. Guggolz.

CORYELL COUNTY TEACHERS COLLEGE AND VACATION BOUND THIS SUMMER

By Doris Ament
Schools being out in Gatesville and Coryell County finds the teachers free to do as they please for another three months. However, a great number of them, after a short breathing spell, seem intent upon this business of going to school and have made their plans to go or have gone to various colleges over the state where many of them will receive degrees at the end of the summer semester.

Others have returned to their respective homes of the summer months, and still others plan to be at home after a short or prolonged visit to friends and relatives or to various points of interest over the country.

Among those who plan to attend school are Misses Maude Alyce Painter, Wilhemenia Casey, and Bess Holmes, who will go to San Marcos. Miss Lila Barbee and Miss Lizzie Dendy also expect to attend this school.

Among those going to the University of Texas at Austin are Miss Inez Stockwell, Mr. Lonnie Ray Briggs, and Miss Imogene Young. Miss Noleta Hart, Miss Freda McCorkle, Miss Ouida Campbell, Miss Ima Fellers, Miss Sally Britain, Miss Margaret Dixon, Eloise Young, Miss Emma Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Anderson will go to N.T.S.T.C. in Denton. L. A. Holmes and Joe G. Walton have chosen Howard Payne in Brownwood. Mrs. E. A. Culp Jr. and Miss Erine Carroll go to Baylor in Waco. Johnnie Edwards will attend Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. Miss Pearl Brown will attend Columbia University in New York.

M. L. Bannister will return to his home in Waco. Glenn McLaughlin and Miss Louise Carl have returned to their homes in Abilene and Waco respectively. Miss Lois Scott will spend the summer in Old Mexico and Colorado. After a short trip to Lubbock and Amarillo, Miss Louise Hall will return to her home in Gatesville. G. G. Northcutt is vacationing in Mexico and the Rio Grande Valley. Among those teachers who have not yet decided to spend the summer elsewhere are Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook, Miss Katherine Gordon, Miss Edna Murray, and Miss Ethel Routh. Coach Erle Worley and Miss Ernestine Durham, after spending a short time with their families will return to teach school. Mrs. Frances Crist plans to spend the summer vacationing in New York and Canada. M. Tharp plans to attend the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon. M. J. Coleman and Miss Jeannette Bagby will go to the University of Texas. Other Denton students will be Laura Tharp and Ozella Hargis.

CLEMENT GRAIN COMPANY HAS OFFICE OVER GUARANTY

Ben E. Clement, Sr., of Leon Junction, has just opened up an office over the Guaranty Bank & Trust Company where he will buy grain wholesale and sell wholesale to the bigger grain dealers, but will not buy from local producers, but thru local grain dealers only.

Mr. Clement was for a number of years in the grain and seed business in Waco, and is a former president of the National Grain Dealers Association.

At present, besides his grain business, Mr. Clement owns a large farm near Leon Junction and maintains his home there.

EDITION IS OVERSOLD! WE OMIT O. L. BRAZZIL

In making the courthouse round, in making up the Coryell County Officials page, we sold a space to County Treasurer O. L. Brazzil, and, in the layout omitted his name. Mr. Brazzil is better off the amount of his part of the page, and we are short that much, in addition to being sorry the error occured.

We give you this news so that you will know Mr. Brazzil extends his invitation to Coryell countians and visitors as well as the other county officers. It's our error.

OLD JAIL BEING TORN DOWN FOR NEW BUILDING

Coryell County's old jail will be just a memory, shortly!

Owned by the Brown Estate, the old jail, which we understand was built in 1876 is being torn down to make way for a new building which the Browns are planning to build at this location.

So far, no relics have been found, but there's no telling what will be uncovered before the demolishing is completed.

POSITIVE PROOF! MERCHANTS WELCOME YOU

Fourteen hundred and twenty-one inches of advertising is contained in the 32 pages of this, the News' Rodeo and Home-coming edition. The total column inches are 2,560, representing 91 advertisers, leaving 1,139 inches for news, pictures and features.

Merchants in Gatesville have co-operated splendidly in the preparation of this edition—beyond our fondest expectations—because we only expected a 24-page paper when we started out last Friday, May 21.

These advertising merchants are the ones that make your county and town. We ask that you read these ads and visit these merchants at your earliest convenience.

On her head she wore a crown of silver, set with deep blue and diamond jewels and she carried a wand entwined with flowers. She ascended her throne with all the grace and dignity of a queen to the applause of the entire audience. Little Misses Carolyn Blankenship and Martha Ann Hallman presented her with a lovely arm bouquet of queens wreath.

Master Maurice Ashby, acting as Herald, wore satin trousers and shirt and a crown on his head. He announced all numbers on program with great distinction. Patsy Ann Painter, the youngest child in the group, displayed unusual talent in her numbers.

Robert Painter as Capt. Runt, with his sailors bold gave a very attractive tap routine for the entertainment of the queen. The sailors were Fisher Brown, Jackie Richardson, Charles Dickie, Sonny Payne. Next came Uncle Sam, a part played by Rae Juan Lee. Further entertainment was furnished by Kent Biffle, clown of the Carnival.

Story Book Land was represented by Patsy Ann Painter, Charles Dickie, Mary Sue Brown, Kent Biffle, and Martha Ann Hallman.

Dianne Jenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Jenson, gave a solo acrobatic dance, displaying much skill for a child so young.

Kiddies from over the sea were represented by Carolyn Blankenship, and Neta Jean Rogers in a song and novel tap routine entitled, "There's A Little Dutch Mill." Patsy Ruth Schaub made an attractive Japanese girl and Martha Ann Hallman and Mary Sue Brown cleverly dressed in the conventional Scotch plaid gave a tap duo. Rae Juan Lee dressed as a daisy and equally as lovely, gave a solo tap number.

Dianne Jenson as a Marigold was the dainty little bride of Jackie Richardson, the Sweet William. Kent Biffle, as Jack-in-the-Pulpit, united these two in marriage by the laws of Fairyland.

Patsy Ruth Schaub, Neta Jean Rogers, Mary Sue Brown, Carolyn Blankenship and Rae Juan Lee entered with their dolls in their buggies and gave a very effective song and drill. "Rock-A-Bye-Baby."

The Brownies attracted attention as they rode out on decorated tricycles carrying the dainty little fairies. They were Robert and Patsy Ann Painter, Charles Dickie, Patsy Ruth Schaub, Sonny Payne and Belva Jean Patterson. For the closing number the entire group sang, "We Cannot Kiss You All Goodnight."

BAYLOR UNIVERSITY "QUADS" GRADUATE MON.

Here they are, the famous Keys Qupadruplets, who yesterday at Baylor University, Waco were honored and honored the university by being graduated from the university. It was Baylor's 92nd commencement ceremony, and the four girls, Mary Mona Leota, and Roberta, were "thrilled to death" on their graduation. They received AB degrees.

Mr. and Mrs. Flake Keys, their parents, were prouder than they were on June 4, 1915, when the girls were born, in Hollis, Oklahoma.

Citizens of Hollis are planning a big celebration on June 4, their 22nd. birthday, which is also the annual meeting of the Hollis high school association.

Gatesville's only representative in Baylor University's graduating class of 1937 is Bernard Laudermilk, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Laudermilk of this city.
