FORMER INMATE OF LOCAL TRAINING SCHOOL CHARGED, MURDER

Willard Scott, was held, in solitary confinement at Huntsville yesterday charged with stabbing to death Jack Havens, 24, a fellow convict.

Scott already has 101 years to serve ahead of him and was convicted here for the slaying of Will Leonard at the State Training School.

Scott told Capt. J. P. Hamilton he was angry at Havens "and wasn't going to let him boss me around." It is his second slaying.

HIGHLAND ADDITION OPEN FOR PUBLIC: MANY DESIRABLE LOTS

Now, you can move out of the congested district in Gatesville to cool Highland Addition, sponsored by Robert W. Brown.

This new addition to Gatesville across the new bridge, has many desirable lots, and inquiries and sales, are being made daily according to information we have.

Judge Brown has gone to no little expense in developing this addition, and is offering them to the public at "sub" reasonable prices and has the information necessary for securing a FHA loan for the building of your new home.

MAT JONES OUT FOR COUNTY CHAIRMAN DEM. COMMITTEE

To the voters of Coryell county.

Due to the fact that Chairman C. H. McGilvray has decided not to re-enter the race for County Chairman of the Coryell county Democratic Executive Committee, I wish to place myself before the voters of this county as a candidate for this place.

I did not know until Sunday morning that Mr. McGilvray did not want the place, and for that reason my name will not appear on the ticket on July 23.

If, therefore, you wish to vote for me for this place, it will be necessary that you write my name on the ticket just below the blank which says: "For County Chairman".

As all of you know, there is and should be, little if any money in this office or place since it is more or less honorary, and of course, no attempt will be made to see all the voters, although I will see as many of you as possible.

As for experience, for the past term of Chairman C. H. McGilvray, I have acted as Secretary, and am thoroughly familiar with the duties of the chairmanship.

Thanking you, each of you,

LISTEN! RADIO FIGHT REPORT AT NEWS OFFICE WED.

Y interested in the fight? Barring static, the News' Radio will be tuned in for the Louis-Schmeling fight which will be held Wednesday night, broadcast through a Dallas radio station.

The fight comes from the ringside at the Yankee Stadium in New York.

This is the second fight between Louis and Schmeling, the German being the winner in the first bout.

BIG POLITICAL RALLY HIGHLIGHTS WEEK IN OGLESBY

Friday, June 24th, will highlight this week in Oglesby, as there will be staged in that city a big political rally, according to Rep. Earl Hudleston. Oglesby promises plenty of music and plenty of time for the candidates to present their speeches, and what they want is plenty of people to help put over this big day.

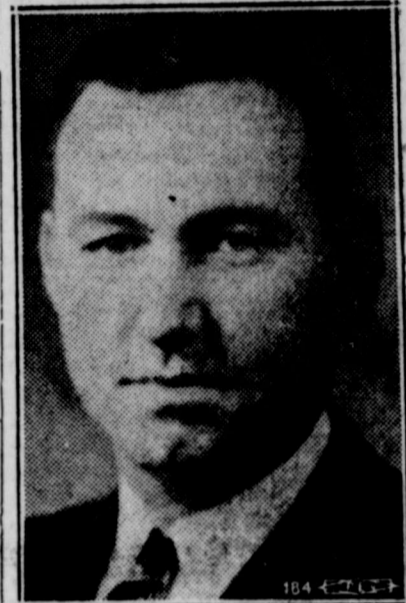

for any and all consideration for this place, I am

Your very truly,

G. A. JERRY SADLER SPEAKS TO LARGE CROWD HERE FRI.

The people of Texas "will refuse to follow the Pied Piper of plunder and privilege into an economic death trap," predicted Jerry Sadler, Longview, a candidate for State Railroad Commissioner, in a series of Central West Texas addresses last week and "The slave-drivers of monopoly can't chain-gang their workers into voting like cattle for puppet politicians," the young candidate asserted.

Mr. Sadler spoke in Gatesville Friday night, to a large audience and predicted that a "whispering campaign launched against me by the agents of monopoly will prove a boomerang," and said the "Scuttle Sadler" movement had backfired.

The 30-year old candidate, Anderson county farm boy who "made good" as an oil field worker and operator then studied law at night, said his campaign "has already caused Saturday shut-down of oil wells to be lifted for July, and if Senator Terrell goes into the runoff with me, he will lift the Sunday shut-down."

Accusing the Railroad Commission of "playing politics with the bread and butter of more than a million Texas people" Sadler urged the voters to repudiate the commission for letting the ghost writers of greed draft its orders, which have resulted in Texas having the highest freight rates in the United States, oil wells being closed two days a week and having the lowest per-well allowances while those of foreign countries and other states spout unrestricted.

"When a State agency created to hold monopoly in check fiddles like Nero while carpet-baggers steal our wealth and our jobs, then it is time for the people of Texas to rise up in their wrath and say with their votes that economic slavery shall not be tolerated," the fiery young candidate said.

Sadler's Cowboy Stringsters band played during the Gatesville rally.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients in the Hospital are: Mrs. T. L. Ross, Paul W. Guggolz, Mrs. O. G. Gilder.

When Gov. Pat Neff Endorsed Bill M'Craw

That broad smile on the face of Atty. Gen. William McCraw in the picture on the left was due to two things: the endorsement given his candidacy for governor by Former Gov. Pat Neff and the giant crowd which greeted him in a rally at Waco Friday night. Gov. Neff broke a long-standing policy to endorse McCraw's candidacy. At McCraw's left is Alva Bryan, past grand master of the Masonic Lodge of Texas, who introduced McCraw. At his right is Frank Wilcox, son-in-law of Gov. Neff.

In the picture at the right, McCraw is shown in a cowboy outfit presented to him by Gatesville admirers Friday morning when he opened the Gatesville rodeo.

News-Merchants Camera Contest Closes 6 P. M. Today

Today it closes!

At 6:00 P. M.!

News-Merchants Candid Camera Contest!

Since March 21 we have, thru the cooperation of dealers who handle photographic supplies, been sponsoring a candid camera contest for those interested and who might become interested in amateur photography.

To date 67 photos of a varied sort have been entered in the contest, and on today the closing date, we are expecting others. Bad weather, rain, then plenty of work in the county, rodeo preparation, graduation and other factors have taken a part of the interest, but the contest has been successful, regardless.

Thru the courtesy of the Fox Company, represented locally by one or more of the sponsors, the first prize is offered: a D-6 Agfa Ansco Cadet box camera. Other prizes named in order we got them:

Second: Mayes Studio & Radio Shop offers developing two rolls of films.

Third: Gatesville Drug Co. one roll of films and the developing.

Fourth: Koen & Foster Drug Store, 2 rolls of films.

Fifth: City Drug Store, two rolls of films.

Sixth: Flentge Drug Store, to rolls of films and developing.

Seventh: Coryell County News one year's subscription.

Judges have already been selected, and although not announced, we will have all pictures ready or their decision

Wednesday morning at which time they may call at this office if convenient and pass their judgement on the good work which has been handed in and entered in the contest.

Mayes Studio and Radio Shop has also offered an additional prize for the best picture, according to the decision of the judges, which has been entered in this contest, if the picture was developed in their shop. This special prize is a nice box camera, a 516 Eastman Brownie Kodak.

The News wishes to thank those who took part in this very interesting contest, and our only wish is that the weather had been more encouraging to more "snappers."

After a hectic week of night session and filibusters the Third Congress finally adjourned, sine die, shortly after nine o'clock last night. Adjournment had been expected for several days but the two Houses had unexpected difficulty in agreeing on a number of important bills. It was not until dark last night that they finally agreed on the details of the Recovery Bill carrying nearly four billion dollars of 'pending lending' funds including $212,000,000 for parity payments to American farmers and $300,000,000 additional loans to Housing Authorities for slum clearance. This bill also provides an additional $100,000,000 for loans to Rural Electrification projects. It carries $1,500,000,000 for WPA work relief and approximately that much for PWA loans and grants. It retains the principle of requiring local contributions but makes available great sums of Federal money to match these local sums. I sincerely hope that it will prove sufficient to carry one relief work thru the winter. On the last day the Senate joined the House in over-riding the President's veto of the bill extending the reduced interest rates on Federal Farm Land Bank Loans. This is the second time Congress has passed this item over the President's veto (the same thing was done in 1937.) and I have voted each time to over-ride the veto and give our farmers the benefit of the lower rate. It is my hope that the time will come when the American farmer can borrow money to buy a home at rates as low as those paid in European countries for such purchases.

I have spent the entire day visiting various departments with which we have business, or on which some of our people want me to call before going home. We expect to try to pack up some of our things tonight and spend tomorrow (or as long as the departments are open) in further departmental visits. We hope to leave for home tomorrow night. We are driving and Mrs. Poage has been suffering with her bad leg more recently, so we will probably not get home something like a week.

I have consulted further with the authorities in an effort to secure funds for the erection of all or some of the Brazos Valley dams, both on the main stream of the Brazos and on the tributaries of the Little River. Mr. John Norris, General manager of the Brazos project has been here and we agreed that in order to get PWA funds we will have to erect one or more power dams with each strictly flood control dam. This is necessary in order to have any income with which to secure the District's part of the cost. The PWA is authorized under the new bill to grant 45 per cent of the cost of a project but the district must put up or secure the payment of the remaining 55 per cent. We have filed an application for over $40,000,000.00 for the erection of 12 dams on the Brazos and its tributaries. I think this work is of vital importance and I am happy to join with our people in advancing it just as fast as we can.

I expect to have an office in Waco and to visit in all parts of the district this summer. I want our people to know that I am always ready to do everything I can to serve them in any way. I can not get jobs for all those who need work, nor can I get the departments of Government to do everything that some would like to have done, but I am glad to help whenever I can. I can not be in the office and out in the district at the same time, but I expect to be in each place part of the time. When I am in my office I know that there will be lots of people in to see me. I want to see and talk to each and every citizen of our district who has business with me this summer, if it is humanly possible. As has been my custom for a number of years, I shall discontinue my regular weekly letter with this issue. During the recess I may occasionally write a letter on some particular item, but I shall not attempt it each week. I hope that my friends have found these weekly reports on the action of Congress interesting. They have no literary merit. They were an attempt to give our people better understanding of what their Congress was doing. To prepare and send these out regularly and promptly each week has required considerably time, but if they have served my people I shall feel well repaid for the trouble.

Wishing each reader of this letter a large measure of success and happiness, I am,
Your Friend

W. R. Poage.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

OF GATESVILLE, TEXAS

— FOR —

District Attorney

I am serving my first elective term as your District Attorney and will appreciate your support for the customary second term.

RECORD IN 1937

- (1) All cases appealed to the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin, Texas have been affirmed.
- (2) 73 convictions through pleas of guilty and not guilty.
- (3) Two acquittals in Coryell County.
- (4) Three acquittals in Comanche County
- (5) No acquittals in Hamilton County

Grand Jury Says Crime on Decrease

My first term of Court convened in Comanche county in April A. D. 1937 and the Grand Jury returned 28 felony indictments. One year later the April term A. D. 1938 the Grand Jury included in their report the following statement: "We have spent five days investigating various offenses and are very glad indeed to report that crime appears to be on the decrease, especially the crime of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The offenses of burglary and theft also are fewer in number than for several past terms of court."

Principles upon which I solicit your support for a second term of office:

- (1) A fair and impartial investigation of all law violations.
- (2) Candid expression to the Grand Jury regarding the sufficiency of evidence to support a conviction. Where as a matter of law the evidence is insufficient the tax payers should not be put to the enormous expense of a trial.
- (3) Fearless prosecution and not persecution of all penal offences.
- (4) Regardless of creed, color, wealth or poverty everyone should be treated impartially when confronting the bar of justice.
- (5) The District Attorney should protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty, regardless of political influence prejudice or personal predilection.

Thanking the citizenship of the 52nd judicial district for your cooperation during my brief period as your District Attorney, I am

Yours Respectfully,
HARRY FLENTGE

The friends of Harry Flentge submit that his record in office entitles him to the customary democratic second term of office.

BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

Schoolboy Rutherford, the leading hurler of the county high school league is to have a fling with the Temple Surgeons, crack Central Texas semi-pro outfit Sunday Rutherford made his initial appearance in the county Sunday baseball league and won his inaugural start, 15-6. Mound turned in their worst defensive game of the season, committing a total of nine miscues. The Schoolboy allowed only four safeties, and every one of these hits were singles. He also showed excellent control, walking only one man.

His victory was the schoolboy's eleventh of the season. He won three practice games for the high school team, and then finished on top in seven of the high school championship contests. He has not been defeated this season.

Byron Gilbreath is going like a house afire in the Sunday league. In his first game with the Mound outfit, Gilbreath made five errors afield and received a horse collar at the plate. That was when the Mound team defeated Jonesboro 11-5. After Gilbreath's miserable showing that day, Buddy Whigham, the Mound manager said he was just biding his time until Jack Thornton came home from TWC and was eligible to compete in the league contests. However, in his next game Gilbreath practically beat Pidcoke single handedly, slamming out three hits and driving in three runs to lead Mound to a 4-3 victory. He also played a sterling game defensively. Then Sunday Gilbreath turned in a sensational game making several phenomenal catches of the other Mound infielder's wild throws. He also connected for two hits.

Thornton will be eligible to play with Mound next Sunday, but it looks as if he will have to go to the outfield, because Gilbreath has the first base job in a sack.

This Thornton will add plenty of power to Mound attack, and his addition to the ranks probably means an undefeated season for the present league leaders

RUTHERFORD WINS FIRST START IN SUNDAY LEAGUE

Schoolboy Rutherford, who won 10 straight games for the local high school in the county high school league, let Moshlem down with four hits, all singles, Sunday and despite sloppy support, won his game 15-6. Moshlem did not even get one earned run, all their tallies coming as a direct result of Mound miscues.

Although Mound had an off day in the field, they showed no bad effects of their sloppy fielding at the bat. They slapped two Moshlem pitchers for 19 hits and 15 runs.

Byron Gilbreath played another grand game at first base, making several great catches of the other Mound infielder's wild throws. One minute he was leaping high in the air to pull down a wild heave, and the next time he would be diving into the dirt to pick up low shots. He also jolted the two Moshlem hurlers for two hits.

Jonesboro stuck right behind Mound in second place by slaughtering a nervous Coryell City outfit 11-1. Jonesboro had a new hurler in the box and he showed up fairly well, but great fielding on the part of his mates pulled him out of many a bad hole.

The CCC camp club pulled out of the cellar with a rousing 8-2 victory over Blackfoot. Foy Wicker, Mound boy, hurled the entire route for the CCC nine, and allowed only 5 hits. Lloyd Ivy was slammed for all of the CCC runs. Wicker beside twirling brilliant ball, slugged out two homers and a single in four jaunts to the plate, while Lee Brown CCC backstop, also combed Ivy for a round tripper.

"I have found that 100 hens is about the right number as a farm flock", says Mrs Greer Creager of Wilbarger county Texas. "I can take care of that number without their interference with other duties, and they pick up a large part of their feed around the place. I usually buy or hatch 300 chicks, sell off the roosters at frying size and sell the cull pullets down to 100 best ones for next winter's layers. They bring me several dollars a week in egg money.

Mrs Otto Obenhaus of the same county agrees with Mrs Creager. Mrs. I. B. Ray of Wilson county says practically the same thing. So does Mrs. Schneider of Hays county, and "Pat" Geisselbrecht, Clifton banker, backs them all up with the statement that a farm flock of chickens or turkeys is the safest security; if they get into large numbers it takes more time and special attention than most farmers and their wives can give them, and are less profitable per hen than in the farm size flocks which make a part of their own living by picking up what would otherwise be wasted.

Everyone of the ladies quoted have the usual household duties of a well rounded farm—house keeping, cooking, butter-making etc. They all buy starter mash and other special mixed feeds as needed since no farm produces all the elements of a first class chick or laying ration. But—and here's where the farm flock shows its great advantage—there is waste grain, green feed insects and plenty of room for healthful conditions for a hundred hens where 200 would be on a deficiency diet.

Mr. and Mrs. George Boehning of Wilson county have one of the most modern homes in the county, and all the electrical gadgets they want. They have reared a family of six, who are now out in the world on their own and making good. A farm flock of chickens, again about ranges all over the place and has been one of the principle features of the Boehning menage all these years when they were paying for 231 acres of land and building and equipping that handsome home.

Eggs go up and eggs go down like cotton and wheat and every thing else. But the farm flock of hens will turn in a profit when the specialized egg factory is losing money. And the eggs they lay will keep almost any farm family out of debt for supplies, whatever the price.

Many Southwestern farm have no chickens at all. Most of them have less than enough to supply the family all the eggs it can eat and chicken on Sunday. If the ladies quoted know their chickens and results show they do, most Southwestern farm families are missing out by not keeping more hens. Maybe 100 is too many for some farms as they now are but not if the farms are planted as they should be.

In the past generation scores of big poultry farms have been started, great expense incurred in equipment the best breeding stock secured, and skillful management employed. Few of them operate long. A good many farm folks get "the chicken bug" and true to the American spirit of doing things in a big way, start with 500 or 1,000 chicks. Usually they also retire shortly for reasons unnecessary to explain.

Meanwhile the farm flock goes on and on, and outside of a few special regions like Petaluma or in the environs of great eastern cities, the farm flock continues to supply the maternal egg of the hungry urbanites of the nation. The answer is that the farm flock is less liable to disease, requires less expense and its care uses time that would otherwise be wasted.

Bridge Party Compliments Dallas Guests Friday

A lovely courtesy last week was Friday afternoon when Mrs. A. L. Chollar entertained at bridge honoring Mrs. Dean Word of Dallas who is a summer guest in this city. Bouquets of shasta daisies and verbenas, which were tastefully arranged about the room, formed an attractive setting for the games. The chosen color scheme of green and white was thoroughly carried out in table appointment and in the serving. A lovely corsage of white carnations marked the honoree's place at the table and tiny corsages of shasta daisies formed the guests' places. High scores for the afternoon were Mesdames Brian Carl and Tom Mears.

And ice course was served to

MANSFIELD

Cushion Balloons
for new fast Cars.

Cord-Lock makes them 31% SAFER

● Mansfield Cushion Balloons are built the Mansfield way—three ways differently from other tires. They have Cord-Lock construction that gives a 31% greater safety factor in the sidewalls—anchored-in piano wire beads, seven times stronger than actually needed—wide, flat, tough Duro-mix treads that wear like iron and grip tight on slippery pavements.

MANSFIELD

EXTRA MILEAGE Tires

Add to this the fact that Mansfield Cushion Balloons are the "low cost" tires of the day—that they give consistently longer mileage on all makes of late model cars. When you ride on Mansfields, you know you have safety, service and savings of a new order. Every Mansfield Tire gives you more mileage than you pay for.

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

"We face a condition which at first seems to involve either an unbalanced budget and an un-sound currency or else failure of the government to assume its duties—the relief of distress and protection against loss of savings built up through many years by numberless small investors. This concerns you my friends, who managed to lay a few dollars for a rainy day.

"This dilemma can be met by saving in one place what we would spend in others; or by acquiring the necessary revenue through taxation. Revenues must cover expenditures by one means or another. Any government, like any family, can for a year, spend more than it earns. But you and I know that a continuation of that habit means the poorhouse."—Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Albany July 30, 1932.

There are laws which plainly stand in need of modification. The Wagner Labor Relations Act, the Holding Company Act, the Tennessee Valley Act, the tax sections of the Social Security Act and the various laws which discourage or restrict production are prominent on the list. A serious effort by Congress to amend any of these measures in the interest of fairness and reason would do as much do as anything that can be done to restore confidence, which is sorely needed.—New York Times Editorial.

"Now the credit of the family depends chiefly on whether that family is living within its income. And that is so of the nation. If the nation is living within its income its credit is good. If, in some crisis, it lives beyond its income for a year or two, it can usually borrow temporarily on reasonable terms. But if like a spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds, is willing to make no sacrifice at all spending, extended its taxing to the limit of the people's power to pay and continue to pile up deficits, it is on the road to bankruptcy."—Franklin D. Roosevelt, at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, October 19, 1932.

From a friend comes this brief statement which we believe worth of reprinting:

You are right in thinking that friendship is not a graft. It is a gift. It is something sweet and fragrant and beautiful that enriches existence. It is bestowed upon us not for our worth, not for any price that we can pay for it, but, because some heart is drawn to us, some soul sees within us something that finds a responsive echo in his own soul. Nothing has ever bettered the definition of friendship given by a little boy who said that a friend was a person who knew all about you and liked you still.

"If you think back—you will remember the doubts and fears expressed about the rising expenses of Government. But to the surprise of the doubters, as we proceeded to carry on the program which included public work and work relief, the country grew richer instead of poorer—

"Such an addition to the net debt of the United States need not give concern to any citizen, for it will return to the people many times over in increased buying power and eventually in much greater Government receipts."—Franklin D. Roosevelt Fireside Chat April 14, 1938

"Popular opinion recently revolted against the Roosevelt democracy when the President announced a new pump-priming program. And popular opinion—after hanging in the balance for several years—is being based on actual facts instead of the campaign speeches by General Jim and the hit air voiced by Roosevelt free riders

"Pump-priming which is quickly being annexed to the American vocabulary, is governmental spending which occurs regularly every four years—approximately six months to the year before national elections. It is the exorbitant spending of the taxpayer's money to win votes from the lazy, indolent and careless people of the Nation. Do not misunderstand—we are not opposed to relief measures which protect unfortunate people gripped in the hands of depression; but we cannot find acceptance of unlimited spending.

"Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly possesses great ability but he and his family have lived in the lap of luxury too long to understand the problems of the man in the street; six years in the White House have gone to his head the Roosevelt of 1938 is not the Roosevelt of 1932."—Athens Weekly Review.

"Recognizing the importance of balance between supply and demand, we believe the welfare of American agriculture requires vigorous stimulation of demand at home and abroad for agricultural products, rather than the curtailment of supply. The prosperity of agriculture depends primarily on expanding industrial activities and upon the enlargement of foreign markets Government can best serve agriculture by the most generous encouragement of private initiative."—United States Chamber of Commerce.

Question: I'm going to put some closets in my house, using an insulated wall board for partitions. My neighbor did this last year and he says he had some trouble painting the wallboard. He says it soaked up the paint like blotting paper. So would you advise me to give up the idea of wallboard or, is there way I can get around this difficulty?—Joseph F. R.

Answer: Most wallboard is inclined to be "paint thirsty", but you can get around this difficulty very nicely by first using a coat of primer sealer, following label direction for reduction, after which apply a regular wall paint such as Flat Wall paint, Interior Semi-Gloss or interior Gloss.

Any questions you want answered about painting, send in to Painter Pete in care of this paper. They will appear in an early issue. Watch for them.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
Because of Major George Daviot's infatuation for the wife of his subordinate, Captain Bradford, his own wife leaves him. He joins several friends at a week-end shoot on the estate of Sir Bernard Roper. A poker game is held and Grant, Roper's friend, loses heavily. Roper accuses Daviot of cheating. Friends attempt to calm the row, and just as Grant is about to retract the charge, Bradford seconds the accusation. Josie Bradford pleads with Daviot not to bring suit and he breaks with her. Only at the urging of several prominent friends does he drop the action. But the story has spread. Daviot takes a leave of absence from the regiment, then discovers that his former friends at the club are cutting him. He storms out, followed by his orderly, Tandy.

Chapter Four

In the Bayswater section of London, Daviot took refuge in a shabby hotel. Only Tandy, who had seen him alight from the cab, knew his

"Don't ever come here again. Any of you!"

whereabouts. So when the storm broke his friends had to go to Tandy to find Daviot. It started when the "Society Chat", a scurrilous blackmail journal, printed the first sly hint of the story. In two days all of London, intrigued by the hint of M. P.'s, peers and army involved in a scandal, was busily discussing it. Months had passed since the original incident. Cinderford, Cowbit and Pontrefact, suddenly seized with remorse, met to discuss the problem. They sought out Tandy. And that worthy, speaking with the passion of justice outraged, abused them thoroughly before he told them Daviot's address. They were admitted by the landlady's daughter, a little girl, prematurely wise, of whom Daviot had grown fond in his isolation. And as she led them through the musty halls, they sniffed in disdain. She thrust her head in George's door and cried "Three gents." And Daviot, springing to his feet, cried "I don't want anybody in here... anybody!" He didn't trouble to curb the piled up bitterness of his loneliness. He cut short their efforts at geniality. "Now listen to me," he spoke. "Last time we met you persuaded me to lie down under a rotten insult. I haven't seen you since and I don't want to see you again." Cinderford took the initiative. "That's the reason we've come to see you, to tell you how terribly we regret —" "Regret?" spoke George. "And to tell you we'll stand by you if you take action against Bradford and Grant." "Thank you!" His voice was harsh with scorn. "You're willing to stand by me because the story's got around and you're afraid of your skins. A year ago you told me to keep quiet for my own sake. Now I suppose you're going to ask me to sue for my own sake. You can't be right both ways." "But, George, you must listen to reason," Pontrefact pleaded. "I won't listen to reason," he raged. "I've found a place where I can live in peace, and I want to be left alone in it." He herded them to the door while he spoke. "Alone, do you understand? I've been hounded out of every place else. Don't ever come here again. Any of you. Ever!" The slammed door punctuated the sentence.

Cinderford caught up with Anne on the Riviera. Her eyes lit up at the sight of a face from home, but he could sense her misery. "Don't ask me to go back to George. Don't waste your breath!" she told him. Cinderford convinced her that George was through with Josie.

"But he is happier without me," she countered. "He is about as unhappy as a man can be," Cinderford spoke slowly. Then he launched into an account of that evening at Plumpton Meade and of the unhappy consequences. When he had finished Anne called her maid. "Pack, Mary, we're leaving." "Where to Ma'am?" "England!" spoke Anne, and Mary's and Cinderford's apprehensive expressions were swiftly transformed into glowing smiles.

George, in his loneliness, had now taken to drink. The little girl Pelly, who had become accustomed to prattling about her hopes and ambitions, now slunk in silently and left his letters, re-addressed by Tandy. He saw a familiar seal, eyed the letter speculatively, then opened it. His eyes smoldered with anger as he read the last sentence: "We therefore regretfully urge that you submit your resignation from this club." He jumped to his feet and dressed to go out. A new idea was working in his head.

At headquarters, the Colonel received him in an embarrassed fashion. "Those disgraceful stories... Bradford... You had no business gambling for such stakes." "Do you believe them?" George insisted. When the Colonel answered "No", Daviot disclosed the reason for his visit. He wanted a transfer to the Indian service.

"Sorry, George," the Colonel replied. "If you go to India it will be as much as admitting your guilt. You've got to bring a case against them."

"A year later?" George was incredulous. "What will the jury say?" "That's your risk, George. You're not the only one involved. It's the good name of the Regiment. I've got to have that cleared or ask for your resignation."

"It's the only way out," he added hastily.

George spoke coldly and bitterly. "Oh no it isn't."

He strode out of the Colonel's office, hurried back to his room. Once there, he began to arrange his effects with the methodical precision of a man bent on self-destruction. He sorted his papers, destroyed some, left others in a neatly bound pile on the top of his desk. He polished up his two war medals and placed them on the desk. He brought out his service revolver, placed fresh shells in the magazine and clicked it into place. For an instant he stared at the ugly instrument with fascination.

Then he got up and walked across the room to confront Anne's portrait. For minutes that seemed like hours, he stared at it, then whirled in an agony of unhappiness, strode across the room, lifted the gun and resolutely placed the muzzle at his temple.

RESIDENCE LOTS

IN

HIGHLAND ADDITION

To Gatesville

Price of Lots:

$200.00 to $600.00

Terms if desired

Highland Addition will meet the need of a new residential section to Gatesville. The natural barriers have prevented Gatesville from building any further to the North or South; it has built a mile and a half to the East passing the cemetery, compress, oil mill, railroad, milk plant and other industries.

The opening of the new highway will give Gatesville a new opportunity for expansion to the West and make possible desirable, residence lots at a reasonable price.

The Federal Housing Administration has figured that the cost of a lot should be 10 per cent of the value of the completed property and the improvements should constitute 90 per cent. This proportionment of value has been impossible in Gatesville and in recent years some of our people have paid almost as much for a lot as they have paid for the improvements they placed on it.

Highland Addition offers a limited number of lots at a reasonable price, conveniently located to the business section of Gatesville and having distinctive advantages of beauty and desirability and restrictive protection not found elsewhere in Gatesville.

Let me show you the lots in Highland Addition and explain to you how a Federal Loan can be obtained.
