

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

Calling on the plain people of Texas who have remonstrated their demand for honesty and decency in government to continue their fight in the second primary, Gerald C. Mann opened his runoff campaign for attorney general at Corsicana with a pledge of loyalty to the new chief executive of the state and an appeal for the support of his defeated opponent's friends.

Before a crowd on the courthouse square, Mann pointed to his record of nearly 300,000 votes in the first primary in support of his fight for a "clean decent government."

"I am heartily and completely in accord with the policies of our new governor and his pledge for an honest, straightforward business administration," the candidate declared. "The attorney general is the legal advisor of the governor of Texas, and I pledge you my fullest cooperation."

"I deeply appreciate the help and support of the many loyal friends of Ralph Yarborough, Bob Calvert, and Lewis Goodrich who are interested, like their candidate, in honest government. Hundreds of them are daily aligning themselves with my campaign."

"The people of Texas spoke forcefully in their demand for a fair deal for every citizen from the humblest to the greatest. I am determined to give you that kind of service. We have made much headway, but the victory is not yet won. The fight is still on. Let us join hands and work together."

Mann, a football star at S. M. U. fourteen years ago, was introduced by another gridiron star, Bobby Wilson, a native of Corsicana, who recommended to his fellow townsmen the candidate "whose record in public service matches his fame in college".

The Garner-for-President boom received the notice and appreciation of Travis county Democrats at their local convention.

Adopted was a resolution taking cognizance of the vice president's prominence nationally. It said in part:

"We recall with pride that the Honorable John Nance Garner began his notable career in Travis county. Our distinguished fellow Texan has raised the vice presidency to its highest prestige in the history of the country, and his warmhearted but sound liberalism has been an inspiration to his party and nation in a period of change and distress."

"Though numerous high honors have been conferred upon him, he has remained a rugged, forthright Texan, with pioneer hardihood and courage—a worthy successor in the tradition of Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin.

"He has been President Roosevelt's strong right arm and has done much to inspire general confidence in the party leadership and government."

"He has brought much prominence and glory to Texas and has enabled his state to have a weighty influence in national affairs."

"Democrats throughout the nation are urging his continued leadership and are booming him for the presidential nomination in 1940."

"We are proud of Vice President Garner's distinguished achievement and are most grateful for his services to Texas. We, as Texas Democrats, express our appreciation for the nationwide acclaim given John Nance Garner."

The Od Security League of Texas endorsed Pierce Brooks for lieutenant governor, Gerald C. Mann for attorney general and G. A. Jerry Sadler for railroad commissioner last week according to John A. Tabor, chairman of the advisory board.

Pierce Brooks candidate for lieutenant governor, opened his stump speaking for the runoff at Brownwood, Thursday night. Brooks, who says he is a business's candidate, said he has no campaign manager, except himself, and that he is not supported or directed by "any professional old-line politicians."

Jimmy Preston, Fort Worth, who traveled with W. Lee O'Daniel during his campaign for governor handling his publicity has been employed to handle Brooks' publicity or the runoff.

An unusually high percentage of members of the House of Representatives survived the first primary with 72 winning re-election to a compilation of election results by W. E. Long.

Twenty two members were chosen at the first primary. Long's compilation of results showed, while in 31 runoff campaigns none of the candidates is now a member. Twenty-five members face another campaign in their efforts to win re-election. Forty-two representatives retired voluntarily.

Three new senators were nominated at the first primary while in two runoffs none of the candidates is now member and two incumbents face second campaigns.

In this district, Earl Huddleston, Oglesby, incumbent and Weldon Burney, Evant, are in the runoff.

I ATTENDED THE SHORT COURSE AT A. & M.

By ARA MAE BLACK
Of Ewing, County Winner in Canning.

So that you will understand the location of College Station better I will tell you the names of the towns we went thru, after Gatesville. The first town we went thru was McGeheer, then Waco, Mart, Riesel, Perry, Marlin, Reagan Bremond, Hammond, Calvert Hearne then to Bryan, which is a very short distance from College Station.

When we arrived at College Station we went to the main building and had my room assigned me which was Puryear Hall Ramp 4, Room 87. Ramp means the same as group did at the encampment.

After being assigned to my section, which was section 5, we went to the assembly hall, this was something like the assembly at the Encampment. We sang many beautiful songs, which were led by Walter Jenkins a great singer from Houston. We also met Walter Britten, L. L. Johnson, and Miss Onah Jack at the assembly, and had our picture made.

At 10:45 Ramp 4, 5 and 6, went to the Petroleum Lecture room and elected section chairman, ramp leaders, section leaders and floor leaders.

Next we went to our rooms and got ready for dinner. All the girls got partners and marched to the Mess Hall. The Mess Hall was a very large building twenty six hundred boys and girls ate at the same time.

From 2:30 until 4:30 4-H club girls; "How I Got on Friendly Terms with Some of the Things About men".

From 4:30 until supper was rest time. After supper we went to the show. "I Pledge My Heart" and "Wild and Wooley" was showing. After returning from the show we played games until 10 and at 10:30 every one was in bed.

July 7 we got up about 6 or 6:30, marched to breakfast, returned to our rooms, cleaned house and at 10:15 went to Agriculture Engineering Lecture room and girls that once were 4-H club girls talked on a 4-H club girls, "Dollars and Sense."

The girls in the Canned Products judging contest stayed here about 15 minutes and went to the Chemistry Laboratory to the judging contest. Grace I. Neely was in charge. There were about 40 girls entered the first division.

After eating dinner we rested until 2:30 then went to the Physics Lecture room and W. P. Taylor explained wild life to us which was of birds mostly. They had about 100 birds mounted and he told us their names.

We ate supper and went to the Stadium at 7:30. E. R. Eudaly presented "Comic, Mysterious, Athletic and Marvelous Stunts."

July 8 at 10:15 we went to Gulon Hall. Nell Parmey led us in some songs; Ruth Fooshee explained "What 4-H means to a College Girl"; Dora R. Barnes and Jane Alden went over a style review. Nell Parmey played and sang a special song, and Bess Edwards went over "The Meaning of the 4-H's with us."

At 12:28 I got on the bus and started for home with my mind made up that if possible I will go back to the Short course next year.

Although I didn't win in the contest, I thought the trip was well worth while.

NOTICE TO FARMERS WHO ARE IN THE RANGE PROGRAM

May 1, 1938 was the date set by the county committee of Coryell County, and approved by the State committee, as the date for beginning the practice of deferred grazing. All stock were taken off this designated area and kept off for a period of 5 months. Spot check reports have revealed that some ranchmen have allowed stock to graze in these areas designated for deferred grazing, or resting, before the 5 month period was up. Such action will disqualify a ranchman for a range payment on that practice.

GIDDY-UP NEW STYLE

● The gently rolling character of most Texas farm land lends itself admirably to tractor farming, and the number of tractors on Texas farms and ranches is growing by leaps and bounds. The chug-chug of an internal combustion engine is the modern giddy-up on Texas farms.

In keeping with its policy to provide Texans with the petroleum products they need, the Humble Company supplies motor fuels for every type of tractor. Most farmers, however, are buying their new tractors equipped with high compression motors; others are converting old-type tractors by installing high compression heads.

For these tractors, the Humble Company recommends Humble Motor Fuel. It is economical to buy, economical to use. It delivers full performance in everyday hard use. Try it. Judge its merits on the job. We're confident that you'll agree with other users who say—second to none.

TO THE VOTERS OF BEAT 3

I desire at this time to express my appreciation to you for the many favors shown me during my campaign for Commissioner and for the splendid vote that I received at your hands in the first primary. I am now asking your support in the second primary on August 27th.

Most of you know me, know the principles that I stand for and the work that I have tried to carry on. If you feel that the manner in which I have conducted the affairs of the Commissioner's office entitles me to further consideration at your hands, then I will deeply appreciate your support and a good word in my behalf.

Sincerely yours,
Harry Johnson

You Can Prevent "Sleeping Sickness" from Affecting Your Stock

How? By following tested preventive measures. Men who did this 1937 protected 99 per cent of their horses from the disease. Sleeping sickness, technical name equine encephalomyelitis, made 157,984 horses noticeably sick in 1937.

In Minnesota where it was worst the disease appeared on 29,159 farms, where 157,483 horses were owned. Only 41,159 of these had the disease (26 per cent) and 9,200 died, that is, 22 per cent of those noticeable sick died. Most of those lost were due to failure to treat promptly. Other states were less affected. This means that when the disease appears in a community, 75 per cent of the horses probably will escape, even if nothing is done; where proper preventive measures are used 99 per cent will escape infection.

The disease is seasonal, is known to be carried by mosquitoes and probably by biting flies. So far as is known it is transmitted in no other way.

Protection against mosquitoes and flies is therefore the first essential. If the disease appears in an area, horses and mules should be kept in screened stables at night and when at work, from about July 1st until after frost. Fine mesh screen is not expensive, and can be tacked directly over windows without building frames for the screens but screen doors will have to be built.

When at work, animals should be protected with muslin or bur-lap fly cover, extending all over from head to tail. Head legs and muslin should be sprayed with a good insect repellent about every 2* hours, just before going to work morning and noon, and in the middle of forenoon and afternoon.

The Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. D. A., recommends a home made insect spray. They say: "An effective and rather inexpensive spray material may be prepared by extracting pyrethrum flowers (wholesale at 40c a lb. in 5 lb containers), in kerosene for 48 hours, using 1 pound of the flowers to a gallon of kerosene. Two parts of this extract are then thoroughly mixed with one part of water containing 3 to 5 per cent soft soap. The mixture is now ready for use." Load a spray gun and take with teams to field. It takes only a few minutes to spray the work animals before going out and midforenoon and midafternoon, and it not only a valuable protection but enhances their comfort while at work. Better make some of this spray up at once, so it will be ready for use. Shake thoroughly before putting in spray gun and again before spraying animals.

Keep stables clean, keep flies out as far as you can by hauling manure away every fourth day (it takes flies 5 days to come from eggs in manure to winged flies) and feed good bright green hay to offset lack of pasture.

Watch animals closely and if any seem "off their feed" or dulsleepy or unsteady in gait use physician's thermometer and take temperature via rectum. If horse seems ill, and temperature is above 101 1/2 F. before going to work in morning or at noon, leave animal in stable and call a qualified graduate veterinarian at once. He will recommend adequate treatment.

Even where animals become sick 95 per cent of those attacked can be saved if a competent veterinarian is called immediately.

Wire us for more complete instructions sent free, of disease appears in your community. It was in the Dakotas, Nebraska and western Iowa and Minnesota in 1937, and probably will move east into Wisconsin and Illinois in 1938. Guard against it. You can.

P. S. Moldy of musty forage or grain, if fed to horses or mules, produces a disease very similar to what we have described. Keep such unfit feeds away from horses or mules.

A CARD FROM IVY EDMONDSON

I want to express to my friends my gratitude for their untiring efforts in my race; words cannot express it. And to those who did not support me I cherish no ill feeling whatsoever. But thank you for the nice things said about me and the courteous way in which you treated me.

Sincerely,
Ivy Edmondson

J. M. WITCHER HAS THANKS FOR VOTERS OF COUNTY

To the people of Coryell County: It has been a pleasure indeed to serve you one term as County Superintendent. No other than those who are directly and personally interested in seeing boys and girls trained so that they may meet the issues of life to the best advantage can know the real satisfaction that comes from being a small factor in this great educational service.

I and my family appreciate your consideration in permitting me as the head of the family to be in the run off for a second term.

We also will appreciate your vote and influence in this second primary this year.

Yours very sincerely,

Misses Gene Stinnett, Dorothy Chamlee, and Mary Margaret Holmes will return to their homes here Saturday, following a delightful visit in Corpus Christi as guests of Miss Patty Lynton Holder, who was a recent visitor in this city.

Those visiting in the R. Q. Rot home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Harrison and Mr. E. L. Sanders all of Dallas. Accompanying them home was Miss Velma Roe where she will resume her work after a weeks vacation with her parents. Miss Orpah Roe of Waco as also a visitor with her parents.

One of Gatesville's distinguished visitors recently was Frank Morrison of Panama. Mr. Morrison who left Thursday morning to visit other relatives and friends in this country before returning to his home in the Panama Canal region, was a visitor in this county several years ago. Among those whom he visited were Mr. and Mrs. Kay Ament.

Miss Beverly Chamlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ermon Chamlee, who for the past year was assistant to City Secretary Elland Lovejoy left Tuesday to attend a business colleg in Abilene. She was accompanied to that city by Mesdames L. K. Thomson, Mrs. Chamlee and son Billy, who visited a brief time with relatives there.

TO THE VOTERS AND CITIZENS OF PRECINCT ONE

I wish to express my appreciation to the voters and the people in general for their support in the July primary. I lacked only a few votes of receiving a clear majority over both of my opponents. I assure you one and all, I am very grateful for the nice vote I received and am pleased to solicit your further consideration and support in the August 27 primary. With best wishes for all and all will toward none.

Following the recent rains a rather heavy leaf worm infestation is expected. The following information regarding leaf worms is quoted from R. R. Reppert Extension Entomologist, Texas A. and M. College:

"The only poisons recommended by us as safe to use for leaf worm control measures are calcium arsenate or lead arsenate, the latter being so expensive as to be impracticable so long as calcium arsenate can be obtained. Either may be dusted or sprayed. If dusted, from 5 to 8 pounds per acre of either should be applied, depending upon the size of the cotton. The best time for application is in the early morning when the dew is on the plants and when the air is usually quiet.

If to be applied as a spray, 3 pounds of either material should be mixed with 50 gallons of water and this mixture kept well agitated during the application.

Paris green or London purple are apt to prove injurious to cotton and are not advised if the other materials can be obtained. If they must be used, 4 parts of hydrated lime should be thoroughly mixed with 1 pound of either poison for dry application this amount to cover an acre, or 1 1/2 pounds of the lime mixed with 1 1/2 pounds of either poison in 50 gallons of water as a spray. White arsenate, a mixture of white arsenate and dry lime, or white arsenate boiled with sal soda or caustic soda, are almost certain to burn the cotton and the entomologist of A. and M. College strongly advise against their use.

In applying the materials in spray form, any manufactured machinery suitable for the purpose may be used. Growers in many sections improvise their own machinery from a spray pump attached to a barrel, with plumbing pipe used to form a boom, supplied with tees and nozzles to direct a spray downward over each of three or five rows. These are generally satisfactory for control of leave worm and are not expensive.

Likewise manufactured dusting machinery is best for making dry application. However, for leaf worm control, other cheaper and more primitive methods of application are used effectively. The simplest form is a cheese-cloth bag, filled with the poison and shaken over the rows as one walks along. One tied to each end of a pole hang over respective rows, and shaken as one walks between the rows or held over a saddle as one rides on horseback, a stick being used to hit the pole and cause the poison to dust from the bags, enables one to accomplish the work more rapidly. Still another effective method is to fasten a 2x4 across a cultivator carriage, with kags attached to accommodate three or five rows. Blocks wired to the wheels at intervals gives a jolting effect that shakes the poison on the plants as the cultivator is drawn along the rows."

LEON JUNCTION

The crops are looking fine after the big rain we had; although the farmers are worried about the worms that have begun to eat on the cotton.

Mrs. Dub Hetzelaw of Oglesby spent a few days this week with her aunt, Mrs. Tom Narmour.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Whittenburg and daughter and son, Martha Edna and Jack of Winters have been visiting this week with Mrs. Whittenburg's sister, Mrs. Ernest Evans.

Mr. Billy Farrar has returned home after spending the past few weeks with his aunt at Palestine.

A large crowd from here attended church at Flat last Sunday night.

Miss Ola Mae Johnson entertained her friends with a party last Monday nite.

Mr. Steve Brumbalow and Mrs. Bob Cummings are on the sick list this week. We hope they will soon be well again.

Miss Minnie Farrar who is working in McGregor, spent Sunday nite here with her parents.

Misses Louise Whigham and Daisy Ashby visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hale awhile Sunday night.

Mr. Joe Brumbalow of Hamilton spent a few days the past with his brother, Mr. Steve Brum balow. Mr. Sidney Evans has returned to his home after spending a few weeks with relatives in Portales, New Mexico and Winters, Texas.

It is said that at least 2 per cent of human beings associate a particular color with each sound they hear, and sometimes this extends to the names of the days of the week.

service planned for Sunday morning, the pastor is urging every member possible to be in the church service. It is not possible for him, in a few hours time, to come into every home (Baptist) in Gatesville and the surrounding community and sit down for even a few minutes conversation and visit, not even as much as he would like to. Hence he comes to you thru this column and thru a little paper which you will or have received thru the mail, and very earnestly and sincerely requests your presence Sunday morning at the preaching hour. It is in the interest of the program of our church and of the Lord, for you to come and be with us. We sincerely wish the house would be filled to overflowing, and it will be if those who read this notice will take it seriously and feel that the pastor really means business by thus coming to them. We sincerely trust that such will be the case.

Last Sunday morning we had the largest Sunday School attendance we have had in almost three months. Our Sunday School offering was the largest it has been in months. This is an exceedingly good sign. We wish you would come and be with us in the Teaching service of the church as well as the preaching service and we are going to look for you.

Remember that our Annual Associational meeting will take place at Coryell Church beginning Tuesday night. The Church elected messengers last night at prayer service. But we will want many visitors as well. So come and be with us. Don't forget that the pastor respectfully expects your presence Sunday morning in the preaching service in order that you may be in this very special hour's service.

Thank you.

UNITY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TS'VILLE

The Presbyterians will begin a ten days' evangelistic meeting in the tabernacle tonite. There will be services every nite thru Sunday August 14 at 8:30. Prayer meetings for the various groups (children, young people, men and women) will precede each evening service, starting tonite promptly at eight o'clock. There all also be preaching both Sunday mornings at 11:00 o'clock and Monday thru Friday mornings at 10:30.

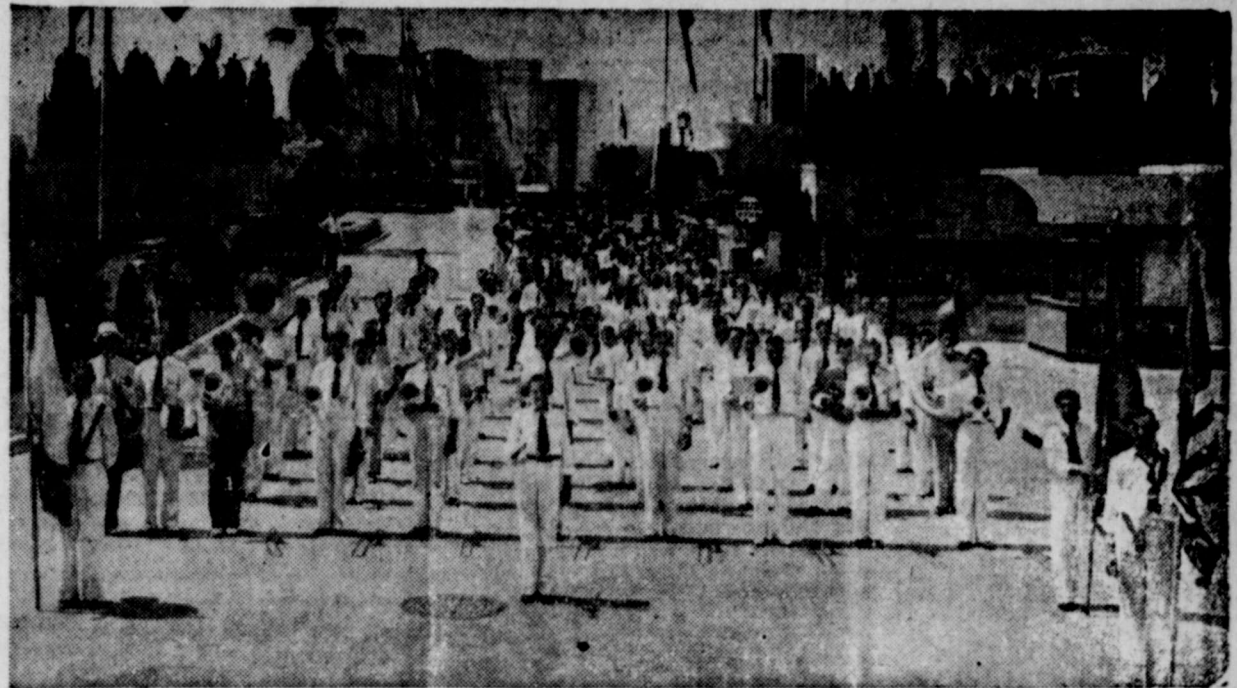

B. K. Tenny, formerly of Turnersville and now located in Atlanta, Georgia as Stewardship Secretary of the Presbyterian Church in the United State, will preach Sunday morning. In the rest of the meeting the preaching will be done by the pastor, Rev. Edward S. Bayless. The music will be under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams.

Sermon topics, in their probable order, are: "The Art of Becoming; Immortal Love; The Sin of Not Doing; Three Words That Can Save The World A Mind for Christ; Jesus' First Sermon; Garments of God; Once Too Often; In the Family of God; Look and Live; and Look and Live."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Messages from the stories back of the great hymns of the Christian Church will be presented at the morning hour of worship at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday. Familiar hymns frequently take on a new meaning when we know something of the writer, or the circumstances under which it was written, or some interesting way in which the hymn has been used. Such facts will be presented Sunday, under the direction of the Young People of the church.

In the evening the pastor will bring the last of the series of "book reviews". This will be at the regular six o'clock hour of the evening worship, and the book is James.

The pastor will be out of town most of next week, holding a meeting at the Presbyterian church in Turnersville; he may be reached in the case of emergency thru Mr. John Hobin in Turnersville.

The order of the day, Sunday August 7, is as follows:

Sunday School, 9:45, Mr. Frank Kelso, Superintendent.
Morning worship, 11:00. Messages from the great hymns of the church, under the leadership of the Young People.
Vespers, 6:00. Sermon by the pastor, "Religion in Life."
Young People's Meeting, 7:00 o'clock.
Wednesday morning, 9:00. children's Bible Class.
Wednesday night, 7:30. Prayer meeting.

VOLUME VI

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, FRIDAY AUGUST 5, 1938

NUMBER 64

Texas has escaped the evils of machine government due in part to its great size. In all states which rank above Texas in population; New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio; political machines have long dominated the municipal and state governments. For decades the tranquillity and supremacy of the Republican machines in these states was uninterrupted. Democratic party machines in part supplanted the G. O. P. organizations since 1932.

One feature of government which prevails in these and many other states today is the effort on the part of municipal machines to dominate the state government. In Missouri, for example the Tom Pendergast machine of Kansas City controls the choice of the governor, and the same situation prevails in New Jersey where the chief executive is responsible to the infamous Boss Hague.

Again the size of Texas has been a factor in making such a condition virtually impossible, but the size of Texas cities has also entered as a factor. Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Ft. Worth; the four largest cities; do not have a combined population as large as Chicago or Philadelphia or New York City. The foreign element in the Texas cities constitutes a smaller proportion of the total population than in the northern and eastern metropolises. Control of the illiterate foreigner has long furnished the machines with a bloc of votes difficult and often impossible to overcome by reform elements.

Texas four largest cities generally have their fair quota of candidates for state office, but rarely are these candidates favorite sons as demonstrated by the votes of the cities. Only one governor since 1900—Ross Sterling of Houston—has been from one of the four largest cities.

Of the 14 candidates entered in the first primary of 1934 from one of the four largest cities, only two were elected—Walter Woodul of Houston for lieutenant governor and William McCraw of Dallas for attorney general.

Dallas in that year failed to give gubernatorial candidate Maury Hughes and senatorial entrant Joe Bailey majorities in their home county.

In 1936 Fort Worth and Houston had candidates in the race for United States senator; Dallas had an entrant in the governor's race; Houston had two candidates for railroad commissioner and Dallas one; Fort Worth had a candidate for treasurer and San Antonio an entrant in the race for supt of public instruction. All of these were defeated. The fact is apparent that as a rule the strongest contenders for State office do not come from the large cities.

To be specific, use Dallas as an example. The record of the past elections shows that Dallas residence is a handicap in state races.

Of six Dallasites who entered the Democratic primary this year only two entered the runoff contest Pierce Brooks for lieutenant governor and Jerry Mann for attorney general.

William McCraw ran third in the governor's race. Larry Mills for land commissioner Frank Morris for railroad commissioner Judge C. A. Pippen for judge of the court of criminal appeals, all Dallasites, ran fourth, fifth and third respectively in their races.

The record shows that two Dallas men have filled major state office. They are the late Charles A. Culberson, who was elected governor from Dallas and Mr. McCraw. The list includes W. Gregory Hatcher and Charley Lockhart both of whom have served as state treasurer, and Barry Miller and Barnett Gibbs as lieutenant governors. When it is extended to include appointive officers, the name of Gerald Mann as secretary of state, must be added.

Among those Dallasites who have tried and failed at running for governor in recent years are Judge Felix D. Robertson, defeated by Mrs. Ferguson in 1924; former State Senator Thomas B. Love and Mr. Miller, both of whom were defeated in the 1930 race and Maury Hughes, eliminated in the first primary for governor in 1934.

This political antagonism toward Dallas had its basis in the resentment which formerly were more apparent than they are now between the larger and smaller town of the state, plus the fact that the number of Northern people and Republican in Dallas has been a good deal higher than in other Texas cities.

Most observers claim, thought that these old factors are rapidly dying out, partly because their influence counts no more as they once did; but mainly because of the 1936 Texas Centennial Exposition and the Pan American Exposition.

The defeat of four Dallas candidates in the first primary is not interpreted by political observers as a rebuke to Dallas as they point to the fact that Pierce Brooks led his race for lieutenant governor and Gerald C. Mann entered the run-off for attorney general with only a few votes less than the first candidate, who was endorsed by five former attorney generals.

The "big four" of Texas' 254 counties; Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant; stubbornly refused to give majorities to local candidates without qualifications or leadership in their respective races.

In 1934 for example, J. P. Rogers of Houston lost his home county in his race for lieutenant governor while Maury Hughes was losing Dallas county for governor, Manly Clary was losing Tarrant county for comptroller, J. J. Patterson was losing Dallas county, his home, for comptroller, and J. W. Bailey Jr., was losing his home county for senator.

Four candidates for railroad commissioner lacked majorities in their home counties in the same year. They were H. O. Johnson of Houston, Gregory Hatcher of Dallas, J. L. McNeese and John Pundt of Dallas, Kay Griffin of Fort Worth and J. T. Baker of Dallas lost their home balliwicks for state treasurer and Hal S. Lattimore of Fort Worth failed in his try for a supreme court position.

Of the six Dallas candidates on the July 23 primary ballot, only three; Brooks, Mann, Pippen; received Dallas county majorities. Brooks was accorded a vote of 14,941 by his home folks to 10,466 for his nearest opponent, Coke Stevenson. Mann won a larger majority in his home county 17,729 to 11,379 for Woodul. Pippen, candidate for the court of criminal appeals received 18,739 to 11,939 for Harry N. Graves who led in the state.

GOOD PASTURES PROPERLY MANAGED YIELD GOOD PROFITS

"Proper care and management of pasture is just as essential and as profitable in many cases as proper care as cultivated crops according to E. E. McAllister, Technician in charge at the local CCC Camp. This statement is substantiated by more than one hundred farmers who have established erosion control in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service during the past two years. In many cases those farmers who had given proper care to newly sodded pastures reported profits of three or four dollars per acre last year due to the increased livestock carrying capacity of their farms.

Proper management of areas to be retired to pasture should be in before the sod is placed. It is not reasonable to expect that land which is too poor to produce a profitable cultivated crop will grow a good cover of grass without considerable preparation and care. Any area to be sodded should be prepared as for cultivation several weeks before the sod is to be set out. The elimination of as many weeds as possible before the grass is planted will save considerable labor later and will give the sod a better chance to survive. Selection of the most adaptable grass to the particular location to be sodded is a most important factor in pasture development. Bermuda grass for moist, heavy soils and Buffalo for light, dry land has proved most satisfactory in this area. Additional grasses and clovers may be added to these in order to prolong the grazing season and to furnish variety.

Size of sod chunks and with of spacing is another important point. With proper care a complete cover may be expected in two years from chunks of sod 4 to 6 inches square placed six feet apart in six feet rows. If plenty of sod is available near the area to be sodded larger chunks might result in a greater percentage of survival.

Care of the sod for the first two years by cultivation and mowing is one essential which when overlooked has caused more pasture failures than any other thing. Bermuda grass should be cultivated several times each season until a complete cover is obtained. This stimulates growth and causes the plants to multiply and spread much faster. This should always be done when plenty of moisture is available. The cultivation of Buffalo, while not so important as Bermuda, will greatly increase the vigor of the plants.

Weed control is perhaps the greatest aid in the development of new pastures and the improvement of old ones. While weed growth may be controlled to a great extent on old pastures by grazing with sheep it is recommended that all pasture areas be mowed at least twice each year. Grazing should not be allowed on any new pasture until a good cover is attained. The full growth of the plant should be devoted to growth for maximum results. On old pastures mowing will remove those weeds which sheep do not graze and which if allowed to remain would eventually invade the entire pasture.

Sodding may be done successfully in this area from the time the fall rains begin until the spring rains end. For best results however sod should be set out early enough to attain a good growth before the dry summer season begins.

PRESBYTERIAN BIBLE SCHOOL ENROLLS 100 ENDED FRIDAY

More than one hundred people attended the closing program of the Daily Vacation Bible School Friday night at the First Presbyterian Church. A total of 55 boys and girls enrolled in the school, which ran for two weeks, and most of these took part in the program. The Primaries (ages 6, 7, and 8) and the Juniors (ages 9, 10 and 11) presented Bible facts and stories and songs learned in the school. The Intermediates dramatized the book of Esther.

Certificates of perfect attendance were awarded to the following: Margarite Kelson, Charles Milner, Beverly Ann Barber, Billy Carl Bradley, Carolyn Stuart, Ayres Anderson, Imogene Baker, Bill Dickey, Lindsay Jean Dockery, Nettie Jean Wanks, Annie Ruth Franks and Harvie Jean Hamilton.

By popular request the school will continue or one morning a week as long as sufficient interest justifies it. Beginning tomorrow morning and continuing every Wednesday from nine until eleven o'clock all boys and girls interested are invited to be at the Presbyterian Church for Bible study and handicraft classes. Attendance at the Bible class is the requisite for admission to the handicraft classes. Handwork for the present at least will consist of directed activity in the woodwork shop.

N. FOOTE RANCH IS BEING SCORED IN CONTEST

The N. Foote ranch, one of the better ranches in this county, is being scored by the Editor Eugene Butler of a farm publication.

Mr. Foote has been selected by this publication as the "Master Farmer" of this district which comprises 19 counties and this "scoring" is for the state championship. From this check-up the "Master Farmer" of the state will be chosen by the magazine. number of pictures were being taken of the ranch and equipment, which might be used in publication.

DUO OF TEACHERS LEAVE FOR OTHER PLACES AND WORK

Lonnie R. Briggs, teacher of commercial subjects and office assistant for the past three years, resigned to accept a position as fulltime instructor in Abilene High School.

Miss Lucille Eanes teacher of English resigned her position to continue work in the University of Texas as a student.

The school board has named Miss Sally Coryn Britain of Coryell City as Home Economics teacher, succeeding Miss Winona Lively who also resigned, accepting a position in the Rochelle School. Miss Chloe Young was elected to a position in the elementary schools due to the resignation of Mrs. Esteen Williams, the former Miss Iris Styles.

So far as has been released, this is all the changes in the 1938-39 faculty for the schools, and people of this community certainly wish for these who are leaving the continued success they have shown by their work in the schools of this little city.

JOINT NAT'L AND TEXAS PECAN GROWERS ASS'N MEETS AUG. 9-10

The joint program of the National Pecan Association with the Texas Pecan Growers' Association will be held at Breckenridge on August 9th and 10th. Growers thruout Texas are enthusiastic about the meeting.

A most interesting and profitable program has been planned. Both the State and National authorities of the Pecan Industry will speak about the confronting problems to the growers of Texas.

This contact and these speeches are expected to so enlarge our views and enrich our knowledge of the pecan industry that the improvement in production and quality of Texas pecans will be very obvious.

ALEXANDER KORDA presents
"ELEPHANT BOY"
Based on "Toomai of the Elephants" by RUDYARD KIPLING

THE STORY SO FAR

As punishment for his pranks on the neighbors, Little Toomai, great-grandson of Toomai of the Elephants, is forbidden by his father to witness the choosing of the elephants for the Keddah (elephant hunt) by the great Petersen Sahib. But the boy disregards the command, sees Kala Nag, his family's wise and beloved elephant, chosen for the hunt, and so impresses Petersen that he is taken along on the Keddah with the grownup hunters.

Chapter Three

Little Toomai idolized Petersen Sahib, the great white hunter of elephants. Hoping to be made a hunter like the grownup men about him, the boy tried in every way he could to ingratiate himself with the white man and with his chief lieutenant or Jemad, Machua Appa. For the latter he performed every service possible, and succeeded mostly in getting in his way. As for Machua Appa, he had serious tasks to occupy him, and paid no attention to the little boy who hung about trying to attract his notice. When Petersen Sahib summoned

"Petersen Sahib likes honey," explained Little Toomai. The Father suddenly became tense. Something on the ground had caught his eye. He bent down, looked more closely, and a serious frown overcast his face. Turning to the boy, he said sharply, "Have I not told you never to wander alone? Get yourself clean and stop in the camp!" "I meant no wrong," pleaded the boy.

"No matter so, do as I told you," said his father more kindly, and Little Toomai scampered off with his honeycombs.

Inside the camp Little Toomai passed a group of the coolies working with their elephants. Among them was Lukman, a careless, lazy mahout who was lightening his labors with draughts of the powerful drink, hendi.

"Hal, give me some honey," cried Lukman, making a grab at Little Toomai's precious burden, but the boy, sidestepped, not without having to juggle his honeycombs in his grasp and get even more honey smeared over him.

"Save your breath for drinking, Lukman!" he cried over his shoulder at the tipsy mahout.

Little Toomai then presented his gift to Petersen Sahib, who accepted it graciously and turned it over to his cook to be served with his his chiefs about him — Machua Appa, the Naik, the Havildar, the Head Tracker, the Head Beater, the Head Pulwan, and the Chief Mahout — to confer with them on plans for the hunt, Little Toomai was mysteriously among them. When they had left, the lad found himself alone with the white leader. Petersen strode away, mounted his elephant, and looked down at Little Toomai with a laugh.

"Petersen Sahib raised his gun and fired."

"What are you waiting for, little mousing? For rifle and ammunition, that you may come and hunt with me?"

"You are the source of wisdom, Sahib," agreed the boy delightedly.

"Well, first you will have to grow, Little Toomai."

"How shall I grow, Protector of the Poor?"

"Ask your elephant — he knows how to grow," said Petersen Sahib, and rode away.

Little Toomai was disappointed, but by no means ready to give up. Early the next morning, when the elephants were already busy felling trees for logs with which to make the stockade, he went out in search of an offering with which to commend himself to Petersen Sahib. He soon found what he wanted — an armful of luscious honeycombs which he obtained by smoking a swarm of bees out of their hive. Triumphant, he hurried back toward the camp, past the place where a group of workers were digging holes in which to erect the posts which the elephants were dragging into position.

Suddenly Little Toomai gave a start. He felt a strange, painful sting behind him, inside his little dhoti, the single garment that wrapped the middle of his body. A bee had crawled inside it.

"Ow!" Another sting. Dropping half his honeycombs and getting badly smeared by those he retained, he beat frantically at the offending insect until it dropped to the ground, squashed. Just then the boy's father espied him.

"Hal! Toomai!" called Big Toomai loudly. "What do you? Is it a bee's work to rob the bees?"

dinner. As a reward, Petersen mischievously delivered to one of the women for a good washing, and Toomai, screaming and yelling bitterly, was given a thorough scrubbing.

Later that day, Big Toomai appeared in Petersen Sahib's tent and told him in a low, grave voice of what he had discovered near the camp: the footprints of a man-eating tigress which was known to have carried off a woman recently at a village not far away. He knew that the beast would be a constant menace to the camp until it was killed, but enjoined Toomai to tell no one lest the mahouts should flee the camp in terror.

While the camp busied itself with dinner and Little Toomai amused himself teasing the drunkard Lukman, Petersen, Big Toomai, the Head Tracker and a few others took their guns and stole out into the jungle in search of the tigress. They traced her footprints to a little clearing where there was a water hole, and where there lay the carcass of a bullock but lately killed.

"The tigress always returns to the kill. She will come," said Big Toomai. And silently, making no sound and speaking only in signs, they lay among the bushes waiting for the man-eater to appear.

After a long, weary wait they perceived a movement in the foliage on the other side of the water hole and heard the whispering rustle of dead leaves under a cat-like tread. A few birds flew away into the trees. "She comes," breathed Big Toomai.

The tigress, a large, lithe, powerful-looking creature, appeared from among the bushes, picking her way slowly toward her kill. Petersen raised his gun, aimed, and fired.

The man-eater jumped into the air, rolled over, and lay motionless. Big Toomai, with a cry of relief, jumped up and ran toward her.

"No! No!" cried Petersen. "Come back! Look out — LOOK OUT!"

WOODUL PLEDGES O'DANIEL SUPPORT

HOUSTON, July 25—Lieutenant Governor Woodul today pledged his support and co-operation to W. Lee O'Daniel, nominee for Governor in a statement issued here.

Woodul, who led the ticket in the attorney general's race in last Saturday's balloting thanked the voters and his supporters thruout Texas.

His statement follows: "I take this opportunity to thank the people of Texas for the confidence they have shown in me in permitting me to lead the ticket in the attorney general race in the first primary. I am deeply grateful to my host of friends over the state who actively supported me and who have assured me of even greater activity in my behalf in the runoff, I am confident that my 20 years experience in the practice of law qualifies me to serve the citizens of this State as their lawyer and I want the people of Texas to know that as their attorney general I will support and cooperate wholeheartedly with W. Lee O'Daniel, whom the people have chosen as their nominee for the next Governor of Texas."

NEW STAR IN STATE POLITICAL HORIZON

A new star flashed into the political sky of Texas last Saturday when G. A. Jerry Sadler candidate for Railroad Commissioner, descendant of a hero of San Jacinto fought his way into a run-off with C. V. Terrell, dean of all the officeholders in Texas.

Sadler, a native of the Hickory Grove community in Anderson county, and now a practicing attorney in Longview, is a great grandson of Captain W. T. Sadler, who fought with Sam Houston at San Jacinto. Sadler is 30 years of age and his life story is one of triumph over hardship and adversity. His youth included farm life, working as a bell boy to go to high school, labor on pipe lines, drilling rigs, in refineries and studying law at nights.

Sadler has conducted his campaign on the basis of his own qualifications and his belief that Texas needs new blood on the Railroad Commission. He has never before been a candidate for either elective or appointive office.

His campaign slogan is: "Put Sadler in the Saddle."

GRAND JURY REPORT

Gatesville, Texas
July 26th, 1938

To the Hon. R. B. Cross, Judge of the 52nd Judicial District of Texas.

We the Grand Jury of the District Court of Coryell County, Texas at the July Term A. D. 1938 respectfully report as follows:

1. We have been in session 7 days, examined 137 witnesses have returned 19 indictments of which number 17 were felonies and 2 misdemeanors.

2. We desire to thank the judge for his splendid charge which aided us greatly in our deliberation.

3. We desire to thank the door balliff, riding balliffs and the Janitor who helped us materially while working. We desire to thank the sheriff for cooperation with the Grand Jury and making telephone calls in order that our labor might be finished quicker.

4. We regret that it was necessary for us to investigate two homicide cases and one other capital case. However, we believe that crime generally is on the decrease but suggest that the citizens of each community cooperate with the officers on theft and other felony and misdemeanor cases in order that crime might be more decreased.

5. We desire to thank the District Attorney for his efficient help and cooperation. We especially desire to thank him for investigating both misdemeanor and felony cases during the absence of the County Attorney in a most commendable way.

We regret very much that the County Attorney because of illness, could not be present during our deliberations.

Having no further business we request to be discharged.

Troy H. Jones, Secretary
Monroe Blankenship, Foreman of the Grand Jury.

WORLD COMMENT—

on Texas primary ballots more than any other family name. Twenty one times have Terrells been candidates for State office and few times have they been defeated. From 1902 off and on to the present year five Terrells, not all of the same family but related, have sought office, an average of four campaigns for each.

The fact that the members of the Terrell "dynasty" have been vote-getters during a third of a century make the family all the more interesting.

George B. Terrell ran for office for 26 years and was never defeated. So much does the name Terrell mean to Texas voters that in 1934 a candidate for state treasurer had his name changed to George B. Terrell and without making one campaign address polled 248,000 votes against the incumbent.

The first Terrell to hold office in Texas was John H., who was elected land commissioner in 18-03, serving until 1909. H. B. Terrell followed his father in 1915 as state comptroller, serving until 1921.

S. H. (for Sam Houston) Terrell served as comptroller for 1925 to 1931 and was a candidate for the same office in 1936. C. V. Terrell, candidate for re-election to the railroad commission this year, on which he has served for the past 14 years, was elected state treasurer in 1920, served three years, and resigned in 1924 to accept an appointment to the railroad commission. He has twice been re-elected.

George B. Terrell was commissioner of agriculture from 1925 to 1931, being succeeded in that year by J. E. McDonald of Waxahachie. Terrell was elected congressman at large in 1932, serving one term.

This year the record for the Terrells in one down and one to go. Lane Terrell of Ft Worth candidate for state comptroller, lost out to the incumbent, George H. Sheppard, with 146,587 to 570,099 for Sheppard and 103,849 for the third entrant, J. J. Biffle.

C. V. Terrell led his race for railroad commissioner in a field of six, but must beat G. A. Jerry Sadler, 30 year old Longview attorney, in the run-off if he is to continue in office. Terrell had 247,550 to Sadler 216,547 in the latest returns.

ELECTRIC COOKERY

is Clean

No Soot • No Smoke • No Grime

Take a tip on kitchen cleanliness from electric range owners. They'll tell you that it's much easier to keep your kitchen spic and span when you cook electrically. There's a reason: No soot, no smoke, no greasy film or dirt from electricity. Walls, curtains, the range itself—all stay bright and new-looking much longer.

Save cleaning time and redecorating expense from now on. And enjoy kitchen coolness, more leisure time, better cooking results and the many other advantages of electric cookery. It costs less to cook electrically today than ever before.
