Curtain Falls for 1938 July Term District Court; Divorces Are Left

FIVE FOR ARMSTRONG, FIFTEEN FOR CHAPPELL HANDED THIS WEEK

Two "striches" were handed out by juries in District Court this week, and Arthur (Red) Chappell got the long end of the decision by the juries, netting a total of 5,475 days, not including leap years in addition to a free ride with Uncle Bud Russell. He was convicted of murder of Tom Banks also colored in an altercation in Gatesville in June.

Alton Armstrong, charged with rape, was given five years yesterday by a jury, after two days of testimony and pleading by attorney for defense and state.

According to District Clerk Carl McClendon, no other cases are to come up with the exception of a few divorce cases and the dates for these have not been announced as yet.

In the Chappell case a motion for a new trial has been filed by attorney for defense, Tom L. Robinson.

Jurymen in the Alton Armstrong case were: Clyde Lee, Ailen Graham, W. J. Dube, A. B. Turner, T. R. Williams, C. A. Parsons, Bud Cook, Jim Epps, E. Harris, Olin Whatley, P. H. Martin and Elgin Davidson.

RILEY G. DAVIDSON HAS POSITION IN COL.: IS NEWS WRITER

Riley G. Davidson, son of Mrs. Tom Davidson of this city, and formerly with The Texas Company at West Columbia, Texas, has just accepted a position in Cucuta, Columbia, South America.

"R. G." as we know him leaves that city for Miami Florida where he will arrive Wednesday and will leave the next day by Pan-American Air Lines for his new home in Columbia.

Before leaving, R. G. came to the News office and was persuaded to write articles or letters about his trip, and the country to which he is going. He is also aving the News sent to him at Cucuta.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER FOR HWY. 36 AS HINES SHOWS INTEREST

With 190 registered delegates and others Highway 36 Association had a very successful meeting at the Ritz Theatre, with the Hon. Harry Hines, of the State Highway Commission as the principle speaker. Congressman Clyde Garrett and Clark Coursey of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce were also important speakers.

New officers elected were Horace K. Jackson, president, C. B. James, Hamilton, vice-president H. Burks, Commanche, Secretary, Directors, F. G. Blake, Cameron, Floyd Campbell, Hamilton, Joe Bonner, Temple, H. L. Stewart, Commanche, Clyde Sims, Cross Plains, J. F. Robertson, Eastland, L. S. Holmes, Gatesville.

Early realization of the dream of a paved highway connecting West Texas and the Panhandle with the Gulf of Mexico was seen by the association when Highway commissioner Harry Hines pledged is effort to that end before his term of office expires two years from now.

The Highway commission is in full accord and agreement on this program, and Commissioners Bobbitt and Wood are as enthusiastic about Highway 36 as I am.

Highway 36 connects Freeport on the gulf with Abilene on the northwest. During the past year, 85.3 miles of new construction along 36 has cost $1,272,000.

During the coming year, an additional outlay of $770,792 to complete other gaps in the diagonal trunk-line highway is hoped for by Commissioner Hines who said, "It is my ambition and I will recommend to my associates and do all in power to place on the immediate work program the following projects . . ."

Bell county from the end of the stub northwest of Temple to the Coryell county line, 9.8 miles, $105,000 plus $68,000 for a Leon river bridge; Coryell county, Bell county line to Gatesville, $309,000, including another bridge over the Leon; Commanche, Eastland county line to 5.5 miles west of Commanche, 17.5 miles, $110,000; Eastland county, Rising Star to Commanche county line, $40,000, Highway 191 to Cross Plains, 6.2 miles, $128,000.

Mr. Hines had been in Amarillo at the Will Rogers highway three day memorial celebration and left to be at Gatesville, saying to the assembly jokingly, "You folks are not entitled to any visitors with as sorry roads as you've got, I'm not coming back until 7 and 36 are built!"

"I look on Highway 36 as a necessary addition to the highway system of Texas. Folks out in West Texas and the Panhandle can't directly come southeast to the coast as it is."

You folks in Central Texas deserve this and other highways. They should have been built 10 years ago."

"A trunk line highway is a blood transfusion to your small towns. Tourist money in Texas is the second largest crop, next to cotton. Last year $446,000,000 of out-of-Texas money was spent in this state."

"The program we are working on will embrace 376 paved miles from Freeport to Abilene. My hope for the next 12 months is to see this additional list of projects under way, and I believe we can get 36 finished in my remaining two years on the commission."

Mr. Hines praised the work of Texas congressmen who worked to maintain federal highway aid.

Congressman Garrett declared: Highway 36 "transverses a rich and wonderful section of Texas. I firmly believe that this road is as badly needed as any highway that could be built in Texas."

President P. M. Rice could not be present on account of the fact he is recovering from an injured knee cap.

Those present who registered were: E. C. Burney, J. C. Clifton, Wesley Dice, F. A. Thomson, all of Temple, H. K. Jackson, Frank Thomson Jr., of Temple, Dawson Cooper, L. R. TRUETT KIMZEY SOLD "GOV." ON RADIO

In copyrighted articles published both by The Dispatch-Journal, Dallas and the Fort Worth Press, Truett Kimzey, former Gatesville boy, who, at the time W. Lee O'Daniel first went on the air, was engineer for KFJZ, Ft. Worth Radio station, had a great part in the "build up" which finally elevated Mr. O'Daniel to the highest honor the state can bestow, that of governor.

Truett appeared as announcer and as a part of a musical program which first put the "Light Crust Doughboys" on the air, and originated the slogan "The Light Crust Doughboys are on The Air".

In our window, we have the entire episode, entitled "Beautiful Texas" and giving in detail, the origin of the first W. Lee O'Daniel program, and Kimzey's part in it.

The SPORT SCROLL

By POST

Coach Earle Worley of Gatesville high isn't the grooping kind. If he were, right now you'd be hearing him from the Atlantic all the way to the West coast. Last season he had one of the best Class B eleven's in Central Texas, although it lost a tough one to the Chambless-coached Mart Panthers. But out of that team he has lost thirteen lettermen including a clean sweep of the tackles and three-fourths of the backfield.

And all they have managed to get on Worley's assignment sheet this year are games with five conference rivals, plus outside engagements with Killeen, Methodist home, Temple B, and Gatesville's bitter enemy the Hamilton Bulldogs. Where would you find a more killing schedule for anybody's pigskin promenaders? And remember, stars like Adams, Williams, Davis, Wallace, Gilbreath, Voss Fore, Hinsley, and Brown aren't replaced overnight.

Well, Jonesboro turns the tables on Mound, and whips them, 13-10 to even up the play off series. The two teams will meet to decide the championship of the league at the State Training School Saturday. It is a game that will attract a great number of fans.

The one and only Schoolboy Rutherford has turned in some magnificent hurling lately, both in softball and baseball. Against Jonesboro Wednesday he went in as a relief hurler in the fifth stanza, and pitched three-hit ball the rest of the way.

By his performance Wednesday Rutherford may have earned himself a starting chance Saturday. If Lefty Joe Evans does not round into shape, Manager may send the young man to the box.

In the local softball league, Rutherford shut out the then league leading Highway team, 2-0 Monday in one of the best softball games of the year. He allowed only seven safeties, and was invincible with men on bases. Then Tuesday night, he lost a heart breaker, 4-3 to the Merchants. The game was lost because his mates failed to back up his great hurling wit anything like decent support.

The All-star game will be staged Sunday, and it is expected that the largest crowd of the summer baseball season will attend the league finale. It promises to be a great battle, and since it is promoted to help the league treasury, the fans should not mind paying the small admission fee of ten cents to witness the galaxy of stars in action.

GRID CANDIDATES TO BEGIN WORKOUTS MONDAY

Around 30 grid aspirants are expected to answer Coach Earle Worley's call for candidates Monday. Among these '38 hopefuls there will be only four veteran lettermen returning, Slaughterhouse Morgan a center; Strangler Lester, and Bloody Blankenship backs and Butch Post, an end.

Prospects for this year's team were blighted seriously when Killer White, rotund guard who seemed headed for an all-district berth was flunked in English, and will not be eligible to play. His loss will leave a great gaping hole in the very center of the Hornet line. His loss hurt the Hornets immeasurably.

There are several capable squadmen returning who will help to plug the gaps left by the departing lettermen.

HAS ENDOSEMENT OF

Texas State Grange Farm Organization

AND

State Organization for Old Age

July 10, 1938.

Hon. Earl Huddleston,
Member House of Representatives,
Oglesby, Texas.

Dear Earl:

"I just want to let you know that the Texas State Grange, which you already aware is a farm organization, appreciates your activity in the Legislature. We know that you have been a very efficient Vice Chairman of the Agriculture Committee and did all that you could in the interest of the rural people and farmers.

"I feel that if all the members of the Legislature had the practical knowledge of the needs of the farmers, laborers and small business men, which I consider are in the same class, as you do, some of the problems would be solved and prosperity would return to the whole nation. History does not record a time when there were any trouble in the cities if the farmers were prosperous. I hope that we can get industry, labor and business see this and help the farmers to receive a larger share of the nation's income.

"I hope we will have the privilege of working with you in the future and that some of your good ideas and the measure you have supported will be written the Law.

"With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,
RALPH W. MOORE, Master
Texas State Grange."

November 30, 1937

Hon Earl Huddleston,
Oglesby, Texas.

Dear Mr. Huddleston:

"You have been listed as a 100 per cent friend to the old people of Texas.

Yours truly,
X. CARSON, Chairman,

Following the theme of "vision," the nite sermon (at the six o'clock vesper hour) will deal with "The Death of a Nation," the experience of a people who saw no vision.

Plans are being made for four days of special services the last of this month. Further announcement will be made next week.

J. M. Witcher

Is Qualified for County Superintendent

He believes in good schools just as close to the child's home as possible.

He believes under the present school law that high schools should be maintained as they are over the County.

He is in perfect accord with the County Board's views and is willing to follow their lead.

He is intimately acquainted with the State's school program.

He knows personally individuals and Departments that carry out the State Aid Program.

Coryell County School has been well taken care of each year by State Aid assistance. Every school in the county receives some form of state aid.

Every school in Coryell County system of 19 seven grade schools, 13 nine grade schools, and 10 eleven grade schools receive its share of study and financial assistance.

Mr. Witcher became a factor in this system when Coryell County had two fully affiliated schools. The system had one gymnasium when Mr. Witcher began his duties with the schools. It will have eight by the close of this year.

J. M. Witcher has not made any of these improvements but has thought and worked diligently to assist those who are moving forward in an aggressive school program. He enjoys hard work. He is asking for a chance to continue in this helpful growing school program, for a second term.

SHOCKING

Shocking, the the conversations we have heard both pro and con on this lighting business.

Shocking, also, are the "figures" we can show you from both sides, and how they're biased!

This "letters to the editor" idea is spreading, and the News is ready for it with our column "If I Were Editor".

This is your "Squawk" or "Compliment" column on anything but religion and politics,—of you sign your name.

There are two columns awaiting your pleasure. Write it yourself!

+++ HIGHWAY 7

It's practically finished, only one short detour is necessary between here and Waco. When the part between here and Evant is finished, it will be a "thru, trunk highway".

Then traffic will be more than noticeably greater. It is our business to prepare for this, in regard to parking ordinances, and the elimination of congestion all up and down Main Street, which is the route of the highway. Boulevard signs should, and probably already are at every intersection. It also seems, something must be done about the "double parking" down town, and the 45 degree parking. It seems as how we in Gatesville on this thoro fare are going to have to learn parallel parking.

We wouldn't know!

BOB ARNOLD BREAKS ANKLE IN SOFTBALL CONTEST

Bobby Arnold first sacker for the Arnold Electric softball club, broke his ankle while playing with the local "Beeftrust" boys against the Copperas Cove Merchants here Wednesday night. Arnold received the injury when he made a fade-away slide into third base, after he had singled and was advancing on an infield grounder.

According to the latest averages Arnold was leading th hitters of the Electric club, which will feel his loss keenly. Arnold has been playing softball and baseball in this county for the past fifteen years and that was the first serious injury he had sustained while participating in athletic contests.

Eagles Win in Slug-Fest to Even Up

Those never-say-die Jonesboro Eagles hopped all over two Mound hurlers and despite the marvelous comeback pitching of Schoolboy Rutherford, took the Mound team down to defeat, 13-10 in a wild slugfest at Jonesboro, hereby leaving the series even up, with both teams having won one game.

The final contest to decide the championship will be played at the State Training school Saturday at three o'clock. Fans will come from the four corners of the county to witness the great battle. The pressure is on both clubs and both clubs are the kind that are at their best when the heat is on. All indications point toward a great battle, with both teams having their ace hurlers ready to go.

Rutherford pitched great ball the last four innings, but it was to no avail as his mates failed to solve Eagle hurler Miller's slants to any extent appreciable after the first stanza, when they tallied eight runs. Rutherford allowed only three hits in the four frames he worked, and if the astute Buddy Whigham had started him, the story we are telling now might have been different. However, such is baseball.

Whaley opened on the mound for Mound. The Eagles pounded him for seven runs in the opening stanza, and things looked bad for the Mound boys. However, they come back and score eight runs in their half of the opening frame to take a one-run lead. Mound scored teir other two runs in the fourth inning, while Jonesboro scored once in the second, three in the fifth, and another in te seventh. And therein lies the tale of the ball game.

ALL-STARS vs. MOUND IN BENEFIT GAME

The Coryell county Sunday baseball league will bid you farewell for the 1938 baseball season by throwing an all-star party for the fan's benefit at Mound Sunday.

The fans will have an opportunity to witness the stars of six teams of the league as selected by the managers, vs. th team lading the league on July 31, which of course, is the Mound team.

The all-star line-up presents a very luminous array. Bill Smith of Pidcoke is the catcher, with Carl Liljedahl, Foy Wicker, the great young CCC fireball artist, Hazen Ward of Jonesboro, and Jack Barton of Blackfoot forming the hurling corps. P. T. Lemmons of the Jonesboro team will handle the first base duties, while Cecil Newton, Pidcoke will be on second. Bowman, that dynamic young Pidcoke slugger will be on third, while Jiggs Drake the league's leading hitter will be on shortstop. C. A. Barton is the utility infielder.

The outfield combination as selected by the managers cannot be beat. Virgil Lockhart of Pidcoke, "Flozie" Wallace of the local CCC camp, and Eric Wiegand of Pidcoke form the garden patrol. Harviston of the Eagles is the utility outfielder.

A small admission fee of 10c will be charged, with the profits used to offset expenses of the past campaign and to strengthen the league's financial situation for the '39 season. So if you have witnessed these Sunday league battles, and have enjoyed thm, come to the All-Star game and show the league founders and officials your appreciation.

for REPRESENTATIVE

He is 34 years of age, married and has one son, is a Democrat, has never asked for public office before.

He is experienced in stock raising, farming and business economics, having been associated with his father in the hardware business for over ten years.

He favors the raising of the truck load limit from 7,000 pounds to approximately sixteen thousand pounds. This measure would be of great benefit to stock raisers and farmers in this section. He also favors a pension for every person over 65 years of age.

If elected to the next Legislature, which promises to be one of the most important sessions in may years, he will closely guard the rights of the citizens of Hamilton and Coryell Counties and will fulfill two pledges: First, to be honest; and second, to work hard.

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

YARBOROUGH FOR MANN

Political observers agree that the public endorsement of Gerald C. Mann for attorney general by District Judge Ralph W. Yarborough who polled 220,000 votes and ran third in the July primary when he sought the office of attorney general, may prove the deciding factor in electing Mann.

"I am casting my ballot for Gerald C. Mann for the position of attorney general", announced Judge Yarborough at Chandler, Texas Judge Yarborough cast an absentee ballot in Chandler, his birthplace, while on vacation. He voted on the eve of a trip to Ark. Judge Yarborough's campaign managers for the state and for South Texas are already actively at work for Mann. Many Yarborough clubs organized in the July primary period have been turned into Gerald Mann clubs with their membership endorsing the runoff candidate opposing Walter Woodul.

Judge Yarborough's endorsement of Gerald C. Mann follows that of Robert W. (Bob) Calvert of Hillsboro, former speaker of the Texas house of representatives who polled nearly 100,000 votes for attorney general in the first primary.

Mann was offered as the people's candidate for attorney general in a speech by Calvert broadcast over the Texas Quality Network.

"The slogan in the July 23 primary", Calvert said, "was 'Down with O'Daniel and Mann and up with their opponents who favor the corporations most cleverly.'"

Calvert based much of his talk on returns of the first primary, calling special attention to Duval county where, he said, Mann received only 321 votes and his opponent, 3,066. Citing Duval as a county controlled by professional politicians, he said, "Look at the ballots marked by the professional bosses of well oiled political machines and there you will find ballots marked for Walter Woodul."

"The political bosses of this county deliberately spat in the face of W. Lee O'Daniel, the common peoples' choice for governor. O'Daniel was given in Duval county just 25 votes as compared to more than 3,000 given to a single candidate amongst his opponents. That's the way the bass-riden counties of Texas are being voted. Calvert said Mann is an experienced lawyer, enjoying the endorsement of distinguished members of the bench and bar. He cited Harry P. Lawther, past president of the Texas Bar Association, and R. E. L. Saner, past president of the American Bar Association and the eight District Judges of Dallas County.

Endorsement of Pierce Brooks' candidacy for lieutenant governor by Alton M. Mead San Angelo un successful candidate in the first primary, was announced last week at Brook's headquarters in Dallas Mead's telegram of support for the Dallas business man's campaign is the third to be received by Brooks from candidates for the lieutenant governor's office in the first primary. There were six in the first race including Brooks and his opponent in the runoff campaign.

Public endorsement of the candidacy of Brooks was made at Lubbock by two of his defeated opponent in the primary campaign

Senator G. H. Nelson, who ran third in the primary, in a telegram to his successful opponent told Mr. Brooks that "you fought a clean fight and you stand for the same principles that our new governor-elect pledged during his campaign. I have not stopped fighting and am going to support you 100 per cent."

Rep George A. Davison Jr of Eastland wired his support to Brooks and congratulated him upon his victory.

Members of the Old Age Security League of Texas last week adopted a resolution "resenting and condemning" the action of W. Lee O'Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, in endorsing six candidates in the runoff primary.

The league members renewed their previous endorsement of Pierce Brooks for lieutenant governor Gerald Mann for attorney general Jerry Sadler for railroad commissioner, and Bascom Giles for land commissioner.

In addition they made two more endorsements those being the candidacies of W. H. Davidson for the State Supreme Court bench and James Stephens for associate justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Dr John A. Tabor, chairman of the state advisory board of the league, speaking on O'Daniel's endorsements, said:

"If the candidates he failed to endorse has openly let it be known they were opposed to O'Daniel's policies, then he probably would have been justified in his action. But every candidate had pledged his cooperation to O'Daniel. Yet he made the endorsements anyway and I intend to vote against everyone of them."

Robert A. (Bob) Stuart, eliminated for railroad commissioner in the July primary announced from his Fort Worth home last week that he would actively support C. V. Terrell in the Aug. 27 runoff election.

"We have only one way to judge a candidate and that is by his past record in view of this, comparing the two cand-

OSCAR BURTON NAMED V-P TEXAS GOOD ROADS ASS'N

Oscar Burton president of the Texas Telephone Association, and Vice President and General Manager of the Gulf States Telephone company which serves this territory has just been named Vice-President of the Texas Good Roads Association, according to a story in "Texas Parade" colorful magazine published by the association.

The Association of which Mr. Burton has long been a director has for its objectives First that the motorists of Texas would have an organization to represent his interest; Second, the preservation of gasoline tax and motor vehicle registration fees paid by the highway users for expenditure in the construction and maintenance of and adequate and safe highway system; Third, beautification of road sides; Fourth, the publicizing of Texas beauty spots; Fifth, the continuation of an aggressive educational campaign for safety on the highways.

Mr. Burton, who some years back was local manager of the Gulf States Telephone Company here, has for six years been mayor of the city of Tyler, and last year was president of the Chamber of Commerce of that city.

Mr. Burton has been meteoric in his rise as a public spirited citizen, and these honors are distinct in that Mr. Burton's ability is continually being recognized.

This Week In Oglesby

Much ado in town this week. Highway pushing into town. An excavator and rock crusher just out of town roaring and rattling day and night preparing rock to surface the road from here to highway 84. The dirt work brought right into town. Cement drain boxes being placed where needed. It may all be over by the time you read this, and Oglesbyites rejoicing over the fact that they live on a good highway.

Another movement is being promoted to secure a rural electrification line into town; government and the utilities seem to be competing for the control of electric current furnished to Oglesby.

Some changes being made in the water lines near the highway entrance at Postoffice street.

A Correction

In publishing the expenses accounts of the candidates before the first primary, an error was made in the account of W. T. Bannister, candidate for Commissioner Beat 3. The published account showed Mr. Bannister was out approximately $175, whereas his expense for the campaign was approximately $35.

Mrs. Robert Merritt

Mrs. Robert Merritt, aged 73, passed away in Dallas and was buried in Post Oak Cemetery last Thursday. Mrs. Merritt was a sister of the former B. A. McKelvain of this place. She was a native Texan, having been born near Lovelady, and a lifelong Baptist. Rev. Carroll Chadwick conducted the funeral service. Numerous former friends from many places were present for the funeral.

Mrs. Sybil Felder of Arlington was here for the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Robert Merritt, also to see her brother Jim McKelvain.

Political Situation

The political situation is about the same as that of Old Coon Peppers boots. Coon's boots were so badly run down at the heel, and otherwise affected that he could not sleep when he had set them by the bed at night because they reeled and rocked and polluted the air so badly. Coon set them out on the porch so he could get some rest at night. It will not be long until another group of politicians will be set out on the porch to air out.

Monday morning Dot Jones took to the wilds. He is down on the river this week hunting and fishing living a kind of primitive life, and we expect he will have the best week he has enjoyed this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Watts of 1411 Saunders St. are announcing the arrival of a eight pound son, born Monday. The little fellow has been given the name Ronald Everett. Mrs. Watts will be remembered as the former Miss Nell Cook of Jonesboro, before her marriage.

THE VIRGINIA JUDGE

CHAPTER I

IN the sleepy little town of Tidewater, Virginia, Judge Calhoun Davis was presiding over the circuit court. His humorous, but honest and fair decisions were famous throughout the countryside and everyone who possibly could leave his work, had jammed into the little courtroom. So great was the popularity of the judge that a carnival which had just arrived in Tidewater was almost deserted by the townspeople, who preferred to listen to the cases being tried.

The judge, a kindly powerful looking man somewhat past middle age, entered the large, plain courtroom

"Yessuh," answered Simcoe. "I 'es jus' passin' through, tryin' to get to my daughter down in Newburn, No'th Ca'line. She takes care of her pappy mebbe. I ain't got no money. If I done wrong, I spec' I gotta go to jail." The old man's voice broke.

"Sorry, but our jail is full, Tyler. I reckon I'll have to send you away somewhere." The judge picked up his pen and wrote a personal check to "cash" for ten dollars. His checkbook showed that his balance in the bank was only fifteen dollars.

"Dan," he then said to the bailiff. "Take this prisoner down to the railway station and ship him to Newburn, North Carolina. This year

"Take him away, Plato," murmured the judge. "Next case."

There was a commotion at the door and four negroes entered. They were Tiny Millbank, a big, heavy, very black woman, dressed in a loud polka dot dress but wearing a wedding veil and carrying a small bouquet. Gideon Ramsbottom, apparently the groom, an under-sized negro wearing a mall order suit and a skimmer straw hat, and another man and a woman completed the quartette. The second man was huge and tough.

"Tiny Millbank," exclaimed the judge, "don't tell me you're going to get married again."

"Well, this is a little town," said the Judge, "but we do things in a big way. One hundred dollars fine."

and took his place at the bench, behind which hung a life sized painting of General Robert E. Lee.

The bailiff was already in his place. Belated spectators were taking their seats—the negroes on one side of the room and the whites on the other. A lot of palm leaf fans were in evidence for the day was torrid.

"Hear ye! Hear ye!" shouted the bailiff as Judge Calhoun Davis took his seat. "All ye having business before this honorable court be prepared to be truly and justly tried according to the laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia."

"This court is in session," said the judge, rapping his gavel. "First case on the docket."

"Willie Gaylor, step up," called a clerk.

"Well, where is he?" asked the judge when there was no answer.

A very fresh and dapper little negro popped to his feet and stepped forward. "Yessuh, Mistuh Judge," he beamed. "Willie Gaylor, thass me."

"Ten days, Willie . . . That's me," came the softly spoken sentence. "Next case."

"Tyler Simcoe!" intoned the clerk.

Simcoe hobbled forward with the aid of a cane. He was a very old negro with white hair and beard. His clothing was worn out but neat.

"I never saw you here, before, Tyler," said Davis, looking up from the charge sheet and studying the prisoner. "You're charged with vagrancy—sleeping on the courthouse steps last night. How about it?"

court order covers the transportation expenses . . . an' a big box o' lunch. Next case."

"John Smith," called the clerk.

Plato Jones, the tall, angular and cold-eyed chief of police stepped forward, his broad hand gripping the coat collar of Smith, a sleek, well-dressed fellow who plainly hailed from a big city. Smith's thin lips were parted in a smile of confidence as he squinted up at the judge.

"What's your real name?" snapped Davis, all his friendliness gone. "I suppose it's Spike or Dropper or something like that."

"Something like that," answered the prisoner cockily.

"Mr. Smith, you are charged with carrying concealed weapons. . ."

"I can explain that."

"Well, can you explain why you were so interested in the First National Bank? Now the bank building isn't new or pretty. Why did you stand and look at it for over two hours yesterday?" Before "Smith" could answer, Calhoun changed his tack. "Where're you from?"

"The Big Town."

"Well, this is a little town but we do things in a big way. One hundred dollars fine."

"I've got that right here in my pocket."

" . . . and thirty days," added the judge as he realized that he had not been severe enough. "See if you've got that in your pocket."

The smile faded from Smith's face. "You can't do that!" he yelled. "I'll . . ."

GERALD C. MANN HERE SATURDAY, SPEAKS ON RUN-OFF

Gerald C. Mann, who polled over 325,000 votes for attorney general in the first primary, brought his vigorous runoff campaign here Saturday, speaking before a large crowd and pledging a constructive, efficient and capable administration. Mann, waging the same strenuous campaign he made in the primary, had seven speeches in central Texas cities on his Friday itinerary.

"Too long have many of those in public office played at the game of politics and given but little attention to the business and science of government," Mann declared. "Too long have they thought of the next election and not the next generation. It is high time in Texas that somebody gives serious thought to the problems confronting us and seek workable solutions to them."

"As attorney general I shall cooperate with the governor and other department heads in the interest of and for the welfare of Texas. Too long have many in state positions failed to work in harmony because of conflicting political ambitions."

Mann reasserted his promise of a continuous fight on all rackets existing in the state.

"When I announced for attorney general last February I was the first candidate in any race to pledge a finish fight on the political racket" he said. "That pledge stands as strong today as it did then and it shall continue to be my battle cry after I am elected."

"When I am attorney general those racketeers, the influence peddling lawyers, the self-styled influential politicians, the fixers, sit enthroned. I want to make our capitol building a symbol of justice where any man may go and get what he is justly entitled to without the aid of any schemer."

Stating that this is the first time his name has ever appeared on the ballot, the fiery speaker declared "but I'm running now and I'm going to be elected because the people are sick and tired of the political hash that has been dished out to them for so many years and are ready for straight talking and straight thinking that I have been giving them from one end of the state to another."

"No one solicited me to run for attorney general and when I am elected I shall be free of any entangling alliances. I shall be obligated only to that great majority of people who believe in fair play and honest dealings for all the people."

Mann told of his past public record when he served by appointments as an assistant attorney general, secretary of state and as Washington Representative of the Texas Planning Board.

He reviewed his successful efforts against securities racketeers while secretary of state when he exposed gangs of fraudulent stocks salesmen and subsequently wrote and secured passage of the present Texas securities act, which has driven from Texas those who rob the honest and unsuspecting, in many cases old people, who are swindled of their life savings."

Mann recited his qualifications to the office of attorney general, said he would place his record as a lawyer against that of his opponent and he challenged his opponent to cite any legal or governmental accomplishment of his 21 years in public office at Austin that might compare with the securities act.

"When I become your attorney general I promise that I shall do what my conscience tells me is right and just. I shall sacrifice no principle to keep it."

"I want to thank South Texas voters who joined me in supporting Judge Ralph Yarborough for attorney general. Although he polled a handsome vote, it was not sufficient to place him in the second primary, and so my ballot will be cast for Gerald C. Mann in the runoff."
