C. of C. Hwy Committee In Austin On N-S Hwy. Monday

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee were in Austin yesterday at the invitation of the Ft. Worth Chamber of Commerce, where a hearing was held before the State Highway Commission on the proposed North-South Highway leading out of Ft. Worth to Austin and San Antonio.

As we are informed, effort is being made again to by-pass this county and Gatesville, and route the highway to Hamilton from Meridian, and the interests here are making an effort to have the highway pass thru the county, and to connect at some other point south of here.

Although Coryell and Gatesville were not supposed to, or was not asked by the commission, at the insistence of Ft. Worth Chamber of Commerce, Chairman H. K. Jackson, Louis Holmes and Louis Thomson of the Highway Committee and George Painter made the trip to Austin on the highway proposition.

Member of delegations all up and down the line were due to be present and the hearing listed as number 8, was due to come off yesterday morning.

WARNING ISSUED BY CITY WHEN FIRE SIREN BLOWS

A warning for those who are thoughtless or just don't know any better, the City will have to use means to make it possible for the Fire Department to answer alarms. Recently when an alarm was turned in it seems that the thought uppermost in everyone's mind is to see who can get to the fire quickest, or outrun the fire truck; therefore, the firemen are unable to get the trucks to the fire plug, or lay hose to the fire, and so in the future, the City Council has instructed the Chief of Police to enforce the ordinances and those persons who are found guilty of racing to fires, parking near fire plugs or in any way obstructing the work of the firemen will be fined.

NATIONAL WILDLIFE WEEK

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS one of the most important phases of the conservation of our natural resources is the protection and preservation of our wild life; and

WHEREAS this is a work in which is virtually our entire citizenship can participate wholeheartedly and enthusiastically, whether resident in the large metropolitan centers, with limited access to the great outdoors, or permitted to enjoy at first hand the wonders of nature; and

WHEREAS the carrying into effect of any program for the conservation of our hereditary wild life, in the past seriously diminished and depleted by destructive exploitation and lack of proper understanding and sympathy, must enlist the support of all our citizens if the mistakes of the past are to be avoided in the future; in dealing with this important resource of incalculable social, economic, esthetic, and recreational value;

NOW, THEREFORE I FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and designate the week beginning March 20th, 1938, as National Wildlife Week and do earnestly appeal to all of our citizens first to recognize the importance of the problem of conservation of these assets in wild life, and then to work with one accord for their proper protection and preservation. To this end I call upon all citizens in every community to give thought during this period to the needs of the denizens of field, forest, and water and intelligent consideration of the best means for translating good intentions into practical action in behalf of those invaluable but inarticulate friends. Only through the full co-operation of all can wild life be restored for the present generation and perpetuated for posterity.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and cause the seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE at the city of Washington this 14th day of February, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty eight, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty second.

H. K. Jackson, whose name had been placed in the race for Alderman, Ward 2, has dropped from the race, according to a signed story in the Gatesville Messenger and Star-Forum of Friday, March 18th.

His statement reads in part, "I appreciate this expression of confidence in me, and am more than willing to do anything I can for the betterment of this community, but after careful consideration, I am firmly convinced that it would be better for both the city of Gatesville and myself that someone else serve in this capacity at this time. It was not the intention of me or my friends to oppose anyone for this office, and we have an excellent servant in that office who agreed to serve another term, I respectfully request that my name not be considered."

Fire Destroys Half Block Of Evant Business District Friday

Friday at 11 a. m. from an oil stove in a warehouse between the Post Office and the Henderson Grocery, caused a fire which burned the Post Office, Henderson Grocery company's warehouse and Henderson Grocery, also doing considerable damage to Evant Drug Store, and the cafe next to that building.

Firemen from Hamilton, Lampasas and Gatesville answered the call and the fire was brought under control after it looked like the entire block would be lost.

Businesses suffering the most from the fire were Henderson Grocery, the Post Office, and Evant Drug Store. The cafe was only partially damaged, and in the other stores, a great deal of merchandise was moved out, and the mail, so that not much was lost in the buildings except the warehouse where the fire originated.

Firemen used water from the new water tank to control the blaze, and also pumped water from a nearby creek.

This is the second time within recent months Evant has been visited by disaster, the former was the falling of a water tank which took the lives of one or more citizens.

No estimate of the loss was given or whether there was any insurance.

Temporary quarters have already been arranged for each of the businesses and the post office, and reports are "business is going on as usual".

OUR FOREIGN SALES ARE LIMITED BY OUR FOREIGN PURCHASES

Our volume of exports, or the things we sell to foreign countries, is limited by the volume of our foreign purchases, according to economists of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. This is one of the things which influences the unit price as well as the total income of our agricultural commodities.

The chart shows that while we have consistently sold a slightly larger volume of goods to foreign countries than we bought, we seldom are able to sell much more than we buy.

Foreign countries must have dollars with which to purchase our goods. The principal way they get money is by selling goods to us. That is why the value of our imports and exports have followed each other so closely.

Other ways foreigners can obtain dollars from the United States include loans by Americans, services such as those rendered by foreigners to American tourists, and gold sent to the United States from abroad. With the exception of services to tourists, none of these items is a permanent source of money.

America has almost ceased to lend money to foreign countries. That was the way our trade balance was maintained during and immediately after the war, when the United States changed from a debtor to a creditor nation. And foreign countries cannot indefinitely continue to ship gold to us.

Even in the case of services to tourists, the amounts involved have never been enough to substitute for imports of goods into the United States. During the 1920's when our tourist expenditures reached a record level, the net amount of money spent in foreign countries did not, in any one year, reach as much as 15 per cent of our payments for imported goods.

This Week In Oglesby

One day this week we found two old pioneers sitting on a bench sunning and talking over old times. They are uncle Jess Kirby and uncle Matt Lenoard. They are each more than eighty four years of age and are natives of Texas. They recall clearly the trial of the early pioneers. We sat down and listened when they talked.

They talked of when there was a death in the community how preparations were made for burial. In those days there were no such people as morticians among the settlers so all the preparations were home made. Mr. Lenoard related that a man died in the settlement and there was no coffin to be bought and no extra lumber to be had. Mr. Lenoard's father removed the floor from his house for a coffin in which the man was buried. There were a number of deaths that year and three times the elder Lenoard removed the floor from his house to make coffins. Mr. Kirby related that his father, Andrew Kirby, once removed planks from the wall of his house that a neighbor might have the lumber with which to build a coffin.

According to these old gentlemen some of the lumber thus used was sawed in the following manner. A suitable log was secured and mounted on a rack high enough that one man perched above the log and one below it. With a cross cut saw they used an up and down stroke until a plank was sawn off. This repeated until enough lumber for the job at hand was sawn off the log.

Mr. Kirby told how Wyatt Hall, who was killed in 1871 at his home a mile below where Oglesby now stands, built a plow to break the heavy blackland turf. He built a heavy shear and mold board, this was fastened to a heavy six by eight oak beam, twelve or fourteen feet long. The front end of this beam was mounted on an axle and two wheels of an old tarpole wagon. It was heavy and clumsy plow, and six to eight yokes of oxen were used to draw it thru the stubborn turf. In this manner many of the first fields in the settlement were broken in. Mr. Kirby still owns some of the old iron that came off this ancient plow.

In those days, Mr. Kirby relates that men frequently wore clothes made of buckskin. Old man Jonathon Diltz had made a new buckskin suit, and was very proud of it. He wore it to Gatesville. There were salons there then. Mr. Diltz went around and got likkered up, and went to the store to buy some goods. It was a cold day and he ordered the merchant to build a fire in the stove. The merchant told him the stove was hot. Diltz retorted, with an oath, that there was not a coal of fire in it. To prove his statement Diltz sat down on the stove in a very short time the seat of his new buckskin trousers was singed out. Diltz served drinks to the crowd.

Mr. Lenoard's father came to Texas with the Peter's colony and most of the white men built the houses, worked the fields, turned leather, and buckskin and did the other necessary work to build homes. Mr. Lenoard hunted to supply meat to the settlers.

Our friend, Matt Lenoard relates that deer, antelope and bear were so plentiful that his father was able to keep a beautiful supply of fresh meat on hand at all times.

Well buckets, churns and water buckets were made of hand made cedar staves and bound with green rawhide bands. When the green rawhide dried and lightened the staves were held tightly together. A gourd was used for a drinking dipper.

Mrs. T. P. Rucker was taken to Glenrose Friday, where it is hoped those health restoring waters may bring her a speedy recovery. Mrs. Loyd McMullen is in Marlin for a few days visit with relatives. Earl Huddleston, Gene and Frank Simmons visited J. E. Huddleston at Marlin Friday. B. O. Reynolds and wife of Coolidge dined here Thursday. C. F. Allen of Moody was in Oglesby Saturday.

The securing of deed to the right of way for the top road from Oglesby to highway 7 is progressing satisfactorily, and it is hoped that by summer this road will be completed.

Dick Humphries brought to our desk a small combination hammer and peg cutter such as was used when our fathers and grand fathers fastened on shoe-soles with wooden pegs, now laugh—anyway they did it. The tool was hand forged. The handle the size of a lead pencil, 6 inches long, and a forked chisel on one end and hammer on the other. Uncle Billy Sadler can tell you what we're talking about.

"PENNED" SHOTS

By LARIATIN' LOU

Y'know, this 1938 Rodeo and Frontier Celebration is going to have a parade, if plans work out, depicting the history of the county and city from the time of the Indians.

There'll be Indians, soldiers cowboys, band, prairie schooners, ox-wagons, —the entire thing down to streamlined cars and air conditioned (washed) drug stores. Since the Ft. Worth show is over, all Texas is talking Gatesville and the slogan around the corrals, rodeo pens, ranches and stockyards is "Y'goin' tu Gatesville?"

More or less secret are the preparations which will be made by the various merchants on these floats, their store fronts and other means of getting a "Frontier" atmosphere for the thousands who will attend this No. 1 event of the 1938 year.

"Word Comment" Columnist Interviews Japanese Educator

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

JAPAN SPEAKS

Your correspondent chatted with a native son of Nippon for the better part of an hour last week and emerged from his most interesting interview with primary information on that land of mystery and of charm.

Zensuke Hinohara, president of the Hiroshima College for Women at Hiroshima, Japan, and a graduate of Duke University in North Carolina, is visiting the United States to study educational processes and institutions.

Hinohara speaks fluent English, sitting occasionally for a word to express the thoughts of his keen penetrating mind. He is short, swarthy, not yellow complexioned, and wears a toothbrush mustache which resembles Hitler's.

"America is just another ambitious country which may war with Japan over conflicting interests in the Pacific. Such is the opinion of Japanese youth," stated Hinohara.

As a Nation, the Japanese regard the United States as less selfish than any other nation, he said, adding that the Japanese term the English the most selfish race in the world.

"As a body, our young people have always been friendly toward America and always looked to America as a friend of our country which will lead us toward a better life and cooperate with us," Hinohara declared.

Christian Japanese, in particular, regret any breach with America caused by the Sino-Japanese war, Hinohara said, and hope that the two nations will never engage in war.

Hinohara explained the tripartite agreement among Japan, Italy and Germany—commonly termed Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis, is solely a matter of self-interest to the Japanese.

"We need German help to protect ourselves against Russia," he explained.

The alliance with the Fascist dictatorships attracts the attention of Russia from the Far East and prevents open conflict between the Soviets and the Nipponese, he said.

In answer to a query about a possible conflict with Russia in the future, Hinohara said: "I don't think there is a possibility of a Russo-Japanese war unless Japan takes a positive, offensive attitude against the Soviets."

Hinohara expressed the belief that relations between Japan and America would become more cordial if the young people of the two states were brought in closer relationship.

"I hope that in some way friendly intercourse may be established which will serve as a sound basis of future peace between my country and America," he said.

"Is the war in Japan supported by Japanese youth?" Hinohara was asked.

"Japanese youth stopped thinking and started acting when the war in China started," he answered. "The young people of Japan are born patriots. Japanese youth is saturated with patriotism."

"Our young people believe Japan is now in a life and death struggle. Success means for us a promised future; failure the destruction of our empire. Japanese youth follows what the nation demands!" he declared with emphasis.

Explaining the slogan "Asia for the Asiatics" enunciated by Japanese statesmen following the invasion of China, Hinohara stated the Japanese people believe they are carrying the torch for the rest of Asia. If Japan fails, all Asia will succumb to the imperialistic designs of the Western powers, he maintained.

"Our belief is that the Oriental people should contribute something unique to the world as have the Occidental races," he said.

Hinohara explained the expansionist designs of Japan, inaugurated with the conquest of Manchuria in 1931-32 and culminating in the current Sino-Japanese war, in terms of religion.

"A nation can't live without some great religion or belief," he said. "Expansion took the place of the old religions in Japan, because only a minute minority of our people have adopted the new religions of the West. Patriotism is with us like a religion."

Referring to the demise of the old Japanese religions, Hinohara stated that the great attraction of Western civilization to the Japanese people had made them believe that their old religions were obsolete because they failed to produce such a high type of civilization as those of the Western states.

Material civilization was brought to Japan but the Western religions did not accompany it, he stated. Religion has therefore largely disappeared from Japan and is practically nonexistent among Japanese youth.

It is a mistake to believe that the Japanese people worship emperor Hinohara declared. Worship and respect are synonymous words in the Japanese language and Americans have confused "respect" for the emperor with emperor worship, he said.

The Japanese emperor is called "Heaven's child" by his people Hinohara explained, but they do not believe he is a divine descendent of Heaven. Popular conception of the emperor's status in Japan is that he is different from the masses of the people but is not supernatural, he said.

"Our emperor is a born ruler and is thus a sacred possession of the nation. But our people do not worship him as God's son," he stated.

New York. —Maybe Broadway of the bright lights means night club to you, and you, and you; but the reason the roaring forties started to roar was the theatre, the legitimate theatre back in the old days when a dinner at old Delmonico's or Sherry's or Shanley's or a dozen other places was a gastronomic triumph to be approached with awful reverence. When such a dinner was designed to put you in the proper frame of mind for 'the play' and when 'the play' made you hungry for an 'after theatre snack' of lobster newburg or welch rabbit (and if you think it ought to be welsh rarebit guess again) of terrapin and crabmeat dewey of crepes suzette and the inevitable champagne; and in spite of the lamenting of the old guard of the theatre and the producers plays are still running on Broadway. The day they stop the too. The 'Legit' still supplies the best of Hollywood's stories as you'll see when the academy award this year goes to, excuse our crossed fingers, 'Stage Door' School teacher play wright Paul Carroll of 'Shadow and Substance' comes from Glasgow to be amased at his Broadway hit and at Broadway. He whispers to us that his native Dublin Ex-ritized the play. Seen hither and you, Dolores Del Rio and husband Cedric Gibbons hot off the Queen Mary; Frances Farmer strolling on Central Park south towed by a Fawn colored Great Dane she could have used for a pony; The Sultan of Muscat and Omamentate, dapper and therefore disappointing in American garb; Varick Van Dam mystery storifier and criminologist lunching at the Algonquin among the literary lights and lamenting the fact that England produces three good detective stories to one from the U. S. A. A Chastened Sonja Henie back from Miami where she must have taken a course in how to lose boy friends and alienate people because the front page boys didn't like her and pooh-pooed her to fly the Atlantic with Dick Merrill but this column thinks she wants to but won't be allowed. Foolish question department, do move mogus deliberately pick poor pictures in order to skid certain high priced stars Kiy Francis, Miriam Hopkins, Greta Garbo, P. S. She hit an all time box office low with 'Conquest' and no thanks to Charles Boyer either. Claps and hisses and a laugh, the laugh being for the excitement at 'Casa Manana' the other night when they had 'reservations' for King Zog's three sisters, and their three maids came. A hiss for the Wisenheimers who said Mae West was washed up, she's breaking all records with personal appearances. And a big clap hands for Bette Davis in 'Jezebel', which will make her the Kinema Kween of '38 if enough people can pronounce the title!

About 30,000,000 board feet of umber will be required to construct the 1939 Golden Gate Exposition.

WITH THE SHIP OF STATE

WASHINGTON D. C.—J. Edgar Hoover, G-Man Chief, is the target of not so sly digs because the latest figures show the capital rates well up among the first ten cities in the country when it comes to crimes. It stands in 3rd place in Major thefts, leaving out, as one caustic critic comments, government activities. 5th in burglaries, 8th in assaults and 10th in murders. But the G-men are just as helpless as they would be in any other town because their job is not policing.

Bewailers of high government salaries were surprised the other day to learn that only a 1065 U. S. employees get $10,000 dollars a year and up, and exactly half of them, 522 which is as close to half, as you can get without a mayhem. are Senators and Representatives. The biggest group is the Judges with 262 getting at least $10,000. 14 are members of various commissions. The diplomatic service has 73. The remaining 56 includes the President and his cabinet and members of the executive end of the government. Proving, at least, that it is more expensive to make laws and interpret them than to have them carried out.

War scores are no longer important conversation here but the Navy and Army go steadily forward with their plans and their high officials are duly thankful that they have the money for preparedness now instead of having to wait until the attack has started. And the chiefs of the service predict that our readiness to arm has so startled other nations that we can count on peace and politeness from them for a long time to come.

One of the important reasons why our navy officials hesitate to work out joint action plans with the British fleet is the question of morale in the British navy. Always proud and sometimes a bit boastful of their position as ruler of the seas the Britians have developed a centuries old habit of looking at the ships and ignoring the men who man them.

It has been notoriously hard to enlist sailors in England, and the reason was vividly portrayed for us in a recent film, 'Mutiny on the Bounty'. Every American schoolboy learns that our war of 1812 was fought in part because the British stopped our ships and impressed our sailors to make up their depleted crews.

Since the World War the British Tir has shown himself less submissive to abuse. There have been more than half a dozen mutinies since 1919. The largest being a "sitdown" strike of the Atlantic fleet at Invergordon, Scotland in 1931 over a sudden and autocratic cut in pay. So our own naval officers are unimpressed by the number of British ships on paper. They can only fight if they put to sea.

KNOW TEXAS

Oldest Town Crosses River
DENTON, March.—Two distinctions belong to the town of Ysleta that of being the oldest town in Texas and also of having magically across the boundry line between Mexico and Texas without changing the location of a single building. Founded in 1682 on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande the town changed banks in 1850 when the river unexpectedly transferred its channel and detoured around to the other side of the town.

John Francis Knott, Dallas News Cartoonist won honorable mention for the best cartoon of 1937, but otherwise Texas is absent from the Pulitzer roll call. Since Texas has until now been an active rather than a contemplating state, some predict that her next decade will show great progress in the fine arts and sciences.

IN SWEET MEMORY OF SISTER PIPES

Sister Margaret Pipes fell asleep in Jesus, January 18, 1938, making her stay on earth seventy eight years, ten months and a few days. I can't begin to tell of the goodness and kindness of this sainted sister. Our little church has lost a faithful member, we miss her everywhere we go. But I feel our loss is her gain for I know, dear sister, while we are left here in sadness you are basking in the smiles and presence of our savior.

Weep not dear ones, as one who has no hope, for you will meet mother on the heavenly shore where all the family will be united and all will spend eternity with Jesus where there will be no more pain, sickness or sorrow. Weep not, dear sister Franks, for it won't be long until you will meet sister Pipes in that happy place of rest. Sister Pipes suffered a long time with cancer of the stomach. All was done that a doctor and loving children, kind friends and good neighbors could do. But Jesus said, "Child Come Home". While on the bed of afflictions she would pray for God to take her home. She would say she was tired and she said time after time she was tired of this old world. She just wanted to fly away. I don't know how long Sister Pipes had been a member of the Baptist Church, but long before I knew her. I had been knowing her for the past eighteen years. I wish I could live the sweet Christian life she lived. She leaves three daughters two sons, one sister and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren; other relatives all were her friends who knew her. Sleep on, dear one, we would not call you back in your affliction if we could. But now we hope we are permitted to meet you in heaven.

Sister Pipes eye sight failed some few years past, so she couldn't see to read or write. I have some letters I got from her before her eye sight failed and I treasure those letters. I was always glad to get a letter from sister Pipes, as there would most always be a good sermon in them.

Written by one who dearly loved her.
Emma Bond, Gatesville, Texas.

GOVERNMENT WARNS AGAINST "CIVIL SERVICE SCHOOLS"

The United States Civil Service commission March 8 issued a warning statement against so-called "civil service schools," or schools or agents that leads people to believe that they are connected with the government.

Claims of this type are bringing such schools under Government investigation with the Post Office Department recently issuing orders denying certain schools of this type further use of the mails. In one case the promoters of the school were convicted and given jail sentences.

Caution should be particularly taken against schools that claim that their courses are required in order to take civil service examinations or that they have been authorized by the Federal government to give examinations.

Archbishop John J. Mitty has donated to the World's Fair of the West several score trees from San Francisco properties and St. Patrick's Seminary at Menlo Park.

EYE OPENERS--by Bob Crosby

THE VALUABLE DEER—
SUPPLY MEAT AND FINE LEATHER AND ARE AS NECESSARY TO NORTHERN TRIBES AS CAMELS ARE TO EGYPTIANS. THE CHINESE MAKE MEDICINE FROM STAG-HORNS AND EAT THE ANTLERS!

BOB CROSBY

THE LEEK HAS BEEN USED IN COOKERY SINCE GREEK AND ROMAN TIMES AND IS THE NATIONAL EMBLEM OF THE WELSH

JUST TO PLEASE HIS COOK A FILM EXECUTIVE HAD SPECIAL LEGS BUILT FOR HIS AUTOMATIC GAS RANGE AND SENT TO HOLLYWOOD BY AIR MAIL.

There are more than 50 species of deer found in all parts of the globe except Australia and South Africa. Only one specie has ever been domesticated — the reindeer. Neither sex has teeth in its lower jaw, and the male sheds its antlers each year — growing larger ones the next.

Especially in Hollywood, good cooks are appreciated, and their employers will do much to please them. When a film executive recently completed a 17 room "beach cottage" he first pleased his experienced chef by installing one of the new automatic clock controlled gas ranges. Then because the cook said it would be more convenient for him to have shorter legs on the range they were specially made and shipped to Hollywood by air mail!
