ERNEST O. THOMPSON OPENS RACE AT WACO TUESDAY NITE

WACO, April 12—Conservation of all Texas' vast natural resources, from the "first 12 inches of the fish in the streams: a war on unemployment in the form of an organized drive to bring new industries to Texas; no new taxes state regulation of utilities with rates slashed to a fair level—these were the main points of Ernest Thompson's program for Texas, as outlined when the red-headed West Texan opened his campaign for governor with a speech at the courthouse here Tuesday night.

Thompson, Texas Railroad Commissioner for the last six years, declared the underlying problem before every Texan is that of unemployment. New industries, he pointed out would mean employment; employment means money in the pockets of labor, with which to purchase the products of farm and ranch; business booms and all prosper when organized labor, the farmer and the rancher prosper.

So Thompson plans an aggressive attack on unemployment. How can we get gainful jobs for unemployed Texans? he asks, then answered: "I intend to meet this challenge by encouraging and fostering legitimate business, small and large, to the end that Texas may prosper and go forward—It is time in Texas that the thinking people assure our citizens and the citizens of America that business and industry in Texas are not going to be hampered by foolish laws, rules and regulations and unholy taxes."

Thompson pointed out that Texas has the raw materials, the fuel, the transportation facilities and the ports to become a great industrial state, if the people, led by the chief executive, make a real and determined effort to bring in new industries.

He, lauding President Roosevelt's attempts to help the farmer, Thompson said that "in administering the farm law and in the passage of any farm laws by the state, I favor the use of local committees to decide what should be done in each locality under the general law."

I favor the establishment of a laboratory to develop new uses for cotton and will work to see that this laboratory is located in Texas."

Thompson said vigorously that he was opposed to any treaty that would permit livestock and livestock products to be imported from the Argentine or any other foreign country to compete with Texas meat products.

He expressed himself in thorough, accord with the present

"PENNE D" SHOTS

By LARIATIN' LOU

Four centuries is the bait dangling before the cow hands that will participate in Gatesville's Second Annual Rodeo and Frontier Celebration, a go-between for R. L. (Rodeo Bob) Saunders stated yesterday afternoon.

Added to this, will be the fees for the entries in the respective events so the fans can expect the ultimate in Rodeology here when the proponents of rawhide, sweat, horseshair and dust start prancing on the terra firma after the Grand Parade, the opening day of the ceremonies, on June 3, this year, my dears.

Other info is to the effect, that the Parade Committee headed by Howard Frakns is laying intricate and elaborate plans for a blow-off nonpariel.

And, Jovial Jim Martin, of the Good-Willers, is preparing to out handshake the oolititians at the school picnics with plenty of "literature" placards, circulars and other doodads.

Interest in the big show is shown by the fact that none other than Gulfy, the Gulf Oil & Refining Comany has offered to no avail, their sound system. However, one was donated by a Senior Class, and so their "generosity" won't be necessary.

ANCHOR CLUB FITE-NITE, FRI. 22: BATTLE ROYAL; 5 OTHERS

Other events, besides a Battle Royal, with 5 colored mit slingers in operation, will be Alvis Ingram vs. Clyde Hodge; Ray Cox, vs any 115 to 135 pounder, and two other events yet to be scheduled.

Proceeds from the fight will be used to finance club activities.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

The internal situation in France presents a serious challenge to the bloc of democratic states in Europe which is now on the defensive against the Fascists. Every sign of weakness on the part of Britain and France has been exploited in the past by Hitler and Mussolini. If France collapses internally it will fulfill the same purpose from the Fascists' point of view as if France were defeated on the field of battle.

With the exception of the Ethiopian conquest, the victories of Mussolini and Hitler have been easy victories and they have been peaceful. Thus the lack of unity in France and the serious financial difficulties of the French Government may so nullify the military and diplomatic potency of France that Il Duce and Der Fuehrer will march on to more peaceful victories, probably at the expense of Czechoslovakia and the Danubian state of Southeastern Europe.

For these reasons, the factional disputes of the French constitute a potent source of concern not only for Great Britain who must depend upon the French armies to hold back the Germans but for the United States, who looks to France and Britain as her first line of defense against all the "isms" which must be kept from these shores.

Since the organization of the French Republic in 1871 following the abdication of Louis Napoleon and the withdrawal of the Prussian armies from Paris, France has had the cabinet system of government. But the two party system which both Britain and the U. S. have found so workable has never prevailed in France. Instead, there are fourteen or more parties, grouped rather loosely into what are known as the left or radical group, the center or moderates and the right or conservative alliance.

The struggle for supremacy has been largely between the left and the right with neither having at any time a dominating majority. Usually the center holds the balance of power. Cabinets must resign when a vote of non-confidence is registered by the Chamber of Deputies on a measure. The large number of parties each of which is split into factions, groups, and cliques, makes it extremely difficult for any cabinet to control the Chamber. Hence the steady successions of French cabinets each of which succeeds in controlling a majority of the deputies for a

TRUSTEES RENAMED ON SCHOOL BOARD AT TUES. MEETING

Trustees renamed were Edgar Franks, Ben West and Reid Powell. Other members terms have not expired, and the board is planned so all board members do not go out at the same time. Statements from Aldermen, Mayor Gandy and Supt. Brooks was to the effect that the present Board was in "harmonious accord", and it was therefore deemed best to rename those whose terms had expired.

CORYELL COUNTY TRACTOR COMPANY OPENS IN OLD GAS BLDG.

Gatesville's newest business is the Coryell County Tractor Company which has taken the building on E. Main formerly occupied by the Community Natural Gas Company, and operated by John C. Linder and son of Moody and Corsicana.

Messrs Linder have for the past few months been handling Allis-Chalmers implements in Corsicana. Before going to Corsicana they operated the Allis-Chalmers agency at Moody, and will be well known by folk living in the southeastern part of Coryell County.

These men have been handling farm implements, tractors and machinery for the past six years, and will be a welcomed addition to the farming interests of this vicinity.

Harvard University lists 71,757 alumni in 84 countries.

short time only.

Leon Blum's first ministry was a coalition of the "leftist" parties and was known as the popular front government. Blum launched an elaborate program of social reform which resembled the New Deal program of President Roosevelt. Blum, a Jew, involved the government in financial difficulties which brought it to the verge of collapse. His ministry was followed by the short lived Chautemps ministry. It failed and Blum made another attempt that proved futile.

The new premier, Edouard Daladier is a conservative of the right who must contend with worrisome foreign problems not to mention internal finances and serious labor disputes which threaten to paralyze the industrial structure of the country.

The French internal situation is fought with danger for France and for her allies. The almost equal strength of the left and right strangely parallels a situation in Spain preceding the outbreak of the civil war. At the election before Franco's revolt broke out in July 1936, the representation in the Cortes (parliament) was split almost 50-50 between the parties of the right and left with the left slightly in the majority. Hence the revolt of the rightist parties—including the clericals, monarchists, rich merchants and land owners—in an attempt to destroy the left completely.

Fascist and Communist groups in France are aggravating the dispute between the right and left. And the breakdown of the industrial system which, as in America, has never recovered from the stress of the depression adds additional fuel to the fire.

Unless the differences between the opposing groups in France can be reconciled, the nation will be reduced to the status of a second rate power and the last bulwark against Fascism removed from continental Europe.

JONESBORO LAD IS OFFICER IN JTC CADET CORPS

Stephenville—An officer in the John Tarleton College cadet corps is Frank Courtney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Courtney of Jonesboro. Frank is a corporal in Company A.

The Tarleton cadet corps has been reviewed this year by Maj. Gen. Brees of the Eighth Corps area and by Lt. Gen. Bullard, who was in Stephenville during the army maneuvers last fall. Both officers pronounced the corps an excellent R. O. T. C. unit Federal inspection for which rather strenuous preparations are being made by cadet officers and privates, will take place on April 14 at Tarleton.

Frank is a junior at Tarleton in Pre-vet. He is a member of the rifle team.

COUNTY SUPT'S. NOTES

Census reports are in. A few districts report children not taken. These should be taken on the proper blanks and mailed to the office at once. After the alphabetical rolls are completed it is very difficult to add names. Each name added last year called for an affidavit that the child was a resident of the district the first day of April.

The County School Board will meet on Wednesday April 20 1938, at 10:00 a. m. in the Court House. Election returns from the votes cast on April the 2nd show the County School Board for 1938-39 to be: Louis Dewald of Copperas Cove, Vick McBride of Topsey, A. T. Humes of Turnersville Hugo Haase of Gatesville and C. H. Graham of Oglesby.

Many school boards have organized and are beginning in earnest the school year 1938-39.

Ireland School Board re-elected its faculty as it stands for the coming school year. Much progress has been made in this school in recent years. It is now a fully affiliated school. A new gymnasium has been erected recently, this with other added departments will take care of the many sides of a modern education. The people in this section have responded to the opportunities offered.

Supt. S. V. Dickenson with his able faculty have under their care this year more than 200 students.

The Coperas Cove School Board on Monday evening of last week re-elected their entire faculty for another year. Reports from within and without this school are to the effect that the school has served well its own community along with the high school students of neighboring schools during the present term.

The Board and Faculty are already looking to a good year for 1938-39. This school has a large territory to serve. It is located in the southern part of the county 15 miles from Killeen 18 miles from Lampasas and 26 miles from Gatesville.

The Evant School Board re-elected its efficient Supt, Ben O. Grant during the month of Jan. This school serves students from four counties. It has an enrollment of 288 students. Evant has state highways entering it from four directions. It is fulfilling its mission as an educational center.

A number of other schools have re-elected their principals and some have elected their teachers. Reports from these schools will be made in the future.

More than 150,000 persons are engaged in the automobile tire and accessory manufacturing business in the United States.

BETWEEN SEASONS DIST. COURT HANDLES CASE

Although, there is no present term of District Court,— still there is legal business, in Judge R. B. Cross' court.

Wednesday, the case Ex-Parte Ernest Douglas et al, the court directed, that six dependent and neglected children who were inmates of the State Juvenile Training School be sent to the State Home for Dependent and Neglected children at Waco.

Those who were sent to Waco by the Judge's order are: Ernest Douglas, Buster Hass, Tommy Haas, J. D. Ratcliff, John Peters, and Billy Story.

Suit was filed in the District court for $15,850 by Clyde Johnson against T. C. and G. F. Gage, partners, Gage Brothers, for injury sustained on Hwy 7 east of Gatesville.

HORNETS LOOKING BAD: JACKSON INJURIES ANKLE

After taking what appeared to be a change for the better, the Hornets slid back and displayed the worst form they have shown all spring during the past week. Injuries are besetting them right and left, with little Jack Jackson ankle injury the worst casualty. First Lester, counted on as a regular left half, smashed his nose and was out for a week and a half, and then Jackson broke his ankle. Blankenship then twisted his knee and he remained out of about three days.

Jackson's injury is most unfortunate, for it will keep the young man out of the rest of spring practice, and the accident came just as he was reaching his peak. He had been running wild in scrimmages, gaining 30 and 40 yards at a clip.

Although this hurt will keep him out of spring practice, it is not expected to permanently bother him. He pulled two cartilages apart in the joint of his left ankle and although it is not what is medically termed a fracture, the ankle will have to remain in a cast for about a month.

Who Are Eligible for Loans

Loans are made on more liberal terms to applicants who intend to occupy the property as a home.

The applicant must show himself to be solvent and with a sufficient salary or income which would show a reasonable ability to pay the loan as it matures. In as much as the monthly payments are very low anyone who is able to pay rent might be reasonably expected to meet the required payments for a loan sufficient to build the type house on which they are paying rent.

The incomes of different members of the same family may be pooled to show the ability to meet the required payments.

Further information will be furnished to interested parties by W. F. & J. F. Barnes Lumber Wm. Cameron Co. the Home Lumber Co., building contractors, or Robt. W. Brown, local FHA Chairman.

Robt. W. Brown, Chairman, FHA Committee.

Frame Gardening

Growing in popularity is a type of vegetable planting known as a frame garden. A frame garden consists of 1 x 12 planks tacked together to make a frame of sufficient size in which to grow vegetables. A space 4 to 10 ft. wide and 20 to 60 feet long is about the size ordinarily used. Muslin cloth is tacked to the back side of the frame and nails are driven thru the upper edge so that the cloth may be fastened all the way around to make a cloth cover. Rows 8 to 10-inches apart are marked off inside the frame garden and planting may be done at any time early in the spring. Such vegetables as lettuce, carrots, tendergreens, beans, broccole, and mustard greens may be used satisfactorily.

A seed company furnished $10 worth of seed to Coryell County thru A & M College Extension service to be planted in frame gardens by twenty-five home food supply and vine and bush fruit demonstrators.

Progress in popularizing frame gardens is expected thru the fine cooperation of twenty five club women and girls in Coryell County. These selected demonstrators are Mrs. Joe L. Bland, Miss Charlotte Bertrand, Miss Ara Mae Black, Miss Margie Beth Brown, Mrs. Q. F. Adams, Miss Pauline Clary, Mrs. R. C. Burt, Mrs. A. D. Chambers, Mrs. W. A. Cowan, Miss Virginia Davidson, Miss Ann Harper, Miss Doris Perkins, Miss Milbora McFarland, Miss Mildred Moore, Miss Lillie Lou Rodgers, Miss Naomi Shults, Miss Esther Stoll, Mrs. H. A. THE GROVE SCHOOL NEWS

On Friday April 1 the school made an educational tour to Waco. Visits were made to the following places: Hilltop Bakery, Waco News Tribune, Dr Pepper Bottling Company, Radio Station WACO, Methodist Orphan's Home and Cemeron Park. Everyone seemed to enjoy the trip very much, and we hope gained some educational benefit from it.

Recent additions to our playground equipment are: Two new playground balls, a volley ball court, volley ball and volley ball net. The money necessary for purchasing this equipment was taken from the proceeds of the play, The Path Across the Hill.

A start has been made on the program for last day of school which will be on Friday, May 13. The high school pupils have chosen the three act play, Wild Ginger, and will present it on the night of the last day. More details concerning the rest of the programs will be announced next week.

Due to the cold weather of last week it was necessary to postpone the date for our regular P. T. A. meeting until Thursday, April 21 of next week.

This will probably be our last meeting for the school year, so be sure not to miss it.

This week is six-weeks test week. Parents, if your child has not been doing satisfactory work, please cooperate in encouraging that child to do better work. You are in a better position than any teacher to impress upon your child the vital necessity of a thorough education.

JONESBORO SCHOOL NOTES

The Jonesboro High School is rapidly approaching the close of another term of school. This year we have passed us by so quickly that we hardly realize that the time will soon be here for graduating exercises again.

We have enjoyed a very successful year. We have had enrolled during the year 225 pupils, 90 in high school and 135 in ward school.

Our entire faculty is made up of degree teachers and we feel that good work has been accomplished. We are deeply disappointed last year in that we did not receive affiliation but the reason not because of the work done. We tried to forget last year, and work even harder this year and we believe that we will receive reorganization for our efforts.

Our thanks go out to our patrons who have stood by us so loyally during this period of disappointment. We have tried to have the best school possible and we believe that our school is recognized over the country the type of school that children love to attend.

To the patrons living in other school districts who have sent your high school pupils to us, we want you to know that in doing so you paid us all one of the greatest compliments that can be given a school. You showed your faith in our efforts. We want you to know that your children are our children, that we have enjoyed having them and have tried in every way to make their school life happy. We want you to be one of us, to feel that this is your school and help us make it a better one.

Our years work has been very pleasant, pupils have cooperated in making it a year of good work. We are well represented in the county meet activities and are especially proud of our accomplishments in declamation. Ernestine Schwalbe won first for Ward School Junior girls and Wallace Reed Sellers third for Ward School Junior boys, Eva Jean Holloway won first in the county for High School Junior girls and Bernice Jones won third for High School Seniors girls. Ernestine Schwalbe, the Ward School winner, also won the district title at Waco on Saturday, April 10 and will represent our school at Denton. This will be her second bi-district meet in the past two years.

This year medals are being awarded to honor students in different subjects. A medal will be given to the pupil in each grade making the highest average in Math, English and History. This gives the pupils a chance to get recognition in their favorite field of work and also adds interest through out the High School.

guard and was given excellent support by Margaret Jones.

Medals were awarded to Ralph Walsh and Helen Young as the most valuable players to their respective teams and a medal was given Bernice Jones for the best sportsmanship shown during the season.

And now for the close of school with the rush of Senior plays, banquets and senior day yet to come. The whole year has been happy and profitable.

P. T. Lemmons
Supt of Jonesboro school.

A report on the Jonesboro school would hardly be complete without reference to our athletic accomplishments for the year. The Eagles came through again with another good team built around the sharp shooting Smoky Walsh. Then won 26 games out of thirty-one played and in only three could you say that the opposition was easy. Walsh led the way in scoring with 323 points for the season but credit should be given his mates for their clever screening and passing which enabled him to take his shots in the open. McDonald and Huggins were the screen men for Walsh while Sellers and Hawkins did the passing. The team perhaps lacked some of the physical requirements of a great team but they made up for these shortcomings with a spirit of determination and hustle that was hard to overcome. Walsh, McDonald, and Sellers finished their four years and they will certainly be missed but Jonesboro has long been lucky in having some one to come on to fill vacant places. Next year the county will see another flock of Eagles just as eager to win as the team this year. We were handicapped last year because all our games were away from home and all our practice had to be done out doors but we believe that this handicap will be removed before another year. One interesting sidelight on the year's record is that the Eagles defeated five county Champions and then failed to win their own county. The defeated champions were Star, winner of Mills County, Valley Mills, winners of Bosque County; Gatesville, winner of Coryell County, Carlston, winner of Hamilton County, and Dublin winner of Erath County. In the above statement we are not trying to take away from the honors won by the Gatesville Hornets. They beat us when it really counted and that's the way champions are made.

HORNET BASEBALLERS TAKE TWO, 2-1 11-9

The Hornets added two more games to the win column Saturday and Monday by taking a close one from Mound, 2-1 and outslugging the State nine by 11-9.

The game with Mound was a thriller. Francis Rutherford, Hornet hurler pitched a beautiful brand of ball, but is Mound opponent hurled no less brilliantly. Both teams tallied a run in the second inning, and the score remained the same until the eighth inning when the Hornets sent one across the plate to break the tie. In their half of the ninth the Mound boys put two on base but to no avail.

In the game with the State Monday, Rutherford was too tired to pitch in his usual manner and the State boys touched him for 11 hits and nine runs, but the Hornets tallied 11 off the State slab artist to take the decision.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Seems to be moonlight, but it's sunlight. A snapshot with a small lens opening, preferably when the sun is low, will get pictures like this.

Do you know that—

Slight overexposure is always preferable to underexposure?

A small stop opening must be used when both nearby and distant objects are to be sharply defined at the same time?

For good composition, the object of principal interest should never be placed in the center of a picture?

In striving for pictorial effect, it is best not to hurry in making the exposure unless moving objects demand immediate action, as a little time spent in selecting the viewpoint proves a good investment?

Highlights are the portions of a picture upon which the greatest amount of light is centered and reflected—the densest portion of the negative and the lightest portion of the print?

Enlarging from sections of your choice negatives is a source of great satisfaction, and that many exhibition prints are prepared in this way from negatives which, taken as a whole, lack just the right spacing or arrangement?

A diagonal rather than a full face-on view of a building is usually more pleasing, particularly if a portion of the building is in shadow?

If, when making portraits, a hand, arm or leg of the subject is extended much beyond the body toward the camera, it will appear abnormally large in the picture?

In using a portrait attachment for close-ups, a piece of string knotted at determined distances and kept in the box with the attachment, is more convenient than looking for a yardstick or tape measure to fix the distance between camera and subject?

Most so-called moonlight pictures are made in the daytime and that a snapshot exposure, with a comparatively small lens opening, when the sun is near the horizon will produce such a picture?

It is best to have film developed promptly after the last exposure is made?

More pleasure comes from keeping your prints mounted in an album than keeping them loosely anywhere, perhaps to be lost or damaged?

Regrets and annoyance come from not keeping your negatives in orderly fashion in a negative album so that, when you want new prints of any picture, you know where the negative is?

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

THE FERGUSON POLITICAL HISTORY

Succumbing to the exigencies of advanced age, new methods of campaigning and a new generation of voters to whom the name Ferguson is no longer a household watchword, James E. and Miriam A. Ferguson have written the final denouement upon one of Texas most colorful and powerful political dynasties.

The Ferguson name will not grace the ballot of the 1938 Democratic primaries. Mrs. Ferguson who is 63 years old, has announced that she is physically and financially unable to make the race for governor this year. Her age and the fact that Mr. Ferguson will be 67 this summer precludes the possibility of either running for office again.

The family is not withdrawing completely from politics, however. The Ferguson Forum will support a gubernatorial candidate—as yet unnamed—who will endorse the two per cent sales tax and the pensions to every person 65 platform advocated by the Fergusons.

Neither Bill McCraw nor Ernest Thompson is likely to bid for the Ferguson vote, as neither wants to enter the governor's office under obligation to Mr. Ferguson and both have expressed opposition to new taxes.

The possibility exists that Sarry Hines of the highway commission or Tom Hunter, who ran with Ferguson support in 1934, will announce on the Ferguson platform.

A political chronology of the family reveals that the Fergusons have been candidate for public office nine times and have endorsed and supported other candidates three times.

When O. B. Colquitt completed his second term as chief executive in 1914 the state had a rather mediocre flock of aspirants from which to choose his successor. Thomas H. Ball was the dominant personality to enter the race but in the primary an obscure Bell county banker and farmer by the name of James E. Ferguson won the nomination. The official total for "Farmer Jim", as Mr. Ferguson came to be called because of his appeal to the grarian vote of the state was 237,000. In but one primary since that time has the Ferguson duo polled less than 200,000 votes in the first and second primaries.

Texas voters re-elected James E. Ferguson with enthusiasm in 1916. The total vote cast was considerably less than in the preceding election but Jim's vote increased to 240,000. In 1917, after three years in office, Governor Ferguson was impeached and removed from office being succeeded by Lieutenant Governor William P. Hobby.

The old saying "this marks the end of Ferguson" that has been proved false so many times since, originated at that time with the impeachment of the first of the Ferguson governors.

In the primary of 1928 "Farmer Jim" came back to vindicate himself by announcing against Governor Hobby. Although he lost by a large majority, he maintained his primary vote record by polling 217,000 votes.

The primaries of 1920 and 1922 which saw the first use of the double primary system were minus a Ferguson or a Ferguson candidate for governor. These two primaries mark the only lull in the 24 year battle of the Fergusons to hold or control the

In 1919 Mr. Ferguson organized the American party and ran for President polling 47,968 votes. Running for the senate in 1922, Jim was beaten by Earl B. Mayfield.

The year 1924 saw Mrs. Ferguson enter in the campaign for governor with eight other candidates the most prominent of whom were Felix D. Robertson, Joe Burkett, Lynch Davidson and T. W. Davidson.

Lynch Davidson was lieutenant governor and T. W. "Whit" Davidson had served in the same capacity from 1920 to 1922. The large field prevented the polling of 200,000 votes by Mrs. Ferguson whose total was 146,000 to 193,000 for Robertson in the first primary.

In the second primary Mrs. Ferguson whose campaign was conducted by her husband, won handsily over Robertson by nearly 100,000 votes. Opposition to the Fergusons was manifested by a huge protest vote of Democrats in the general election, which gave George C. Butte, the votes, an unprecedented total for a G. O. P. nominee in Tex.

January, 1925 witnessed the inauguration of Mrs. Ferguson for her first term and also the induction into office of attorney general of a young red-headed boy by the name of Dan Moody. Moody was destined to become the nemesis of the Fergusons for half a decade.

Dan Moody's record as defended of Texas rights was brilliant and without reproach. And in 1926 he became the bulwark of the opposition to the re-election of Mrs. Ferguson for a second term.

Mrs. Ferguson, Moody and Lynch Davidson a hooover from the 1924 campaign, were the main contenders for the nomination. Young Moody's candidacy was received with enthusiasm over the state and he polled 409,000 votes in the first primary to Mrs. Ferguson's 283,000. A month later Texans made Moody their chief executive with a plurality of 225,000 over "Ma" as Mrs. Ferguson was popularly designated.

Two years later Jim Ferguson adapted the policy of running one of his friends on a ticket supported by the family name and his Ferguson Forum. Louis J. Wardaw, a West Texas rancher was the gentleman choose to oppose Dan Moody. A lively campaign ensued with a typical Ferguson and anti-Ferguson battle raging heatedly thruout Texas' 254 counties. Moody won with ease, 442,000 to 245,000 although the Ferguson candidate maintained the family precedent of polling over 200,000 votes.

By 1930 Texas voters were divided into two rather clear-cut groups, those traditionally opposed to Fergusonism and those who with regularity voted for the Ferguson candidate.

Governor Moody was challenged by Jim to run for a third term, but this Moody refused to do. Ferguson promptly entered his wife's name into a field that was finally enlarged to twelve, including a former United States Senator, a state senator, a former state senator, a former congressman the lieutenant governor and a millionaire oil producer.

Mrs. Ferguson led in the first primary with 242,000 votes, 72,000 more than were accorded her nearest rival Ross S. Sterling of Houston, the oil producer and newspaper publisher.

Governor lent his support to Sterling in the second primary, which resulted in the election of the Houston candidate by nearly 100,000 votes over Mrs. (Continued on last page)

This is Saturday afternoon—adjournment came so late last night that it was impossible to write a letter in time for the trains for Texas and today we have had so many visitors that I have finally at five thirty closed my door in an effort to give the folks back home a report about the work of last week.

Outdoors this has been one of the most dismal weeks we have had. The spring-like weather that we had gave place to a solid week of slow, cold rain although no floods or storms as I have seen have beset the country. In Congress the week has been given over largely to the consideration of the so called Re-organization Bill which was recommitted last night by a vote of 204 to 196. This, effect, killed the bill. A re-organization bill has been suggested by many presidents, including Woodrow Wilson, and Herbert Hoover as well as President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Last year, president Roosevelt sent a message to Congress in which he recommended that the President be given the power to transfer and group various agencies of government in an effort to secure greater governmental efficiency. The House and Senate appointed a Joint Committee to study the question and last month the Senate passed a bill carrying out the recommendations of this committee. The bill carried such tremendous powers that I joined in a general hesitation to grant these powers without limitation. From many sources, some partisan but many sincere, arose the cry of 'dictatorship', and a flood of letters and telegrams began to pour in on members of Congress from people everywhere who felt that the measure was too great a step toward centralization of power in the hands of the Executive. I agreed with this view. I believe in economy in government and I realize that we must take steps to consolidate and abolish many of the more than 120 different boards and bureaus of the Federal Government, but I have always believed that even more important efficiency in government was liberty. I could not, therefore, support the bill until an amendment was adopted reserving to Congress the power to retain the veto power over any grouping or reorganization undertaken by the President. The Senate bill did not provide any such check. However, such an amendment was put in on the floor of the house.

Then there was the matter of the pre-audit—that is the right of an independent agency to forbid the expenditure of funds by any administrative agency of the government unless in conformity with the law. Every large business as well as practically all state and local governments have this check on expenditures before they are made. As the bill came to the house it had made the Comptroller General, who does the work, subject to removal by the very executive whose expenditures he was supposed to control. There was it is true, provision for an independent Auditor General who was to make a post-audit and tell Congress if the 'horse had been stolen' but I wanted a watchman to prevent stealing the horse. I feel that this was provided when the house adopted an amendment giving the Comptroller General a 15 year term thus leaving him independent of the President. Other amendments were adopted that removed every vestige of Executive dictatorship and actually made the bill an entirely different measurer from the one about which so many people had been alarmed. It was clear that all possible objections to the bill had been removed by various amendments. It was clear that if we were ever going to get a more efficient governmental organization, this bill offered the only practical means of getting it. It was clear that the only question involved was whether or not this congress would permit Franklin D. Roosevelt perform this task of governmental re-organization. I feel that President Roosevelt is certainly just as capable of doing this needed work as any future President will be. Many members however seemed only to remember when the numerous telegrams and letters that they had received in opposition to the original bill and felt that even though the objectional features had been removed, that their people would not understand and would think only of the dangers we had all recognized

BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

Interest is running high in this county for the good old National Game, and its going as if a strong county league might be formed this year.

Efforts along this line have been put forth several times during the past decade, but none have succeeded to any great extent.

However, for the first time in many years there has been organized a high school league, composed of high school teams alone, and a schedule has already been formed by that loop. It seems destined to be an overwhelming success.

This county is generously sprinkled with old time diamond greats, who have a strong desire to play once more and if these men can create enough interest in their respective communities there is no reason why a county league that would prosper could not be formed. Any person interested in the establishment of a loop of this kind should come to the News office Saturday at three p. m. when a meeting will be held and definite plans for the coming year will be laid.

Coryell City, Blackfoot, Gatesville, Mound and Jonesboro have already expressed their interest and willingness toward this proposed league and if only a few others would come into the fold, we believe a successful league could be formed.

Easter Vacation Dishes

By BETTY BARCLAY

Although the Easter holidays may not call for the elaborate meals of Thanksgiving and Christmas, they do demand that women be prepared for an emergency. Children are home from school or college; friends pay an Easter visit. Novel breakfast, luncheon and dinner dishes are eagerly sought by the perfect hostess. Here are a few suggestions:

Brazil Nut Apricot Bread For Easter Breakfast

1/2 cup dried apricots
1 egg
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup orange juice
1/4 cup water
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts
1/2 teaspoon salt

Soak apricots one half hour, drain and grind. Beat egg until light, stir in sugar and mix well. Stir in butter. Sift flour with baking powder, soda and salt and add alternately with orange juice and water. Add Brazil nuts and apricots and mix well. Pour batter into well greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven, (350° F.), one and one-quarter hours.

Lamb Chops With Orange (Serves 6)

6 lamb, veal or pork chops
Melted butter
Sliced Navel oranges
Salt, pepper and paprika

Trim fat from thick chops and dip in melted butter. Oil broiler well and broil chops 8 minutes. Turn and place a thick slice of peeled orange on each chop. Broil 8 or 10 minutes longer. Sprinkle generously with the seasonings. Serve hot.

Peach Shortcake

1 package lemon rennet powder
1 pint milk

4 pieces sponge cake (leftover cake may be used)
A few thin slices fresh or canned peaches

Place the pieces of cake in the bottom of the dessert dishes. Put two or three slices of the canned or fresh peaches over the top of each piece of cake. Dissolve rennet powder in lukewarm milk. Pour over pieces of cake and peaches and let set until firm—about 15 minutes. Chill in refrigerator.

Apricot Ice Cream (Automatic Refrigerator Method)

3/4 cup sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cups water
1/4 pound dried apricots
1/4 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup whipping cream

Cook apricots in 1 cup water until tender. Blend together sweetened condensed milk, 1 cup water and 1/2 cup liquid drained from apricots. Chop apricots and add with lemon extract to condensed milk mixture. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour mixture into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit. After mixture is about half frozen remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat until smooth but not until melted. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving. Serves 6.

Canned Chopped Foods For Toddlers

The food chopper is no longer a symbol of drudgery for mothers of the toddler set. Uniform chopped foods which doctors usually prescribe for children between one and four are now available in cans just as strained baby foods are. Among the chopped foods in cans now featured for toddlers' diets are carrots, spinach, beets, green beans, apple sauce and prunes. A vegetable soup with a wheat embryo content as well as chopped vegetables and a liver soup are also featured.

"SOULS AT SEA"

RICHARD MATTHEW HALLET
 from the Paramount Picture co-starring
GARY COOPER • GEORGE RAFT

SYNOPSIS

In 1842, a British patrol ship captures a slaving vessel. Captain Nuggin Taylor and his mate, Powdah, are taken into custody. They receive brutal treatment from Lieutenant Tarryton. Taylor knows that Tarryton is in league with the slave syndicate and tells him so. Later, Taylor conspires with the Naval Commissioner's Office to trap Tarryton in his slave activities. Tarryton deserts the Navy and gets ready to sail for America on the William Brown. Taylor is to take the same boat. Enroute to the dock, Taylor meets Margaret, Tarryton's sister, and her maid Babsie who is also booked as a passenger. He escorts them through a wild crowd on the dock. Margaret is grateful and Taylor falls in love with her.

CHAPTER IV

The William Brown with all sail set moved slowly across a calm sea. Taylor, lounging forward, saw the pale violinist from the Red Dragon playing softly for a flax-haired youth to dance a folk-dance with a pretty peasant girl. The denly he had the strength of madness. "Awff!" cried the farmer. His arm yielded, his knuckles rapped on the table. He dashed down his head in shame. Now the match was out. Edding was more feeble than ever.

Powdah, lurking on the fringes of the crowd, closed his fingers on the round arm of Babsie the maid.

"My little sea-anemone, that is nothing," he boasted. "Now as for me, I can kill ten men before breakfast to get up an appetite."

"Drop my arm. Miss Margaret says you are not a fit companion for me," Babsie faltered.

"Miss Margaret again. Is she so rich as they say, this Margaret? These jewels you were speaking of... Where does she keep them?"

"Under the transom in her cabin. In a small metal casket her father sent from India. Why do you ask?"

sister," Tarryton cried, coming from behind, infuriated.

"But Stanley, he was only—" A hiccup cut her short.

"Yes, I was only—" Taylor's hiccup was a master-piece.

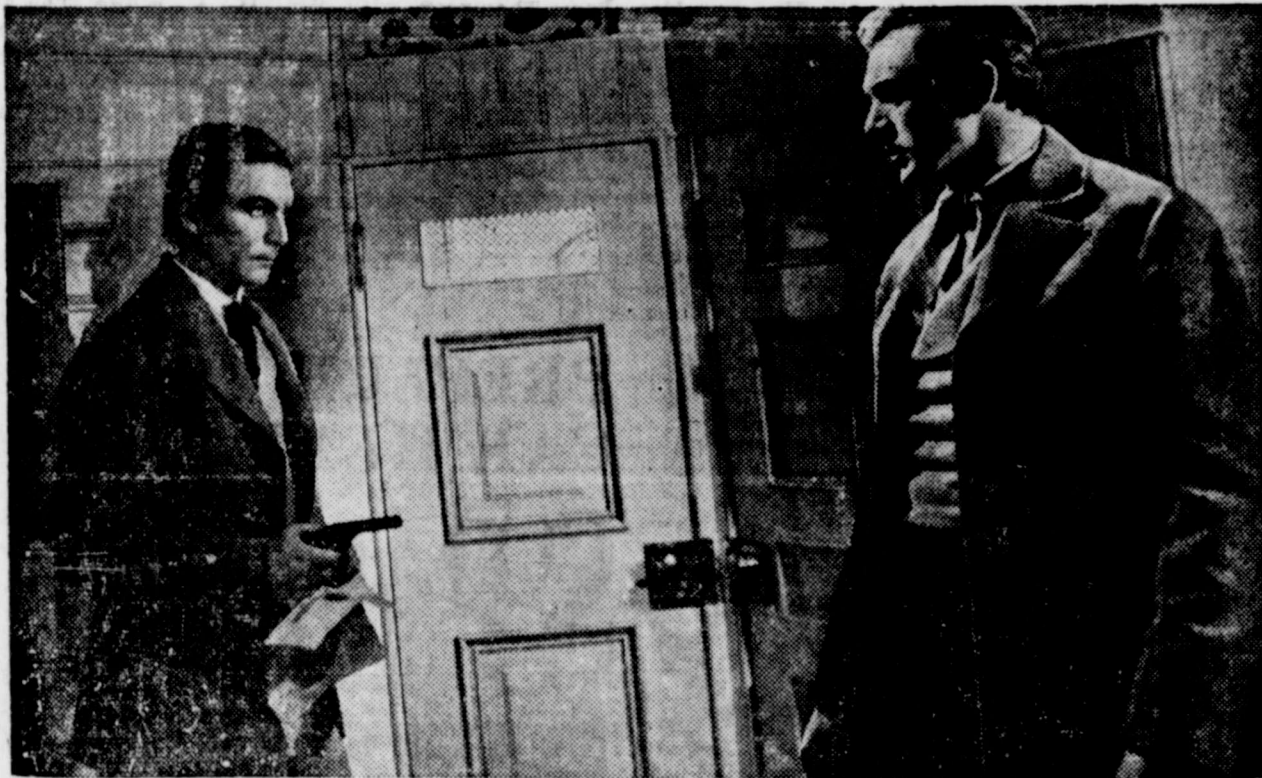

"You were only—" Tarryton's diaphragm buckled worst of all.

His sister's peal of laughter was cut short by another hiccup. "He was only curing me of sea-sickness."

"The dance is a cure for hiccups," Taylor proposed.

"Well, then, one dance... Stanley, I must show my gratitude. One dance, Mr. Taylor, but you must not say anything."

They danced, close-pressed, and he said nothing. The music stopped. Shadowed, they clung together and said nothing. But his eyes tantalized her. Then he said, "If I could get a toe-hold on the moon, I would bring it down to make a halo for your head."

"Bounds," Tarryton cried. "The English government surprises you in the act of slaving and you say that I overstep bounds."

youth's mother, Mrs. Martin, sat knitting, with now a smile for her son, and now an amused glance at old Schmidt the toy-maker, who wound up a woolly lamb and placed it on the deck. The lamb took a stiff step or two, and fell over with a little "Ba-a-a." Schmidt's little daughter Tina seized it to her heart.

"He haf not got sea-legs yet. He iss only half made," Schmidt chuckled.

"Like our destinies," the Reverend Clark said a little sadly.

The Reverend was not alone in thinking that his destiny hung by a brittle thread. Stanley Tarryton came and plucked Taylor's arm.

"I have the honor to ask you again for the schedules I gave you.

"The schedules. But I swore to you not to part with them to anyone," Taylor said blithely.

"You are quibbling, sir."

"I was never more serious. Remember, the firm is still Taylor and Tarryton."

"The firm is dissolved," Tarryton grated in a fury.

"Then the papers remain with the senior partner," Taylor said lightly, and turned his back on Tarryton.

A thick voice cried proudly, "Who can touch my knuckles to this bench?"

A Yorkshire farmer, squatted on one side of the bench, challenged all comers to the farmer's hand-grip. A hulking sailor tried and failed. Crash. His knuckles split on the oak. Next?

"You try it, Mr. Edding," little Tina Schmidt coaxed.

The tall thin man wrapped in shawls protested feebly; but the good-natured crowd thrust him forward. Hesitating, mild, he closed bony fingers over the farmer's... A man with an unlighted cheroot in his mouth lit a match. Mr. Edding glared at the flame with a strange light in his slate-colored eyes. Sud-

"She must be careful, that's all. There is a lot of roughscruff on this ship, remember... My girl, you are prettier than the picture on a Spanish doubloon. There will be a moon for tonight's dance, and you shall dance with me, lady in the moon."

"So. You are reaching for the moon, Mr. Powdah?"

Babsie whirled out of his arm. The sun went down and the moon rose, as Powdah had prophesied. The quarter-deck, lighted with red flares and lard oil lamps, was alive with music. But the ship rolled a little.

The flaxon haired youth, George Martin, wrapped in dreams, lingered by the rail with his peasant girl.

"Alleen, it is like a book," he whispered.

"A short book perhaps. But short books may have happy endings," Alleen said. They returned to the dance, and Margaret took their place alone by the rail, in dove colored satin and silver slippers. She gripped the rail hard with both hands.

"Even goddesses are subject to mal de mer," a voice said in her ear. It was Taylor, with his sympathetic eyes and his adroit hands. He looked slim, powerful, intriguing.

"Leave me, I beg of you," the girl murmured.

"Not until I cure you." He opened a chamois pouch under her nose. "This is Kall Saggl. The gamboes make it out of roots and herbs. It cures nausea, but—it may give you hiccups."

The fingers of his left hand closed on the back of her neck, he pushed the pouch against her nostrils.

"How dare you?" Margaret cried.

"You, a slaver."

"A slaver, but I dare my duty always. Confess, the queer feeling is gone."

"Why... y-yes, it is gone," Margaret confessed, surprised.

"I'll teach you to lay hands on my

It was against the moon I saw first."

"But Captain Taylor, you promise not to talk."

"I promised not to say anything," he jested. "That is different. I am a man of my word too."

"You are trifling with me then?"

"Your brother at least is not in trifling mood. Look, he is conspiring with his friend D'Artagnan there."

In fact, big with bottle courage, Tarryton was on the point of advancing to the attack again.

"Easy, my friend," de Bastonet, a swordsman cautioned him.

"But she dances with him again. You see?"

"Perhaps it is the same dance. The dance of life, M'sieu."

"He has betrayed me. What if it were he who caused Margaret to break with Martin?" it was I'll tear his shirt."

He shouldered Taylor impudently away from Margaret.

"Now you are over-stepping bounds, Lieutenant."

"Bounds," Tarryton cried. "The English government surprises you in the act of slaving, and you say that I overstep bounds."

"You are not the English government, remember, and you are not on English soil. This is an American ship, and I am an American citizen. Besides, the English government exonerated me."

"Liar."

Tarryton slapped Taylor's face a ringing slap. So—there might be another way of recovering the fateful schedules.

"Good." De Bastonet spoke with well-oiled precision, as if slipping into place the bolt that must bar Taylor out forever from his dream of that neat haloed by the moon. "Good. And now, my friend Taylor... shall we say—at dawn tomorrow?"

JAMES POLK HENDERSON

James Polk Henderson, better known to us as Uncle Jim was born in Tennessee, January 30th, 1856. He came to Texas at the age of 20, living in Coryell County until his death at 2:30 o'clock, April 10, 1938.

Uncle Jim was married to Sallie Burns at an early age in life. Two children were born to this union; Sammy of Hamilton, and Johnny, preceding his father in death in 1930. His wife died shortly after their marriage, and he was later married to Miss Cora Riley. Two children survive; Mrs. Monroe Newland, Levita, Mrs. Jim Sheridan, Gatesville, and two grandchildren. Mrs. Henderson died January 16, 1904.

Later in life he was married to Mrs. Abbie Holster who still survives him.

Mr. Henderson was a well known citizen of our community and has a host of friends and relatives to mourn his passing. Uncle Jim was a faithful member of the church of Christ until his death, being a member for about 35 years. He was always ready to stand for his Savior whenever he was called to do so. We know he has a home in the great beyond. We should not weep for him, but try to live up to the example that he left behind.

At the time of his death he was making his home in Levita with his wife.

Pallbearers were: Gariand Bland, Luther Brazier, Gran Rogers, Joe Smith, Marvin Hedgepeth and Boss Anderson. Flower girls were: Syble Anderson, Pauline Russell, Ardene Harris and Costilene Griffith.—Contributed.

World Comment—

Ferguson.

Dissatisfaction among the people arising out of the world-wide depression and from the administration of state affairs caused another flock of aspirants for the governorship to announce against Governor Sterling including Mrs. Ferguson and a Wichita Falls oil producer by name of Tom F. Hunter.

Hunter comparatively unknown among the voters, carried his candidacy to the people in a whirlwind campaign of over 200 speeches and registered what has been called a "protest" vote against Sterling and Mrs. Ferguson of over 220,000.

Sterling and Ma went to the second primary, which resulted in another "pro" and "anti" battle wit traditional mud-slinging and hair pulling. Official ally gave Ma the nomination by 3,798.

Four years ago five men of state-wide popularity announced for the governorship. Former Governor Jim Ferguson clarified his position at the start by refusing to run his wife for a third term, but announced as his candidate C. C. McDonald former secretary of state who had been a consistent supporter of Ferguson since 1924.

Other candidate included attorney General James V. Allred State senator Clint C. Small, who had made a remarkable showing in the gubernatorial race of 1930, Tom F. Hunter running on the basis of his 220,000 vote total in 1932, Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt and state chairman Maury Hughes.

As in 1928 when Wardlaw was the candidate politicians and quidnuncs speculated as to whether Jim Ferguson could deliver what he called his "pistol-pocket-vote" to his candidate. The former governor ammerged for McDonald in the columns of his newspaper and made several addresses for the Wichita Falls man.

In the first primary McDonald maintained the 200,000 mark—but only by 6,000 votes. Allred and Hunter went into the second primary and Ferguson threw his support to Hunter. Again he was doomed to defeat when Allred won the nomination by 40,000 votes.

Again the cry of "the Fergusons are politically dead" sounded in the newspaper columns of the state. But defeat of Charlie McDonald did not write finish for he name Ferguson in the political history of Texas.

In 1936 Senator Roy Sanderford entered the ring carrying the blessings of the Fergusons and endorsing the same platform which Pa is supporting this year in The Forum. Tom F. Hunter was also in the race against incumbent Governor Allred. Sanderford was overshadowed by the more dominating personalities of Hunter and Allred and polled only 125,000 ballots.

This year a candidate will again, according to rumors, march to battle carrying the toga of Fergusonism. Can he break the jinx which struck down Wardlaw in 1928, McDonald in 1934 and Sanderford in 1936.

Poage Letter—

in the Senate Bill. I believe that my people want me to simplify our government if I can without despoiling it. I believe that they expect me to keep up with all the changes in bills on the floor and to vote for their best interests when I get all the facts before me. When the vote finally came I knew that the dangerous parts of of this bill had been removed. I knew that we had a chance to get a real simplification of our government and that we probably wouldn't get such a chance again. I, therefore, voted against recommitment or I voted for the bill.

Sincerely yours,
W. R. Poage, M. S.

Do you want to SAVE MONEY?

The Standard Coupe

The Standard Ford V-8, with 60-horsepower engine, gives you a lot of car for a little money.

300,000 new owners acclaimed the "thrifty 60" last year. Hundreds a day are buying it in 1938. Why?

Because it is priced low—includes essential equipment without extra charge—and goes farther between filling stations than any Ford car ever built. Owners all over the country report averages of 22 to 27 miles on a single gallon of gasoline.

But economy isn't all the story by any means. The Standard "60" is built with the same precision as the De Luxe "85," and has the same 112-inch wheelbase chassis. It is easy to look at and ride in —as well as easy to buy and run. There's a Ford dealer near you.
