CELEBRATION OF SIXTH ANNIVERSARY BEING HELD AT PAINTER'S

Friday, January 6th, marks the Sixth Anniversary of Painter's, one of Gatesville's leading stores in business here, and in acknowledgement of this event, thousands of circulars bearing a message of thrift, economy and value have been mailed out.

Yesterday, Painter's was closed all day, while preparations were being made for the event.

Mr. Painter in a statement said: "Six years ago when we established this firm, it was with utmost confidence that we would be able to look forward and grow along with our city."

"This has been experienced by us during the past six years, and during this time, the city has expanded, new highways have been built, all tending to make Painter's the definite success that it is, and necessitating improvements in our store, so that we may keep abreast of the development of the city."

With the slogan "Shop and Compare," Painter's has developed into one of the best outlets in this part of Texas for value and quality merchandise.

WILEY TURNER KILLED INSTANTLY TUES. WHEN ALIGHTING FROM CAR ON MAIN

TWO SHOTS WERE FIRED: TWO CHILDREN IN CAR AT TIME

Wiley Turner, 55, of near Gatesville was killed instantly at 1:10 Tuesday as he was alighting from his car in front of Pederson & Milner's Tailor Shop on Main Street. Shortly afterward J. D. (John) Hearn, 77, his father-in-law was arrested, and was charged with murder, and was immediately released under $5,000.00 bond before Justice of the Peace George Miller.

Hearn, according to Chief of Police Frank Farquhar, was sitting in the rear of Wm. Cameron Co., lumber yard, when he arrested him.

Two shots were fired, one entering Turner's head back of, and slightly below his right ear, the second over the right chest.

Hearn waived examining trial when he was brought before Justice of the Peace Miller.

Reasons for the trouble are not known, but in a news story in the Waco News-Tribune, Chief of Police Frank Farquhar is reported to have said Hearn made the statement to the officers that "there had been bad blood between them for the past few months."

Turner was shot with a 38 caliber revolver, both bullets being removed from the body by the embalmer.

Funeral services were held for the victim Wednesday at Hubbard, 8 miles southeast of Gatesville at 3 p. m. Morton Scott in charge.

Surviving are the widow, who was Turner's second wife, three sons, Claude Turner of Gatesville, Dale and Kenneth Turner, two daughters, Miss Norma Lee Turner and Miss Erah Mae Turner, two brothers, Louis and Earl Turner, all of Hubbard, and a sister, Mrs. Fannie Dixon of Mound.

TOM FREEMAN BUYS ENTIRE INTEREST IN FIRESTONE STORE

The entire interest in the new Firestone store here known as the Gatesville Auto Supply has been purchased by Tom Freeman, from his partner, Garland Anderson.

This business has been open here on Main street since August of last year, and is enjoying a thriving business.

Mr. Freeman is a former employee of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Co. here and for a short time was in the real estate business.

Mr. Anderson, was formerly with the City Drug Store. What his plans are for the future, we have not been informed.

W. A. Freeman of Port Arthur, Tom's brother is to move here with his family and will be associated with Tom in the business.

A rocket ship, designed after the fashion of a Buck Rogers space ship, will be one of the major attractions on the Gayway during the 1939 California World's Fair. It is an illusionary planetarium.

BOXING TOURNAMENT HERE FEB. 3-4 NOT LIMITED TO COUNTY

ENTRANTS MAY BE HAD FROM ANY TOWN NOT HAVING A DISTRICT

The News Amateur Athletic Association, which is handling the District Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament which is to be held in Gatesville on February 3-4, and possibly the 2nd, if there are enough entries, is not entirely a Coryell county affair.

Boys 16 and over may enter, if they are not living in a town or city, which has another District Tournament.

As for entries, it is not absolutely necessary to have an official application blank, which is in this issue of the News. Just give us the following information, and mail to Coryell County News, Gatesville, Texas, Name, Age, Weight, Division or Weight you wish to fight under, and that you are an amateur and have not boxed or fought for money.

This tournament, which is to be held under the A. A. U. Rules, requires that each entrant pay a membership fee of 25c, which gives membership in the News Amateur Athletic Association which has been organized primarily for the promotion of amateur athletics in this vicinity.

Out of the eight weights or divisions, the eight winners will be sent to Fort Worth to the State Finals without any other preliminaries, with all expenses paid during the final dates which are February 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20th.

HISTORY OF GOLDEN GLOVES

Golden Gloves is copyrighted names owned jointly by the Chicago Tribune and New York News. It was given to an amateur tournament between the two cities (teams sponsored by these newspapers) in 1927.

The Chicago Tribune now has the Western Half of the nation and some of the south, and the New York News the Eastern half.

In the 1938 representative teams from 18 states gathered in Chicago for the "Tournament of Champions".

In 1936 the Tribune granted the Star-Telegram right to the use of the name "Golden Gloves" in Texas with the understanding that the Star-Telegram would send a team of Texas champions for the Tournament of Champions.

Last year Texas teams in Chicago won more than 60 per cent of their fights in Chicago.

In 1938, the Coryell County News with the local FFA promoted a News-FFA Boxing Tournament here, and there were some 1,450 fans in the gym during one night of the tournament.

At that time, the News corresponded with the Star-Telegram in an effort to call this tournament a "Golden Gloves" tournament, and were told we were too late, and that if another neighboring city didn't put theirs over in 1938 we could have the tournament in 1939.

This year, or rather, late in 1938, the News requested this privilege and was granted the District Golden Gloves Tournament, which will be held here February the third and fourth.

IRELAND INVITATION IS DUE ON JAN. 13TH AND 14TH

January 13-14 are the dates for the Second Annual Ireland Invitation Basketball Tournament for Boys. This meeting will be in the Ireland gym beginning at 6 p. m. January 13.

Outstanding, probably, in the tournament will be the highly heralded Tokie team from McLennan county, champions of that county last year. Valley Mills is also another entry this year.

Invitations have been extended to the strongest teams of the district, and it is probable that the Waco High Tigers will participate in the tourney.

Trophies will be awarded to the consolation and championship teams. Interscholastic eligibility rules will be followed. Rabon Balch will be the chief official for the tournament.

ORCHIDS A NICKEL IN LITTLE KISS

ORCHIDS are a nickel in the village of Little Kiss, just beyond the Valley of Lilies. Peasants still practice voodoo, but the colored people are mostly gentle souls, eager to believe that folks is good and living am sweet.
This is life in Dominica, one of the "Ports of the Sun" which Eleanor Early touches in her fascinating article on tropical travel in the February Cosmopolitan.
Trinidad has calypso singers, she says, who are as popular as movie stars in Hollywood, and Trinidad's favorite is a singer named Radio.
Off the coast of Trinidad are three small islands. One is Tobago, which is also called Robinson Crusoe's Island; one is called the Goat although there is not a goat on it; and the other is Little Tobago where there are no human beings but only birds of paradise.
If Miss Early's vivid portrayal of the lazy beauty of these islands doesn't make you want to pack up and leave at once for the West Indies, the secret of their unspoiled beauty will—for the great attraction of these "Ports of the Sun" is that they are still largely unknown to tourists.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

RACE track touts are forever telling people who seem to have more ready cash than is good for them what horse is just bound to win the next race. They are worse than politicians, they will volunteer to give you the exact inside information on anything, for a consideration.
Well, once there were two touts and they wanted a Scotchman to bet on a race. He had never bet and he didn't want to do it, but finally risked a Shilling. The Horse won at 10 to 1, and the Bookmaker paid him 11 Shillings. The Scot took each one as it was handed to him and bit each one of them carefully.

"What's the matter?" asked the Bookie, "Do you think my money is no good?"
"Na, na, Mannie," responded the Scotchman, "but I just wanted to make sure the Shilling I gave you wasn't among them."

PEARL BUCK ASKS PROOF OF WRITING AWARD

SHORTLY after ten o'clock in the morning of November 10th, a woman working away in a shabby old wrapper, received word that the highest award a writer can have was hers. She was Pearl S. Buck, and the award was the Nobel Prize.
In the February issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, John Selby has written a pen picture of the slight daughter of a missionary, who came out of China to make writing history.
"I don't believe it," said Mrs. Buck. But she dressed right away and went directly to her husband's office.
The place was swarming with newspapermen, radio technicians, foreign correspondents, and agents in the building who thought perhaps it was a fire. In spite of the fuss, Mrs. Buck still refused to believe in her award.
So Richard J. Walsh, her husband, called Stockholm long distance. At 11:30 o'clock the official cable arrived and was meat for the photographers, who were popping flash light bulbs with fanatic zeal. Interviews went on until noon, by which time the radio was ready with Sweden and Mrs. Buck was interviewed for the benefit of the world.
Her best comments were: "It's like a sweepstakes winning," and later: "I imagine a lot of people will think it a mistake to give it to me."
Since her entry into the writing field of America, Mrs. Buck has been a constant contributor to Cosmopolitan and Good House-keeping Magazine.

QUESTION!

When Will Government Checks Come?

This question is being asked by almost everyone. Mr. Roach and his associates have and are doing everything humanly possible to rush them out, yet when they will be here is indefinite.

In November we told you through this paper that we were going to co-operate with those who had compliance checks coming from 1938 by extending courtesy credit on a pledge to be paid out of checks on receipt. Many have already taken advantage of this courtesy.

We have extended this courtesy because of the many requests coming to us. You may determine the approximate amount of check to be received from County Agent's office.

Make Hitler Harmless, Says H. G. Wells

In Great Britain when they want to foresee the future they immediately page the major prophet, H. G. Wells. In America they watch for one of Dr. Gallup's uncannily accurate polls on the public pulse.

The editors of the February issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine have done both, and present sensational stories from both men. "The immediate future of the hundreds of millions of people hangs upon the unchecked impulses of a mere handful of men," writes H. G. Wells. "You could be rendered harmless and put away as soon as possible."

The famous British author points to the open record of Hitler, his published speeches, his role in the program going on at the moment, his delusions of grandeur and contagious form of homicidal mania.

"Possibly they may fall out with one another," writes Wells. "Possibly some daring group may take the risk of a second 'blood bath,' if and when these three go."

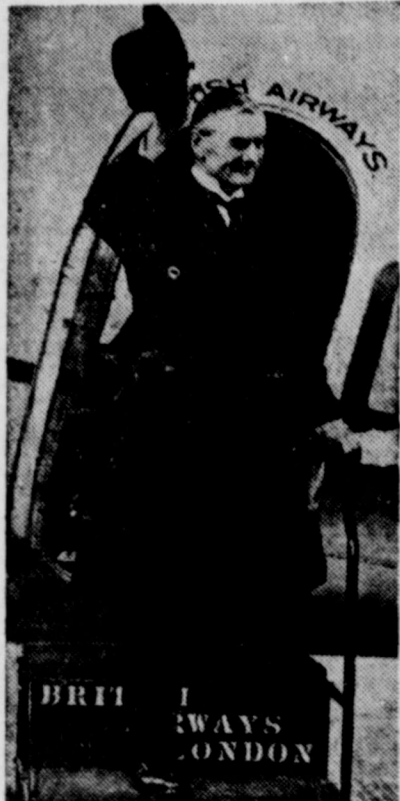

In sharp contrast, is the opinion of Dr. George Gallup, who, as Director of American Institute of Public Opinion, has access to vast supplies of information, available to very few men in the nation.

"The American nation is changing," says Dr. Gallup. "We—the American people—are moving toward the right, toward a more conservative viewpoint in national politics. The November election with its Republican gains, high-spotted the trend. Actually, it was revealed long before then, for the Institute's studies began to detect it in 1937 directly after the sit-down strikes and the President's Supreme Court proposal. Barring some emergency like war, the pendulum may continue to swing toward the right next year because the public is no longer in a mood for experimentation to the same degree that it was when the New Deal came to power.

"What we are witnessing, and will witness, is a public desire for 'leveling off' in the tempo of change brought about by the New Deal, a desire for consolidating the gains after a period of rapid social adjustment.

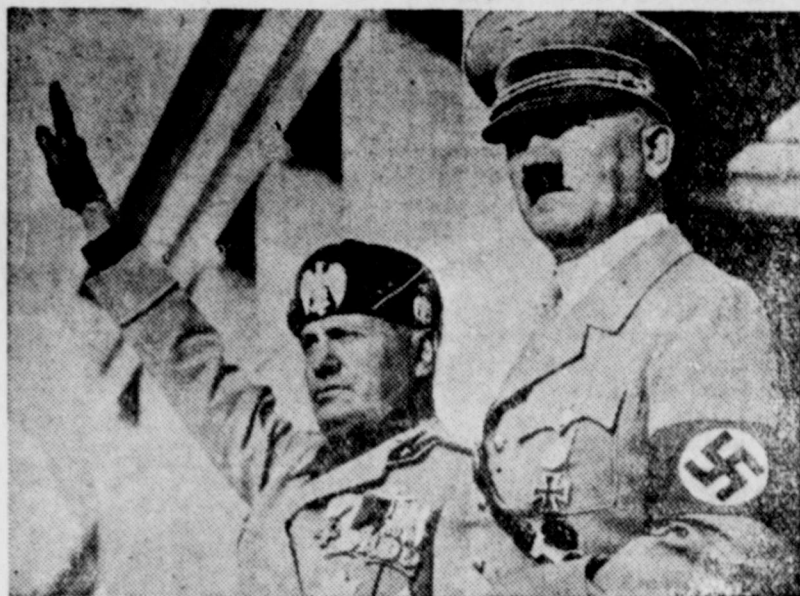

"The public acclaimed and supported many of the reforms of the New Deal, watched the administration win blanket powers from Congress, and according to the latest survey, is still for President Roosevelt by a fair-sized majority. But it wants to see the legislative power re-asserted. For example, while a third of the voters say they would have supported all of Roosevelt's measures if they had been sitting in Congress, two-thirds say they would have opposed many of these measures. An equally large majority, more than seven in every ten, think Congress should no longer give the President lump sums of money to spend as he wishes for relief and recovery. They want Congress to exercise greater control over how it is spent."

pack the whole lot of them into an ordinary airplane. It would be a tumultuous load but, if you could contrive a crash for it, the alleviation of human trouble would be disproportionately vast."

"I write of the triumvirate with the freedom of a still uninterned Englishman," Mr. Wells says. "My friend, Mr. Winston Churchill, has spoken of Herr Hitler as a 'great man!' I agree, but I insist that he and his chief friends ought now

Gambling Full of Tricks, Expert Maintains

YOU can't win. The gambling trade, as practised by a few of the successful gamblers in the country is filled with ingenious tricks, by which overconfident amateurs in the nation are being fleeced every day by the boys who know there's only one answer—"You can't win."

J. C. Furnas, noted writer and author of "And Sudden Death," in the February issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, presents a sensational expose of the tricks of the gambling fraternity.

Michael MacDougall is a card detective.

"I know of only one way to get to be a card detective," MacDougall told Mr. Furnas.

"I started in Philadelphia, when I was fourteen. One day I wandered to the Globe Vaudeville Theater, where Horace Goldin, the famous Royal Russian Illusionist, was headlining the bill.

"The first performance had me popeyed, with moving pictures that turned into real life and girls who walked through glass and such. I stayed through the next show. This time the illusion went to pot, for the musicians in the orchestra had left the pit door open. There, under the stage, plain as day was Goldin's crew of stagehands going through all of the business that produces illusions on the stage itself.

"That spoiled everything, and I resented it. So, after the act was finished, I went backstage and saw Goldin. He asked me what the so-and-so I wanted, and I told him. I wanted a job with the act.

"He said I was inexperienced. I said I was smart and could learn. He studied me a moment and asked, 'Are you limber?'

"I doubled into a knot, for I was small and wiry. (I still am.) He hired me."

For years, MacDougall toured the world and took every opportunity he found to learn about gamblers and gambling. It wasn't until the depression that his knowledge became his career. The depression didn't break MacDougall but it sent to the cleaners a certain young member of an aristocratic eastern family, and that's what put him to work spotting crooks.

Michael MacDougall, noted card detective.

This amateur now is the famous card detective and has played in scores of fashionable clubs, trains, steamships — everywhere gambling goes on. He always gets his man.

The writer exposes the simple and also the intricate card tricks that are being practiced in thousands of gambling games every day.

"It is time to face the responsibility of the home in the safeguarding of the nation," says Mr. Bayless. "This sermon is designed to emphasize the truth of the proverb, 'As the homes, so the nation!'"

BOB HANEY GOES TO ROTAN AS YARD MANAGER

Bob Haney, who has been with Wm. Cameron Co., of Gatesville for the past few months, while Mr. W. C. Guggolz was recovering from a broken leg, left yesterday for Rotan where he will assume management of the Wm. Cameron Co. yard at that place.

Mr. Haney has won the admiration of people of Gatesville, was a member of the Gatesville Lions Club, and all who know him will wish him well in his new location.

Recently, in conversation about Gatesville and the people here, Mr. Haney said, the reason that he hated to leave Gatesville was because of the fine people here, and the town itself.

Of course, we can't put this like Mr. Haney did, but this was the substance of the very high compliment paid Gatesville and its people.

A Good Luck Charm that Works

By T. C. RICARDSON, Secretary Breeder Feeder Association

A four leaf clover is an efficient good luck charm if there's enough of it in the pasture or in hay; but the regular three-leaved sort is just as good. This is one way of saying that the fellow who has "good luck" with livestock or poultry doesn't depend on a rab-bit's foot, a horse-shoe or a single four-leaf clover. Most of his good luck comes from giving them what they need when they need it.

This and next month are the most critical periods of the year in the Southwest. Sudden changes, northerly or snow-storms, are liable to occur at any time during the next several weeks. The degree of cold has less to do with the effect on animals and fowls than the extremes to which they are subjected. Shelter and feed are the best charm against severe shrinkage or death losses.

It is particularly important that dairy cows not only be protected and well fed, but that they should also have plenty of water at a drinkable temperature. Most of the falling off in milk is due to the cows failing to drink enough icy water to supply the fluid in milk—nearly nine-tenths by volume. The cow can convert feed into heat to keep the body temperature normal, but she cannot turn dry feed into water. It costs a good deal more in extra feed and care to bring the milk flow back than to hold it in the first place, and if the cow is in the latter part of her lactation period the shrinkage may never be overcome.

Cows heavy with calves and ewes bred for early lambing also require extra consideration if one is to have "good luck". "Roughing them thru" on just any thing that will fill them up is poor economy, when they must nourish the developing embryo in addition to their own bodily requirements. A little grain, cottonseed cake, or even whole cottonseed in limited quantities, and in most cases some lime and bone meal, should be added to the roughage ration. Less of the proteins and minerals will be needed if alfalfa or other good legume hay is fed.

The minerals are especially important during the period of gestation. If an adequate supply is not in the ration the young cannot develop good bone structure. Lime may be supplied in the form of limestone flour or ground oyster shell, and bone meal is the best source of phosphorus. The amount needed is so small that its cost is insignificant, compared with its value to both the dam and the embryo.

The sorghums, both sweet and grain, are notably deficient in minerals. Old dry forage is less digestible than new, and experiments indicate that it is also more deficient in other respects than that from last season's harvest. If stacked roughage carried over from the 1937 crop must be fed, and green pasture is lacking, it should be heavily supplemented with the highly nutritious grains and proteins.

There is likely to be little trouble in calving or lambing if the dams are kept in vigorous health and condition during the last few months of gestation, but weak dams mean weak offspring as well as danger that the dame herself may be unable to withstand the strain of giving birth.

The same general principles hold good for sows, with the extra precaution of being on guard against wet or cold at farrowing time. The good husbandman makes his own "good luck" by watching his animals closely and being on hand when the crisis occurs. If they don't freeze to death from exposure in the first half hour, little pigs may get pneumonia and die later.

A Wine Fountain, with red and white "liquid gold" from California vineyards flowing from the fountain, will be a feature of the Wine Temple at the 1939 California World's Fair.

"THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER"

By GEORGE CROSSITT

Novelized From the Paramount Picture Starring

BOB BURNS

STORY
The Arkansas Traveler, a hobo printer, takes a job on the Record, a small town newspaper owned by the Widow Allen. The Allen children, Judy and Benny, love the Traveler especially after he is instrumental in bringing Johnnie Daniels, son of the town's Mayor and Judy's lover, back to her. Johnnie had fought with his father over the latter's association with Matt Collins, a political boss. Collins is anxious to get control of the Record before the coming election. Inasmuch as the Record is almost bankrupt he orders the merchants to cancel all their ads for the anniversary issue. Under the Traveler's direction, the paper comes out anyway with a startling blast against Collins and his machine. But things look hopeless.

CHAPTER VIII

WHEN the Traveler presented himself at Matt Collins' home the next day, he proceeded to give a most convincing impersonation of a nervous and frightened man.

"You see, Mr. Collins, even a rat has sense enough to leave a sinking ship," he began, twirling his hat while he perched uncomfortably on the edge of a chair. These days a fellow like me has to look out for himself."

Matt smiled broadly. "So you're planning on leaving town?"

"Well, not exactly," the Traveler parried. "But I been thinking I might leave if I could go in business for myself."

"Not around here?"

"Well, no," the Traveler admitted. "You see when I was comin' through I stopped off in a town where they've got a cotton gin and knowin' a little about it, I thought I'd like to go in the cotton gin business. You see, they're burning coke and wood and you can't make much profit that way."

"Where is the place?"

"Oh, about two hundred miles down the road. But what I had in mind, Mr. Collins, was if I could get a motor and a small generator or somethin' like that and kind of do it in a modern way I'd—"

Collins interrupted. "Two hundred miles seems far enough away. What do I get out of all this?"

"Well, first you get rid of me," the Traveler said with a twinkle in his eye. "I've got what I guess you'd call a nuisance value."

"I'll admit things might have been smoother for some people if you hadn't stopped off here," Collins smiled.

"And they'll be a heap smoother if I move along. Of course, I figure the 'I get a real goin' business I'd like to get out of you in."

"All right, Traveler. We've made a deal. I'll go along and see that you get what you need." Matt arose,

"You know, sometimes I envy you your long trips."

"Thanks, Mr. Collins. I wish you'd sorta say goodbye to the Allens for me—I just haven't got the gumption to do it myself."

"Sure—sure, I'll be glad to," Matt answered. "I'll take care of everything."

The Traveler's disappearance stunned Martha. She had come to trust him and rely on him.

Johnnie and Judy were furious. They, too, liked the Traveler but as Johnnie pointed out, there was only one possible explanation: the Traveler had sold out to Matt Collins.

And the one day, when Johnnie was alone in the deserted composing room, he walked the Traveler!

"Hello, Johnnie," he said smilingly. "How're the folks?"

"You ought to know," Johnnie's voice was bitter. "Hasn't Matt Collins told you?"

"Say, what are you talkin' about? I haven't seen Matt Collins for almost a week."

"What did he send you back for this time?"

"Look, Johnnie," the Traveler explained as he began to understand what was in the young man's mind. "You've got this thing wrong. I saw Matt Collins because—"

"Because your job was finished and he wanted to pay you off! Johnny was almost shouting in his anger. "So now you're coming back to see if there's anything else left to do. Well, there is! Get out of here!"

"Now wait a minute, Johnnie. There isn't much time to explain but you've got to listen to me."

"What is there to explain? How you found out all about us from Matt Collins—and then walked in here pretending to be our friend while you were doing what he wanted you to do?"

"Hold on a minute, Johnnie."

"You heard what I said," Johnnie stopped forward monologously. "Now get out of here before I put you out!"

The Traveler's voice was quiet. "Look Johnnie—when this is all over I just want you to remember one thing—I wasn't mad. I was just in a hurry."

As Johnnie advanced the Traveler side-stepped and crossed a fast right to the boy's jaw. He sank to the floor just as Martha and Judy came in.

"Now Mizz Allen and Judy—don't misunderstand. I can't strike ladies. I was tryin' to tell that stubborn Johnnie some good news—good news for all of us."

Johnnie stirred and his eyes fluttered as Judy applied a cold towel.

"I came back to tell you I've got a generator and wires and everything Johnnie will need to build that radio plant of Mr. Allen's."

In the stunned silence that followed, Johnnie shook off Judy's compresses.

"You say you've got a generator?"

"And a motor and most everything," the Traveler continued. "Old Abernathy, the farmer with those two tall towers by his house has agreed to let us use 'em and his ground."

"You shouldn't have hit me with your fist—you should have used a brick incinerator," Johnnie said contritely.

"And while you were doing all this," Martha said apologetically "we thought—"

"Never mind that, Mizz Allen. We got to build a radio station—and right quick, too. Think you can do it, Johnnie?"

"Sure—if that old piece of sheep hide about my qualifications as an electrical engineer means anything," Johnnie answered. "But what are we going to do for help? It will take a lot of men to do the job. We can't build it alone. And Matt Collins controls everything in the darned town—including all of the working people."

"Now, Johnnie, don't worry about that. He doesn't know it yet but Matt Collins is financing the erection of this radio station. If I can persuade a hard trader like him to build a radio station that may put him out of business, I don't think a labor shortage is anything to worry about."

"New Johnnie, you get busy with these blue prints—and Miss Judy, you help him, will you? I got to get in touch with a few friends to lend a hand on this job—and it may take a little time 'cause they're kinda scattered around the country and they don't always leave forwarding addresses."

"You shouldn't have hit me with your fist—you should have used a brick incinerator," Johnnie said contritely.

MRS. SOL BASHAM BURIED TUESDAY, DECEMBER 13

Funeral services for Mrs. Sol Basham were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock December 13, 1938 at King Cemetery, King, Tex. with J. N. Cowan of Dublin conducting. Interment was in the King cemetery. Mrs. Basham passed away at her home Monday afternoon December 12 about 5:30.

Mrs. Basham was born in Louisiana, October 30, 1862. Her maiden name was Willie Davis Peavy, daughter of William and Miranda Russell Peavy. She moved to Texas at an early age, lived near Straws Mill near the Leon River. Later she moved to Pearl.

Sol Basham and Willie Peavy were married September 14, 1881. They lived on Cow House Creek near Rogers Mill for about 8 or 9 years, then moved to the present homestead three miles east of Slater. To this union were born seven children. Mr. and Mrs. Basham lived together for 54 years. Sol Basham passed on to the great beyond Jan. 3, 1936.

On October 5, 1908, Mrs. Sol Basham was baptized into the Church of Christ by C. A. Lee-craft, Christain Evangelist. She lived a faithful Christain life to the end. She was regular in attendance at services on our Lord's day. Many times she went to church when the weather was very cold and the roads very muddy. The good motherly advice given to her children about their soul salvation will never be forgotten. She lived her religion. She was never more happy than when making others happy and bringing joy into others lives. She got much enjoyment out of giving little presents to her children, grandchildren, and neighbors.

Mrs. Sol Basham is survived by one sister, Mrs. Bart Cox of Pearl; six children, Mrs. Lios Cox of Pearl; Mrs. W. C. Moore of Slater Burnell and Lee Basham, King; Mrs. Hug Evetts of Pidcoke; and Miss Floy Basham of King; thirty-one grandchildren and sixteen great grandchildren besides other friends and relatives.

Six of her grandsons, Bertram Cox, A. P. Cox, Nelson Cox, Don Calhoun, Gail Calhoun and Davis Moore, acted as pall bearers, and six of her granddaughters acted as

MARITAL HAPPINESS PROBED BY COLLEGE GROUP

HAPPINESS in marriage is far less dependent upon sex than it is believed to be.

This is one of the outstanding conclusions which Professor Lewis M. Terman of Stanford University and his associates are forced to draw from their intimate study of the married lives of 792 couples, which is being described in an amazing series of articles in Cosmopolitan by Albert E. Wiggam, D. Sc.

"While sex, as such, has some importance," says Dr. Wiggam in the February issue of the magazine, "yet the personalities and the life backgrounds of the tympates—their education, family life and the like—have far more influence than sex in determining marital happiness."

There are many other surprises in these phases of this great research. For example, "wall flowers" who have few "dates" are apparently as likely to be happy when they marry as the girls who are popular with the boys, and the boys who have few "dates" are as likely to be happy as the boys who are "ace high" with the girls.

The occupations of the husbands and their incomes had no effect on the average of the happiness scores. Unhappily married couples often attribute their troubles to poverty. This no doubt is true in some cases, but such instances are offset by others in which discord is caused by too much money.

If you want to make a quick check on your own chances for a successful marriage, here are twelve personality traits which were determining factors in the Terman tests.

Do you often feel just miserable?

Do you try to get your own way, even if you have to fight for it?

Are you touchy on various subjects?

Do you frequently feel grouchy?

Does some particularly useless thought keep coming into your mind to bother you?

Do you usually avoid asking advice?

Do your feelings alternate between happiness and sadness without apparent reason?

Are you often in a state of excitement?

Are you considered critical of other people?

Does discipline make you discontented?

Would you rather economize on most other things than clothes?

Do you lose your temper easily?

Ten questions answered "No" is a good indication of happiness. Eight "No's" are fair. Six "No's" are poor. Less than four means you are probably a rather difficult marital partner.

CANAPES

Slice bread thinly and cut into fancy shapes with small cookie cutter or sharp knife. These may be finger-length strips, small rounds, triangles or diamonds. Toast the bread lightly on one side or saute in butter. These pieces may be spread with cream cheese mixed with caviar or anchovy past, liver sausage mashed to a smooth paste with mayonnaise to which a drop of two of tabasco sauce has been added, any one of many prepared spreads such as deviled ham.

Large potato chips may serve as a basis for well-seasoned spreads. New and distinctive are tiny meat cornucopias filled with seasoned cheese and fastened together with toothpicks.

ROLLED SANDWICH

1/4 lb. grated American cheese
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
2 pinmentos, minced
1-8 tsp. cayenne pepper.
1 tsp dry mustard

Mix all the ingredients to a smooth paste. Cut a loaf of bread lengthwise, remove crusts and spread. Wrap in a damp cloth and set in the refrigerator. Slice as a jelly roll. Toast if desired.

BACONETTE

Spread sliced of uncooked bacon with peanut butter. Roll tightly, fasten with a toothpick. Toast under broiler flame until bacon is done. Serve by sticking toothpicks around a large red apple.

CAVIAR CANAPES

Each canape consists of two bread rounds with caviar spread over the entire surface and a mound of savory egg yolk in the center, topped with a bit of green pepper.

JELLIED CRANBERRY SAUCE

Cook 1 quart of cranberries in 2 cups of water until they start to pop; strain if desired. Add 2 1/2 tablespoons granulated gelatin which has been sprinkled on 2 cups cold water and 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar. Stir til gelatin is dissolved. Chill until it begins to set. Add 1 cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 cup chopped walnut kernels. Pour in 8 individual molds and chill till set. Unmold on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise. Decorate with walnut halves.

If you want to give your meals a distinctive touch serve hot bread with them. They are not difficult to make and well worth any extra trouble.

RAISIN BRAN MUFFINS

Stir 1 cup all-purpose flour, 1 cup bran and 1/4 cup raisins. Dissolve 1/2 teaspoon baking soda in 1 tablespoon cold water and stir into 1/4 cup molasses. Combine the liquid and dry ingredients with a few swift stirs; it should take 15 seconds or less. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Makes 16 small muffins.

SHORTENIN' BREAD

4 cups flour
1 lb. butter
1 cup light brown sugar.

Mix the flour and sugar thoroughly, then add the butter and mix to a smooth dough. Place on a floured surface and pat to about 1/2-inch thickness. Cut in rounds of any desired size, arrange on baking sheet or pan and bake in a moderate oven for 20 to 25 minutes.
