ORGAN BEING INSTALLED AT BAPTIST CHURCH

C. J. Porter of the Texas Pipe Organ Company of Waco has been in Gatesville for a week where he is installing the new pipe organ in the First Baptist church of Gatesville.

Mr. Porter also built the organ in Waco Hall at Baylor University in Waco. Estimates are the organ will be installed in three weeks.

The organ has two "manuels" or keyboards, and has been donated by Misses Katie and Molly Bell, the total cost being approximately $7,000.

Organist will be the present pianist Mrs. Ola Mae Parks.

Nearly everything stops in Russia on a Soviet holiday.

DR. ELWORTH LOWREY TO BE WITH FATHER AS M. D.

Dr. Elworth Lowrey, son of Dr. M. W. Lowrey, has just returned to Gatesville where he will be associated with his father in the practice of medicine.

Dr. Lowrey (Elworth), is a graduate of the University of Texas and the Baylor University School of Medicine and has just completed his internship in the City-County Hospital in Fort Worth.

Dr. Lowrey will bring his wife the former Miss Aline Langston, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Roy A. Langston of Fort Worth, and former resident of Gatesville.

CIVIL DISTRICT COURT OPENS WITH EVANT DAMAGE SUIT

Paramount in District Court which started early Monday morning was the case of Catherine Lester vs. Dempster Mill Manufacturing Co., suit for damages alleged resulting from the falling of the water tower at Evant.

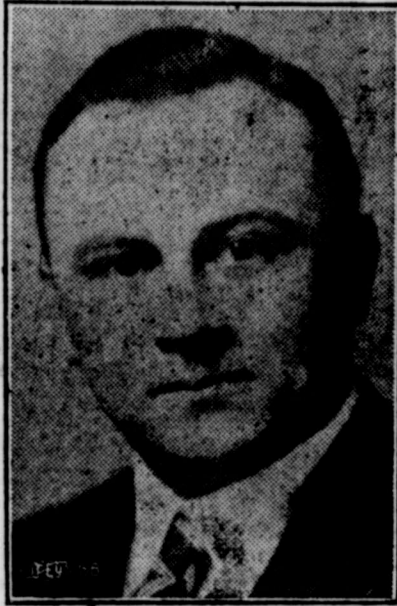

No other cases have come up, or were settled since our last issue, and it is probable the present case will consume the most of this week.

Although the Grand Jury recessed until yesterday, they were back at work, and were not ready to report at a late hour.

ONE HUNDRED FIFTY AT A. T. QUICKSALL BANQUET

One hundred fifty attended the banquet last night honoring A. T. Quicksall, local hog breeder who holds World's record for Ton Litter Contest. Headliners were George Slaughter, President, Texas Swine Breeder's Association, Congressman W. R. Poage, Representative Earl Huddleston, E. T. Nagle of Ft. Worth, and M. T. Poyné of College Station.

Music was furnished by 'Skeet' Shepherd and his trio. Dan E. Graves was toastmaster. Joe B. Walker gave the invocation.

JULY 30, DATE FOR CANVASS OF RETURNS

Saturday, July 30th, according to our "voter's calendar for 1938, is the date the Coryell County Executive Committee meets and canvasses the returns of the "Squabble of 1938".

At this time, County Chairman, C. H. McGilvray, and the Committee men from the thirty-three precincts of the county will meet and give the official report of the First Primary of 1938.

August 2, the final campaign expense statement must be filed for the First Primary, and also the first campaign expense statement for the Second Primary must be filed.

RAIN? WELL, YES! 9.63 SINCE A WEEK

Another landslide was the rain for the past week in these parts, the grand total adding up to an approximate O'Daniel landslide.

It was 9.63 inches. For the past few days, here's the score: 19th, 2.35; 21st, 0.27; 22nd, 2.58; 23rd, 3.92; 24th, 0.14 and, until late yesterday, 0.37.

What's still worse, looks like there's more due.

PAINTER'S HEAD AND EMPLOYEES LEAVE FOR DALLAS

Leaving today for Dallas where they will place orders for Fall merchandise for Painter's, one of Gatesville's finer drygoods stores, are George Painter, owner, and Miss Verna Walters and Mrs. Zelma Brooks of the Ladies Ready-to-wear Departments.

These ladies will assist Mr. Painter in selecting the latest and best of merchandise for fall consumption at the usual low prices which are offered by this store. This week, Mr. Painter will in turn leave for St. Louis markets where additional orders will be placed for more merchandise for every department of the store.

O'DANIEL SWEEPS STATE IN MIGHTIEST RACE IN HISTORY

O'Daniel is your Governor-Elect!

Elected by the largest majority ever given a governor in a First Primary W. Lee O'Daniel was swept in to the Executive Mansion at Austin by a deluge of votes July 23, carrying all counties except Duval and Galveston, at least, being the leading candidate in all but these two counties.

Late Monday afternoon, O'Daniel had a majority of 28,000 over all opponents.

Most County Officials are Re-elected

In our own courthouse, those who's worries are over for two or more years, are County Judge Floyd Zeigler, Tax Assessor-Collector Dave H. Culberson, County Clerk has, P. Mounce, and County Attorney C. E. Alvis, Jr.

Disputed county races are: Sheriff's with a run-off between White and Brown; County Supt. Wither and Stockburger.

Other races: Flentge lost to Allen, Burney and Huddleston have a run-off; Black won Constable, Precinct 1; Preston, Public Weigher, Precinct 1; Painter Commissioner Beat 4; Beat 1, Turner and Preston have a run-off; Beat 2, Price and Leonhard run-off; Beat 3, Johnson and Gohlke run-off; Justice of the Peace, Shirley and Miller in run-off.

State Races Again

Winners in the state races are: Geo. H. Shepherd won Comptroller's; Charley Lockhart won State Treasurer; and J. E. McDonald won Commissioner of Agriculture.

Runner-Offers in the state are Pierce Brooks and Coke Stevenson, for Lieut. Governor; Walter Woodul and Gerald Mann in the Attorney General's race C. V. Terrell and G. A. (Jerry) Sadler in R. R. Commissioner; Critz and Davidson in Associate Justice Supreme Court; Graves and Stephens in Justice Court of Criminal Appeals.

George is leading in all but one county out of the 16, over Barcus in the 10th Court of Civil Appeals race, according to late reports.

Estimates are that the total vote will approach the million mark, although rain cut it somewhat.

Third Ram and Billy Sale Scheduled for Aug. 1; Many Entries Being Received

Coryell County's Third Annual Ram and Billy Sale which is scheduled for August 1 is attracting state-wide attention according to information received from County Agent Guy Powell's office.

Entries are coming in daily from raisers from out of the county, and increased interest is being shown locally. Entries so far from out of the county are: W. H. Rawlings, President Texas Angora Goat Association, Junction, Angoras; S. W. Dismukes, Rock Springs, Delaines and Angoras; L. A. Clark, Rock Springs Angoras and Delaines; W. L. Davis, Sonora, Angoras; John Powell & Son, Menard; Rambouillets and Angoras; Geo. Broome, San Angelo, Rambouillets; Wallace Hendricks, San Angelo, Rambouillets; Zack Jones, San Angelo, Rambouillets. P. E. Culley, Uvalde, Rambouillets and Angoras. Clyde Glimp Lometa, Delaines; W. H. Simmons, Brownwood, Rambouillets; Paul Dright Justin, Shropshire; Joe Dixon, Gleen Retreat Farms, Dorchester Hampshire; Craig Logan Valley Mills, Rambouillets; Ernest Johle, Clifton, Rambouillets; Frank R. Kimbrough, Salado, Delaines; Otto and Viertel, Cransfill Gap, Angoras; L. E. Summers Hamilton and Comanche, Rambouillets; W. T. Watson, Hamilton, Delaines; and J. L. Billingsley and Son, Hamilton, Rambouillets. A large number of local men have also signified their intention of being on hand with animals for trade or sale.

This will be an ideal opportunity for the local sheep and goat men to secure quality rams and billies and since the recent rains have stimulated the sheep and goat industry in most parts of Texas and the prices of both sheep and goats, and wool and mohair are on an upward trend the men of this county should take advantage of this opportunity and secure their sires for the coming season. Indications are that this will be one of the major sales in the state therefore why go elsewhere to secure your rams and billies when the same quality animals may be secured at this sale?

Both local and out of county breeders are urged by the Coryell County Sheep and Goat Raisers Association sponsors of this annual event with H. J. White as 1938 General Chairman to attend this private treaty sale and bring some animals with them. The pens which will be furnished by local people to all entrants free of charge, will be available in the Brown Gin Lot on July 31st.

Entry of County Association of WTCC Soil and Water Conservation Contest

Gatesville Chamber of Commerce has entered the county in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Soil and Water Contest which is sponsored by that organization with headquarters at Abilene.

This contest carries with it prizes of $500, $300 and $200 for the winners in this contest

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL NOTES

Patients in the Hospital are: Mrs. Chester Baize and son, Ted Liljedahl, Edith Raby Lackey which prizes is or the best work done in soil and water and their utilization.

In a letter of acceptance to the WTCC Secretary Horace K. Jackson and Chairman W. E. Lasseter, of the newly formed County Soil & Water Utilization Committee the following personnel have been named: Dan E. Graves, M. Blankenship, E. E. McCallister, W. E. Lasseter H. K. Jackson, Guy Powell Alf Lockhart, Sam Powell, Lloyd Williamson and J. C. Fore have been named as the heads of the movement.

In addition to the above contest, those in charge have indicated Coryell County will have a display at the State Fair of Texas which will be held this Fall in Dallas.

Both these movements and ideas are for the benefit of the entire citizenship of the county, and will materially assist every endeavor within the county.

The SPORT SCROLL

By POST

Jupiter Pluvius played havoc with Sunday's schedule in the Sunday Baseball League, all games being postponed because of wet grounds. It is this corner's suggestion that the games be played as soon as possible even if the teams are forced to play on week days, because it is imperative that the league schedule be completed by August 1.

The feature battle of the day was to have been the Mound-Jonesboro battle, and that game would attract a great crowd, even on a week day. If we receive any information as to when that game will be played, we will try to print it before the contest takes place.

Rain has also plagued the Texas semi-pro tournament. All the games Friday and Saturday were rained out but two of the Sunday games were played, one of which saw the Alvin Texacos whip Mount Pleasant, 6-2, in the first upset of the tournament. This Alvin bunch may develop into the dark horse of the tournament.

It is rumored that Morley Jennings, head baseball mentor at Baylor University will be among those present" at the league play-off. It is also whispered that he comes for the explicit purpose of looking over Sonny Hair and Schoolboy Rutherford the two outstanding youngsters of the Mound team.

Just when it seemed that the Coca-Cola team, league leaders in the city softball circuit, was going down to defeat the heavens opened up and sent down a heavy downpour of rain to save the Bottlers faces. For who was beating them but the Merchants, who at the present are roosting on the cellar roof. The score was 6-5 at the end of the fourth, and had the battle continued for one more round with the Merchants still holding their lead, a big black mark would have been chalked on the wrong side of the ledger of the Bottlers' season record.

MISSIONARY FROM CHINA SPEAKER AT BAPTIST CHURCH

At the First Baptist church, today, Miss Mary Willeford who for the past thirty-four years has been a missionary to China will be an interesting speaker.

Besides speaking, Miss Willeford will bring curios and mementos from China which will add interest to the message.

All women of the Leon River Association are urged to attend according to Mrs. Evan J. Smith.

LOCAL LAND OWNER SOLVING OWN EROSION PROBLEMS

Byron Leaird, a Coryell county land owner, is fast solving his own erosion problems on his farm in the White Hall community. Mr. Leaird with the cooperation and assistance of his tenant, A. B. Graham has during the past two years established a terrace system which is doing much to retard present erosion damages and to heal gullies formed by erosion in the past.

Mr. Leaird and Mr. Graham, both of whom are well aware of the effect and cost of uncontrolled erosion, have observed and inspected several demonstrations of complete conservation established in this county by the Soil Conservation Service.

These observations have recently convinced Mr. Graham that strip cropping should be used in connection with their terrace system in order to give more complete and effective protection. Even though Mr. Leaird was first opposed to the use of Bermuda grass on a tenant operated farm to control terrace outlets excessive rains during the past winter lead him to believe that the danger of placing Bermuda grass near the edge of a cultivated field is more than off-set by the effective and economical protection it affords in preventing the forming of gullies at terrace outlets.

Each year, more farmers of this county are realizing the importance of soil conservation, and are beginning to install systems on their own farms. This 118 demonstrations which have been established in this area by the Soil Conservation Service are proving very valuable to these farmers in determining which practices are more adaptable to their own situations.

Mrs. George Bone recently left for Amarillo where she is spending two weeks with relatives.

RETAIL CREDIT ASS'N IS DISTINCT ADVANTAGE TO ALL

"A program on constructive economy in state affairs will avoid any necessity for new taxes upon the people at this time; yet present and certain additional functions of government can be provided by the Legislature when it convenes in January 1939. Opposition to any form of tax on wage earners, salaried workers, tenant farmers, or other consumers in the form of a Sales or so-called Luxury Tax is expressed by Candidates for the Legislature," says Evan J. Smith Secretary of Gatesville Retail Merchants Association.

The local merchants association bases its statement on a surprisingly large number of answers received to an inquiry sent recently by Council of Texas Retailers' Associations to the 543 candidates for the Texas Legislature. Eleven state wide retail merchants association compose the membership of the council. The merchants group in Gatesville is one of 175 city associations in Texas affiliated with the Retail Merchants Association of Texas, which is one of the retail organizations composing the membership of the Council.

Candidates for the Legislature were asked in the questionnaire to reveal their stand on two issues.

First: Are you in favor of a program of constructive economy in state affairs so as to avoid, or reduce to a minimum, any necessity for new taxes upon the people at this time?

Second: Will you oppose any new consumer taxes in any form whatever, such as the Sales Tax or Selective Sales Tax, or so-called Luxury Tax, or any similar tax calculated on the selling price of merchandise, services or commodities?

The various merchant groups in Texas have been for several years active in pointing out facts about the cost of the state government, which has increased 670 per cent in the past twenty years. During this same period the value of property increased only 443 per cent, and the population gain was 38 per cent. It costs as much to run the state government in Texas as it costs to run the four state government in Indiana, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas. Texas has an estimated population of 6,000,000. The four states above have a population of 9,252,000.

WE FIGHT FOR HUMAN LIVES

Last year the mighty Mississippi was in flood. The nation watched the headlines with anxious eyes as an army of rescue workers fought the hungry river—fought death and disease and starvation. Our newspapers told a daily story of heroic sacrifice as dauntless volunteers saved lives cared for the sick, and gave food to the hungry and homeless. We were proud of these unselfish workers. The nation called them "heroes of peace".

This morning another army took the field. It fought for human lives but there was no national disaster. The enemy not the river but death and poverty, and that inevitable, incurable disease—old age. This army went out, a hundred thousand strong, into homes and offices and factories. All day it offered help. It said to the father, "Let us help. Though you die tomorrow we will give your children a happy childhood and a good education." It said to the business man, "We will help you save. When you retire, you will still have an income for life." To a great industry it said,

"Your workers are insured against old age poverty. They will not need charity when they are too old to work". Comforting a widowed mother, the life insurance army said, "Your husband believed in us. He protects you, even in death."

This great army did many such things. It saved an old man from the poorhouse. It sent a boy to college. It fed a poor hungry child. It saved a home. Everywhere its soldiers fought to protect the young and the aged, to make human lives, richer or happier or more useful. Everywhere, life insurance gave the meaning to life, even in the face of death. "We fight for human lives!"

HINT FOR THE HOUSE

by Mary Talbot

I LOVE my bathroom! Sounds crazy, maybe, but I do. When I was little I sailed my brother's boats in the tub, I washed doll dresses in the washbowl. In my teens I primped in front of the mirror. In my thirties I spent delicious hours "preserving my beauty" with all kinds of promiscuous creams and lotions. And now, with three half-grown children of my own, my late afternoon tub seems to be the only place where I can be let alone!

That's why I'm always interested in a new idea for making the bathroom attractive. Paint, glass shelves, makeup mirrors - I've tried them all, but here's something so simple, so inexpensive and so utterly necessary that I just have to tell other women about it. It is a new odorless household deodorant and it ends the least trace of bathroom smell once and for all.

The deodorant comes in the form of a white powder and you simply mix a little with some water and wipe surfaces gently. If you prefer, you can spray it in the air. Unlike strong disinfectants, it leaves no trace of odor of its own. Better still, it is harmless.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and jobs.

What you may need is a particularly good woman's tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and thus help calm your shrieking nerves, give more energy and make life worth living again.

More than a million women have reported benefit—why not let Pinkham's Compound help YOU, too, to go "smiling thru" trying times like it has other grateful women for the past 3 generations? IT MUST BE GOOD!

without stirring Strawberries, apricots or apple sauce may be used in place of peaches if desired.

ALLIGATOR PEAR SALAD
Chill three alligator pears. Cut in halves and remove stones. Peel and cut in to cubes. Serve on crisp lettuce and sprinkle with chopped almonds. Another way to serve alligator pears is to cut the pears in halves and scoop out the pulp, being careful not to break skin. Cut the pulp in pieces and combine with pieces of grapefruit or balls of cantaloupe. Mix with French dressing and refill skins. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

CANTALOUPE SALAD
Cut three cantaloupes in halves and remove seeds. Scoop out balls with a French vegetable cutter. Chill thoroughly. Mix with French dressing in which 3 table spoons of pineapple juice, 3 table spoons of orange juice and 1 teaspoon of sugar has been blended. Arrange in heart leaves of lettuce and sprinkle with three table spoons finely chopped Maraschino cherries.

ROLLED LETTUCE SALAD
Mash 1 package cream cheese and mix 1/4 cup ground broiled ham, 2 table spoons India relish. Spread in thin layers on 6 lettuce leaves, roll and chill. Cut in rolls in inch lengths and serves on lettuce with French dressing.

STUFFED TOMATOES
Use chopped hard cooked, eggs moisten with cream and seasoned with salt and pepper and mustard or diced cucumber, chopped watercress and mayonnaise or asparagus with Russian dressing.

Now when the markets are filled with the fruits of summer prices are lower and variety greater, it is the time to branch out a bit in your menu planning. Get away from the old trite way of preparing and serving summer vegetables and fruits. Choose new and distinctive recipes—they well add interest to your meals and zest to wilted appetites.

FRENCH FRIED CABBAGE
Soak four cups coarsely shredded cabbage in cold water until crisp. Drain dry and dip in milk and in flour. Fry—a few shreds at a time in deep fat (375 degrees F.) until golden brown. Salt hot.

LIMA BEAN FRITTERS
To your favorite fritter batter add 1 cup cooked lima beans and 1 table spoon chopped pimento. Serve with cheese sauce.

CREAMED PEAS AND MUSHROOMS
2 tbsp butter, 1 cup canned mushrooms, 1/2 cup mushroom liquor 2 tbsp flour 1 cup milk 1/2 tsp salt, 2 1/2 cups cooked peas.
Melt the butter in the sauce pan. Drain liquid from mushrooms and brown them slightly in the fat. Push mushrooms to one side and stir in flour. Add mushroom liquor gradually, then the milk and seasoning. Cook until thickened and add peas.

GREEN PEAS IN BOUILLON
Cook green peas in canned bouillon instead of water, using enough to cover the bottom of a saucepan to the depth of 1/2 inch.

CURRIED SUCCOTASH
1 1/2 cups cooked lima beans, drained, 1 1/2 cups cooked corn cut from the cob, 1-4 cup cream, 1 tbsp. butter, 1 tsp. granulated sugar, 1 tsp. curry powder. Salt and perer.

Heat the lima beans and corn to boiling. Season with the cream, butter, sugar, curry powder, salt and pepper. Cook for a few minutes longer.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

ACTORS have a great life. Some of the best of it comes in talking it all over together. These folks have ups and downs about as much as any people in the world, I reckon, but they hardly ever cry about it. One of them maybe has his name in big lights this week, and next month he's imitating a thunderstorm off in the wings somewhere. He gets just as much fun out of talking it over as he ever did, though.

Two actors were talking, in a little restaurant in New York, about this year's shows and last year's shows. They found out that it was awful hard to remember what the shows of last year were. Even an actor forgets them that quick.

"Well," said one of them, "what I'm talking about is the show last year that didn't have any bed in it. You remember—"

"No," says the other one, "I don't think I do. No bed in it. That must have been the Miracle!"

"We pledge ourselves faithfully to observe the provisions of this Code of Practice convinced that Beer is the Nation's Bulwark of Moderation."

Wide-spread Praise follows adoption of Code of Practice by members of Brewers Foundation

THE PUBLIC'S response to the adoption of a Code of Practice by the members of the Brewers Foundation was prompt and favorable.

Newspapers, social service groups and thousands of individuals expressed great satisfaction with the brewers' determination to conduct their business in accord with the desires and conscience of the American public.

The Code pledges the brewers publicly to "support the duly constituted authorities in the elimination of anti-social conditions wherever they may surround the sale of beer to the consumer."

How far we can go, and how soon, depends very much on ourselves . . . but partly also on you.

Public opinion once aroused, can operate to bring about honest enforcement of existing laws. Restriction of your patronage only to legal, respectable retail outlets can and will operate to raise retailing standards.

Public preference for the products of Foundation members, identified by the symbol reproduced below, will bear witness of your approval both to members and to cooperating retailers, and will encourage them to renewed efforts.

HERBERT MARSHALL HEAD CAST IN NEW DURBIN HIT

One of the finest casts ever assembled in support of Deanna Durbin will be seen in her current Universal production, "Mad about Music" showing at the REGAL Theatre, Sat. Nite, Sun. and Mon.

In the principal featured role with Deanna is Herbert Marshall, one of the finest actors in America. The principal feminine role, that of Deanna's young mother, is played by beautiful and popular Gail Patrick.

William Frawley screen veteran, is seen as Dusty Rhoades, a theatrical manager. Arthur Treacher noted English comedian is also featured.

Marcia Mae Jones and Helen Parris two well known screen youngsters, are cast as school-mates of the star. Jackie Moran from the cast of "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" enjoys the distinction of being the first boy to play Deanna's sweetheart. His chum is played by Charles Peck.

In character roles are Christian Rub, Elisabeth Risdon, Charles Judells and Bert Roach. Producer Joe Pasternak even secured Sid Grauman Hollywood's cinema theatre impresario, to do an "impersonation" of himself.

"Mad about Music" is Miss

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, TUESDAY JULY 26, 1938

NUMBER 61

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

Few Texas editors indorsed candidates in the hurly burly of the twelve-man governor's fight.

Charles A. Guy, editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, in a statement, appeared to voice the consensus of editorial sanctums: "The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal for the first time in 14 years has not endorsed a gubernatorial candidate in the present campaign. We will wait for the voters to narrow down the large field and decide between the overlapping platforms, and then endorse the candidate whose platform to us offers the best possibilities to all of Texas."

Other important newspapers, however, endorsed Ernest O. Thompson, William McCraw and W. Lee O'Daniel.

On the basis of Rio Grande Valley interests, Carl C. McKee, editor-in-chief of the Harlington Valley Morning Star, the Brownsville Herald and a McAllen paper came out for the Fort Worth flour broker political flash.

"It looks as though W. Lee O'Daniel will be the high man in the run-off, some are even claiming no run-off will be necessary," said McKee Saturday. "The value will need help from the governor. Let's give O'Daniel a vote which will gain his co-operation and good will in the solving of our valley problems."

O'Daniel stated Friday he didn't know how many newspapers had indorsed him but he thought there were many.

The important Dallas Times Herald championed William McCraw throughout the campaign. Three Texas newspapers, the Scripps-Howard chain, the Houston Press, the Fort Worth Press and the El Paso Herald-Post also formally indorsed the attorney general for the governorship.

"McCraw has a progressive, liberal program," declared the Houston Press. "He has the brain to conceive and the experience to guide, and most important the courage to fight, the warmth of personality to persuade and the ability to get things done which will put his ideas into effect."

The Paris News, edited by A. G. Pat Mayse, reaffirmed its indorsement of McCraw as an experienced public servant. "As district attorney of Dallas county, as attorney general of the state of Texas, he has been able and efficient. The News believes he would be equally able and efficient as governor."

Staunchest of McCraw's editorial supporters has been fiery Longview publisher, Carl Estes, who challenged Governor Allred to a radio duel last week.

Ernest Thompson's candidacy received the stamp of formal approval from the influential Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and also from the Amarillo Globe-News, edited in Thompson's home city.

"Thompson has an excellent public and private record," declared the Globe-News, published by Gene Howe and edited by John McCarty.

"Every step in his climb upward has been one which he could be proud of from the time he sold newspapers on the streets of Amarillo until today. He is recognized as the most able and conservative candidate in the governor's race. His platform and program have drawn unstinted praise all over Texas."

... and they did!

These Upraised Hands Will Mark O'Daniel Ballots

The Corpus Christi Call-Times published in the rapidly developing gulf coast city, supporting Tompson, said: "His platform is too well known to need further elaboration. It is simple, clear and sensible. But it would mean nothing—as any platform means nothing—if its genuineness were not guaranteed by the well known and proved character of the man who stands upon it."

Neither the Houston Post nor the Houston Chronicle indorsed gubernatorial candidates. Like the Dallas Morning News, these newspapers discussed the issues of the campaign and urged voters to make their choice at the polls.

CODE OF PRACTICE

From The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution
Few industries have approached their problems, as they affect the public well-being, with more comprehensive programs than that which has been adopted by the brewing industry of the United States. Not only the program itself, but the evident sincerity behind it, gives evidence the brewers are determined their product shall achieve and hold that place as a desirable commodity which is rightfully its due. If the leaders of the industry have their way, there will never be any return to the undesirable conditions which gave beer and ale an undesired bad reputation in the old days before the unfortunate prohibition experiment.

The United Brewers Industrial Foundation, meeting in convention, adopted a "code of practice." This code contains eight pledges, all significant but none more so than the fourth, which reads:

"We pledge our support to the duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions wherever they may surround the sale of beer to the consumer."

The industry has, in many instances, demonstrated the sincerity of that pledge. It realizes that conditions of beer sale or consumption which may arouse criticism harm the industry more than any other concerned.

That the brewers have contributed tremendously to economic improvement in the United States since legalization of their products is attested by an impressive array of statistics. At the very inception of the return of legal beer the industry spent $200,000,000 on repairs, rehabilitation and new construction of plants. Since 1933, $45,000,000 has been paid for beer barrels alone, while $32,000,000 has gone for bottles. Cans, a packaging innovation of the past three years, are costing $19,000,000 annually.

The United States Treasury has collected $1,180,000,000 from the federal tax on beer, while states and municipalities have gained $500,000,000 in local taxes.

The brewers themselves have paid out $300,000,000 in pay rolls, while other gains to labor through allied industries can only be estimated. The pay rolls for retail outlets must run into the billions. There are innumerable other figures which support the brewers in their claims as to the economic importance of the industry.

It is, therefore, not surprising that the brewers themselves are doing everything within their power to keep the consumption of beer on the high, legal plane which it deserves as a mild beverage and a health-giving product.

In conclusion, it should be noted that agriculture is a large beneficiary of brewing expenditures. Four-fifths of the hops used is raised in the United States. Three billion pounds of grain was bought by the brewing industry in 1937 alone at a cost of $115,000,000, with that total increasing each year. Corn producers, in the five years since legalization, have received $15,000,000 from the brewers, while domestic rice growers have profited to the extent of $2,000,000.

LEISURE FOR PLANNING AHEAD

At this time of the season, between final cultivation and fall harvest, there is more leisure for both pleasure and profit than for several months to come. It is a mighty good time to visit around and see what other farmers are doing, to gather ideas and useful information, to digest it and adapt it to use at home to make plans for next year's operations. If planning is delayed until after the rush of fall harvesting it is too late to get ready for some of the things one may want to do next year.

Nobody can convince E. C. Davis tenant farmer of Conway county Arkansas that it doesn't pay to plan ahead and down steps necessary to reach certain goals. Sitting down with his county and home agent and farm management specialist Mr. and Mrs. Davis worked out a plan which called for 16 definite things to be done within the year, in order to improve their living conditions and provide a more dependable income. They set their goals pretty high; it scarcely looked possible to carry out every point in the plan. But they found planning each step far ahead helped to get the job done at the proper time, and they fulfilled the entire 16 parts of the plan the first year. Now they can raise their goals.

It would have been too late to "plant two acres of grain for chickens" if the Davis family had waited until after Christmas to plan the year's work; or to sow 36 acres of cotton land in vetch to be plowed under next spring.

These are only two of the items of the 16, but serve to in planning is essential to good farming practices.

Every farm family and its farm is a different problem. Some families are satisfied with less than others, some want one thing, some another, and the problem is to make the farm give the family what it wants. Vague hoping for a lucky break with big yields and high prices doesn't usually bring results. Weather or something else beyond control may defeat the best of plans, but working without for more defeats than weather. A definite plan is responsible.

Do we want a fall garden, a good table and full pantry next winter? It's time to get around ready and buy seed. Do we need winter grazing for livestock and poultry, it's time to decide where it is going to be and get ready for sowing on the fall rains. Do we want the best prices for Christmas and Christmas turkeys? The grain for fattening must be in the bin several weeks before marketing time. Does the land need a winter cover? Seed can usually be bought more cheaply ahead of planting season than when everybody wants them.

Nearly all farm families plan ahead to some extent, but too few take the time and trouble to work out their needs and the plans to meet them in definite form. Merely doing this and getting them down on paper is no job for a half hour's casual conversation. It takes time to discuss, adjust and work out the details, and there is no better time than the few weeks just about now. The first plan will usually be revised several times by study and discussion, and is therefore a good idea to lay aside for a few days while everybody thinks it over. Then bring it out and work it over at intervals until all its weaknesses are ruled out.

A great deal of help can be had from county agents, home demonstration agents, farm management specialists in extension service, and vocational teachers who are technically trained in the many matters that enter into a complete home and farm management plan. Call on them, get bulletins and study them, and go at the job carefully and thoroughly as a manufacturer plans the construction and operation of his plant. This takes time and we can't start too soon; the time spent in planning is worth more than any other equal time.

SUNDAY MARKED DAY FOR ROGERS REUNION

Sunday, July 17, marked the day for the annual reunion of the Rogers family which met at Levita in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Rogers. Humble men and women are scattered through the length and breadth of Texas, for in its various activities of producing, refining and marketing Texas oil the Humble Company furnishes jobs for some 14,000 Texans.

These folks are not strangers in the communities to which their varied jobs carry them; they're homefolks. They take their place in the community's life. They're interested in the schools, the churches, the civic organizations. They're your neighbors they live next door, across the street, in the next block.

The Humble Company is proud of these men and women, counts them as its greatest asset, hopes that through them, your neighbors, you look on Humble as a neighbor, too—a neighbor warmly interested in the upbuilding of a common community. For the Humble Company is Texan, too, and very proud of it.

ALEXANDER KORDA presents
"ELEPHANT BOY"
 Based on "Toomal of the Elephants" by
RUDYARD KIPLING

Chapter One

Kala Nag was the mightiest elephant in all India. None disputed the greatness of his strength, his wisdom and his cunning, far surpassing those of any other elephant in as many generations as man could remember.

Now Kala Nag was mighty and he was wise, but he was faithful also to his masters, and had been faithful to his owner and to his children and to his children's children for more than threescore years. His first owner had been the great Toomal, known to his fellows as Toomal of the Elephants because of his prowess in the hunt. Toomal of the Elephants had long since been honorably gathered to his fathers, and today his grandson, called Big Toomal, owned, worked with and loved the mighty Kala Nag.

Big Toomal was a just and a grave man, but his son, Little Toomal, scarcely ten years old, was happy by nature and full of joyous mischief. And so it was that tund little man, appeared in the doorway.

"My Melons!" shouted the fat man indignantly. Little Toomal, wasting no words, urged his elephant to speed, and away they went. Little Toomal, breakfasting on the melon (and not forgetting to give his faithful servant a chunk) looked behind and saw the little man comically trying to chase them.

"You'll be a better runner if you eat less!" he called back cheerily.

Having finished his meal, Little Toomal looked about for a napkin with which to remove the melon juice from his fingers. His problem was solved when he found a rich-looking silk petticoat hanging on the balcony of an imposing-looking house inhabited by a professional beauty of the town. The boy whisked off the garment, wiped his fingers thoroughly, and then rolled it up for a cushion, followed by the shrill screams of the bejeweled lady as Kala Nag sped along.

Meanwhile, far off in the hills Petersen Sahib, known as the mightiest white huntsman in India moved slowly with his caravan toon a sunny morning when he should have been busy about his tasks, he rode through the main street of the village on Kala Nag's broad back, looking for such amusement as might be found by a ten-year-old lad and a seventy-year-old elephant.

The first thing that met Little Toomal's eye, lying lazily on the elephant's back as they jogged along the street, was a pathetically amusing little scene. A young lad stood in front of a house and gazed yearningly up at the balcony where, from behind the window curtains, the face of his lady love could be seen peeping out. The lover sighed hopelessly; there was no way of getting up on the balcony to join his beloved. No way, that is, until Little Toomal came by, grinned and whispered a few words to his elephant. And Kala Nag, with a sly gleam in his eye, lifted the boy in his trunk, deposited him on the balcony and into the arms of his sweetheart, and shuffled along on his way, while the girl's mother, who had observed the entire scene from another window, gave vent to her anger.

"How dare you — insolent? You'll cry for this!" shouted the enraged mother.

"You'll smile and then you'll be beautiful," cried Little Toomal, as they proceeded out of earshot.

Next they spied a house on the roof of which grew some tempting-looking melons. Little Toomal gave the command; back curled Kala Nag's trunk to enfold him, and the boy was raised up toward the fruit.

Miraculously escaping a fall to the ground, he seized a large melon in his arms — just at the moment when the householder, a brown, roward the valley in which Toomal lived, and in which he purposed hiring men and elephants to assist him in a great Keddah, or wild elephant hunt. He was joined by his native employees, the head tracker and the Havildar (inspector of the native beaters), who had ridden from the valley to meet him after arranging for the hiring of the coolies.

"Why so late?" demanded Petersen Sahib.

"The coolies would not come — they are afraid of evil spirits," replied the Havildar. "Finally I had to promise them sacrifices to their gods."

"They agreed to meet us, then?"

"Yes."

Petersen Sahib and his caravan moved on toward the valley.

Little Toomal and Kala Nag meanwhile, having bathed in the river, were lumbering back through the village to the tent of Toomal's father. Little Toomal could scarcely wait for the thrilling moment when he would see the great Petersen Sahib.

Singing happily, Little Toomal dismounted, chained Kala Nag, and skipped into his father's tent. His song was suddenly stilled when he saw his father, gazing at him with his face like a black cloud. Behind Big Toomal was a reception committee awaiting the boy: the woman to whose daughter's room he had assisted the lover; the man from whom he had filched the melon; and the owner of the silk petticoat. With one motion they advanced threateningly on the little boy.
