W. T. BANNISTER'S STATEMENT TO VOTERS OF BEAT 3

Two years ago I made the race for Commissioner in Beat 3, and although I ran unsuccessfully, I did receive a very encouraging vote for which I am still grateful.

As time goes on and changes take place in every process of improvement, and especially now under these uncertain and unsatisfying conditions, I am offering to the ones who might consider a change from the present setup in this particular instance.

During the forty years of my residence in this locality, I have had personal, or business associations, with almost every voter in the beat, and I offer myself to you without further statement as to my qualifications other than this acquaintance would justify. This job, as you know, requires only a little sound judgment and common sense, such as one would use in their own personal dealings.

I have nothing to say in regard to the present incumbent, or the other aspirants, but to you who desire a change from the long administration which dates back to the "Horse and Buggy" days I ask for a chance made possible by your choice in the matter.

I hope to see each voter personally before the July Primaries.

Signed, W. T. Bannister
(Political Adv.)

PARADE IS HIGHLIGHT OF ENTIRE TWO DAY SHOW

Gatesville's 1938 Second Annual Rodeo is history!

History, that will long be remembered by the more than 10,000 who saw at one time or the other, and to the many other who visited in Coryell county and Gatesville during the week before and afterward. Of course, there are some 'squawks' but—when are there none?

Attorney General Wm. McCraw one of the many candidates for Governor added interest to the most magnificent, biggest and best handled parade it has been the pleasure of Coryell county citizens to witness.

Headliners of the parade, were W. F. & J. F. Barnes Lumber Co., who won the first prize of $10.00, the National Bank of Gatesville 2nd, $5.00 and City Filling Station 3rd, $2.50.

Other parade entries were: Indian Float, First settlers, ox-wagon team, frontiersmen, thirteen covered wagons, fire department old and new, Jones Fine Bread, Alvis Garner Co., Clover Farm Stores, Thomson Grocery Co., Pat Olsen City Drug Store, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Coryell County Farm Loan Association, Home Lumber Co. and Gatesville Implement Company.

Weaver and Juanita Gray proved popular with the crowds with their trick riding, rope spinning and Jeff Reavis and his Liberty Horse "Danger" were outstanding in their 'solo' act, that is, if someone hadn't spilled some oats in the Saturday nite performance.

Candy, supported by Raymond Landers, furnished the "comics" for the crowd.

The crowning feature of the rodeo performances was Larry Reasor and his 9 months old colt who outdid the best of the feature attractions. Larry Reasor and this colt, are going to show someone something in the rodeo world, and deserve, and darn it, will get a better break. He has a "college colt", that colt has done thrown away his High School Diploma. He's matriculated already, and eighteen more months and he will have a Ph. D.

Other localities who made the rifle, and helped put over the show were 'Betty Boop' Chamlee who created atmosphere by her singing of 'Home on the Range', Zack Fore, E. L. Taylor, Lassie Anderson Jr., and Bill Morgan, added interest to the Saturday night performance by attempting calf riding, and did hardly ride long enough to get out of the chutes. They showed, by their bad riding, what class riders were attracted to the 1938 show.

The management 'Smiling Bob' Saunders and cohorts asked us to thank the committees, cooperators and visitors,—in fact everyone, for making the 1938 Second Annual Rodeo and Frontier Celebration, the success it justly was, and hope to see you all in 1938.

Mrs. Bess Howard and daughter, Martha Ruth, of Pittsburg, Kans. attended the graduation of her son Joe, from Baylor and was a visitor in the Will Rutherford home the past week.

'ACCORDIN' TO LAW

By SARAH GANN
(In Farm and Ranch)

I planted my cotton, plowed it good twice,
Square was a formin'—putting on nice
When in comes a feller that God only knows—
Sayin'; "Hi, there, Mister, you've got too many rows,
So I pulled ole Bessie's line and said to her, "Haw,
Git on the row, sister, 'cordin' to law!"

Now I plant potatoes, pop-corn and gumbo,
Spinach and cabbages, row after row;
Pintos, onions, carrots and beets,
Tomatoes and muskmelons, juicy and sweet
Some to be canned, some to eat raw—
Feedin' the family 'cordin' to law.

I rotate, strip-crop, and contour around,
Hop over clodded, high-terraced ground
I find myself comin' when I thought I was goin'
Rows so crooked, Can't make a showin'
But corn is comin' purtier'n I ever saw
Since runnin' them rows 'cordin' to law!

I keep signin' up eve'thing new,
I'll get nothin' if I don't, not much if I do;
I'm a-hopin' that od or good Uncle Sam,
Will settle a farm bill that I'll understand:
And if I git to Heaven in the sweet by and by
I'll meet Mr. Roosevelt, tryin' to comply!

SON IS LIKED BY FALKENBERG

"The best crops I have are growing on those terraces." This statement by Herbert Falkenberg, a tenant farmer in the Coryell City community indicates the increasing favor being manifested in this area for the broad base terraces advocated by Soil Conservation Service.

When these services were being built two years ago" Mr. Falkenberg continued. "I wasn't very enthusiastic because I had in mind the old-fashioned narrow terraces which had been built before in this community. Most of these could not be cultivated at all and would often break because they were not large enough or were not graded right. Last year, these terraces being new, were of course, rough and steep in places, but I went ahead and worked them up and cultivated them as the men from the camp and my landlord asked me to do. By the time spring plowing had been finished, I was about ready to give up. I noticed, however that the terraces were gradually getting easier to work.

"By the close of the season last year, all the terraces had been worked up smooth and when I began planting my row crops this spring, I found that they

DEATH CLAIMS AGED CORYELL COUNTY MAN

Death claimed the life of J. S. Moore, one of Coryell County's oldest citizens Monday about noon at his home in the White Hall Community. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 at the White Hall Baptist church and were conducted by Rev. Kenneth Hiner. Interment, with Scott Funeral directors in charge, was in the Caulfield cemetery.

Mr. Moore was born November 26, 1851 in Tennessee. At an early age he came to Texas, where he has always lived. One of Texas' old pioneers, Mr. Moore has braved many tragedies and hardships as only the early settlers experienced. He was a devoted husband and father, a prosperous farmer and a man active and interested in the affairs of his community. During their married life together fifteen children were born to them, and eight survive. His wife preceded him in death in 1921. Also surviving are 35 grandchildren, and 31 great grandchildren. In his large family Mr. Moore could proudly boast of three sets of twins.

In losing this man, Coryell County loses one of its oldest and finest citizens. He had relatives and many friends in Gatesville, a number of whom were present to pay their lasting tribute to this man.

Shower and Party

Honor Mrs. Farquhar
On May 20th, Mesdames J. T. Weaver and Oscar Weaver entertained with an announcement party and shower for Mrs. Jim Farquhar, the former Miss Imogene Young.

The rooms and lace laid refreshment table were beautifully decorated with spring flowers. As the guests arrived they were asked to register in the bride's book, then proceed to the dining room, where they were served punch and fruit squares. Mesdames Melvin Watson and Paul Cloud presiding at the table, after which a few games and a reading to the bride by Mrs. Paul Cloud was enjoyed.

By the arrangement of a miniature craft at sea with sealed announcements attached to the sail, the guests were asked to form a circle around the table and prepare for a romance voyage. Mrs. L. P. Foster Sr. was told to draw for the only large envelope, open and read the contents, which were the announcement and place of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Farquhar. The other guests drew the small envelopes which gave the date December 19, 1936.

Guest, Miss Waldine Franklin gave several piano numbers, and last but not least, "The Sunny Club" sponsored a play, "Twenty years Later". As Mrs. John Derrick began to play a piano march, two little girls dressed as fairies went into the audience and directed Mr. and Mrs. Thomas to a beautiful rainbow where they found a treasure. At the end of the rainbow a little colonial girl sang, "When I Grow too Old to Dream," and her skirt was loaded with many useful gifts.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
 Major George Daviot incurs the enmity of his subordinate officer, Captain Bradford, by falling overtly in love with Bradford's wife Josie. Though Daviot is still fond of his wife, Anne, she feels that he has lost interest in her and leaves him to take up residence in Paris. At a weekend "shoot" at the country estate of his friend Roper, Daviot meets the Bradfords and pairs off with Josie in the hunt. Bradford appears and significantly accuses Daviot of "poaching."

Chapter Two

That evening, Mr. Roper's sumptuous dinner being over, the gentlemen withdrew for a friendly little poker game.

"What stakes?" asked Grant, a tittle, rotund fellow who had an easy way with a glass of spirits.

"Oh, we usually play a fairly

"You were cheating. I saw you fix your cards!"

modest game," said Cowbit, a portly M. P. "A two-pound rise."

"What about five tonight?" suggested Bradford.

"Make it ten," countered Grant. The others agreed, not without some reluctance, and the game began.

While the gentlemen players were being supplied with poker chips and filled glasses, Roper, in the adjoining room, sought to improve the moment in earnest conversation with Josie Bradford.

"A rough diamond, that's me, Mrs. Bradford, but very proud to entertain brilliant men and—er—beautiful women."

"Entertain?"

"Yes. There's one thing money can't buy. I'm a lonely man, and to be near a beautiful woman makes me — if you see what I mean — more lonely."

"I can't bear to think of it," said Josie, and she got up and left her astonished suitor abruptly, going in to watch the card game.

The cards were being kind to Daviot, unkind indeed to Grant. As the hour grew later, the excellent whiskey flowed freer and the bidding grew wilder, many a hand was played almost entirely by these two while the others threw in their indifferent cards and watched. Grant, losing heavily, grew more and more reckless and bid his cards to the limit. But whenever he held a promising hand, Daviot invariably seemed to top him.

"Hello!" Grant cried tipsily after a couple of hours of play. "What's happened to my chips?" He gazed down at the bare board before him.

"You've lost them," said Cindereford drily.

"Have I? Well, come on — give me some more. And you, there — to the butler — 'give me some more whiskey!'"

"That's the second hundred you've lost," Daviot informed Grant.

"That's right," he gurgled happily. "My second hundred!"

They went at it again. But Grant's luck grew no better, and the more he lost the more he drank. Before very long he was calling for another hundred pound's worth of chips — and some more whiskey.

"His luck's indecent," cried Grant, gaping at George. "You know, Daviot, you're too clever."

"If I might suggest it, Mr. Grant," said George evenly, "you should concentrate more on your cards and less on your refreshments."

Finally Grant, after losing a few more rounds, seemed to have made his lucky strike. Holding two pair—aces and jacks — he drew another ace and filled a full house. Jubilantly he clutched his cards to his chest, took a long drink, and prepared to bid up to the sky.

But Daviot's luck had not deserted him. Holding three threes and drawing two cards, he found himself looking down at four threes. Josie, standing behind his chair, was watching him closely throughout the round of play.

The hand resolved itself into a bidding duel between the two, while the others threw in their cards. Finally, when Grant had run the betting up to seventy pounds, George decided it was time to call.

"Three aces and two jacks," said Grant, laying them out triumphantly. George showed his cards.

"Four threes!" Grant sprang to his feet, rather unsteadily.

"You're cheating!"

"What?" George stood up and raced him across the table.

"I saw you fix your hand."

"You saw what?" cried George incredulously.

"You damn card sharp," yelled Grant, and threw over the table, spilling the piled chips all over the floor.

Daviot took two steps toward him, swung hard, and connected with his jaw, knocking his accuser over on his back.

While George's friends held back to prevent him from giving Grant a complete thrashing, the latter, now thoroughly sobered, got to his feet and a general discussion began revolving around his charges. He told a confused story of having seen Daviot throw away two cards, draw two others, and then, not liking his draw, switch back to his discard when he thought he was unobserved. But on being questioned Grant's story grew more and more shaky until it seemed to be all over but the apology due Daviot from Grant.

Then Bradford stepped in. "Just a minute — it's not quite as simple as that, Grant's right."

"What?" cried the others in chorus.

"I saw George cheat, too!"

BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

Moshem's Cellar-bound ball club snapped out of a three game losing slump and finally broke into the win column by edging out a hustling Pecan Grove team, 2-1, Sunday.

Neither team was able to push across a tally until the 6th stanza when Moshem shoved across her two counters of the day. Pecan Grove scored her marker in the eighth and came near tallying in the ninth.

This Moshem club has been improving rapidly since the opening of the season, and this column believes it will win its share of the games before the end of the season. In their first game of the season, Cleo Whaley, Mound's ace hurler, blanked them with a no-hit, no run, performance while Mound jumped on three Moshem slabbists for 17 runs. They lost their next game 12-5, but showed signs of coming out of their slump by going down fighting against a much better Coryell City club, 6-4. Then they won from Pecan Grove 2-1.

tire men have estimated are due for replacement this year represent a sales total of approximately $500,000,000, a sum that is one tenth of the $5,000,000,000 which President Roosevelt has asked Congress to appropriate to aid business.

The success of National Tire Safety Week has a direct bearing on the welfare of the 125,000 employees of the tire manufacturers, according to A. L. Viles, president of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, which is sponsoring the campaign. Last year the group received in excess of $100,000,000 in wages and salaries. In addition, he added, the economic welfare of countless others employed in related industries would be beneficially affected.

In this group he included the 50,000 distributors and dealers and their employes, as well as the owners, managers and employes of the more than 40,000 gasoline filling stations where tires are sold.

Spreading out beyond the tire industry and closely related industries, Mr. Viles pointed out, are the vast numbers employed in furnishing and processing the raw materials such as cotton, rubber, paper, wire, coal, oil, paint, and lumber.

Will be in Gatesville every Thursday 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. and Sunday by appointment.

Last Tuesday night the House passed a Wage and Hours Bill by a vote of 314 to 97. I voted for the bill. I am not at all sure that this measure will secure the results that its sponsors expect but I join them in hoping that it may actually improve the lot of our poorest paid workers and that it will forever prevent a return of child labor in American factories. No one wants to see little children employed in industry and the provisions of this bill on this subject are certainly not open to much of the criticism that can be leveled against the proposed constitutional amendment on that subject. I do not want to see men and women work for less than a living wage. This bill undertakes to prevent this. I want to see the buying power of our workers raised. Many of those who have studied this subject say that this bill will have that effect. I am not at all sure. I fear it may throw many of the older and most needy of our people out of employment and encourage the increased use of machinery. But I want to secure the objectives of this bill, so supported it in the hope that it would have a good effect. In any event, I am sure that after observing the operation of this bill for a year we will be in a better position to judge whether it reduces employment or not. If it does actually reduce employment, I shall, of course, expect to vote for its repeal. If a trial shows that it does result in better general conditions, I, like everyone else, will want to continue it.

In voting for this bill I also felt that I would be in a much better position to secure the support of the representatives of the industrial sections for our farm legislation. With the passage of this bill I feel very hopeful that we will be able to secure the passage of the $120,000,000.00 appropriation to add to the farm payments for 1938. In fact I felt that had all the representatives from the agricultural sections stayed together we could have secured a definite agreement on this subject before we brought the wage-hour bill up for discussion.

The passage of this bill, which contained no wage differentials for different sections and industries, however, positively establishes the correctness of my contention and the contentions of many Southern Congressmen as expressed some two weeks ago to the effect that the South had been and still is the victim of a gross injustice in the matter of WPA wages. The wage per hour for WPA work is not only higher in the cities and in the North, but the monthly wage is more than three times as much in New York City as in Valley Mills or Holand. This can not be justified on the grounds of difference in cost of living, because, while there is a substantial difference in the cost of living, it does not approach this figure. Another illustration of this injustice is the fact that last year WPA spent $216,000,000.00 in the single northern State of Pennsylvania with only 9,000,000 people as against $214,000,000 in all of the Southern States with 28,000,000 people. I called attention to these facts in my letter two weeks ago, but I cite them now to show that the north is only willing to put the South on a parity in the matter of paying out its own money. When it comes to an expenditure of Federal funds they want about three times as much as they are willing to give us. I feel that with the passage of a wage hour bill with no differentials, the North will be in an embarrassing position unless they agree to give our WPA workers an even break.

Early in the week we received a license from the Federal Power Commission for the erection of the great flood control and power dam at Possum Kingdom on the Brazos. Yesterday we received the earmarking of $900,000.00 by the U. S. Housing Authority for a million dollar housing program in Waco. I had presented this to Mr. Straus, the Administrator in person. This makes our district the first one in Texas to receive two earmarkings. Temple received $180,000 several months ago. These projects, if carried on by the localities which must now advance 10 per cent of the cost will not only provide a great deal of local employment and business and when completed will provide much needed modern homes for people with low incomes.

BRACK CURRY

What happened in Pennsylvania to deprive Thomas Kennedy of the gubernatorial nomination? Politicians are still speculating over who double-crossed whom, for quite obviously there was a miscalculation in the plans of John L. Lewis and Senator Joe Guffey to put Kennedy a United Mine Workers' vice-president in the governorship. The C.I.O. claims 800,000 members in Pennsylvania. Lewis' forces are conceded 600,000 dues payers by the A. F. L. But Kennedy—who in addition to the C.I.O. backing had the potent Guffey Political machine behind him and an endorsement by National Chairman Jim Farley—polled only 517,000 votes.

Kennedy is lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, but he was opposed by a unknown in Quaker State politics—Charles Alvin Jones, a Pittsburgh attorney.

Perhaps these figures, released by William J. Cameron, Ford Motor Company executive, provided the best answer to the old Pennsylvanian paradox of a candidate with apparently every political factor in his favor going down to his defeat to the humiliation of a national chairman and a smashing rebuke to the political-ambitions John Lewis. Cameron states that during the last two years, when employment was the one thing most desired, more than 42,000,000 days' work was lost on account of strikes.

This means that Americans lost 115,000 years of 365 days each through strikes. United States government statistics from 1933 to 1937 reveal that we lost 93,000,000 days of work through strikes, of the equivalent of 361,000 years of employment.

How does this effect the defeat of the C.I.O. backed candidate in the Pennsylvania Primaries? The answer is that the blundering, ruthless, wasteful tactics of the committee for Industrial Organization in its relations with employers has so alienated public sympathy for the Lewis movement that the voters of Pennsylvania feared to put Kennedy in the governorship.

Candidate Jones and his running mate, Governor Earle, the senatorial candidate, charged that Kennedy was but a stooge through whom Lewis would control Pennsylvania. And therein lies the answer to the Earle-Jones victory against seemingly overwhelming odds.

Observers further point out that the C.I.O. and United Mine workers apparently refused to go down the line for Lewis. If the 600,000 C.I.O. members had their wives and relatives had gone to the polls and voted for the Kennedy ticket, Kennedy would have polled 1,000,000 votes, they say. Therefore it seems that about half the C.I.O. enrollment and their families employed the sit-down strike originated by their big boss and refused to vote for their unions' ticket.

Lewis' C.I.O. has yet to win a major victory at the polls. Twice before the Pennsylvania primaries candidates endorsed by Lewis had gone down to defeat. In November, 1937, C.I.O. candidates were defeated in the Detroit municipal election, with its candidates for mayor losing to the A. F. L. candidate for the mayoralty of Cumberland, Md. was routed in March, 1938.

It would seem, therefore, that until labor unites and until the public forgets the total of 361,000 years of employment lost in the short space of 5 years through C. I. O. strikes neither the C.I.O. nor the A. F. L. will prove a deciding factor in any national election.

Administration leaders, under the guiding hand of President Roosevelt, have affected a rapprochement between the two quarreling factions in the Pennsylvania Democratic party. Senator Guffey has returned to the fold and publicly endorsed the slate of candidates elected in the May Primary. He will campaign for Earle for senator against Senator James J. Davis, Republican and for Charles Alvin Jones for governor in the November general election.

This constitutes a major triumph not only for the Earle-Jones forces but also for President Roosevelt and Jim Farley, who feared the loss of the senatorship and several of the 27 congressional seats which the Democrats now have.

Lewis and Kennedy have declined to endorse the Earle-Jones ticket, leaving some observers to predict that Kennedy will run as an independent in the general election, again with C.I.O. support.

New dealers have been disheartened by recent primaries which show the democratic strength considerable below that of the Republican. In Pennsylvania, Republicans rolled up a plurality of from 75,000, to 100,000 while in South Dakota they scored a record-smashing 30,000 plurality. The final count of the Oregon primary also shows the Republicans with a plurality running as high as 25,000 in one contest.

BASEBALL CHATTER

Mound takes the lead in the Coryell County Sunday baseball league.

Last Sunday they beat their strong and ancient rivals, the Jonesboro Eagles, 11-5 to break the tie those two clubs have been in since the campaign opened.

For two innings it looks very bad for the Mound nine. Jonesboro hops on Evans for two runs in the opening stanza, and it seems as if Liljedahl is having one of his good days, for he has turned the Mound boys back for the first couple of innings, and looks like he has plenty on the ball. However, he loses the plate in the fourth inning, and walks combined with some solid base hits gave the Mound team 4 runs. After that it is Mound all the way. Liljedahl hits Evans, Mound's starting hurler on the wrist in the sixth inning, and Evans is forced to leave the game. Cleo Whaley, who is one of those off-and-on hurlers, comes to the mound, and does a pretty fair job of turning back Jonesboro's sluggers the balance of the game. The Mound boys kept pecking away at Liljedahl and scored eleven runs to take the wide decision.

This win gives the Mound boys the inside track to league championship. Before this contest they were tied with the Eagles for top rating. Pidcoke was up there with them but were tumbled down into third place when Jonesboro defeated them Sunday, May 29th, 5 to 4 in the best game that has been played in the league this year. In the 9th inning of the contest with the Jonesboro team at bat, L. Drake comes to bat with two men out and two men on, and sent a long triple whistling over the centerfielder's head for two runs and the ball game. Harviston kept the Eagles in the game by making three sensational running catches of long Pidcoke flies. After punning about 45 yards to pull down one liner, he toppled in the creek that ran along outside the outfield.

This Mound team has a clean slate this season. In their first battle of the season Cleo Whaley goes to the mound for them and turns in a dandy no-hitter to Moshem nine 17-0. In their next two outings they defeated CCC 14-9 and Coryell City 13-8.

The chief worry of the Mound Club's manager is the shortage of pitching talent. The only two pitchers who have hurled for them this summer are Joe Evans is a fair-to-middling moundsman, but he lets the opposing club have too many big innings at his expense. Because of the tremendous power and the flashy fielding backing him up, he has not lost a game this year, but when the Mound Club comes up against a pitcher that can hold them back, they are going to have a hard time coming out on top. Whaley has his good days and his bad days, and is not what you could call a dependable hurler. The Mound team has signed Schoolboy Rutherford, who was a sensation in the high school league, but he has not yet been in action against the old timers. The Mound club is afraid to take a chance with him in a tight spot because of his youthfulness. If Rutherford gets in a contest and comes through in big style, you can write it down in your little black book that Mound will be on top of the league standing August 1.

Pidcoke recovered from their defeat at the hands of the Eagles last week, and comes back in grand style to hand the Pecan Grove Club a 22-8 drubbing to stick in third place. Eric Wiegand goes the route for Pidcoke, just coasting along along after Pidcoke builds up a big lead in the early innings.

Miss Emma Scott has just left for T.S.C.W., Denton, where she will receive her Smith-Hughes degree this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Johnson and daughter, Mary Katherine of Opalin spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Washburn. Mr. Johnson returned home Monday and Mrs. Johnson and daughter remained over for a two weeks visit.

W. T. BANNISTER'S STATEMENT TO VOTERS OF BEAT 3

Two years ago I made the race for Commissioner in Beat 3, and although I ran unsuccessfully, I did receive a very encouraging vote for which I am still grateful.

As time goes on and changes take place in every process of improvement, and especially now under these uncertain and unsatisfying conditions, I am offering to the ones who might consider a change from the present setup in this particular instance.

During the forty years of my residence in this locality, I have had personal, or business associations, with almost every voter in the beat, and I offer myself to you without further statement as to my qualifications other than this acquaintance would justify. This job, as you know, requires only a little sound judgment and common sense, such as one would use in their own personal dealings.

I have nothing to say in regard to the present incumbent, or the other aspirants, but to you who desire a change from the long administration which dates back to the "Horse and Buggy" days I ask for a chance made possible by your choice in the matter.

I hope to see each voter personally before the July Primaries.

Signed, W. T. Bannister
(Political Adv.)

First nite: Jack and Earl Sellers (prizes same), Tony Wallace and Bryant Lee, Geo. Wilderspin and Roy Matthews.

2nd afternoon: Jack and Earl Sellers, Juan Salinas and Toots Mansfield, Roy Matthews and Geo. Wilderspin.

2nd nite: Juan Salinas and Toots Mansfield, J. R. Phillips and Frank Hoselik, Roy Matthews and Geo. Wilderspin.

Weaver and Juanita Gray proved popular with the crowds with their trick riding, rope spinning and Jeff Reavis and his Liberty Horse "Danger" were outstanding in their 'solo' act, that is, if someone hadn't spilled some oats in the Saturday nite performance.

Candy, supported by Raymond Lauers, furnished the "comics" for the crowd.

The crowning feature of the rodeo performances was Larry Reasor and his 9 months old colt who outdid the best of the feature attractions. Larry Reasor and this colt, are going to show someone something in the rodeo world, and deserve, and darn it, will get a better break. He has a "college colt", that colt has done thrown away his High School Diploma. He's matriculated already, and eighteen more months and he will have a Ph. D.

Other localites who made the rifle, and helped put over the show were 'Betty Boop' Chamlee who created atmosphere by her singing of 'Home on the Range', Zack Fore, E. L. Taylor, Lassies Anderson Jr., and Bill Morgan, added interest to the Saturday night performance by attempting calf riding, and did hardly ride long enough to get out of the chutes. They showed, by their bad riding, what class riders were attracted to in the 1938 show.

The management 'Smiling Bob' Saunders and cohorts asked us to thank the committees, cooperators and visitors,—in fact everyone, for making the 1938 Second Annual Rodeo and Frontier Celebration, the success it justly was, and hope to see you all in 1938.

Mrs. Bess Howard and daughter, Martha Ruth, of Pittsburg, Kans. attended the graduation of her son Joe, from Baylor and was a visitor in the Will Rutherford home the past week.

'ACCORDIN' TO LAW

By SARAH GANN
(In Farm and Ranch)

I planted my cotton, plowed it good twice,
Square was a formin'—putting on nice
When in comes a feller that God only knows—
Sayin'; "Hi, there, Mister, you've got too many rows,
So I pulled ole Bessie's line and said to her, "Haw,
Git on the row, sister, 'cordin' to law!"

Now I plant potatoes, pop-corn and gumbo,
Spinach and cabbages, row after row;
Pintos, onions, carrots and beets,
Tomatoes and muskmelons, juicy and sweet
Some to be canned, some to eat raw—
Feedin' the family 'cordin' to law.

I rotate, strip-crop, and contour around,
Hop over clodded, high-terraced ground
I find myself comin' when I thought I was goin'
Rows so crooked, Can't make a showin'
But corn is comin' purtier'n I ever saw
Since runnin' them rows 'cordin' to law!

I keep signin' up eve'thing new,
I'll get nothin' if I don't, not much if I do;
I'm a-hopin' that od or good Uncle Sam,
Will settle a farm bill that I'll understand:
And if I git to Heaven in the sweet by and by
I'll meet Mr. Roosevelt, tryin' to comply!

"The best crops I have are growing on those terraces."

This statement by Herbert Falkenberg, a tenant farmer in the Coryell City community indicates the increasing favor being manifested in this area for the broad base terraces advocated by Soil Conservation Service.

When these services were being built two years ago" Mr. Falkenberg continued. "I wasn't very enthusiastic because I had in mind the old-fashioned narrow terraces which had been built before in this community. Most of these could not be cultivated at all and would often

DEATH CLAIMS AGED CORYELL COUNTY MAN

Death claimed the life of J. S. Moore, one of Coryell County's oldest citizens Monday about noon at his home in the White Hall Community. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 at the White Hall Baptist church and were conducted by Rev. Kenneth Hiner. Interment, with Scott Funeral directors in charge, was in the Cauffield cemetery.

Mr. Moore was born November 26, 1851 in Tennessee. At an early age he came to Texas, where he has always lived. One of Texas' old pioneers, Mr. Moore has braved many tragedies and hardships as only the early settlers experienced. He was a devoted husband and father, a prosperous farmer and a man active and interested in the affairs of his community. During their married life together fifteen children were born to them, and eight survive. His wife preceded him in death in 1921. Also surviving are 35 grandchildren, and 31 great grandchildren. In his large family Mr. Moore could proudly boast of three sets of twins.

In losing this man, Coryell County loses one of its oldest and finest citizens. He had relatives and many friends in Gatesville, a number of whom were present to pay their lasting tribute to this man.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
 Major George Daviot incurs the enmity of his subordinate officer, Captain Bradford, by falling overtly in love with Bradford's wife Josie. Though Daviot is still fond of his wife, Anne, she feels that he has lost interest in her and leaves him to take up residence in Paris. At a weekend "shoot" at the country estate of his friend Roper, Daviot meets the Bradfords and pairs off with Josie in the hunt. Bradford appears and significantly accuses Daviot of "poaching."

Chapter Two

That evening, Mr. Roper's sumptuous dinner being over, the gentlemen withdrew for a friendly little poker game.

"What stakes?" asked Grant, a little, rotund fellow who had an easy way with a glass of spirits.

"Oh, we usually play a fairly

"You were cheating. I saw you fix your cards!"

modest game," said Cowbit, a portly M. P. "A two-pound rise."

"What about five tonight?" suggested Bradford.

"Make it ten," countered Grant.

The others agreed, not without some reluctance, and the game began.

While the gentlemen players were being supplied with poker chips and filled glasses, Roper, in the adjoining room, sought to improve the moment in earnest conversation with Josie Bradford.

"A rough diamond, that's me, Mrs. Bradford, but very proud to entertain brilliant men and—er—beautiful women."

"Entertain?"

"Yes. There's one thing money can't buy. I'm a lonely man, and to be near a beautiful woman makes me—if you see what I mean—more lonely."

"I can't bear to think of it," said Josie, and she got up and left her astonished suitor abruptly, going in to watch the card game.

The cards were being kind to Daviot, unkind indeed to Grant. As the hour grew later, the excellent whiskey flowed freer and the bidding grew wilder, many a hand was played almost entirely by these two while the others threw in their indifferent cards and watched. Grant, losing heavily, grew more and more reckless and bid his cards to the limit. But whenever he held a promising hand, Daviot invariably seemed to top him.

"Hello!" Grant cried tipsily after a couple of hours of play. "What's happened to my chips?" He gazed down at the bare board before him.

"You've lost them," said Cindereford drily.

"Have I? Well, come on—give me some more. And you, there—to the butler—"give me some more whiskey!"

"That's the second hundred you've lost," Daviot informed Grant.

"That's right," he gurgled happily. "My second hundred!"

They went at it again. But Grant's luck grew no better, and the more he lost the more he drank.

Before very long he was calling for another hundred pound's worth of chips—and some more whiskey.

"His luck's indecent," cried Grant, gaping at George. "You know, Daviot, you're too clever."

"If I might suggest it, Mr. Grant," said George evenly, "you should concentrate more on your cards and less on your refreshments."

Finally Grant, after losing a few more rounds, seemed to have made his lucky strike. Holding two pair—aces and jacks—he drew another ace and filled a full house. Jubilantly he clutched his cards to his chest, took a long drink, and prepared to bid up to the sky.

But Daviot's luck had not deserted him. Holding three threes and drawing two cards, he found himself looking down at four threes, Josie, standing behind his chair, was watching him closely throughout the round of play.

The hand resolved itself into a bidding duel between the two, while the others threw in their cards. Finally, when Grant had run the betting up to seventy pounds, George decided it was time to call.

"Three aces and two jacks," said Grant, laying them out triumphantly. George showed his cards.

"Four threes!" Grant sprang to his feet, rather unsteadily.

"You're cheating!"

"What?" George stood up and raced him across the table.

"I saw you fix your hand."

"You saw what?" cried George incredulously.

"You damn card sharp," yelled Grant, and threw over the table, spilling the piled chips all over the floor.

Daviot took two steps toward him, swung hard, and connected with his jaw, knocking his accuser over on his back.

While George's friends held back to prevent him from giving Grant a complete thrashing, the latter, now thoroughly sobered, got to his feet and a general discussion began revolving around his charges. He told a confused story of having seen Daviot throw away two cards, draw two others, and then, not liking his draw, switch back to his discard when he thought he was unobserved. But on being questioned Grant's story grew more and more shaky until it seemed to be all over but the apology due Daviot from Grant.

Then Bradford stepped in. "Just a minute—it's not quite as simple as that, Grant's right."

"What?" cried the others in chorus.

"I saw George cheat, too!"

BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

Moshlem's Cellar-bound ball club snapped out of a three game losing slump and finally broke into the win column by edging out a hustling Pecan Grove team, 2-1, Sunday.

Neither team was able to push across a tally until the 6th stanza when Moshlem shoved across her two counters of the day. Pecan Grove scored her marker in the eighth and came near tallying in the ninth.

This Moshlem club has been improving rapidly since the opening of the season, and this column believes it will win its share of the games before the end of the season. In their first game of the season, Cleo Whaley, Mound's ace hurler, blanked them with a no-hit, no run performance while Mound jumped on three Moshlem slabbists for 17 runs. They lost their next game 12-5, but showed signs of coming out of their slump by going down fighting against a much better Coryell City club, 6-4. Then they won from Pecan Grove 2-1.

tire men have estimated are due for replacement this year represent a sales total of approximately $500,000,000, a sum that is one tenth of the $5,000,000,000 which President Roosevelt has asked Congress to appropriate to aid business.

The success of National Tire Safety Week has a direct bearing on the welfare of the 125,000 employees of the tire manufacturers, according to A. L. Viles, president of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, which is sponsoring the campaign. Last year the group received in excess of $100,000,000 in wages and salaries. In addition, he added, the economic welfare of countless others employed in related industries would be beneficially affected.

In this group he included the 50,000 distributors and dealers and their employees, as well as the owners, managers and employees of the more than 40,000 gasoline filling stations where tires are sold.

Spreading out beyond the tire industry and closely related industries; Mr. Viles pointed out, are the vast numbers employed in furnishing and processing the raw materials such as cotton, crude rubber, paper, wire, coal, oil, paint, and lumber.

SAFETY, DOMINANT THEME PROMOTED BY TIRE COMPANIES

Safety on the highway and increased business were the dominant themes in National Tire Safety Week launched last week by tire manufacturers, distributors and dealers throughout the country.

Sponsors of the movement point out the hazards of driving on smooth worn tires and the foolishness of attempting to get the last few miles out of a set of worn tires. In addition, a vast purchasing movement would be accelerated, not only in the tire industry itself, but in the many affiliated and contributing industries.

Will be in Gatesville every Thursday 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. and Sunday by appointment.

Last Tuesday night the House passed a Wage and Hours Bill by a vote of 314 to 97. I voted for the bill. I am not at all sure that this measure will secure the results that its sponsors expect but I join them in hoping that it may actually improve the lot of our poorest paid workers and that it will forever prevent a return of child labor in American factories. No one wants to see little children employed in industry and the provisions of this bill on this subject are certainly not open to much of the criticism that can be levelled against the proposed constitutional amendment on that subject. I do not want to see men and women work for less than a living wage. This bill undertakes to prevent this. I want to see the buying power of our workers raised. Many of those who have studied this subject say that this bill will have that effect. I am not at all sure. I fear it may throw many of the older and most needy of our people out of employment and encourage the increased use of machinery. But I want to secure the objectives of this bill, so supported it in the hope that it would have a good effect. In any event, I am sure that after observing the operation of this bill for a year we will be in a better position to judge whether it reduces employment or not. If it does actually reduce employment, I shall, of course, expect to vote for its repeal. If a trial shows that it does result in better general conditions, I, like everyone else, will want to continue it.

In voting for this bill I also felt that I would be in a much better position to secure the support of the representatives of the industrial sections for our farm legislation. With the passage of this bill I feel very hopeful that we will be able to secure the passage of the $122,000,000.00 appropriation to add to the farm payments for 1938. In fact I felt that had all the representatives from the agricultural sections stayed together we could have secured a definite agreement on this subject before we brought the wage-hour bill up for discussion.

The passage of this bill, which contained no wage differentials for different sections and industries, however, positively establishes the correctness of my contention and the contentions of many Southern Congressmen as expressed some two weeks ago to the effect that the South had been and still is the victim of a gross injustice in the matter of WPA wages. The wage per hour for WPA work is not only higher in the cities and in the North, but the monthly wage is more than three times as much in New York City as in Valley Mills or Holand. This can not be justified on the grounds of difference in cost of living, because, while there is a substantial difference in the cost of living, it does not approach this figure. Another illustration of this injustice is the fact that last year WPA spent $216,000,000.00 in the single northern State of Pennsylvania with only 9,000,000 people as against $214,000,000 in all of the Southern States with 28,000,000 people. I called attention to these facts in my letter two weeks ago, but I cite them now to show that the north is only willing to put the South on a parity in the matter of paying out its own money. When it comes to an expenditure of Federal funds they want about three times as much as they are willing to give us. I feel that with the passage of a wage hour bill with no differentials, the North will be in an embarrassing position unless they agree to give our WPA workers an even break.

Early in the week we received a license from the Federal Power Commission for the erection of the great flood control and power dam at Possum Kingdom on the Brazos. Yesterday we received the earmarking of $900,000.00 by the U. S. Housing Authority for a million dollar housing program in Waco. I had presented this to Mr. Straus, the Administrator in person. This makes our district the first one in Texas to receive two earmarkings. Temple received $180,000 several months ago. These projects, if carried on by the localities which must now advance 10 per cent of the cost will not only provide a great deal of local employment and business and when completed will provide much needed modern houses for people with low incomes.

BRACK CURRY

What happened in Pennsylvania to deprive Thomas Kennedy of the gubernatorial nomination? Politicians are still speculating over who double-crossed whom, for quite obviously there was a miscalculation in the plans of John L. Lewis and Senator Joe Guffey to put Kennedy a United Mine Workers' vice-president in the governorship. The C.I.O. claims 800,000 members in Pennsylvania. Lewis' forces are conceded 600,000 dues payers by the A. F. L. But Kennedy—who in addition to the C.I.O. backing had the potent Guffey Political machine behind him and an endorsement by National Chairman Jim Farley—polled only 517,000 votes.

Kennedy is lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, but he was opposed by an unknown in Quaker State politics—Charles Alvin Jones, a Pittsburgh attorney.

Perhaps these figures, released by William J. Cameron, Ford Motor Company executive, provided the best answer to the old Pennsylvanian paradox of a candidate with apparently every political factor in his favor going down to his defeat to the humiliation of a national chairman and a smashing rebuke to the political-ambitions John Lewis. Cameron states that during the last two years, when employment was the one thing most desired, more than 42,000,000 days' work was lost on account of strikes.

This means that Americans lost 115,000 years of 365 days each through strikes. United States government statistics from 1933 to 1937 reveal that we lost 93,000,000 days of work through strikes, of the equivalent of 361,000 years of employment.

How does this effect the defeat of the C.I.O. backed candidate in the Pennsylvania Primaries? The answer is that the blundering, ruthless, wasteful tactics of the committee for Industrial Organization in its relations with employers has so alienated public sympathy for the Lewis movement that the voters of Pennsylvania feared to put Kennedy in the governorship.

Candidate Jones and his running mate, Governor Earle, the senatorial candidate, charged that Kennedy was but a stooge through whom Lewis would control Pennsylvania. And therein lies the answer to the Earle-Jones victory against seemingly overwhelming odds.

Observers further point out that the C.I.O. and United Mine workers apparently refused to go down the line for Lewis. If the 600,000 C.I.O. members had their wives and relatives had gone to the polls and voted for the Kennedy ticket, Kennedy would have polled 1,000,000 votes, they say. Therefore it seems that about half the C.I.O. enrollment, and their families employed the sit-down strike originated by their big boss and refused to vote for their unions' ticket.

Lewis' C.I.O. has yet to win a major victory at the polls. Twice before the Pennsylvania primaries candidates endorsed by Lewis had gone down to defeat.

In November, 1937, C.I.O. candidates were defeated in the Detroit municipal election, with its candidates for mayor losing.

The C.I.O. candidate for the mayoralty of Cumberland, Md. was routed in March, 1938.

It would seem, therefore, that until labor unites and until the public forgets the total of 361,000 years of employment lost in the short space of 5 years through C. I. O. strikes neither the C.I.O. nor the A. F. L. will prove a deciding factor in any national election.

Administration leaders, under the guiding hand of President Roosevelt, have affected a rapprochement between the two quarreling factions in the Pennsylvania Democratic party. Senator Guffey has returned to the fold and publicly endorsed the slate of candidates elected in the May Primary. He will campaign for Earle for senator against Senator James J. Davis, Republican and for Charles Alvin Jones for governor in the November general election.

This constitutes a major triumph not only for the Earle-Jones forces but also for President Roosevelt and Jim Farley, who feared the loss of the senatorship and several of the 27 congressional seats which the Democrats now have.

Lewis and Kennedy have declined to endorse the Earle-Jones ticket, leaving some observers to predict that Kennedy will run as an independent in the general election, again with C.I.O. support.

New dealers have been disheartened by recent primaries which show the democratic strength considerable below that of the Republican. In Pennsylvania, Republicans rolled up a plurality of from 75,000 to 100,000 while in South Dakota they scored a record-smashing 39,000 plurality.

The final count of the Oregon primary also shows the Republicans with a plurality running as high as 25,000 in one contest.

BASEBALL CHATTER

Mound takes the lead in the Coryell County Sunday baseball league.

Last Sunday they beat their strong and ancient rivals, the Jonesboro Eagles, 11-5 to break the tie those two clubs have been in since the campaign opened.

For two innings it looks very bad for the Mound nine. Jonesboro hops on Evans for two runs in the opening stanza, and it seems as if Liljedahl is having one of his good days, for he has turned the Mound boys back for the first couple of innings, and looks like he has plenty on the ball. However, he loses the plate in the fourth inning, and walks combined with some solid base hits gave the Mound team 4 runs. After that it is Mound all the way. Liljedahl hits Evans, Mound's starting hurler on the wrist in the sixth inning, and Evans is forced to leave the game. Cleo Whaley, who is one of those off-and-on hurlers, comes to the mound, and does a pretty fair job of turning back Jonesboro's sluggers the balance of the game. The Mound boys kept pecking away at Liljedahl and scored eleven runs to take the wide decision.

This win gives the Mound boys the inside track to league championship. Before this contest they were tied with the Eagles for top rating. Pidcoke was up there with them but were tumbled down into third place when Jonesboro defeated them Sunday, May 29th, 5 to 4 in the best game that has been played in the league this year. In the 9th inning of the contest with the Jonesboro team at bat, L. Drake comes to bat with two men out and two men on, and sent a long triple whistling over the centerfielder's head for two runs and the ball game. Harviston kept the Eagles in the game by making three sensational running catches of long Pidcoke flies. After punning about 45 yards to pull down one liner, he toppled in the creek that ran along outside the outfield.

This Mound team has a clean slate this season. In their first battle of the season Cleo Whaley goes to the mound for them and turns in a dandy no-hitter to Moshem nine 17-0. In their next two outings they defeated CCC 14-9 and Coryell City 13-8.

The chief worry of the Mound Club's manager is the shortage of pitching talent. The only two pitchers who have hurled for them this summer are Joe Evans is a fair-to-middling moundman, but he lets the opposing club have too many big innings at his expense. Because of the tremendous power and the flashy fielding backing him up, he has not lost a game this year, but when the Mound Club comes up against a pitcher that can hold them back, they are going to have a hard time coming out on top. Whaley has his good days and his bad days, and is not what you could call a dependable hurler. The Mound team has signed Schoolboy Rutherford, who was a sensation in the high school league, but he has not yet been in action against the old timers. The Mound club is afraid to take a chance with him in a tight spot because of his youthfulness. If Rutherford gets in a contest and comes through in big style, you can write it down in your little black book that Mound will be on top of the league standing August 1.

Pidcoke recovered from their defeat at the hands of the Eagles last week, and comes back in grand style to hand the Pecan Grove Club a 22-8 drubbing to stick in third place. Eric Wiegand goes the route for Pidcoke, just coasting along along after Pidcoke builds up a big lead in the early innings.

Miss Emma Scott has just left for T.S.C.W., Denton, where she will receive her Smith-Hughes degree this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Johnson and daughter, Mary Katherine of Opalin spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Washburn. Mr. Johnson returned home Monday and Mrs. Johnson and daughter remained over for a two weeks visit.
