County Meet, Unofficial: G'ville 148, Pearl 100 $\frac{1}{2}$, T'ville 77 $\frac{1}{2}$

Candid Camera Ardor Dampened By Rains: Camera On Hand

Although dampened somewhat by the inclination of the weather for the past few days, the News-Merchant's Candid Camera Contest is still in full swing, and soon additional prizes will be announced in addition to the one already offered by the Fox Company, which is in the window of the News office at this time.

As soon as the weather breaks and films taken up during the "just history" County Meet are developed and brought in, we will place the entries in our window, so you can see what you've got to beat, but the names will not be exposed—in other words, we won't let you down.

In line with this contest, the Marlin Chamber of Commerce in promoting their Blue Bonnet Photo Fiesta, Saturday and Sunday of this week, is inviting all interested citizens to visit them at which time, a display of photo from the Chicago Camera Club will be on hand, and the "fans" will be there in large numbers and, also, beautiful girls, beautiful parks, lakes and other back-grounds will be utilized for the fans who attend this fiesta.

Besides this, a full day of entertainment and "snappy" work will include the festivities. The meeting is under the auspices of the Marlin Camera Club and the Marlin Chamber of Commerce.

Now, back home, again. Clip that little coupon in the News, join the News-Merchant's Candid Camera Club, bring in your best shots since March 21, and win one of these prizes,—and, have a lotta fun. There are no dues no admission.

This contest is sponsored jointly by Mayes Studio and Radio Shop, City Drug Store, Flentge Drug Store, Gatesville Drug Store, Koen-Foster Drug Store and the Coryell County News.

For your information, if the pictures in our window "scare you" they will not be entered in the contest. Anyway, any of the "fans" can beat them!

Gatesville and adjoining communities will take an active part in the celebration of the anniversary of the CCC camp on April 4 at the Gatesville CCC Camp. At 11:00 o'clock Monday morning friends and relatives of the 160 enrollees and camp staffs most of whom live in Coryell County, and the general public will have the opportunity of looking in on a phase of camp life. Army officials in charge of the camp have declared open house from 11:00 to 12:00, at which time all visitors will be invited to inspect the camp area. Guides will be on hand to answer questions and explain the functioning of a CCC Camp. At noon a free barbecue, furnished by the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the local camp, will be served to all visitors on the camp ground. From 1:00 until 2:10 several interesting speeches have been planned, including talks by E. T. Nagle, Regional Administrator of the CCC, and P. H. Walser, State Coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service. At 2:10 p. m. the Gatesville Soil Conservation Association will sponsor field tours to several farms on which complete erosion measures have been established by local farmers in cooperation with the CCC Camp and under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Service. Transportation for these tours will be furnished by the SCS, whose local staff will act as guides to explain the measures used on each farm. At 6:15 p. m. visitors will again assemble at the camp ground for entertainment furnished by enrollees in the camp.

This celebration is designed to better acquaint the general public with CCC and SSS activities and promote better understanding thru a closer relationship. All those who have not yet had the opportunity of visiting the local CCC Camp or inspecting the soil conservation work in this area are urged to join in this celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Civilian Conservation corps in the United States.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

Governor Allred did not eliminate his name from the Texas political scene when he announced his retirement at the end of his present term. For the political quidnuncs are just as busy speculating about his future political plans as they were before he bowed out of the gubernatorial campaign.

The situation is the same regarding Allred's plans as it was. No one knows what he is to do in the future elections. Allred left the way definitely open in his radio address for a return to the political scene in 1940 when he said he stood ready to serve the State again should the occasion rise.

This statement has been interpreted as meaning he intends to run against Senator Connally in 1940. But your correspondent does not share this belief. Allred, eight years in public service, desires to resume the private practice of law or secure a judgeship of lifetime tenure in order to secure the financial stability of his family. He listed the need of replenishing the family treasury as one reason for his not seeking a third term. This he cannot accomplish by serving in the senate.

Washington believes Allred wants a federal judgeship for South Texas which will pass Congress in a few weeks. Although the salaries of senators and federal judges are the same, the latter are exempt from the hazards of political campaigning and the uncertainties accompanying political positions.

Allred has, it seems to me, strengthened his political position by refusing to become embroiled in the heated contest in the offing for the governorship. He has spared himself much of the opposition, loss of friendships and criticism that would have been forthcoming had he announced against Ernest Thompson and Bill McCraw.

His position is comparable to that of Dan Moody, who retired in 1931 after completing his second term in the face of a challenge by Jim Ferguson to run for a third term against Mrs. Ferguson.

Moody resumed his lucrative law practice and now has an independent fortune causing his name to be mentioned as a possible candidate against Senator Connally or Sheppard.

Had Moody stood for a third term, he would have sacrificed much of the universal respect which he now enjoys among Texans of all political beliefs.

Senator Sheppard, whose six-year term does not expire until 1943 announce his candidacy for reelection last week, dispelling rumors that he would retire at the end of his present term.

"I trust no one will construe this as a big assumption on my part, announcing my plans so far in advance," Sheppard said.

"It is true I'll be 67 years old when the primaries open, but offhanded I can name eleven members of the senate who are past 70. And they include some of the most powerful men in Congress."

If Senator Sheppard is reelected in 1942 and serves out that term he will win the distinction of having been in continuous service longer than any man who has ever served in the Congress.

He now holds the title of Dean of the Congress by virtue of having a longer continuous service than any other living member. When his present term expires on Jan. 3, 1943, he will have had continuous service in both Houses of Congress for forty years, two months and twenty three days.

Only one man has ever exceeded that record. Long since dead he was Justin S. Morrill of Vermont, and he served continuously for forty three years, nine months and twenty four days. If Senator Sheppard is reelected in 1942 and serves out that term he will have a record of forty six years.

Former Gov. James E. Ferguson branded as 'premature and unauthorized' reports that his wife would not be a candidate for governor following announcement of Gov. Allred's retirement.

It is reported that Mrs. Ferguson will announce her candidacy and await the reaction, basing her continuance as a candidate upon a favorable, State-wide response.

Should Mrs. Ferguson run, it would be upon a platform advocating a State sales tax to pay pensions to all over 65 years old, regardless of their financial status.

She would attack Attorney General McCraw for his alleged Ku Klux Klan affiliation, seeking to capitalize upon an issue that swept her into the Governorship in 1924 over Judge Felix D. Robertson, candidate of the Klan. Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, member of the Highway Commission, is considering announcing against McCraw and Thompson and the usual flock of minor candidates, including Rep. Clarence E. Farmer of Ft. Worth and Mayor P. D. Rentro of Beaumont.

Hines is a close political and personal friend of Gov. Allred and would tend to weaken the support for Railroad Commissioner Thompson among the Allred following should he announce.

Karl A. Crowley of Ft. Worth, solicitor general of the post office department, is debating, entering the gubernatorial lists. Crowley is now in Texas and will make a decision this week.

Last week Crowley wired McCraw and Thompson urging them to resign their offices if they remained in the race. Stating he would resign his Federal position if he decided to enter the race, Crowley made public telegrams addressed to Thompson and McCraw in which he said they were receiving the support of predatory interests.

CARNEGIE COLLECTION SENT TO TEXAS

DENTON, March 29.—Recognition to the culture of the South was made recently when the Carnegie Corporation of New York allocated a $5,000 College Art Set to Texas State College for Women.

Consisting of valuable museum materials such as books, photographs and color reproductions of famous works of art, the collection will add greatly to the art treasures of the state. It will be shipped to the college the last of May.

Other institutions who have received this honor are Yale, Washington and Lee, Syracuse and Main Universities.

KNOWLEDGE GAINED WEIGHT LOST

DENTON, March 29.—Shylak and his pound of flesh had nothing on the girls at Texas State College for Women, who paid about 5,000 pounds for their knowledge in the last examinations.

Replies to questionnaires sent out by the Bureau of Educational Surveys in New York reveal that students suffer an average two-pound weight loss from intensive study just before examinations. At this rate "cramming" may soon take the place of reducing pills in the feminine world.

A COLD

RUB soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest and throat. Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. It penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 25 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All drug-gists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau, No. 4867.

N. Y. A. BUILDING AT WACO IS COMPLETED

Austin, March 28—Construction work on a youth center at Waco, in which the Waco Girl's Club will be operated, has been completed and the building will be formally opened early in April. A. W. Brisbin, National Youth Administration representative in Waco, has notified J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director.

The Waco Girls Club will be operated under the sponsorship of the City of Waco, through the cooperation of the Domestic Science Club and the National Youth Administration. Mrs. Brisbin said. The Domestic Science Club was formed 28 years ago, and among its members are the most prominent women leaders of the City. Mrs. Robert Dupree is President.

A six-room house adjacent to the Waco Working Boys' Club was obtained by the city. The house was remodeled by NYA workers, a stone terrace was constructed in the back yard, and a stone wall and shrubs will separate the structure from neighboring houses. At this center classes in handcraft, sewing, cooking, home decoration, and other subjects will be conducted. Social events and recreational programs will be conducted here. Girls are now registering for courses, and as soon as the formal opening is held the program will begin.

The National Youth Administration will also provide recreational leadership during the operation of the center, Mr. Brisbin said. An NYA supervisor and a group of youths will be signed to the project for this purpose. This NYA community center is one of several under construction in the state, and is the first one completed and ready for operation, Mr. Kellam said.

KNOW TEXAS

Still Wearing the Pants
DENTON, March 28.—Legislation for equality of the sexes has gone a long way since pre-suffragette days, but Texas laws show that there are still a few hang-overs from that era. A woman in Texas cannot convey property, even to her husband, except in his presence. However, even if the property is acquired by both husband and wife during marriage it can be conveyed by him, without the presence or consent of his wife, except in the case of a homestead.

Just as his presence is required for those transactions, his absence is required when a woman makes acknowledgement before an official, such as signing a document before a notary-public since presumably he would influence her decision. Various other distinctions are made between known instance being that women cannot sit on a jury in this state.

Sweeping Up Business

Brooms and brushes may be a pain to the housewife, but they are signs of industrial progress to Texas business men. According to the Biennial Census of Manufacture of 1933, Texas ranked second among the states in the number of factories manufacturing brooms and brushes. In 1936 a total of 38 plants reported production as compared with 22 plants in 1933. There is now a Texas Broom and Brush Manufacturing Association, organized in 1937 for the purpose of developing the industry.

WORK DONE BY LOCAL CCC CAMP

Enrollees of the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Gatesville have worked on 103 farms embracing approximately 22,000 acres during the past year in connection with the Soil Conservation Service demonstration work with cooperative farmers E. E. McAlister, Technician in charge at the local Camp said here today.

Mr. McAlister's progress report was issued today as plans near completion for the observance of the fifth anniversary of the CCC to be celebrated by nearly 3,000 camps throughout the United States.

Under the direction of technically trained soil conservationists, agronomists, engineers, foresters, and other Soil Conservation Service personnel the local CCC enrollees are engaged in treating land of cooperating farmer to prevent soil washing and to conserve water. The work done in the camp area is similar to the work being accomplished on the Soil Conservation Service project demonstration area.

The local camp boys have assisted in the construction of 23,921 rods of fence and removed 9,499 rods of old fence on cooperating farms.

Enrollees have assisted the camp technicians in laying off approximately 250 miles of terrace lines for terraces which are being constructed in camp area.

They have sodded 954 acres of land retired to pasture, including seventy-eight pasture strip waterways; an acreage of 454 acres.

They have gathered 25,000 pounds of Buffalo Grass seed, 10,064 lbs. of Plum Seed and 8,514 lbs. of Little Blue Stem Grass seed for the Soil Conservation Service Nursery at San Antonio, Texas, to be sent to various projects and camps and used for erosion control purposes.

They have also assisted in laying off contour guide lines for the planting of 254 miles of strip crops which will afford erosion protection for 10,000 acres of land.

Tree planting gully control, laying off terrace lines, checking terrace specifications, constructing terrace outlet channels and contour furrows are but a few of the soil conservation measures which are a part of the regular day's work for the 161 enrollees in the local camp.

The local enrollees have contributed to popularizing the soil conservation program since hundreds of farmers who live outside the camp area have visited the farms under treatment and have put similar practices into effect on their own lands.

SPOOK PICTURES

From time immemorial, from generation to generation, there have always been honest people who claimed to have seen ghosts. And during the three generations since photography came into existence people believing in ghosts have maintained that, since ghosts have been seen, they can be photographed.

Even though no ghost believer, when confronted by one, seems ever to have had a camera handy to prove this claim, speculation on the question has gone so far as to suggest that, surely, photographic chemistry will some day evolve an emulsion sensitive to the emanations of the spirit world, if such there be. The discovery and photographic use of the invisible rays of the spectrum, infra-red and ultra-violet, and of x-rays, Grenz rays and other kinds of radiation for which photographic emulsions have been developed, is pointed to as giving grounds for the speculation. Certainly a fascinating, not to say alarming possibility to contemplate, but meantime, whether or not spooks exist, present day photography has no trouble at all in making synthetic spooks.

Behold the spook illustrated. It is the work of an amateur photographer. How was it made? First, with the camera on a tripod, the door was photographed and the camera shutter closed. Then without the camera's being moved or the film wound, the ghost walked into the picture, the ghost being a person dressed as such. Then a second exposure was made for half the time given the first exposure. In other words, it was simply the old trick of double exposure, by which all sorts of weird miracles may be performed in photography, depending upon the ingenuity of the photographer. Ghost pictures are among the simplest.

John van Guilder.

NEW YORK—N. ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

MEN because they are men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth.

And make up your mind men never will understand. There are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood into womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and go "smiling through." Over a million women have written in reporting benefit. Why not give this world-famous medicine a chance to help YOU?

Lets Talk about Clothes

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE
WOMEN (CIA)

Denton, Tex.—Earthy fragrance of grass and flowers, whispering breezes, mellow sunshine with just a hint of crispness in the air—summer has definitely made a nearly start, and most of us are eager to do likewise in collecting our warm weather play clothes.

Decide before you begin a shopping tour that you're going to get something different—something exciting and new and youthful. Then look around. Designers have gone wild on ideas without sacrificing comfort.

In the peasant corner a dark green crash skirt may catch your eye. It's bordered with red to match the flowers in red and green on the white challis blouse. You'll think "No, that's too crazy for conservative me".

But at least try it on—the swishing skirt may make an enthusiastic Hungarian peasant out of you.

Then there are the guimpe dresses that give you just enough of the little-girl feeling to make any outing successfully care-free. If memories of ice-skating still linger, try one of the above the knee princess types that serves as well for sand play as ice play.

Even slacks have been worked over, so be sure to see the new wool and silk mixtures and don't overlook the possibilities of sharkskin. All these togs can be worn right now, say girls at Texas State College for Women who don a colorful bolero if the weather happens to turn a little chilly.

Four million visitors expected to enter California during the 288 days of the West's World's Fair on Treasure Island sixty-five percent are expected to motor from all parts of the United States.

We give above the schools winning the various places in the county meet, since it would be practically impossible to give the names of all the winners in all the events.

Possibly in the Friday edition of the News, We will give more in detail of the athletic events (Track for the most part) since in these events, there was probably more genuine interest and more competition than in some of the other events.

ANNUAL CROSS-ROADS WRITERS CONTEST IS UNDERWAY AGAIN

New York, March 29—The 4th annual contest to find the champion country newspaper correspondent of the United States was announced today by Wheeler McMillen, editorial director of The Country Home Magazine, national farm publication. Prizes totaling $400. will be awarded by the winner, in addition to getting a trip to New York and Washington as in previous years, will be a guest of the National Editorial Association at White Sulphur Springs Va.

The contest this year, open to all county newspaper correspondents, will close May 20th and the awards will be announced as soon as possible thereafter. The first prize winner will be invited to attend the N. E. A. convention at White Sulphur, which opens June 19th, and after that will spend several days with all expenses paid in New York and Washington. The contest has received so much attention since its beginning that last year the winner, Fin Petrie of Oppal, Wyo. was received by President Roosevelt in Washington and Mayor La Guardia in New York, and met numerous other persons in the news.

Another innovation this year will be the Certificate of Merit to the champion correspondent to each of the 48 states. This has been arranged with the assistance of the N. E. A., which will cooperate with the magazine, and will make it possible to recognize ability to a wider extent than previously.

The annual awards were started in the belief that there are hundreds of men and women in the country who do a fine job of reporting in their local news papers, as fine a job in their own field as do many famous reporters on the big city dailies. The contest is designed to call attention to these abilities.

Entries for this year's awards should reach the magazine by May 20th, and the contest is open to country correspondents for papers in cities of 10,000 population or less. Entries may be submitted by the newspaper editors, the writers themselves, or by the readers. The board of judges, in addition to Mr. McMillen, will include William L. Chenery, editor of Collier's; Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of The Woman's Companion, and Sumner Blossom, editor of The American Magazine.

The rules of the contest follow:

RULES OF THE CONTEST

ONLY country correspondents of rural newspapers are eligible for awards. A rural newspaper is defined as one published in a town of 10,000 people or less. A country correspondent is defined as a rural contributor whose major occupation is not writing. All material submitted must be in the form of clippings, with the name and address of the correspondent, the name and address of the newspaper which carried the item, and the date of publication plainly written in the margin of attached to each clipping.

The date of publication must be between June 1, 1937 and May 15, 1938. Entries will be accepted from the United States and Canada.

Entries must be marked as submitted in one of two classes:

Class 1—Local Letters. Some times called "news letters" or "locals"; variegated news of a given community, published in successive paragraphs.

Class 2—Country Correspondents

Not Published as Local Letters. This includes straight news stories, published under separate captions or headlines; news or articles dealing with local farm progress and home betterment, interviews, columns of comment or opinion, letters to the editor, and any other form of rural reporting or journalistic writing which is printed not as a part of a local letter, but as an item in itself.

Each correspondent may submit, or have submitted by others five different clippings, but not more. The total of five may include clippings in both classes, or may be all one class.

All clippings to be considered in this year's award must be in the hands of the judges by noon May 20 1938. Entries should be addressed to correspondence committee, THE COUNTRY HOME, 250 Park Avenue, New York.

THE AWARDS

An award of $100. will be given the writer of the best clipping in each of the two classes.

An additional award of $100. and a trip to New York and Washington, with all expenses paid, will go to the one of these two class winners whose work is adjudged the best of all clippings submitted. In other words the winner of the title, "Best Country Correspondent for 1937-38" will get a cash award of 200 and will be entertained by THE COUNTRY HOME in the nation's metropolis and the nation's capital and at White Sulphur Springs.

Awards of $10 each will be given to the five next best letters in each class.

I PATTED A BUFFALO'S HEAD YESTERDAY! IT'S MOUNTED!

Yesterday at the 'spress office I patted an American Buffalo's head!

This one came in from the taxidermist for Howard S. Compton, and is to be mounted in his office in the old First National Bank building.

Of course, in the zoo's, one may yet see one of these, and on the famous "buffalo nickles" if you have one, but it's seldom you 'pat' one on the head.

Mr. Compton's animals continue to increase in number, and they're most unusual. You, each of you, should see his trophy's from his various hunts. He's really got 'em.

STATE AID RECEIVED FOR 31 CORYELL COUNTY SCHOOLS

State aid has been received for 31 schools of the county amounting to some $16,780 according to Superintendent J. M. Witcher.

Information is that five more schools will soon be sent out.

Schools included are: Springtown, Slater, Mountain, Harmon, White Hall, Oakton, New Olive, Hubbard, Dunn, Mound, Longview, Pirmela, Belcher, Murrell, Haymon, Levita, Turnover, Flat, Peabody, Topsey, Ireland, Ewing, Maple and Plainview.

Homes of the West, in a $100,000 model home exhibit at the 1939 World's Fair of the West, will occupy 90,000 square feet of space.

Hundreds of pieces of statuary are now being modeled in San Francisco ateliers for the 1933 Golden Gate International Exposition.

NEW YORK N. Y.—When spring weather actually arrived on the day spring is supposed to arrive, bewildered Gothamites wandered around in fashioned furs, and British ulsters fanning themselves and staying away in herds from the theatres and the nightclubs and the movies and the caties from automats to Autocrats—and the wail that went up from Broadway entrepreneurs hasn't been equalled since the blizzard of '88 kept everybody home on almost the same March date 50 years ago—quicker fade from page one of the newspapers—king Zog's three sisters who just sailed—but you'd never know it—and what happened to that fellow who flew across some ocean a while back—you know, Lindbergh—and that couple who got married in June—the Windsors. East side—West side—Eddie Cantor sandwiching at Reubens—the opening of Jack Dempsey's Broadway bar—with fifteen bartenders—at any China chopstickery 'Moo Goo Gai Pen'—and it looks good and smells good but you try it first and tell me if you like it—worth while trekking all the way to the wilds of Spanish-American Bodegas Cafe Lantino in Greenwich village—and edging through the Broadway crowd Roland Young, here for rehearsal, with his pixie air of a man who could work miracles and may do so any minute.—To a Russian Easter Service where on leaving the church you're supposed to kiss everyone you meet and say 'He is Risen' which makes it all seem more like Easter than any Easter we have seen in spite of the Christmas mistletoe touch—Sam Goldwyn at the Waldorf-Astori on his way to Europe still building with pride over Sigrid Gurie—the Brookland lass from the Baltic—or should it be the Scan dahovian from flatbush—and in case you didn't know she sets a record in "Marco Polo"—by being kissed a hundred and 44 times—Deanna Durbin at a night club refusing to let the photogs flash her for fear it would hurt the box office of her next picture—the magazine which called Luis Quintanilla, the Spanish painter, 'Hero of Alcatraz' instead of 'The Hero of Alcatraz' mixing the San Francisco bay prison with the Toledo fortress—the garden on the stage of 'Tobacco Road' being planted for the fifth successive spring—they grow three crops a year—but they can't supply the turnips manched by the cast—they use up five thousand a year.—Unkindest cut of all—the drama critic who took his shoes and tiptoed out in his stocking feet in the middle of that second act, pretending he didn't want to wake the rest of the audience—The Broadway Parade.

WITH THE SHIP OF STATE

Washington, D. C.—It is not an unusual thing for an American ambassador or minister to awake some morning to find that the country to which he is accredited has changed its form of government overnight. When a revolutionary overthrow occurs our representative simply gets in touch with the state department in Washington as soon as he can and either packs up and comes home or stays on with the new rulers according to our policy in that particular case. John C. Wiley, counselor of the legation and acting minister of Austria, had an unique experience. The country of his mission simply dropped out from under his feet some time on Sunday March 13th and he was left high and dry with all the staff and paraphernalia of a diplomat and no place to use it.

This is the first time in modern European History that an independent state has allowed itself to be swallowed up without the slightest show or resistance. Mr. Wiley and his fellow diplomats should be able to make themselves a comfortable living for some time to come by writing memoirs of the event.

Incidentally the diplomat corps here—which has never been able to regain the suave camaraderie of pre-world war days—is feeling very uncomfortable, not about the strained relations among their various countries but because of American public opinion. The German, Italian and Japanese staffs are continually being made aware of the unpopularity of their governments, and manage to endure with resignation.

The British are less happy. Only a little more than twenty years ago all good Britishers took every opportunity to remind us that they were engaged in a war to save civilization and that we were shrinking our part—if not because we were cowardly to fight, then because we were too much absorbed in collecting the almighty dollar to care about bleeding Belgium and several other unfortunate peoples.

When we at last did go into the world war we were received with an enthusiasm that barely veiled the accusation that we had only come at the last minute when things were practically over and victory for the Allies was assured. This we know was untrue. And it rankled in the minds of more than one Washington official.

Now, however, Britain has abandoned her role as the defender of small nations and Britons find it embarrassing to explain their shift of course in the face of the derisive smiles. The comforting part for Americans lies in the fact such campaign of propaganda to help 'the allies' as went on so intensively in 1915 and 1916 with its subsequent embroilment in a foreign war.

DEMONSTRATION AGENTS OFFICE

GRAPE CUTTINGS

Grapes are most commonly propagated by the use of hard wood cuttings. Such a cutting consists of a straight portion of a shoot or cane nearly uniform in size through and containing about three buds. At the lower end it is usually cut off just below a bud, because roots develop most readily from the joints. At the top it is usually cut off some distance above the highest bud. These cuttings are usually made during the fall or early winter. In Coryell County F. R. Wilson made and gave to the Home Demonstration and 4-H Vine and Bush Fruit Demonstrators 800 Carman and Shafanel grape cuttings which were in bundles of 25 to 50. These were buried bottom up in a trench and covered to a depth of 10 to 12 inches with soil. This protects the top bud from freezing and gives the bud the benefit of the warmth of the sun in the spring, thus stimulating root development. This month these cuttings were being dug up and set right side up with only the topmost bud above the surface. While this is being done the cuttings are exposed as little as possible to the light and air. After being planted thus, these cuttings should develop roots and put forth leaves.

The H-D Agent has been present when the cuttings were dug up at Topsey by Mrs. W. A. Cowan, at the Plainview community by Sallie Frances Wiegand (both Vine and Bush fruit demonstrators) and divided out for each club member to plant and in both cases the cuttings have been well cared for and were alive.

SANTA FE MAY STOP DAY PASSENGER TRAINS TO COPPERAS COVE

The Santa Fe motor car furnishing day mail and passenger service to Copperas Cove and other towns between Temple and Brownwood probably will be discontinued in the near future, a group of representative citizens of Copperas Cove were told Monday.

F. H. Christian, Temple district superintendent, Allen C. Ater, Galveston, General passenger agent, and Paul H. Swinney, Houston, traveling passenger agent, stopped here a few minutes and made the announcement.

The three men were traveling the distance between Brownwood and Temple, the route of the motor, talking with business people and representative citizens presenting the situation of the railroad and getting their idea of the discontinuance of the train.

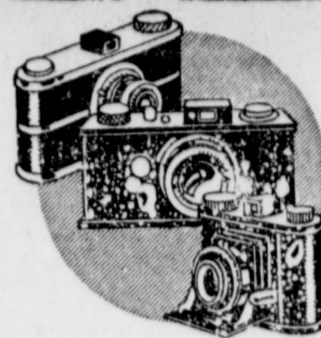

"The train is not making us a cent of money," the assembled group were told, "in fact, it costs the railroad from $15,000 to $20,000 a year more to run it than it takes in." The road has tried different schemes with it in hopes of making it pay, but they were fruitless, representatives of the railroad declared.

An application for permission to discontinue it must be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Austin, and a hearing will be necessary before the train can be discontinued, it was said. The necessary application probably will be prepared in the near future.

Should the train be discontinued, the mail service will be affected only slightly, Postmaster Alvin Clements said. Although mail is dispatched on the day trains, very little mail is received on them he said. Packages which are now received on the morning train will be left by the night train, putting them here in time for delivery a full day earlier on the route.—Copperas Cove Crony.

CLEAN UP CAMPAIGN IS AID TO FIRE PREVENTION

ernor James V. Allred for the annual clean-up campaign.

"This will be an excellent opportunity to dispose of unnecessary rubbish combustible materials, and inflammable goods or solutions which naturally accumulate around the home, store, and factory," Hall said. "These and other hazards, can be removed or reduced to the direct benefit of all concerned."

Hall explained that the people of Texas had made great progress with their fire prevention activities during the past few years, and that reduction in insurance cost had been the result. "We cannot afford to jeopardize this fine record," he said. "Clean-up Week will be appropriate time for us to eliminate any hazards or conditions that might start or spread a fire."

"It is only thru such care and diligence that fire prevention can be successful," Hall pointed out. "For this reason I urge every Texas citizen to observe Clean-up Week, and to extend the fire prevention activities of that week to include every day of the year."

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE

DENTON, March 22.—"Match your blouse with your eyes," cries a wise store window, and smart young collegiates answer "You've got something there!"

Green, Violet, brown and blue—all the shades exalted by poetry and Song in reference to Miady's shining orbs, are now featured in spring blouses. If you have that uneasy feeling that you're not going to be able to resist a spring fashion splurge much longer, take it out on one of these blouses, and see what it does for your spring personality.

Other colors for suit smartness that sound as fascinating as they look are May wine, Paris sand, and the again popular shades of yellow. Yellow blouses compliment navy or new blue costumes as beautifully as ever, from the pale lemon to deep chamos and greenish citron shades.

Waistcoat types seem to be in the led at Texas State College for women, and in the dressy lines fluffy shirrs are featured. Pure dye chiffon and silk are combined with tiny lace ruffles and tiny buttons, and jabots compete with the collarless types in popularity.

Capturing your Easter capriciousness, the odds are three to one that your favorite blouse this season will be the new "Baby Blouse". It's everything the name signifies, having a cherubic lace-edged collar and a bib front of tiny tucks and giving the wearer a Peter Pan spirit.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Jerry Warriner and his wife, Lucy, are divorced when he returns from a vacation and learns that she has been out all night with her voice teacher. They both still love each other but are too proud to admit it. While waiting for their interlocutory decree to become final Jerry runs around, first, with an exotic dancer and, later, with Barbara Vance, wealthy young heiress. Lucy meets and becomes engaged to Dan Lesson, wealthy young Oklahoma oil magnate. Jerry comes to Lucy's apartment as she is arranging with Armand, the voice teacher, to try to convince Jerry that their escapade was entirely innocent. Armand hides in Lucy's bedroom. While Jerry is talking with Lucy, Dan Lesson and his mother arrive. Jerry, too, scuttles into the bedroom. He discovers Armand and beats him up. Mrs. Lesson is outraged and Dan breaks his engagement with Lucy.

borness you're throwing away out happiness."

The telephone interrupted her and, as she was nearest it, she picked it up and answered it. It was Barbara Vance calling. "Who is this, please?" she asked when she heard Lucy's voice. Lucy had an inspiration.

"This is Lola," she said sweetly. "Surely Jerry has told you about me?" Jerry grabbed the phone from Lucy's hand and spoke to Barbara. "Who is that woman who answered the phone?" Barbara demanded.

"Why—it's my sister. She got in from Paris today," Jerry said glibly. "That's lovely," Barbara said. "Bring her to dinner with you, I insist. And hurry! You're late as it is."

Reluctantly Jerry was forced to bring Lucy to the dinner party after first exacting a promise that she'd pose as his sister. Lucy made him drive her home while she changed and as a result they were quite late in arriving. The dinner was already well under way.

Once they arrived and introductions had been disposed of Lucy went to work. She went out of her way to be rude, interrupting other guests as they spoke, making overly candid remarks about fellow guests and being generally obnoxious.

Despite Jerry's glares and the outraged looks from the other guests Lucy pretended to get drunk immediately. She leaned across the table to where Mr. Vance was discussing labor troubles with one of the men guests.

"I don't know what more the workers want," he said. "I give them vacations, bonuses, insurance and sick leave —."

"I suppose you want a medal for giving them what you're afraid not to give them," Lucy interrupted beligerently.

"Afraid?" Vance looked at her in dismay. "I'm not afraid of my employees."

Lucy shook her head knowingly. "You will be," she said. "The time has come, my friend, when you'll have to admit the importance of labor. The revolution is coming. Mark my words."

Vance scoffed. "Revolutions! A revolution in this country is impossible."

Jerry had taken all he could stand. He rose and came around to her. "I think we'd better be going," he said pointedly.

"Don't be silly," Lucy replied, waving him away. "It's early yet. Besides I want to show 'em my card trick. Hey, George," she beckoned to the butler. "Bring me a deck of cards."

When they came she shuffled them drunkenly. Mr. Vance was watching her keenly, a look of growing amusement in his eyes. Lucy held a wavering hand out to Mrs. Vance. "Take a card," she said. "Any card."

The unhappy hostess took one. "Got it?" Lucy demanded. "Don't show it to me. Now, tear it up. That's right—in little pieces. Put them under your coffee cup. All right. Your card was the five of diamonds and here it is—as good as new." Lucy waved the card at Mrs. Vance.

"I beg your pardon," was Mrs. Vance's frigid reply. "Mine was the king of clubs and it's still here torn in little pieces."

Lucy snapped her fingers. "Heck! I got it wrong. Let's try it gain." Jerry grabbed her arm and pulled her to her feet.

"Stop it!" he cried. "Get your coat. We're leaving right away." Jerry turned to Barbara. "I'm sorry," he said. "She isn't used to drinking. I'll drive her home and then come back."

Barbara shook her head. "No," she said. "Don't come back. That's the one thing you can do for me after tonight."

Lucy crossed over and shook hands with Mr. Vance. "No hard feelings about our argument, comrade?" she asked. "Don't you want to come along with us? This might turn out to be a great night before I'm finished."

Mr. Vance shook her hand warmly. "Good night my dear," he said. "It's been a great night for you already, hasn't it, Mrs. Warriner?" he added softly. Their eyes met and Lucy saw he knew who she was. Vance patted her arm. "Go ahead and do your darndest," he whispered. Good luck to you."

Lucy's eyes filled with tears. She gave him a big good night kiss. "Thanks, Mr. Vance," she said.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Chapter Five

Some days later Jerry followed Barbara Vance's father into his study after they had finished dinner. "Mr. Vance," he said, "I'd like to marry your daughter."

Vance looked at him over his glasses. "Lots of young men want to do that," he said. "Most of them are fortune-hunters."

Jerry grinned. "You underestimate Barbara," he protested. "She'd be popular even if she were on a raft."

Vance smiled. "Tell me something about yourself," he said.

"Business, financial or medical?" Jerry asked.

"The works," Vance replied. Jerry recited his family history, his financial standing and other pertinent information. Vance nodded approvingly. "Best offer I've had so far," he commented. He thought for a moment, then made his decision. "Jerry," he announced, "you have my consent and my blessing." They shook hands and Jerry muttered his thanks.

"Send Barbara in to me," Vance asked as Jerry was leaving.

Jerry hurried to Barbara, took her in his arms and kissed her. "Luckiest man alive kisses the future Mrs. Warriner," he announced.

"He consented? Oh! Darling!" Barbara kissed him again.

Jerry nodded. "Yep. And now he wants to see you. Run along—and hurry right back!" Barbara hurried to her father's study.

"He's a fine boy, Barbara. I want you to be sure that you won't tire of him in a month or so and break the engagement," her father admonished. "Think you love Jerry? Well enough to marry him?"

"Well, you know I'm not very sentimental but I am mad about Jerry," Barbara started for the door. "By the way, marriage doesn't affect my personal holdings, does it? I mean, Jerry doesn't share in my Consolidated stock or anything like that does he?"

Her father looked at her wonderingly. "I guess you're right, daughter. You're not very sentimental," he said.

When the public announcement was made of Jerry's engagement to Barbara Vance, Lucy tried unsuccessfully to see him or talk with him. For several days she called at all hours but always got the same answer: "Not at home." In desperation, she finally went to his apartment at dinner time one night. From the foyer she sent up word that Toots Binswanger, the night club dancer, was calling. Jerry sent down word to have her come up to the apartment.

Jerry answered the door when she rang. "Oh, it's you," he said.

"I'm sorry," Lucy said simply. "I had to see you."

Jerry stood aside. "Come in then. But I'm in a hurry. I have a dinner date at the Vance's."

"Do you know what day this is?" Lucy asked.

"You bet I do. It's the last day of our marriage. Tomorrow is final decree day."

"Unless —," Lucy began and Jerry cut in.

"Unless nothing," he said. "I'll be glad when it's all over. A man would have to be insane to go on loving a woman who acts as you do."

"Jerry, I'm not guilty of the things you accuse me," Lucy insisted. "You're just too stubborn to admit it and because of your stub-
