FFA BOYS WITH "WEL" HAVE FIGHTS ON FRI. AND SAT. NIGHTS

Friday and Saturday nights of this week, the fight season will open in the high school gym with fighters (high school) coming from all parts of the county, as well as Crawford, Lampasas, Hamilton, McGregor and other points which we do not know at this time.

Using the AAU rules, weights and regulations, the fights will be staged, with the finals on Saturday night.

A newly constructed ring has been fitted with all the necessities, and will be a considerable improvement over that of last year.

Mr. Lasseter has not given us a list of the entries so far, and we don't know exactly who the leather pushers will be. At any rate, a good amateur lineup has been arranged.

GUARANTY HAS FORMAL OPENING FRIDAY NIGHT, 1500

Fifteen hundred, between the hours of 4 and 8 o'clock Friday evening of last week went to a certain bank here just to see.

It was the "Guaranty"! And, a good time was had by all. Some 600 signed a visitor's book, many others, including the six hundred, got either key-ring souvenirs or carnations.

The bank, profusely "flowered" by friends of the bank, who were delighted, and business associates, and was more beautiful, even though that is hard to say, with the new fixture, lighting, and other improvement which have been made in the bank.

Among the out of town visitors to the opening were Mr. and Mrs. Irving McCreary of Temple, and an unidentified member of the staff of the Farmer's State Bank of Temple; Carl Sherman and Bert Perry, vice-presidents of the First National Bank of Waco, H. B. Harrison, vice-president of the Citizen's National Bank of Waco, Mr. Gilbreath, of the Continental National Bank of Fort Worth, and others whose names we were unable to get.

Keeping abreast of the time, the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company has as fine quarters as any bank in any town in Texas in a town this size, and it is even better, more modern and designed to facilitate business than many banks in towns of considerably more people.

The officers, directors and employees are all to be congratulated on this splendid addition to "modern Gatesville".

RECASTING THE FARM

Lost motion is costly whether it is in the factory or on the farm. There are times when an hour means more than a day at some other time. Good farm management, like good factory management, implies getting the greatest results from the time and energy expended. This in turn calls for the elimination of unnecessary motions. It all adds up to the mathematical axiom that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points and arranging the set-up to use all the practical "short-cuts".

Factory managers employ the best engineering talent to lay out the plant for efficient operation with a keen eye to learn how to perform it with the fewest possible motions. The workman, by reducing the essential motion to the minimum, not only gets more work done, but is less fatigued at the end of the day. All of us have known people who always seemed to be in a hurry and yet got less work done than others who appear to go about the job in a leisurely manner. The difference is simply that the hurrier is probably making a lot of ineffective motions, wasting both physical and nervous energy, while the other sort of worker makes every motion count toward getting the job done.

Women, by recognizing their kitchens, have progressed more rapidly in the saving of steps and time than men have done in the barnyard and on the farm. The home, and especially the kitchen, is as much a part of the productive farm equipment as the plow land and the barnyard, so perhaps that is the best place to start more efficient operation. When it has running water, convenient fuel, and its stove, sink, worktables, etc. are compactly arranged the housewife not only gets her work done more quickly, but does not wear herself out in the process.

This is a good season of the year to study the farm and reshape its arrangement as the women have done and are doing in their kitchens. Next summer, when the seasonal work is crowding, when every hour counts, is too late to do anything about sagging gates, water where the livestock can serve themselves, pastures which cannot be graze or lack of fence and water, or somebody's time to drive the cows back and forth.

The ideal situation of course would be to start with the bare land and lay out the home and farm plant for convenience and economy of time as a modern factory is laid out. Most farms trace back to pioneer conditions, however, and the more or less haphazard arrangement of their improvement which cannot be readily or economically corrected over night. This should not and need not prevent a gradual reconstruction and rearrangement for time and labor saving.

Perhaps the most time-consuming and thankless chore on the farm is drawing water for household, poultry and livestock. A hand pump is a long step forward, but a windmill or power pump, with reservoir and watering troughs always accessible will soon repay their cost by saving both time and energy, besides paying off in better milk production, better health and growth in all animals and fowls on the farm. There is no better place to begin reorganizing the farm plant than with an adequate and efficient water supply system.

Our home economics leaders have shown that a very small plot of garden well watered can supply a large part of the family food and improve its health at the same time. Here again the water supply destroys a garden which depends pay off, sometimes when drouth upon Providence.

"THESE FURRINERS"

What is it about a foreign accent that so completely enchants the American public as a rule? Give a person a foreign accent and manner and whether he is selling peanuts or promoting a million dollar investment he is none the less irresistible to the American people. A sales speech delivered to our people in broken accent melts down their sales resistance to its lowest ebb and generally results in our acceptance of the deal no matter how bad a bargain it may happen to be. This just seems to be one of the many weaknesses of the American people as a whole. That is the reason the movie industry imports so many foreign stars, teaches them just enough English to be able to speak their lines and the American movie goers immediately succumb to the hypnotic influence of the foreign flavored voice. Many American actors have learned of this great failing of the American people and have cultivated an accent of one kind or other and have presented themselves as foreign stars often with the greatest success.

It is my observation that this situation is not limited to the movie industry but extends to practically every phase of endeavor in our country. For instance, announce that a lecture is to be delivered by a person with a long impossible foreign name and have him appear with foreign visage and exotic accent, the people will come for miles around and accept his teachings as the last word in authoritative material; whereas if a good man of original American stock presented the same speech he would receive comparatively scant attention.

In the field of the fine arts this trend is even more noticeable and more distressing. Many American musicians and artists felt that if they are to succeed they must decorate themselves with a difficult foreign name and often even assume an accent. In America a work of art signed by a person with an ordinary name like Smith or Jones or Brown would have little chance receiving worthy attention no matter how good it might be. We silly Americans just insist on investing the foreigner with some vague and indefinable value and ability which we refuse to credit to those of our own group even when their ability is as great or greater.

Lawrence Tibbett, our great American singer, was advised many times that if he wished to succeed as a musician in America he must change his name to Laurinco Tibbettio or some other dizzy misomer, he very definitely refused to do so and is one great artist who has proved that he could succeed without the benefit of foreign accent or name. Richard Crooks has done likewise but these are two very notable exceptions. Just look at a list of successful artists and musicians in this country and you will very often find the degree of success to be in direct proportion to the length and difficulty of the name.

I have yet to see a foreign doctor who could not make an American patient believe anything he wished to tell him. Doctors with foreign names and accents are uniformly highly successful because our home people believe his talents and training to be superior to the home talent. Instances are many in which this feeling proved disastrous to the patient. Even an American doctor who visits the old world supposedly for purposes of advanced study finds a very fine response in increased practice when he returns even tho he spent his time in the

SPORT SCRAPS
By JONES

Here's the first of the All-Conference Teams, the selection sent in by that ardent fan, J. R. Ramsey:

LE Bonds, Valley Mills; LT Burt, McGregor; LG Honeycutt, Mart; C Morgan, Gatesville; RG Pedigo, McGregor; RT Schley; Gatesville; RE. Post, Gatesville; H Goshoske, Mart; Half, Cohn, Marlin; Full, Kittrell, McGregor; Q Lester, Gatesville.

Which, to say the least, would be a hard district team to take under any conditions.

W. E. Lasseter and the FFA boys throw their A. A. U. Fights, the 9th and 10th, but so far, we don't have the "card", but you can bet, the leather flingers will be there in great numbers.

Just to get it off our mind, here's our All-Conference selections, which you probably won't particularly like. Anyway, we don't expect to please everyone. It's the line we're most doubtful about.

For Q, we'll take Lester, G'ville, taverns and night clubs of Vienna. Personally I am disgusted with the American people for their perverted sense of inferiority of their own nationality in any sphere of influence that one chooses to survey. Our American brains and those of any race, creed or country. Lets show more civilian patriotism and accept the men of ability in our own ranks even if they speak with a drawl of the old south or the quick short tongue of our northern homefolks. Don't let a suave foreign accent hide an insincere and less capable brain from your sense of judgement of the true worth of the people that you have to deal with.

Half, Cohn, Marlin, Bradshaw, also Half, McGregor, Kittrell, McGregor, Full.

The line: Alexander, Marlin, Post, Hornets, Ends; Guards: Pedigo, McGregor, Irvin, V. Mills; Tackles, Schley, Gatesville, McMullen, McGregor; C. Morgan, Hornets.

There you are! For a game or two, some others were All-Conference, particularly Edwards, McDonald and Jackson. But being first year and substitute players, for a part of the time, these could not very well be named.

Best passer, no doubt is Jackson. Best Punter, is very doubtful, they were all more or less mediocre. Jones, while he played, was probably the best. Best Blocker is Lester, and this got him the the quarterback position.

A "Most Valuable Man" can't be named, unless it is Kittrell of McGregor, who no doubt is the outstanding prospect in the entire league. Cohn of Marlin, also was a star, and about 9-10 of the Marlin club. The Hornet's valuables run in two's; Jackson wouldn't be so hot on passes without McDonald, and visa versa. So, let's just drop this Most Valuable Man.

Mrs. W. M. Gamblin and daughters, Mrs. Pete Powell and Mrs. Curtis Sims, attended the funeral of Mrs. Gamblin's aunt, Mrs. Kittie Tubbs, in Crawford Tuesday. Mrs. Tubbs was a resident of Osage.

Mrs. W. W. Cayce spent last week in Hamilton as a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Otto Lengefeld, husband, and little daughter, Nancy.

Directs Texas Birthday Balls

William L. Clayton of Houston, head of America's largest cotton firm, has been named Texas chairman of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday. He will intensify the fight against infantile paralysis by naming county chairmen to arrange a series of balls and other events for celebration of President Roosevelt's Birthday on Monday, January 30, 1939, in every Texas city and town. Fifty per cent of all funds raised for the fight against the dread disease will be retained in the communities where the money is contributed and the remainder will be allocated to hospitals engaged in treatment of children crippled by infantile paralysis and for necessary scientific research work.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

SEEMS to me Sunday School would be a lot more popular with kids if all the things happened there that the jokesmiths tell about. Maybe all these Sunday School jokes is true, but they must make some few Sunday Schools awful funny. I don't believe any Sunday School teacher would ask such a foolish question as the one in this story, but still they're accused of asking lots funnier ones. "Now, children, who will wear the biggest crown in heaven?" "My dad!" says the smart Johnnie. "What makes you think that?" "Well, he wears seven and three-eights now, and Ma says his head is swellin' all the time."

SUPPOSIN'

As the child's phrase has it, supposin' some dreadful calamity should overnight destroy the world's supplies of crude and manufactured petroleum lubricants. What would result? Friction would destroy all save an infinitesimal few of our prized machines, and the work of the world would stop. Overnight, civilization would be set backward a thousand years.

No less important than lubricants in general to the world's work is the selection of the proper lubricant for your own—whether you operate a hay baler or a factory employing a thousand men.

The Humble Company specializes in specialized lubricants. It has kept up with the march of machine progress by manufacturing just the right oil, just the right grease each machine needs. The list of these lubricants is too long to print here; it fills a thick catalogue. The point is, each of them has some particular purpose to serve in the mechanical scheme of things, and they're all available to Texans through Humble bulk stations. Discuss your lubrication problem with a Humble representative; chances are, he can show you how to increase both efficiency and economy of machine operation.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THIS is an original Scotch-Jewish story. It was told me by an Englishman here in America. You may not like it, but I think it is still a fine story. Two old Jewish parents had an only son. They procured him a job as an errand boy, 10 shillings a week ($2.50). Every Saturday he brought the money home to his mother. This went on for three months. Finally one day the father called on the man his son was working for. "Is my boy Aaron a good boy?" "He, certainly is," said the merchant.

"Why don't you give him a raise, then?" "I just gave him one three weeks ago. I put his wages up to 12 shillings ($3.00) instead of 10 shillings.

The old father departed and found Aaron. "What did you do with the money?" Aaron says, "I spent it." "But vat on?" "I don't know." "You don't know, you spent two shillings and you can't remember what on?" "I tell you I don't know," says the lad.

The old parent felt pretty bad. Finally he says: "Aaron, my son, tell your old father, you haven't taken up with a woman, have you?"

USEFUL INFORMATION FOR DUCK AND QUAIL HUNTERS: LIMIT

Quail shooting will start Dec. 1 and continue until Jan. 16.

Not only has the open season on ducks and geese been lengthened from 30 to 45 days, but the possession limits have been doubled.

The bag limit on ducks, except the wood duck, is 10 in the aggregate of all kinds, the same as last season, but the possession limit has been doubled to 20 in the aggregate.

The Daily Bag

This season hunters may take three canvasbacks, redheads, buffleheads or ruddy ducks in their daily bag, or an aggregate of three birds of the different species. The possession limit for these ducks is six of any single species, or six in the aggregate.

The daily bag limit on geese and brant is five in the aggregate of all kinds, and the possession limit has been increased to 10 in the aggregate.

The daily bag limit on rals and gallinules, except sora and coot, is continued at 15 in the aggregate of all kinds. The possession limit is the same.

Other Limits

Bag limits for some of the other migratory game birds are: Sora 15, coot 24, Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe 15. In each case the possession limit may not exceed the daily bag limit. A new federal regulation added this year forbids the rallying of coot for hunting.

As was the case last year waterfowl and coot may be hunted in season from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Transport Rule

Not more than two days bag limit of lawfully-taken and lawfully possessed ducks and geese may be transported in one calendar week. Transportation last season was limited to one day's bag.

Chief restrictions in this year's federal regulations that have been continued from last year, are:

Baiting of waterfowl and the use of live duck and geese decoys in hunting waterfowl are not authorized, regardless of the distance between the bait or decoys and the shooter.

The three-shell limit on repeating or automatic shotguns, in effect the last three seasons, is continued. Hunters may shoot waterfowl with shotguns only, not larger than No. 10 gauge.

Ross' geese, wood ducks and swans are still protected.

GEORGE MANNING BUILDS NEW GARAGE

A new white stucco garage is now under construction, on the north east corner of the square, next to Cook's Cleaners. This new garage is under the management of George Manning. When completed it will be 32x80 feet, with an all modern finish.

Mr. Manning hopes to have the garage completed and ready for business by Christmas.—Four Co. Press.

AVERAGE MOTORIST HAS AUTO WORTH $2388. CHECK SHOWS

Chicago, No. 17.—The American Petroleum Institute took a statistical peek at the average American motorist today and found:

He is 43 years old.
He has a son and a daughter.
He earns between $20 and $30 weekly.

His second-hand car has a market value of $238 (the odds are 2 to 1 that he never owned a new one).

His car is 4 or 5 years old and has been driven 8500 miles annually, most of the distance within 100 miles of home.

He uses 600 gallons of gas, 35 quarts of oil annually.

His annual automobile taxes total $52.99.

WHY RECOVERY LAGS

The Federal Reserve Board reports that there is 40 per cent more money in circulation at the present time than in 1929 at the height of the boom; that we have 25 per cent more money in bank accounts and 200 per cent more gold than we had in the most active financial year in history; that bank deposits are close to an all time high.

Apparently we have plenty of money, but it is not working, for the Reserve board adds that the turnover of bank deposits is at the lowest rate on record.

It is pretty easy to understand why our money won't go to work when we consider that owners of moneys—yes, even those of us with a dollar or two in our pockets—hesitate to take a chance. Money will not take a chance in face of threats of more business regimentation by government, mounting government debt and higher taxes. To properly work, money must have confidence.

"Active business, prosperity and unemployment all await the restoration of confidence in the minds of the people. What is needed is not more experimentation, planned schemes from Professor Balderdash, but a return to American sanity and common sense."—The Industrial Press.

The manpower strength of Great Britain's navy was at its lowest point in 38 years in 1934.

WHAT EVERY MAN OWES TO HIMSELF

It isn't funny to be thrifty when you're young. It's more pleasant to spend ten dollars for amusements than to put it in a bank, or a life insurance policy. When you grow old it becomes a different story. Tens of thousands of men now in dire need once had good jobs, substantial incomes, and even fortunes. They had "fun" then. They're paying for it now. They can look forward to spending their declining years as wards of public or private charitable agencies, remembering with bitterness what might have been. Every man owes it to himself, to his decedents, and to society in which he lives to prepare for the exigencies of the future.—Big Spring News.

More than 90,000 persons from about 60 nations visited Sweden during the first eight months of 1938.

UNMASKING HIDDEN TAXES

Women in this state are banding together with others under the banner of the National Consumers Tax Commission to try to tear away the mask that hides hidden taxes from the people who pay them.

Hidden taxes are those levied during the production and distribution of an article and passed on unknown to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

Everything—whether necessary or luxury—has hidden taxes concealed in its price, the commission declares. They take 11 cents of the price of a 40-cent piece of meat, 13 percent of the price of sugar, $1.95 of the price of a $6.95 hat.

The consumer pays these taxes without knowing it and wonders why the weekly pay check does not stretch further.

The need for generally distributed information about our complicated, modern day tax system is an extremely vital one. That is why the women taking part in this consumer campaign are performing a valuable public service, a service deserving the support of everyone.

The mask hidden taxes from those who pay should come off.

Among single persons in the United States, only 1 out of 10 earns $2,000 a year and 6 out of 10 earn less than $1,000.

HAMILTON DELEGATION TO AUSTIN GIVEN ENCOURAGING RECOGNITION

At Austin on Wednesday, November 30, with several thousand projects offered to the Texas Highway Commission for consideration, Harry Hines, Wichita Falls, commission member, presided at the hearing, outlined policies to be observed in regard to all propositions in the future. He indicated funds are insufficient to take care of all the needs immediately and that patience would have to be exercised by all counties. However, no delegation at Wednesday's hearing was turned down and all road improvements received praise. The Highway Department now receives but one half of the four-cent gasoline tax.

Representing Hamilton county before the State Highway Commission hearing on Monday were County Judge-elect, J. B. Pool,

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Having run away from the life of pampered seclusion, in which she was held a virtual prisoner by her grandfather, Cyrus Butterfield, of the Butterfield Department Store millions, Joan Butterfield is helped by a chance acquaintance, Peggy O'Brien, to get a job in her grandfather's store. She works there incognito as Joan Baker, while old man Butterfield hunts her everywhere. Bill Spencer, ace reporter with a vast dislike for sensation-seeking heiresses, discovers Joan in the store and strikes up a friendship with her to get the full details for a scoop story. But in spite of his prejudice, he finds himself greatly drawn to her, and postpones printing the scathing story he has written about her escapade.

Chapter Five

A gala dinner was in preparation that evening in Peggy's one-room apartment, for Bill had been invited over. After their day at the store the girls struggled heroically to concoct a savory stew for dinner, but everything went wrong. Joan burned her fingers, the cat created a crisis by eating the goldfish, and finally the gas supply failed. Nobody had a quarter, so that was that!

With Bill helping, things went worse than ever.

But Peggy had an inspiration. A big electric sign hung outside their window, and Joan was elected to hang out on the window ledge, unscrew one of the bulbs, and plug in their electric cooker in its place.

It was in that slightly unconventional posture — hanging full-length out the window while Peggy held on to her ankles for dear life — that Bill found Joan when he passed under the window on his way in to the dinner party.

"Joan! What are you doing up there?" he cried amazedly.

"I'm just cooking dinner," she informed him as if it were the most natural thing in the world. Then, graciously, "Won't you join us?"

With Bill on hand to help them, things progressed even worse than before. But at last the dinner was ready, and the girls were about to serve it when Dorothy burst in, made a wild dash for the stove, grabbed the cooking utensils, and emptied their dinner in the sink.

"These utensils belong to me, and I'm the one that's gonna use them." And before Peggy could lay a murderous hand on her she was gone.

"And I worked so hard," murmured Joan, almost in tears.

"Never mind, kids," cried Bill gaily, feeling in his pocket to make sure that his last three dollars were still there. "I know a place where they have swell food and no gas meters. Come on!"

It was blonde and blatant Dorothy Moore, of all people, who picked up the gold ring from the enameled basin in the washroom at the store, where it had been carelessly left. She examined the ring to see if it was worth keeping, and the inscription she discovered sent her flying to her friend Mr. Dobbs.

Half an hour later Dobbs beckoned Peggy aside from her labors with the Vibrato machine.

"Why on earth didn't you tell me your friend Joan Baker was Joan Butterfield?"

Peggy was aghast. Why, that's impossible! It's—I don't believe it!

"Dorothy found her ring with her name engraved on it."

"Ye gods!" moaned Peggy. "And to think I made her sleep on the inside of the bed!"

For a girl of Dorothy's resoluteness it took no time at all to gain admission to Cyrus Butterfield's private office. She told him her story and showed him the ring, which he recognized as having given her.

Meanwhile, during the lunch hour, Peggy told Joan of the disclosure Dobbs had made to her. Joan decided that, come what might, she would not go back to her old life with "Gramps" on the yacht and in the insipid drawing rooms of world society. And Peggy, though she found it hard not to call her friend "Miss Butterfield," promised to help her.

Joan went to their room and locked herself in, while Peggy telephoned the news to Bill at his office.

"Holy smoke!" he gasped. "I'll come right over!"

He was none too early, for scarcely had Joan admitted him when the purposeful footsteps of Dorothy and Mr. Butterfield's private detective sounded on the stairs. Realizing that the house was going to be searched, they sneaked into Pennypacker's room and, for want of any other place to hide her, Bill stuffed Joan into Penny's trunk in which his chiropractic equipment had come. It was a tight fit, but she made it.

While Bill was vainly trying to convince the scolding Dorothy and the pugnacious gumshoe that he knew nothing of Joan's whereabouts, a squad of truckmen came clumping up the stairs. The future Dr. Pennypacker E. Pennypacker, it seemed, had defaulted badly on the payments for his chiropractic equipment, and the time had come to take his trunkful of stuff back where it had come from. And so, under the nose of the detective and the approving eye of Bill Spencer, the trunk was jounced and jolted downstairs to a waiting truck while Joan managed somehow to keep back her cries of agony.

While Dorothy and the detective went up on the roof to look around, Bill seized the chiropractic equipment which he had removed from Penny's trunk in order to make room for Joan. He rushed down to the sweet, where the movers had already loaded the trunk on to their wagon.

"Hey, wait a minute!" yelled Bill. "This stuff belongs in the trunk you took, and you've got something in the trunk that belongs to me!"

The men, expressing their disgust in picturesque terms, knocked the trunk off the wagon and the last bit of breath out of Joan's body. Bill yanked open the lid — and out popped Joan, not unlike the legendary dancer popping out of the legendary banquet cake.

"Come on, kid," said Bill, grabbing her hand. "I know a place where they'll never find you. It's kind of crude and dismal, but—"

"Take me there, Bill," she interrupted. "Please!"

Hamilton County asked the commission to improve the road from Hico to Hamilton, a distance of 22 miles, explaining the section is largely devoted to livestock raising and needs an improved highway in order to market stock in Fort Worth. At least 1,225,000 lbs. of livestock daily pass over the road to Fort Worth, the commission was informed, although "it is now full of chuck holes."

The county has an allotment of $187,000 from PWA for highway work south of Hamilton, and the State Commission suggested that the commissioners Court of Hamilton county go on record for diversion of his fund for improvement of the road leading north to Fort Worth. The total cost would exceed $300,000.

Commissioner Hines made the statement to the Hamilton delegation that over $1,000,000 will be spent in the coming year, beginning next July in improving Federal Highway 281, from Canada to the Mexican border.—Hamilton Herald-Record.

Humorous Story

SOMETIMES I think that police judges are the happiest guys in the world. All the time I am reading in the papers and hearing told here and there about the funny things that happen in police court. Half the jokes seem to come from there. I guess it must be the jolliest place in town, and everybody there must have just one long snicker, from the time they go to work till shutting-up time.

There was a guy brought in the other day, in a Detroit police court, for assault, and the judge stopped laughing at the last joke long enough to ask:

"Is it true that you broke a bottle of Canadian beer over this man's head?"

"Well, no, your honor," says the prisoner, "that ain't strictly true, because I ain't that extravagant. It was a Canadian beer bottle I broke on his noodle."

No one will say "What! Turkey again?" if you use a little imagination in planning its second—or maybe third—appearance. Here's how.

Escaloped Turkey

Cracker Crumbs
2½ cups diced turkey
½ cup finely chopped mushrooms (cooked)
1½ cups thin white sauce or turkey gravy
2 tbsp. butter
Salt and pepper.

Grease a casserole dish and cover the bottom with cracker crumbs or turkey dressing, if you have some left. Mix the diced turkey, mushrooms and white sauce together. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into the casserole. Toss the crumbs used for the top in butter over low heat until light brown. Cover the turkey with the crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Turkey Custard

2 bouillon cubes (chicken flavor)
2 cups scalded milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup chopped turkey.

Dissolve the bouillon cubes in hot milk. Pour this over the eggs, stirring well. Place the turkey in the bottom of greased custard cups and fill with custard. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven about 35 minutes or until a knife comes out clean. Turn out on pieces of buttered toast. Serve with broiled mushrooms, French fried sweet potatoes and a salad of mixed greens.

Turkey Shortcake

Shape rolled biscuit dough (½-inch thick) with round cutter. Bake, split while hot and spread with butter. Place creamed turkey between layers and cover with gravy.

Turkey With Barbecue Sauce

Reheat left-over turkey by steaming and serve with the following sauce:

2-3 cup butter
2-3 cup water
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1½ tsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. tabasco sauce
2 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
Few grains cayenne
2 tbsp. flour

Melt butter, add water, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice and tabasco. Blend dry ingredients. Add to butter to mixture and stir well, cooking 2 or 3 minutes or until mixture thickens slightly. Pour over the heated turkey.

Turkey Croquettes

6 tbsp. butter
8 tbsp. flour
2½ cups milk
2 eggs
2 cups diced cooked turkey
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 tbsp. chopped celery
1tbsp. chopped pimento
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. paprika
2 tbsp. water
2 cups rolled crumbs

Melt butter and add flour. Blend well, add milk, cook until a very thick sauce form. Stir constantly. Add turkey and seasonings. Cook. Take tablespoons of the mixture, dip in crumbs in the eggs which have been mixed with water and roll in crumbs. Shape as desired. When ready to serve fry in deep hot fat.

Pumpkin Pie

2 cups strained pumpkin stewed or canned
1 cup brown or granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. salt
¾ tsp. ground ginger
1½ tsp. cinnamon

½ tsp. allspice
2 cups rich milk
Bake 1 large or 2 small pastry shells in hot oven for about 8 minutes. Mix together pumpkin, sugar, eggs, salt and spices. Add milk gradually to keep mixture smooth

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

AN AMERICAN was arguing with a lot of guys from other countries about who had invented everything. Of course the American said that everything that is any good was first invented by an American, and I guess he was right about it.

But the German said, "Why, there was a lot of professors in my country, and they were digging around in an old castle on the Rhine, and they found some odd little do-jiggers, and when they put them together they found out they was the pieces of a perfect telephone. That there telephone was invented before America was discovered."

The American gave him a dirty look for going so far back, and then the Englishman says, "That's like the wise guys from Oxford that was poking around in the foundation of London Bridge the other day, and they found some little gimcracks, and when they matched 'em up, blessed if it wasn't a telegraph instrument that was sending messages before Caesar was born."

Well, the American was trying to think up something mean to get back at them foreigners with when the Irishman pipes up. "Why," he says, "that was good enough, but they was something more wonderful happened at Blarney Castle, when some fellows from Dublin University was out there. They climbed all over the castle and the Blarney Stone and everything, and they didn't find any wires. They looks up and down and under the castle, and they couldn't find any sending apparatus for a telephone or a telegraph, and so they discover that way that it was from Blarney that the first wireless went out, or, a long time before Noah had his flood."

Railways of Ireland have laid off many hands recently because of falling business, and the unemployment and railway problems of the country threaten to become serious.

A bridge foursome could play 24 hands every day for a period of 6,123,828,480,455,803,565,917 years and never have the same distribution of cards.
