NUMBER 67

Hearing on Leon River Conservation Program in Hamilton August 25

Large Concourse Gathers For Edd Smith Watson Funeral Services, Sun.

Edd Smith Watson, son of Wells and Susan Goolsby Watson, was born, March 18, 1877 in Tupelo, Miss.

In the year 1893 the family moved to Straws Mill near Gatesville and after living there a year settled in the Pancake community.

On July 19, 1903, Mr. Watson was united in marriage to Miss Sadie Blanche Mayhew, to which union eight children were born, seven of whom survive. A baby son, Claude died in infancy. Surviving with his wife are seven children; Wells, Melvin, Mrs. J. T. Weaver, Clarence, Andrew, Hayden and Mayhew, Jonesboro; two grandchildren, Harold Ray and John Edd Weaver; one own brother, B. F. Watson, Raymondville; 3 half brothers, S. O. Watson, this city; R. H. Jonesboro and Hugh Watson of Rule and Mrs. J. D. Walsh, Jonesboro.

Mr. Watson was converted and united with the Missionary Baptist Church in 1907 where he served as a loyal member until death, which came August 15, 1937 at the family residence in Jonesboro.

Funeral services were held at Jonesboro Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock with Rev. A. Loper officiating assisted by Reverends D. L. Barnes of Turnersville, C. L. Cannady of Crawford. A lovely vocal selection, "Asleep in Jesus," was rendered by Dr. J. H. Hamilton of this city.

Mr. Watson was a good man, a kind, gentle husband, loving father, helpful neighbor and a Christian in all he did. He was never too busy to respond to a call from his associates and many times went out of his way to render aid to those in distress.

Flower girls were Emily Francis Watson, Arcelia Bell Watson, Mable Jones, Winnie Morgan, Annie Ruth Morgan, Evelyn Ruth Sanders, Ruby Weaver, Harriett Southerland and Arcinia Walsh.

Palbearers were W. J. Watson, Jonesboro; Walter Gardner, Hamilton; Monroe Mayhew, B. E. Morgan, Steve Farquhar, Dallas and O. R. Williams, Hamilton.

COUNTY AGENT GUY POWELL ENDS TWO YEARS MONDAY

County Agent Guy Powell, replaced D. W. Sherrill two years ago Monday, and is to be congratulated on the work he has done in the county and in the interest of stock raising and agriculture.

Included in some of Mr. Powell's achievements is the organization of the Coryell County Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, the Ram and Billy Shows, the Colt Shows, the Wool Shows, Trench Silo Demonstrations and many other items of agriculture and stock raising interest that have helped in these vocations in this county.

This year the Ram and Billy Sale attracted state-wide interest, and facts and figures have been furnished by Powell's office to show that Coryell county lead the world in the production of mules in 1935, and the state in the production of oats in 1936, which facts have had an amazing value in publicizing this county in the last two years.

YOUNG COUPLE IN WRECK NEAR ALEMAN ENROUTE ABILENE

An unavoidable accident Saturday afternoon injured Lorin Dogin near Aleman, when the motorcycle he was riding crashed head on into the car driven by Bill Thomson of Gatesville.

Both Machines were damaged slightly, and Dogin is in the C.C.C. camp hospital with injuries. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Bill Thomson, or Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Leeson, and sons John and Kirby were injured in the accident.

Dogin came around a curve near Aleman and crashed into the car, it is reported.

In schools of twenty or more teachers, superintendents are to receive a base pay of $165, principals, $120, with the additions for education and experience, with the maximum of $185 for the superintendent, and $140 for the principal.

Vocational home economics teachers may be paid on the basis of ten months, and vocational agriculture teachers may

SAM McCARVER HOME BURNS 7:30 P. M. MONDAY

Fire destroyed the home of Sam McCarver on North 14th at 7:30 last night, and most of the household goods were partially insured.

No certain cause of the fire could be given, but Mr. McCarver stated that he thought it was defective wiring, since the fire started in the attic between the roof and the ceiling.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. McCarver, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bullock lived in the house. Firemen and neighbors saved some household goods.

BURCHETT & WEBB OPEN BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP

As you will notice in an ad appearing in this paper, Gatesville now boasts a Bicycle Shop, operated by Ernest Burchett and Wesley Webb, young men of this city.

This shop is located at the Burchett home on South 5th street and special repair work and paint jobs will be done at reasonable cost to bicycle owners.

Messrs Burchett and Webb are well known in this city and are capable, young men in their work.

be paid on the basis of twelve months, and a consideration of not more than $600 can be made for travel.

No school with less than nine teachers can have both principal and superintendent.

Elementary school principals in a school system having four year high school may be allowed $2.00 per month for each teacher under his supervision, provided the elementary school is located in a building apart from the high school building; provided that any elementary school principal who devotes three periods or more per day to supervisory work may have this increase without regard to the location of the elementary building.

News-Merchants Bicycle Derby Successful With an Unexpected Attendance of 2,000 Spectators

FIRSTS, KIRKPATRICK, JONES, RUTHERFORD AND CARUTH NO ONE INJURED IN RACE

The News, speaking for the merchants who offered prizes, and for itself, is intensely pleased with the results of the News-Merchant's Bicycle Safety Derby, which was run "at sundown" Friday, August 13.

Winners were: Division I: 1st, Mertie Sue Jones, No. 10; 2nd, Betty Jane Rutherford, No. 31; 3rd, Emily Ament, No. 7; Last, Janette Sadler, No. 40.

Division II: 1st, Ruth Rutherford, No. 25; 2nd, Marguerite Kelso, No. 13; Last, Marguerite Kelso, No. 13. (Only two finished in this division, and no 3rd was awarded).

Division: III: 1st, Charles Francis Caruth, No. 45; 2nd, Billy Potts, No. 24; 3rd, Moody Farquhar, No. 33; Last, Milroy Powell, No. 44.

Division IV: 1st, Duncan Kirkpatrick, No. 30; 2nd, Donald Daniels, No. 42; 3rd, James Bradley, No. 18; Last, Bob Cross, No. 35.

Merchants who gave the prizes for these prize winners were: Western Auto Associate Store, W. T. Hix, manager-owner; First Prize, choice of luggage carrier, bicycle basket, bicycle lock, or electric bicycle lamp, in each division.

R. E. Powell, offered as Third Prize in the two younger divisions, choice of Claxon horn, or fedrettes.

Joe Hanna's Cash Store offered: Second Prizes, a pair of tennis shoes for each second winner in each division. The shoes were equipped with the famous new leather insoles.

Kiser Beauty Shop gave, for First Place in both girls' divisions, a permanent wave for each first.

The Palace Theatre offered Third Prize in each division, one week's pass to the Palace Theatre.

Regal and Ritz, as Last Prize, offered as prize to the last in each division, one week's pass for the last one in each division.

On entry, the Coryell County News presented each entry with a bicycle horn.

Medals were awarded in the two younger divisions for all three places, and furnished thru the courtesy of the Cycle Trades of America, who gave the Blue, Red and White League of American Wheelman medals.

With 46 entries as the total, only 25 actually took part in the race, which was run on a marked course in Gatesville, with only about three and a half blocks that was not on pavement. There were a few spills, and probably, a few sore shins, knees, etc., but luckily, considering the crowd out "for the races," no one was injured—of which we are certainly tickled.

It is reliably reported that on the square, down Main, Leon, and Lutterloh, cars were literally packed, and many people were on foot seeing the exciting race. Judging from the above facts, it is safe to say, 2,000 people saw the first News-Merchant's Bicycle Safety Derby.

Although, at this time, there is no certainty as to a 1938 Bicycle Derby, the News expects, at about the same time next year, to hold some sort of similar race. We have further information from the Cycle Trades of America, which will aid us in handling the race next year, and it is entirely possible for us to hook-up with state and national bicycle races which will prove of more interest to the contestants in the 1938 race.

Course Checkers were Willis M. Jones, Emil Lee, Andrew Kendrick, Bill Witt, S. F. Bethel, Cloyce Brazzil, Wilson Brazzil, David Franks was Starter, and the Judges who picked the winners were J. M. Witcher, W. J. Thompson, Jr., Joe Ricketts, Dr. K. R. Jones, and Miss Beulah Gamblin.

Announcement has been received from Lieut. Col. F. S. Besson, District Engineer, Corps of Engineers U. S. Army, that a hearing will be in Hamilton at the court house, August 25 at 10:00 a. m. for the purpose of enabling all interested parties to present their views, concerning the controlling of floods, run-off and water-flow retardation, and soil erosion prevention on the watershed of the Leon River.

Andrew Kendrick, Secretary of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce stated yesterday that this matter would be taken up by the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their meeting this morning.

According to the release from Lieut. Col. Besson, the hearing will be held in preparation of a report on a preliminary examination of this river. The preliminary examination will be made under the authorization of the Act of Congress approved June 22, 1936, entitled "An act authorizing the construction of certain works on rivers and harbors for flood control, and for other purposes." Complete text of the pertinent part of the act will be carried in the Friday edition of the News.

The hearing will be opened by the War Department and consideration will be given first to the question of flood control. In the preparation of the report on flood control it is desirable to secure as much information as possible about the river and any proposed method for controlling floods, regulation, conserving and utilizing the waters thereof.

The War Department requests the following information: Character, location and extent of desired improvements of the river.

Information showing reasons and necessity for the improvements, and economic justification, which means population, agriculture, business interests, taxable values, etc., of the vicinity, and the increase or development to be expected as a result of the work.

What cooperation may be expected locally?

Oral statement will be heard, but accurate records of all important facts and arguments are to be submitted in writing.

On completion of the testimony the U. S. Department of Agriculture will take charge of the hearing and consider the question of run-off and water-flow retardation and soil erosion prevention. Figures and facts may be presented in statements concerning these problems, as effecting local conditions.

This meeting will probably be attended by those interested in the Leon River from its mouth to its source, since this river is in the Brazos Valley Flood Control Project.

LOCAL PEOPLE TOUR STATES OF THE EAST

Mrs. Daisy Hampton of this city, and daughter, Miss Frances Hampton of Beaumont, Mrs. W. B. Duncan of Copperas Cove left this morning (Tuesday) for Nashville, Tennessee, where they will be joined by the former's younger daughter, Miss Caroline Hampton.

The motor party will tour the eastern states including Florida, West Virginia, Georgia, Alabama and others.

Although a number of matters always come up in confusing rapidity as Congress approaches adjournment, I have for another week devoted most of my time to the cotton price situation. There have been many meetings and caucuses of various Southern groups on this problem and I have sought to attend as many as possible of these meetings that I might keep informed and render whatever service I could. On yesterday, Secretary Wallace appeared before the Senate Committee and last night this committee met and gave a favorable report to the resolution which Mr. Wallace had discussed and recommended earlier in the day. I attended both of these meetings.

The Secretary insisted that Congress should go further than the President had asked last week in the way of assurance in regard to general farm legislation at the next session. In an effort to meet these conditions the Senate Committee favorably reported a concurrent resolution which would bind both houses to make farm legislation the first order of business at the next session, whether this be a called session this fall or the regular session in January. This was known as the Bilbo resolution.

The Committee also gave favorable reports to a resolution providing for mandatory ten cent loans and two cent parity payments to cooperators after the order of the 1935 plan. A subcommittee was appointed to call on the President, which it did today, and I am advised that the President agreed that on the passage of both houses of the Bilbo resolution, he would have no objection to the passage of the other resolution. This would, of course, result in guaranteeing a 12c price to cooperating producers. I think there will be little trouble in getting the Bilbo resolution through and believe that can be successfully followed by the 12c resolution, although there are a number of Northern Congressmen who are frankly apathetic. However, the whole situation looks much better tonight than it has since the beginning, and I am very hopeful that our people will receive a fair price for cotton this fall.

Last week the House passed a sugar bill, which I hope to discuss at some later time, as it involves several important matters. Early this week the House concurred in the Senate amendments to its Judiciary Bill, therefore, finally passing the much-discussed Court Bill and writing into law most of the President's suggestions in regard to judicial reform, except the increased membership of the Supreme Court.

Just tonight the House has voted by an overwhelming vote to pass the Departmental reorganization Bill requested by the President. This bill as passed gives the President the power to consolidate one hundred or more independent agencies with regular departments of government. It also creates a new department, known as the welfare department. Personally, I felt there was no need of creating a new department and voted for an amendment to strike out that section of the Bill. This amendment failed however, and I then voted for the bill, because I realized that dozens of these independent boards and bureaus should be consolidated and other dozens abolished. I further realize that Congress will not abolish them one at a time because each one trades out with the other and a bill like this seems to be the only way of getting it done. This bill at least gives the President power to effect a very substantial saving in governmental operations. It will, however, result in less government jobs and those of our people who are applying for government positions must remember that so long as governmental agencies are being reduced in number, and I think they should be reduced, it is very difficult, indeed, to get a government position.

It now seems probable we may adjourn within the next week or ten days. If the loan and parity is assured to the cotton farmers, I shall be ready to leave at that time, but I do not want to leave until I know that this relief is assured.

BERTHA LILLIAN STEWART
OUTFISHED PRESIDENT

Mayor William Lemmons and daughter, Mrs. Bertha Lemmons, returned to their home here late last week after an interesting visit in Gatesville with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart and daughters, Bertha Lillian and Betty Jo.

The Stewart family just recently returned from a delightful vacation spent in company with other friends at Corpus Christi. Bertha Lillian rolled up a wonderful fishing record for herself, having hauled in an 85-pound tarpon in the Aransas Pass waters. She boasts that she went the President several pounds better, as his fish weighed only 65 lbs.

The tarpon is one of the gamest fish known to sport fishermen and is beautiful but unfit for food, and those caught by fishers are fed by the boatmen to sharks in other parts of the Gulf.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and the Misses Stewart met Joe Watson and wife, who live in Corpus Christi, and also visited William Lemmons, a nephew of Mayor Lemmons, who makes his home in the seaside city. Joe Watson is manager of a lumber company in his home town.—Hamilton Herald Record.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

Former President Hoover's call for a national convention of the Republicans to formulate plans and a platform for the 1938 and 1940 elections is the soundest suggestion forthcoming from a leader of the Good Old Party since the elections. In Hoover's opinion, the period of negative criticism has ended for the Republicans, and if appreciable gains are to be made next year in the congressional elections it must be on the basis of a sound Republican platform.

The present Republican membership in the House constitutes a nucleus for a potent minority voice in Congress during the last two years of the Roosevelt administration, provided appreciable gains are made in normally Republican districts next year. If the G. O. P. ever hopes to regain control of the Senate, next year is the time to start reversing the trend which had its inception in 1930.

Millions who voted for the Democratic ticket last year are out of sympathy with the Roosevelt actions of the last eight months, but until the Republicans offer an alternative program and clarify their position on the controversial issues confronting the Nation they have no chance of regaining their former position of potency on Capitol Hill.

Hoover's suggestion apparently struck and unresponsive chord among titular leaders Landon and Hamilton, for the Kansans say nothing about a national convention prior to the elections next year. Landon seems to feel that Hoover wants to usurp his position as leader of the party, and is not inclined to share any program or new deal opposition with the 1932 standard bearer.

It seems to me that the only sensible course for both Hoover and Landon to pursue between now and 1940 is to combine their resources, in view of the fact that neither can expect to win the nomination again. Hoover's 1932 showing against Roosevelt was splendid compared with Alf Landon's 1936 fight and there is no reason why the Californian should be denied a part in the reorganization and rehabilitation of the party which he led to to victory in 1928.

The implications behind the New York City majority are far more potent than surface signs reveal. The President and Jim Farley are looking far ahead in their efforts to elect a new dealer to the mayorship of the Nation's metropolis. Not only do they desire the permanent elimination of anti-administration leaders from control of Tammany Hall, but they want the backing of a friendly city administration behind Big Jim when he runs for governor of New York State next year.

Not only could Tammany and anti-new deal mayor sabotage Jim's efforts to win the governorship in 1938, but a split between the anti-new dealers and the administration supporters might put a Republican in as chief executive.

Roosevelt and his lieutenants foresee a battle royal for control of New York City and its 40,000 employees swings back to the unfriendly bosses of Tammany Hall. The Empire State delegation might swing to those generally termed "conservative" who intend to nominate a "regular" Democrat three years from now.

The Sept. 16 primaries will find New York's politics in the most topsy-turvy condition of a decade. Senator Royal S. Copeland, the Tammany supported mayorality candidate, has entered both the Democratic and Republican primaries, the only Tammany candidate ever to seek the nomination of both major parties.

Copeland's opponent in the Democratic primary will be Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former Supreme Court justice of New York, who is the candidate of the new dealers, dissident Tammanites, and the four borough leaders outside Tammany's bailiwick of Manhattan. Mahoney succeeded Grover A. Whalen as candidate of the new dealers.

On the Republican side, Fusionist Mayor LaGuardia entered the G. O. P. primary in opposition to a Tammany candidate and administration backed nominee, also has the backing of the newly created American Labor Party, which was so instrumental in returning Herbert Lehman to the governorship last year.

Bride-Elect Tendered Courtesies

Complimenting Miss Kathryn Clary, bride-elect of Bernard Kelly of Waco, her grandmother, Mrs. J. S. Welch entertained at her home on Pidcoke street with a party and miscellaneous shower Thursday afternoon.

As guests arrived they registered in the Bride's Book and later wrote a favorite recipe in the book.

When several games had been played the bride was presented many lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served approximately 25 guests and the honoree.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones Jr. Entertain Bridge Club

Members and guests of the Thursday Night Bridge Club were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones Jr. on East Bridge street. Tables for bridge were arranged on the back lawn and bowls of roses were used for decoration. High awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Zeigler.

Refreshments were served to the following: Messrs and Mesdames Billy Nesbitt, Floyd Zeigler, Lee Colwick, O. N. Hicks, John Bradford, Clark Jensen,

Charles Powell, Mrs. F. J. Battle

Hostess Merry Wives Club

On Friday morning Members and guests of the Merry Wives Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. F. J. Battle on East Leiden street. Bowls of summer flowers were arranged throughout the party rooms and tables were arranged for '84'.

A delicious ice course was served at the conclusion of the games to the following members and guests, Mesdames Levi Anderson, Jeff Bates, O. G. Gilder, Edgar Fraukts, J. O. Brown, C. F. Austin-Holton Nuptials

Weldon Holton and Miss Willa Mae Austin were married Wednesday morning, August 4, at the home of Rev. Crosby of McGregor Texas.

The bride is a native Hamilton County girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Austin of Ireland, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Dooley, well known pioneer settlers of Coryell County.

Mr. Holton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Holton of the Pancake community in Coryell County.

Mr. and Mrs. Holton left immediately after the ceremony for a honeymoon trip to Dallas. Upon their return they will make their home at Pancake.

The County News joins their friends in wishing them a long and successful married life.

Miss Dola Boykin Is Bride of Solon Satterwhite

Of interest to a wide circle of people in this city will be the marriage of Miss Dola Boykin and Solon Satterwhite. The wedding took place at 4:20 p. m. on Saturday, July 3rd., in San Angelo with Rev. A. D. Foreman, pastor of the First Baptist Church of that place, officiating.

The bride, a former resident of this place, also a graduate of the Gatesville High School, entered training as a nurse in a Waco hospital soon after her graduation and for the past year has resumed this worthwhile work at Sanatorium, Texas, where she is a popular member of the Nurse's Staff of the Sanatorium there.

Mr. Satterwhite's home is in Marshall. He is a graduate of the Commerce High School and attended the East Texas State Teacher's College there for two years. For the past year he has been employed at State Sanatorium.

The News joins the many friends of the couple in wishing them a happy, prosperous, life together.

J. and Wayne Whitehead, Doris Evelyn Vanopy, Peggy Moore, Baylor and Royce Parsons, Ernest Charles Jones, Jewell Dean and Lewis J. Bone, Mary Alford Brodie, and the honoree.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones Entertain Owl Club

Naming Clifford Adams of Balrohea as honor guest, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones entertained members and guests of the Owl Club at their home on Waco street Thursday evening.

Roses and pot plants were used for decorating the party rooms and tables were arranged for '84'.

An ice course was served during the games and iced watermelon was served at the conclusion of games to thirty-two guests.

Miss Kathryn Clary Weds Wacoan in Lovely Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Clary daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Clary of this city and Bernard Kelly, son of Mrs. Annie Kelly, of Waco, took place at 7 o'clock Saturday morning at the Church of Assumption in Waco with Rev. E. F. Ryemer reading the ceremony. Palms and other greenery formed a background for tall pedestal baskets of asters.

The bride was lovely in a navy frock with which she wore navy accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart rosabuds.

Her only attendant, Miss Ethel Kelly, niece of the groom, was attired in a model of Nile green. Her accessories were of white and she wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

James Kelly, brother of the groom served as best man.

The couple left for a brief wedding trip to Dallas immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is well known in this city and is a graduate of the local high school. For the past year she has been employed in Waco.

The groom is an employee of the San Antonio Machine and Supply Company in Waco. They will be at home, 1509 North 15th street, Waco.

Out of town persons attending the wedding were, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ripley of Fort Worth and Mrs. A. Hasse of Austin.

Miss Rosalia Reed is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Reed near Neff Park.

Miss Margaret Rutherford spent Thursday and Friday at her home in Jonesboro with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. McBride.

JOE HANNA AND BUYERS VISIT SOUTHWEST STYLE SHOW

Joe Hanna, owners of Joe Hanna's Cash Store, accompanied by his daughter, Ruth Hanna, and Mrs. John Millard and Tal McCowan, buyers for that progressive store spent a number of days last week in the Dallas and Ft. Worth wholesale markets attending the Style Shows of Fall merchandise.

Mr. Hanna was very enthusiastic over the new Fall merchandise, with the wide range of fascinating colors, in coats, dresses, millinery, and men's wear, and stated that a nice showing of this merchandise was already on and at his store with more and more arriving daily.

Last Fall, Mr. Hanna introduced is famous Lay-Away Plan for Fall purchases of merchandise and is repeating, this fall, carrying an advertisement in this issue of the News, explaining this plan.

Just recently, the ladies ready-to-wear and millinery department of this store have been re-worked, and is a very interesting department which the women in the trade territory will be delighted to visit.

ONE YEAR AGO, WE WENT TO THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL

One year ago, we believe the 4th, Coryell County's cavalcade entered the gates at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas, making one of the best trips and promotions for the interest of the county and Gatesville that had been done up to that time.

Coryell county citizens this year, have been urged to form a similar cavalcade, both to the Pan-American Exposition and to the Frontier Fiesta, but so far, no action has been taken as a county but Flat people have made their trip in school buses to the Pan-American Exposition in Dallas, where they received a cordial welcome from the officials.

BAND CAMP OPENS WITH TWENTY-THREE IN ATTENDANCE

D. W. Diserens Band Camp opened yesterday morning at Pecan Grove, for a week's intensive practice, sport and fun, before the opening of the new school year. Mrs. D. W. Diserens is acting as chaperon and assisting in the preparation of meals.

Mr. Diserens at 11.30 Monday, said he'd have to hurry back to camp, so that the students could get dinner, and that he did not have a list of those who were attending.

The camp is instituted to whip the band in shape for the opening of school and football season, besides, giving instructions to beginners who will wish to be in the band for the Fall term of school.

WFAA PROGRAM FEATURES AYRES COMPTON

Ayres Compton, Director of Public Safety in Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Compton of this city, was featured as Defendant in a brief satire given over Station WFAA, Dallas Thursday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

The drama was called "The Trial of Carelessness versus the people and Traffic Accidents." This skit was given in co-operation with the movement to make Dallas and other cities a safer place in which to live in regard to the traffic problem.

2ND NEW STREET LIGHT IN FOR "MAZDA LANE"

City Hall officials, to be exact, City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy announces that the second new traffic light is in and will be installed immediately at the corner of 8th and Main Street, four doors west of the News office.

The first light which was installed at Main and Lutterloh has proved a success and city officials think the second light will check the traffic in the downtown section of the city.

GEORGE B. PAINTER IS BACK FROM ST. LOUIS

George B. Painter, owner of Painter's in Gatesville has just returned from a week's stay in the markets of St. Louis, where he made purchases of Fall merchandise which will be eye-openers in both style and price.

Mr. Painter, one of Gatesville's most enterprising merchants, is continually searching the markets and factories of the country for bargains in quality merchandise which he handles.

On his latest trip, Mr. Painter stated, "I always make it a point to visit the factories as well as the sales rooms in the markets, because I can make better buys for the trade by visiting the factories."

"Fin" Perie, who for the past quarter century has worked in the general store at Opal, Wyoming, a town of 50 people, has been judged the best country newspaper correspondent of 1937 in "The Best Country Correspondent Award" contest sponsored by The Household Magazine, is pictured in this issue of the News, in the feature "In The Week's News." Brack Curry, writer of World Comment for the News exclusively, won Special Mention in this contest.

The award is equivalent, in rural journalism, to the Pulitzer Prize in the metropolitan press.

GATESVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

By Annie Ruth Witt
Completion of the new Junior High School is nearing, in fact, it will be completed sometime this week. Superintendent Erzell W. Brooks stated Saturday that the new furniture for the building had arrived and was being installed rapidly.

With work being done on the gymnasium, which includes the building being stuccoed, cleotex ceiling put in, and the walls being painted, making it one of the most popular places in which to hold programs and entertainments. Until now the gym did not have a ceiling and the walls were in dire need of painting.

Since the lighting system was very poor in the high school and elementary buildings it was decided to include the re-lighting of these buildings among the improvements.

The most modern light fixtures are being installed in the auditorium of the high school building and in all classrooms of the elementary school. Other improvements include new roofing for the high school building.

Because of the need of a music hall for Gatesville Public Schools and Primary Building will be moved to the southwest corner of the school grounds. Although the exterior will not be new, modern, convenient equipment will be found on the interior.

Some two hundred-twenty-five desks have been re-conditioned and other improvements made.

In other words, Gatesville will have five new or improved buildings by the time school begins which will naturally make the pupils and teachers interested in school and school work.

SCIENCE TEACHER RESIGNS POSITION IN LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Glenn McLaughlin, former teacher in the Gatesville High School, has resigned his position as science teacher. He has been employed as Chemist Bacteriologist in the water department of the State Dept. of Health, Austin, Texas. Mr. McLaughlin has taught in the high school for one and one-half years. We regret having lost him, but we are glad that he has been given this position. We wish for him much success in the continuation of his career.

Charley Lane is confined to his bed on account of illness.

FORMER GV. RESIDENT IS FEATURED IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY

The Business and Professional Women's Club in the Lower Rio Grande Valley are presenting "Smokey" Cantrell in a dramatic sleight-of-hand performance on the night of August 20 in the High School Auditorium.

Gatesville and Coryell county folks will remember Mr. Cantrell as "Otha" son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cantrell, also former residents of this city. Mr. Cantrell is a linotypist for the Weslaco News and does the sleight-of-hand as a hobby. Who knows but what someday Gatesville can boast of the "Famous Smokey" Cantrell, Magician, as a Gatesville product?

EXCITING NEW MOVIE ON PALACE SCREEN

Spencer Tracy demonstrates his phenomenal ability for the fourth successive venture in "They Gave Him a Gun," which opened at the Palace Theatre Thursday.

This is the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer adaptation of the best seller by William Joyce Coward, former soldier who expressed his hatred of war in the novel.

Directed by W. S. Van Dyke II, the film has Tracy, Gladys George and Franchot Tone in the principal roles. The supporting cast includes Edgar Dearing, Cliff Edwards, Mary Trees and others. The war scenes were filmed on the vast 500-acre tract where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer made "The Good Earth".

The story deals with two men and a woman. Tracy is a circus barker who enlists in the regulars. Tone is a small town clerk who finds himself in the army and up in the front lines. A gun gives him courage. Gladys George is a Red Cross nurse.

When Tracy is reported missing, she marries Tone, out of pity. Tracy escapes from an enemy prison camp and the trio meets again in civil life, with the war ended. Familiar now with the use of a gun the weakling has become a gangster. Tracy tries to save him but fails. A police bullet gets in ahead of him.

As a story and a picture to reflect the evils of war and its aftermath, "They Gave Him a Gun" is a powerful medium. But it is more than that. It affords Tracy and his colleagues an opportunity for first rate artistry, which none of them has overlooked.

Miss Annie Lee Kiger has been a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kell in Red Oak for the past week. While there she also visited in Dallas.

Washington, D. C. — Sit-down strikes are overshadowing. For the moment at least, the Supreme Court issue. During Mr. Roosevelt's vacation, Congressional leaders gave their attention to the study of Canada's Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, which prohibits, under penalty, both strikes and lockouts until a governmental board has made an investigation. Some such proposition will undoubtedly get Mr. Roosevelt's close attention.

The bandwagon movement for the John L. Lewis C. I. O. seems to have caught that worthy leader unprepared, and has shown that Mr. Lewis is not quite able to maintain the discipline among his followers that had been expected. The result may be much Presidential thought devoted to finding means for penalizing both industrial and labor organizations which fail to live up to contracts.

The inside story of the Chrysler strike is that all labor leaders were much against it. Walter Chrysler had long been friendly to both the Lewis organization and William Green's A.F.L. In fact, that very friendliness led many people to believe that it would avoid a battle between the Chrysler Corporation and the C. I. O. What it actually did was to force General Motors to come to terms. Chrysler then voluntarily opened negotiations with the auto unions, but in the midst of these discussions a group of impatient radical unionites started a sit-down strike. Negotiations immediately broke off and, but for the indirect help of high union officials, it would probably have become the most bitter fight in the annals of capital and labor.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, was pleading a case in the United States Circuit Court some days back.

Several times during the trial Mr. Baker reminded the Court: "As my brothers in law have said," and waved his arms in the directions of the other lawyers associated with him.

One old lady in the court room kept getting more and more upset each time the pleading attorney thus referred to his colleagues, until she couldn't stand it any more. Leaning over toward a lady sitting next to her, she was heard to chirp irritably:

"For goodness sake, why must he always keep bringing in his relatives!"

The most radical program yet suggested by New Deal left-wing groups is a new vast public work project of flood control, reforestation, etc., etc. It would be carried on by millions of unemployed from industrial centers where they are now on relief.

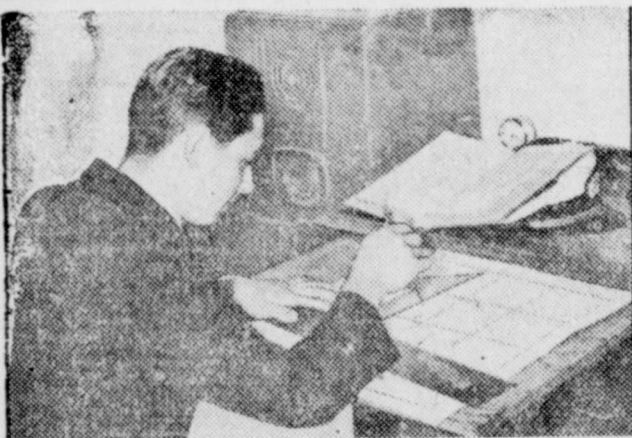

Mrs. Edward B. McLean, who some years ago paid Gaston B. Means $100,000 for the purpose of recovering the Lindbergh baby, has the cancelled check, neatly framed on one of the walls in her home. That check and one of the most wonderful Ananias Club stories, is all Mrs. McLean has to show for her money.

Means, now in prison, still calls himself the "best investigator in America." Others call him the greatest liar since Baron Munchausen. The ex-federal agent told a reporter who interviewed him "at home" recently: "Truth will out some day. I may not be an angel, but I'm certainly not the black sheep I was painted to be—besides this vacation is really doing me good. I needed a rest cur anyway." Optimist!

The municipal airport that will remain on 400 acre Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay, after the close of the World's Fair in 1939 is valued at $7,000,000.

Many industries of national rank are planning to erect their own buildings for the 1939 World's Fair at San Francisco.

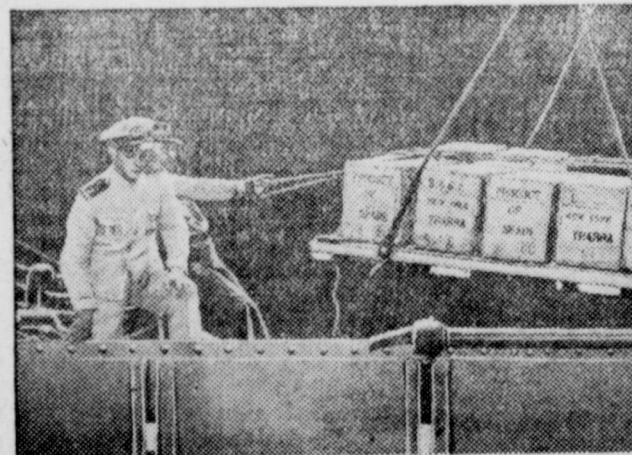

FUTURE OFFICERS FOR THE MERCHANT MARINE

Approved by the Maritime Commission the cadet system trains future officers for the Merchant Marine. In his cabin, aboard the Grace Line's "Santa Elena," Cadet Leonard Burger plots a course in a navigation problem.

On watch, Cadet Burger "shoots the sun" on his own from the bridge of the "Santa Elena." After three years at sea learning seamanship and navigation, he'll be ready for his Third Officer's papers.

A cadet's day isn't all study, problems in navigation, and instruction from the ship's officers. He has real work to do. While the "Santa Elena" is in port Cadet Burger supervises the loading of cargo.

Life at sea has its soothing moments even for a cadet. While Cadet Burger, off duty, looks on, Cadet Max borrows his bunk and his radio for a few minutes' rest, with music, before going on watch.

To solve construction problems two exhibit palaces for the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition were built "from the top down" with roofs completed before walls.

The horticultural division of San Francisco's 1939 Exposition is planning an "Avenue of Olives" which will contain 280 old olive trees, 25 feet in height and with a branch spread of 20 feet.

After the close of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, the Administration building will become one of the most modern air terminal buildings in the world.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

THREE ROOM COTTAGE

This model demonstrates that even though a house may be small and low in cost it can be as attractive and give as much comfort and convenience as a more pretentious residence. The three rooms in this plan offer comfortable, conveniently planned quarters for the small family. The small trellised entrance, evenly spaced windows and simple marked lines make it attractive in any setting. Used as the first step in building, the plan can be expanded to make a larger home at some later date.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

PATTERN PICTURES

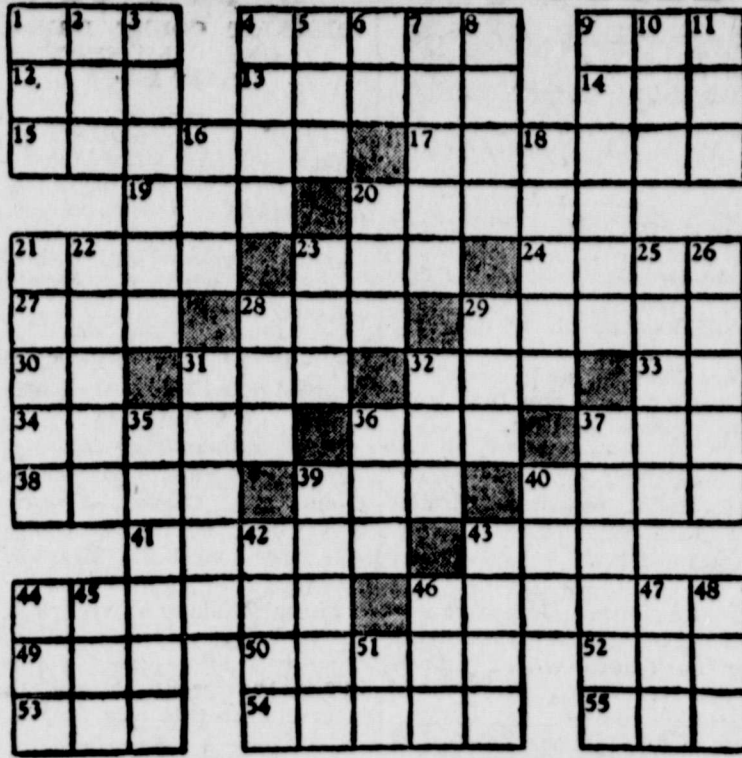

An exposure of 1/100 second at f.5.6 on chrome type of film caught this water pattern.

NATURE has a mysterious way of creating patterns, designs. She seems to abhor plainness as much as she abhors a vacuum. Consider that every cell that is the substance of matter is fashioned in some kind of pattern. The snowflake has a pattern. Liquids crystallize in patterns. The wind arranges snow drifts in patterns as it does the sand on dunes and deserts. The tide goes out and leaves the sea bottom rippled with designs. Calm water disturbed makes rhythmic designs on its surface. Shadows make patterns. Leafy boughs against the sky, moss on the rocks, tiger skins, wings of birds—what is there unadorned with some kind of pattern? Nature is full of them, evidences of a seeming purpose to maintain rhythm, beauty and order in the universe. Man imitates them, consciously or unconsciously, in the structures he builds, the materials he fabricates and the order in which he places things. Have you ever thought of patterns, nature's and man's, as subjects for a camera hobby? Some camera artists have made prize pictures of patterns. It's a way to obtain new pleasure from the world about you. It requires, first, skill in seeing patterns. They are so common that only the exceptionally obvious ones, like those in sea sand, are likely to be noticed by a person not looking for them. These we call curious, but gaze up through a skyscraper in the course of construction or go down to the waterfront and study the patterns that the masts and rigging of ships make against the sky. Watch for shadow designs made by ordinary objects, such as a picket fence or a cartwheel. These are the kinds that only the purposeful observer is likely to notice. For him, patterns that may be caught with a camera are everywhere. Plump a stone into a pool or spill a box of matches on the table and you have one made to order for you. Go pattern hunting with your camera. Taking such pictures challenges your photographic skill and you will find that both your album and your mind will be enriched thereby. John van Guilder.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE GARY DON BATES

Little Gary Don Bates, eight month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bates was called to his heavenly home at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, August 5th at the M. H. Powell Memorial Hospital.

He is survived by his parents, two sisters, and one brother. God called when an infant. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 3:20 o'clock with Rev. Mr. Lee officiating.

We know this precious little baby suffered on this earth and how we will miss him, but dear parents do not weep for his. Jesus said, "Suffer the little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

We know that he is waiting "Over There" where no death pain or sorrow ever comes and we pass from this life unto life everlasting his sweet smile will be there to welcome us.

We loved him, yes we loved him. But the angels loved him more. They have sweetly called him. To yonder golden shore.

The Golden Gate was opened. A welcome voice said come, And with farewell unspoken, He calmly entered home.

May we live to see him in a better world.

DESCENDENTS OF TWO FAMILIES HAVE REUNION

Descendents of J. L. D. and M. A. McAdams gathered at Pecan Grove for a family reunion Sunday, August 15. This was the first time some of them had been together for several years and the first time some of them had ever seen each other.

At the noon hour, lunch was spread, following this, some went swimming and the remainder passed away the time in conversation recalling bygone days and relating other events that were interesting to the others.

It was decided by those present to make this an annual affair, with the next and following meetings to come the first Sunday in August at Pecan Grove.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Flentge, Jim Robertson and boys, Lester and E. J., Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Robertson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Robertson and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Robertson and son J. B., Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Myers and J. D. Owen, all of Gatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Owen and Walter, and Mr. and Mrs. Hearty Owen, McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McAdams and son, Mr. and Mrs. Dude Merriott and daughters, Osage, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Necessary and children, Coryell Church, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lewis and family of Aquilla, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Knight and family of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Mier, Turnersville and Miss Effie Robertson, Comanche.

Friends present were Mrs. G. L. Mier and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Van Dyke and family, Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Valentine and family, Turnersville, Mr. and Mrs. John Price, Gatesville and Mrs. Nanje Alsip, Big Sandy, Tennessee.—One present

FROM THE COUNTY AGR'L AGENT

NOTICE TO FARMERS

All plane table maps have been calculated and data sheets showing crop averages have been mailed out to the persons who filed the work sheet, with instructions to report any apparent errors to the county agent's office within ten days. To date a large number of producers have not made a report, therefore, it is presumed that their maps are correct and the crop averages (which govern the amount of the benefit check to be received) will be reported to the State Office as they now stand. Even though your measurements are satisfactory a report from you to that effect will also be greatly appreciated.

Canning Fruit Juices

"We have canned grape juice," is a phrase repeated by 4-H Garden demonstrators and Home Demonstration Food Supply demonstrators in the county. A high quality grape juice was produced by Mrs. H. A. Simpson, demonstrator of the Topsey H. D. Club. If was a bright color and is free from seed and skin and moldy or metallic particles and very little sediment.

The following directions for canning fruit juices are given by Miss Grace I. Neely, Food Preservation Specialist of the A & M College Extension Service:

Preparing the Fruit

Look the fruit over carefully and grade it according to quality and ripeness. Take the ripe, sound fruit and make it up by itself to secure the best quality of fruit juice. The less choice should be utilized in other ways separately.

The next step is washing. Do this by one of the following methods:

Put the fruit in a wire basket or colander and play a light spray of water over it until the water runs off clear, or:

Place a small amount of fruit at a time in a bowl of water and then lift it out gently to another bowl of water, using the fingers as a sieve. This should be done two or three times until there is no dirt or sand in the bottom of the bowl. (Do not let the fruit stand in the water.)

Utensils Recommended for Preparing and Heating

Heavy enamel ware or aluminum has been found very satisfactory. As to the effect of metals on the quality of the juice, experience has shown that aluminum offers more resistance to the acid of the juice and affects the color less than other base metals. Other metals such as copper and tin have been tried. Tin gives the juice a bitter, metallic taste and a bluish tinge, and consequently affects the quality of the juice. Iron also affects the quality of the juice and flavor, giving it a purple tinge or iron tannate.

Extracting the Juice

Juice can be extracted from cold fruit; grapes and some berries give clearer juice with better flavor when pressed unheated. To heat the fruit place in a kettle and cover the kettle. Heat very slowly until sufficient amount of juice is in the kettle to prevent sticking or scorching, or press out some juice before placing on the fire to heat. By heating the fruit before extracting the juice the yield of juice will be greater. Then heat the juice to 145 degrees F. Remove at once from the fire. With this low temperature of 145 degrees F. the flavor and color are very little affected.

Turn the heated fruit into a cotton flannel jelly bag. All jelly bags should be scalded with boiling water before turning the pulp into them. The first juice that runs through the bag without pressure is called "free and makes a better quality juice juice." This is generally clearer than that obtained by pressure. If this is bottled separately one may be able to secure the first and second grading of juices.

If the less juicy fruits are used, a little longer period of cooking at the simmering point will be needed and about one-fourth cup of water should be added to each pound of fruit.

The addition of sugar is determined by one's taste. If the juice is to be used for making jelly later, omit the sugar. Making jelly from canned juice produces a better flavored jelly than jelly that is permitted to stand for any length of time. A general proportion suggested is one cup of sugar to each gallon of juice. The sugar helps to retain color and improves the flavor of the juice but it is not necessary for preservation. Sugar should be added to the strained juice and stirred until it is well dissolved before the juice is reheated for bottling.

Precooking

After the juice is strained and the sugar dissolved, heat to 105 degrees F. or 74 degrees C. A double boiler can be used when one does not have a thermometer. The flavor and color will not be as good, but better than when brought to a boiling temperature. Pour the juice into the top part of a double boiler and heat for ten minutes or until thoroughly heated through. Then pour the juice into sterilized bottles. Fill bottles to the top. Avoid leaving any air space at the top. Underfilling bottles lose color and flavor; with some fruit, as grapes, a reddish brown sediment or crystal will settle out if space for air is left at the top of the bottle. Bottles must be sealed tight before they are processed. If corks are used use new clean corks. The cork should be pushed in tight and made safe by tying cheese cloth over it, well down the collar of the bottle. The bottles are then ready to proceed.

Processing

The filled bottles may then be placed in layers in a false bottom in a large container of warm water on the stove. The bottles should not be more than three layers deep, and not crowded. The water should come at least two inches over the top layer of bottles. The water should be kept at about two inches over the top layer of bottles. The water should be kept at 165 degrees F. or 74 degrees C., low simmering temperature, for 20 minutes.

Storing

After the bottles have been removed from the water bath, if corks have been used, dip the cork or the top of the bottle in a semi-liquid paraffin or sealing wax. Clamps or crown caps that have been securely fastened before the processing do not need this treatment. All fruit juices keep better in a cool, dark, dry place. Grape juice stored at 90 degrees F. for six to seven months had a flat flavor, but when stored at 70 degrees F. the flavor was good. Before storing, the bottles should be polished and properly labeled.

COTTON AND OIL COUNTRY

Almost half the total population of Texas earns a part of its living from cotton. It is grown in 223 of Texas' 254 counties. Another one-sixth of the population is employed directly or indirectly by the petroleum industry. This means that a little more than one-third of the people are left for other occupations.

To each three quarts of the strained fruit pulp, add one quart of sugar. (This can be varied according to taste). Preparation of pulp: Force the pulp through a colander with a wooden potato masher or spoon or sopro-sieve. Combine the sugar and fruit pulp. Place in enamel or aluminum kettle and cook until thick. This can be cooked more easily if paced in a slow oven; stirring occasionally. Fill hot sterilized containers. Seal, clean and label jars before storing in a cool, dark place.

FINE SAMPLE OF CORN BROUGHT IN BY J. H. MANOS

J. H. Manos, of near Gatesville brought in a fine sample of corn, both white and yellow dent, which was grown on the farm on which Grundy Ashby lives.

Mr. Manos stated that many stalks in this field had two well-filled ears of corn on them, and each ear was well filled out.

This is some of the very best corn we have been privileged to see and if corn throuth the county is as good as this, a bunch of good hogs would be in order for fattening.

RURAL SCHOOL AID FUND APPORTIONED WED.

Austin, Aug. 11—(AP)—A joint legislative committee today ordered payment of 90 percent of 1936-37 rural aid school claims, amounting to $4,790,280, and announced that a balance of $294,614 remained for adjustments and subsequent proration among districts.

The payment ordered ranged from $2675 to Greenville to $1 to Star, Mills county.

Supt. J. M. Witcher was out of town yesterday, and it could not be learned just how much Coryell county would receive from this fund, but Mrs. Campbell said the money would probably come thru immediately.

McCallister, writer of the Coryell Valley News in the Coryell County News gives us this one,—and, we've no grounds to doubt it even tho we haven't seen it, but, here it is:

"A fellow stated today, that he had some okra growing in his cotton field and on this okra stalk, was okra and several grown bowls of cotton, "Believe It or Not." We just wonder if the okra doesn't have a "cottony" flavor, and if okra stalks grafted with cotton wouldn't fool the worms, bugs, fleas, etc. We refer this to the Extension Service, cotton specialist, etc., since we wouldn't know.

WHO BUYS FARM PRODUCTS?

A recent study of agricultural income by the Federal Trade Commission revealed many interesting facts relating to the handling of many leading farm products.

While figures for big income-producing farm products indicate that large marketing concerns buy more than 50 per cent of the U. S. production, total milk purchased by a dozen large dairy firms is only about 10 per cent of the country's annual 47 billion quart "crop."

Contrary to the usual impression, purchases of farm products are probably less concentrated than the average person would expect.

Ten leading meat packing companies sold only the equivalent of 70.3 per cent of the beef, 35.1 per cent of the fresh pork and 54 per cent of the cured and processed pork products. In the case of veal, however, purchases of these concerns totaled 98.5 per cent, the federal figures showed. Two of the largest packing companies' beef sales were but 47 per cent of the total.

Purchases of 10 leading packers for a year equalled 51.3 per cent of the total production of cattle and calves, and 37.4 per cent of the hogs. The three largest companies purchased 40.8 per cent of the beef and 25.3 per cent of the hogs.

Thirteen millers bought only 65.2 per cent of the commercial wheat flour crop, while 13 tobacco manufacturers bought the equivalent of 64 per cent of the nation's tobacco crop, selling 97 per cent of the cigarettes and 90 per cent of the smoking tobacco.

With milk the so-called big companies are but a minor factor as 12 major concerns purchased only about 10 per cent of the total milk production in 1934 and about 13 per cent of the commercial milk. Eleven leading companies marketed 18 per cent of the fluid milk and cream sold in cities and villages, and about 25 per cent of the butter.

Twenty Questions on Social Security

QUESTION NO. 18

QUESTION: If an individual has worked in a covered occupation after December 31, 1936 and then dies or attains the age of 65, how may a wage earner or his estate file claim for old-age benefits due under the Social Security Act?

ANSWER: He or his estate may inquire at the nearest field office of the Social Security Board or the Social Security Board in Washington D. C. stating the facts of the case and requesting advise as to the method of obtaining such payments.

Employees who work in the covered occupations after December 31, 1936, and then die or attain the age of 65 will be paid lump-sum equal to 3 and one-half per cent of wages received during such period. Monthly payments for life will not begin until January 1, 1942. They will be paid to qualified individuals; that is, those who have attained the age of 65, worked one day in each of five years after December 31, 1936, before attaining the age of 65, and have earned a total of $2,000 during such period.

Lets Talk about Clothes
TEXAS STATE COLLEGE
WOMEN (CLA)

Denton, Aug. 19.—Jewels, satins, metal cloths and velvet—these luscious words echo the luxury and sophistication of the 1937 fall fashions. Returning wealth is followed by returning elegance in clothes, and the race is on!

With a slim silhouette completely in possession of the field, Paris and Hollywood designers have made the most of drapes and lovely molded lines.

Necklines are scandalously low, waists are normally high, and many beltless dresses are in evidence. Shoulders are natural for dressy occasions and moderately squared for sports wear. Paris says that skirts must be a little longer, Hollywood says shorter and milady is left to her own desires.

Hip length jackets prevail for daytime suits, but swing backs are definitely going, going, gone. Up-town suits are shown always in two or more colors, jacket one color, skirt another, and blouse completing the mix-up. There are reams of full-length fitted coats, with sporty models in tweed showing an unexaggerated flare.

Plaids, checks and stripes are as good as ever, with pink and dark combinations favored. Students at Texas State College for Women note with interest the new ideas on trimming, which range from velvet on wool to braid, quilting, rich embroidery and fur.

Everything but trains will appear on fall evenings, and not in years has there been such an outburst of gorgeous materials.

Black, of course, is reaching an all-time high in popularity this season, and materials favored for general wear are woolen broadcloth, bedford cord (shades of grandmother!), non-crushable velvet, dull and satin back crepes.

JONESBORO W. M. S. AND M. E. LADIES HOLD JOINT MEETING

The Jonesboro W. M. S. together with the Methodist Ladies met at the tabernacle, Aug. 10, at 3 p.m. This date being the regular meeting date of the Baptist W. M. S.

We had with us Miss Sibil Leonard who brought us a very beautiful talk on "Womanhood", illustrating the "love and loyalty" of those two beautiful characters, "Ruth and Mary". Her talk was a sermon within itself. It was very inspiring to all who heard it. I wish that God would give us more women like Miss Leonard. Concluding her talk, Mrs. Melvin Watson gave a poem entitled, "The Little Church at the Cross Roads." This was followed by a song, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" sung in union.

Prayers were led by Mrs. H. H. Haynes and C. P. McAulley. Several inspiring talks were made by the visiting society members. This was indeed very pleasant. The two societies having planned a surprise birthday shower for a shut-in of our community. One who spreads sunshine wherever she goes, Mrs. Luther Smith. She received a number of beautiful gifts from the 30 guests who were present. Visitors were recognized and we especially invite them back with us. Let us hope that again in the future we can have Miss Leonard to meet with us again and bring another such wonderful message. Our next meeting date will be August 24, in the home of Mrs. Mable Jones. Come and bring your next door neighbor.

As a rule, the calcium products added to milk are helpful. The chocolate is merely a disguise and is harmless. In some cases, it is probably beneficial. Only the physician who studies a child can determine the need and the effect.

Every mother should also know that fruits, vegetables, cereals, meat, fish, eggs, butter and bread each have a place in the child's diet. Together with milk a nutritional balance is possible.

New Hardboard Tile brings tiled kitchen within your reach.

Tiled Kitchen Effects Now Easy

"SWINGING TO BLUES" may sound as if it had something to do with music, but it hasn't. That is the way a home economist who meets thousands of women in public forums spoke of color trends in kitchens recently. Blue, she insisted, is elbowing out red as the popular kitchen accent color.

Whether you are changing from one color to another or not, you may be due for a change in your kitchen. Those smart breakfast nooks in new homes have been intriguing your interest, no doubt. Most likely there is in your secret heart a yearning for a tiled kitchen, where breakfast can be a pleasure.

Well, it's entirely within your reach these days. The change from an old-fashioned ice box to a modern refrigerator may have given you more space. If yours is the older type of house with a pantry or even a "cold room," this may furnish the room you seek. In any case, new materials on the market have made the change both easy and inexpensive.

You can obtain the coveted tiled effect of wall surface by using Celotex hardboard to refinish the walls of your planned-for breakfast nook.

The tiled effect is attained by choosing a hard-surfaced cane fiber that comes marked off in small squares, then painting it your favorite color. The result can hardly be distinguished from a genuine tiled wall.

A maple breakfast set in authentic early American style may set the pace, if you have a yen for things Colonial, and the wall surface may be papered in a scenic Colonial design.

If, on the other hand, you are set on having one part of your house in the latest modern style, you may match your wall finish smartly to tubing furniture. Use hardboard tile for the wainscot and plain hardboard on the wall horizontally, joined by metal strips. The surface may be enamelled or painted in a finish as hard as the finish on your new car.

"Doctored" Milk

Mothers sometimes ask me about "doctored" milk. In most instances, the don't mean "doctored" at all. To "doctor" something in a loose term which has some into use to mean "tampered with" or "doped." It is more than a slang expression and should not be used in connection with milk.

What they are really referring to are the various milk preparations and chocolate syrups which make milk attractive to some children. In reply, my stock answer is "consult your family physician or a pediatrician." This I consider to be sound advice and I usually take pains to explain why I regard it so. In a word, every parent should recognize the importance of seeking professional guidance when troubled by some point which may have great bearing upon the proper raising of the

LITTLE POLAND

Panna Maria, the oldest Polish settlement in the United States, was established near San Antonio in 1853 by a group of immigrants who had been practically driven out of their native land. Penniless and disheartened, the settlers were aided by nearby ranchers and more fortunate colonists until they could support themselves.

With thrift, persistence and work the group soon developed into a thriving community. Many of the original homes, built of hand-quarried stone because there was no wood, still remain in the modern Panna Maria.

Treasure Island, man-made site of the Golden Gate International Exposition in San Francisco Bay, stands 13 feet above sea level.

SYNOPSIS

Peter, who is a first violinist in the London Philharmonic, cautions his wife not to be late at the concert that evening. His old friend, Miguel del Vayo, is returning as solo violinist. Gaby, who is late, nevertheless hears the great del Vayo play, senses a tremendous fascination in this man. After the concert she blunders by mistake into his dressing room, but flees before he can talk to her. Peter joins Miguel at dinner that evening, and hears about the fascinating stranger who had visited his dressing room.

Chapter Two

"No, of course not," Miguel answered. "She ran away before I could speak to her."

"And that is all that happened," spoke Peter, still slightly incredulous.

They soon turned to talk about themselves. Why, Miguel wanted to know, had Peter forsaken his early promise to embark on a career as a solo concert violinist? And Peter told him. It was because of his beautiful Viennese wife. He had had told him. It was because he refused to play. He would play for her any time, he protested. She need only tell him a day ahead. Gaby smiled up at him impudently. "Tomorrow?" she breathed. And, before he realized what he was doing, he had consented.

But Miguel tried to retrieve himself when Peter returned with the picture of Gaby in the white gown she had worn that evening. "Are you doing anything tomorrow?" he asked, and invited him to bring Gaby to his apartment. He had just composed something he wanted to play for them. Peter was overjoyed, but Gaby, neatly trapped, was very arch. She had an appointment with the hairdresser, she said. She was sorry, but she could not go.

At four, the following afternoon, Gaby presented herself at Miguel's door. She parried the bland insolence of his valet and stepped inside to meet the amazed gaze of Miguel. "I thought you had an appointment with the hairdresser," he reminded her.

"I cancelled it," she told him with an amused gaze. She gazed about her at the apartment as she walked to the piano. While she toyed with the keys, Miguel stood rigidly beside her. "Does Peter know you are here?" he spoke rapidly.

"No," she spoke calmly, "and you

"Gaby," Peter pleaded, "what is the matter with you?"

many tempting offers but he had taken the safer course for her sake. "You must come see her," he said.

"I'm leaving London day after tomorrow," Miguel volunteered. "I shall see you when I return."

"That would not do, Peter protested. How about tomorrow? Too busy? Then this very night. He called the waiter for the telephone and dialed his number. "Gaby," he said. "Guess who I'm bringing home with me."

Although Gaby protested that she was tired and did not want to see company, Peter overrode her protests. He did not catch the tone of terror in her voice.

When they entered the house a half hour later Gaby was nowhere to be seen. Peter tried to cover his embarrassment and went in search of her. Alone in her room, dressed in lounging pajamas, sulking in the dark he discovered her. She was obdurate. He would have to entertain the guest himself. It was only when he threatened to get mad that she surrendered with a sigh.

Peter detected nothing strange in their first embarrassed greeting. And soon they were chattering together, while Peter took great zest in recounting stories of their youth together, with especial attention to Miguel's amorous escapades.

"I haven't finished," he said after a peal of laughter greeted one outrageous tale. "Why just tonight one popped into his room—"

"Peter!" Miguel shouted hoarsely. Gaby had lost her smile, was sitting bolt upright. She tried to break the silence.

"Can't we have some music?" she said to Miguel. "Won't you play something for us?"

Miguel hesitated, but Peter came to his rescue. "Gaby, you can't ask him to do that after such an exhausting day. You must play for us the next time you come," he said. "You're coming, you know, if only to see my wife properly dressed. Wait a minute — I've something I want to show you." Peter left the room.

For a moment there was an embarrassed silence. Gaby spoke. "I am very sad."

"Why," Miguel asked. "And she are not going to tell him . . . Are you going to play for me?" Gaby gave him the music of a Tchaikovsky waltz. Yielding to her unspoken command, Miguel took up his violin. The bow came down on the strings and he started the melody. But on the fourth bar, he halted abruptly.

"Why did you come here?" he demanded of her. Gaby was bland under his furious gaze. "You promised to play for me, don't you remember," she spoke coolly.

Miguel's distress was apparent on his face. "I haven't seen Peter for many years," he said finally. "But I am very fond of him. I could never do anything to hurt him."

Gaby looked silently at his face, then with a resigned gesture she gathered together her gloves and handbag, rose and walked slowly to the door. She paused with her hand on the knob and turned to face him. The laughter was gone from her eyes, now. She looked as he remembered her the first time he had seen her, when she burst into his room.

She spoke slowly, and with an effort. "I want you to know," she paused, "that I have never done anything like this before." And Miguel, who was staring into her eyes, knew that she was speaking the truth. He moved toward her, she came one step forward to meet him. He raised his arms in an almost involuntary gesture to envelop her in them, and as their lips met he felt a surging throb of happiness pass through him like a wracking pain.

Their lips were locked like that for what seemed an age, and when he tore his lips from hers it was only to rain more kisses on her, on her eyes, her nose, her cheek, her hands. Neither spoke; neither had need of speech.

On the following day, Miguel hastened to Paris to begin a new concert engagement. Gaby, silently happy, knew that he would fly back to her as soon as they would let him.
