THE CZECH-GERMAN EMBROGLIO

It is now apparent that Europe is to face crisis after crisis inspired by Germany so long as the Nazi aim of territorial expansion remains unpeased. The events of last week were the most serious since the German annexation of Austria and came nearer involving Europe in war than did the march of the goose-stepping Nazis into Vienna.

Europe was saved from certain war to the clash between Germany and Czechoslovakia by the firm resolve of the Prague government to fight to maintain Czechoslovak independence, and by the solid support of France, Great Britain and Russia, who refuse to abandon President Benes as they had done Chancellor Schuschnig.

But the point of issue is that the problem of the Sudeten Germans is still an acute one, that at present a solution of the vexing situation is no nearer at hand than before, and that until a solution is reached the peace of Europe will be in danger.

At this writing Premier Hodza of Czechoslovakia and Konrad Henlein leader of the German Czechoslovaks or Sudeten Germans, are conferring over the demands of Henlein for autonomy for the 3,250,000 Germans who live along the western border of the republic of the Czechs and the Slovaks.

Henlein has demanded fulfillment of an eight-point autonomy program, advanced after Germany absorbed Austria and her Chancellor Adolf Hitler announced intention to protect German minorities everywhere.

The Czechoslovak government has completed its minorities statute, details of which have not been made public. It is known, however, that the statute embraces widespread concessions on the part of the Prague government.

Foreign observers generally discount the possibility of appeasing the Sudeten leader short of actually granting the Sudeten independence within the framework of the Czechoslovak state. To do this would be incompatible with the basis principles upon which the republic is founded, that is, freedom of thought, freedom of the press, protection of minorities and freedom of religion. Any state working under Nazi conceptions of government—and a free Sudeten state would certainly work under Adolf Hitler's theories of government—would not respect democratic principle of government.

While the Czech government is undoubtedly willing to abolish some of the inequalities under which the Sudeten Germans have suffered since the proclamation of the Czech republic in 1918 it can not grant Henlein's followers such autonomy as would permit the Sudetens to live even unofficially under the Berlin authorities.

SENATOR J. MANLEY HEAD TO ADDRESS JONESBORO SENIORS

Here are the special courses that are being offered: Teaching of Penmanship, Principles, and Practices in the Primary Grades, Principles and Practices in the Elementary Grades High School practice teaching, Visual Education and Mechanics of Reading, Teaching of Literature in the Elementary Grades Public school Music, Public school Art, Curriculum Revision and Construction, Standard Courses in Secondary Methods, Secondary Supervision and Administration to meet the requirements for Superintendent's and Principals.

TWO COWS PER FARM

There are 121,000 farms in Texas which have no milk cows. This announcement from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics came as a distinct shock to Texans, for this state not only has more cattle but more cattle per capita, than any other state. Nearly one fourth of our farm families are doing without milk, butter and cheese, or buying them or their substitutes with hard-earned cash from cotton or other resources. Naturally, most of them are doing without, to the detriment of health and strength especially of the children.

Since the new farm law requires the division of some land from cotton, and neither landlord nor tenant can afford land to lie idle, it will be planted in food and feed crops. Under the law the diverted acreage may be grazed or fed to dairy cows whose products is to be used on the farm may be added and the farmer will be eligible for the full cash benefits on cotton or other soil depleting crops on which he has an allotment. So far as these 121,000 farms are concerned the best disposition of part of the diverted acreage is clear. A farm family with two well fed ordinary cows will also be a well-fed family with considerably less cash outlay for groceries, and this means a direct return by saving so much of the income from cotton sales. The intangible gains in better health cannot be measured in dollars.

Farms which already have dairy cows may also increase their herds to the extent of two cows above the "normal" number under the same conditions of use and sale. Instead of increasing acreage of feed crops, both grain and forage should discourage the stinting of feed which was found to be necessary sometimes when less feed was grown. It is well known that many a cow has never had the chance to show what she could produce because she has never been well fed through a whole vacation period.

Green pastures, either native or planted, permanent or temporary, are the best and cheapest source of milk. When green feed is not available in the fields and pastures, silage is the best substitute. The trench silo provides a cheap and efficient means of storing succulent feed indefinitely, which is in reach of every farmer, whether tenant or owner. Any of the forage crops may be successfully

COTTON WEEK May 30 to June 4

Regardless of what you do or do not think of this "week" business, this week, National Cotton Week should be "the" week for the people of Gatesville, Coryell county and Texas. It is our money product, and why shouldn't we buy what we raise, and what puts money in our on pockets? Demand makes prices and demand means buying. Buy Cotton This Week!

JONESBORO W. M. S.

The W. M. S. met for their day of prayer and giving for Ministerial relief at the home of Mrs. M. H. Watson.

The suggestions in the program material which if observed by our people in Texas will bring great blessing to our aged one, and to the people who under them, aid. We want to remember that in dealing with ministerial relief we are not dealing with an abstraction. You will not, therefore, leave to pray for those who have served so well and are now facing the sunset and eventide.

The program opened with the hymn, "How Firm a Foundation" Prayer, Mrs. L. P. Foster Sr. Reading of Dr. Watts message to the women of Texas by Mrs. W. J. Watson. Reading of Devotional: Leaflet by Mrs. J. M. Dawson, Mrs. Earl Collins and Mrs. M. E. Watson. Hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer"; Reading of leaflet: "Can't We do More for Them"; Mrs. E. P. Berry, Reading of leaflet, "Waiting at the River" Mrs. Will Wallace, Reading of leaflet, "A new and Better Method of Providing for Aged Ministers"; Mrs. L. P. Foster Sr. Prayer for aged ministers and Widows of Texas, Mrs. Hanes. Hymn, "Where We'll Never Grow Old". Special offering for aged ministerial relief in Texas; hymn, "Blest Be the Tie" prayer of Benediction, Mrs. B. E. Morgan.

Several commented on ministers and their wives that they had known, and each promised herself to remember those she knew.

Refreshments of iced tea, fudge and spiced doughnuts were served. Our next meeting will be with Jewel Roberts on June seventh.

ensiled, either cut or in whole stalks. Corn, grain sorghums, retain their full nutrient value in the silo, which they do not when stored in dry stacks.

Mrs. T. A. Faldover filled a silo in 1936, but good grazing on the wheat and oats the following winter kept her livestock in fine condition, and the silo was not opened. The past winter was not so favorable for grain grazing and the silage put up in 1936 met the needs of 1938. When south western farmers thus store feed in the surplus years, the perennial dread of droughts and hard winters will greatly be minimized.

This has been a week of considerable activity in the House. On Monday we passed a much needed bill extending for an additional two years the present 3 1/2 per cent interest rate on Federal Land Bank Loans and providing a 4 per cent interest rate on Land Bank Commissioner Loans until 1940. I feel that this continuation of lower interest rates is but partial justice to our farmers who have Federal Loans on their property. I hope that these or even lower rates may be permanent. The interest rate on all investments has dropped very materially since these loans were made and I do not feel that the government should continue to insist on our farmers paying the old and higher rate. We must, however, do more than reduce the interest rate in the case of Commissioner's loans. We must extend the time of payment. These loans were originally made so as to be repaid in ten installments along with the regular Land Bank loans. They must in my opinion, be amortized over a longer period of time. I think one of the best ways to fight tenancy is to help those farmers who now own an equity in their homes to pay for those homes and remain in the home owning class rather than slipping back into tenancy. In other words, it is better and cheaper to help a man remain a home owner than it is to let him lose his home and then start with him at the bottom in the effort to rehabilitate him.

In this very connection, I felt that the House took some very important action this afternoon when we passed a bill to "unfreeze" or re-allocate the so-called frozen cotton acres. There are in many counties thousands of acres of land already allotted for cotton that the owners and operators do not intend to plant to cotton. This bill allows the Secretary of Agriculture to re-allocate such acres, preference being given to farmers in the same county that need additional acreage. This should give some relief in counties like Coryell and Bosque where the cotton allotment was low and the number of "frozen acres" high. I realize that it should be the law now and that our people have needed that relief for some time but the measure was held up in the Committee for about ten days by the same Mr. Bolleau of Wisconsin who originally imposed such harsh restrictions on our cotton farmers in an effort to prevent us from growing feed or livestock. The measure yet must be finally approved by the Senate but still hope that some of our farmers may get some belated benefit.

Yesterday the House passed the flood control bill establishing a policy of requiring local contributions to the extent of 30 per cent of the cost of all lands and easements and requiring all projects approved for construction to have the approval of the Army Engineers before any Federal money was expended. The Denison or Red River project was the only Texas project of any size included. We had no project eligible on the Brazos because until last year no one had ever secured an appropriation for a survey of the flood problems of the Brazos by the Army Engineers. We do now have that survey underway and I have a promise from the Army Engineers that they will give us a report on the Whitney and Leon projects must as soon as possible. When we get these we can begin an effort to get them included in the next flood control bill but up to now I have had nothing I could present to the Committee.

We have not, however, been doing nothing. Just this afternoon we secured a positive promise from the Federal Power Commission to issue a license next Monday for the erecting of Possum Kingdom Dam. Of course we have been disappointed many times. The District has a positive contract with the Federal Government that is putting up most of the money for construction that no power will be sold or offered for sale without the consent of the Federal Power Commission and the Board of Directors have further passed a resolution pledging the District to pass any saving cost of power generation on to the people but in spite of these positive safeguards we have been greatly hampered in our efforts to get construction under way by certain disgruntled critics who should be helping us put this project over rather than throwing stones. These people continue to insist that the whole Brazos project is playing into the hands of power interests. They overlook the fact that the first purpose of the Brazos Dams is to protect our people from floods and that not one hour of electrical energy will be sold to anybody with out the approval of the Federal Power Commission and when they suggest that the people will not get the benefits of any reduced costs of generation they indict President Roosevelt's Power Commission rather than those of us who are seeking to make this flood control and cheap power a reality.

FROM THE COUNTY AGR'L AGENT

County Committeemen and County Agent Guy Powell, returning from the district wheat crop insurance meeting held in Ft. Worth, Texas Saturday, May 21 report that all plan for the crop insurance program, which will shortly reach the stage of offering policies on the 1938 wheat crop, was thoroughly explained to them.

"After we have explained these policies to Coryell county wheat growers", said Mr. Powell in commenting on the meeting, "it will be up to them to decide whether or not they wish to minimize their risks in growing wheat by taking out one of these all-risk policies. They can do this by placing a small number of bushels each year into an insurance policy that will guarantee them wheat to sell in six years whether they make wheat or not.

"If you want one of these policies, just as soon as the county office advises thru the local paper, that it has the applications blanks, all you have to do is to get the filled out and turned in to the county office, or see the committeeman with whom you are working."

Mr. Powell explained further that the principle information you will need in filling out the blanks very simple and will be (1) record of wheat acreage harvested for grain production and yield on your farm from 1930 thru 1935. For these years you have set in Triple A programs this will be obtainable in the county offices. (2) You need the legal description of your farm. (3) Make up your mind whether you want a policy that will guarantee you 60 per cent yield or 75 per cent yield. Policies can be assigned for two purposes only (a) to secure money for getting the policy and (b) caring for the crop. (4) How the crop is divided must be shown. Separate policies must be taken out by the landlord and by the tenant. Either can take out a policy of his own share whether the other does or not. (5) Tell the total acres to be seeded for harvest as grain and the total to be seeded following summer fallow.

SCS SAVES COST IN ONE YEAR, HUEY SAYS

"Enough good topsoil was washed away from this farm last year to pay for a complete erosion control program several times".

This statement, made by E. R. Huey, who operates a farm one and one-half miles east of Gatesville is typical of statements made by numerous farmers throughout this area who had made no provisions for protecting their farms against the erosion of excessive winter rains. The vast amount of damage experienced in this area last winter brought to the attention of land owners and operators as never before the folly in continuing the practice of cultivating valuable farm lands by any method which allow the productivity of an entire field to be destroyed in a single season. In the past this condition was not acute, since severely damaged fields could either be abandoned and new land "broke out", or the entire field be continually planted in oats; thereby prolonging for several years, their destruction. With every suitable acre already to cultivation and the necessary in recent years of low cost production to commodities, the mole hill of soil erosion has suddenly become a mountain.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. WACOAN AND WIFE ARE VISITORS HERE WEDNESDAY

Judge and Mrs. Ballard George of Waco were in Gatesville for a short time Wednesday visiting friends and making new acquaintances. Judge George qualified as Commissioner on April 20, 1937, to assist the Court of Civil Appeals, Waco, Texas, and was appointed Associate Justice of that court on July 14 1937, to fill out the unexpired term of Judge J. A. Stanford, deceased.

In order to perform the services required of him in connection with these appointments, it was necessary that he give up his law practice in Corsicana and move to Waco. It was only natural, under these circumstances, that he should seek a full first term and expect favorable consideration from the citizenship of the 16 counties in the district.

He is well known in the civic, legal and political circles throughout the state of Texas. He has served as prosecuting attorney, member of the State Democratic Executive committee, and as chairman of the Speakers Bureau of the National Democratic Party for the 13th Congressional District in the raising of funds.

TIGHTENING UP DUE IN FILING SOCIAL SECURITY

AUSTIN, May 31.—Delinquency in filing social security tax returns is going to become increasingly embarrassing to employers, according to a statement issued today by Frank Scofield, Collector of Internal Revenue of the First Texas District. With each passing day the excuse of ignorance of the law will become less acceptable to show the absence of wilful delay. Ignorance of the law is wholly insufficient to serve as a basis at any time for waiving the lighter and valorem penalties provided for in the Act.

"For more than a year now," said Mr. Scofield, "we have been patiently trying to inform the tax payers of their responsibility under this law. To this end we have had a staff of approximately 50 deputy collectors in the field, each making dozens of personal contracts every day. In addition, my office has sent out thousands of letters and pieces of printed information. During all this time we have been as lenient as possible with delinquents, on the assumption that there was no intent to invade the tax but merely a misunderstanding of the provisions of the law."

World Comment—

The claims of the German Czechs for autonomy would receive greater consideration in the capitals of Europe were they not backed by Hitler. The utter absurdity of the demand of the German Nazis for political freedom for their brothers in Czechoslovakia is apparent. Minorities in Germany are being ruthlessly Germanized or being deprived of the rights of participation in the Reich's political and business spheres. Jews, Poles Catholics and other minorities well know how much political freedom is granted by Berlin. Then what justification can be found for Berlin demanding wide concessions to the Sudetens which, if granted as demanded, would permit the followers of Henlein to institute the Nazi methods of political suppression and terrorism in the democratic state of Czechoslovakia?

The good faith of the Czech government is demonstrated by its willingness to grant additional rights to the Sudetens, such as increased funds for relief and public works and greater participation in the government civil service. This President Benes has done in spite of the vituperative attacks of Henlein and his Nazis against the Benes government and the announced desire of the Sudetens to secede from Czechoslovakia and unite with the German Reich.

Doubtless President Benes realizes that there has been a certain amount of discrimination against the Sudetens in the short life of the Czech state. Prior to 1918 and the breakup of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, the Sudeten Germans in company with are dominant Austrians controlled Bohemia, the home of the Czechs, and granted them little participation in government for several hundred years before 1918 Bohemian culture existed under the greatest handicaps and attempts at suppression inaugurated by the Germans and Austrians.

When the tables were reversed with the formation of Czechoslovakia and the Germans became a minority, it was only natural that the Czechs should seek revenge for their age old wrong. But in general, they have been admirably restrained toward the hated Germans.

The Czech leaders, among them President Benes Premier Hodza, and the founder of Czechoslovakia the late President Thomas Masaryk realized that the state was founded upon a fusion of minorities and that Czechoslovakia could not exist upon a basis of repression of the rights of minorities or the Sudetens are not the only minority in Czechoslovakia; there are Ruthenians, Hungarians, Jews, Poles and Rumanians all of which are granted equal rights with the dominant Czechs and Slovaks.

Hitler has not given up the hope of incorporating the Sudeten territory within the Reich. Only realization that to march upon Czechoslovakia last week would involve Germany with France and Russia and possibly with Britain deterred him and saved Czechoslovakia from becoming another Belgium.

Meanwhile, Europe wonders what will come next.

Hiway Commission Awards Arnett to Evant Cont. Purvis, Bertram, Vilbig

Tuesday in Austin, successful bidders on the section of Highway 36 from Arnett and Evant were Purvis & Bertram & Vilbig Construction Company of Ft. Worth, with a bid of $237,177.

Tuesday's letting, the largest in three years contemplated 953.9 miles of improvements in addition to three bridges and re-bridges.

Announcement of low bidders is tantamount to a contract award which awaits only completion of a few formalities. In most cases 30 day orders can be issued within counties.

This completes highway construction or contracts on Highway 7 in Coryell county, and calls for 14.8 miles of grading, draining structures and flexible base.

Committee Works on 36

In addition to his contract, a committee including Chairman Horace K. Jackson, Louis Thomson, Lewis Holmes and Judge Floyd Zeigler joined with other delegations from Temple and Hamilton appeared before the State Highway Commission on Hwy 36, and were received courteously but nothing was promised, since all funds are applied on federal designated highways, and none are available for highway construction on other highways.

The commission, however showed unusual interest in this highway, and stated their willingness to do something about it when funds were available.

Wednesday the Commission, however, announced an appropriation of a $10,500 to finish the resurfacing on Hwy 36 between Temple and the intersection of the Belton Moody road. The length is approximately .61 of a mile and includes grading, drainage structures and flexible base.

MISSIONARY GERALD WINFIELD TO SPEAK AT M. E. CHURCH

Local citizens will be given the opportunity to hear Gerald Winfield, Missionary to China, and son of Rev. G. F. Winfield, Sunday morning at the First Methodist Church as he will conduct the services. Missionary Winfield has been in China for the past five years and is head of the Biology Department of the Chee Loo University. His talk will be about his missionary work in China and should be of interest to everyone present.

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Winfield and their son, Gerald and their daughter will be weekend visitors this week with relatives here. Rev. Winfield is president of a College at Brookhaven, Miss. Gatesville is duly proud of having such pleasant visitors in their city.

SUPERVISOR OKEHS HIGH SCHOOL IN RECENT REPORT

In a letter from Supervisor A. M. Tate, of the Department of Education, Austin, Mr. Tate has no criticism to offer.

The letter reads:

The supervisor was so favorably impressed with the organization of the program, the splendid attitude on the part of both teachers and pupils, and the high type of teacher personnel in the Gatesville High School that no criticisms or suggestions seem to be in order.

The addition of the new junior high school has greatly improved the possibilities for offering new type activities so necessary in the modern school and observations of this work indicated that every advantage was being taken to modernize the curriculum offerings.

The organization of the library ranks high as compared with those in District 15. Only the completion of the shelf file is needed in order to fulfill all recommendations. It is understood that this project is under way and will be completed this

WILL SPEAK AT 11:30 A. M. ON COURTHOUSE LAWN

Headlining Gatesville's Rodeo and Frontier Celebration will be the parade which starts at 11 a. m. which will be lead by Attorney General Wm. (Bill) McCraw dressed in cowboy regalia.

Attorney General McCraw honors Gatesville and Coryell County with his visit at this time,—something that is unprecedented as far as we know—and no man of state wide import has partaken in a local celebration of this sort in many years.

Committees including Mayor C. E. Gandy, Hon. Tom L. Robinson and the City Council of Gatesville will greet Mr. McCraw on his arrival and extend to him greetings on behalf of Gatesville and Coryell County.

The Attorney General is due to fill a speaking engagement in Waco on the evening of June 3, and it will not be possible for him to be in Gatesville for a very long time, on this, his first visit.

At the speaking on the courthouse lawn, which will be immediately following the parade, band music will be provided and seats for the older people who gather to hear him.

William McCraw, was one-time a printer's devil and a man who arose to serve two terms as Attorney General, and is now campaigning for Governor of Texas. McCraw studied law at nights as he worked his way through school. He became a lawyer at 19 and served as district attorney of Dallas County a record number of times.

Following the gigantic parade, which will feature the history of Coryell County from its very beginning to the present day, the first performance of the 1938 Second Annual Rodeo and Frontier Celebration will be open.

Rodeo Follows Parade

Features of this rodeo have been outlined to our readers, by story, picture, placard, circular and sound equipment, and it is not necessary to continue this elucidation. However, there will be Juanita Gray, personality cowgirl and her dancing horse 'Texas', wild horses, from the state penitentiary at Huntsville, clowns, and climaxing everything, top cow hands all over the state of Texas and many from other states.

It's on it's way. Be on YOUR way.

NOTICE TO ALL FARMERS

We have been informed that office procedure for calculating payment on the 1937 3c Subsidy Payment will begin at an early date. Before this can be done all split and combined farms must be final. Instructions in ACF-247 provide that: No tract of farm land may be combined with any other tract of farm land unless prior to the time that the coon acreage allotments were established or any farm in the county, (or prior to May 15, which ever date is the earlier), that there was on file in the county office a form SRM-205 requesting tracts of farm land.

This means that all combinations and splits must be completed at once, and at this time are being listed and submitted to the State office for approval or rejection.

Saturday May 28 has been set as the final date for making such combinations or splits and under instructions as contained in ACM-247 a request or split or combination must be filed in the county agent's office before May 15.

MOUNTAIN 4-H CLUB NEWS

Fresh vegetables can be had all the year around when planted in a frame garden, said Miss Sidney Gibson at a meeting of the 4-H club girls May 4th in the home of the vine and bush Demonstrator, Esther Stoll.

Both demonstrations gave reports and they both have been doing some fine work. The girls visited the frame garden and Miss Gibson took pictures of girls and frame gardens.

Refreshments were served in a picnic form, consisting of fruit juice sandwiches, pickles and cake after the refreshments the girls engaged in a lively ball game which was enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held with the sponsor, Mrs. Dugan Music on May 23rd.

"When canning berry juice, can what is known as free juice to get the better results" said Miss Gibson to the 4-H girls at a meeting May 23rd in the home of Mrs. Dugan Music the 4-H sponsor. Free juice is the juice that comes from the straining cloth without force. After all juice is separated from the pulp and seed can be run thru a very fine sieve which then can be made into jam.

Out of the forty-eight grape cuttings thirty one is living was the report given by the girls at the last meeting.

Miss Onah Jacks, State Girl agent visited the bedroom demonstration last week and was quite pleased with the work that had been done.

Refreshments were served to eight members, Missies Gibson and Mrs. A. A. Stoll. The next meeting will be held in the home if the president Joan Poliard.

The purpose of his message will explain the need for such a building, the plans for securing such a building and to give other information as to some of the religious needs of the University. Everyone will want to hear his words. It is hoped that plans may be completed and that operations may be underway on the new building by fall.

SUNDAY EVENING

the Training service of the Church. Some weeks ago a number of our workers took the training courses offered at the time and completed their examination and are due awards for the work done. These will be presented as a part of the evening service.

THE PHASE OF OUR CHURCH PROGRAM

The Phase of our church program is of vital importance and should share equally with every other phase of the work. We are going to strengthen the general organization in every way that we can. Every one in the church family should be in the same Union. There are Unions in every age just as we have classes for all ages in the Sunday School. There should be as many active engaged in the training Service as there are engaged in the Teaching Service.

MONDAY NIGHT AFTER THE LAST SUNDAY

Monday night after the last Sunday in each month is to be designated as General Business Meeting night for the B. T. U. At this time every officer of the entire organization is to be present with his carefully prepared report on banks prepared for the purpose and plans are to be made for progress of the work. Announcements will be made in the regular services in regard to the meeting.

SUMMER EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN

A summer Evangelistic Campaign like the one launched last summer, is soon to be under way in the state. Beginning Monday evening, at the Seminary in Ft. Worth, approximately 1500 of our Texas pastors will gather to hear and engage in discussions concerning the movement. More than 1200 were present there at a like meeting last summer. Much time is also devoted to prayer for guidance in this great undertaking. There are in such a movement the seeds of a nationwide revival. Shall we not join in fervent prayer that such may come to pass?

Our association has been divided into five units and over each unit has been placed an organizer to see that every available place is reached with a meeting this summer. Churches are cooperating in prayer and in some cases lay workers to assist in these meetings. Surely we will do what ever we can to make the movement a success in our organization.

SUMMER; LEAN PERIOD

The summer is frequently a lean period with the churches. It is not so however, where people are wide awake for the Lord. Some places the work progresses as well and better than at other seasons. Our spiritual fervor will always determine the type of work we have. The cause of Christ should have nothing but the VERY BEST THAT IS IN US EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR. It is up to us to choose between the better and the best in service for Him. May it always be the BEST that we have and not second-best.

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot express our love and appreciation to those who were so kind and good to us at the death of our dear husband and father. Especially are we thankful for the beautiful floral offerings. May God Bless and be merciful to each of you in our prayer.

This play has been staged in the larger cities a performance being given in Chicago during the Christmas holidays at the time when the National Convention of University Professors was in session.

PLAY BALL!
BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

By edging out a 3-2 win over a vastly improved Flat nine, Gatesville's Hornets finished their initial campaign in the Coryell County high school baseball league with a splendid record of 7 wins and 2 losses. They declare themselves the unofficial champions of the league, and as they have the best record of any team in the league, they have rightful claim to the championship.

The chief cause of the Hornets' victories was Schoolboy Rutherford who pitched the Hornets to every one of their wins except one, and the two setbacks the Hornets received were administered to them when Schoolboy was not on the mound. Rutherford is the crafty kind of a hurler, outsmarting the batters rather than blazing them through. He does not have a fast ball, but a baffling hook and a bewildering change-of-pace are his main fortes.

Gatesville also had the best receiver of the league in Dale Brittan, who handled Rutherford's slants flawlessly and contributed some timely hits to the Hornets' offensive attack.

Ireland's flop deep into the second division was wholly unexpected throughout the league. The main cause for the Cardinals' low finish was that they lacked capable hurlers. Lefty Lemmar gave them the only decent slabbing they had all year, and this boy turned in two nifty shutouts against the Flat and Jonesboro teams. They had a powerful batting attack, but without pitching to back up their hitting they rarely ever came out on top.

Flat was the most improved team in the league. They started the season with two victories over the hapless Turnersville Buffaloes but then began dropping games with regularity. However they came back to defeat Ireland, 11-3 and then gave Gatesville a scare before going down to a 3-2 defeat.

The State had a well-balanced club, and made a fine showing all the way through, to finish in second place right behind the Gatesville nine. Boxer, a pitcher and Watson, a peppery little second-sacker, were the outstanding men on that club.

Jonesboro had an in-an-out club, sometimes rising up to knock-down the ears of the leaders, and then falling back and taking it on the chin from second division clubs.

Turnersville's team finished the season in the cellar, with only two of their games placed in the win column of the league standings.

The only thing that marred the season was the ineligibility protests directed against Rutherford but all in all, the season can be counted up as a success.

FISH FABLES

By Post

Coryell county anglers took a step in the right direction when they had the new fishing laws passed. These laws prohibit the use of any seine or net except minnow seine with less than three inch mesh. They also prohibited seining minnows for sale or transporting more than 125 minnows from the county at any one time.

Following read in Jack Mc-Fish Spark's column in Waco News-Tribune: "A party of Gatesville sportsmen were guests of Mr. Jones at Meridian one day last week. They reported good luck in spite of high winds and unfavorable conditions. A nice string of fish was caught, the average running from two to four pounds."

A party of Gatesville Sportsmen including L. B. Brown, Jim Ed Pruner, and Howard Kea went on a fishing trip to Goldthwaite lake Tuesday. They caught 19 bass weighing a total of thirty pounds. One of them was a six pounder.

The Western Auto Associate Stores' second annual big bass fishing contest opened May 15 with fishing equipment totaling a $3,000 value serving as prizes. A silver cup will be awarded in each state for the largest small mouth bass entered in the contest, whether the fish is a prize winner or not. The contest test is free and open to all fishermen, women and children included. (Some of the prize winners last year were women and children), the contest closes September 30.

HISTOR OF "OLD GLORY"

"The United States flag is the third oldest of the national standards of the world; older than the Union Jack of Great Britain or the tricolos of France. "Old Glory" was first authorized by Congress June 4, 1777. This date is now celebrated thruout the Nation by the observance of Flag Day.

The flag, which then had 13 stripes alternating red and white representing the 13 states and a rectangular blue field with 13 white stars forming a circle within it, was a development of several flags which had been used in early Revolutionary battles. It was first decreed that there should be a star and a stripe for each state, making 13 of both; for the States, at that time, had just been formed from the original 13 colonies. The colors of Old Glory may thus be explained:

The red for valor, zeal and fevency; white for hope, purity, cleanliness of heart and rectitude of conduct; the blue, the color of the sky epitomizing heavens, for reverence to God for loyalty, sincerity, justice and truth.

The stars (an ancient symbol of India, Persia and Egypt) symbolizes dominion and sovereignty, as well as loyal aspirations. The constellation of stars within the Union, one star for each state is emblematic of our constitution which leaves to the states their individual sovereignty except as to rights speci-cally delegated to the Federal Government.

Old Glory is said to have flown for the first time in the year 1777. The exact time and place, however are still matters of considerable controversy among historians and others who have conducted researches among Revolutionary documents. It is deemed proper, therefore, not to make a statement of historical fact that we do not feel we can substantiate.

In 1795, after the admission of Vermont and Kentucky to the Union, the number of stars and stripes was raised to 15. As the other states were admitted to the Union during the next few years it became impracticable to add both stars and stripes. Congress, therefore, passed an act on April 14, 1818, restoring the 13 alternate red and white stripes as representing the 13 original states and providing for the addition of one star for each State upon its admission to the Union.

The last addition to the American flag was made July 4, 1913 when two stars were added; one for Arizona and one for New Mexico, bringing the number to forty eight.

DR. GEORGE W. TRUETT PROMINENT TEXAS BAPTIST

In the early summer of 1897 a zealous graduate of Baylor University, known as George W. Truett, was called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Dallas, and there he has remained to this good hour. This Dallas Church then had a membership of 715, a Sunday School of 590 members, a church property valued at $75,000 and the membership then raised for all purposes between four and five thousand dollars per year. This church now has a membership of more than 8,000, a Sunday School of more than 6000 and a church property valued at $1,250,000 and the membership now raises for all purposes more than a quarter of a million dollars per year.

You visit Truett's church and look into the faces and hearts of his devout followers and feel that you have left the world and its vanities on the outside and have visited the House of God for the one and only purpose of divine worship. You hear Truett then from his pulpit and his simple childlike faith make an indelible impress upon every fibre of your soul. You hear him speak as one having authority to speak with a charm and burning devotion that the prophets of old might have employed. This soothing, pleading, plaintive voice that has stirred the hearts of millions plays on the lute-string of your heart like the soulful strains of some golden symphony. Your soul is lifted above the fears and foibles of this finite realm into the very presence of The Great Comforter, and you leave this Man of God with the thought that you have heard the greatest Churchman that has walked upon this earth since the Apostles.

My dear Sir:

I have your letter of recent date advising that your local Democratic Executive Committee has endorsed Congressman William R. Poage for re-election to the House of Representatives. I assure you that I am gratified to learn of this expression of confidence in the character and ability of Mr. Poage. I have had occasion since he began his services here to observe the great fidelity and ability with which he has discharged the duties of his office.

I have heard of no opposition to Mr. Poage in his district, and feel confident the record he has made here, of the fidelity with which he has discharged his obligations to his district and the country will insure his return to the Seventy-sixth Congress. He is a young man of great promise, and has already won the universal respect and esteem of his colleagues.

Your very truly

W. B. Bankhead
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

GERALD BLANCHARD

Gone, but not forgotten is our darling little Jerry, as he was called by his little brothers and sisters.

Although his life was short here on earth he was loved by everyone who knew him. Not only his dear mother and father, but brothers, sisters, cousins and all.

There will always be a vacant spot in that home and none else can fill it. But weep not dear ones, for God only knows best. You have one thing to look forward to, and that is to meet him in Heaven, for we know that is where our darling is.

Little Jerry was only two years and about five months old. He was just sick four days having had pneumonia. And no one knows how he suffered in that length of time. Everything was done that loving hands could do. Those who are left to mourn are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Blanchard, three brothers Johnny A. J., and Omie Newton and two sisters, Wilma Jean and Sylvia Ruth, and a host of relatives and friends.

His home was in the Mountain community. He was laid to rest in the Bethel Cemetery May 13th with Rev. G. H. Lee conducting the funeral services. Flower girls were his cousins: Hazel, Dorothy and Athlyeen Collard; Dorothy, Dean and Margaret Ellen Blanchard; Mozelle Brown, Wonda and Adeline Lipsey and Sue Lamb.

By a cousin who dearly loved him.

Mrs. Robert T. Fisher.

Emperor Norton the picturesque eccentric who "reigned" in San Francisco in pioneer days, will live, again during the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition. An actor will portray him in the Cavalcade of the Golden West, the super spectacle recreating the history of the West.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

When Bill Reardon gives up his private detective agency to go back to his old job as special investigator for the district attorney, his wife, Sally, takes over the agency to prove that it can be made successful. Her first client quickly entangles her in a murder mystery when Walter Fraser is mysteriously killed in the apartment of Jerry Marlowe, Anne Calhoun's fiancé. Working in competition with her husband who has been assigned to the case, Sally scores first when she proves to Bill that the Marlowe butler is involved in the case. She scores again when she gains admittance to the Fraser apartment and steals a letter written by Anne to Walter Fraser. When she gives the letter to Lola later, Mrs. Fraser destroys it but she gives Sally another clue when she says that on the night of the murder she heard a strange voice using the Marlowe phone. Before she can work on her theory that the mysterious voice was that of Nick Shane, a prominent gambler, Sally and Mrs. Fraser are taken to headquarters for questioning. Sally finally tells Bill about her suspicions regarding Shane. Bill quickly establishes the fact that Shane is missing and, at the Marlowe apartment, he discovers how Shane tapped the telephone wire. He calls the district attorney to announce his discovery only to be informed that Nick Shane has been found murdered in the Reardon apartment with Sally, holding the murder knife, in a dead faint at his side.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter Six

"Where is Sally now?" Bill asked the district attorney.
"The police have her at your apartment," the D. A. replied. With the siren on his police car screaming a warning, Bill broke all speed records to his apartment. He pushed his way through reporters and photographers who were crowding the hall. The policeman guarding the door recognized Bill and admitted him to the apartment.
"Sally!" Bill called as he rushed in. "Where's my wife?" he demanded.
"Take it easy, Bill," one of the detectives said soothingly. "She's okay. She just went into the bathroom."
In the bathroom, meanwhile, Sally had quickly raised the window and climbed out on the narrow ledge of the building. She clutched the bricks with her fingers and, her eyes tight shut, she inched her way along the ledge to the fire escape.
In a moment she had reached the street and she ran to the corner. She hailed the first car that came along and, as it slowed down, her heart sank. It was a police car.
"Well, well, Mrs. Reardon!" the policeman driver said, "what's the trouble?"
"Nothing," Sally replied. "I'm late, though, for a very important appointment. Are you, by any chance going up Park Avenue—around Fifty-fourth Street?"
"Well, it's a little off my beat," the cop said, "but seein' it's you—" He opened the door and Sally hopped in. It was only a few minutes drive in the police car to Sally's destination—Lola Fraser's apartment. Sally jumped out and, after thanking the policeman, rushed into the building.
A maid answered the ring at Mrs. Fraser's apartment. "Mrs. Fraser isn't in," she told Sally. "I'll wait," Sally replied curtsy as she swept past the maid into the reception hall.
From another room Lola Fraser called out. "Who is it, Mary?" she asked.
"I think she'll see me," Sally told the maid. "Tell her it's Mrs. Reardon." The maid left the room and Sally looked around quickly. On a table she saw Lola Fraser's purse. She crossed to it quickly, opened it and took out a handkerchief. Crumpling it in her hand, Sally walked away from the table as the maid returned. "Mrs. Fraser will see you," she said.
Sally walked into Lola's boudoir and found the place a shambles of clothes being hastily packed. "Why did you kill Nick Shane?" she asked Lola.

Lola stared at her. "Why," she said, "you're crazy!"
"You don't seem very surprised that he's dead," Sally persisted.
"I'm not," Lola replied. "He was often threatened. People were afraid of him and hated him."
"You feared and hated him too, didn't you?" Sally demanded.
"Yes, I did. But I didn't kill him," Lola said. Sally opened her hand and dangled the handkerchief she had taken from Lola's purse. Mrs. Fraser stared at it, fascinated. "Where—where did you get that?" she asked weakly.
Sally looked at her sympathetically. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Fraser," she said. "I found it beside his body."
Lola stared at her in silence for a long moment then she sat down. "All right," she said quietly. "I killed him."

Back at the Reardon apartment, Sally's escape was soon discovered and a police alarm for her was quickly broadcast. The policeman on radio patrol who had given Sally a lift got the alarm and hurried to the Reardon home. He rushed upstairs and ran over to Bill.
"Hey, Bill!" he called breathlessly. "The missus is up at Park Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street!"
"How do you know?" the district attorney demanded.
The policeman gulped. "Because I took her there!" he confessed. Bill snapped his fingers. "Park and Fifty-fourth. That's where Lola Fraser lives. C'mon, let's go!"

As Bill, the district attorney and an assortment of detectives and uniformed police burst into the Fraser apartment, Sally was just hanging up the phone. She looked up and smiled at Bill and handed him a long sheet of paper. "Here it is," she said sweetly.

Bill rushed over to her and took her in his arms. "Darling!" he said. "Are you all right?"

Sally looked at him, puzzled. "Of course I'm all right," she said. "Here's the confession."

Bill was aghast. "You didn't sign this?" he demanded.

"Of course not, you idiot!" Sally said. "This is Lola Fraser's confession. But she did it in self-defense."

Bill and the district attorney stared at Sally. "What?" they cried.
"Lola came to my apartment to see me with no intention of killing anybody," Sally went on. "She was minding her own business but this man Shane followed her and made a row just because Lola told me he was guilty. He pulled a knife on her—one word led to another—and there you are! It's all in the confession."

Bill turned to a detective and motioned to Mrs. Fraser. "Take her down to my office," he said.

After they had all gone, Bill and the district attorney sat down with Sally. "How did you know she did it?" the district attorney asked.
"Well," Sally explained, "when I got home, the apartment was filled with her perfume. Then when I accused her and she didn't ask any questions—when he was killed, or how—I knew she had done it."

Bill looked at Sally admiringly. "And you got a confession out of her with no more than that to go on!" he said.
Sally looked down at her shoes. "Well," she confessed, "I pretended I found her handkerchief beside the body."

"Where did you find it?" the D. A. asked.
"Here," Sally said simply. "In her purse."

Bill got up and turned to the district attorney. "I resign!" he said. "From now on, I'm Sally's office boy."

"You'll help Lola, won't you?" Sally asked the D. A. "It really was self defense, you know. Say, we can plead the unwritten law!" Sally turned to Bill. "That reminds me, darling, what is the unwritten law?"

"Just one more question," Bill said. "Where did you hide that letter? We tore the house apart looking for it."

Sally grinned impishly. "In the pocket of your dinner jacket," she said.

Bill took her in his arms. "Would you object," he asked, "if your new office boy gave you a kiss—a very respectful kiss?"

They kissed ardently and Sally buried her head on Bill's shoulder. "Bill," she confessed weakly, "I guess I'm not such a strong character after all!"

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

The defection of the Wisconsin Progressives, led by the La Follette brothers, and the National Progressive party of America constitute a serious challenge to the coalition of forces known as the New Deal.

The disintegration of the New Deal following has been predicted and expected in many quarters since the disastrous court embroglio of last year, which aligned conservative and social liberal Democrats with Republicans again at the administration.

But the new third party, headed by Governor Phillip La Follette of Wisconsin, represents the first schism in the New Deal ranks, for the court sign their party affiliation.

Ordinarily third parties mean little in national politics, and a third party has yet to win a national election. But it must be remembered that the Democratic party swept to victory in 1932 and won again in 1936 thru an alliance with the progressives and independent Republicans of the Midwest.

The social objectives of the Roosevelt administration have been derived from these progressives and liberals, such as the La Follettes and George Norris of Nebraska, and not from the conservative Democrats such as Carter Glass, Harry Byrd and John Garner. Desertion of these forces would leave the Democratic party where it was in 1932—defender of states rights and of a low tariff, both of which have been rejected by the New Deal.

Further, should the launching of this third party deprive the administration of the liberal support which has proven so valuable during the past five years, President Roosevelt would be faced with the alternatives of swinging further to the right or bolting his party and running for a third term with liberal and progressive support.

Since 1932 the Democratic party has been identified with liberalism while Republicanism has been considered synonymous with conservatism. And therein lies the menace both to the administration and to the Democratic party.

Basically the Republican party is stronger than the Democratic party—the old Democratic party that is, deprived of its liberal support among independents. Should the Democrats be deprived of their label of liberalism—a label to be assumed, if possible, by the new Progressive party—and again assume the mantle of conservatism with the Republicans party, they would find themselves again in the minority.

The task before the Progressives is a difficult one. They first must unite under one banner all liberals and progressives. This in itself will prove an almost insurmountable task, for each clique has its own idea of how America should be saved. They also must convince the liberal followers of the administration that they can no longer look to President Roosevelt for fulfillment of their objectives.

Party organization is a fundamental success and only in Wisconsin and Minnesota, where the Farmer-Labor party is numerically stronger than both Republicans and Democrats, do the progressives have an organization.

In spite of the radical programs of semi-socialism advocated by the Wisconsin Progressives and the Minnesota Farmer Laborites, the farm vote of the Midwest is traditionally conservatism, not radical or even liberal. Consider the fact that the Republicans carried the Midwest in this century in 1900, 1904, 1908, 1920, 1924 and 1928, in spite of the fact that the interest of the Republicans leadership rested primarily in the industrial East.

Now that the farmer has tasted the benefits of New Deal farm policies and of actual power in Congress, the farmer is not apt to return to his traditional conservatism in national politics. Instead, he will demand continued interest in his problems by the party in power in return for his vote.

The program which the Progressives advocate in an attractive one to the "have nots" who have voted for the New Deal in two national elections and in the congressional balloting of 1934. Before an audience of 5,000 in Governor La Follette, speaking Madison when he launched his party—listed these principles as basic of the party:

"The ownership and control of money and credit, without qualification or reservation, must be under public and not private control.

The organizing power of this nation must stop at nothing short of necessary steps to reserve to every American the absolute right to earn his living.

Those who work on the farm and in the city must be given security, founded on a devinite, decent annual income for all.

We flatly oppose every form of coddling, or spoon-feeding the American people....No govern-men on earth can successfully manage the numerous details that make her healthy families or successful business".

The movement in the West will be closely watched by Democrats and Republicans alike. Every schism in the Democratic ranks affords an added opportunity for the Republicans to return to power. For the Democrats, the progressive defection is an added problem to contend with, for the administration has counted upon progressive aid to secure the nomination of a liberal Democrat in 1940.

The continuation of the New Deal as a political philosophy after 1940 is of course contingent upon the nomination by the Democrats of a candidate who accepts President Roosevelt's political and social theories of the government. But conservative Democrats, whose main strength lies in the South but who will be reinforced in 1940 by dissident liberals such as Senator Wheeler who have incurred the ire of the administration, are determined to prevent the nomination of a candidate sponsored and approved by the president.

Whereas the President is likely to favor Henry Wallace or Harry Hopkins or a like person, the Southern Democrats want Harry Byrd or Bennett Clark to carry their standard. And the administration will lose if the progressive desert en masse for a third party candidate.

Just what labor would do should a strong third party nominate a candidate in 1940, no one can foresee. John Lewis and William Green, labor leaders are cool toward Roosevelt at the present time. Whether either or both would join forces with the progressives of the Midwest to form a potent former labor third party in 1940 only Messrs. Lewis and Green know..

But the instigators of the new party rest their only hopes upon a combination of farmer and labor groups. Labor has already demonstrated its poeency at the polls, acting largely thru the C. I. O. in this respect, but the agrarian movement launched in 1936 with William Lemkee as its candidate for president failed gismally.

Governor La Follette and his aides are not taking into consideration the fundamental differences in interests and outlook between labor and farmer, although the opposition to the domination of the government by the capitalists might tend to unite the two.
