CAMERAITIS! GOT IT YET? S'HI TIME!

Well, if you haven't the newest disease—that terrible malady that is sweeping the country—CAMERAITIS, it's time you got it! That is the funniest thing you ever felt.

And, it's catching on here. One merchant got in three candid cameras last Saturday, and they were gone before noon!

Incidentally, merchants who are interested in your interest in this interesting Candid Camera Contest, are none other than your old friends, Gatesville, City, Drug Stores and Mayes Studio and Radio Shop, not Flentge's and Koen-Foster to mention the News.

Take a squint thru that jigger on your camera and snap something and enter it free in this contest—NOW!

KELLEY BROOKS IS NOW MECHANIC AT MCCOY'S

Kelley Brooks, formerly with other motor companies in Gatesville is now mechanic with D. D. McCoy, Dodge and Plymouth Dealer, according to Mr. McCoy. Mr. Brooks needs no introduction to automobilists of this section since he has worked for several different firms in Gatesville and vicinity.

It took the Romans about 200 years to conquer the natives of Portugal and Spain.

WOOL AND MOHAIR SHOW HERE SAT. MAY 14

Saturday, May 14th, will be Wool and Mohair Day for Coryell County, the exhibit to be held in Gatesville. It is expected that more and better fleeces will be entered this year than in the two previous annual exhibits.

This annual event is sponsored by a group of Coryell County Sheep and Goat men and as an expression of your appreciation for the time and effort, which they spend in trying to better the sheep and goat industry of this section, come to Wool Day and bring one of your best fleeces with you.

This year the classes will differ from those of the past two years in that there will be classes for registered fleeces, which are to be judged from the breeders standpoint, as well as the usual classes for commercial wool and mohair.

In addition to the judging of the wool and mohair by Mr. S. P. Davis of Texas A. and M. College, the program will include other interesting and educational features, relative to sheep and goats, through out the day.

Be on hand with your entries not later than 9:30, Saturday, May 14th.

Miss Mildred McMordie, student in the local high school, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McMordie at the Training School has been confined to her home on account of illness this week.

To the Citizens of Coryell County:

Friends and citizens from the three counties having expressed a desire for me to run at this time, and it being my desire and ambition to serve you, I have decided, without ill will toward anyone, to enter the race for District Attorney. Two years ago, after serving a fifteen months term as your District Attorney in 1935-36, I lacked only 90 votes of securing the nomination for a second term, out of more than 12,000 votes cast. It was the closest race in the history of the Judicial District and I accepted the declared result as a democrat.

without asking a recount for possible errors. During that campaign court was in session at times, and I was busy in performance of duty which prevented me from seeing all of the voters, for I was receiving the taxpayers money for doing the work and would not neglect it. That record of service in the name of the people is now submitted for your consideration, for I want you to judge me by my deeds.

I give you the following statement of principals:

I propose to prompt, fearless and impartial prosecution of offenders, in full cooperation with the Grand Juries and Petit Juries, with the aim of justice to all and special privilege to none. I will assist the Grand Jury at all times in carrying out the oath they take to detect the guilty and protect the innocent, as they are the direct representatives of the people and the jury system is a foundation stone of democratic government. I propose to save money for the people by vigorous action against thieves, burglars, and like offenders because such action cuts down the number of crimes committed and prevents much future loss. I favor the prompt trial of contested as well as uncontested cases and thereby getting away from what is called the "delay law".

If elected, the law as it is written shall be my guide, and the safety of your homes, persons and property shall be my first consideration.

Thanking you for past and present consideration, I am,

Sincerely,
H. William Allen.

Highway 7 Letting, Arnett to Evant Scheduled For 24

Although not cut and dried, a letting on Highway 7 Arnett to Evant is due May 24, according to information from Judge Floyd Zeigler's office today.

Judge Zeigler said that so far, there was nothing in the way of this letting, and that bids would probably be asked on this section of Highway 7, immediately after the date above.

Plans have been approved, specifications met and the right of way presented to the State Highway Commission, and it is believed from all indications, a contract will be let soon. This one stretch of highway will give Coryell county it's first thru traffic highway, whether or not all of it is paved, which will probably be the case.

Other section of the highway in Hamilton and other counties west of here are either in process of construction or have been contracted for, thus assuring Coryell county of an east-west highway, which has been the effort of the combined citizenry of the entire county for the past few years.

This highway will connect with other trunk lines at points west of here including Brownwood and Abilene, and via Waco on the east with the general highway system of the State.

In this connection, this work, most of which has been accomplished in the past two or three years is a result of extended work during these years, and abetted by 'ground work' which has taken years of patient work with no apparent results.

Coryell county, it looks, will finally get out of the mud,—at least one wheel.

Two Neat Jobs Performed Here By Burglers: Coca Cola And Hale's

Burglars entered two business houses here sometime about 2 a. m. Wednesday morning and escaped with hauls purporting to amount to around $250 in money and merchandise. The local Coca-Cola Bottling Co., and Perry Hale's Grocery.

Probably the first was Hales, where entry was made by breaking in the front door. The safe, main door closed but not locked, the burglars jimmied the inner door, taking something around $100.00, which also included a few cartoons of cigarettes. In working on the safe, a shot gun was moved, but was left. Finger prints on the gun were smeared, as the men had grease on their hands, and no identifying prints could be taken. Exit as made thru the rear door, which was also broken down. Lights were on at both back and front. Mr. Hale was on a fishing trip, and the business was being run by Mrs. Hale and her sister, Mrs. Edwad Taylor.

Coca-Cola Safe Taken

At the Coca-Cola plant, entry a made in the rear, after one pane of a four-pane window was broken out, and the burglars climbed thru, opening the back door. The cash drawer was pilfered of about five dollars, and the safe was loaded in the mystery car, and taken to a quarter mile north of the State Training School where the bottom was beaten out and the contents of the safe taken, the safe being left on the spot, the amount being approximately $150.00. Forty dollars in checks were found with the safe.

STATE CLASS B MEET TO BE HELD AT DENTON TODAY

With Pearl as Coryell County's lone representative, the annual State Class B Track and Field Carnival will be held at North Texas State Teachers College at

Denton today and tomorrow. Five hundred and twenty six schoolboy athletes will compete in this year's meet, with a total of 120 high schools being represented. A feature of Saturday's final program will be an exhibition run by a world's record relay team. The run will be staged by either the two sets of twins, the Rideouts and the Browns, who on February 5 set an indoor world's record for the mile and seven eights medley at the annual Milrose games held in New York, or by a squad composed of the Rideouts, Alvin Chrisman and Henry Morgan who on April 29 shattered all existing records for the distance medley at the Penn Relays in Philadelphia.

SUNDAY IS MOTHERS' DAY AT FLAT

At 11:00 A. M., with special music and sermon: let us make this a real Mother's Day by going to church and wearing a flower in honor of Mother. Also at Leon Junction at three o'clock.

In commemoration of motherhood, May the eighth has been designated.

It has been said three of the sweetest words in the language are Mother, Home, and Heaven. God said: 'Call her Eve because she was the mother of all living'.

The word mother is of divine origin. God so named her. Her place of life, esteem and respect is but a divine fulfilled place. God knew nothing could take the place of a christian Mother in a home.

God chose a beautiful devout, sainted woman, Mary, as the mother of the only begotten son of God. What an Angel of mercy is Christian mother. God made her the most beautiful. Do you remember that phrase "The Gate Beautiful? The temple in Jerusalem had such a gate. Through

PASTURE SPECIALIST HERE ON INSPECTION TOUR

On Wednesday, May 4th, Mr. R. R. Lancaster, Specialist of the extension service; Mr. M. R. Bentley, Extension Engineer; and C. W. Simmons, Extension Forester, visited the ranches of N. and Ardrian Foote and also the Stewart Williams ranch. After making a study of the grasses and palatable weeds and shrubs on these ranches, Mr. Lancaster stated that they were as good or better than any in the State. On the A. Foote and Stewart Williams ranches Mr. Bentley made suggestions as to possible locations for dams in the construction of livestock water reservoirs. The fact was brought out by Mr. Simmons that ranchers and farmers of this county who had large liveoak or other hardwood timber could, with the use of one of the small, inexpensive sawmills now being sold by a number of companies, have sufficient amount of lumber for building necessary lot fences, sheds, etc.

These specialists also discussed various varieties of grasses and other palatable growths, and the proper construction of earthen tanks and dams with those in charge of the Range Program in this county.

Two Burglaries—

Finger print experts from Austin and other officials from Waco were here Wednesday going over the case, but so far, no information has been released by the Sheriff's department although some suspects have admittedly been examined, but not named.

Women Intuitive
 About 8 p. m. the evening before, according to Mesdames Taylor and Hale, three well dressed young men, driving a green coupe stopped at the Hale store and spent a half hour buying soft drinks and nuts, and talking. They had apparently been looking things over according to the ladies and they said they had expected a hijacking as one remained at the door, and the other two came in and did the talking.

The night of the burglary, both ladies heard a noise in the store, but each thought the other asleep and would not disturb her. Also due to storminess of the night, Chas Bauman, brother of the ladies locked his dogs up for the first time.

Officers besides taking finger prints, also took plaster of paris casts of the car tracks at the Coca-Cola plant and where the safe was broken, but so far, no information is out as to who are the culprits.

Taken from the plant also was a rifle owned by Peyton Morgan, and from Mrs. Hale, ten silver dollars which she was saving. However they overlooked several packages of wrapped pickles in the Hale safe.

SOCIETY

Morris Federation Has Theatre Party and Luncheon.

Saturday morning, April 30th, the Morris Federation members met at the theatre to enjoy a picture on Pan America, this year's subject for study. After the theatre party, the women assembled in the M. W. Lowrey home for luncheon. Little dolls, daintily dressed in pastel shades directed the women to their proper places around tables with center pieces of May poles and Spring flowers. The three course luncheon was correspondingly colorful: congealed fruit salad, creamed chicken, scalloped celery carrots, tomatoes, olives, tea rolls, cake, and orange and lime sherbets.

A brief business session, with Mrs. C. W. Guggolz presiding culminated in the appointment of the standing committees for the year, 1938-1939: Program, Mesdames J. O. Brown, M. W. Lowrey, Eugene Alvis, Byron Leaird Jr., and E. D. Shelton, lyceum, Mrs. Ed Schloeman, Pat Holt, and Mrs. T. M. Hall; membership, Mrs. H. S. Compton, Miss Ruth Martin, and Mrs. C. R. Byrom; supervisors, Mrs. C. E. Alvis for art, Miss Orva Mayo for music, and Mrs. John Milner for literature. The following officers were named as a committee to rewrite the amendments voted on by the club: Mrs. C. H. Wallace, Mrs. H. T.

Chapman, Miss Miriam Raby and Miss Edna Murray. Mrs. Crawford Scott gave a rendition of a play.

Guests were Mrs. Eugene Alvis's sister, Miss Mtry Edna Worthy from Roscoe, and Mrs. W. C. Bradley's guest, Mrs. Frank Williams from Mexia.

A vote of thanks was extended to Charles Powell for his courtesy in adding a comedy to the theatre program; to Mrs. M. W. Lowrey for the use of her home; to Mrs. J. O. Brown and the members of her committee; Mesdames Ed Schloeman, Byron Leaird, Jr. and W. C. Bradley; to additional helpers: Mesdames C. L. Bellamy, C. E. Alvis, E. G. Beerwinkle, H. T. Chapman, Will Powell, Miss Miriam Raby; and to the president, Mrs. W. C. Guggolz, for her thorough supervision.

Wichita Girl Weds Wacoan on Saturday

Miss Pauline Evetts of Wichita Falls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Evetts of Gatesville, and Frank Paul Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Mayfield of Waco were married Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Dallas. Dr. George W. Truett officiated.

The bride wore an original model of pale pink muslin with shirring the only trim. She carried an arm bouquet of Sweetheart roses and blue delphinium.

Mrs. W. C. Ridling of Wichita Falls was matron of honor for her sister. Her costume of duty pink was styled similarly to the brides.

John D. Mayfield Jr., brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride has made her home in Wichita Falls for the greater part of her life residing with Mrs. Ridling. She has been active in business and social circles and was the inspiration for several pre-nuptial courtesies.

A dinner at the Adolphus hotel followed the wedding and preceded the couple's departure for a wedding trip to Rockport. They will make their home in Waco.

Guests for the wedding included Messrs and Mesdames C. W. Ridling, R. N. Evetts, Gatesville; John D. Mayfield, Waco; H. D. Applegate and T. H. Weilding, Dallas.—Waco Times-Herald.

Mrs. Earl Busby of San Angelo arrived Thursday to spend the remainder of the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Turner. Mrs. Busby with her husband was a former resident of this city.

THE ANGLO-ITALIAN AGREEMENT

Italy has reverted to her traditional policy of cooperation with the democracies against the imperialistic designs of Germany. Just as she refused to go along with Germany in 1914 in the war against England and France and as she two years later went to the aid of the Allied powers in order to forestall German domination of Central Europe, so has Fascist Italy again broken her synthetic ties with Germany and fled to the camp of England.

The conclusion of a pact of friendship between Britain and Italy looms among the most important news of the year to emanate from Europe. For the agreement between the two states which have been at sword's points since the League of Nations invoked sanctions against Italy in 1935 at the instigation of Britain, signifies the end of a rivalry over the Mediterranean supremacy which has threatened the peace of Europe the past three years.

Viewed in its broadest implications the accord means that Italy has joined forces with the state in Europe most interested in maintaining peace and the status quo, particularly in the Mediterranean, and that the Rome-Berlin 'axis' has been weakened or not broken.

The followers of Prime Minister Chamberlain point to the agreement as a triumph for a realistic foreign policy as opposed to Anthony Eden's Idealistic views toward the Fascist dictatorships.

Actually the agreement by Britain to recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia signifies a reversion to nineteenth century political practices by Europe's most powerful state. Whereas Britain, in advocating that sanctions be invoked against Italy in 1935 as a penalty for the Ethiopian aggression, was adhering to the doctrine of non-aggression adopted after 1918 by all world powers, she is today engaged in power politics and political bargains of the kind which characterized nineteenth century diplomacy in Europe and America.

The agreement is the result of diplomatic exigencies which made both Chamberlain and Mussolini anxious to reconcile their differences. Hitler is now at the Brenner Pass, and Mussolini has as a northern neighbor a totalitarian, militaristic state infinitely superior in manpower, wealth and resource to his own. The conquest of Austria, unopposed by Mussolini who four years previously had rushed troops to his northern border to forestall a Nazi coup in Vienna, meant that Italy lost all for which she fought in the World War.

The tripartite agreement among Germany, Japan and Italy endangered Italy's interests in the Mediterranean and involved more danger for Italy than for either of the other states. Only in the case of Italy did the clash with a major power—and that power was Britain, determined at any cost to maintain her supremacy in the Mediterranean and an open route to her Asiatic possessions.

Mussolini well knew that Britain would go to war for the protection of her Mediterranean route and that in such a war he would be defeated and his regime destroyed. He likewise knew that Britain would not fight Japan to protect British interests in China, and that Downing Street probably would not fight Hitler if he undertook further conquests in Central Europe. Only Italy of the Rome Berlin Tokyo axis stood in danger of a fight with Britain.

But a menacing Germany and the threat of war with Britain were not the only reasons impelling Mussolini's acquiescence to Mr. Chamberlain's advance. The Italians are overextended in Spain and Ethiopia. The Spanish venture has proven costly in men and money for Italy and the prospect for returns is slight. In Ethiopia, the natives are still fighting the Fascist invaders and the longer the European powers delay recognizing the Italian conquest, the longer the natives would prolong their resistance, Mussolini reasoned.

Therefore the recognition by Britain and the possibility of British loans to alleviate Italy's acute financial difficulties and for the development of Ethiopia were of the utmost importance to Mussolini, while the act of recognizing Italy's supremacy in the former empire of Haile Selassie constituted no great concession for Britain.

Mussolini is not sacrificing as much in agreeing to withdraw from Spain following the victory of General Franco's forces as one might be led to believe. It Duces chief purpose in embroiling Italy in Spain was to threaten the position of Britain in the Mediterranean, and so exact concessions from Chamberlain. By establishing a naval and air base in the Balearic Islands, Mussolini virtually forced Chamberlain to recognize the conquest of Ethiopia by threatening the route to the East.

For Britain, the concessions gained thru the agreement mark a major diplomatic triumph. Easing of the tension in the Mediterranean will permit more attention to the troublesome Chinese problem, where the vast British investments in Central China are threatened with expropriation by the Japanese or destruction in the suicidal warfare now raging. A stronger front can be presented to Hitler, who counted upon Mussolini keeping Britain so preoccupied in the Mediterranean that he could march thru Central and Southeastern Europe without serious opposition.

If France and Italy succeed in coming to terms, Hitler will be confronted with the old Stresa front of Britain, Italy and France and a formidable barrier will thus be erected against further Nazi conquest in Czechoslovakia or Hungary.

The objective of Mr. Chamberlain in concluding an agreement with Mussolini and fostering an alignment between the Daladier government in France and Il Duce is not to encircle Germany, but to draw the Nazis into a four power pact of friendship with Britain, Italy and France and so assure the permanent peace of Europe.

So long as Europe remains divided into two opposing and hostile camps, the danger of war will continue to be an imminent one, Chamberlain believes. Thus the effort to appease Hitler and the accord of friendship with Mussolini.

Chamberlain is well aware that any agreement with Hitler must give to the Nazis a free hand in Central Europe. This would involve a further abandonment of policy by the British, but no

There Is A New Era In Baby Skin Care

Yes, there is a new era in baby skin care—the antiseptic era. Today, one of the most important points that concerns the doctor in the care of your baby is protection against germs. Of course, hospitals and physicians want your baby's skin to be kept clean and comfortable—but far more important is the necessity for keeping the skin safe from infection.

There can't be any doubt about the value of antiseptic protection for your baby's skin, since we know that an antiseptic oil of approved standard is used by 90% of all hospitals important in maternity work to give their babies a complete body-rub at least once a day. In addition to these hospitals, thousands of doctors are telling mothers to continue giving baby a complete body-rub with the oil daily at home.

This approved antiseptic oil will never irritate your baby's skin... the experience of thousands of hospitals, doctors and nurses who have used the oil on hundreds of thousands of babies proves that. It is also nice to know that this oil is so pleasant to use; it's not at all sticky, it doesn't stain clothing and it has no oily smell. You must be careful, however, that you get the approved oil which is used by the hospitals and not some other oil which is labelled "antiseptic" but is not really antiseptic according to Government standards.

After your baby is too old for daily oil baths, you can continue the protection of the antiseptic oil, with the use of an antiseptic borated powder. Such a powder should not only be safe, smooth and comfortable as any baby powder, but should also guard against chafing and irritating moisture and above all guard your baby's skin against germs by being an antiseptic powder. A recent survey shows that there is such an antiseptic powder on the market which is recommended by more doctors than any other baby powder.

Every mother wants to help protect her baby's skin against harmful bacteria, and she can do so by using this antiseptic oil and antiseptic powder day in and day out. You can get more detailed information regarding these products by asking your doctor about them.

more so than the recognition of Ethiopia and the agreement to permit Mussolini's forces to remain in Spain until the final victory of the Franco armies.

The British people are not primarily interested in preserving the territorial integrity of Czechoslovakia, and their sympathies are not with Soviet Russia. Both Czechoslovakia and parts of Russia are marked out as objectives for economic and military conquest by the Germans. This the British know, but they want to maintain peace at almost any price.

Only by including Germany in a general European accord can permanent peace be maintained, Chamberlain reasons. For even should Britain join France and Italy in opposing further German expansion, Germany would eventually and on some pretext go to war in pursuit of her ideals, forced by the exigencies of an overflowing population an acute economic stress. Germany would again be defeated, according to the Chamberlain philosophy, but defeating the military machine which Hitler has fashioned would involve Europe in years of costly war, disastrous for Germany

DONALD WEAVER SPRING GRADUATE OF WEATHERFORD

On May 24, Gatesville will have one representative in the graduating class of Weatherford College. This young man is Donald Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shafe Weaver of Ames. Weaver has been a very outstanding student while here. He has been a member of one of the college boys quartet for two years, and has made many trips with the College Chorus. He is also a member of the International Relations Club, and the cast for the opera, 'The Sun Bonnet', to be presented on Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the Weatherford College Auditorium. In the Operetta, Donald is Reuben McSpavin, the constable's son, and takes part in several important vocal numbers.

C. W. COOK LIKES HIS SCS WORK ON FARM

Mr. C. W. Cook, a tenant on the W. T. Young farm near White Hall, has changed his ideas about contour ridges in pastures in the past year. The Young farm on which Mr. Cook lives is under cooperative agreement with the Gatesville Soil Conservation Service, Camp SCS 26-T, CCC. About a year ago, under the direction and supervision of a member of the camp technical staff, about seven acres of pasture was contour ridged.

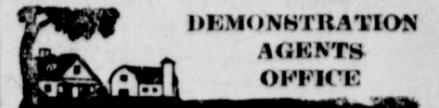

Mr. Cook said at the time this work was done, "I believe the pasture is ruined, and the grass that was plowed up would not come back for five years. If this was my place, I would not allow any contour ridges or furrows to be constructed on it." However a few days ago, about one year after the work had been done, Mr. Cook said, "There is more and better grass on that seven acres that was contour ridged than there has been in twenty years on any of the pasture land on this farm, and I have grazed it just as much as ever before. If I owned a farm I would contour ridge or furrow every acre of pasture that I could".

Many other farmers who have cooperated with the Soil Conservation Service in this area have praised the benefits of pasture ridges and furrows on their farms. The contour furrows seem to give the better results with fewer disadvantages after the cost of construction and maintenance is considered in many cases the contour furrows,

Therefore even if Russia and Czechoslovakia must be sacrificed, Chamberlain is determined to bring Germany into the four-power accord with Italy, Britain and France.

Americans wonder if Britain's realistic foreign policy will involve the sacrifice of China to the Japanese war machine in order to salvage South China for British investors.

Frame Garden Suggestions
In those parts of the state where wind, sand, and a shortage of moisture are the limiting factors to successful home gardening it is suggested that a frame garden be made to provide fresh vegetables for the family table. This year there are 25 such gardens in Coryell County.

Making the Frame Garden. The dimensions of the frame garden should be 4 to 5 feet wide and of any desired length. The usual length is about 20 feet. Frames 4 to 5 feet in width are better than wider ones because of the conveniences in cultivation and harvesting from each side.

The side walls of the frame may be 12 to 18 inches in height. Scrap lumber may be used, but 1x2 inch planks nailed together to make a side wall, and strips 1x1 inch should be nailed across the frame every 5 feet apart to support the cover. A good grade of muslin cloth should be tacked on one side and some means for holding the muslin down over the ends and other side provided.

Preparing The Soil. The soil over which the frame is to be placed should be fertilized with well rotted manure and spaded up to a depth of 10 inches or more. If the frame garden is to be subirrigated, tile should be laid first. Two rows of tile, 2 to 3 feet apart, are recommended. If the frame garden is not subirrigated, watering may be done from a hose or even from a sprinkler pot.

Planting. The rows should be 8 to 12 inches apart, being planted the harrow way to make cultivation easier. Such vegetables as leaf lettuce and mustard may be planted in rows 12 or even 16 inches apart. In most areas several plantings of vegetables may be made. The following suggestions are offered for those who desire to plant several times during the framing season.

No. 1 February 15 to March 1
Radishes, Scarlet Globe; Lettuce, Black Seeded Simpson; Mustard, Tendergreen; Spinach, King of Denmark; Parsley, Moss Curled; Chinese cabbage, Wong Bak, English peas, Alaska; Beets, Crosby's Egyptian; Carrots, Nantes.

No. 2 April 15 to May 1. Beans, Horticultural Dwarf Refugee, Pencil Poi Wax; Mustard, Tendergreen; Lettuce, Black Seeded Simpson; Radishes, Scarlet globe; Spinach, King of Denmark; Swiss Chard, Lucillus.

No. 3 June 15 to July 1 (Choose from no. 1 and 2 as desired)
No. 4 September 1 to September 15. Onion sets, White Bermudas or White Spanish; Radishes, Scarlet Globe; Lettuce, Black Seeded Simpson; Mustard Tendergreen; Spinach, King of Denmark; Parsley, Moss Curled; Beets, Crosby's Egyptian; Carrots, Nantes; Swiss Chard, Lucillus.

No. 5 October 15 to November 1. (Choose from No. 4 as desired) constructed under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Service, has held all of the excessive rainfall this area has had this season. The water collected and held by contour furrows eventually goes down into the soil, and, as one stockman of this section said, "The more moisture that is kept in the soil, the more and better grass that grows on the soil."

BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

Jonesboro, Blackfoot and Mound won their respective openers in the Coryell County Sunday Baseball League, with good crowds witnessing every battle. Cleo Whaley's slabbing was the feature of the Mound-Moshiem inaugural. Whaley pitched a no hit no-run game, allowing only two men on base, one an error and one via the hit by pitcher route. His mates pounded the Moshiem hurlers for 16 hits, and 8 Mound men reached first on walks. This coupled with many Moshiem errors enabled the Mound team to push 17 tallies across the home plate. Long and Evans led the Mound batting each getting three safeties with two of Evan's hits being extra-base blows, he having garnered a single, double and triple.

In a contest at Jonesboro the home team took a 12 to 4 verdict from a hustling Coryell City crew. Jiggs Drake, Jonesboro slabbist allowed only six bingles, and most of the Coryell City runs came as a result of the nine errors committed by Drakes mates. Walker, Jonesboro backstop, led the hitters of the day with three safe blows in four jaunts to the plate. Williamson, Jonesboro right fielder, connected safely three times in five trips to the plate, while Wilton led the Coryell City hitters with two out of four.

In the local CCC camp 14 to 9 in a free scoring game. Ivy pitched the first five innings for Blackfoot, allowing seven runs, and when he retired Blackfoot was loading eight to seven. Jack Barton, an old timer went to the mound for Blackfoot in the first of the seventh. He struck out the first man to face him, but the next man up sent a line single thru shortstop. Chandler husky CCC catcher, then shot a double or right center placing men on second and third. Wicker then spanked another long double to right, scoring both runners and leaving the score CCC 9, Blackfoot 8. However, Barton held the CCC in control the next three innings, while Blackfoot jumped on Theo Whately CCC moundsman for 4 more runs and the ball game.

Because of the fact that the CCC is quarantined for the next seventeen days the schedule has had to be slightly revised. Sunday's games will be as follows:

Blackfoot at Jonesboro
Coryell City at Mound
Pidcoke at Moshiem
The Mound manager has notified us that all home games the admission fee will be five cent, which is strictly in accordance with the league rules.

As a result of Tuesday's games we find Gatesville reland and State tied for the top hole, with Flat dropped to the second division and Turnersville more firmly entrenched in the cellar.

The Jonesboro Eagles dropped the mighty Hornets 13-11 Tuesday. The Hornets minus their ace pitcher, Rutherford, looked anything but like champions. However they have the makings and this column still looks for them to win the championship. Rutherford has been declared definitely ineligible to play anymore this season, but it looks as if Fry, who pitched part of the game Tuesday might develop into a capable hurler. All went well for the Hornets until the fourth inning. At that time they were leading Jonesboro 7-1, but in that frame Fry began slipping. They got to him for five runs in the fourth, but in the sixth the real pay-off came. In that inning Jonesboro pushed across six tallies, three being gaied off Fry, and the other three off Gilbreath, who relieved Fry in that round. The Eagles scored three more runs in the last two innings and the Hornets went into the final frame on the short end of a 13-9 score. They started a rally and it looked as if they might over come that four run lead but the rally was squelched before they could get into the lead. With oneout Voss got on base on a single, and then Pecker Fore sent a long triple over the left fielder's head scoring Voss. Richards then sent a line single over shortstop to score Fore, but Weaver, the next hitter, grounded into a double to end the ball game.

Lefty Lemmer shut out the Flat team 12-0 at Ireland Friday to pull Ireland up even with the league eaders. Jack Lemmer drilled out a triple double and a single to lead the Ireland sluggers.

In the other game State nosed out Turnersville 8-6 to pull up into a tie for the top.

SYNOPSIS

Released on a charge that he was captain of a slave ship, Captain Nuggin Taylor an American conspires with the British Navy Office to trap one of the slave ring leaders Lieutenant Tarryton of Her Majesty's Navy. Tarryton deserts and sails for America on the William Brown. A pyromaniac sets fire to the ship. Its food and water stores are ruined. Taylor takes charge upon the death of the William Brown's captain. He sets up a kangaroo court to select passengers for the two lifeboats. A mutiny ensues but Taylor quells it. His Tarryton becomes enraged at Taylor's attention to his sister, Margaret whom Taylor loves. Tarryton in a blaze of anger attempts to kill Taylor but Powdah Taylor's devoted friend, stops the bullet. Taylor then hurls Tarryton into the sea. The lifeboats put out to sea and are picked up by another vessel.

CHAPTER X

TAYLOR, with half-shut eyes, endured the babble of a Boston court-room. Words . . . words. But they must play their little farce out, these attorneys.

"Marine laws play no part in this tragic situation," the prosecutor was saying. "The accused was not now. The spiked hand was still bandaged. The defense attorney was badgering him.

"Mr. Lindon, you were given your chance to live. . . Did you not say to this defendant, 'You will have your court condemn me, because I know too much?' And did not this defendant say, 'Lindon must live, because of those who earn their bread in his factories?'"

"I—I don't know. I can't remember. But I know the issue before us," Lindon cried vindictively. "It is murder. Recall Miss Tarryton. Ask her if the accused did not throw her brother into the sea before her very eyes."

Taylor sat like a stone shape. Margaret was as far from him as the stars. There was no bridging that abyss, and he did not attempt it. Margaret, he saw, was taking the stand.

"God help him now, he's got a woman in his hair," croaked the old sea-captain, with a skillful shot at a spittoon.

"No, I do not condemn," she whispered. The court-room was frozen to attention. "Once I did condemn. I called him coward . . . murderer. I did not know myself. I did not know him. I know him now . . . I am not fit to tie his shoe-strings," the girl said with a stormy sob. "Take his life. Strike the head from his shoulders. There's no other way to turn him from his purpose. He drives straight for the mark. He is terrible—but he is real. He is real."

"This testimony is a surprise to me, your honor," the prosecutor said. "I claim the right to cross-examine my own witness."

"They died with a song on their lips. They were noble souls, nappy in their sacrifice," Margaret cried, with a fixed light in her eye. "George Martin, where are you? Why can't you speak for him, your benefactor? You died happy in your love—"

"But de Bastonet, your honor—" the prosecutor was beginning. "De Bastonet. He drowned him-

Before Margaret's eyes stood suddenly that twisted shadow of a cross flung on the sails of a ruined ship.

Captain of this unlucky ship. He was not even a member of the crew. No law under God can shield him from the consequences of his actions. They were cold, merciless. . . . But clever, your honor. Oh, very clever, gentlemen of the jury. But is he to profit by them? Is he after all to have his miserable life?"

Margaret, in black, at the prosecutor's table, dropped her head, twined her fingers hard together. "Do I understand"—this was the bland Judge—"that England found the accused guilty of being Captain of a slaver?"

"Captain of a slaver, yes, your honor," the defense attorney said. "But only by the chance of his having been wrecked and rescued by a slaver. He took command—because men look to him to take command. . . . And let me say again the sea is not just that blackboard hanging there, with lines of latitude and longitude. Ships are not just chalk marks in the shape of ships. These walls are not masts to fall and crush—"

"Right," cried an old sea-captain, milking his beard.

"It is easy for us, of counsel, to exhibit seamanship, to remain cool—so long as the planks do not move under-foot."

"But it is alleged that he ruthlessly condemned a part of the ship's company."

"Does a surgeon stand his trial, if he cuts off a patient's leg to save his life?"

Words. . . . Words. . . . The horn-buzzing of human voices, accusing, condemning, execrating. A woman, Taylor saw, was testifying. Her face was shadowed by a green silk hood. She was the widow of one of the condemned. Her low voice throbbled with hate. She collapsed and was carried swooning from the stand.

There was a scratching of pens, a crackle of paper. Taylor stared at that blackboard sea without a ripple. Lindon was on the stand

"It is true. . . . Captain Taylor killed my brother," Margaret uttered in a stifled voice. "He was wounded and sank without a struggle."

"Take the witness," said the prosecutor.

"Miss Tarryton," said counsel for the defense, "is it not a fact that your brother was a mutineer?"

"He was acting—against Captain Taylor," Margaret murmured.

"And Taylor was in command of the ship?"

"He had seized command."

"From whom? From dead men? Except for your brother's action, would any have questioned that command?"

"I—I do not know. . . . My brother was only doing—what he thought was right," Margaret faltered.

"And can you prove that the accused was not equally doing what he thought was right?"

"He killed him. . . . He killed . . . Stanley," Margaret said, dazed.

And now Taylor himself was on his feet, and that clash of angels' and devils' wings over his head was all but visible.

"Why do you bedevil this girl?" he cried. "She has told you that I killed her brother. Let it stand." He saw the toy-maker staring at him, sitting on a rear bench with little Gretchen. "Schmidt there will tell you that if he breaks a tool, he throws it away. Well, I am that broken tool. But you must not think, gentlemen, that you can judge me. There is God—and there is one human soul who can judge—and she condemns. Let that suffice."

"Let that suffice. Good. The prosecution is willing to rest on that verdict of a woman's heart," the prosecutor said, with an oily smile of triumph. "And that heart condemns."

Before Margaret's eyes stood suddenly that twisted shadow of a cross flung on the sails of a ruined ship.

self from hurt vanity." Margaret flashed. "He could not endure even a passing jeer from his companions. Yet Captain Taylor could live, knowing this dreadful scene was all he had to hope for. Have you heard him ask for mercy? . . . But I ask it for him."

"You ask it," Taylor muttered, strangely moved.

"Because I love him . . . and I thought I hated him," Margaret whispered with a blurring of her eyes. "I loved him with my first glimpse and I shall with my last."

"So do I love him, and my lamb does too," Gretchen's childish voice shrilled.

"He was hung over hell by a brittle thread, but these women have snatched him out of it by the back hair," the old sea-captain muttered to a friend. "Look at the jury's faces. The verdict will be 'Not guilty.'"

Little Gretchen ran towards the judge's bench.

"Let him go dear Mr Judge," she cried pleadingly in her distress, she dropped her lamb which uttered "Ba-a-a-a" as valiantly as of old. The power of this appeal touched every heart.

Taylor took a step towards Margaret.

"Not so fast," said the court bailiff, stepping between.

But the bailiff had not reckoned with the crowd's mood.

"There's a ship in distress there," growled the old sea-captain.

The fat bailiff felt a gathering menace in the air, and fell back.

Taylor's arm was hard round Margaret's sinking body.

"Steady. Steady over the shoals," he whispered. "Traitor, have you come over to the enemy?"

"Yes. . . . But—I bring you so little," Margaret said for his ear alone, with a choking little sob.

"You bring me life," he whispered, taking her close. "From what other hands would I accept it?"

After losing nearly two days on a fight on the Conference Report on the Interior Department Appropriation Bill, the House suddenly jumped into high gear and completed its schedule for the week a day earlier than expected. On Wednesday we passed the Rivers and Harbors Bill which is of such vital importance to the Texas seaports. (42 per cent of the entire appropriations in this bill were for Texas projects).

Yesterday we had a sharp fight over the Merchant Marine Bill. This measure provides for a subsidy to American ship operators, the purpose being not only to encourage foreign trade but especially to provide the necessary auxiliary vessels for the U. S. Navy in case of war. Such ships can not be built after war is declared and unless a nation has a merchant fleet in existence its navy is at a decided handicap. At the same time it is helpful to the entire country for us to have as many ships carrying our goods to foreign nations as possible, and so long as they engage in foreign trade no domestic carriers long been the practice of the U. S. Government to assist such American ship owners but this time the bill contained a provision subsidizing intercoastal shipping—that is from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts thru the Panama Canal in competition with our railroads. It seemed to me that such a subsidy could only serve as a tax on the American people for the purpose of destroying the already hard pressed railroads and would ultimately result in higher rail rates and less rail employment. I, therefore voted with the majority to strike this provision out of the bill. After this was done the bill was passed.

Some of the guides in the Capital are accustomed to saying that if a person should stand beneath the dome of the Capital long enough all of the people of the United States would finally come by. While of course this is only said to emphasize how many people go come to Washington at some time or other, some on business and some merely sight-seeing nevertheless many of our own Congressional District do come to Washington and we are always glad to have them come by our office.

Last Saturday night the Texas State Society held its San Jacinto Day celebration and we were pleased to have Hon. J. D. Williamson, prominent attorney of Waco, with us on that occasion. He was presented to the society inasmuch as his ancestors had been prominent in the early history of Texas. He was accompanied by Hon. Archie Price and wife, who are also formerly of Waco. Mr. Price is now employed in Washington with the Coal Commission. Hon. Bert Ford of McGregor, formerly Representative from McLennan County in the Texas legislature but now State Liquor Administrator was in Washington the last week on business for the State of Texas and while here it was my pleasure to present Mr. Ford to the Supreme Court of the United States and to secure for him the privilege to appear before the bar of the Supreme Court. While here Mr. Ford had with him one of his associates Mr. Mike Brennan of McGregor. Mr. Leon Moses, formerly Assistant Attorney General of Texas but whose old home is in Addicks was also in Washington this week. One of my most pleasant surprises was to meet Hon. Frank Mabru who is manager of the Temple Daily Telegram and Radio Station KT-EM of Temple who has been in Washington on business for two days this week. Yesterday, Professor A. P. Cagle of Baylor University who represents McLennan County in the Legislature was in the office. He is in Washington attending the sessions of the Association of Teachers of International Law and while here spent some time in the Archives of the Department of State. Hon. Fred Hartley from the office of the District Attorney at Waco and Hon. I. P. McNamara, Deputy Sheriff of McLennan County visited us while in Washington on business this week. Likewise Sheriff W. B. Mobley of McLennan County came by last week to get a prisoner who had been held by the police of the District of Columbia and whom the authorities of McLennan County had asked us to get to agree to come back to Texas without the necessity of an extradition hearing. Mr. Alfred Gresham of Bruceville has been taking some specialized training with the International Business Machines Corporation and has been in my office several time. This morning it was a pleasure to have Mrs. G. C. Ebbersol visit in the office. She is the widow of Mr. Ebbersol who was in the clothing business in Waco for many years.

The McCormick-Deering No. 60 Harvester-Thresher. Cutting height is controlled by the conveniently located crank within easy reach of the tractor operator.

This BRAND-NEW
McCORMICK-DEERING 6-Ft. Combine

Cuts and Threshes All Small Grains and Seed Crops

● Here is a real harvester-thresher that lives up to every expectation when it goes into your fields. The McCormick-Deering No. 60 is the one best answer to the demand for a small combine that does a hundred per cent job of threshing.

In designing the No. 60, Harvester engineers have followed the basic principles that have proved so efficient and practical in the larger McCormick-Deering Harvester-Threshers. Straight-line threshing is an accomplished fact in the No. 60. This feature, long a principle of successful stationary-thresher design, means that the grain travels in a straight line through the threshing unit; there are no right-angle turns inside the machine, no dead spaces to cut capacity.

With this compact, one-man machine, cutting and threshing is finished in one field operation, making this important work a family affair. No twine to buy, no shocking, no stacking, no waiting for the threshing crew, no custom thresherman to pay, and no big crews to feed.

Ask us about this fast, easy, economical method of harvesting and threshing. See the McCormick-Deering No. 60 in our store. Plan now to own one. You can buy it on the International Harvester Income-Purchase Plan.

CORYELL COUNTY NEWS

Question: I am going to paint my house in a few weeks and I'm in a quandry. I have read about, and my friends have told me to use White House paint because it will stay white longer than other. But other people have advised me to use white lead and oil. Which is the more satisfactory and which will wear the better?—A. G.

Answer: This question always comes up in various forms at this time of the year. Plain lead and linseed oil makes good house paint. Also, all good house paint contains both. But white lead is a soft pigment and when used alone it chalks too fast. So paint manufacturers have discovered that by adding certain other pigments they can produce a paint that will chalk evenly and won't yellow with age.

Outside White contains the new Titanium pigment. This gives it two important properties. First, it makes it whiter, for Titanium is one of the whitest pigments known. Second, the Titanium makes for controlled chalking so that dirt and grime are always removed from the surface every rainfall and your house is always in ideal condition for re-painting. And Titanium doesn't turn yellow; if you use this House Paint you'll have the whitest house you ever had—and it will stay white, too.

DU PONT HAS HOUSE PAINT THAT IS SELF-CLEANING

A self-cleaning house paint is one of the most recently developments of the Research Laboratories of the du Pont Company. The term "self-cleaning" means that dust and dirt which settle on the paint film today will be washed away by tomorrow's rains. Many white paints collect and hold dust and dirt from the atmosphere. This dirt collection results in prematurely dirty, gray houses that look unattractive.

This latest and undoubtedly startling advance in the field of house paints has come with the development of a new material called titanium oxide. This oxide is made by means of many complicated chemical processes by the Krebs Pigment Department of the du Pont Company. Titanium oxide is extracted from a substance that looks like black sand. Surprising as it may seem, this black sand yields the whitest pigment ever produced. It has the greatest hiding power or opacity of any white pigment, which makes it an ideal material for use in white paints. In addition the use of titanium oxide in a paint gives the paint certain self-cleaning properties.

Houses painted with the new outside white paint formulated by du Pont chemists are said to be whiter and to stay whiter than has been possible before. The self cleaning process is gradual and does not adversely affect the wearing qualities of the paint. The du Pont Company has tested this new white house paint in the salt air of the seashore, in the dry heat of Texas, in the mountain atmosphere of Colorado, in the belt of sudden temperature changes around the Great Lakes, in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. All the tests, carried on for a period of over 5 years, are said to have shown that the paint retains its whiteness, does clean itself and gives exceptionally good service.

One out of every five of the 640 students at exclusive Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., works this way through the school.
