IT'S IN THE AIR; IT'S IN THE DAILIES IT'S GOLDEN GLOVES TALK, EVERYWHERE

Gatesville's, and Coryell county's opportunity is here!

We refer to the District Golden Gloves Tournament which will be held in the City Hall here, on February 3 and 4, with an alternate date, the 2 if the entries suffice.

Publicity has already been sent to some 30 newspapers, dailies, weeklies, and others in surrounding counties, not to mention the publicity of tournaments in some fifteen other District cities in this state, and broadcasts galore building up the idea in other states as well.

Information from the CCC camp is that the boys there are planning; last night, there was an amateur boxing match at Levita; and Clifton has requested entry blanks which have been furnished.

Districts Announced

In looking over the announced District Tournament towns and cities, we found the population as follows: Dallas, 260,475; Abilene 26,092; Brownwood, 14,320; Pampa, 18,000; Wichita Falls, 50,792; Tyler, 30,000; San Antonio, 231,542; Houston, 292,352; Fort Worth 165,477; Big Spring, 13,786; Amarillo, 43,132; Austin, 72,454; Lubbock, 28,000; Galveston, 52,938; and—Gatesville, 2,601.

We don't boast, we boost, but if this isn't a boost for this little burg; how do you get one?

Credit for this event of importance is due to the News Amateur Athletic Association, which is handling the event, and is composed of an initial number of Gatesville business men, with plenty of room for more.

Winners, and semi-finalists in the District Tournament here will be awarded suitable trophies, and the winners will receive all expense trips from Gatesville to the State Final at Fort Worth.

Should there be any winners in the eight weights in Fort Worth from this District, these will be taken to Chicago by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, or alternates, if the winners do not choose to go.

The tournament in all District cities and in Fort Worth will be under the regulations of the Amateur Athletic Association, of which the local organization is a member, must register, the fee being 25c which will entitle them to enter all officially designated AAU tournaments.

Bride of James Boyd Hix.

Miss Mattie Wilmoth Roberts was married to James Boyd Hix of Overton in a beautiful ceremony held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Roberts, at high noon Christmas Day.

The single ring ceremony was impressively read by Rev. Lloyd Lester, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Killeen, in the presence of close friends and relatives.

The bride wore a lovely crepe frock and a corsage of renucula in pastel shades.

Christmas dinner was served to the wedding party and guests, after which the couple left for a honeymoon to Dallas. After spending a few days there, they made their home in Overton.

Mrs. Hix is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Roberts of Killeen. She was reared in Killeen, where she has always been a favorite. She graduated from Killeen High School in 1937 and attended a business college in Port Arthur. For a short while she was employed in the court

11,000 NON-GROCERY STORES FEATURE CITRUS TO MOVE CROP

In eleven thousand stores that, 49 weeks out of the year do not handle groceries at all, a quarter of a million clerks will start this week end on a country-wide sale to market the biggest crop of citrus fruits in history. The drive will continue three weeks, tying in during its last ten days with a sales campaign in food stores, all aimed to let the consuming public get the full, healthful benefit of a fruit crop in which the Rio Grande Valley is harvesting more than fifteen million boxes of grapefruit, in addition to the Texas orange and lemon crop.

Variety stores, shirt shops, tobacco shops, department stores, dress shops shoe stores, hat stores, candy kitchens, and even automobile supply garages—forty-six major chain systems, in all, are cooperating in the sale campaign. Some of these stores will sell fruit or fruit juice drinks; others that do not actually sell citrus products will feature the nationwide campaign in window displays, counter displays and advertising.

Joe Walker, speaking for chain store managers in Gatesville, said the second national citrus sale is designed to move the surplus crops of the four major growing states—Texas, Florida, Arizona, and Calif. in 338 non-food stores of seventeen companies in Texas cooperating in the sale, Texas-grown fruits are being favored. Texas fruits share the sale spotlight thruout the nation.

January 24 the campaign will begin in grocery stores, two weeks after the campaign on grapefruit and oranges has started in non-food stores whose cooperation has been enlisted to make the year one of profit instead of over-production for the growers.

GATESVILLE CAMP PROGRESS REPORT

More than 121 cooperators who own or operate 25,830 acres of land in Gatesville camp area of the Soil Conservation have installed, or are now in the process of establishing complete and coordinated erosion control program on their farm, E. E. McCallister, conservationist announced today in connection with the issuance of his progress report for 1938.

Mr. McCallister said that the farmers who are following conservation farming systems on their lands have retired some 1365 acres of land, formerly in cultivation, to grass and trees to control erosion and to make possible utilization of the land. Some of this land was located on slopes too steep for safe or profitable cultivation, some was composed of soils too easily eroded to be left in open row crops and some was already so badly depleted of fertility that crop production was no longer profitable.

The 121 farmers have built approximately 300 miles of terraces with the assistances of technicians of the Soil Conservation Service to control erosion on 5270 acres of cropland. Terraces are being used in conjunction with crops and contour cultivation. About 7360 acres of comparatively level land in crops is protected from soil erosion by contour tillage and strip crops alone.

Mr. McCallister pointed out that several practices must be coordinated to bring about the most effective erosion control on cultivated lands. Contour rows and strip crops may be sufficient to prevent soil losses on some slopes but on steeper lands these two practices must be backed up by terraces so that most of the water that falls on the land can be held until it has time to soak into the soil and the excess drained from the field in an orderly manner. Strip crops, bands of close-growing, fibrous-rooted crops planted on the contour between the intervals of clean-tilled crops, serve to slow down the rate of rain-fall run-off. When the water from the clean-tilled intervals encounter the strips it is spread out. As the water passes into the strips the close-growing plants filter out and hold the silt. When the silt load is held back on the land the danger of filling terrace channels is minimized and a greater volume of water can be held in check by the terraces.

More than 154,932 square yds. of sod have been placed at terrace outlet ends on the 121 farms to prevent erosion damage by water passing from the terrace channels. Approximately 106 pasture and meadow strip waterways, have been sodded. Every effort is made to outlet terraces on protected areas such as pastures, meadows, woodlands or into natural drains, but on some farms these facilities are not adjacent to the terraced field, hence it is necessary to construct sodded channels to carry the water to protected areas where it can be safely outletted, Mr. McCallister explained.

All the farmers have conservation practices in use on their lands are following crop rotation systems and 6,000 acres of cultivated land have been planted to winter cover and strip crops during the past season to protect the soil from the erosive effect of heavy winter and early spring rains. About 95 per cent of the total acreage in winter cover crops and strip crop is small grain and the remainder is devoted to legumes, sorgum, sudan, hubam clover and peas. The legumes when turned under green in the spring will add nitrogen and organic matter to improve the soil. Pasture acreage on the conservation treated farms has been increased for 11,583 acres to 13,948 acres since the inception of the local project.

More than 1,365 acres of pasture land have been sodded and 271 acres have been given the benefit of contour ridges or furrows, built to retain most of the rain that falls and permit more water to penetrate into the soil and there be stored to aid grass growth.

"The farmers with whom we have worked during the past few years tell us that conservation practices make it possible for them either to maintain or to increase crop yields, and to gain some economic benefit from each acre of the farm," said.

Ernest Huey, SCS Cooperator tenant, says, "I have lived on this farm for twenty-three years and have watched cultivated lands diminish because of erosion and seeps. I am well pleased with work that is being done by the local Soil Conservation Service and can see how it will save my cultivated land and boost the productive ability of this place."

Mr. E. Callan, SCS Cooperator, says, "The grazing in my pasture has been improved tremendously since it was sodded with Buffalo and Bermuda grass early in the spring with the cooperation of the local Soil Conservation Service."

Mr. Hack, a tenant cooperator of the Gatesville Camp area, states: "The tenant will profit from Soil Conservation practices just as the landlord, even to the extent that he might have to build the terraces himself."

DEMONSTRATION AGENTS OFFICE

During 1938 demonstrations given to the Coryell County Women's Home Demonstration and Girls' 4-H Clubs were planned with the assistance of Mrs. Bernice Clayton, Interior Home Improvement Specialist in the Extension Service, College Station, Texas.

These demonstrations covered candlewick tufting, essentials of a good bed, lightwarm cover, and bed making. There were 26 demonstrators and 411 cooperators in the Bedroom Improvement demonstration. 30 bedrooms were improved, 3 mattresses were made at home, 13 factory made mattresses were added, 162 pieces of bed linen were added, 15 bedding protectors were added, 174 pillow protectors made, 58 bedspreads added, 38 dresser scarfs added, 330 pillows tufted. The following women demonstrators completed their demonstrations this year.

Mrs. Doyle Manning, 4 Corners Club, Route 3 Killeen, Texas
Miss Eva Durham, Topsey H. D. Club, Copperas Cove, Texas.

Mrs. A. E. Koepsall, Copperas Cove, H. D. Club.

Accomplishments of Mrs. Doyle Manning included adding slats so that there is a slat under each row of coils in the springs, painting the bed and chest of drawers adding running water, building a bath room, making a wool comforter from wool washed, carded and covered with cheese-cloth, tacked, and put in a decorative cover and lining at home and improving the walls, floors and woodwork.

Miss Eva Druham, Topsey HD Club Home Improvement Demonstrator in 1938, is proud of the changed appearance of her room since she has built-in a clothes closet, repapered the room painted the closet a soft light green, added curtains, shades, mirror, linen, hung the pictures at the eye level on the wall, stained the floor. Her improvement cost a few cents over $13.00. Her statement concerning it is "It's easy to keep the room in order after it is fixed up."

When Mrs. A. E. Koepsal, Copperas Cove HD demonstrator in Home Improvement, held her achievement day, Thursday September 29, 1938 she showed her club members, friends and neighbors a well equipped bed having mattress in good condition properly covered, mattress pad, long sheets pillows that passed the test of good pillows by holding their shape when held on the upturned palm of outstretched hand, pillow protectors which are covers put on the pillows before the pillow case is put on and which serve to keep the pillow ticking in better condition, and her store of lightwarm cover. One wool comforter still in good condition is over 10 years old.

SOMEBODY'S WRONG! YOU SETTLE THAT! BUT HERE'S REPORT

We've two reports, one says Ireland Cagers (boys) won from the Gatesville Hornets 29 to 28.

The other: Gatesville Hornets defeated Ireland's Cardinals 28 to 27.

We wouldn't know who won, since, as far as we know, there is no official scorer, timekeeper, or what have you.

Seems the difference is due to a "shot" just as the whistle blew, with Jack Lemmer doing the tossing.

Otherwise, McDonald was high for Gatesville, with 8 points, Moore 6; For Ireland, Lemmer made 13.

HORNETTES LOSE FIRST GAME

Tuesday nite Coach Schwarz' girls lost their first basket ball classic of the season. The female Cardinals of Ireland furnished the opposition. It was no fault of the coach for his club has already defeated the Irelanders thrice this season. Whether or not the surroundings of the battle had any bearing on the outcome we cannot say, but that was team was "OFF"! As you remember, last week when the local girls met Dickerson's girls, the result was a complete push over, 38 to 6. The Hornettes were on the big end of the score that time, but this time it was different. The pressure was too much and the Ireland girls won 20 to 9. As a whole the Hornettes played a poor defensive game. After the first few minutes of play, the forwards seemed to fizzle and we found them behind by six points. The female Cardinals continued the lead thruout. The next game, perhaps we will find the local girls out in front again.

NOTICE!

Leave O. P.'s alone!
That's the warning issued by Chief of Police Frank Farquhar. "Leave Other People's newspapers alone!"

Lately, dailies put in the doors, or in front of them of business houses have been "appropriated". The Chief says: "if you're not able to buy a paper, he's certain, the businesses will let you read their paper, IN THEIR PLACE OF BUSINESS. They have been missing lately. (We might account for some of our "misses" that way, too, since boys deliver them too.)

Anyway, Chief Farquhar warns!

January 6, 1939
Another Congress has convened and while I doubt if I will ever get to feel at home here in Washington, I realize that I must be getting old as I did not get nearly such a thrill as I did two years ago.

Mrs. Poage and I drove to Washington by the Southern route thru Vicksburg, Montgomery, and Atlanta with the idea of keeping out of the fog and snow that are usually encountered over the mountains of Tennessee and Virginia at this time of the year. However we did run into two days of rain and a little snow as it was. We arrived in Washington Sunday night. Monday we held the Democratic Caucus at which we determined on the re-nomination of Hon. W. B. Bankhead of Alabama as Speaker of the House and Hon. Sam Rayburn of Texas as Majority Leader.

Tuesday high noon, the Seventy-Sixth Congress assembled and after the roll call by States, proceeded to elect the officers nominated by the Democratic Caucus the preceding day. There are about twice as many Republicans as there were in the last Congress, but the Democrats still have a powerful majority—In fact, all the majority that any party should need. I feel that a more equal division of the parties will probably result in a better session. It is never a healthy thing for one group to hold all the power and the Republican gains will, I hope, serve to put those of us on the Democratic side on our metal.

On Wednesday at 1:00 p. m., President Roosevelt delivered one of his great speeches. I am sure that many of our people heard this message over the radio. I wish all might have been able to sit in the House Chamber as I did and see as well as hear him. The President looks much older than he did two years ago, but he still has the most magnetic personality I have ever seen. The President's message held out hope that there would be no new taxes. At the same time, it assured all Americans that this nation was not overlooking its duty to protect our free institutions from foreign dictators as well as from internal strife. I admired its frankness, its recognition of dangers abroad and at home, and its assurance that our government would help to restore our national income and prosperity. My only disappointment was the President seemed to overlook the fact that there is still a very acute farm problem in this nation, and that there can be no permanent economic recovery until farm prices and farm incomes are materially increased.

our farms. I do not mean by this that our present farm program should be scrapped and something new established again this year—too late for our farmers to know what to plant—but I do mean that while we are making a crop under the 1939 program we should be giving thought to long time policies under which we can hope to prosper in years to come.
Yesterday, the second Democratic Caucus selected Hon. Milton West of Brownsville, Texas for one of the four Democratic vacancies on the committee on Ways and Means. As this committee not only passes on all tax measures, but also serves as a committee on committees, it was very important to Texas to secure membership thereon, and I consider it a high compliment to Texas as well as to Mr. West to know that he received more votes than any other member of the House for this place.
We are falling behind with our mail as we are trying to move our office and as my secretary has been unable to find a place to live until last night. As it is, he is eight miles from our office, has to walk up to the fourth floor and pay at least four times as much as he would in Waco.

"THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER"

By GEORGE CROSSITT
Novelized From the Paramount Picture Starring
BOB BURNS
FAY Bainter JOHN BEAL IRVIN S. COBB JEAN PARKER

SYNOPSIS
The Arkansas Traveler, a hobo printer, takes a job on the Record, a small town newspaper owned by the Widow Allen. He becomes a great favorite with the Allen children, Judy and Benny, especially after he succeeds in bringing Johnnie Daniels, son of the town's Mayor and Judy's lover, back to her. Johnnie had fought with his father over the latter's association with Matt Collins, political Boss. Collins attempts to get control of the Record before election. When the widow refuses to sell, he forces the merchants to cancel their ads for the anniversary issue. Having no money, the Allens are about to be foreclosed by the bank. Then Johnnie discovers that the Record has a franchise for a radio station. The Traveler manages to take out a couple of power generators from Collins on the pretext that he is going out of town to open a cotton gin and plans are made to build the radio station with Johnnie in charge. Johnnie says he can't do it without help and the Traveler gets ready to call on his good friends, the hoboes.

Judy, Johnnie answered. "Now you tell me you love me and not Matt Collins just when things are completely wrong."
"I'm going to marry you first, Johnnie Daniels, and then discuss your business success later," Judy said as she kissed him.
"You better get downstairs and listen in on the receiving set," said as she kissed him.
The Traveler, grinning broadly, interrupted. "Now that you've told everybody in six counties that you love each other, I think we should get on to business," he pointed out. "Here's Mizz Allen with her speech. Just read it like you were talkin' into a telephone."
Martha kissed the embarrassed Judy and started to speak:
"This talk comes to you from the office of the Record—your newspaper—founded by Ben Allen, whose hopes and vision—Martha's eyes filled with tears and her voice broke—"made this day possible."
"I can't go on, Traveler. You talk to them," she sobbed.
"The reason you folks haven't been gettin' your newspaper is 'cause Matt Collins and Homer Daniels and some other small fry didn't want you to read the truth and took

That's what the Bear Trap Dam Bond issue is about.
"A vote for bonds is a vote for Matt Collins," Johnnie went on, "and a vote for my father is a vote for Matt Collins' scheme to develop his personal property with your money—to manufacture electricity at your expense and then sell it back to you."
"Matt Collins forced the Record to suspend; he did everything in his power to keep this radio station from going on the air. He tried bribery and threatened force. He sent my father to offer me a job so I'd stay out of the fight. But I won't stay out of it. I want to see our town grow and prosper. You don't have to be told how to think and vote—just think right and vote right!"
"Johnnie, you were swell. I'm so proud of you," Judy said as she gave him an impulsive hug.
"Folks, after Johnnie's speech there ain't much to say," the Traveler resumed on the microphone, "except if you don't vote for Homer Daniels you won't have a Mayor and if you do vote for him you'll still be without one."
"From what I've heard, most of you've known Johnnie Daniels since he started scamperin' around here in them three-cornered things you stick together with safety pins. What's the matter with electin' Johnnie? He's honest, he loves this town, and as you've just heard, he's gonna get married and settle down right here. Let's elect Johnnie Daniels as mayor and have an honest administration for a change!"
All day long the Traveler returned to the microphone to continue his broadcasts championing the cause of the suddenly formed "Johnnie Daniels for Mayor" boom. Martha and Judy set up an emergency campaign headquarters in the Allen dining room with Benny serving as messenger boy and the Constable serving as a volunteer ballot tabulator.
As the day wore on and the returns began to pile up the Traveler turned to Johnnie with his old smile. "Johnnie, I'm afraid I'm goin' to have to start callin' you Your Honor any minute now," he said and sauntered out into the composing room.
It was Benny who dashed in with the final news. "Your Dad admits defeat, Johnnie," he shouted, "and the bonds got an awful beating. Where's the Traveler?"
A quick search revealed the disappearance of the Traveler. His coat was not on the hook behind the door and his meager collection of printer's tools were gone. It was Johnnie who grasped the situation first.
"Come on, Constable," he shouted. "I know where we'll find him. No. 9 is due at the foot of the grade in ten minutes."
In the tall grass beside the railroad track, the Traveler watched the oncoming headlights of the freight train. It was showing down. He looked back at the twinkling lights of the village and a lump in his throat made breathing difficult.
As he swung his blanket roll into position and dropped into step beside the train, Johnnie's voice halted him. "Arrest that man, Constable! Johnnie ordered. "He stole my watch!"
THE END.

CHAPTER X

IT WAS a tired and grimy group which assembled in the Allens' kitchen just as the first streaks of dawn lightened the sky. Johnnie had converted the room into the sending station and he was making his final adjustments on the crude apparatus. Martha, Judy, Benny and the Traveler watched anxiously.

"That finished me. I'm licked," Johnnie said. "I have a chance to do something worthwhile—and I'm a flop."
"This ought to do it," Johnnie said. Martha, Benny and the Traveler started eagerly down the stairs. Judy hovered at Johnnie's side.
"Testing station KBEN — one — two—three," Johnnie called into the microphone. Only incoherent sputters answered.
"That finishes me. I'm licked," Johnnie said as he dropped his tools. "I have a chance to do something worthwhile—and I'm a flop."
Suddenly the radio's sputtering stopped and to the listeners below—and throughout the village—the sound of Judy's and Johnnie's voices came through clearly.
Judy put her arms around Johnnie and tried to comfort him. "You'll never have a failure to me, Johnnie—I love you," she said softly—but not too softly that the sensitive microphone did not hear it.
"And I love you—I always have, away our presses. Now you can get the truth over this station.

"And now I've got an idea that's all my own. Today's election day. You're all used to votin' for a man named Daniels. He and Matt Collins are tryin' to put over the Bear Trap Dam bonds for themselves. I suggest that you cross out the name 'Homer' in front of Daniels' name on the ballots and write in 'Johnnie'—the man who made this station possible—and Mizz Allen's soon-to-be son-in-law! And now you talk to them, Johnnie. Tell all the folks what you've told me."
"Hello, folks. You remember a Record editorial a few days ago," Johnnie said quietly. "You know why our paper suspended. Collins wants you to vote a bond appropriation which will raise your taxes and take your hard-earned money to develop their own power interest.

BRAIN TEASER

A man was walking down the street at the rate of three and a half miles an hour when a bicyclist whizzed by. From the time the bicycle passed him until it turned a corner, the walker took 27 steps. Continuing at the same rate, the walker reached the corner in 135 additional steps. Assuming that each traveled the distance at a uniform speed, what was the rate of speed of the bicycle?

BRIEFS

State Legislatures this year have only 130 women members, as against 149 a year ago. Only 28 states have women legislators this year, as against 38 states in 1929.

In recognition of the aid she has extended to sailors and waterfront workers over a period of 54 years, Mrs. Caroline A. Moore, known as "Mother Moore" has received the Gimbels award of $1,000 as "Philadelphia's outstanding woman of 1938."

Arizona politicians were astonished last week when Mrs. Mary Bettwy, newly-elected Democratic recorded of Santa Cruz County, appointed her Republican opponent, Mrs. Ada Jones, as her deputy. Mrs. Jones had once been recorder herself, and Mrs. Bettwy wanted her aid.

Supporting a proposed national law which would levy a tax on all the bachelors in Brazil, Miss Bertha Lutz, lawyer and former Brazilian Congresswoman, explained: "No one pays taxes gladly, but for the privilege of remaining single, I will not object to paying some."

The controversial upswing hair-do has become a military problem in England. It defeats all efforts of experts to fit gas masks to they will stay put. Horn-rimmed spectacles and long beards similarly defy confinement in the odd-shaped head-pieces.

Two Jobs for January

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

The home orchard and the family garden mean more in good eating, good health, and the economy of good living, than any other acre on the farm. Those who say "I can buy it cheaper than I can raise it" usually do without most of the fresh fruits and vegetables which tantalize the appetite and relieve the monotony of the menu. No housewife thinks she can "set a good table" without the products of orchard and garden, and if it isn't raised at home it is quite likely to be too rare on the menu for a healthy diet.

In the Southwest orchards can be planted up to April in some sections, but generally speaking, February planting is preferable. If it is to be planted this year the trees and vines must be ordered and the ground prepared immediately. There is no part of the Southwest in which berries, grapes, or tree fruits, or all of them cannot be grown if the right sorts are chosen and proper attention given to planting and care afterward.

"For the small cost of $9 we have a home orchard which though only three years old produced fruit worth $35 in 1938 and I filled my pantry shelves with 147 quarts besides having fresh fruit five months," writes Mrs. B. F. Johnson, of Van Zandt county, Texas. Similar letter from all over Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma are in the hands of the writer, many of them from tenants who grow their own fruit on rented farms.

"It takes too long for fruit to come into bearing," say the procrastinators. "You're going to spend the time anyway," retort the others, "so why not have something to look forward to while time passes?"

As a matter of fact berries bear the second year and good nursery trees of peaches and plums the third year. Grape cuttings rooted this spring will fruit two years from now, while rooted vines from the nursery will bear next year.

"You'll never eat the fruit from the trees you are planting," said a visitor to E. L. Brown when planting 100 peach trees on his 78th birthday last year. "Trees were planted for me before I was born," was his reply. Somebody planted for us all, or we would be eating no fruit.

The orchard and vineyard already planted requires attention during the dormant period in the matter of pruning and spraying for scale insects. Spraying for the insects which attack the fruit begins at blooming time, and fungous diseases call for still other sprays during the summer. Every state has a horticultural specialist who will supply specific spray information on the different fruits and other pests, for his particular state. The county and home demonstration agents will gladly furnish reliable information on every phase of home orcharding, and will co-operate in every way possible with farm families who need and desire such information.

Local nurserymen are always willing to give information on adapted varieties in their territory, and a visit to the nursery permits the customer to see the kind of trees and plants he is getting. It has the further advantage that they can be immediately planted after digging or removing from the heel-yard, though trees properly wrapped may be safely shipped any distance if the customer gives them good treatment immediately on their receipt. That means either planting where they are to stay or "healing in" well so that the roots cannot dry out until planting.

A generation ago no farm was without its orchard. There is a strong movement back to home orchards and good eating now. Get in the swim.

Black Friday!

Today is one of 1939's two "double" bad luck days, but it won't bother Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and other habits of London's famous No. 10 Downing street. The above black cat, who has loitered on the Downing street doorstep since last summer, is considered a good luck omen.

MRS. CHARLEY BEATY PASSES AWAY DEC. 27

The loved ones and friends of Mrs. Charley Beaty were saddened December 27, 1938 when the death angel called Mrs. Beaty home on high in Glory, where she will be forever, with the faithful followers of Christ.

Miss Maude Simmons was born in Jefferson, Missouri December 14, 1884. She came to Texas with her parents when a small child. When she was 17 years old she was married to Charley Beaty. God blessed this happy union with 12 children, two of whom preceded her in death.

The ten living children were all at her bedside. They are Mrs. Pleas Berry, Dilly, Texas; Mrs. John Guthery, Oglesby; Mrs. Bud Cummings, Bronte, Texas; Mrs. Sam Williams, Waco; Edith, Paul Loyd and Henereta, all of the home; also several grandchildren.

Rev. Siler of Moody spoke the comforting words: the minister who had visited in her home and had spoken the comforting words in the passing of her last child, by whom she was laid to rest.

Mrs. Beaty gave her heart to Christ in early life and lived faithful until death.

She was laid to rest beneath a mound of flowers in the Bethel Cemetery. The flower girls were Allie Jackson, and Pearl Maxwell.

The pall bearers were John Guthery, Bud Cummings, Sam Williams, William Price, Clarence Beaty and Sam Worthington. Written by one who loved her, Pearl Maxwell.

Menus

If you plan a party for Valentine's day a cake will probably be part of the dessert plan. Here is one that will look "as pretty as a Valentine".

CHERRY CAKE
½ cup shortening

1¼ cups sugar
¾ cup milk
2 cups cake flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. lemon juice or 1 tsp. almond flavor.
4 egg whites
Measure shortening, sugar and ¼ cup of milk into mixing bowl. Beat until light and fluffy. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with remaining ½ cup of milk. Add flavoring. Fold in egg whites stiffly beaten but not dry. Use two 8-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes.

CHERRY ICING

In top of double boiler (over boiling water) put 2 egg whites, 1½ cups sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, one-third cup water. Beat with Dover egg beater 7 minutes while icing is cooking. Remove from heat, add ½ tsp. almond flavoring. Continue to cook until icing holds shape. Mix a third of icing with ½ cup diced maraschino cherries and ½ cup chopped almonds. Use as a filling between layers. Decorate with fancy cut cherries in heart shape in the center with a border of cherries around the edge.

FEATHER WHITE CAKE

Add ½ cup melted butter to 1 cup sugar. Add 2 well-beaten eggs and ¾ cup orange juice. Add 2 cups flour, 4 tsp. baking powder and ¼ tsp. salt, sifted together. Pour into greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Grate rind of two oranges, mix with 3 tbsp. sugar. Sprinkle on cake. Bake in moderate oven for 50 minutes.

If you want to serve something a bit out of the ordinary turn your attention to foreign recipes. They have a subtle difference in flavor that will appeal to jaded taste. Some of the following are typical:

ARABIAN CHOPS

4 shoulder pork chops
2 sliced onions
2 sliced tomatoes
2 tbsp. green pepper (minced)
1 tsp. salt
1 cup hot water
Sear the chops on both sides in a hot skillet. Place in a large shallow casserole. Arrange a few slices of onion and tomato on each chop and sprinkle with minced green pepper. Put salt and water in the skillet and heat, making a brown gravy. Pour this over the chops in the casserole and cover. Bake 1 to 1½ hours in a moderate oven.

SPAGHETTI MILANO

Combine canned spaghetti and diced frankfurters in a casserole. Top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes.

MEAT PIES FROM CHILE

To make crust, sift together 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt and gradually work in 5 tablespoons shortening. Add ¼ cup cold water and mix thoroughly, roll on floured board until not more than ¼-inch thick and cut in three 10-inch squares. Fry 1½ cups chopped raw meat until brown, add 2 small white onions, chopped, ⅛ tsp. paprika, salt and pepper and let simmer in ½ cup water 10 minutes, then cool. Place one-third of this mixture in center of one of the squares of the crust, on this place one-third of a hard-cooked egg, 1 tbsp. seeded raisins and 1 olive. Fold the crust over this filling curving them upward in boat shape to keep gravy from leaking. Brush top generously with egg yolk. Bake 25 minutes.

COURT: NLRB vs. FORD

Last April the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision important for its future implications than for its findings in the case at hand. Throwing out livestock commission rates set up at the Kansas City stockyards by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the court, by a 6 to 1 majority, said the hearings establishing the rates had not given the packers a "full and fair hearing". More important, the Court also warned all government agencies with quasi-judicial functions to follow "basic conceptions of fair play."

Quick to take the hint, the quasi-judicial National Labor Relations Board sought to withdraw an order pending in the Federal Circuit Court at Covington, Ky., commanding the Ford Motor Company to reinstate 29 discharged employees with back pay and cease "unfair" labor practices. The NLRB sought the withdrawal in order to make sure that its case against Ford would not collapse because of technical failure to give a "full and fair hearing".

Hoping to defeat the Labor Board on a technicality, Ford attorneys objected, maintaining the circuit court had already acquired jurisdiction and had either to declare the order invalid or have its terms carried out. Last week the Supreme Court unanimously sided with the NLRB, giving it permission to withdraw the order. To the contentions of Ford attorneys, the Court replied that it was "familiar appellate practice" for courts to remand orders without deciding on their merits.

SCIENCE NOTES

Man now has an instrument which makes the invisible visible, the unknown known. It takes men over a threshold thought before, impassable, and ushers them into a world where millions of an inch are of utmost importance. The instrument is the electronic microscope which can magnify objects as much as 1,000,000 times. At Richmond, the first public demonstration of two such microscopes was an historic occasion. Dr. V. K. Zworykin, television and microscopic expert of the Radio Corporation of America, operated them, throwing their magnifications on a circular viewing screen. He showed an atom as a visible speck of light, and displayed bacteria which appeared to be as big as a man's hand. In one demonstration, molecules could be seen darting across the screen; in others, germs could be seen digesting their food. Given such eyes, science can be expected to make tremendous strides in the conquest of ignorance. Causes and cures for obscure diseases may be found, and significant new discoveries in the basic sciences of physics, chemistry and biology may result.
