CONDUIT INSTALLED IN NEW LEON RIVER BRIDGE

Conduit is being installed in the new Leon river bridge according to County Judge Floyd Zeigler, who, with members of the City Council and Chamber of Commerce petitioned District Highway Engineer D. M. Puckett to authorize this work to be done.

This work includes only the conduit in the bridge, and the uprights, lights and "juice" must be furnished by other means. However, these interests are to be congratulated on this achievement since this is directly in line with the "white way" dream which has for the past few years been sponsored by a committee composed of Chamber of Commerce members.

INSURANCE CONTRACTS ON WHEAT SHOULD BE MADE BY 1ST

Coryell county farmers who sell over 100 bushels of wheat this year and who wish to sign for the 1939 wheat insurance program should bring the records of their crops from 1928 to 1937, inclusive to the County agent.

Only 200 farmers come under this classification, but these contracts must be in by the 1st.

ASPHALT WILL BE ON IN FEW DAYS, SAYS HWY. EMPLOYEE

Asphalting will be completed on new Highway 7 in two or three days, we were told yesterday by an employee of Case Bros. who is the "heater" at the depot.

Possibly two or three other days will be taken in putting up bannisters and other highway aids, and letting the asphalt "set", before turning the highway out. Cementing on the McGregor-Waco end is nearly to South Bosque, and this stretch will not be open for sometime, as the concrete "sets" for 28 days before being used. However, it is expected, the portion, Gatesville to Oglesby, and perhaps McGregor will be ready for the 4th.

Asphalt is shipped in here from Talca, hot, and then additional heat is applied at the depot by a circulating line from 500 gallons of preheated asphalt which is pumped thru the tank car. If we remember, the asphalt is 325 degrees when it is applied, anyway, if we're wrong, it's very hot.

G. A. DAVISSON JR. IN GATESVILLE MONDAY

G. A. Davison Jr. was in Gatesville Monday in the interest of his candidacy for Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. Davison was shown over the town by local friends and was a visitor in the News office for a few moments.

Davison was a former member of the House of Representatives, and is making a strong bid for the lieutenant governorship.

LOUIS-SCHEMELING FIGHT FILMS AT PALACE THURS. AND FRI.

Pictures of Joe Louis' quick knockout of Max Schmeling will be shown at the Palace Thursday and Friday in addition to the regular attraction. Fight fans of this city will be able to obtain a much better view of the fight than many pugilistic fanatics who paid twenty or thirty dollars to get close to the ring seats.

In order to lengthen the picture, the high spots of the first Louis-Schmeling tangle, in which Schmeling knocked out the Brown Bomber, will be shown in addition to the films of this fight.

POAGE MAKES FIRST PUBLIC ADDRESS AT OGLESBY

Congressman W. R. Poage who just recently arrived in Texas from Washington, passed thru Gatesville Friday enroute from Eastland to Waco, and attended a political rally at Oglesby Friday night.

Mr. Poage also had an appointment in East Waco the same night, and after a brief address, left the rally for Waco. He had been to Eastland to take his wife to visit relatives.

About 20 county, district and precinct candidates spoke to a large assembly under a well lighted tabernacle. Music was furnished by the State Juvenile Training School Band. Refreshments were sold by ladies of one of the Oglesby churches.

Congressman Poage intimated that he would again visit Coryell County and a speaking date for Gatesville would probably be arranged.

Misses Beatrice Farmer and Opal Dixon of Fort Worth spent the weekend here.

CLOSING THE 4TH? SOME "YES", AND "NO"

Are the stores closing the 4th? That's the question heard on every side of the square.

Now, just to practice voting, if you care, let's vote on the question! If you want to go either way, mark out one of the lines in quotations, and sign on the dotted line.

"We will Close!"
"We will not Close!"

Signed
The Boss

The Chamber of Commerce Directors are scheduled to meet this morning at 8 a. m. You might tell them, be cause they're going to bring the matter up.

SEVENTEEN SCHOOLS ARE STANDARDIZED, SAYS STATE BOARD

In a letter from Assistant State Superintendent Ellen Edgar Wilson's office, information has been received that seventeen Coryell county schools have been given standardization by the State Department. Only 5 received this approval last year.

The 17 schools so graded are: Enterprize, Mound, The Grove, Harmon, Mountain, Arnett, White Hall, Antelope, Slater, Purlmela, Belcher, Murrell, Harmony, Levita, Ewing, Plainview and Coryell City.

The five schools on the list last year were: White Hall, Antelope, Purlmela, Belcher, Ewing and Plainview.

This "standardization" is the same as affiliation in the number of grades taught by the respective schools and shows the continued progress of the schools of our county.

CITY DRUG STORE OWNER CELEBRATES 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Twenty-five years in any business is something!

Twenty-five years in the drug business means just about 50 years in any other business, due to the long hours and service that must be rendered to customers.

J. O. (Jim) Brown celebrates his first 25 years in business, July 2, Saturday of this week, with open house.

Mr. Brown started as pharmacist for the State Training School, but came to Gatesville 25 years ago and formed a partnership with the late L. B. Gordon, their first business being on the east side of the square. Later they moved to their present location, and thru hard work and perseverance, built the business up to the success it is today.

Last fall, shortly after the death of Mr. Gordon, Mr. Brown acquired sole ownership of the City Drug Store, and is now operating the entire business.

On Saturday of this week, at "open house" from 2 to 6 p. m., Mr. Brown is inviting his friends to visit his store and there will be refreshments and the party bringing the oldest prescription will be given a prize.

Besides his own business interests, Mr. Brown is a director in the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., and has served as alderman for a number of years.

C. V. TERRELL SPEAKS ON COURT HOUSE STEPS SATURDAY

C. V. Terrell, present Railroad Commissioner spoke to a large crowd of Coryell County citizens from the court house steps Saturday, after being introduced by "Jap" Arnold, a member of the Commissioner's office personnel, and son of Judge J. H. Arnold, who was for years District Judge of the 52 Judicial District.

Mr. Terrell outlined the work that had been done by the commission, stating the duties thrust upon this office made it even more important than that of Governor of the State of Texas.

The commission handles trucking, railroad, gas, oil and many other matters that effect the pocket book of every citizen in the state regardless whether or not they are farming, ranching, in business, or in other profession or occupation.

Commissioner Terrell is seeking re-election for this office.

The bride who was escorted down the aisle by her father, was attired in a becoming frock of rosewood lace with navy trim; her accessories were of white. She wore a shoulder corsage of talisman roses. GRASSHOPPERS NOT SO BAD IN CORYELL, SAYS POWELL

So far, according to County Agent Guy Powell, grasshopper infestation is not nearly so serious in this as in other counties of the state.

Committeemen from every part of the county have reported, and in only three cases, have grasshoppers been noted in any alarming numbers.

Mr. Powell stated that if they prove harmful in dangerous numbers, steps would be taken to stop their work immediately.

BEAUTIFICATION OF NEW POST OFFICE LAWN STARTED

Bids from three nurseries have been received by Postmaster J. Hurl McClellan and forwarded to the Procurement Department of the Post Office Department at Washington, from which point awards will be made.

Mostly Bros. of Kerrville, made the low bid, an other bidders were Ramsey's Austin Nursery, Derrick Floral and Nursery of Waco.

Awards will be made within 45 days. It is understood.

RECENT RAINS TOTAL 2.97 INCHES

Since June 16, rain registered on the local registering mechanism amounted to 2.97 inches.

Distribution of this is as follows: Thursday, 1.6, 2.83; Friday, 17, .02; Saturday, 18, .09; and Tuesday, 21, .03.

Of course, this reading is in Gatesville and the local "water bucket" missed most of the drenching received in scattered parts of the county.

LET'S HOLD OUR CUP

We're going to be on the paying end, why not hold our cup on the receiving end!

The late Congress has just voted the enormous "pump-priming bill" designated to stimulate all kinds of activity, put people to work, and all that sort of stuff.

As far as is known in Gatesville, Coryell county is going to have as bare cubbard as Mother Hubbard.

Of course,, in this pump priming business, the local pump must be given a few "cans" of water, in other words match the federal funds, but a 50-50 deal like that, especially when we'll be required to pay our pro rata part, is practically a "steal".

And, too, one person, by just asking, can't get these benefits. It takes civic organizations, city councils, and energetic citizens to get this kind of job done.

Already, there are state projects under this PWA business calling for an expenditure of $4,454,763, and including items such as courthouses, waterworks, gyms, school additions, swimming pools, teacherages, flood control, jails, dormitories, street improvements, stadiums and what not.

In our case, with curb and gutter already on many streets (for Gatesville) a street improvement project would be in line; West Main could be paved, and other streets reconditioned. There are other, probably, more worthy projects that could be represented.

But, the main thing,—Let's hold OUR cup!

McCRAW APPROVES BOND ISSUE FOR J'BORO GYMNASIUM

AUSTIN, June 23—Attorney General William McCraw today approved a $7,000 school bond issue for the Jonesboro County Line Rural High School District of Coryell and Hamilton counties for the construction of and equipping a public free school building of stone and concrete material.

The issue, consisting of bonds of $200 and $500 each, all bearing 4 per cent interest, was ordered by the Board of Trustees of the district May 2, 1938, and amended by the Board June 2, 1938. The series is dated April 1, 1938 and matures in groups of $200 to $500 April 1, 1939 to 1958 inclusive.

McCraw said his approval of the issue was based on the fact that the district has $282,875 in taxable valuations on which a 22 cent per $1.00 tax has been levied to retire the issue.

Reports from the County supt. office are that Gus Davis of Ireland has the contract for the construction of the gym, the foundation of which has already been layed earlier in the year by the citizens of that community.

SUBSIDY PAYMENTS ARE DUE IMMEDIATELY SAYS POWELL

County agent Guy Powell stated yesterday that 3c subsidy payments on cotton are to be made at once and that no sales certificates will be required after September 10.

Cotton sold prior to September 10, however, must have a certificate filed in the County Agent's office. Payments will be made to the farm as of 1937.

Estimates are that approximately $250,000 in subsidy payments will be paid out in Coryell county beginning September 1.

BY BRACK CURRY

The enigma in the current gubernatorial race is W. Lee O'Daniel Fort Worth flour merchant and former president of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

O'Daniel launched his business man's campaign for governor at Waco before an audience more than twice as big as Thompson's opening there or McCraw's campaign speech there.

O'Daniel had seven to nine thousand people standing thru-out a long program tightly jammed in the courthouse square and back on the streets for a block, with hundreds in and on top of nearby buildings.

Accompanied by his Hillbilly Boys his radio ambassadors in the flour business, O'Daniel outlined his platform based on the Ten Commandments. Listed his motto as the Golden Rule, and his slogan as "Less Johnson grass and politicians; more smoke stacks and business men".

O'Daniel has never participated in a political campaign, having been in the flour business all of his life. Opponents of O'Daniel are therefore having a hard time combating his candidacy because he has no political record to assail. He has done nothing for his critics to pick to pieces.

He is campaigning without the aid of a campaign manager and has set up headquarters in his house at Fort Worth, thus eliminating the political atmosphere and much needless expense customarily attaching itself to a state wide campaign.

The common citizens candidate has made an enviable record by use of radio in his business. He was the first commercial broadcaster of Texas and has appeared daily on the radio with his Hillbilly Boys.

At Waco he asked his audience, "How many of you ever heard me on the radio?" Ninety per cent of all the right hands went up.

At each gubernatorial election he has received numerous requests from his listeners to become a candidate for governor. This year when he began receiving these requests he asked for an expression from his listeners and 58,499 letters poured in within a week urging him to make the race.

He will tour the state between now and election in a large advertising bus he has used several years in his business accompanied by his Hillbilly Boys, visiting as many Texas towns and cities as possible.

In his opening address at Waco, O'Daniel said he knew nothing about politics, that he was not a spellbinder who made "you think the cotton shirt on your back is silk".

"It is not my intention to run down anyone," he said, "but there's a screw loose somewhere in the political arena. For years the politicians have been in charge with candidates put up by moneyed interests. I'm told it takes nearly $125,000 to run for governor.

"This year the interests picked two candidates so if they failed with one they might land the other. I call them white horses. They call me the dark horse. There are eleven blind horses in the race.

"Most people think my support is just from the forks of the creeks," O'Daniel said "but I want you to know a whole lot of business men who agree with me there are some screws loose at Austin are going with me. They think I or some business man, can find those loose screws. He charged that "the professional politicians" are running both McCraw and Thompson "so they will be sure where they are sitting".

"Did any of you have any thing to do with selecting any of the other candidates?" he demanded. "No; the professional politicians attended to that, just like they have been doing for a long time."

When he said the politicians offered to take him on, O'Daniel wisecracked "I was afraid I would get the third carbon copy of that platform."

"The only way I know how to make a speech is to talk the plain language of the people and I guess they can understand that. I am presumptuous to say I'll get any certain number of votes the people of Texas have intelligence enough to decide that."

O'Daniel touched briefly on his view of issues. One of the loose screws, he said is "they charge $1.75 poll tax in order to cut the number of votes in half, and make it easier for the professional politicians to pick the officials. Another he said, is too high transportation rates, and regulations to prevent trucking Texas products at lower rates, and finding a fellow if he tries to help the farmers get a market.

On old-age pensions the people voted for Texas to give everybody over 65, $15 a month, and it is a debt he would pay. O'Daniel said. He would get rid of the army of "gumshoers" of the pension administration; and if the plan to turn administration over to counties got into politics, "why, I'd just pay everybody over 65 the pensions; I'd pension the five millionaires to keep the 95 widows from starving—it would be cheaper," he exclaimed.

BASEBALL CHATTER By Post

There are no outstanding games on the Sunday league card for next Sunday. In fact there are no games that will prove great drawing cards until the two closing Sundays, but then there will be some dillies. On July 24 Mound and Jonesboro will tangle up at Mound That is a game for the fans of this section to look forward to. Mound soundly whipped the Eagles the last time they tangled 11-5. However, Liljedahl the only capable twirler Jonesboro had at that time, is Mound's 'cousin'. However, since that time Jonesboro has acquired Hazen Ward who may be able to hold back the big banging Mound slugging artists.

Then on the final day of the season, July 31, the boys from Pidcoke will play Mound in a contest that may have definite bearing on the final league standing and then again it may not.

Jiggs Drake, Eagle shortstop, furnished one of the highlights of the season, by his hitting streak that started in the first Pidcoke-Jonesboro game and continued thru the Eagles' game with CCC Drake got 15 straight safeties to establish a league record. He got five for five against Pidcoke, and won that game with a triple in the last half of the ninth then hit for another five in the Blackfoot game and then slugged two CCC pitchers for another five. Joe Evans broke his streak during the Jonesboro-Mound fracas. At the present, Drake is hitting a cool .600.

It was a great comeback splurge that Jonesboro made Sunday against the Eagles. Pidcoke scored eight runs in the first three innings, five of these tallies coming in the opening stanza. Bowman, youthful Pidcoke third sacker, hit a long home run in the second with one man on. The ball traveled over 33 feet in the air. Jonesboro had only four runs going into the sixth inning, but in that frame they slugged Newton for seven runs to take a lead that they never relinquished. Roy replaced Newton and held the Eagles in check thruout the remainder of the contest.

Miss Eloise Thomas of Waco is spending the week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed McLarty.

Julia Ann Melburn is visiting with Mrs. Frank Saunders in Dallas.

Wayne Jayroe now with Martin Stationary Company of Dallas is visiting relatives and friends.

Lytell Powell of Denton was a week-end visitor in the Will Powell home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Davidson and daughter, Lavetta Nell, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Chesnut and Miss Sue Jones of Houston visited Buckhannan Dam, Marble Falls and Longhorn Cavern Sunday.

Aurelius Poston, of Rosebud visited in the city Sunday.

Cecil Faris of Houston was here during the week end visiting his parent Mr. and Mrs. M. Faris. Cecil has been with the San Jacinto Trust Company, a Houston banking firm for a number of years.

Mrs. Ed. McLarty has just returned from Waco where she visited in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Otha Thomas. While there Mrs. McLarty underwent an operation; although still confined to her bed she is improved.

Air travel to the west will increase 100 per cent during the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, aviation company officials predict.

Eagles Chase P. Newton; Shade Pidcoke 11 to 10

Those fighting Eagles from Jonesboro overcame a five-run lead gathered by the hard-hitting Pidcoke team in the sixth inning and went on to defeat their ancient rival 11-10, and retained their grasp on the runner-up position in the county Sunday League standings. Paul Newton opened for Pidcoke nine and pitched good ball during the first five frames, but tired fast in the sixth an seventh stanzas to allow Jonesboro to take over the lead. It looked for a while in the ninth as if Pidcoke was going to come back but the last inning one-run rally was choked short with two men on base and the Eagles took the crucial contest before 350 diamond fans to largest crowd to witness a game this season.

Carl Liljedahl went the route for the Eagles and although touched freely his mates gave him enough support at the plate to let him come thru on top.

The Mound boys won their eighth straight by slaughtering a hapless CCC nine, 27-7 here in Gatesville. Cleo Whaley hurled for the league-leaders and pitched good ball, but not once did he have to bear down.

We have not received a report on the Coryell City-Blackfoot but will give you the result of that game in Friday's issue.

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, TUESDAY JUNE 28, 1938

NUMBER 53

stumpin' the state

BY BRACK CURRY

The State Democratic Committee certified to the counties 54 candidates for State office, of whom 13 are gubernatorial candidates, at its meeting at Austin. The number of candidates for governor is the greatest since the primary election system was adopted for naming the Democratic nominees. In 1930 there were 11 candidates for governor. Recent election records have shown how high this year's figures have gone. Compared with 54 State candidates and with 13 for governor this time, there were 34 and four for governor in 1928; 50 and 11, respectively, in 1930; 71 and 9 in 1932, but the total included 38 candidates for congressmen at large; 43 with seven for governor in 1934 and 35 and five in 1936.

Vann M. Kennedy, committee secretary, reported 57 had originally applied for ballot listing and paid the required fee of $100 and all the applications except one appeared to be in order. The exception he said was that of V. O. Thompson of Dallas.

The committee permitted Will M. Marlin, Hillsboro, to withdraw as a candidate for railroad commissioner and Norris S. Smith of Cleburne for commissioner of agriculture. Leonard Westfall of Rule withdrew a previous withdrawal from the race for commissioner of agriculture and his name goes on the ticket.

Following is a list of the candidates as submitted to the committee by Kennedy. This is the order of names as they will be certified to county election officials over the state and is there for of some importance as the probable order in which they will appear on the ballot if local committees fail to make the statutory drawing for place.

On the official certification, however will appear a note to local charmen advising them that the law says they shall conduct drawings for place. The order in which they are to be certified is the order in which they filed their fee of $100.

Candidates for state offices have learned that there is a decided advantage in having their names appear either first or last on the primary ballot, particularly where there are three or more in the race. The large percentage of voters who have no choice in the candidates generally will start scratching a ticket at the top or bottom, and leave as their choice the name at the head or the foot of the list.

The State committee has no power to designate how the names of candidates shall appear. Article 3117, revised statutes, fixes the method. Under that provision the county committees meet at their county seat, this year on June 20, and decide by lot how the names shall appear. The law prescribes that this method shall be used by all political parties for all candidates. It will apply only to the Democrats this year, as the Republicans did not cast enough votes two years ago to hold a primary election this year. The Republicans, there, will make their choices by the convention plan.

As now ready for preparation, the ballot will contain 13 entries for governor, seven for railroad commissioner, six for lieutenant governor, five for attorney general, four for land commissioner, three for commissioner of agriculture, three each for state comptroller, state treasurer, state school superintendent, judge of the court of criminal appeals (unexpired term) and associate justice of the supreme court, with Judge Hawkins opposed for re-election to the court of criminal appeals.

Crushed Peaches

Skin ripe peaches and prepare as above for canning. Pass the halves thru food grinder (better to have 1/2 inch holes). Pack at once into cans and to each gallon of fruit add sirup made by 1-1 1/2 cups sugar and 2 cups water boiled together 5 minutes. Exhaust as above 10 minutes. Seal at once and process in water bath 15 minutes for pints and No. 2 cans and 20 minutes for quart and No. 3 cans.

The fruit can be heated in the sirup to 165 degrees F. and packed while hot into cans and sealed.

Thomas Jefferson and John Adams both died on the same day, July 4, and during their last 14 years exchanged more than 200 letters.

ed at once and processed in the water bath as food canning peaches.

This is an excellent way to utilize peaches that have a good flavor but are undesirable from size spots or too ripe to keep their shape well. Crushed peaches are suitable for serving at any meal.

Peach Canning

It's peach canning time again. The peach crop reported for 1938 in Texas is about one million bushels, compared with one and one third million bushels in 1937 according to J. F. Rosborough, Extension Horticulturist. The crop is localized in North east Texas; varieties there are J. H. Hale and Elberta, two yellow meated freestone peaches. The Central and West Texas areas will have the yellow Elberta freestone and the Frank and Hart two yellow cling peaches. A standard bushel of peaches weighs about 48 pounds and should yield about 30 no. 2 cans or pint jars, or 20 no. 3 cans or quart jars. This bushel of peaches, if a light sirup is used will need about 3 pounds of sugar. For a light sirup use 3 cups of water to 1 cup sugar.

Peaches ripened in the sun on the tree are much superior in flavor to those from the same tree plucked hard to ripen in storage. Peaches of fine quality should have a fresh appearance and be free from blemishes. Bruised spots cause a good deal of waste. Peaches should be canned as soon as possible after gathering for they deteriorate rapidly. They keep best of placed in 1/2 to 1 bushel baskets which have been lined with sacks or paper. If necessary to store for a few days the best storage temperature is 40 degrees F., as this retards the ripening process.

Fruit has an important place in the diet, and the peach with its pleasing flavor is especially desirable. When eaten raw it is a good source of vitamin C and a fair source of vitamin B. The yellow fleshed peaches are an excellent source of vitamin A.

Preparation for Canning

Immerse the peaches in boiling water until the skins will slip easily. Plunge into cold water. Remove skins, cut peaches in halves, discard pits. To prevent darkening and loss of vitamin C dip the halves immediately into a weak 2 per cent brine solution. (1 2-3 tablespoons salt to each quart of water) for five minutes; rinse in clear cold water to remove salt flavor.

To Can Peaches

Make a light sirup by boiling for five minutes 3 measures water to one measure sugar. Peaches may be packed raw, but a better pack is obtained if the peaches are first simmered in the sirup 4 to 8 minutes, depending on the texture of the peaches. Use a kettle large enough to prevent stacking of the halves. Do not cook until too soft to handle. Pack at once placing the

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

Europe will have no major war this year.

This is the prediction of American diplomatic experts who base their prognostication not upon diplomatic and political factors but upon the weather.

Europe is gripped by a drought "worse than any in 100 years" stated Howard D. Salins of Chicago, managing director of the Flax and Fiber Institute of America, upon his return from a two months agricultural survey abroad. Because of the drought, which has cut food supplies, and particularly grain, to a dangerously low level in Europe, the Continental states will launch no war this year.

Salins assailed the new deal agriculture policy "that scarcity makes prosperity. If America had farm products to send abroad he said "our farmers would be on a high plane of prosperity. We are losing business by the hundreds of millions of dollars." The Omaha World-Herald tells this story about the new deal's food policies.

"Nearly $5,000 worth of surplus commodity (federal government) potatoes intended for Douglas county's indigent poor were being dumped to the hogs today. But the hogs would not eat them. They rotted in storage here, and the odor was too much even for the porkers."

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr, chairman of General Motors, writing in "Think", shares with Mr Salins concern for our present export policies in these words:

"Many think because of the fact that our foreign business is a relatively small proportion of our total business, it might well be ignored. This is erroneous for the reason that even granting that it is relatively small, it nevertheless makes an important difference in the degree of prosperity. Our world trade is vital! This is particularly true as to certain important individual groups of producers, particularly producers from the land."

Vice President Garner has pointed out to friends the availability of Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri as a possible 1940 Democratic presidential nominee. This is another evidence of how "Cactus Jack" looks upon a continuation of the new deal after the next presidential election, for Senator Clark was one of the leaders in the fight against the Supreme Court reorganization bill and is fighting a 100 per cent new deal candidate for renomination this summer.

This column recently printed comment upon the "purge" being conducted by the president and his advisors against members of the senate who refused to vote for new deal measures 100 per cent. The Dallas Journal contributes some excellent thoughts along this line in these words:

"Who is the Democratic party? When Franklin D. Roosevelt shaves himself—waiving the detail that his valet probably does that for him now—does he look the Democratic part in the eye? The question is suggested by the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is endeavoring to purge the part of a number of senators whose only sin is that they have in certain matters opposed the will of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It is not charged that they violate or have violated their solemn pledges to their respective constituencies. It is not claimed that they have been untrue to the party platform of 1932 or that of 1936. Yet their Democratic standing is assailed because they disagreed, not with the party, but with the President, who himself appointed two Republicans to his own Cabinet, Ickes and Wallace, if you happen to have forgotten their names.

"The President himself violates his own platform as presented by him to the party in national convention assembled and by the party there formally adopted—he violates it and no question of treason to the party arises. But just let some Democrat Senator refuse to do the bidding of the President on a matter which lies peculiarly within the discretion of the senate, and immediately all the new dealers let out a screech that can be heard from Allegash, Maine to Chula Vista, Calif.

"It makes no difference if those senators have behind them the record of the Democratic party for fifty years, with chapter and verse to prove it; the idea is that the No. 1 Man breathes into the microphone and all is presto-change and everybody who calls himself a Democrat must jump.

"If Franklin D. Roosevelt is the Democratic party now, who is going to be the Democratic party after he quits Hitler and Mussolini must have much the same problem in their various versions of leadership by purgation and proclamation. No wonder Washington is talking of John Garner for 1940.

Note: The Journal is an independent Democratic newspaper published in one of the strongest Democratic states in the Union.

Action For Slander
 ANN TODD • MARGARETTA SCOTT
 A VICTOR SAVILLE Production
 Directed by TIM WHELAN
 From The Novel by Mary Gordon

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
 Because he refuses to give up his infatuation for the wife of a subordinate officer, Major George Daviot's wife, Anne, leaves him. At a country party he is accused of cheating at poker by one of the players who finds an ally in Captain Bradford, husband of Daviot's sweetheart, Josie. Daviot is determined to sue for slander and Josie's attempts to discourage him lead to a break. Other friends dissuade him. His silence in the face of a wave of whispers is construed as guilt, he loses club membership, faces possible loss of rank in the army. Friends intercede for him, but, enraged, he drives them away. One of them, Cinderford, goes in search of Anne. She arrives in time to balk his suicide, persuades him to bring action for slander although a year has passed. He makes one condition. That if the suit fails he will take his own way out — suicide. The trial begins.

Chapter Six

Daviot in the box impressed all with the gravity and dignity of his person, but very few with the power that the evidence was overwhelmingly against him. Anne lunched silently with Daviot. More than his helplessness, she was hurt by her inability to help him. And because she was hurt she knew she was in love with him again. Cinderford, the M.P. Cowbit, Lord Pontrefact made an imposing array in the box. But their evidences did nothing to disprove the statements of Bradford and Grant. They simply laid further stress on Daviot's honorable character. Even the Colonel testified on George's behalf. But he could not disclose the actual reason for the enmity between Bradford and Daviot. It was while Sir Eustace was preparing to call Bradford and Grant that Anne suddenly sent Tandy on a secret mission. Bradford blandly asserted his loyalty to Daviot, denied the existence of any grudge. To Sir Quentin, Bradford asserted that Daviot was a habitual cheat, that he knew it, but had concealed his information because of his tender regard for the Regiment's honour. That Sir Quentin felt the case desperately hopeless was evident from the way in which he mopped his forehead. Tandy had returned with a package. Anne hurried to Sir Quentin, pressed the package in his hand and whispered hurriedly,

Because she was hurt she knew she loved him again.

of his testimony. He had resolutely ruled out all mention of Josie, so Sir Quentin was reduced to proving that Bradford's allegations were all part of a plot for revenge. And why revenge? Daviot weakly submitted that it was because he had upbraided him for mistreating a horse. In the last analysis, Daviot's defense was that he was a gentleman, and a gentleman can do no wrong. But the jury, made up of commoners, was not readily taken in. They had had a sniff of the corrupt pastimes of their betters, and they didn't like them. "Imagine playing for five hundred pounds," exclaimed one. "He must be guilty!" Sir Eustace, attorney for the defense, shrewdly whip-sawed Daviot in the cross-examination. He held him down to particulars, and the particulars spoke badly. Step by step, he built up his case. Step by step, he proved that Daviot's position called for expenses far in excess of his salary; that he did not customarily live within his pay; that he was financially embarrassed. "Why do you play cards?" he asked. "For amusement," was Daviot's answer. "And to win? And when you win you win a lot of money?" "Sometimes." "I suggest you play cards to supplement your earnings." "No," said Daviot firmly. "I suggest without your card winnings you couldn't live." To Daviot's insistence that Grant was drunk, Sir Eustace slyly implied that no gentleman would take money from a drunkard. He brought out the fact that Cowbit, Cinderford, Pontrefact, Daviot's closest friends, had dropped him. He ridiculed the story of the horse as the reason for Bradford's accusation. But when he said "Major Daviot, have you no other explanation of Captain Bradford's hostility to you?" he overplayed his hand. Daviot's face went white and his hands clenched and unclenched before he uttered a low "No." But Judge Trotter's eye wandering along the line of faces caught the sudden intensity and fright in Josie's face. And he understood. Recess was called. Some of the jurors understood too, and ignorant of the way Daviot's mind worked, they marveled at his stupidity. They felt that he had not cheated, but

And as she spoke, Sir Quentin's eyes suddenly lit up with the gleam of battle. He whirled about and returned to the fray on a new flank. "Captain Bradford," he said, "I am going to ask you to tell the court exactly what you saw Major Daviot do when he cheated!" Bradford started out on a halting explanation of the transaction, illustrating each move with his hands. And as he progressed his story became more faltering. There was an electric tension throughout the courtroom, as if everybody anticipated a sudden turn. Sir Quentin turned to address the bench. His surprise move was fully prepared. He asked permission for Bradford to demonstrate the "cheat" in the court. The players in the game were hastily assembled at a table directly under the bench. Daviot sat in Grant's place, and Bradford sat in the place occupied by Daviot. The cards were hastily dealt out. Cinderford who knew where this strategy had originated, turned to Anne and whispered, "Very, very clever, my dear!" Daviot was watching Bradford contemptuously. The latter had placed two cards on the table, sat tensely. "Well, what are you waiting for?" croaked the majesty of the law. "Two, please," spoke Bradford. He shot a look of hatred at Grant. The two cards were passed to him. Then the farce became immediately apparent. Bradford struggled hopelessly for a moment in an effort to maintain his bluff. He dropped the cards clumsily from the table. And suddenly he shouted, "This is a farce, a rotten farce. I tell you! Why did you let me in for this, you idiot?" he shouted at Sir Eustace. "The prosecution rests, my lord!" Sir Quentin shouted above the uproar, and the courtroom rose to its feet by one impulse and howled hysterically. Bailiffs and police ran through the tumult clearing the court. When the noise had subsided only George and Anne were left sitting silently by the table. Her hands were firmly clasped in his, her eyes were wordlessly on his. Tandy bustled up. "Well, sir, pack up?" "Yes." "Where to?" "Home!" THE END.

Painter Pete

Question: I am having difficulty painting some furniture. I removed the old paint from a dining room table with paint remover and then put on a coat of mahogany stain and two coats of varnish. Now the whole thing looks sort of muddy and the varnish just won't seem to dry thoroughly. Have I done anything wrong.—Mrs. Robert R.
 Answer: You have done two things wrong. After using paint remover you must always remove the wax by washing several times with turpentine. All paint removers contain wax, which if not washed off, prevents the paint from drying. The other mistake you made was in applying varnish directly over mahogany stain. If you had sealed the stain in with shellac or a stain sealer made for the purpose, you would not have had the muddy appearance. Always seal mahogany stain with a light coat of either one of these as it will "bleed thru" if you do not. I don't know of any way you can fix this except to remove the whole finish and start over again. If you follow the above directions, sanding lightly between the varnish coats to make them adhere better, you will have a result you can be proud of. If you ave any painting questions you want answered, write to "Painter Pete" in care of this paper. Your question will appear over the New York Times building in an early issue. Operation of the electric sign cost $10,000 per month.

Pig Iron and Watch Springs

There is a classic illustration of the value of skill which tells us that a ton of watch spring is worth several thousand times the value of pig iron are steel from which they are made. The same kind of transformation, though not in such spectacular proportions, occur on the farm. A ton of hay is a truck load, worth a few dollars, and if it travels far the ride will cost more than the hay. Feed the hay to a cow, the butterfat it produces is worth several times as much as the ton of hay and will ride to town in a can.

A dollar a bushel would be a high price for barley, but Greer Creager of Wilbarger county sold 100 bushels of barley for $300 dollars. It wasn't a rare and valuable variety for seed—just ordinary barley worth on the grain market at that time some where around 60 to 75 cents. It is no mystery and no fable. Mr. Creager had some pigs which had grown up on Sudan grass pasture and skim milk. He ground the barley and fed it to the pigs, it sold form of pork. Just another case of the bar steel and the watch springs.

Ten acres of "careless weeds" in Wilbarger County Texas, sold for about $300 in 1919. A bunch of cows grazed it for three months with no other feed, and the cream produced brought the owner of the cows $100 a month better than $3 dollars a day. The transformation did the trick. That weed-grown ten acres of old field paid the owner more than any 10 acres he had in cotton, and cotton was worth 35c a pound that year. If he hadn't had the cows, if the cows hadn't that miraculously alchemy, the 10 acres would have paid no rent, he would have been $300 short for 3 months milking chores, and the whole community would have been three hundred dollars less well off at the end of the year.

These are extreme cases but facts nevertheless. Why sell pig iron when you can make watch springs of it? Milk, meat, wool and eggs, are but the refined forms of grain and forage. Several acres of crops can be wrapped in a steer's hide; a good cow will feed will produce milk or butterfat equal to her own value every year, and raise a calf besides; a ewe will raise a lamb worth as much on market as his dam in a year and pay for the privilege of it with wool.

Feed crops, whether of grain or roughage, are worth no more for productive purposes after a long ride by truck or train than they are on the farm where they grew. Clearly then the farmer who turns them into finished products right on the ground has a distinct advantage in the economy of production is the first step toward profitable sale.

It is never true economy to stint the feed of growing animals and fowls which are to be sold. Rather the farmer, thinking in terms of selling his feed to the best advantage, tries to get as much of it as possible into meat or milk or eggs. It is also sometimes a good economy to buy whatever is necessary to make up a good balanced ration if the farm does not supply it. In other words corn alone will fatten a hog but with a protein supplement it will go farther and fatten better.

Young fowls and animals make more rapid gains in weight, and weight is primarily what we sell, but the young need more highly concentrated feeds than the old. It is not true economy to try to make baby beef with hay or fit turkeys to market without grain. Both weight and quality decide the price, and both must be kept in mind, especially in the latter part of the finishing period. The rule among successful feeders is to "keep em growing fast when young and crowd 'em with everything they need and will take before they go to town with them."

MCCRAW FAVORS LEGAL PUBLICATION LAW IN TEXAS

First of the political candidates to answer the Texas Press Association's inquiry of Saturday as to his position on legislation requiring and regulating legal publication, William McCraw candidate for governor, today explained that he has always favored such a plan.

"Both as an ex-newspaper man and as an advocate of economy in government, am in hearty accord with the Texas Press Association's program for enactment of a law requiring that legal notices, tax notices and understandable reports on county receipts and expenditures be published in the legitimate newspapers of each community" McCraw said. "If I am elected governor I shall expect to sponsor such a bill. When the voters of the county are kept fully informed on their government's business, there is not much chance for waste or extravagance to creep in."

The Attorney general also commends the press association for its stand on full publicity for all tax making groups.
