GATESVILLE, TEXAS, TUESDAY, SEPT. 13, 1938

NUMBER 75

1,500 ATTEND OPENING EXERCISES GATESVILLE HIGH SCHOOL SATURDAY

MAMA'S AND TOTS VIE IN NUMBERS IN PRIMARY DEPT.

Saturday was a great day. A greater day for the six-year olds (first timers) and their Mamas, who, with "their only child" wound their several ways to the gravelly old "college hill" to get "the best of the best" for their respective Johnnies and Marys.

School opened! Classes were organized, assignments were made, seats were designated, books issued, and the machinery of education is in high gear, and the checkered flag dropped yesterday for the nine months marathon, which will, for some, end in graduation, (?) and for some, just advancement to another grade.

Gatesville's ultimate in factories has begun its operation.

At the Saturday morning meeting, the following was the program:

Three Selections, GHS Band, D. W. Diserens, Director, America, The Audience, Invocation, Rev. C. M. Spalding.

By the time the firemen arrived, the fire had been put out.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT DRAMATIZES HWY ACCIDENTS

In a series of radio programs, thirteen, over various radio stations of the TQN circuit, the State Highway Department is dramatizing episodes portraying the very things that are happening on Texas highways daily.

Each program suggests a different approach to the traffic control and contributory causes on our highways. Programs started September 4, and will be broadcast Sunday mornings as follows, thru-out the series of thirteen: WFAA-WBAP 9:20-9:30; WOAI, 9:15-9:30; KPRC, 9:15-9:30.

NELSE ALEXANDER, NEW FACULTY MEMBER OF A WACO SCHOOL

Nelse Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander of Gatesville, graduate of GHS and Baylor University has just been named as member of the faculty of Waco State Home, according to the Sunday edition of the Waco News-Tribune.

Nelse will teach science and mathematics in the school and is one of the thirteen teachers who handle approximately 300 children enrolled in the school.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, Francis and Jim Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Washburn and Madge, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Adams and Sandra Sue, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Pollard and Jo Kathryn, Mrs. Lad Bone and Mrs. Maggie Gregory were visitors of Miss Madge Miller of Llano Texas last Sunday. Miss Madge is employed by the Western Union at Llano.

DELEGATES AND "STOOGES" HIE TO STATE PARLEY

Today, W. Lee O'Daniels will be introduced to the "politicians" of Texas, members and delegates from the various political subdivisions of the great state of Texas, when the Democratic Convention opens in Beaumont, today.

Among the "boys" who left here for a little pre-convention work, and to ride the W. Lee O'Daniels special, which left Waco Sunday, were E. T. Mayes, Sr., Dr. H. M. Haynes and Harry Flentge.

Delegates and "stooges" who left Monday, are W. T. Hix, Mr. and Mrs. Mat Jones, Glenn Hendrickson, Joe Culp, Joe Tubbs, Weldon Burney and J. W. Burney.

It is predicted by most political writers that the convention will be a "bed of roses" for W. Lee O'Daniels' tribe, but it is also intimated there may be a few "thorns".

In Dallas way, someone pulled a bone, and Gerald C. Mann, Attorney General-Elect was left off the list of delegates, thru error, or otherwise, and is causing quite a "squawk" among the ardent Mann supporters.

Houston also promises to have a few thorns, and the convention will probably be enlivened by some considerable word (and that may not be all) battles.

The O'Daniel Special has the Hillbilly Band, W. Lee O', himself, parade in Houston and also was banqueting in that city. It arrived in Beaumont some time Sunday night.

WILLIAM BATES ROBERTS MADE JUDGE R. B. CROSS, GRANDPAP

All smiles, Mrs. R. B. Cross phoned us Monday morning, and said: "I just can't keep it any longer, William Bates Roberts was born to Mr. and Mrs. Denver Roberts on September 10, and I just wanted everybody to know."

You can't blame Judge and Mrs. Cross, since this is their first experience as Grandma and Grandpa Everybody is doing nicely, probably, with the exception of Denver and the Judge. No weights were mentioned.

TWO GATESVILLE GIRLS GET DEGREES FROM SWSTC

Miss Wilhelmina Cayce, member of the local school faculty received her degree from Southwestern State Teacher's College August 24, according to information received here. Hers was an A. B. Degree.

Also receiving her degree, a B. S. was Miss Frances Lewis.

Lydon B. Johnson, Congressman of the 10th Congressional District delivered the commencement address.

PAINTER'S AGAIN GETS FRONT REMODELED; AWNING DOWN

Always progressing, Painter's, one of Gatesville's modern merchandising marts was scheduled to start yesterday in another modernizing episode.

This time, the awning on the front of this store is to go the way—the way the model T's and horse and buggys have gone for the most part—to the scrap heap.

Instead, a new canvas awning is scheduled to appear shortly. Also, the entire outside of the store will be sandblasted to clean and remove the "years" off of the front. Some additional changes will be made in the "glass ware" above the awning, all of which will give the store the up to the minute appearance, necessary in this modern business world.

DECEMBER PEACHES IN OGLESBY, TEXAS

Believe it or not, down at Oglesby, peach trees are blooming. In Frank Simmon's orchard. There are more than twenty trees that are showing blooms, and a number of trees in G. W. McAuley's orchard are also showing blooms.

The town farmers there want to supply you with December peaches.

NORTH-SOUTH HIGHWAY TO HAVE HEARING IN AUSTIN MONDAY

Delegations will be there from Ft. Worth, Cleburne, Clifton, Valley Mills, Meridian, Gatesville, Florence, Copperas Cove, Killeen and all other intermediate points.

This North-South Highway, which as yet has no designation number is one of the most important highways which Coryell county and this part of the State can concentrate on, since it will relieve the other northern highways, and also provide an outlet for people of this section to other parts of the state.

It is most urgent that a large delegation be sent to Austin on Monday, September 19.

According to the local secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, there will be a hearing before the State Highway Commission in Austin on Monday, September 19, in regard to the proposed North-South Highway, thru Coryell county, from Ft. Worth to Austin.

Secretary Jackson, stated a committee would endeavor to provide transportation for any and all who could possibly make the trip, and urged that at least 100 people from Gatesville appear before the commission. Those who can also go in their own cars will be asked to register in order that as many as possible can make the trip.

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

The federal deficit at the end of President Hoover's administration was four billion dollars. After six years of Rooseveltism, the deficit is 15 billions dollars.

In 1932 the Democrats, with Franklin D. Roosevelt as their presidential candidate, termed the national debt of 20 billions "appalling" and demanded a 25 per cent reduction in expenses. Now the national debt is 37 billions.

In 1932 the Democratic national campaign committee issued a circular which included the following travagances.

"The public vs. Your taxes and Republican extravagances."

"When you groan under the burden of taxes—remember—"

The deficit at the end of the last two years of Hooverism is around four billion dollars—the greatest in peacetime history.

"That this huge deficit was not born overnight, but the performances of the last two years have wiped out previous gains in the way of reducing the national debt, and have brought it to the astonishing total of nearly 20 billion dollars."

"Remember—That although Republicans preached economy in 1920 and 1924, and promised highest efficiency at lowest cost in 1928, government bills have mounted steadily. Hooverism cost the taxpayers $3,220,000,000 in 1930-31; more than $5,000,000,000 in 1931-32."

"That the alibi of veterans' bonus and unemployment relief cannot explain tripled expenses in the department of agriculture in the last five years nor the jump of $15,000,000 in the post office deficit, $5,000,000 in the department of labor, $40,000,000 for the shipping board and $29,000,000 for the department of justice, nor why the Hoover farm board and its subsidiaries spend more than $5,000,000 a year in salaries, nor why the department of commerce had to erect a palatial $17,500,000 building for its tariff-shrunken trade."

"That although it was clear that our chief source of revenue, income taxes, would drop seriously and retrenchment was the watchword in every home and business, government spending kept merrily on at $5,000,000 a day more than income."

"Remember—That the seventy-first congress with a big Republican majority was in session from December 1930, until March, 1931. It passed appropriations that swelled the deficit. But it made no attempt to cut expenses or balance the budget."

"That although President Hoover could have called a special session of the seventy-second congress during the summer or autumn of 1931 to deal with the financial crisis, he refused to take action in spite of urgent appeals."

"That a balanced budget as well as reconstruction plans had to wait a Democratic majority in the house, where all revenue measures must originate.

Remember—"That Republican leadership has brought us to the verge of bankruptcy."

"That 'Hoover Economy' means the hardest economy in every household to save the money to pay taxes to pay for the deficit that Hoover built."

"Democrats pledge at least 25 per cent reduction in expenses."

"Turn the spendthrifts out."

"Put responsible government in."

"Elect Roosevelt and Garner."

Volumes could be written about Mr. Roosevelt's inconsistencies, repudiated pledges and false promises.

But here are a few more examples to those evident from the above quotation:

Mr. Roosevelt says the good of the country rises above party. For this reason he announces he will support liberal Republicans who oppose conservative Democrats in the general election.

But when Idaho and South Carolina Republicans decide that the good of the country rises above party and go into the Democratic primary for Clark and Smith against the new deal dictators, what then?

Their action is branded by the president as "immoral". Vile epithets are hurled at these Republicans for doing exactly what millions of Republicans did in 1932 and 1936. Franklin D. Roosevelt would not be in the White House today if Republicans had not bolted their party and voted for him in 1932 and again in 1936.

Who is to be the judge of whether Republicans enter Democratic primaries for patriotic or selfish reasons?

There have been occasions upon which Mr. Roosevelt has been glad to see parties scrambled: in Minnesota two years ago when the Democratic nominees for governor and senator were withdrawn by Jim Farley to let the Farmer-Labor candidates beat the Republicans; in Nebraska two years ago when Mr. Roosevelt, a Democrat, urged the re-election of Senator Norris, an Independent Republican, over a Democrat; in Michigan, when Republican aid was sought in the primary to nominate Frank Murphy for governor.

John Garner and the other conservative Democrats are attacked for violating their pledges to the voters. Roosevelt demands that they be "good Democrats" and support his policies. Roosevelt is the only prominent Democrat who has violated both of the platforms upon which he was elected to the presidency, and yet he persists in branding Mr. Garner as a traitor because Garner insists in the platforms of 1932 and 1936.

The president purges "tricked the voters by wearing our own insignia in 1936 when everybody knew which way we were going, only to turn against us as soon as they got in office", states Harry Hopkins, member of the new deal "inner circle".

Mr. Garner thought he knew "exactly which way we were going in 1936. He thought "we were going" where the Democratic platform and campaign promised to go and not the very different direction we took as soon as Roosevelt (Continued on page four)

It's that time now! School has opened! The Hornets have been busy digging up the turf for some time, and yesterday, if you were on the athletic field, you probably saw an additional bunch of the "big brutes" charging up and down the sod. They were the boys from the country, who are added to the football squad. Their names will probably be in the headlines before Thanksgiving.

Elsewhere, you'll see a final on the Softball decisions in answer to a letter from Pat Olsen, to a Mr. Johnson of Chicago. It explains some close decisions.

Fans this year, when the Hornets meet their rivals, will have "shed over their head" if they arrive early enough to get a West side seat. That'll be something in cold and rainy weather.

Since our own sports writer John F. Post Jr., will be on the retired list due to his part as a "wing" of the 1938 Hornets, evidently, we'll catch the coverage assignments of the games. You'll therefore miss his sparkling comments.

Also watch the News for the newest in football, the Six-Man Variety which promises development of football in smaller schools and nation wide interest even in the Netherlands or so called "country schools".

Most of the local "5" six-man schools who will be playing this year, have promised us eye-witness accounts of these very interesting games, or at least a summary.

Wednesday night, Coach Earle Worley stated the boys will work out under the lights in preparation for the first game of the season with Killeen Friday night. At this practice, the new jerseys will have been issued, and you can begin getting these "numbers" in your head, so you won't have to ask, when the fire works starts. Friday's News will carry, Names, Numbers, Position and probably, the Starting Lineup for the Killeen battle.

Each Issue, we'll run a SW Conference Schedule for you to clip in this column: Here's Baylor University's:

- Sept. 24, Southwestern, Waco.
- Sept. 30, Okla. Aggies, Waco
- Oct. 8, Ark. at Fayetteville.
- Oct. 15, Centenary, Waco.
- Oct. 22, Aggies, Waco
- Oct. 29, T. C. U., Ft. Worth
- Nov. 5, Texas, Austin
- Nov. 11, Loyola, Los Angeles
- Nov. 19, SMU, Waco
- Nov. 26, Rice, Houston.

World Comment—

velt got into office. If anybody "tricked the voters," it was those who really knew "which way we were going" but slyly failed to say anything about it in the campaign. All of the new deal legislation designed to tear down the 150-year old constitutional system of government by checks and balances and replace it with a socialistic system was introduced after the second Roosevelt inauguration. Mr. Roosevelt has no mandate whatsoever for the acts of his second term, for the people have never voted upon the policies inaugurated after the 1936 election. A few years ago the president promulgated the rule segregating government and political positions. Edgar B. Dunlap has been ousted from his position as counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Georgia because of political activity in behalf of Senator Walter George, currently on the new deal "purge" list.

That was good rule but the president has not adhered to his own rule. James A. Farley is still the postmaster general, head of the government's greatest patronage machine, and continues to serve in a political capacity as chairman of the Democratic party. Commenting on the enforced resignation of Mr. Dunlap, Senator Sheppard, chairman of the senate campaign investigating committee contended that any government agency would be justified "in demanding the resignation of any federal official that became active in any other person's political campaign."

President Roosevelt is a federal official and in his recent "purge" tour his actions cannot be interpreted as other than "activity in other persons' campaigns."

It is a pretty dependable rule that regulations which must be enforced from the top down cannot be ignored at the top.

Mrs. Roy Chamlee is spending the first part of the week in Waco with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chamlee and daughter, Janice Jeanette.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Mayes and daughter, Louise, spent Sunday visiting friends and relatives in Waco.

HUMBLE OIL CO. TO BROADCAST SW CONFERENCE GAMES

The Humble Oil & Refining Co. today announced that it will bring Texas football fans radio accounts of Southwest Conference games again this year, for the fourth consecutive year.

As usual, the News, over our Lobby Radio will bring these broadcasts as given by the Humble Oil & Refining Company's sports commentators—and, of course, the general public is extended a special invitation to be present at each and every broadcast.

An ambitious program of broadcasting has been tentatively formulated by the Company. Beginning with the first games on September 25th, the Company will broadcast all conference games and many of the outstanding inter-sectional contests to be played by Conference teams. On several Saturdays, as many as four games are on the tentative schedule of broadcasts, and on two Saturdays, five broadcasts are scheduled.

Games to be broadcast and the stations over which they may be heard will be announced from week to week during the football season.

The Humble Company again emphasized that its purpose in sponsoring the broadcast is to render an added service to the Company's friends and employees and to stimulate an increased interest in Southwest Conference football. It is hoped that the broadcasts will result in increased attendance at football games thruout the State.

Kern Tips and Cy Leland will again head the list of play-by-play announcers. Other announcers are now being selected, and the complete list will be ready within a short time.

In connection with the broadcasts, the Humble Company will also again publish the Humble Football News. This attractive, lively football weekly has proved to be extremely popular among Texas followers of the game. In addition to covering the Southwest Conference, the Humble Football News also covers high school and college football in Texas. Plans for this season include one or more feature stories every week. The Humble Football News will be distributed free by Humble Service Stations and Humble dealers each Thursday during the football season; the first issue will be in their hands on Thursday, September 22nd.

Friends of Mrs. G. D. Nolte will be glad to hear that she is well on the road to recovery.

The screen Actors Guild contributed the most colorful and interesting units in the labor day parade. Floats with actors in proper costume represented various acting groups. Included were Polynesian, Mexican, Czechoslovakian, Russian, Chinese, French, Malapian, Indian and in kilts, a Scotch bagpipe band. In cars rode the actors, Lionel Stander, Lucille Gleason, Edward Arnold, Herman Bing, John Beal with Hopalong Cassidy, Bill Boyd leading the western picture unit.

Mickey Rooney bears a close resemblance to the burlesque comedian Joe Yule, which isn't a coincidence, it's his father.

Leo Carrillo wisely abandoned his plans of running for governor Why should he quit a job he does well to take one of which he knows little and pays a great deal less.

Many theatres use footlights to color their screen during the title act at the start of each feature. A certain color or combination of colors being used according to the type of picture or the mood it suggests. Such as comedy, tragedy, musical, or if the picture is about a country of a certain race, the color is used that's generally associated with them. Here are some examples: Blue light on the screen proper with red lights, tinting the curtains on each side for the tragedy "Peter Ibbetson". The red is extinguished about five seconds before the titling ends and the story begins. Green for "Frankenstein". Red and blue mixed making a sort of purple, for musicals and green for an Irish theme.

To make the work more fascinating and complicated for the theatre manager in his choice of colors overture music in the title and the artistic pattern of the lettering and its background have to be taken into consideration.

Hornets Heckled by Injuries As They Prepare for Killeen

Last week's practice sessions took a heavy injury toll in the Hornet squad. John Albert Lester, brilliant quarterback, was out the latter part of the week with a badly bruised leg, while Bruce Weaver big guard, was slowed down considerably with a bad Charleyhorse.

The guard outlook received another blow last week, when J. B. Whigham, who was due to see plenty of action this year, underwent an appendectomy. He is out for the season.

That leaves Worley with only two capable guard, Glen Perryman and Bruce Weaver, and if one of these should be injured, the Hornet offense would bog down.

Bayne Blankenship, big fullback who injured his knee two weeks ago, may or may not be able to go Friday night. He has not tried to scrimmage on his game knee, doing nothing more than jogging about thirty minutes every afternoon, and it is not known just how the knee would stand up if Blankenship got in some rough work.

The Hornets are going to have a hard time of it Friday night, and the boys realize it. This Killeen 11 is going to be really tough, and they have been working out two weeks longer than the Hornets. However, this year's squad has the traditional Hornet fighting spirit, a spirit that has carried former Hornet eleven to many victories.

HERE'S SOME SETTLED SOFT BALL ?'S FOR FILE

Pat Olsen, wrote Hubert G. Johnson, Detroit, Michigan, the following, which is answered. "The bases are loaded. The batter, who chokes his bat and "chops" at the ball, hits a fir ball the ball hitting the ground immediately in front of the plate and bouncing. The batter in starting to run, drops his bat in front of the plate and hits the ball a second time making it roll a few feet in front of the plate on fair ground. The chief umpire ruled it a fair and allowed the runner to score from third. The batter, who reached first too quickly for a play to be made on him, was declared safe. The catcher made no apparent attempt to field the ball, the pitcher recovering it. The hitting of the ball the second time was unintentional. The chief umpire ignored the protest of the team in the field and the requested advice of the base umpire who declared the batter out and returned runners to their bases. Who is correct?"

Answer: "The batter should have been declared out and the runners returned to their bases."

"A passed ball rolls about 30 feet back of the catcher who goes back, recovers the ball and throws to the pitcher who is standing on the pitcher's plate. A runner on third base starts running as soon as the ball hits the pitcher's hands and scores. Should it be allowed, The catcher was out of the catcher's box, of course."

Answer: "The runner should have been returned to third base, unless there was an attempt to play him when he was trying to score."

The bases are loaded. The batter hits a fair ball to third base The third baseman gets the "jitters" and drops the ball. He recovers, but again drops it. This is repeated several times, the runner on third scoring easily before the third baseman finally holds the ball on third for the third out. The runner on second became confused and returned to second where he remained several seconds before discovering that he was forced. Two men were out. Does the run count?"

Answer: The run does not count. This was a force out.

Signed: Hubert G. Johnson

"DO IT THE EASY WAY"

The fall litter of pigs is the second semi-annual dividend the sow pays if she is well cared for and bred on time. By the time the pigs are weaned they will weigh more than the average two-year old sow which amounts to the sow doubling her own weight in potential pork every six months. It is becoming common for litters to weigh a ton at six months of age, and two tons litters a year are equivalent to multiplying the sow's weight 12 to 15 times.

Of course this does not always happen under even the best management—in fact it never "happens" at all. It is the result of a definite purpose which is achieved only by the exercise of good judgement, close attention and care.

Generally speaking a fall litter is as good in the Southwest as a spring litter, requires little more attention after the critical farrowing period is over and the pigs begin to eat, than does a litter farrowed in the spring, if—and this is a pretty big "if"—green pastures water and dry sleeping quarters are provided.

Exercise and sunlight are as essential as food to the health of pigs, and our open winters permit hogs to live a more natural life than in the North, where expensive houses with glass windows still leave much to be desired in the way of healthful conditions. We are so accustomed to raising hogs out of doors that we scarcely appreciate the great advantages the Southwest offers over the laborious and expensive methods which the northern swine breeder cannot escape.

At this time of year the pastures and fields of the Southwest are still green and there are gleanings of grain which hogs will save while getting sunlight and exercise. Many a corn or grain sorghum field, pea, peanut of sweet potato patch has enough waste to make as much pork as the family will need, and which the pigs will thankfully work.

When the waste grain has been cleaned up and pastures are still green, grain can be supplied in a self-feeder, enclosed in a creep to keep the sow out. Grain will go farther while the pigs are suckling than at any other time in their lives, and it is poor economy to stint them. A self-feeder large enough for an ordinary expense of lumber and time and filling it once or twice a week does away with the double-daily chore of hand feeding. When the elements of a good ration are always accessible to hogs they take care of their own needs better than the owner can, and, instead of being wasteful, as people are sometimes inclined to think, the self-feeder method is more economical of feed (as well as time) than doing feed out by hand.

Protein supplement and mineral mixtures are not always necessary when hogs are on good pastures, but it is worth while to let the hogs decide. Put the protein supplement in the self-feeder in a separate compartment from the grain and if the hogs don't need it they won't eat it. Mineral mixture is so cheap and easy to prepare there can be no good reason for withholding it, and again, if the animals are getting plenty of minerals in pastures that in the box will last indefinitely.

Water should be accessible at all times. The hog's stomach is small, and he cannot "tankup" once or twice-a-day, and still do his best in digesting his feed.

The pasture and self-feeder method of producing pork is best and most economical from every standpoint. As "Hico" Eudaly says in his trench silo talks, "Do it the easy way and you'll like it." How foul to the senses the old-fashioned hog pen

When harsh recollection recalls it to view;

Its fly-swarming slop-trough, its muddy liblolly—

The cob-cluttered hog-pen which my boyhood once knew.

TIRES FOR EVERY SERVICE

The extra mileage that Mansfield Tire users have received during the past twenty-five years has been responsible for the fact that the Company has grown steadily until it is now one of the six largest producers in the tire industry. Mansfield distributors dot the continent from coast to coast.

Mansfield Mudders

Designed and built to do just what their name implies — take you through the mud, slush, snow on any type of road, on their wide angled, heavy cleated treads.

Mansfield Cushion Balloons

Today's cars — built for small diameter wheels and low air-pressures — need special tires for high speed service. Mansfield Cushion Balloons bring out all the sparkling performance built into modern cars.

● There's a Mansfield Tire built to give extra mileage and extra safety on any make car or truck you drive — on any kind of work, in any season of the year, over all kinds of roads. That's the reason we are stocking them, yes, and selling them to your friends and neighbors who already have had the opportunity to see the extra safety, economy and performance of Mansfield Tires.

THREE WAYS SAFER

Mansfield Tires are three ways safer because they are built three ways differently from other tires. For instance, Cord-Lock construction puts 31% more full weight cord fabric into the sidewalls, reinforcing the tire against flexing strains. The high tensile, steel piano wire beads are seven times as strong as actually needed. Mansfield treads are made of tougher Duro-mix rubber, today still more resistant to high speed wear and pavement "burn" from fast starts and quick stops. Every Mansfield Tire gives you more mileage than you pay for.

"ROMANCE OF THE LIMBERLOST" LOST TO OPEN AT REGAL THEATRE

"Romance of the Limberlost" the picture suggested by Gene Stratton Porter's "Girl of the Limberlost," starring Jean Parker with Eric Linden, Marjorie Main, Hollis Jewell and a prominent supporting cast, will open next Saturday night at 7:30 at the REGAL theatre.

The story of a girl of the the swamp country, whose only friends are the birds and animals of the forest this picture comes highly recommended to local moviegoers. Featured in an important role is Bety Blythe, one of the favorites of the silent screen, who still retains the best instincts of her long acting career.

The Monogram picture was directed by William Nigh, and the screen play adapted by Marion Orth.

BRACK CURRY

PROSPECTUS

The Democratic National Convention of 1940 promises to provide to interested Americans a battle royal comparable in its intensity and ruthlessness to the conventions of 1924, when William Gibbs McAdoo of California and Alfred M. Smith of New York fought for days for the nomination.

The complete alignment of the factions and personalities which will fight for control of the 1940 convention cannot be estimated until after the general elections this November for few governors and congressmen may be elected who in the next 2 years will definitely overshadow the existing potential nominees.

On the basis of present political conditions, however, certain definite predictions can be made as to who will be the dominating figures at the conventions.

Barring such extraordinary occurrence as extra terminate political careers, 3 personalities who occupy prominent positions within the party today will be conspicuous of the next national convention. They are the President the Vice President and the present National Chairman, Mr. Farley.

Previous articles in this space have discussed what Mr. Roosevelt's position may be in 1940. Political quidnuncs are currently engaged in speculating as to possible third term intentions by the chief executive. All are agreed, however, that Mr. Roosevelt will not voluntarily take a back seat in 1940 and let more conservative element of the party win the nomination for one of their number.

Mr. Roosevelt will either run for a third term in 1940 or assure the nomination of his party for a new dealer, that is, one who is wholeheartedly in sympathy with the new deal program for reform and recovery. As leader of his party Mr. Roosevelt will naturally have a strong voice in naming his successor on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Garner's role at the convention is already mapped out for him. Mr. Garner will seek to swing the nomination away from an ardent new dealer and to a more conservative member of the party probably Harry Byrd of Virginia or Bennett Clark of Missouri, without doubt Mr. Garner ably reinforced by such Senators as Burke of Nebraska Connally of Texas Wheeler of Nevada, and Byrd and Clark (others whose collaboration with this group is dependent upon renomination and reelection this year include Senators George of Georgia, Tydings of Maryland and McCarran of Nevada) will seek to achieve this end even if it means breaking with the president, politically and personally.

It is now definitely known that James A. Farley would, in a crisis throw his support to the latter or "conservative" group. Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen recently predicted in their Washington column that Mr. Farley definitely wants the nomination but that he is not the President's favorite for the job. These writers further wrote that Mr. Farley is irrevocably opposed to a third term.

In speculating upon Farley's probable role in the nominating convention, one contributing factor must be taken into account: Chairman Farley controls the party machinery and for this reason will be one of the most potent figures at the convention.

Local machines control convention delegates and delegates' votes. Chairman Farley has thousands of political friends over the country who would be more responsive to his wishes than to those of President Roosevelt. Farley has the machine—Roosevelt the popular acclaim.

Just how receptive Mr. Garner and his friends would be to a Farley nomination is not known. But Farley is not at heart a new dealer, and for that reason he should not be totally unacceptable to the Garner branch of the party. Recent rumors from Washington were that Mr. Garner's friends were talking of a ticket with Garner for President and Farley for Vice President.

Mr. Garner is as non-committal about his 1940 intentions as is Mr. Roosevelt. For some time we have been told that Mr. Garner wants to retire to private life (fishing) in 1940 and forget the worries of state with which he has for so long been preoccupied as congressman, speaker of the house, and vice president.

But smart politicians by no means count Mr. Garner out of the list of potential candidates for the nomination. They believe Garner would accept the nomination himself as a compromise candidate rather than permit a new deal candidate to win the nomination. Should Garner be tendered the nomination, his running mate undoubtedly would be one of the "conservative Senators mentioned above.

The usual flock of favorite son candidates will be on hand at the convention, ready to bargain with any and all potential nominees and thus win favor for themselves and for their states. Several other aspirants will have the delegates of several states behind them. Philippine High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt former governor of Indiana, hopes to enter the convention with a sizable block of votes supporting him. Recent dispatches indicate that Harry Hopkins may be the fair-haired boy of the new dealers and would have the support of several "100 per cent" new deal states.

Neither politicians or writers are primarily concerned with the parts which the minor figures will play at the convention however for the success of the efforts of such figures as McNutt will be entirely dependent upon the wishes of the three prominent personalities heretofore mentioned. Mr. Roosevelt, Mrs. Garner and Mrs. Farley.

On the side of the seasoned Democratic leaders who for more than a quarter of a century have guided the destinies of the Democratic party and who will oppose the nomination of a new dealer as the 1940 Democratic presidential candidate are expected to be found such veteran campaigners as Vice President Garner, Senators Wheeler of Montana, Gerry of Rhode Island, Burke of Nebraska, McCarran of Nevada, George of Georgia

THE VIRGINIA JUDGE

NOVELIZATION OF THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE OF THE SAME NAME

SYNOPSIS
Judge Calhoun Davis of the circuit court in the sleepy little town of Tidewater, Virginia, is hated by his stepson, Jim. Jim is in love with Mary Lee, the girl next door. Mary, however, prefers Bob Stuart. In a jealous rage, Jim gets into a jam when he borrows a car from a neighbor without permission and wrecks it. In order to avoid arrest and to pay the garage bill, he takes a shotgun which he found in the car and sells it to Bob. The latter, meanwhile, finds out from Mary that the gun did not belong to Jim. At a carnival that night, Bob meets Jim and a fight starts when Bob accuses Jim of trying to sell him a stolen gun.

CHAPTER VIII

Horror-stricken at what he had done, Jim looked up from the bleeding Bob to see the men coming toward him. He became panic stricken and started backing away.

"I'll shoot the first one that lays a

"Zara never fails," the gypsy was saying. "Zara sees no dark cloud . . . only a future of sunshine and beauty."

"I just know everything will be like you say," beamed the girl. As the gypsy nodded and went back into the tent she looked around for Bob. Then, attracted by the people rushing from all directions toward the shooting gallery, she hurried toward it.

As she did so a section of the crowd separated and four men emerged, carrying the wounded youth. The smile faded from her face. For an instant she was stunned at what she saw. Then, like a thunderbolt, came the realization that the boy she loved was badly hurt.

stopped as he realized the Judge's relationship to Jim."

"An' who?" shouted Plato. ". . . an' . . . an' . . . the Judge's son."

"You mean . . . Jim?" Davis was thunderstruck.

"Yes, sir. Him an' Bob got to quarrellin' an' Jim up an' shot him."

"All right, Bill. Thanks," said Plato, wishing to spare his friend as much as possible. Then, placing a sympathetic hand on the latter's arm, the Chief led the way from the tent.

A deputy met them at the entrance.

"He got away in the darkness. Chief," he reported, "but I got six men lookin' for him."

The man saluted and hurried away. The crowd separated and the Judge and Plato started out onto the midway.

"Cal," said Plato as they walked along, "I know how you feel, an' I'm sorry for you an' Martha. But I've got to get Jim."

"That's right, Plato," answered the Judge gravely. "It's your duty." Taking off his hat, the old man ran a hand through his grey hair. Then he shook his head sadly. "It's goin' to be mighty hard, Plato . . . tellin' Martha about this."

They had now reached the scene of the tragedy. Giving his friend a sympathetic pat on the shoulder, Plato turned in to the shooting gallery. The Judge walked slowly and thoughtfully on, a pathetic figure of dejection. From time to time he stopped and looked in the direction of his home, dreading the coming scene with Martha. Then, with his chin on his chest, he continued on and finally turned up the walk that led to the verandah.

Bob was carried to a hospital and there his mother and Mary Lee waited for hours in the ante-room with no word as to the condition of the boy they both loved.

From time to time a door from the operating ward would open and a nurse would start across the room. At this both the women would hurry forward to intercept her.

"Will he . . . ?" Emotion checked any further utterance.

"We don't know," was the invariable reply. "Dr. Trent hasn't finished his examination yet."

Under the terrific strain Mrs. Stuart broke down and began to sob hysterically. Repressing her own misery, Mary Lee placed her arms around the older woman and soothed her as best she could.

"Cal," said Plato, "I know how you feel, and I'm sorry for you an' Martha. But I've got to get Jim."

hand on me," he shouted, raising the smoking pistol.

When his threat did not deter the men, fear took complete possession of Jim. Backing away, he suddenly turned and ran out of the concession into the outer darkness.

The burly fellow took charge of the situation.

"See if you can find the Chief," he told a companion as he knelt beside Bob. "And get a doctor, quick!"

As he spoke the tent flap of the fortune teller's tent was held open and Mary Lee emerged, her face wreathed in smiles.

"Bob! Bob!" she screamed as she rushed toward him.

At the hula hula concession, Plato and the Judge were thoroughly enjoying the show when a man rushed in and excitedly grabbed the Chief of Police by the arm.

"Chief, there's been a shootin'," he panted.

"Where?"

Plato leaped to his feet and reached for his gun.

"Down the midway a piece." "Who was it?" "Bob Stuart, an' . . ." The man

MONEY IN THE BANK

"Feed in the silo is like money in the bank—safe as long as you leave it there and subject to checking out when ever you need it." That's what thousands of trench silo users will tell you after a year's experience. There are now about 11,000 of these "money in the bank" ditches in Texas and probably that many more in the four adjoining states, for which figures are not available at the moment. They range in size from 6,000 tons capacity down to those just large enough to feed one or two family milk cows, the tiny ditch just as efficient for its purpose as the huge canyons holding feed for thousands of beef steers.

The Southwest probably has the greatest crop of feed, both grain and roughage, in history. Many farmers who diverted land from cotton or wheat into other crops will have more feed than the livestock now on their farms can use in one season. If stored above ground as dry forage its palatability and feeding value gradually deteriorates but if properly stored in a trench silo it will be as good ten years from now—if it should be that long before the next drouth or hard winter—as it is a month after filling the the silo.

The trench silo can be constructed with little or no cash outlay. Any dirt moving tool from a spade to a dragline will do the work. It can be dug in a hillside or on the level any length, depth or width to suit the conditions and the needs of the owner. If rock is too close to the surface or ground water too high for the desired depth, the dirt excavated can be piled up to raise the walls above the ground level and increase the depth of the trench sufficiently to insure good packing of the ensilage which is essential to proper curing and keeping of the material.

Any crop can be ensiled, even after the grain is mature and the stalks partially dried out. The ideal condition of course is while stalks and foliage are still green and succulent, but if drouth or frost gets in its work before the crop can be ensiled, adding water will supply the deficiency of moisture and make ensilage of dry, or partially dry material.

Corn, sweet soro and grain sorghums carry sufficient sugars and easily convertible starches to insure the fermenting process which turns the material into ensilage. Sudan grass and the legumes requires the addition of some fermenting material and black strap molasses, a few gallons to the ton of ensilage, will do the job.

Crops may be successfully ensiled in whole stalks or an ensilage cutter may be used. In either case success or failure depends on thorough packing in order to exclude air pockets. It is easier to properly pack cut ensilage than stalks, and it is easier to feed out but the lack of a cutter has not prevented hundreds of farmers from making and using whole stalk ensilage. Those who have not had previous experience in storing ensilage should consult their neighbor who has, or the county agent who will supply detailed information in person or by bulletin.

Ensilage is more digestible than dry forage, hence an acre of feed in the silo is worth more as feed than the same acre cured dry. There is no waste and the acre of feed will go farther in the silo. It furnishes succulent feed when green pastures are not available, and is therefore relished by all livestock. It keeps the digestive apparatus of cattle and sheep functioning better, they get more nourishment from dry grain feed and therefore produce more milk or weight for each pound of expensive grain they eat.

World Comment—

Smith of South Carolina, Tydings of Maryland, Harrison of Mississippi, Norris of Massachusetts, Bailey of North Carolina, Byrd and Glass of Virginia, King of Utah, Loneragan and Maloney of Connecticut and Van Nuys of Indiana.

On the other side of the fence, battling for control of the Democratic party by liberals, will be Mr. Roosevelt—with all the power and prestige of his office—Relief Administrator Hopkins, Interior Secretary Ickes, Agriculture Secretary Wallace and the White House inner circle, headed by Ben Cohen and Tommy Corcoran; Senators Bone and Schwelienbach of Washington, Guffey of Pennsylvania, McGill of Kansas, Bulkley of Ohio, Barkley of Kentucky, Truman of Missouri, Minton of Indiana and some other staunch new dealers.

How many other the president will be able to draw to his liberal camp is a moot question. Though House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas has demonstrated, time and again his loyalty to the White House in driving the president's bills thru the house some belief was evident, he may line up with Garner, of Whose 1932 boom for the presidential nomination he was manager.
