4-H CLUB BOYS HONORED BY TEXAS SWINE BREEDERS' ASS'N IN "APPECIATION" MEETING AT CITY HALL SAT. AFTERNOON

Some 30 4-H Club boys, growers of the Champion pigs for this year, were awarded a check for $100.00 by Henry Kunst of Clifton, a representative of The Texas Swine Breeders' Association. Elmo King, one of the boys acted as chairman of the meeting and a boy from each club told what they were planning for next year. J. C. Porter of the SCS discussed hog pasture. E. M. Regenbrecht of the Extension Service made a short talk, urging the boys to further work in the same direction, stating that they had made an enviable record, but there was still room for improvement. Guy Powell, County Agent also made a brief talk congratulating the boys, and telling them, that Coryell County would be heard from in the future in this business. Among those present from other cities and counties were Orice E. Sims, A. L. Miles, H. H. Weatherby, Hardy Hay, Dowl Naylor, and Cliff Day and son of Waco, M. B. Martin, Jr. vocational agriculture teacher of McGregor, County Agent Keith and four of his boys from Wise County, George Reddell of Dallas, big hog breeder and his herdsman, Ray Scoggins. Outstanding too, was the fact that 13 4-H boys out of 15 of the Copperas Cove club were present, with George Leonhard their president and T. E. Mangum, their adult leader. This is a signal honor to these boys who have been recognized by one of the biggest swine breeding associations in the world for their work in this field of work.

"RG&E" SHOW DRAWS 500 CLOSING NITE: POPEYE THERE

Popeye has come and gone—and, has delighted many, both young and old, with his A-1 performance with Lois, The Mystery Girl, who lectured on health, clean living and traffic safety at the Refrigeration, Gas and Electric show held in the gym Thursday and Friday nights. Also, on the previous evening, the Rythm Boys, and their Girl Friend, Miss Violet Cross, played their way into the hearts of the couple or three hundred present the first evening of the Refrigeration, Gas, and Electric Show. With Miss Cross were Garnett Raby, Forrest Lee, and Charles L. Ingram. They played piano, guitar, bas violin and violin respectfully. During the last evening of the show approximately 500 people were present, and for the first show there were some 300. Performances each evening began after revival meeting services closed. Pictures of the exhibits are shown on this page of the News. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dunham and sons of Houston visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Braden of Gatesville.

CITIZENS ATTEND WACO MEETING FOR CEN. TEX. C. OF C.

Friday's meeting of delegates and others from some 34 Central Texas counties and towns met in Waco and attempted to organize a Central Texas Chamber of Commerce. J. N. Edens of Corsicana was named temporary chairman and L. A. Wilson of Waco was named temporary secretary. Discussion of the new organization lasted most of the time before noon, and a committee was appointed, with delegates from each town represented to work out details of finance and organization which would be presented to the local chambers of commerce for their approval or disapproval. H. K. Jackson was selected to represent Gatesville. Others attending the meeting were: J. Hurl McClellan, president of the local chamber of commerce, County Judge Floyd Zeigler, J. O. Brown, Rufus Brown, Pat Holt, W. C. Guggolz, W. Mat Jones, and L. S. Holmes. Consensus of opinion seemed to be favorable to an organization of this character, which would cooperate and work with the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, with the view of getting more benefits from the "fringe" counties. No opposition was voiced to any of the present organizations and a Texas Chamber of Commerce was mentioned, but most agreed that the regional bodies were outgrowths of this organization, which was deemed a failure.

$2,000 SADDLE TO BE PLACED IN LOCAL STORE TODAY

Two thousand dollars worth of leather, leather work, gold and silver! It's unbelievable, but true. In addition, there is a bridle that goes with this saddle that is worth $275.00, and a breast collar valued at $325.00. Between the horse and the saddle, also, is a genuine Navajo blanket, woven by Navajo Indians. This is just another one of the big features you will see at Gatesville's Rodeo and Frontier Celebration, June 1, 2 and 3. But, wait! You can see this display TODAY in H. B. Davis Variety Store Window, where it can be locked up. It's too valuable not to be locked up. It was made by S. D. Myres Saddle Company of El Paso, if you care to buy one.

ZEKE SEZ

(Inside Out At Austin)
By NUGENT EZEKIEL BROWN

AUSTIN Tex.—(Special)—Flash! Here's hot news direct from the State Capitol!

With ten days to go of the regular session of the 46th. Texas Legislature and absolutely no agreed plan between the two houses as to how to pay the pensions to the old aged of Texas, the House of Representatives one day last week voted (without opposition) to spend $500 of the state's funds to investigate an organization, known as "Texas Pensions Union," the only active group hereabouts that is attempting to keep interest stirred up in payment of $30 pensions promised by most of the successful candidates last summer! Sponsored by Representative Jim Taylor of Kereens, the resolution was passed quickly. It really served to bring this organization into the lime-light as headlines screamed it that day and the next all over Texas. The writer has in hand a copy of the letter being sent out by the Texas Pensions Union. It was circulated in Austin Saturday. Bearing the name of Jan Anderson as campaign director, it calls attention to its newly acquired publicity:

"With a $500.00 House appropriation, they will squander time and State funds, and hope to discredit our work and your cause. And, this, folks, is the kind of 'helpful' friends the old people have in the House—a proof of why and how they continue to 'stall along' while you wait in need. We know the cause is right and what we do is right. And to you we appeal for steadfast confidence and dollar-bill support. And, to Mr. Taylor, we say—come on, we welcome your silly 'investigation'!"

Taylor, in support of his resolution, said "several old folks at home asked me if it was necessary to send a dollar to get their pensions".

Looking up Jan Anderson in his office in a downtown building, we never saw such a wad of mail as he was sorting. He laughed at what he called a "silly bluff" with reference to legislature's proposed investigation of the Texas Pensions Union.

He continued: "We know the cause is right and what we do is right, therefore we not only welcome, but we bluntly dare the legislature to conduct a full inquiry from the floor of the House before the public and give us the privilege of hooking up this hearing with a state-wide broadcasting system."

"Many people think the governor is behind this, but, despite all our calls to the governor and our telegrams to him, we have not yet been able to talk to him," Anderson declared. "But we believe that Governor O'Daniel will remain faithful to his campaign promises of last summer—for $30 pensions and, trusting that he appreciates our good faith to the old people and our aggressive assistance to the program—he promised in his campaign, we are backing him 100 per cent strong. And we mean strong in capital letters, for the Texas Pensions Union now has a membership covering more than 1000 towns in Texas."

Claudius B. Hodges Quits

In the meantime, news came from the office of Chairman Claude Teer of the Board of Control this past week that Claudius B. Hodges, for more than three years the so-called personnel director of the Old Age Assistance Commission headquarters in Austin, had resigned a few days ago. No reason for his resignation was made public. However, when eight members of the House held a conference with Chairman Teer one day last week, the latter assured them a new administrator also will be chosen soon if the legislature does not enact the Board of which would automatically call for a change in the administration of the pensions set-up here.

"We want the folks back home to know that we are going to see a different kind of administration of the old age pensions set-up here," declared Eugene F. Harrell of Lamar County, acting chairman of the group.

Representative Bundy of Wichita Falls said: "We feel most of the dissatisfaction with the pension question now is in the manner of its administration more than in what is being paid. If necessary, I know many of us would like to see a change in the Board of Control if it takes that to get a cleaning out in the office of the Old Age Assistance."

"It is safe to say now that many changes will be made in the administration of the old age pensions set-up," said Representative Bose Reader of Erath County. "We want the so-called social experts, the women supervisors imported from Wisconsin and other states, cleaned out of the set-up and men and women with sympathy for the problems of our pioneers put in their place in this organization which has grown into such a political machine."

Other members of the House hail the Board of Control's decision in this instance as a "real step in the right direction."

Organized Labor vs. Kunschik

In listening to the strong labor lobby here in Austin who were defeated in their efforts to name the labor commissioner, it seems the legislature is forgetting that there are ten times as many working men and women who do not belong to any union at all. The Labor Department is the only outlet whereby the governor can render service to the human side of governmental affair. And, since the senate and the governor named and confirmed a commissioner over the protests and marches of disgruntled warring labor factions, it is not consistent to withhold appropriations, thereby causing their choice to fail. They will restore the appropriation and give Joe Kunschik a duplicate of the last appropriation and give him a fair chance to make good, it is believed now.

Short shorts—Nineteen Austin loan sharks lost their effort to get a suspension of Judge Ralph Yarbrough's order they must comply with Texas laws when the Supreme Court denied them relief. Life is beginning to get hard for the boys who have been so hard on the other fellow. And the Legislature will likely rush thru a law against them in a few days.

A woman is being mentioned for appointment to the highway commission following failure of West to be confirmed. Most observers believe it is only a publicity gesture for Mrs. Hobby as none feel it is a fitting job for a woman, regardless of her ability otherwise. As Senator Manley Head points out, it is high time to encourage the good women of Texas to pay more attention to their homes, rather than seeking notoriety in politics.

It is only a few days now until it will be over! And none of the legislature feel any too proud of what has been done although they have, for the greater part, worked harder this session than for many years. Many members work day and night until utterly exhausted.

LOCAL ELEVEN LOOKING GOOD IN SPRING WORK-OUTS

The Hornet gridders are still hard at the grind of spring training and are making noticeable strides of improvement with each passing day. Blocking is being stressed to the uttermost, and by the time the boys are thru this spring, Worley hopes to have a really potent offense shaped up.

Jan Jones, big fullback, looked so good on running thru the line that Worley had him shifted to the tailback at time during the scrimmages. From that spot he ran wild, reeling off one long gain after another. This boy runs fast and hard, and has a tricky hip motion. He will be a great running threat next fall.

Jack Moore, lanky wingman, is co-starring with Jones during the daily workouts. He has been snagging the heavens thrown him by his backfield mates with amazing regularity, and has been blocking and tackling well.

Fisher Culberson, Jack Jackson, and Bob Foster have been alternating at the left halfback hole to round out a backfield composed of Jones, Kirkpatrick, Whigham one of the three little fellows, with Jackson seeing the most first string service. This boy will be a great offensive threat, as his passing is still as accurate as it was last fall and his ball carrying has been greatly improved.

Sexton, junior high graduate, is expected to fill the boots of the departing Bill Morgan, and from the looks of his work so far this fall, he will fill them well. This young man is tough as a boot. There is no fault to be found with his defensive work, as he has greatly improved on pass defense since the opening of spring session, but his blocking could improve.

The Hornets have five capable guards on hand; Red White, Gaddy McDonald, Ray Ward, Billy Oldham and Charles Sydow. All these boys can play football, and the guard spots will not worry Worley too much next year.

CLINTON CHAMLEE RECEIVES PRAISE FROM DISTRICT BUDGET SUPERVISOR

Clinton Chamlee, who is now budget manager of Goodyear's Overton store, last week received praise from his company's district budget supervisor on the splendid job he is doing.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired; men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders. You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

NAZI FUNNY MEN

If the U. S. Government were to forbid any theatre, radio chain or movie company ever again to hire Charlie McCarthy, Jack Benny or the Marx Brothers on the grounds that they had spoken flipantly of the WPA and the St. Lawrence Waterway—the situation would be very like what has frequently happened in Germany.

For months a popular cabaret actor named Werner Finck has been drawing packed houses by his trick of throwing up his arm in the beginning of a Nazi salute—only to adjust a picture on the wall. Last week Finck's career was over. He and four other vaudeville stars received notice from Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels that they had been expelled from the Reich Culture Chamber for having "desecrated things that are holy to us" Their crime had been to joke about the colonial problem, the four-year plan and Chancellor Hitler's building program. "This so-called humor turns our stomachs," cried Goebbels' newspaper, Der Angriff.

Next day Der Angriff grimly set out to prove to the world that "Nazis has a keen sense of humor." A joke contest with a 100-mark prize was announced. Germans were urged to "describe your humorous comrades, let us see funny verse written some time or other . . . Keep the humor decent and clean . . . We particularly appeal to workers on the western fortifications, on the arterial highways, and in factories . . ."

Only a few daring German actors and journalists have ever twitted Nazism publicly. Most of them are now in concentration camps. Yet, despite a maximum 10 year jail sentence for anyone who is heard repeating a joke on the government, the contraband wisecrack has flourished. Even orthodox Nazis could not resist whispering the one about why Hitler always sits in the front row at the theatre—"because that's one place where he has the people behind him."

THERE IS ONE TRUCK FOR EVERY SEVEN FAMILIES IN THE UNITED STATES!

Motor trucks are contributing much to sustain the high standards of living in the United States which are far above those of any other nation. There is one truck for every seven families in this country. Special additional automotive taxes paid by trucks total more than $400,000,000 annually. This is about 25 per cent more than all the taxes paid by all Class I railroads, which embrace 90 per cent of all rail trackage.

MANSFIELD TIRES

● Mansfield Tires are 3 Ways Safer because they are built three ways differently from other tires.

Mansfield Cord-Lock construction puts more tough cord fabric into the sidewall. Their wide, flat treads are made of Duro-mix rubber that wears longer in grinding service. Their high tensile piano wire beads are seven times stronger than actually needed.

Mansfield Tires equip thousands and thousands of cars and trucks in every part of the country today because wise motorists wanted Mansfields and bought Mansfields—they did not get them as equipment tires.

"YES, MY DARLING DAUGHTER" OPENS SATURDAY AT REGAL

Boasting one of the greatest comedy casts ever assembled, "Yes My Darling Daughter," the Warner Bros. screen adaptation of the sensationally successful stage comedy of the same title, will open next Saturday at the Regal theatre. In the romantic leads are those two charming youngsters, Priscilla Lane and Jeffery Lynn, who were such a heart-warming pair of young lovers in the memorable "Four Daughters." Their romance again travels a rocky road, but this time there is no tragedy about it. In fact, it's the nucleus out of which all the amusing complications of the hilarious story evolve. The more mature members of the cast have the delightful task of furnishing most of the laughs, and a mere recital of their names is sufficient guarantee that this task is well performed, for they include such past masters of the art of comedy as Roland Young, May Robson, Fay Bainter, Genevieve Tobin and Ian Hunter.

The screen play written by Casey Robinson and directed by William Keighley, is faithful in spirit to the stage original by Mark Reed. As a matter of fact, it is actually a satire on people who have "advanced" views on marriage.

How Tall Will Your Child Be?

At any age after six years, it is possible to determine the adult height of your child, according to Dr. Josephine E. Kenyon, who provides a chart for the determination of height, in an article in the May issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine. The height of the child should be accurately measured and recorded at each birthday in order to determine whether or not he has made the average growth expected at each age.

Johnny is Measured Annually to Record His Increase in Height.

The present median height of the average adult in the United States is 5 feet, 7 1/2 inches and the figures in this chart are based on this median height. If your child is two inches taller at each birthday than the figure on the chart, he is likely to reach an adult height of 5 feet, 9 1/2 inches. Boys who grow to be six-footers are usually 55 inches high at the age of nine, 63 inches high at the age of thirteen and 69 inches at the age of fifteen. If your son is consistently two inches shorter on each birthday than the figure in the median chart, he will probably attain a stature of only 64 1/2 inches when he is grown.

San Francisco Is Proud Of Its Name; So Don't Dare Call It Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, to Max Miller, noted "waterfront" writer, is something more than just a city of thousands of people engaged in the standard pursuits of trade and happiness. It is a drama, a philosophy which has stood a definite test of time and holds a magical interest for him.

San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge—"Man's Greatest Arch Over Space"—and Treasure Island, Site of the Fair, in the Background

"I shall be sorry the day I learn the answer why I like San Francisco," Mr. Miller confides in his article "Don't Call It Frisco" in the April Good Housekeeping. "The moment I should learn the answer—from that moment on San Francisco no longer will be the place it is for me."

But one suspects that of all the landmarks in the city, it is the bridges that come closest to supplying the answer. The bridges fascinate him. Take them away and San Francisco ceases to be for him. "Some day, of course," he sentimentalizes, "the Golden Gate bridge will be obsolete and ancient, and your grandsons will laugh at the bygone times when it meant so much and when so much ado was made about it. But when you are on that bridge today, in our generation, you do not laugh. You cannot laugh. The simplicity of man's greatest arch over space is too much for even fools to be foolish about while going across." San Francisco has a permanency about it, a true history, a lasting heritage that have never been endangered by periodic rises and falls in real estate. A building or a home or a store in San Francisco has a defined and permanent value and is used for what it was made. Natives take the permanency of their city seriously, and do not point out how "years ago I could have bought such and such a lot for so much and look at it now."

Getting down to the title of the article, Mr. Miller says it is a breach of rightness to call the city "Frisco." Natives resent it and with stern face will correct the speaker. The visitor invariably fumbles around for a moment, then remarks brightly, "But in Los Angeles the Los Angeles people themselves think nothing of calling it 'L.A.'" And invariably the answer comes back: "But there are no Los Angeles people." Visitors to the World's Fair—don't call it Frisco.

WHILE THINKING, NAPOLEON OFTEN WHITTLED ON THE ARMS OF HIS CHAIRS.

THE PRIVATE CAR of JAY GOULD MULTI-MILLIONAIRE OF THE 1860'S IS THE HOME OF A RAILROAD YARDMASTER AND HIS FAMILY IN TEXAS.

EVEN THE POOREST JAPANESE BATHE 4 AND 5 TIMES A DAY, YET IN THE U.S. EVEN WITH AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATING -- THE BATH IS STILL CONSIDERED A ONCE-A-WEEK CELEBRATION!

One of Napoleon's lesser known habits was his almost constant whittling while deep in thought or planning his extensive campaigns. Many of the Little Emperor's chairs as seen today in famous collections bear evidence of the marks of his knife—the arm pieces cut and hacked. Thus the penknife is more enduring than the sword.

For years the Japanese have made a rite of the bath—indulging four to five times a day. And despite the fact that the Saturday night bath in America is said to be one of our traditions, the widespread use of the automatic gas water heater provides a 24-hour hot water service in almost a million new or modernized homes.

Good Eyesight Depends On Intelligent Care

"YOU can buy fine, new, store teeth, capable of coping with the toughest steak. You can get wooden arms and legs that move and wiggle and function," says Maxine Davis, popular writer on medical subjects, "but you can never get any more eyes." In view of this it is especially unfortunate that eyesight is the gift we choose to ignore until the light dims, the printed page blurs or we have aches and pains, Miss Davis continues in an article, "You Have Only One Pair of Eyes," in Good Housekeeping Magazine for May.

The eye is an amazingly delicate and intricate mechanism set in an exposed position and yet it stands an incredible amount of wear and tear. Most people know appallingly little about eyes. They go to an oculist only when their eyes hurt them and they apply all the superstitious rules in an emergency.

Beefsteak is a time-honored remedy for "shiners" but the only real virtue of beefsteak is that it is a cold application. Flaxseed is a folk-lore specific for removing foreign substances in the eye. Flaxseed may be of some benefit if it doesn't deposit an infection while extricating the foreign substance. Oculists should be consulted immediately in all emergencies which involve the eyes.

There are two periods in life when the eyes should receive special care and attention—in infancy and early childhood and after the age of forty is reached. In the interim it is only necessary to exercise common sense. The first six years of life are especially important because that is a season of eye-growth and the chances of correction of defects in vision are the greatest.

Watch your child at play. Does he peer at his toys? Does he seem clumsy and apt to bump into things? Is he confused when you attempt to direct him toward a given object? Does he tire quickly or become irritable for no apparent reason? Does his body become tense and his eyes squint as he watches a moving object? Does he make movements toward his eyes as if endeavoring to brush something away? All these things are manifestations of faulty vision and should be attended to at once.

Early middle life is a time when everybody should visit an oculist at least once every year or two. This is the time when eyes begin to grow old. The medical term for this condition is Presbyopia and it is almost universal. At this age, degenerative diseases are also apt to make their onset and they often affect the eyes. Diseases of the central nervous system affect the optic nerve, and two serious eye afflictions may result: glaucoma and cataract. These can be treated much more successfully if they are detected in their early stages.

R. T. Bynum, director of the Eagle Band of Abilene High school is chairman of the band contest. His band won the WTCC official band designation at the Wichita Falls convention last year. Bands in Abilene will not be eligible for honors in the contest this year as they will be representing the host city.

American motion picture films shown in Brazil in the last year totaled 13,042,075 feet.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

FLY BY NIGHTS

WHENEVER Jeff Peters, the engaging hero in the book of O. Henry stories called "The Gentle Grafters," went into a new town and spread his samples of corn cure, ink remover, etc., out in front of him, he always took one precaution. He made note of how soon the next train left.

He had to. Jeff never knew what minute he'd have to fold up his kit and hot-foot it for the station, with policemen and angry customers in close pursuit.

He was that kind of business man. We call them "fly by nights." They still infest our cities and towns, but you never saw one of them advertise or build a lasting success.

The man who advertises for your patronage shows that he has foresight and courage. He wants to establish goodwill and to remain in business, and the best way for him to do these things is to send down roots and advertise so that you may come to him whenever you need what he sells.

Jeff Peters stands for the furtive parasite, hanging around the fringe of respectable society, dashing in and taking whatever he can, giving nothing in return, ready to flee at any minute, always expecting to have to flee.

The manufacturer or merchant who advertises, however, serves notice that he has become a member of the community and society. He announces that he intends to be your business friend and to warrant your patronage.

And you buy from such a man with perfect assurance that you will always get your money's worth. And you do.

It's possible for you to go into some stores and find merchandise which glib salesmen assure you is "just as good."

The fact that even they use advertised items as the standard of comparison, is proof enough that they recognize the permanent power of the force we call advertising.

You as a consumer get more for your money if, in all your buying, you avoid the Jeff Peterses of business and select whatever you need from the stores of merchants who advertise and who sell advertised goods.

A business organization which wants to get the most for the money sets up standards by which to judge what is offered to it, and in Washington the government has an elaborate Bureau of Standards.

You can have your own Bureau of Standards, too. Just consult the advertising columns of your newspaper. They safeguard your purchasing-power, every day of every year.

BANKERS ATTEND FETE FOR NATHAN ADAMS, DALLAS BANKER

Among those who attended the elaborate ceremonies and banquet honoring Nathan Adams, president of the First National Bank of Dallas Thursday night, were L. S. Holmes of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Company and Leake Ayres and Andrew Kendrick of The National Bank of Gatesville.

The celebration lasted three days, and included a banquet for the employees, for the so called "country" bankers and business friends and then open house for the "customers" of Dallas.

Financial and industrial leaders from over the United States were present at the ceremonies and attended the commemorative dinner honoring Mr. Adams.

Dates of this week are April 23 to 30.

And, here are some local merchants who, we believe, have anything you might want to go fishing with, unless, maybe you're going deep sea fishing.

Give these a break, that is, if you need fishing equipment: H. B. Davis Variety Store, Western Auto Associate Store, Hensler Hardware Store, John Graham, Perry Brothers, Leaird's Department Store, R. E. Powell, Gatesville Auto Supply, City Drug Store, Gatesville Drug Store, Koen-Foster Drug, Flentge Drug, Arnold Electric Company, and, we may have missed some.

Why do we do this? Friday, in Waco, we saw fishing equipment bought there by a member of a local merchant's staff,—which, we guess, is his business!

Anyway, these folks may be able to supply your particular fishing needs, if you're not too finaky. Many of these houses have window displays which we're simply calling your attention to.

Foster Motherhood New Career for American Women

THE homeless child and what to do with it are questions as old as humanity. The way America is meeting this poignant problem with efficiency and success is discussed by Genevieve Parkhurst in the May issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine in an article: "Standing in the Place of Mother." The article is not concerned with adoption, a selective and still somewhat limited approach to existing conditions of homeless youth, but with those thousands of American women of moderate means and modest homes who have made a career of foster motherhood. These women are selected by accredited children's agencies and paid a minimum allowance for the expenses of each child under their care. They are charged with providing a good home atmosphere, healthy surroundings and loving understanding of the child. This work, which is still in its pioneer stages, will undoubtedly have a marked effect on the lowering of crime statistics and tax burdens of the future.

As early as 1853, Charles Loring Brace of New York City, took a generous view of the status of the orphan child and founded the Children's Aid Society for the purpose of locating working-homes for stray boys. Dr. O. S. Saunders of Boston, with the help of a few citizens of vision, opened a New England Home for Little Wanderers which endeavored to prepare children of the streets for adoption. These early efforts were regarded by the public with distrust, but after the Civil War an army of vagrant children roamed the streets in most of the large cities of the country and constituted a problem which had to be dealt with. The aroused citizenry demanded action by state legislatures and for the first time laws were passed which strove to provide better conditions for parentless children.

Legal effort improved matters to a certain extent but the administration of these laws presented difficulties. Commercialization in foster homes assumed discouraging proportions and conditions were little better than those provided by institutions because the homes were chosen haphazardly and the allowances at the mercy of political patronage. Delinquency and death rates among orphan children mounted and after forty years of unsatisfactory administration, a climax was reached when conditions in foster homes were exposed in state after state.

Jane Addams, Lillian Wald and Julia Lathrop were militant pioneers in an effort to rectify the situation as it then existed. Science had advanced the theory of the all-important part of environment in the preparation of a human being for useful life. These women insisted that children of misfortune were not intrinsically different from other children if their physical and spiritual needs could be supplied.

DEDICATION OF TEMPLE OVERPASS TODAY: ON HWY. 36

Of interest to those, (and who isn't), interested in Highway 36, will be the dedication of the new Adams Avenue overpass in Temple at 2:30 today, which is a part of this highway. Chairman Robert Lee Bobbitt of the State Highway Commission will be the principal speaker.

Also at this meeting, it is said, all members of the Highway Commission will be present.

From Gatesville, Judge Floyd Zeigler, and Commissioner's court will probably be present, as well as the highway committee of the local Chamber of Commerce and many other interested citizens.

This is a particularly important link on this highway, especially, to Coryell County, since it may have been one of the reasons no more work has been done on this highway between Gatesville and Temple.

Those who can possibly make the trip are urged to be present for this dedication.

CHAPTER ONE SYNOPSIS:

Evils faces Missouri mule-breeders when the British Army withdraws its orders. Sweeney Bliss (Bob Burns), small-town bank director, who loves mules better than anything else in life is commissioned to find a new market. His wife, Julie (Gladys George), who has social ambitions, wishes Sweeney would give up the mule business. When a plane makes a forced landing on the Bliss farm, Sweeney and Julie investigate.

CHAPTER II

AS SWEENEY and Julie reached the plane, which had come to a halt in the deepest mud of the hog lot, the pilot opened the plane's door and stepped to the ground. But the mud was slippery and he sprawled full length.

Sweeney was chuckling as he aided the pilot to extricate himself. "Brother," Sweeney said, "once you get started you seem to have a passion for forced landings. I hope nobody's hurt serious."

"We're all right," the pilot replied. "There's only myself and two passengers—an elderly English couple."

"English?" Sweeney was deeply interested. At that moment the tweed-clad figure of an elderly Britisher appeared in the plane door.

"I say, pilot, can't you get us on dry ground?" the passenger suggested. "My wife can't wade through this mud."

"I can't move the plane with a broken oil line," the pilot replied.

"Samson will pull your flyin' machine out," Sweeney volunteered. Presently the plane was lurching across the hog lot as Samson strained at the harness. Suddenly from the distance came the sound of a dinner bell. Samson promptly stopped.

"Doggone it," Sweeney complained. "He always stops when he hears a dinner bell. He learned that plowin' fields. He thinks it's time to eat." He handed Samson a handful of hay and the mule resumed his forward progress as he munched the fodder.

When the plane reached dry ground the Englishman climbed down and assisted his wife, a sweet faced elderly woman wearing a hat of the "Queen Mary" type, to descend. "I'm Hector Arthur and this is Mrs. Arthur," the newcomer said. Sweeney introduced himself and Julie.

"I say—could you tell us what's the best hotel here?" Mr. Arthur inquired.

"Yes, I could, but after you saw it you'd think I was lyin' to you," Sweeney answered. "You'd better put up at our house—Mrs. Bliss and I'll be glad to have you, won't we, honey?"

"Of course," Julie smilingly agreed.

As Sweeney assisted Mr. Arthur in stowing the visitors' luggage in the Bliss guest room, the two men proceeded to get acquainted. Sweeney's droll wit delighted the Englishman and the latter's frankness and lack of pretension appealed to Sweeney.

Hopefully Sweeney brought up the subject of the British mule market but to his disappointment, Mr. Arthur knew nothing about it.

"We're having a little party tonight," Sweeney changed the subject, "and we want you to come. Of course, you don't have to dress up. Don't pay no attention to me. I'm the host here and I've got to sort of humor my wife—she's kinda high-toned. You know how women are. She wants me to wear white pants."

"I say—with all these guests you're sure we won't crowd you?"

"Don't worry, we always get along some way," Sweeney chuckled. "Why, the last time my wife's folks piled in on us, I had to take the front door off and put it on the bath tub. I slept on that. It wasn't bad either. But, of course, around four in the morning it did get a little chilly around the letter slot."

ney went into a series of trick throws, climaxing it with a blind pitch over his shoulder which ringed the peg. "That's what I call my Razz-ma-tazz shot," Sweeney grinned.

"I say! That's deucedly adroit," Mr. Arthur agreed. "May I try?"

Sweeney handed Mr. Arthur a horse shoe and the latter, over Sweeney's protest, insisted on trying the "Razz-ma-tazz." The horse shoe hurtled through the air and landed on Julie's victrola, completely wrecking it and thereby bringing the dancing to an end.

Over their ice cream and cake, Sweeney, Joel and a number of the mule breeders gathered in Swee-

Having no interest in modern dancing, Sweeney and his mule men organized a horseshoe-pitching contest in the brightly-lighted yard.

Mr. Arthur eyed Sweeney suspiciously but the latter's face was absolutely serious.

Julie's party delighted the visiting English couple. They particularly enjoyed the dancing of a Missouri "hoe-down" which Sweeney organized and called. Presently Mr. and Mrs. Arthur joined the Junction City socialites and Sweeney's mule breeders in the figures of the dance.

When a modern dance record on the victrola was substituted for Sweeney's fiddle and "Turkey In the Straw," Lola and one of the local lads swung into a one-step. Presently Joel Street, his face and hands grease stained, cut in. "I've been helping the pilot fix the plane," he explained.

"Was that more important than having the first dance with me?" Lola demanded.

"No, honey." Joel's lips brushed her hair. "If I run home and change my face, will you forgive me?"

Lola sighed and nestled closer to him. "Don't you ever change your face, Funny-Face," she whispered.

Having no interest in modern dancing, Sweeney and his mule men organized a horse-shoe pitching contest in the brightly lighted yard. Mr. Arthur was a fascinated spectator as Sweeney won the championship with a series of deadly accurate shots at the peg. For the Englishman's entertainment Sweeney suggested a long distance call to the Department of Agriculture in Washington. No sooner said than done. But to their disappointment, they learned that Captain Brooks-Bowen, the attache at the British Embassy, who was in charge of all mule purchases, had gone to Kansas City.

"He must have gone to the American Royal Stock show," Joel suggested.

"I'll bet that's it—he's shopping around to see where he can get the best mules," one of the farmers agreed.

"We should have had one of our mules there," another breeder muttered. "Sweeney, why don't you enter Samson?"

"Think of it! If Samson'd win the blue ribbons right in front of this Brooks-Bowen," another farmer pointed out. "And if we had a man like Sweeney there who could tell some good tall stories about Missouri mules, it would help. Sweeney, it's up to you."

"But the show's on now and the last train has gone," Sweeney protested. "They're having the mule judging tomorrow."

Mr. Arthur had been an interested listener. Now he spoke up. "I've been talking to my pilot and he tells me the plane is repaired. Why don't you take Samson to Kansas City."

THINKING OUT LOUD

(Lynn Landrum in Dallas News) Improving Conditions

You should always welcome a chance to test out your thinking. Do you think—or do you merely react to likes and dislikes? Ordinarily a man can't tell about himself. Here is a test. What, for example, do you think of these words?

"The only hope for improving present conditions, restoring employment, affording permanent relief to the people and bringing the nation back to its former proud position of domestic happiness and of financial, industrial and commercial leadership in the world, lies in a drastic change in economic and governmental policies."

Do those words anger you? Is your gorge rising?

Whence They Came

The words quoted are the third paragraph of the Democratic platform of 1932. They were aimed at Herbert Hoover. They made Republicans angry then—because they fitted 1932. Do they make you angry now—and, if so, do they make you angry because they fit 1939? Be honest with yourself while alone with yourself in the secrecy of your own thoughts. (If you can't be honest with yourself, what then?)

1. Do "present conditions" still need "improving"?
2. Has "employment" been "restored"?
3. Have we any "permanent relief" thus far?
4. Have we brought "the nation back to its former proud position of domestic happiness and of financial, industrial and commercial leadership in the world?"
5. Have we effected "a drastic change in economic and governmental policies?"

The Complaint of 1932

What were those evils of the "present condition" in 1932? The platform sets them forth in its second paragraph—immediately preceding the paragraph already quoted. The wicked Republicans, said we righteous Democrats of 1932, had—

1. "Ruined our foreign trade." (Add 1938 exports of merchandise to 1938 imports of merchandise and correct the 59c dollar, and you get almost exactly the same as the total for 1932!)
2. "Destroyed the value of our commodities." (Cotton price, 1932, was 6.5c per pound—1939 price 7.5c, or, corrected for 59c dollar, less than 4.5c, the lowest gold price in history.)
3. "Crippled our banking system." (The new deal closed all banks, opened the sound ones, guaranteed their bank deposits—and expropriated all their gold.)

4. "Robbed millions of our people of their life savings." (The new deal compels social security savings by pay roll tax—and diverts every penny of those savings to current new deal expenditures.)
5. "Thrown millions more out of work." (Unemployment in 1932 10,000,000; unemployment in 1939, 10,000,000.)
6. "Produced widespread poverty." (The current 1939 budget is immeasurably the greatest in history on the theory that the need is now greater than ever.)
7. "Brought the government to a state of financial distress unprecedented in times of peace." (New deal augments that financial distress to the point of doubling the national debt since 1932 notwithstanding that federal taxation exceeds any record in peace or in war.)

Do these "present conditions" of 1939 need bettering?

The mail route from Rock Creek, Wyo., to Etchetah, Mont., established in 1878, was one of the longest star routes ever opened. Its length was 500 miles. In early days the mail was carried in the pockets of postment on horseback.

By Boat and Car They Flock To Fair

Descending upon the "magic city" in the middle of San Francisco Bay, gleaming white in the sunlight and glowing in warm, pastel shades of glamorous color at night, crowds broke all attendance records for Expositions in early days on Treasure Island. Here hundreds of autos roll smoothly through the entrance gates while a ferry boat (upper left) leaves the slip after carrying thousands from San Francisco to the World's Fair.

SOCIAL SECURITY FUNDS ARE NOT THERE

Imagine the feeling you would have if you went to the bank and found the money you had been depositing was not there. What would you think if the cashier told you he had spent the money but had put some of the bank's I. O. U.'s in its place.

That is exactly what is happening to the money that is being paid into the government by workers and employers for unemployment compensation and old age pensions. More than $670,000,000 has been paid to the government for that purpose. Only $11,000,000 has been paid out in claims thus far. The balance is supposed to be in a separate fund in the treasury but it isn't there.

What has happened? There was a joker in the social security law. It provided that social security should be kept in a separate fund but it also provided that the funds could be invested in government bonds.

As the government has needed money for operating expenses, it has not dared to go to the people and get it in the form of taxes because it knew there would be a revolt if the people were required to dig up enough money to pay all the tremendous cost of the New Deal. So it took the money out of the social security fund and put government bonds (government I. O. U.'s) in its place.

Unless the law is changed, when it comes to pay your claim for unemployment compensation or old age pension the treasury will be required either to default or tax you and the rest of the nation again to get the money.

WIFE-SLAPPING

In the United States, "cruelty" as ground for absolute divorce is not recognized in the District of Columbia and seven states. What constitutes "cruelty" in the remaining states is generally left to the discretion of the presiding judge at a divorce action.

Last week the views of one such judge created no little stir in court circles and among experts on human relations. In Chicago, Judge Philip J. Finnegan denied a divorce to Mrs. Mary Kuhar, 21, who had accused John Kuhar of "cruelty". She testified he had slapped her face twice.

Said Judge Finnegan: "That wasn't cruelty within the meaning of the law. Cruelty must consist of violence great enough to endanger life. A man has a right to slap his wife as hard as he wants if he doesn't kill her, and if more husbands slapped their wives there would be fewer divorces."

What at least one other jurist thought of this ruling was made evident a few days later by Magistrate Jacob Dogole of Philadelphia. Ordering bonds for two husbands accused of beating their wives, Judge Dogole snapped: "This isn't Chicago."
