ADMIRATION COFFEE CO. SELECTS G'VILLE AS WAREHOUSE SITE

J. I. Yates, who will be local sales manager for Admiration Coffee Company of Houston was here Tuesday conferring with Chamber of Commerce officials, and as a result a distribution warehouse will be maintained here. Mr. Yates was also accompanied by C. M. Matheson, Supervisor and C. F. Howard, Waco Admiration salesman and formerly a resident of Gatesville.

Mr. Yates who will make his home here, bringing his wife and two daughters, will be distributor for a part of McLennan, and all of Coryell and Falls counties.

The company follows a policy of servicing church meetings, family reunions and other gatherings, giving these the benefit of their famous "Southern Hospitality Service."

Gatesville is an ideal town for a distributing point and with this company recognizing this fact, others will no doubt be attracted to Texas' greatest little city.

BE WISE! SAVE SEED!

And at this season of the year we should save all peach seed. A few gallons of seeds saved during the summer season will be sufficient beginning for an acre or two in fruit.

As the seeds are saved we should keep them moist by digging a small hole in the ground and covering the seeds up and moistening them from time to time to keep them from drying out. In the early fall, plant the seed one to two inches deep, spacing them one to two inches apart in the row. Select a location where the soil is deep and will stay moist throughout the year. It is important that the planting be done before November 1. In the early spring the seeds will sprout and by June you will have a large number of seedling peach trees ready for budding to improved varieties. It is easy to secure buds from good peach trees in your neighborhood and transfer them to your seedling trees exactly like the trees from which the buds were taken. Remember—save the seeds now.

COURT WORK JUST AT STANDSTILL ACCT ELECTION

While the cards were being passed out Thursday, Judge R. B. Cross and his cohorts, were busily engaged in a hearing on the case of Mrs. Mary Mayberry vs Clifford Hill, on writ of certiorari.

As we are informed, since we are not legal minded, this means "they're arguing over the right of the district court to override the judgement of a lower court" At the time of going to press no decision was reported.

Banquet Honoring Quicksall by C. of C. Due Monday Nite

Under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce, A. T. Quicksall, raiser of the World Record Ton Litter Contest Pigs will be honored at the Brown Gin Shed, Monday evening.

In charge of the following committees, the affair is open to all, a small charge being made to people of Gatesville: Menu; Dr. Otis C. Ray, Chairman, Earl Heath, Leonard Miller; Tickets; B. K. Cooper, chairman, Byron Leard; Jim Martin; Program; Guy Powell.

Mr. Quicksall's Poland China hogs hold a ten year record for the "ton litter contests, which have sponsored by A. and M.

In addition to Mr. Quicksall's own record with his pigs, it is notable that in the first contest of its kind in Texas, 8 pigs owned by Alton Quicksall was declared winner of the production contest which closed June 30.

This 88 pigs at 56 days of age weighed 533 pounds. Interesting facts are, this winning litter was mothered by the chamption sow of the Brazos Valley Free Fair in 1936, and was 3rd at the Texas Centennial the same year. The sire was 2nd at the Fort Worth Frontier Celebration and is now in service at A. and M. On both sides, the pigs are descendants of the World's Champion Ton Litter, Mr. Quicksall's.

This type of contest is new in hog production and the Coryell county 4-H boys in cooperation with the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce are to be commended for this excellent work.

Those who entered pigs were: Alton Quicksall, 8, 533 lbs. B. A. Bradford, 8, 436; P. H. Martin, 11, 416 lbs.; I. N. Franks, 390 lbs.; Albert Jacobs, 9, 387 lbs.; Clovis King, 9, 376 lbs.; Elmo King, 9, 361 lbs.; R. H. Wicker, 10, 354; Henry Wiegand 9, 340 lbs.; Herschel Wilhelm, 7, 306 lbs.

Dillard Barr, 10, 305 lbs; Robert Todd, 8, 285 lbs.; Wilmer Jones Jr. 9, 284.; Elton Quicksall 7, 280 lbs.; H. I. Franks

7, 273 lbs. Albert Jacobs, 8, 267 lbs.; Tom Chaney, 10, 265 lbs.; Eddie Wiegand 7, 261 lbs.; Travis Harper, 6 248 lbs.; Albert Jacobs, 7, 227 lbs. Marvin Watson, 7, 179 lbs.; Johnnie Apel, 4, 15 lbs.; Albert Jacobs, 7, 157; and Robert Todd, 5, 131.

Breeds of these pigs included Duroc, Poland China, O. I. C., Hampshire and Chester White. Standard weight at 56 days of age is 245 lbs.

One of the requirements for this 4-H boy's contest was to keep accurate records on the litters and file same at the county agent's office along with the weights certified by non-participating committee.

Important personages who will have a part in the program are E. T. Nagel of Fort Worth, George Slaughter of Wharton, President of the Texas Swine Breeder's Association, M. T. Payne District and possibly Congressman W. R. Poage, of Waco, who has been extended an invitation.

Two Youthful Orators Uncovered at Political Rally Here

Mrs. C. E. Alvis, Jr. speaking in behalf of her husband County Attorney C. E. Alvis, Jr. and Byron Leard speaking in behalf of George Davison, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, were new discoveries at the Coryell County News-Western Auto Associate Store political rally held Wednesday evening on the court house lawn. A conservative estimate of the "pepul" present was one thousand.

Out of county speakers included Mrs. Ballard, George who spoke for her husband, Ballard George for Associate Justice, Court of Civil Appeals, 10th Supreme Judicial District of Texas; Wilbur Barcus, son of Geo. W. Barcus, candidate for the same office. Claude McIver of Kilgore, who spoke for John Wood, candidate for Railroad Commissioner; C. R. Tate who spoke on behalf of Dr. L. A. Woods, candidate for State Supt. of Public Instruction.

W. R. (Bob) Poage, Congressman from the 11th District, of Texas, thanked the people of Coryell county for the courtesies shown him, and for the privilege of serving them as Congressman from this district. He was accompanied by C. M. (Fish) Ellwell, his secretary.

Lee Colwick of Gatesville spoke in behalf of Robert A. Stuart, candidate for Railroad Commissioner.

Beginning at the bottom of the ticket, the other speakers of the evening were: for Justice of the Peace, Young W. Lee, A. Shirley, and George Miller; Constable, Precinct 1: L. W. Black, Commissioner, Beat 1: Bub Berry; County Supt. W. D. Stock-burger, A. E. Whisenhunt, J. M. Witcher; County Attorney, Edson Hooser; Sheriff, Joe White, George Hodges; Tax Assessor-Collector, Dave Culberson; County Clerk: C. P. Mounce, A. W. Ellis; County Judge W. T. Brumalow, Floyd Zeigler.

District Clerk, Carl A. McClendon; Representative 94th District: Earl Huddleston, Weldon Burney, Guy M. Young; District Attorney: H. William Allen, Harry Flentge.

No announcements were made for governors or any of the other offices not mentioned.

The rally was staged without cost to anyone, and because the promoters knew many of the voters of this vicinity had not heard the candidates speak, and many of them had not seen them.

GEORGE HODGES HAS FINAL STATEMENT IN SHERIFF'S RACE

TO THE VOTERS OF CORYELL COUNTY, TEXAS:

To those who do not know me, I am 45 years old, born and reared in Coryell County. I am married, and have a wife and three children.

I have been in office going into my third year, and have endeavored to enforce the law of our state and county to the best of my ability. I have endeavored to be fair with every one that I have come in contact with, although with some handicap that I will not attempt to explain and my friends know.

I want to especially thank the voters of this precinct for the nice vote they gave me two years ago, and as it is only a few more days until election I hope to see everyone that is possible to solicit their vote and influence. Owing to the duties of my office and other things which have come up which I could not help, I have not been able to visit every home and solicit every vote that I would like to have.

To those of you I do not get to see I ask you to give me close consideration on July 23rd, and to vote for me.

I want to leave this entirely to the good Democrats of Coryell County.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE HODGES
 Candidate for Sheriff
 (Political Adv.)

JUDGE FLOYD ZEIGLER HAS STATEMENT FOR COUNTY VOTERS

To the voters of Coryell County:

It has been a pleasure to make the campaign for County Judge, asking the people to return me to that office for a second term. Due to the duties of that office and the absence of the County Attorney, whose work I have sought to carry on, it has been impossible for me to see every voter in the County, thus I take this method of soliciting your vote and influence.

I have sought to give to Coryell County a progressive administration and at the same time keep the financial affairs of the County on a sound basis, and the records show that Coryell County is in the best financial condition in over forty years.

I have sought at all times to render to the old folks of this county all assistance possible in working out their problems concerning Old Age Assistance, and shall continue to do so as long is serving out the unexpired term of the late Judge J. A. Stanford as Associate Justice, Court of Civil Appeals, 10th District, and is now asking for a first elective term. He lived in Navarro county, which is one of the counties of his district until he became connected with this court in 1937. He is well qualified by temperament, education and experience to perform the duties of this office efficiently and fairly, as is shown by his past life and work.

During his first three months with the court he wrote the opinions in eight different cases, giving him a commencement average of about three opinions per month, and same are officially reported in the following volumes and pages thereof of the Southwestern Reporter, 2nd series: 105 SW 345; 105 SW 731; 106 SW 822; 107 SW 426; 108 SW 230; 108 SW 954; 109 SW 1003; 110 SW 241, and any lawyer and any judge in any of the counties can show you these opinions and you can read them for your own information. His opponent wrote twelve opinions during his first six months and six days as a member of this court, giving him an average of less than two opinions per month. After more than nine year's experience on the court, of the last ten opinions written by opponent, thirty per cent were set aside. None of the opinions of Ballard George have been reversed, set aside or modified.

The opponent of Ballard George served one year six months and four days as a member of this court by appointment, was elected thereto twice and defeated for a third elective term, six years ago. He is now making his fourth race for this office.

Judge Ballard George has carefully examined the records and briefs in each case passed on by this court since he has been with it, and the docket of this court is in good shape, as shown by the fact that the Supreme Court has within the past year transferred to it from another Court of Civil Appeals forty cases.

In order for Judge Ballard George to perform his duties with the Court of Civil Appeals, it was necessary that he give up a successful law practice in Corsicana and move his family to Waco. Wouldn't it be fair, under these circumstances, to give him a first elective term? He will appreciate your vote and active support in the coming election. (Political Adv.)

the old athletic field here in Gatesville.

Six thousand fans jammed Katy Park Wednesday night to witness the grand opening of the third annual State semi-pro Tournament. The powerful Grand Prize crew of Houston slammed the apple to the far corners of Katy Park, and slugged the 7-up Bottlers of Austin, 14 to 0, in the inaugural contest. In the second game Temple's Surgeons took an 8-2 decision from the little Cushing nine.

Unless rain interferes, the local All-stars will tangle with a like squad from Lampasas at the local softball stadium tonight. The last time these two teams played, the locals came out on top 17-1, and should repeat with ease on the home field.

The disappointment of the softball circuit this year has been the supposedly classy Merrhant Club. Before the season opened it was looked upon as one of the foremost contenders for the league title, a team to be reckoned with.

On the opening night they won their first game by slugging the hapless T & R ten, but then they went in a slump and lost five straight games. They are now way down there, battling to stay out of the cellar.

Holt is one of the best pitchers in the league, but during that five game losing streak he did not have much support. He has a blazing fast ball, but not too much control. Holt's style of pitching is very tiring, and Holt can hardly go the full 7 innings without relief.

Miss Alleene Lazenby left Monday for Statesville, North Carolina, where she will visit relatives and friends.

..Sunday's games in the Sunday baseball league are featured by the Mound vs. Jonesboro battle, which is to be played at Mound. If Mound can take this fracas, they will have cinch to finish way ahead of the pack in the league. If they lose they still have a mathematical chance to finish in a tie for second place.

..It is almost certain that Mound manager Buddy Whigham will send his ace, Lefty Joe Evans, to the mound to face the hard hitting Eagles, while Eagle manager Huggin's coice is still in doubt. It will be either Liljedahl or Miller.

..P. T. Lemmons, Eagle first sacker and one of the best in the loop, will not be around the initial bag when his mates take the field against Mound. He is out in West Texas, visiting relatives, or something, and will be gone for at least two weeks. The Eagles will feel his loss keenly.

Foy Wicker, youthful CCC hurler, turned in the biggest upset of the season, by pitching his heart out against the strong Eagles last Sunday, and he was duly rewarded by a 6-4 victory. Wicker mixed his slow curve and his blazing fast one to perfection as he sent Eagle after Eagle stumbling back to the bench. The Eagles nicked him for only five safeties. Wicker is not a very consistent hurler, in fact, he has plenty of bad days. But when that youngster is hot, he's really hard to beat.

..The ballots for the All-star team are in the mail, on their way to the managers. of six Sunday baseball league teams. It is yet undecided as to the site of the game. If the State officials will allow an admission fee to be charged, then the game will be played there without further ado. However, if the State heads refuse to let them charge, then the game will be played either at Mound or at

son. and Tax Collector's Offices under one Department in 1934 I sought your support for the newly created office and in the ensuing Primary election there was cast a total of 4747 votes in this race and my friends favored me with 2620 votes and my opponent with 2127 thereby giving me a decisive majority of 493 votes for which I again tender my sincere thanks and trust we have so discharged the many duties entrusted to our care that none may have just cause to regret having thus honored me. The consolidation of these offices was accomplished for the purpose of economy in our Government and that being the case I feel justified in advising you that for the full 3 years that have passed under the combination of these two departments, we have returned into the Treasury of our county, for the benefit of the General Fund, a total of $6,577.00 over and above all expenses including the maximum salary allowance the Tax Assessor Collector as well and we feel the present Year will show an increase over the average heretofore earned.

The manner in which these duties have been discharged in the past is the best evidence of how we shall undertake to serve you in the future, should you see proper to again entrust this responsible position to our care and I pledge you I will devote whatever ability I possess and whatever experience I have gained in an honest effort to serve each and every person with whom I may come in contact with uniform courtesy fair consideration and accurate and prompt service. As to how the funds of this office have been handled, while in my care I beg to advise you here in one file in this office Official Audit No. 2184 made by the Comptroller of the State of Texas up to and including June 30th 1937 end of the last fiscal Year, which states among other things "and your account on our records as of June 30th 1937 is in balance."

Thanking you again and assuring you that your support on July 23rd will be appreciated and your confidence upheld, as it has been in the past, I beg to remain,

Sincerely

For Your CONSIDERATION

In seeking the office of State Representative of the 94th District, consisting of Hamilton and Coryell Counties, I am doing so in an effort to be of assistance to the people of this District. I feel that my experience and knowledge of the needs of the citizens of these counties qualifies me to serve you to an advantage. This is my first time to enter politics and ask for your support, but I am confident that, if I am elected, I can serve you in a satisfactory manner. I am a Young Democrat and believe in the policy of the Democratic party. After an office has been held by one party for a reasonable length of time it should be passed on to someone else.

I believe that it is the duty of your Representative to determine the wishes of the people of this district and then do everything possible to carry out these wishes. It is not enough to simply vote on the various measures brought up. . . Your Representative should introduce legislation beneficial to this section and work to have it enacted. This would be my aim. I know one needed legislation at present and that is the REPEAL OF THE PRESENT TRUCK LAW, and I would work to have the LOAD LIMIT RAISED TO APPROXIMATELY 16,000 POUNDS.

My opponent has been in office for six years and is now asking for a fourth term. I believe it is time to make a change and give a Young Democrat an opportunity to assist in enacting some needed legislation which will be of benefit to the entire State of Texas.

Therefore I earnestly solicit your vote and influence at the election Saturday, and promise you that if I am elected I will go to Austin and make you a "hand" worthy of hire.

WICKER TURNS BACK EAGLES IN BIG UPSET

Foy Wicker. That young man was at his best Sunday when he turned back the Jonesboro Eagles, 6 to 4 to add a little spice to the Sunday league race. Wicker had his sharp hook working to perfection, and his blazing fast ball looked like a pea to the helpless Jonesboro sluggers and it sizzled across the plate to send mumbling Jonesboro batters slumping back to the bench hopelessly.

Wicker's great hurling put the fighting Pidcoke nine back in the race, with an outside chance of breaking into the playoff. Jonesboro loss to the CCC nine last Sunday was their second defeat of the season, while at the present Pidcoke has three games on the wrong side of the win and lost column. Both teams still have to face Mound, the undefeated league leader and from this corner it seems as if Pidcoke has a better chance to defeat Mound than Jonesboro. If this should come to pass, then Pidcoke and Jonesboro will be tied for second place, and a game will have to be played to decide which team should meet Mound in the league finals. Pidcoke beat Mound July 15 at the Ewing picnic and the Mound club was lucky to beat the Cokers 4-3 in their closing league contest. Pidcoke meets Mound again on July 31, in the closing game of the season, while Jonesboro tangles with them this coming Sunday. Here are two games that will bring fans from all points over the county.

Coryell City forfeited to Pidcoke Sunday, and they face Blackfoot this Sunday. They should win this game with ease, and the Blackfoot club may rise up as CCC did against Jonesboro and defeat Pidcoke.

CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER, BEAT 1, HAS STATEMENT

I am taking this method of letting the people know how I appreciate the courtesies shown me thruout my campaign, and if elected as your Commissioner I will be fair with every one, and each community just as near alike as possible.

I am going to let the people know just how I handle the county's business, in my Beat thru a county paper semi-annually, and will co-operate with the government project work to the best interest of the county roads, and all people concerned.

As to the hands or men who wish to work for me, if elected I will endeavor to hire men that can, and will work and follow simple rules that I might see fit for them to carry out, which would not be hard to follow, but would benefit the county roads and people at large in Beat 1.

Thanking the people again for the courtesies, and sincerely hoping that you see fit to cast your vote for W. E. Morgan, Saturday, July 23, 1938, I am

Jap Arnold, Jr. and Joe Edison, Jr.

Having known Judge C. V. Terrell intimately in both public and private life a number of years, and realizing the need of the tax payers of Texas for men like Judge Terrell in public office. It behooves us, the undersigned to urge the people of our section of the State to help return this able man to the office of Railroad Commissioner which he as so faithfully and diligently filled. The work of the Railroad Commission is that of adjusting passenger and freight rates, protecting human lives and property with respect to Motor Transportation, and conserving the great natural resources of Texas. To our certain knowledge C. V. Terrell as Railroad Commissioner has administered with the greatest fairness and intelligence the duties imposed on him by the legislature and thru his foresight and experienced judgement has helped stabilize and materially aided those industries with which he comes in contact in discharging his official duties, while at the same time protecting the best interests of the traveling public. Both his private and public record stand as monu-

I take this means of making a last solicitation of your votes for the high office of District Attorney which I filled for one brief term in 1935-6. I have seen every one of you that I could possibly reach, in person, and the ones of you that I have not seen, I have sought for and attempted to see.

O'DANIEL AND McCRAW

For the first time in many years the professional political dopsters appear to be stumped. The confident predictions which usually bob up under the byline of "acc" political geniuses before the first primary election have been conspicuously lacking this year.

News writers who claim to know a thing or two about State politics, hesitate to stake state politics, hesitate to stake soothsayers on advance forecasts of results in Saturday's first Democratic primary.

The governors race seems to be giving them the most trouble. It's the flour and biscuit enigma which has them bogged down.

"How can we guess W. Lee O'Daniel's strength?" they ask. "How much of it is talk and how much of it will be actual votes Saturday? What will the big city voters do to a man who has the countryside stirred up with hillbilly tunes, but who has not paid his poll tax and who hasn't the right to vote himself.

The answer will not be known before tomorrow night when the Texas Election Bureau tabulations will show the trend and probably the actual results of Saturday's balloting.

Had the first primary election been dated four weeks ago, the prognosticators would have had little trouble predicting the result. It was McCraw and Thompson. It was before the strains of hillbilly music began to throw discordant notes into an otherwise harmonious but colorless campaign. Now they simply don't know what may happen and few of them are willing to risk a guess, much less a bet.

All of the straw votes which have been taken in the past week show O'Daniel and McCraw leading the field of twelve candidates for the governorship. How much confidence can be placed in the post card polls is questionable. Editors of the late lamented Literary Digest could write a book on straw vote disappointments.

Raymond Brooks, writing from Austin, says the rural vote of Texas will decide whether "it will afford the most astonishing upsets and nominate an unknown newcomer to politics as governor." His straw vote figures give the Fort Worth flour salesman the best of it with McCraw second and Thompson third.

Several other post card polls which have come over my desk of your correspondent show McCraw first and O'Daniel second. Any of them may be right but no two of them agree as to percentage or totals. But they all show that O'Daniel is the man who must be whipped for the gubernatorial nomination, and they all show McCraw in the runoff, whether first or second.

That McCraw has recognized O'Daniel as his most formidable opponent was clearly demonstrated during the past week when in speeches from the stump and over the radio McCraw started lambasting the flour man from Ohio and Kansas. He has had nothing to say about the others, apparently considering none of the other ten serious threats as run-off opponents.

Press association writers who have been following the candidates report a marked increase in McCraw enthusiasm and stump crowds during the week, since O'Daniel took his hillbilly band to the Rio Grande Valley. They will tell you this in confidence, that is all.

How much of O'Daniel's strength has been taken from other candidates in the race is impossible to guess. The straw vote totals show Hunter has gained strength while Thompson, McCraw and Crowley have lost.

The "great issues" except for old age pensions appear to have been forgotten. Karl Crowley is still hammering away at professional politicians. Thompson cites his record as railroad commissioner and Tom Hunter is snapping at the "stooges" of the big interests" with his usual bull-dog aggressiveness. But the big puzzle that no one seems to be able to solve is—

"How strong is this flour fellow?"

The little prairie, tow of Kingman, Kan., bobbed up last week to take a leading part in the gubernatorial race.

Kingman was once the home of W. Lee O'Daniel. It was a race last week to find out whether the people of this Kansas town liked him or not.

William McCraw supporters distributed copies of the Kingman Journal containing a front page story calling O'Daniel "Wilbert O'Daniel" and telling in not too complimentary fashion of his residence in that city.

At the same time O'Daniel press agents said "scores of letters and telegrams" have been coming to the candidate from Kingman "endorsing him, giving him encouragement and wishing him success".

Governor Allred recently endorsed the candidacies of two of his positions, Judge Richard Critz of the Supreme Court and Judge Harry N. Graves of the Court of Criminal Appeals. Postal cards reached voters last week in behalf of Graves signed by the Governor and reading:

"Judge Graves is no serving on the Court of Criminal Appeals having succeeded the late Judge O. S. Lattimore and he is seeking his first elective term in court. In my opinion he has made an able judge, and I hope you will vote to continue his fine service. A picture of Graves appears on the front of the cards.

Governor Allred has not indicated his preference in the gubernatorial race at this writing.

Former Governor Dan Moody has endorsed two candidates for State office. Walter Woodul, lieutenant governor and candidate for attorney general, and S. R. LeMay of Athens, who was a boyhood friend of Moody's received formal endorsement of the ex-Governor.

Two other former governors have made known their preferences in the primary. Pat M. Neff is for Bill McCraw for governor and James E. Ferguson is supporting his cousin, James A. Ferguson of Belton, for governor.

Much comment is heard on the wide split in the Ferguson ranks in the current campaign. While it has been known that James E. Ferguson could do more political wonders for members of his own family, his choice outside the family never fared well.

Ferguson is bitterly fighting O'Daniel in his newspaper, almost as hard as he fought Dan Moody and even harder that he attacked Ross S. Sterling.

One of O'Daniel's strongest adherents is ex-Senator T. H. McGregor of Austin, who has long been a close Ferguson affiliate and who initiated the unsuccessful movement this spring to draft Mrs. Ferguson. Since then McGregor has been working for O'Daniel and Ferguson for his cousin.

Ex-Senator Roy Sanderford of Belton, the Ferguson approved gubernatorial candidate in 1936 receiving but $1,170 out of more than 1,000,000 votes cast, favors Tom Hunter for governor. Sanderford was the Ferguson spokesman while a member of the Senate and, like McGregor, is close to the Fergusons personally.

Ernest O Thompson received several good breaks during the past week. Residents of Amarillo chose him as the city's "first citizen" for President Roosevelt's visit there. Robert Lee Bobbitt of San Antonio chairman of the State highway commission and a former attorney general, spoke in his behalf. Clarence R. Miller, Dallas textile manufacturer, withdrew from the governor's race in his favor. Myron G. Balock, State Democratic Chairman, continued his stumping tour of the State in behalf of Thompson.

Governor Allred is pursuing a "hands off" policy in the contest for attorney general. Three candidates have been connected with him in official capacities. They are District Judge Ralph W. Yarborough of Austin, a former assistant attorney general. Gerald C. Mann of Dallas one time secretary of state, and Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro, favored by Allred when elected speaker of the house.

One of Karl Crowley's chief hopes for victory in the governor's race is pinned on the organized old age vote. There is a powerful organization in East Texas which has endorsed the candidate and a committee of 100 representing several other such organizations announced support for the candidate some week ago.

Candidates burned up the air this week. Station WFAA released 32 political talks.

Gerald C. Mann, candidate for attorney general, expressed appreciation this week to "that multitude of faithful supporters" whose efforts "are sweeping him to victory".

Among them, he said are "some of the patriarchs of the legal profession who are actively supporting me, and are attesting to my qualifications as a lawyer. Among those who have endorsed his candidacy, Mann pointed out, are R. E. L. Saner, only Texas lawyer ever to head the American Bar Association; Harry P. Lawther, former president of both the Texas Bar Association and the Dallas Bar Association, and Judge Grover Sellers, former justice of the Court of Civil Appeals at Texarkana.

"With the support and endorsement of such exemplary Christian citizens, such eminent, outstanding lawyers as these gentlemen, I defy the vote manipulators and the political machine that is opposing me to try and blittle my qualifications as a lawyer to fill the attorney general's office" he said.

The big question in the minds of voters the day before the primary: "out of the four—O'Daniel, McCraw, Hunter and Thompson—which two will make the run-off?"

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

The poll taken by R. A. Humphrey, Dallas lawyer, of notaries public thruout Texas, shows William McCraw and W. Lee O'Daniel in the lead for governor. Humphrey sent out 12,000 ballots from the list of Texas notaries and has received 1,660 replies. The result of his poll shows:

Governor: McCraw, 576; O'Daniel, 511; Thompson, 366; Hunter, 147; Crowley, 45; Renfro, 25; Ferguson, 16; King, 1; McCoy, 1; Self, 1.

Lieutenant Governor: Stevenson, 699; Brooks, 352; Nelson 349; Smith, 101; Davisson, 98; Mead, 27.

Attorney General: Mann, 615; Woodul, 526; Yarborough, 377; Calvert, 166; Goodrich, 42.

Railroad Commissioner: Wood, 505; Terrell, 503; Stuart, 283; Sadler, 140; Morris, 116; Christie, 34.

Land Commissioner: McDonald 767; Giles, 532; Browning, 185; Mills, 157.

Treasurer: Lockhart, 1163; Barnes, 268; Foster, 164.

Comptroller: Sheppard, 1380; Biffle, 214; Terrell, 86.

State Superintendent: Woods, 806; Lemay, 357; James, 529.

Commissioner of Agriculture: McDonald, 996; Allen, 412; Westfall, 152.

Supreme Court: Critz, 826; Davidson, 524; Smiley, 181.

Court of Criminal Appeals: Graves, 756; Phippen, 531; Shephens, 249.

Neither the Governor nor the Legislature has the power to abolish the poll tax requisite to voting in Texas. Most citizens, no doubt, are aware of this fact, but there may be some who are confused by campaign thunder.

The poll tax requirement is provided in Article VI, Section 2 of the state constitution, and it will stand until the constitution is amended. The provision can not be changed except by the vote of citizens who pay their poll tax or obtain exemption certificates because of age.

The legislature can submit an amendment with or without the governor's recommendation but ratification is strictly up to the citizens who qualify to cast ballots.

The chief executive can not submit the amendment, nor can he vote for or against its adoption unless he pays his poll tax. The candidate for governor who is not qualified to vote this year is not the first to advocate of poll tax repeal. Numerous attempts to submit the necessary amendment have been made, but they have been defeated.

During the last ten years, the public schools have derived a total of $9,886,305 from the poll tax. This is one reason why proposed amendments have not been submitted. The legislatures have balked at taking about $1,000,000 a year from the school system.

It is too late for an amendment to be submitted this year, and, if one should happen to be submitted next year, it could be voted on only by the citizens who pay their poll tax.

This is the cold truth about the poll tax controversy.

Ernest O. Thompson stated at giant Amarillo rally that he would poll 40 per cent of the votes in Dallas county, the home of Attorney General William McCraw.

This statement emphasized an incongruity of the current State campaign, which has puzzled veteran political observers by the apparent weakness of some of the leading candidates in their home bailiwicks.

This writer does not believe the Railroad Commission is correctly estimating his potential strength in Dallas county, but he does know that the McCraw forces have become adarmed over the strength manifested by O'Daniel and Thompson in the county where the Attorney General served three terms as district attorney.

This oddity of the campaign is further borne out by the fact that until O'Daniel's candidacy was launched, neither of the Fort Worth candidates, Clarence Farnen or Karl Crowley, was expected to carry Tarrant county. Thompson supporters maintain their candidate will receive as many votes in the Fort Worth area as will O'Daniel and more than McCraw, who counts upon his birth at Arlington to bring him Tarrant county votes.

Tom Hunter carried his home district at Wichita Falls in 1934 over his home town opponents, C. C. McDonald and James V. Allred. His supremacy there is being contested by the boosters of Thompson this year while the Wichita Falls backers of McCraw and O'Daniel are active.

Two of the candidates for attorney general, Gerald C. Mann of Dallas and Walter Woodul of Houston, have failed to rally unites support in their home counties behind their candidacies. Houston labor is opposing Woodul, while a large group of Mann's fellow attorney in Dallas is supporting Woodul.

Other State candidates who are not expected to carry their home districts include James A. Ferguson of Belton for governor; Pierce Brooks of Dallas for lieutenant governor; Frank S. Morris of Dallas for railroad commissioner and O. C. Christie of Allen for railroad commissioner.

Although W. Lee O'Daniel failed to qualify as a voter, 1,133,704 Texans paid $1.75 each for a poll tax for a total of nearly $2,000,000. Thousands of others entitled went to the trouble of obtaining their certificates as required, so they could cast their votes.

Counting exemptions at 15 per cent of the poll taxes paid, there are some 170,000 persons who received them this year. That would bring the total to 1,303,000 voters eligible to vote. Two years ago 1,172,926 Texans paid their poll taxes. The total is always larger in a presidential election year.

Texans broke all voting records in 1936 when the Democrats cast more than 1,000,000 votes in the first primary—1,053,117 in the gubernatorial contest, but the highest number, 1,071,372 went to the late Judge O. S. Lattimore, re-elected to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Only Judge F. L. Hawkins of the Criminal Appeals Court is on the state wide ballot unopposed. Two appellate judges and six other State office holders are fighting for renomination, while candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general are jousting around for places from which the incumbents retire in January.

Running for state office continues to be a profitable endeavor for some of the 52 candidates, second reports of campaign expenses filed with the Secretary of State indicate. Reports are

The old house according to the best information obtainable, was here when when this town was known as Hill Top, before there was an Oglesby. Our enquiry failed to locate the name of the builder of this house. When the Cotton Belt Railroad was built into Oglesby, this house was occupied by B. M. Hitt, who made several additions to it. It will be remembered that Mr. Hitt was the first Postmaster, first merchant, and first Railway station agent, and probably several firsts, that Oglesby had. He served the town many years as peace officer, and was among the pioneers who developed this good Coryell County of ours.

DROUGHT INSURANCE PROVIDED BY SCS METHODS ON LOCAL FARMS

Benefits from reserve moisture which has been stored up in those fields on which some form of erosion control is being practiced are already plainly visible in greener and more vigorous crops, according to Monroe Blankenship, secretary of the Gatesville Farm Loan Association.

Mr. Blankenship, who assisted a representative of the Federal Land Bank in making farm appraisals throughout the county during the past week, stated, "One thing was very noticeable wherever we found a farm on which cropping, terracing or contour tillage was being practiced. On such farms all crops were in much better condition being noticeably greener and more vigorous, than on adjoining farms which were cultivated the usual way. In no case did we find corn suffering from lack of moisture on land which was stripped, terraced or contour cultivated. If the present dry weather continues it is obvious that those crops growing on protected land will be able to withstand drought much longer than those crops on unprotected land".

Mr. Blankenship's statement substantiates claims made by Soil Conservation Service co-operators during the past two summers that their yields have been increased considerably due to the fact that their crops are not usually affected by summer droughts.

BOY SCOUTS AND FORMER BOY SCOUTS ENDORSEMENT OF J. M. WITCHER FOR COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

The sentiment of friends of long standing, closely tied by years spent together may have no place in politics, but if it has we offer this to you as a gauge of a man who has asked of you a favor and in sincere appreciation of the years of his life that he has unselfishly dedicated to us.

We have known him for years—we know his habits, his thoughts, his desires and have observed under stress his mental and physical stature. We have found him to be a man in the broadest sense of the word, desiring for himself a meager share of the world's goods—always giving more than he receives. He has been to us a living, moving example of clean habits, clean thinking, clean and honest living. We know that without pay he has given years of his life to help make real men out of boys thru the Boy Scout Movement. We know that he has always stood ready if necessary, at the cost of his own life, to protect immature, unthinking Scouts from the dangers of nature. We have seen him wisely move our camps to higher ground when flood waters have threatened. We have seen his huge protecting frame hovering on the bank—watching us, and have swam with confidence, stretches of deep water. We have gone to him with countless cuts and scratches, insect bites, and sprains, and have had had him as best he could take the place of Mother.

We know that his heart is with the youth of Coryell County; that he understands from years of golden experience every problem that confronts youth, and that all his energy stands ready to solve these problems.

We know J. M. Witcher has the qualities of manhood, the strength of character, the depth of mind, and the sincerity of purpose that you need in a County Superintendent, and we know that he and his family need the place.

This is the sentiment of more than 100 Boy Scouts and former Boy Scouts of Gatesville and surrounding country who know J. M. Witcher, intimately. (Political Adv.)

To the Voters of Coryell County

Floyd Zeigler is now serving his first elective term as County Judge of Coryell County, and we submit the following record for your consideration.

1. He is an able lawyer and has tried over 400 civil, criminal and probate cases during his tenure of office and only once has a case tried in his court been reversed.

2. He has succeeded in keeping the finances of Coryell County on a sound basis, which is shown by the fact that this County has for the past 15 months been in the best financial condition in over forty years

3. He has actively advocated and fought for a good system of roads and public highways. At the present time approximately $580,000.00 is being spent on the construction of Highway No. 7 in this county Thru his efforts in working on Highway No. 36 he has interested the Highway Commission in this highway and under his leadership we believe we have excellent prospects for the building of this highway in the near future. Where ever possible he has assisted in the improvement of lateral roads thruout the county

4. He has devoted his entire time and energy to giving Coryell County a sound progressive and economical administration.

We believe that the above record merits your consideration and we respectively urge you to return Judge Zeigler to the office of County Judge for second term.

Stumpin' the State

For Railroad Commissioner

Five Texas Democrats have placed their names before the voters for the office of railroad commissioner now held by C. V. Terrell of Wise county. They are Frank Morris of Dallas county, O. C. Christie of Collin county, John Wood of Shelby county, Robert A. (Bob) Stuart of Tarrant county and G. A. Jerry Sadler of Gregg county.

In this, the last of four analyses of candidate for the commissioner, the writer presents a brief sketch of the six candidates for railroad commissioner. They are listed and discussed in this column in the same order in which their names will appear on the primary ballot in Coryell County.

C. V. TERRELL

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, is running for re-election on the achievements of the commission during his 14 years as a member.

Among these he lists:
Saving up to 64 per cent of the oil beneath new oil fields in the State through enforcement of conservation laws, curbing of hot oil, yet holding down gasoline prices for the motorist.

Increasing safety on the highways by strict regulation of trucks and driving off wildcat truck operators, chief cause of truck accidents in past years.

Slashing freight rates generally and preventing a number of increases which if they had been granted would have cost the raw material producers and the consumers of the State millions of dollars annually.

Cutting rates on natural gas to consumers nearly $500,000 annually and issuing other orders which if sustained by the courts will save an additional $1,500,000 annually for consumers.

In 1928 Judge Terrell and then chairman of the commission, the late Clarence Gilmore, wrote the first oil proration order of Texas history. Without legal guide or precedent, Judge Terrell has helped guide the Railroad Commission thru the turbulent waters of oil control until today 99 per cent of the oil men of the State readily thank the commission for a prosperity that brings into Texas annually $700 per family in the State.

FRANK MORRIS

Frank Morris of Dallas announced his candidacy for railroad commissioner two years ago after being defeated in the runoff by Ernest O. Thompson, seeking re-election to the commission for a full six year term.

Morris advocates an 18-point platform, the first letters of each sentence spelling Morris for Railroad Commissioner:

Morris advocates these principles:

Meter the pipe lines.
Oppose Corruption, chislers extravagant expenditures.
Remove the tax-eaters and prosperity is here.
Relief must come to royalty owner.

Inviting graft and greed we invite destruction.

Serve the tax-payers and not the tax-eater.

Fair dealings and hearings be given all.

Open a way to the oil markets of the world.

Regulations to be just and fair to all industries.

Relief must come to the masses A square deal for all.

Inspire confidence by honest effort.

Let the tax payers rule and not the tax eaters.

Render the farmer, royalty owner, and other industries real service.

Old age people should be cared for.

All citrus growers shall be free of interference from Railroad Commission.

Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

Commissioner, he says, stands for reemployment by all industry of unemployed, as rapidly and permanently as possible.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
When Muff Potter was arrested for the murder that Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn had witnessed, it was too much for Tom's cup of sadness. He knew that Injun Joe was the criminal, but he did not dare tell. Little Becky Thatcher snubs Tom's advances. Desolate, he persuades Joe Harper and Huck Finn to join him in a river pirate career. They run away, take shelter on an island. The following day they see river parties searching for their bodies. When piracy falls on the boys, Tom sneaks back to town and is captivated to discover that hope has been given up for them and that a funeral is scheduled for the following day. The boys witness the ceremony, hear the eulogies and spring up just as the ceremony closes.

Chapter Six

Tom, Joe and Huck were juvenile heroes in the town of St. Petersburg, for a good many weeks after their startling reappearance from the dead, but finally the luster of their adventure grew dim. Besides, the approaching trial of Muff Potter, was something else to attract public attention. When court convened, the courtroom was crowded and the boys clustered around the windows outside. The coroner took the witness stand, testified death was caused by a knife in the heart. A storekeeper told of selling the knife to Muff previously. Injun Joe testified he saw Muff stab the doctor that night in the cemetery. Counsel for the prosecution now said: "By the oath of citizens whose simple word is above suspicion, we have fastened this awful crime upon the unhappy prisoner at the bar. We rest our case here." A groan escaped poor Potter. Counsel for the defense rose and said: "Your honor, our remarks at the opening of this trial foreshadowed our purpose to prove our client did this fearful deed under the influence of drunken delirium. We have changed our mind. We shall withdraw that plea and enter a plea of 'not guilty.'" Then to the clerk: "Call Thomas Sawyer." Puzzled amazement stared from every face, including Potter's. Every eye was on Tom as he took the stand. "Thomas Sawyer, where were you on the 17th of June, about midnight?" A contemptuous smile crossed Injun Joe's face. "Now, my boy, tell us everything, and don't be afraid." Tom began, hesitantly, but as he warmed to his subject words flowed easily. Emotional strain was climaxed when the boy said "...we saw the fight. Muff got knocked unconscious. He didn't kill Doc Robinson. The one that stabbed him was —"

Quick as a flash Injun Joe sprang to his feet and hurled his knife. It barely missed the witness. Injun Joe got away.

Tom heard glad news the following Friday morning; Becky Thatcher's picnic was set the next day.

Early next morning hay wagons filled with laughing and singing children, chaperoned by a few young ladies and gentlemen, stopped at the mouth of a wooded valley, three miles below town. The crowd scattered about and soon the vicinity echoed with shouts and laughter. After the feast there was a season of rest under spreading oaks, then somebody shouted: "Let's go to the cave." Everybody was ready. Bundles of candles were provided and there was a general scamper up the hillside. McDougal's cave was a vast labyrinth of crooked aisles. A person might wander days and nights through its intricate tangle of rifts and chasms, and never find the end. No man "knew" the cave. Many of the young men knew part of it, and it was not customary to venture much beyond this known portion. Tom knew as much of the cave as anyone.

By and by, one group after another came straggling back out, panting, smeared with tallow drippings, daubed with clay and entirely delighted with their trip underground. Chaperones herded children into wagons and the tired and happy youngsters sang while riding back to town.

When both wagons arrived, Tom and Becky were found missing. Immediately there was an uproar.

Searching parties in the fastest rigs and on horseback rushed back to the cave. For long and anxious hours, Tom and Becky watched for a rescue party, and at intervals shouted in hope of attracting searchers as they wandered far below the earth's surface in the kaleidoscopic chambers of the great limestone cavern. Several times the boy and the frightened girl, on the verge of hysteria, heard voices, but the echoes of the labyrinthine corridors misled the seekers.

Tom gave Becky one end of his kite string and started to explore one of the numerous corridors. At the end of the passage, he stumbled on a wooden box, half buried in the dry sand of the floor. Throwing back the lid, he found the chest filled with gold pieces — the bloodstained wealth of Murrell the river pirate!

Tom whirled around in excitement, checking a shout of joy when he saw before him, leering, his mortal enemy — Injun Joe!

Speechless, Tom dropped his kite string, and fled, stumbling, the half-breed at his heels.

At the end of a blind passage, Tom turned, and a gloating cry of triumph escaped Injun Joe. Tom, cornered, dragged in frenzy from his pocket the brass door knocker knob — his engagement present from Becky.

Madly he hurled it into the face of his foe. The savage reeled, lost his balance, and plunged with a cry down a dark chasm into a rock-bound pool far below.

Tom gasped, then made his way back to Becky, who was stricken with terror when Tom dropped the kite string.

"If Injun Joe got in, there must be a way out," he said.

Then, after a few minutes of exploration:

"Becky! Becky! I can see the sky!"

Hand in hand, the children climbed to the cave's hidden entrance, and saw before them the green hills with the river gleaming in the sunlight below.

THE END.

Highway Commissioner." Judge Ely declared it his belief that the highway department had never had a more capable commissioner. "The multitude of duties of the complex affairs of the railroad commission, it seems to me, requires the services of a young vigorous and capable man" Judge Ely stated. "I believe the people of Texas will be fortunate to have as a member of the next commission, John Wood. He is absolutely dependable, and his past record for fairness and his ability to make friends of his colleagues will go far to harmonize the commission in its deliberations. John Wood has also received strong endorsements from two former opponents, Senator Will Martin of Hillsboro and former State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher, who withdrew from the race and threw their support to Wood.

Stuart led the fight at Washington for Texas against Federal confiscation of Gulf oil lands that would have taken $100,000,000 from Texas school children through passage of U. S. Senate Bill.

G. A. JERRY SADLER
Lower freight rates, fair treatment of independent enterprise and encouragement of markets for Texas products are advocated by G. A. Jerry Sadler of Longview in his race for State Railroad Commissioner. Sadler is the youngest candidate seeking State office this year, being only 30 years of age. But friends say his hard hitting, fast-moving tactics in the race for Railroad Commissioner furnish ample proof that his age would be no handicap to useful service on the commission. Sadler declares he will seek to reduce freight rates on Texas products if he is successful in his race for Railroad Commissioner. "And, if necessary, I also will seek to strike a balance in freight revenues which would offset the reduction in freight tariffs with increases on rates for luxuries for the rich folks who can afford to pay more." He proposes lifting the weekend shutdown of oil wells "so as to give Texas its share of the national oil market." He asserts that he would humanize the Railroad Commission by representing the plain people without using proxy when they are unable to represent themselves in Austin. He proclaims "a ground swell of rebellion against Wall Street control of Texas" and visions a return of prosperity to Texas "when the principles of John H. Reagan are restored and the Texas Railroad Commission once more become a weapon of the plain people against monopoly and greedy interests."

R. A. (BOB) STUART
Candidate for Railroad Commissioner

Former State Senator Robert A. (Bob) Stuart of Fort Worth declares on his platform: "Texas is being undually held back and discriminated against through unfair orders while the big companies thrive and use the highways at will. "If gas that is now being wilfully burned in Texas fields was consumed we could lift the ad valorem taxes in our state. "I am for the railroads, truck operators, the oil industry and in fact all industries. I am against the big companies transporting freight exclusively on the highways while the small taxpaying operators are forced to take the byways and side roads. As Railroad Commissioner I will eliminate persecution of the small truck operators. "I am for the conservation of our natural resources and the proration of oil but I am against propogating the little fellow out of business and crushing the independent lease holders. "I'm interested in conversation of natural resources because I represent the largest holder of land with natural resources in Texas—I am attorney for the Texas State Teachers Association."

lacking from only seven of the large field. Current reports are the last ones required before the first primary.

Accounts received by the Secretary of State show candidates have spent $76,205, while $22,445 has been contributed to lighten their personal financial outlays. The governor's race continues to draw the largest percentage of contributions.

Ten of the dozen candidates for governor reported expenses of $33,588 with donations amounting to $16,314. Two candidates, Ernest O. Thompson and W. Lee O'Daniel, reported that contribution exceeded expenditure.

O'Daniel's second report showed expenses $2,043.59 and donations of $2,430.69. He has small flour barrels passed among his audiences for collections. His first report listed $1,647.89 expenditures and $2,284 contributions limited by the campaign expense statute to $10,000 and candidates for other State offices to $2,500 for both primaries, four fifths may be spent prior to the first primary election, which is next Saturday. Thus the first campaign limit is $8,000 on gubernatorial candidates and $2,000 on others.

A consolidation of separate reports by Thompson and his campaign manager show total expenditures of $6,024, against $6,245 in receipts. Karl Crowley reported the highest expenditure of a gubernatorial candidate, $7,480, with donations totaling $925.

William McCraw reported that he spent $6,393 and received $1,900 Tom Hunter, $5,037 and no contributions; P. D. Renfro, $2,637, with no contributions since $1,695 previously reported, and Clarence R. Farmer, $903, with $800 donations previously reported.

The least costly campaign, according to the reports, is that of Marvin McCoy, who has spent $190 and received $31 in donations, while S. T. Brogdon has spent $485 and received $4. Neither the first nor second expense account had been received from Joseph King and the second one of James A. Ferguson was not received. Thomas Self had spent $748 and accepted no donation.

Walter Woodul is waging the most expensive campaign for attorney general, according to the reports, his account showing cost of $1,781 and no donations. Ralph Yarborough reported expenses of $1,386 and donations of $358; Gerald C. Mann, $936 spent and $1,000 received; Robert W. Calvert, $1,653 spent and $667 received, and Lewis M. Goodrich $1,432 and no contributions.

In the railroad commissioner race C. V. Terrell reported expenses of $2,809 and donations of $1,175 in seeking reelection, with Frank Morris' costs ranking next, $1,972 and $450 donations. Others were: G. A. Jerry Sadler $1,899 and no contributions; R. A. (Bob) Stuart, $1,218 and no contributions; John Wood, $1,840 and $1,000 contributions, and O. C. Christie unreported.
