This year, the committeemen will be required to have a thorough knowledge of the 1939 program and a sufficient number of meetings will be held in each district so that the cooperators of the county will understand the program from "scratch" and as new rules, come in, they will be explained at these meetings.

County Committeemen were unanimously elected by the seven delegates at their meeting on December 29.

THREE MORE "GRASSERS" ATTRACT FIRE WAGONS

Two runs were made by the "fire wagons" of the Gatesville Volunteer Fire Department Monday, the first being at the E. E. McCallister home on East Main street, at about 1:45 and the other about 3:45 at the home of Mrs. John Schley on the same street. A third call came from the R. D. Foster home, same reason.

No damage was done, and the grass just burned too fast for the "locals" to handle.

WE WANT NEW PHOTOS OF THE "DERBY BABIES"

The Coryell County News has made arrangements with Mayes Studio & Radio Shop to have pictures made of the 1937, 1938 and 1939 Stork Derby Winners, if their parents will come to the News office and let us give them a letter to this studio.

We already have a small picture of the '37 winner and one of the '38, and of course the '39 has not been decided. We want them all, and are willing to pay for the pictures.

Mama's and Papa's, come in and see us!

Here's the boys who will do the "billing" for the first battle of legal wits, the January Term of District Court, which opens the second week of this month. As we understand, the docket will be light, with very little action.

NO ENTRIES IN DERBY YET! CLOSES ON JANUARY 9: 'PINT PER LB.' THIS TIME

Here's another "weight offering" in the 1939 News-Merchant's Stork Derby, for the No. One 1939 Baby born in Coryell Co.

Gamblin's Dairy offers "a pint of milk for every pound the baby weighs," if born in the city limits. If out, Mr. Gamblin will give an equal amount in cash.

From the City Drug Store, J. O. Brown, manager, they're offering a half-dozen Heinz Baby Food for the 1939 Model, which will be due, shortly after midnight, December 31.

And, Murray Grocery & Market will have $1.00 worth of Groceries, (Mama and Papa's choice) at this enterprising store.

The other new addition to the derby is a "dilly",—Gatesville Laundry, owned and operated by Crawford Scott will wash free the first four dozen diapers.

Baby needs shoes, and there's where Leairds Department Store comes in. For the 1939 Stork Derby Winner, Leaird's Department which will cut down the expenditures that will be necessary for the Mama and Papa of the Win-

Mama's and Papa's who wish to enter their baby's in the 1939 Stork Derby Contest, should mail or bring to the Coryell County News before Noon January 9, the Baby's name, date hour of birth, that it was born in Coryell county, and the Doctor's signed report of birth. It's not the first baby entered, but the first baby born, that receives these prizes. So far, none have been reported, but the news will be out in the January 10th issue of the Coryell County News.

GOLDEN GLOVES BOXING TOURNAMENT CREATES INTEREST, NEIGHBOR TOWNS

It's not exactly a local proposition, this Golden-Gloves Boxing tournament which is to be staged in Gatesville, February 3-4, and perhaps, the 2nd, if there are enough entries for the tournament.

So far, there are no entries, but the boys, we are reliably informed, are slinging their mits, doing road work, and are getting ready to do the job right, when they square off for the first bout at the sound of the gong.

Application has already been made by the News Amateur Athletic Association for membership in the Amateur Athletic Association, whose rules govern the fighting in these tournaments.

Already, other district tournament announcements have been made for Big Springs, and a number of others are preparing their district tournaments, winners of which, like Gatesville, will send eight to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Finals in Fort Worth.

Applications for entrants in the tournament will be found in this issue of the News, and in a very few days, we'll have cards, "release cards" for the boys over sixteen and under 21 to get signed up so they can enter. This is an A. A. U. rule and must be prescribed to.

Inside, under sport scraps, is information for the entries as to what they are expected to furnish if and when they get to go to the Finals in Fort Worth.

THIRD AUCTION DAY IS DUE TODAY: GOIN' GOOD SO FAR

Today is the third auction put on by the Gatesville Commission Co., which is held at the old Ira Glass Mule Barn.

Approximately $1,000.00 worth of livestock has been moved at the last two auctions, and, despite the fact that yesterday was First Monday, it is expected this Auction Day will be bigger and better than the ones before.

Messrs. Inches and Houston are continually improving their stand, and have things in pretty good shape for the auction today.

GOVERNOR HAS BOTTLE OF CHAMPAGNE HE'D LIKE TO DISPOSE OF

Austin, Tex., Dec. 30—Governor James V. Allred has a bottle of champagne he doesn't know what to do with.

Some time ago, when Attorney General William McCraw and Carl Estes of Longview were in New York together, they bought this wine, deciding they would crack it "when McCraw was inaugurated as Governor."

But when the voters decided McCraw wasn't going to be inaugurated, Estes sent the wine to Allred, saying: "Since Bill failed to make the grade, you can leave it at the Mansion for W. Lee O'Daniel," for use at the dinner always prepared by the outgoing Governor's family for that of the incoming executive.

"But that hardly would be appropriate as from one dry to another," said Allred, and he still has the bottle.

SPAIN: EBRO TOLL

Only a few hundred feet wide, the Ebro River marks a lane thru rocky gorges and high dry plateaus in northeastern Spain. Rising just west of the Pyrenees Mountains and flowing nearly 500 miles southeast to its Mediterranean outlet, it waters parts of seven Spanish provinces. From very early days Ebro Valley towns have seen many decisive battles, including those that ended Moorish rule over Aragon and Catalonia.

Since last summer, the Ebro Valley has been the scene of major fighting in the Spanish civil war, but last week there was nothing decisive in the fact that the Rebels had finally recaptured the salient by drivng the Loyalists back across the river. Once again the narrow Ebro separated opposing lines and the military situation was in virtually the same deadlock it reached last spring after the Rebel drive to the sea.

Net result of the four-month Ebro struggle was nearly 100,000 dead and wounded. The Rebels claimed the Loyalists had lost 75,000 men, 240 planes and much war material. Barcelona claimed the Rebels had lost 80,000 men and 214 planes. Neutral observers, however, estimated each side had lost in excess of 40,000 men from all causes.

Mother Nature's water bottles are formed when silica-impregnated water filters thru rocks and fills cavities. Quartz crystals gradually line the walls of the cavity, and a miniature grotto is formed. So far, not one of the museum specimens has sprung a leak.

GARNER TAKES FIRST PLACE CAPITOL TALK

Washington, Dec., 30—Vice-President John Nance Garner, stepping oue Friday as a leading if not downright figure of the coming Congress, started what looked like a high-powered drive to swing the new deal to the right.

Four days before the opening of the session, his spacious suite in the Senate Office Building was the center of all congressional activity, the scene of continuing conferences dealing with the moment's lively subjects of legislation.

And the word went around that Cactus Jack was urging, among other things, that the brakes be applied to government expenditures and that local communities be given more control over spending relief funds.

Just around the corner from the Garner suite, the office of Senator Allen Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, was barren of callers. Barkley wearily worked away at a revision of Senate's Democratic committee assignment, trying to evolve a list that would suit the conflicting ambitions of all the Senators of his party.

SINO LEADER ASKS CHIANG TO SUE FOR PEACE

Hong Kong, Dec. 30—Wang Ching-Wei, former Premier of China, came forward Friday in favor of peace negotiations with Japan on the basis of terms set forth Dec. 22 by Japanese Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye in a declaration of policy concerning China.

Wang, now a member of the Central Political Council of the Kuomintang, Chinese Governmental party, and a leader of the party's peace faction, sent a telegram to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declaring Konoye's terms offered a fair basis for peace discussions.

Informed Hong Kong circles looked on Wang's action as a bold gesure on his own initiative. He was said recently to have split with Chiang because of the Generalissimo's admission of Communist influence in the Chinese Central Government.

Unanswered was the question of just how far Wang represented any element of the Chinese Government.

ACTOR'S PALS THRASH HITLER'S PRESS CHIEFTAIN

New York, Dec. 30—The New York Daily News, in a copyrighted dispatch from Basel, Switzerland, said Friday the wife of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi Minister of Propaganda and Public Enlightenment, is preparing to go to Denmark, reportedly for a divorce, because of a scandal involving her husband.

The dispatch said Fuerher Adolf Hitler was greatly displeased at reports Goebbels had been beaten severely on Dec. 21 by friends of Gustav Froelich, German actor, whose wife, Lida Baarova, Czecho Slovakian film star, was the object of the Minister's attentions.

"Since Dec. 22" the news dispatch said, "Nazi's second most powerful Minister has lain in a closely guarded Berlin clinic, swathed in bandages, his head cut and bruised, both eyes blackened and with at least one of his prominent teeth missing."

Reports from Berlin have been that Goebbels was suffering from intestinal grippe.

FORMER PIONEER CORYELL COUNTY CITIZEN PASSES AWAY IN OKLAHOMA

(From Marlow (Okla.) Paper)
Mrs. Lourenia Woodley Morgan, a resident of Marlow for many years, died last Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Irby, southeast of Marlow. She was born September 6, 1846 in Pike County, Georgia, and was 92 years, two months and 26 days of age at the time of her death.

She was married to W. H. Morgan, January 28, 1864 at Palmetto, Georgia. They were the parents of ten children, six of whom had preceded their mother in death. The surviving children are Mrs. Ada Bond and Mrs. Mettie Murphy, both of Gatesville, Texas; W. P. Morgan of Russellville, Arkansas, and Mrs. W. P. Irby who lives southeast of Marlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan moved from Georgia to Gatesville, Texas in 1880 where they lived until 1915 when they moved to Marlow. Mr. Morgan died at Marlow in 1927.

Mrs. Morgan united with the Methodist Church at the age of 21 years, and as long as her health permitted she was actively engaged in church work and was always ready to help friends in need.

Few people can remember the Civil War and describe it with the vividness that she could. Even in late clearly many interesting experiences as a civil war bride.

Mrs. Morgan had made her home for the past several years with her son, W. P. Morgan and family at Russellville, Arkansas and during the summer months at Irby. She was at Mrs. Irby's home when she died after an illness of several weeks.

In addition to her four children, Mrs. Morgan is survived by 45 grandchildren, 38 great-grandchildren, and 8 great-great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held from the tabernacle of the First Baptist Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. A. L. Gregg, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. C. W. Lester, pastor of the Methodist Church, conducted the services.

Pall bearers were grandsons and grandsons-in-law of Mrs. Morgan. They included Clyde Morgan, Johnnie Morgan, Grover Morgan, Delmer Railmourn, Jesse Thompson, and Buddy Spurgeon.

Interment was in the Marlow cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of the Marlow Funeral Home.

Relatives of the family here for the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Morgan of Russellville, Ark. who were here a week prior to Mrs. Morgan's death, Mrs. Mettie Murphy, John Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Graves Morgan, and Mrs. Clemmie Henson, all of Gatesville, Texas.

Handkerchiefs, as we know them today, are a comparatively recent addition to man's wardrobe. At one time, before the days of dentistry, ladies carried dainty lace handkerchiefs to hide their decayed teeth when they smiled. Long before that, however, fox tails were carried, as combination handkerchiefs and fans.

COTTON BEST FOR AUTO TIRES

Taking issue with an article appearing in a recent issue of Time Magazine to the effect that synthetic rayon cord for automobile tire fabric might displace cotton and therefore lose for cotton farmers one of their largest markets Wm. D. Anderson, President of Bibb Manufacturing Company, one of the largest producers of cord fabric in the world, pointed to recent developments in the processing of cotton, which, he stated, produced a Heat Resistant Cord far superior to any synthetic type. "Therefore," he added, "there is little likelihood that the consumption of cotton in the manufacture of automobile tires will ever be displaced by any other material."

"The new Heat Resistant Cord we are now producing," said Mr. Anderson, "outlives and outlasts any rubber yet compounded for automobile tires. Cotton fiber is as strong as steel. The tensile strength of cotton cord depends upon the resistance to slippage of the individual fibers. Through a revolutionary new principle in processing cotton, a way has been discovered to soften the natural gums and waxes inherent in every cotton fiber and to fuse the cotton fibers with these gums and waxes as they are rehardened so that they become set and bonded to a degree never before attained. The new process provides a cord which retards to a remarkable degree the generation of heat in an automobile tire, but even more important, this new process produces a cord which maintains uniform tensile strength under the high temperatures necessarily generated in any tire when subjected to hard use and heavy loads at sustained high speeds. Under operating conditions this new type Heat Resistant Cord is 25 per cent stronger than ordinary cord and flex breaks have been eliminated.

"With this increased strength comes a more compact, lighter cord, which enables the tire manufacturer to secure the strength and safety of a 6-ply tire with a 4-ply construction. Synthetic cord (rayon) loses a great part of its tensile strength upon contact with moisture. The Heat Resistant Cord prevents 'tire growth' and tread cracks, which cause premature tire failure," Mr. Anderson explained. Leading manufacturers are now using the new Heat Resistant Cord, especially in the manufacture of heavy duty truck tires.

"The future problem of the tire industry is not to find a substitute for cotton," Mr. Anderson concluded, "but to develop new rubber compounds, which will last as long as the Heat Resistant Cord fabric now at the command of the industry."

out the dread disease and to bring happiness and health to thousands of afflicted children, stricken by the scourge of infantile paralysis."

Enjoying the affair were Misses Julia Ann Melburn, Adeline Powell, Jennie Kathryn Spalding, Frances Reesing, Ernestine Shelton, Mabel Marion Brown, Betty Jo Stewart, Betty Anne Sadler of Waco and Margaret Edwards of Waco.

After the supper the group found further entertainment in a New Year's theatre party.

Miss Gene Stinnett was hostess to the sub-deb set when she entertained with a hayride Thursday night! The guests met at the Stinnett home on east Leon street, from where they went on a wagon, which was loaded with hay, to Four Mile Branch, and enjoyed a picnic supper.

Members of the set who delighted in the courtesy of the young hostess were Misses Mary Margaret Holmes, Dorothy Chamlee, Josephine McClellan, Harriet Robinson, Sara Frances Graham, Mary Jane Stone, June Marie Chamlee, Vivian Buttery of Llano, and Messrs. Jolly Forty-Two Club Resumes Meetings

Members of the Jolly '42 Club resumed their meetings Thursday afternoon when they met at the home of Mrs. J. J. Wallace, who was club hostess for the first meeting after the Christmas holidays. Autumn leaves and holly adorned the home.

After Mrs. George Strickland was awarded high score prize in games of 42, the hostess passed a delicious plate, consisting of sandwiches, potato chips, olives, fruit cake, and hot chocolate, to the following members: Mesdames Roy Chamlee, George Strickland, Sarah Johnson, Bob Flentge, Jess Hill, Robert Oldham, and Sam McCreary.

Doris Jones Guest Artist At Open House

Members of the Morris Federation were hostesses to their friends when they held open house at the Mayo Studio Friday evening at 2:30. Miss Doris Goodrich Jones of Waco was guest artist. Miss Jones, having been a member of the faculty in the schools here a few years ago, is well known and admired by many people in this city. Since the time of her teaching here, she has studied in New York and other places during which time she has received many nice and complimentary remarks from the newspapers.

The open house was of special interest as the club was celebrating its 25th anniversary during the year 1938. Also it was the custom at Christmas to have a guest artist in music, literature, or art.

Yuletide decorations lent a note of gaiety to the lovely reception rooms.

Guests were greeted at the door by Miss Orpa Mayo, assisted by Mrs. J. O. Brown and Mrs. C. L. Bellamy. Mrs. Will Powell presided at the guests book. In the upstairs reception suite the guests were greeted by Mrs. C. R. Byrom and Mrs. Ed Schloeman.

Receiving were Mrs. W. C. Guggolz, Mrs. E. W. Brooks, Mrs. H. T. Chapman, Mrs. John Milner, Mrs. C. E. Alvis Sr and Misses Miriam Raby and Maude Alyce Painter.

Mrs. H. S. Compton distributed the programs, which were attractively made on white paper with green printing, and small silver bows were tied near the top, above which were the letters 1913-1938.

The president, Mrs. W. C. Guggolz, presented the guest artist, Miss Jones, who rendered the excellent program, which consisted of three parts. The first part was entitled the Millionaire-H. E. Warner, and the second part consisted of original monologues, Sisters Under the Skin, On Relief, Seven Ages of the Violin, and Teeth. In the third part Miss Jones gave a puppet show, the titles being Superstitutions and As-thma Has a Real Adventure. Each of these performances was given by Miss Jones alone, and the entire program was her original sketches and works.

The table was laid with a white maderia cloth centered with white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers. Bordering the table were ferns and silver and white bells. Mrs. E. D. Shelton presided at the punch bowl with Mrs. Elworth Lowrey, Mrs. Eugene Alvis and Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook serving the refreshments, which consisted of punch, petit feurs, olives and silver bells filled with cashew nuts.

Millard-Calhoun Nuptials Performed Sunday

A marriage of great interest to many was performed Sunday afternoon at 3:30 when Mrs. Kate Millard, a resident of Gatesville for the past 19 years, became the bride of A. H. Calhoun, who has lived in the Liberty community for the past 24 years. The ceremony was performed in the presence of many friends and loved ones at the bride's home on Pleasant street with the Rev. S. L. Culwell, pastor of the First Methodist Church officiating. The room was beautifully decorated with pink gladioli and ferns. During the ceremony could be heard the soft strains of "Dedication" by Schumann-Liszt played by Miss Orpa Mayo.

The bride wore a simple creation of blue crepe with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink sweetheart roses. She carried out the old adage of "something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue."

After an extensive trip to Dallas, Fort Worth, and Galveston Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun will make their home in the Liberty community.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Quince Davidson Jr., Mound; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Millard, Waco; Mrs. J. W. Hill, Dallas; Mrs. Hardy Poston, McGregor; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Quick-Witted Jeff Davis Proves Right to "King of Hoboes" Title

JEFF DAVIS is the proud owner of a unique title. Everywhere among the wandering fraternity he is hailed as King of Hoboes.

King Jeff, duly elected King for life, won his title by demonstrated powers of leadership, and by enterprise and resourcefulness that would do credit to any recognized American captain of industry.

But let King Jeff give one good example of how by keeping his eyes and ears open he makes profit for himself.

"When I hear a woman say she is 'worn out' because she has just finished her washing, I follow her, see where she lives, and sell the address to a household washer dealer," he says. "I do the woman a big favor, and I make money for myself and the dealer. What could be fairer?"

Forty-five years on the road, six trips around the world and 101 coast-to-coast journeys convince King Jeff that he knows the itinerant clan like a book. "A hobo will work—a tramp won't—and a bum couldn't," he says. "Under no circumstances can a tramp or bum become a member, hence their hostility and abuse. But the time will come when we have the biggest washday ever! When that clean-up takes place the last of our tramp and bum critics will be washed into silence."

Mr. and Mrs. J. Robertson have moved to Brady, where Mr. Robertson will open a feed store.

GIANT OLD GLORY AT NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK—This mammoth flag, the largest in the world, (90x230 feet) was saluted by 1,000 children when the Court of Peace was recently dedicated at the New York World's Fair 1939. The photograph, taken from an airplane, also shows an edge of the oval Lagoon of Nations in the foreground. Sixty-two nations are participating in the fair and are harmonizing their exhibits with the theme "Building the World of Tomorrow."

U-BOAT PARITY WITH BRITAIN NAZIS' PLAN

London, Dec. 30—Germany has served notice that it intends to obtain parity with Great Britain in submarine strength and will build two new 10,000-ton cruisers as its reply to the naval building pace set by Soviet Russia, it was announced Friday night.

German's notification was in accordance with the 1935 Anglo-German naval agreement which permitted Germany's reborn navy a ratio of 35 per cent compared with the British fleet and allowed Chancellor Adolf Hitler to build up to 45 per cent of Britain's submarine strength.

The treaty provided, however, that under certain circumstances Germany might have might have equality in submarines.

Hitler was understood to have recent disclosures that Soviet Russia has the world's greatest submarine fleet.

Simultaneous announcements of Germany's notification were made in London and Berlin, following the arrival in the German capital Thursday of a British naval mission to discuss the German building plans.

"The German Government recently informed Great Britain of its intentions in accordance with the Anglo-German naval agreement to emphasize her rights upon this agreement," it was announced. "Representatives of the British Admiralty arrived in Berlin on Dec. 29 and will discuss in the proper quarters the questions connected with the above declaration."

To many British quarters Germany's announcement was a shock because of memories of how German U-boats attempted to starve out the British Isles during the World War.

NEAR EAST: MOSLEM UNITY

Though Egyptians are not closely related to Arabians physically, they speak Arabic and are largely Near East's Pan-Arab movement has Egypt's blessing and Egyptian sympathies lean toward the Arab cause in Palestine. While Egypt's interest in the Holy Land problem is not so intense as that of other neighboring states, it has increased during the past two years.

Last week, as Great Britain strove to find a place other than Palestine for Jewish refugees from Nazi Germany, Egypt gave new impetus to the Arab cause in Palestine. For the first time in Egypt's parliamentary history, the Palestine question was raised in a speech from the throne. Opening the new session of Parliament at Cairo, Young King Farouk, whose 17-year-old Queen Farida had just presented him with their first daughter, assured the nation that his government was doing all in its power to bring about "a just and equitable solution of the Palestine problem that would safeguard the rights of Arabs and restore peace to that country."

Farouk's assurances came while British Tommies in Palestine pushed their campaign to end Arab rebel activities. During the week they completed military occupation of all the Holy Land's larger cities, including Jericho and Beersheba. Farouk's utterances also coincided with two other significant and important developments in the Palestine situation:

1) A bold Palestine Defense Party memorandum against the former Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini, brought quick Arab reprisal—assassination of Sheik Abdul Rahman el Khatib, leader of pro-British Arabs in Jerusalem and the 133rd pro-British Arab to be assassinated during the past two and a half years.

2) Britain's Nov. 9 invitation to Arabs and Jews to a round-table conference in London to negotiate a new solution to the Palestine problem brought two reactions. Although welcoming the conference proposal, the Moslem Supreme Council for Palestine not only denied the right of any Jews in Palestine, but rejected the Jewish right to negotiate with the British government. Moreover, the council protested against Londans refusal to recognize the former Grand Mufti as the principal Arab negotiator. Almost simultaneously the former Arab High Committee of Palestine, from its exile in Syria, published a statement refusing to accept Jews as parties to the London talks and rejecting London's right to pass on the choice of Arab delegates.

HAMLET OF 800 CLAIMS
MONOPOLY ON TEXAS
U. PREXIES

Brechenridge, Tex., Dec. 30—The little town of Eliasville in Young County, probably hard to find on the ordinary map, was swelled with pride Friday. It has furnished two presidents in succession to the University of Texas.

Dr. Homer Price Rainey, named president Thursday is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Rainey of Eliasville, who moved there in 1900. The late Dr. H. Y. Benedict was born six miles east of Eliasville, his father then being in the cattle raising business. Mr. and Mrs. Rainey lived on the edge of the village. Rainey is a carpenter.

When called Friday Mrs. Rainey was too ill to come to the telephone of a neighbor and Rainey was in Mineral Wells where he had gone to undergo an operation.

Otis Cunningham, Eliasville banker, said Mr. and Mrs. Rainey were aware of Dr. Rainey's name being considered for the university post and the entire town—population 800—was proud of the accomplishments of the young educator. He added that as president of Franklin in Indiana, Dr. Rainey was then the youngest college president in the U. S.

Dr. Rainey often returns to Eliasville to visit his parents, and in the summer time he and Cunningham make it a point to go to the ole swimming hole on the Clear Creek of the Brazos and take another plunge, a la nature. The last visit of Dr. Rainey to Eliasville was early last summer.

Also Eagle Springs, a town in Coryell County, consisting of a windmill and a vacant store building contributed a governor for the State of Texas and a president for Baylor University, Waco— Pat M Neff.

A hybrid tomato weighs approximately the amount obtained by taking the square root of the figure resulting when the weights of the two parents are multiplied together.

The sun makes its annual apparent north and south journey between the tropic of Cancer and the tropic of Capricorn. The word "tropic" is derived from the Greek word meaning "to turn," and at each of these imaginary points, the sun appears to turn and start back toward the equator.

ASIA: NEW ORDER

Twice within the last 2 months the United States has protested to Japan against disregard of third power rights in China, and twice within the last three weeks the United States has been rebuffed by Japan. Two weeks ago Japan rejected the U. S. representations against closing the Yangtze River, and last week finally turned down Washington's "open door" note.

Rejecting all major American contentions that commercial rites of United States citizens in China were being subjected to "unwarranted interference," Tokyo all but slammed shut the "open door" in China. Declaring flatly that the "ideas and principles of the past" no longer applied to the Chinese situation, the long-delayed reply expressed Japan's determination to bring about a "new order" in East Asia "which is an indispensable condition to Japan's very existence." Later, Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita explained to U. S. Ambassador Grew that Japan considers the "open door" outmoded: that Japan sees no reason why the open door principle should apply only to the Far East.

Unanimously supported in this move by the entire Japanese press Japan broadened her forcibly established monopoly in China's interior waterways. United States and other foreign consular officials at Hankow were notified that the Han River, great tributary of the Yangtze, was closed to navigation except upon "special permission" from the Japanese army.

Meanwhile, Chinese and Japanese gave conflicting reports of the military situation in Central and South China. Both sides, however, poured heavy reinforcements into the Canton area where counter-attacking Chinese had fought to within three miles of that southern metropolis. On the Central front the Chinese were trying to remedy a grave mistake. While General-issimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces were halting the invaders at Chiuling, more than 40 miles away, over-hasty Chinese officials prematurely applied the "scorched earth" policy to Changsha, capital of Hunan province. As a result, 2,000 persons perished in a five-day fire which razed most of the city. Three officials responsible for the burning were executed at Chiang's orders.

C.C.N. ——— COLDS: USEFUL?

Of the more than 1,600 diseases and ailments which may attack the human body, none is commoner than the common cold. Doctors know that it keeps more persons inactive than any other disease. Medical economists estimate that its cost in lost work, druggists' bills and doctor's fees is at least two billion dollars a year. Nevertheless, last week, a scientist reported that the common cold might be useful, after all.

What causes colds is unknown, but it is suspected to be a virus so small that it passes thru the finest filters. It enters the body thru the nose and mouth, and thereby passes right down the alley of Dr. Charles Armstrong of the United States Public Health Service.

Best known for his part in the development of a spray which tends to prevent infantile paralysis, another nose-contracted disease, Dr. Armstrong became interested in colds several months ago. In laboratories of the Service's National Institute of Health in Washington, D. C., Dr. Armstrong conducted one experiment on three groups of mice. The noses of the first group were sprayed with millions of harmless bacteria. The second group had the bacteria injected into their brains. The third group got no early treatment at all.

The noses of all three groups were finally inoculated with the virus of sleeping sickness. The sprayed group had a mortality rate of only one out of three.

Three out of every four members of the other groups died. In the noses of the first group, called up to battle the early, harmless bacteria, Dr. Armstrong found 40 times the normal concentration of disease-fighting white blood cells.

From these facts, Dr. Armstrong drew his conclusion: common colds, which attract white blood cells into the region of the nose and mouth, may be an effective safeguard against more serious diseases which enter the body with the breath.

Public health men were apt to think the case of sleeping sickness somewhat weak, since there is growing evidence that it is carried by a mosquito and may not enter the body thru the nose and mouth at all. Dr. Armstrong himself warned against reasoning mice to men. His own reasoning, however, offered a singularly convincing explanation of why infantile paralysis and measles, in particular, are common in the summer, when there are few colds and why in the winter while millions sniffle, they are almost unknown.

Keeping Cured Meat at Its Best

By T. C. RICARDSON, Secretary Breeder Feeder Association

It is not necessary to have cured hams and bacon dry or rancid in summer, as they do when left hanging in the smokehouse until used up. Our old friend cotton plays a new role in good eating, and certainly cotton growers should be interested in a method that enables them to use more of their own product to advantage, as long as they have long done in cooking oils and compounds, and more lately in margarine. It has been found that refined cottonseed oil is a superior meat preservative. Ask for refined cottonseed or cooking oil in bulk, or five gallon cans, at your grocer's. Since it can be used over, the cost of preserving meat in this manner is not excessive.

The Lubbock (Texas) Experiment Station gives the following suggestions for West Texas conditions and they will doubtless apply to most of the Southwest. "Hams can be properly cured by leaving them in the cure two days for each pound the ham weighs; for example, a fifteen pound ham will cure in thirty days. Bacons will cure in one day for each pound—eight pounds, eight days, etc. When the meat is removed from the cure the excess salt is washed off with clean, cool water, the meat is then soaked in fresh well water for a period of two hours for hams and one hour for bacons. Use fresh water for each batch of meat, as the water becomes salty with use."

"The meat is then hung up to drip and dry over night before smoking. Smoking is not absolutely necessary before placing the meat in storage, but is desirable. After smoking is completed the meat should be allowed to cool. Then pack it in any suitable container—the crock jar, the lard can, or the oak barrel; the crock is preferable."

"After the meat is well packed in the container the refined cottonseed oil is poured in until the meat is completely covered. Where a hundred pounds of meat is packed in one container it will require about four gallons of oil. A cover of some kind should be placed on the container to keep out dirt or other foreign material. Store in a cool dry, well ventilated place, such as a cellar or dug-out."

Meat stored in this manner will not dry out, mould, or shrink. It will not become rancid or excessively salty, and insect damage is eliminated. Bacons will absorb some of the cottonseed oil if kept in it too long, but hams will keep three years if necessary. It is recommended that bacon be used or removed from the oil after about six months.

The Lubbock station has used the same oil for two years without its becoming rancid. It is not yet known how often it can be used, but a method of restoring the oil to its neutral or non-acid condition is being worked out.

The cottonseed oil method of storing cured meat has been successfully used as far south as the Gulf Coast, and for long enough time to demonstrate its efficacy. It makes no difference what method of curing is used—dry salt, sugar cure, smoked or un-smoked, the oil keeps the meat in the condition in which it comes from the cure. The better the cure the better the meat, of course, but after all, that juicy fresh-cured taste will not be retained unless some method of preserving it is employed. The cottonseed oil bath excludes fungous molds, insects, and the drying out effects of the air.

Home-cured hams and bacon may be the best in the world, or the most unpalatable. Certainly nobody enjoys rancid bacon, or dry salty ham, such as the best "home-cured" becomes in time if left as it comes from the cure or the smoke-house.

"THIRD EUROPE"

In the Polish Foreign office at Warsaw, diplomats speak frequently of a "third Europe". To them, the first Europe is Britain and France; the second Europe is Germany and Italy.

Poland's third Europe extends from Poland itself down thru the Balkans to the Mediterranean and Black seas. Poland wants to weld countries in this area together into a solid bar against German economic domination and against German expansion to the east. Even without Polish urging this sentiment is heartily shared by Balkan and southeastern European nations and last week, most of them were significantly active on one of the two fronts.

The first front was economic.

Poland's southern neighbors will take financial help from anyone, including Germany, but they are most anxious to get it from the democratic, non-aggressive nations of the first Europe.

Two weeks ago, King Carol of Rumania visited London to seek British loans and expansion of Anglo-Rumanian trade.

Last week, Prince Paul, regent-ruler of Yugoslavia, arrived in London on a similar mission. Simultaneously, King Carol, on his way home, was being wined and diend by French President Lebrun in Paris, seeking objectives like those which concerned him in London. In London, he let it be known, he had achieved some success.

The second front was strategic, and here Poland, together with Hungary, played the master hand. Weakest point in Poland's bar to Nazi expansion occurs in Czechoslovakia. Now forced to be pro-German, Czechoslovakia is a slim wedge which nearly cuts the third Europe in two; moreover, it is a possible German highway to the rich Russian Ukraine.

Early this month, a German-Italian commission fixed the final boundaries of Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Hungary received a slice of eastern Czechoslovakia, but some of the eastern wedge remained; both Poland and Hungary had hoped that Hungary would get it all.

Last week, neither Poland nor Hungary was abiding by the German-Italian decision. In Budapest, Premier Bela Imredy reorganized the Hungarian Cabinet, dismissing four vaguely pro-Nazi ministers. In Carpatho-Ukraine—the newly adopted name of the eastern Czechoslovakia province of Ruthenia—all communication lines were down. Dressed like farmers, small band of Polish troops were busy blowing up bridges and sniping at soldiers.

Polish troops to the north and Hungarian troops to the south of Carpatho-Ukraine were held in readiness for "police action" to put down what Hungarian newspapers called a "wide-spread uprising". German's "police action" in Austria resulted in annexation of that country and last week, it was Germany who most feared action in Carpatho-Ukraine. Rumbling ominously from Germany, the Voelkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's newspaper warned: "Military movements can become an attack on peace."

LYNCHINGS IN STATES IS REPORTED LESS BY INSTITUTE

Lynchings in the United States, according to F. A. Patterson, President of Tuskegee Institute, are less that at any time before.

"There were 42 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Three of the instances, the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the other instance, armed force was used to repel the would-be lynchers. A total of 53 persons, 3 white men, 49 negro men, and 1 negro woman were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 6 persons lynched, all were negroes. Offenses charged, were: rape, 1; murder 3; failure to complete payment on funeral bill, 1; insulting remarks to woman, 1.

States having lynchings were Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, each 1, and Mississippi, 3.

During 1935 there were 20 lynched, 8 both in 1936 and '37, and 6 in 1938.

Turkey raising conditions were so favorable in 1938 that a further expansion of production is predicted for 1939.

Approximately 7,000 4-H club boys had small tracts of tobacco in cultivation in Kentucky this year, 1938.

Ottawa, Kansas, city of 10,000 people, has had no fatal traffic accidents since July 26, 1936.

"THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER"
By GEORGE CROSSITT
Novelized From the Paramount Picture Starring BOB BURNS
FAY Bainter JOHN BEAL IRVIN S. COBB JEAN PARKER

SYNOPSIS
The Arkansas Traveler, a hobo printer, takes a job on the Record, an almost bankrupt newspaper owned by the Widow Allen. Judy and Benny, the Allen children, love the Traveler especially after he convinces John Daniels, Judy's lover, to stay in town and work on the Record. John had fought with his father, the Mayor, because of the latter's association with Matt Collins, the local political boss. When all the ads for the Record's anniversary issue are cancelled, the Traveler suspects the hand of Collins. His suspicions are verified when Collins attempts to purchase the paper. But the Widow decides to come out with the anniversary issue anyway. On the Traveler's suggestion the paper attacks Collins mercilessly.

CHAPTER VII
WHEN Martha Allen came down into the composing room the following morning she found Johnnie, Benny and the Traveler grouped about a model of a complete radio station which Johnnie had secretly erected, using Benny's Constructo set for parts. On the wall above the model was pinned a huge blue print of a radio station.

Johnnie and worryin' about us at night."
"I'm not worried about you, Traveler—it's Mrs. Allen." The constable turned to Martha and Judy, who had just come downstairs. "You know, Martha, I'd rather slide down a razor blade than have to tell you this—but tomorrow I gotta take out your presses."
"What?"
"Seems like you owe the bank for some print paper and a lot of other things," the constable continued, "and—well, I just thought you oughta know they've clamped down on you."
"They've clamped down!" Johnnie cut in angrily. "You mean Matt Collins."
Judy whirled on Johnnie. "Every time anything goes wrong you blame Matt Collins! It isn't Matt—it's the bank."
"And Matt Collins is the bank—and the City Hall—and the whole darned town!"
"But what would Matt do with a to start," Martha answered.

"You mean equipment and all?"
"No—he didn't get that far. He was trying to get Matt Collins to lend him the money when—"
The Traveler interrupted her. "And Matt Collins has never mentioned the radio station since then, has he?"
"No—and so many things have happened I forgot all about it."
"Which was just what Mr. Collins wanted you to do. If he didn't he'd have reminded you about it long ago," the Traveler pointed out. "Why did Matt Collins try to buy the Record from you? He could have started another newspaper if he wanted to. But the Record has a franchise for a radio station—a Government license."
"That franchise hasn't expired yet. The Record could have helped a heap in this coming election," the Traveler went on, "but the Record with a radio station—My! That's the eyes and ears Mister Allen always talked about."
"But the election is only a week from Friday—"
"An' if you suspend publication, the radio franchise goes back to the Government. That's when Mister Collins puts in his little application. When you wouldn't sell him the Record, he started pushing it into its grave inch by inch—and the last shove he gave it was when he got the merchants to take their ads out of the Anniversary Number."
"It all makes sense but it's hard to believe," Martha admitted. "Matt always seemed so friendly. He couldn't be planning a thing like this."
"Well, I'd hate to be the one to spoil your faith in human nature but I think I can prove it all right."
"How?"
"Matt Collins knows your radio license expires next Thursday. If he still wants to buy the Record—feelin' you can't put up a radio station between now and Thursday—well, then he still loves the Record for its own sake and really wants to help you out."
"And if he doesn't want to buy the paper now then—"
The Traveler picked up the phone. "Get me Mr. Collins, sister. Hello, Mr. Collins. Say, I've been thinking that I might be able to do you a little favor. You see I've got a lot of influence with Mrs. Allen—and knowin' how much you'd like to have the Record, I thought I might be able to swing it for you."
Matt's voice was plainly audible to both of them. "I'm sorry, Traveler, but I'm no longer interested in buying the Record," he said.
"But I'm sure I could get it for you at an awful low price," the Traveler insisted.
"I wouldn't consider it at any price," Matt answered. "I'm going to start a paper of my own."
"Well, that's that, I guess, Mr. Collins. Could I come up to see you about something personal and confidential?"
"Sure, Traveler. About ten o'clock. Goodbye."

"Seems like you owe the bank for some print paper and a lot of other things," the Constable continued, "and well I just thought you ought to know that they've clamped down on you."

Martha's breath caught in her throat. "Where did you find that blue print?" she asked quietly.

"In Mr. Allen's old desk. I—I hope you don't mind," the Traveler explained.

"No. But it certainly brings back memories. That radio station was one of Ben's fondest dreams. He always said that a newspaper is the eyes of the world—and the radio its voice. He believed that sooner or later every newspaper would have to have its own radio station."

"He was sure ahead of his time."

"He wanted the Record to be the first small town newspaper to have a radio station," Martha went on. "He was trying to have it financed when—"

She was interrupted by a knock on the door. It was the constable, tapping on the glass.

"You're sure improving your service," the Traveler greeted his old friend jovially, "wakin' us up in the couple of old presses?" Judy demanded.

"They can still print the very words Matt Collins doesn't want this town to read," Johnnie pointed out. "With the paper out of the running, he can put through the election—and swing the bond issue to build his dam."

"You've got more imagination than good sense," Judy snapped.

"Wait a minute!" the Traveler interrupted. "Arguin' ain't goin' to do you any good. Maybe a lot of this is my fault. Maybe I shouldn't have stuck that editorial in the paper—and run those ads—and a lot of other things. I want to have a talk with you, Mrs. Allen, and then I think I oughta get up and see Matt Collins."

After the others had gone, the Traveler said:

"How far did Mr. Allen get with his radio scheme?"

"He had everything about ready
