WE KNOW!

We know we have competition.

We know that neighboring towns are offering you special inducements by telling you they have turned their enormous stocks over to department heads and asked them to sell it regardless of cost.

We know that some stores are marking their merchandise sky high and then marking it down in order to offer you a big saving.

We know that thousands of schemes are being offered trying to mislead the public.

We know that some stores have two prices.

Still we say "Shop and Compare, You'll Buy Here and Save." Check our everyday prices. It is the price you actually pay that counts, not what the former price was and then the sale price.

Our Business is showing an increase over a year ago. Everyday we see new faces, some of them live 30 miles from Gatesville. The reason for this is because our merchandise is bought right and our low operating cost enables us to sell it right.

When you buy merchandise at Painter's we don't have to charge enough profit to pay high price large city taxes, neither do we have presidents, vice-presidents, secretaries, credit managrs, and an expensive office force.

In some cases the large operator may buy cheaper but this is questionable. We more than make up for this on our low operating cost.

That's why our business is growing. Every day thrifty buyers are finding out they can buy at lower prices at Painter's.

Garland Holt was one of the High individuals of the entire crops contest. In the judging of grain sorghums, Garland Holt and Robert Gilmore were high individuals.

SPORT SCROLL

Well, the softball season will get under way with a bang Friday night as a local all-star aggregation engages the highly touted Wood Bros. team of Waco. Wilson will be in the box for the locals, and the rest of the team will be composed of a mixture of the Coca-Cola and Firemen teams. These boys have been working out for the past two weeks, and should be ready to go Friday night. The game is for the benefit of the local Boy Scouts.

Today at the Pidcoke picnic the local Hornet nine will meet the Pidcoke team in the annual picnic ball game. The Hornets will have a hard time winning this contest, as the Pidcoke team boasts of some heady veteran performers. It is not known who will pitch for the locals, because Barton may save Otis McBroom, the Hornet's No. 1 hurler for the Allen Academy game Saturday. If this should be the case, Rutherford will probably toe the rubber for the locals. Rutherford has been bombarded with base hits every time he has toed the rubber this season, showing none of the effectiveness he displayed at times last year. Unless he does a sudden about-face, he is likely to be hit often and hard Friday. The only relief pitcher the Hornets have is Pudgy Perryman, and it is doubtful whether he could hold the Pidcoke boys in check. The Hornets, however have a line-up that is sprinkled with sluggers; therefore it is likely to be a slugging bee Friday.

The Hornet gridmen are still at the hard grind of spring training, and the club is shaping up nicely. The Hornets will have one of the best backfields in the district next fall, but the line is still doubtful.

The Hornet nine suffered its second straight set-back Saturday as the Allen Academy club knocked Rutherford out of the box, and slugged their way to a 12-4 win. The payoff blow came in the 4th frame when the Schoolboy walked three men and then slipped a home run ball to one of the Academy sluggers.

The Hornets will return their game Saturday, and it is likely that McBroom will start on the mound for the Hornets.

MRS. JIM SHULTS, TEXAS PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

Mary E. Andrews, affectionately known as Aunt Mollie, was born at Birdsville, Tarrant County, Texas, January 29, 1854, and was married to Jim M. Shults, June 12, 1870. Aunt Mollie was a small child at the beginning of the Civil War, but she well remembered the hardships of those days, having spent her time at the spinning wheel and loom. She also remembered Tarrant County being very thinly settled, and herds of antelope and deer roamed over the range; at times the country was visited by wild Indians, who would steal horses and cattle and do other cruel things.

In the year of 1873 Aunt Mollie and Uncle Jim moved to Coryell County and made it their permanent home. She was known among her neighbors as being dependable and her ever willing hand toward the sick. She was always faithful to her duties as a friend and neighbor.

She joined the Missionary Baptist Church at Spring Hill in early life. She was a good wife and a loving mother as they were blessed with nine children, three preceded her in death. Her husband passed away about 1921 and about a year after their Golden Wedding anniversary. After his death Aunt Mollie lived among her children until her death March 11, 1939, at the home of her son, Lee, near Dallas.

Another pioneer is now sleeping that peaceful sleep in a home not made with hands, where her trials of life is one but her good deeds and acts of kindness are not forgotten by those who knew her.

The surviving children are Mrs. J. F. Whigington, Rochelle, Texas, Mrs. J. A. Bradford, Dallas, Mrs. W. H. Honeycutt, Gatesville, Mrs. Tom Logan, Pidcoke, Mrs. Tony Peck, California, Lee Shults, near Dallas; three brothers, Rensy, Jabby, and Bob Andrews; a host of grandchildren and great grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Brown at the Friendship Cemetery, where the body now lies beside her companion.—Written by a friend.

'Maid of Cotton' Talks Shop With Fashion Editor

DEMONSTRATION AGENTS OFFICE

Children and Blasting Caps
Renewed efforts are now being made by county agents, teachers, and safety organizations in all parts of the country to lessen the number of accidents occasioned by children playing with blasting caps.

These accidents often result in children being blinded, or losing fingers or hands, and thus going thru life in crippled condition. In some cases children are killed.

Most of these accidents occur in country districts where children find the caps in the neighborhood of blasting operations, weher in many cases, they have been left by careless workmen. Playing with these caps—such as picking them with nails, hitting them with hammers, or throwing them into bonfires, usually results in an accident.

Blasting caps are small copper cylinders used to detonate explosives in mines, quarries, construction work, and in blasting ditches, stumps, boulders. They are closed at one end and loaded with a sensitive and powerful explosive. Electric blasting caps are similar to the regular caps except that they have wires attached and detonated by an electric current from a blasting machine.

When the cap explodes small articles of copper fly in all directions. Any child nearby may be hurt.

All parents and teachers are requested to warn children not to play with these blasting caps, but when they do find one, to notify an officer of the law or other responsible adult.

The number of children injured by playing with blasting caps in the past two years is as follows:

1937 ..... 165 children

1938 ..... 206 children

Every effort is being made this year to reduce the number of accidents. We hope you can help in this.

Remember the best dressing for avocado pears, according to connoisseurs, is a tart thin French one. Many people, however, prefer merely lemon juice and salt.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR OATS

The general opinion seems to be a short oat crop this season as rainfall for the past few months has been below normal. But not so with Dr. W. W. Blankenship of Mosheim who states, "I expect to harvest a good crop of oats, as they are uniform in height, have plenty of growth and are not suffering for moisture. There is no doubt that this condition is the result of the terrace system, strip-cropping, contour tillage and crop rotation that I have put into practice on my farms with the help of the Soil Conservation Service, CCC Camp at Gatesville."

ZEKE SEZ

By NUGENT EZEKIEL BROWN

AUSTIN, (Spl.)—The regular session of the 46th Legislature is rapidly drawing to a close here in Austin with no tax yet passed for payment of the State's social security program.

Much of the time of the House was spent last week arguing over whether or not to punish one Jan Anderson, campaign director of the Texas Pensions Union which has been enlisting memberships from the old folks. Many members believe the action of the House in citing Anderson for contempt for failing to appear and testify before a committee charged with investigating his organization merely served to give Anderson advertising which placed his story on the front pages of the big dailies for several days. He will likely have to pay a fine and may have to serve several days in jail but he succeeded in keeping the 150 members of the House of Representatives waiting in vain for his appearance before them on last Friday morning. Many publicity men would give hundreds of dollars for such publicity. In the meantime, the House rushed thru a bill which will make it a felony to solicit money from any beneficiary of old age pensions for membership in any kind of organization designed to help them get more and larger pensions.

No Agreement Yet on Pensions Tax

The House of Representatives, at the week end, did not know which way to turn for the long-desired passage of pensions tax legislation. Although the House passed a tax bill two weeks ago and sent it to the Senate, the latter group sent it to a sub-committee where it still was resting peacefully at the beginning of this week. A test vote in the House Friday showed the advocates of the sales tax amendment could muster only 82 or 84 votes, whereas they need 100 for the passage of the Senate Joint Resolution which includes the sale tax proposal. So it looks like there will be several days at $5 per day for the legislators if they stay in Austin long enough to get together on pension money raising.

Worry About Appropriations

The biggest worry around Capitol Hill this week end is on the part of department heads and employees regarding the departmental appropriations for the next two years. What appeared disastrous ten days ago in the way of appropriations for the Labor Department has turned around and it is now predicted that this department will suffer less cuts than probably any other department. This speaks well of the House and Senate who a few days ago were being charged with an attempt to "confiscate" this department because of alleged pressure for a few labor leaders.

Liquor Board Set-Up Uneasy

The Liquor Control Board set-up, which reduced its appropria-

JOAN MAKES BOW AS LIVELY BRUNETTE

A new brunette recently appeared in Hollywood in the person of Joan Bennett, long one of the screen's most pronounced blondes.

Miss Bennett is seen with dark tresses thru almost the entire length of "Trade Winds," the Walter Wagner picture opening at the Regal Theatre on Saturday in which she is co-starred with Fredric March. She appeared as her natural self during only the first two days of production.

In the story, after a man is murdered in San Francisco, Miss Bennett flees to Hawaii and there has her hair dyed as a means of disguise before she proceeds to Japan and other countries of the Far East.

Subsequently March, as a romantically inclined detective, pursues her thru China, Indo China, Ceylon, Straits Settlements and India before he finally puts the handcuffs on her in the little known Laccadive Islands. Thus, studio attaches had to get acquainted all over again with Joan Bennett, brunette.

"Trade Winds" is released thru United Artists.

tions voluntarily nearly a quarter of a million dollars, may yet suffer more reductions, it was learned at week end. While Administrator Bert Ford is admitted to be a great strategist in his dealings with the legislature, yet is too well known that many employees of the Liquor Control Board are relatives of members of both the House and the Senate. There is a great undercurrent of resentment against the three-quarter of a million dollar appropriation for this set-up which may find a way out thru last-minute consideration of appropriations for the department. It would be interesting to see names of all relatives carried on this payroll.

Solons Not Too Keen For Cox

Many members of the Legislature feel Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Department head, has attempted to put something over on them at this session. It is fresh in their minds that he has kept an ex-member of the House, Raglin Jones of Eddy, on the payroll at $250 per month to lobby with legislators and that an attempt was made to put thru a 50-page sanitary code bill which had sections which would have given the dear doctor dictatorial powers over all health activities in Texas. While this code bill was defeated in the House, yet the health director requested an enormous appropriation, allowing room for a big cut. This has angered the membership of the appropriations committee some of whom freely dub Cox as a "bungling politician with dictatorial ambitions."

Governor O'Daniel Gets Praise

The people of Texas have cause and will continue to praise Governor O'Daniel for utterances and action on his part in taking a stand against all regulatory measures. This was noted particularly in the Governor's recent action with reference to the price-fixing barber bill. The Governor first asked for and got an opinion from the attorney general which was to the effect that barber law would be unconstitutional. Then Governor O'Daniel vetoed it. Now the so-called "Fair-Trade" bill may go to the Governor's desk as it appears possible the Senate may act on it this week. Since it is price-fixing in nature like the barber bill, we say the people of Texas will be found very grateful that Governor O'Daniel is taking a firm stand with regard to such bills and vetoing them. His mail should and will include many letter commending his action on these matters.

Loan Shark Bill Up This Week

While members of the legislature were in Houston Saturday as guests of the Salesmanship club for its annual gridiron dinner, a few stayed behind to work on legislation for this week. One bill due for consideration this week was the Homer Leonard loan shark bill to which some objection was raised because it permits a "service charge." On the other hand, its backers point out that the loan shark is fighting this bill, a clear indication it would be too regulatory for him to stay in business. Members of the legislature attending a private preview of the movie "Sam Houston the Man" at a local theatre Thursday night last week were shown a short film of the "Crime Prevention" series in which the loan shark racket was shown in vivid detail. The picture was most convincing. In the meantime, some 13 Austin loan sharks are on trial in district court here.

Short Shorts

The Dallas News editorializes against the bill the legislature passed last week in remitting some six million dollars in taxes back to Harris County "the richest county in Texas." Some eight East Texas counties, the "poorest counties in Texas", failed to get a tax remission bill thru for themselves.

The race for the next speaker of the house (1941) already is warming up. We believe this is a little premature. How do they know they will come back in 1940?

The Legislature has cut the salary of Dr. Sellards, director of the Texas Memorial Museum, located on the University campus, from $5000 to $4000. They should have gone further and demanded that Garland Adair, given a minor salary at the Museum, be made director of same. Garland Adair is the father of the museum and spent years of his time in promoting and bringing it to a reality. The Board of Regents and University faculty today wish to forget that the American Legion and Garland Adair are responsible for the great museum.

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1939

NUMBER 39

By JAMES D. McALEXANDER

Every dog has his day, and today is mine. Mr. Poage has suggested that I write this week in order to give still a different slant on life in Washington and activities of our office and its workings. This time of the year makes one want to get back home, especially when some kind friend drops in for a short visit and leaves a few Bluebonnets and tells us how pretty things are at home.

Each Congressman is allowed two people in his office. Mr. Poage has a secretary, E. L. Upshaw of Belton, and the writer. In addition, Mr. Bonner Jennings of Marlin has a job here in the building (his position is what is known as a patronage position—each member of the majority party having the right to name one employee around the Capitol). His hours are not long and he helps out in our office in his spare hours and handles the distribution of almost all of the literature we mail out. Mrs. Poage is, herself, a stenographer, and she has a desk and typewriter (incidentally one which the Congressman bought himself), and while she is not on the payroll, she puts in an average of ten hours each day handling much of the dictation and typing that has to be done. I also spend most of my time doing dictation and other letter writing. One great difficulty in the office is that Mr. Poage must be out of the office so much that it is hard to find time to get the dictation done, and we cannot write the letters until Mr. Poage has a chance to dictate them. This he tries to do early in the morning before his committees begin to meet, but he is often interrupted by visitors. Later in the morning he has to attend committee meetings, then the sessions of the House, and often he has to go to town to see some department. However, Mr. Upshaw does some of this work, and gets lots of the information required to answer various letters. We get requests for all kinds of information. We are always glad to try to furnish it, but very few people realize that we can only phone and write to various agencies trying to find the answers just as any other individual. There is no one to whom we can refer these requests for answers. So it is with publications. We are furnished only a very limited number of most publications, and in many cases, none at all. We cannot get nearly all of the documents that some people write for, but we are glad to try, and only hope that you will understand if we don't get what you ask for.

No doubt some of you have written us for one reason or another and failed to receive an answer by return mail. This can be accounted for usually because of the very very slow action and red-tape of the departments. For instances, two weeks ago yesterday Mr. Poage wrote to a department asking for certain information and so far we have received no reply. Thus, you can see how hard it is for us to answer each and every letter the day we get them. At any rate, it takes six days for regular mail to go to and from Texas. I trust that you will, when you write us, be patient and try to realize how difficult it is for us to get an answer back from the departments and at the same time give personal attention to each and every letter. Mr. Poage does give each letter his personal attention, and tries to give you an answer the same day they come in if possible. Sometimes, we have more than we can physically answer, and then it means night sessions over the typewriter and shorthand book. In spite of all that, your letters are solicited any time and as often as you feel that we can be of any possible service to you.

We have two organizations on Capitol Hill for employees of our Congressmen; one called The Secretaries Club, and the other called Little Congress. The former is primarily for training and exchanging ideas. In these meetings, which are held each week, we share the experiences and knowledge gained by other members in contacting departments, bureaus, and agencies, suggestions as to the best and most prompt manner in which to secure information to enable us to better serve our constituents. The Little Congress is an organization composed of those employed in connection with the Congress, in which, open discussions and debates are carried on at the weekly meetings. Subjects are the same bills as debated on the Floor of the House, using the same rules as those used in the House. This enables us to improve our presentation of cases we have to put before various governmental agencies. We for a great many contacts that are valuable to us in our work here, and oftentimes we are privileged to have guest speakers from the departments who instruct us and discuss the workings of the departments and their policy.

We are fortunate to have quite a number of visitors from Texas, some of whom are not actually from our district, but as long as they are from Texas we feel like neighbors in a strange land. We furnish those who desire them with cards and letters of introduction to The White House, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the F. B. I., Library of Congress, and to the House and Senate galleries. We are glad to show these visitors around as much as possible and at the same time keep our office open and going to take care of the work. We have quite a number of visitors coming up from home, more than would be expected to come this long distance. We are always glad to see them, and hope that someday you may be one of these visitors.

I'M FROM MISSOURI

STARRING BOB BURNS

with GLADYS GEORGE

CHAPTER FOUR SYNOPSIS:

Ruin faces Missouri mule-breeder unless Sweeney Bliss, small-town bank director, succeeds in getting the British Army to continue its orders. Captain Brooks-Bowen, the Army's purchasing agent, suggests that Sweeney go to London to see the Captain's superior personally. Sweeney is astounded to learn that his wife, Julie, and her sister, Lola, also are going to make the trip. Julie has social ambitions and is seriously encouraging a romance between her sister and Brooks-Bowen.

CHAPTER V

THE arrival of the Bliss family in England was a day long remembered by the British customs officials and a field day for the porters. Bent on conquering London society, Julie had insisted on buying huge wardrobes for both herself and Lola.

The inspector glanced through the letter and handed it back to Sweeney. "Mr. Bliss, I hope this letter will enable you to land the mule before the usual six months' period is over. But I'm only a customs inspector and until I receive other orders the mule must remain in quarantine."

Julie was delighted. "At least we won't have to enter London with that mule on our hands," she remarked.

"You don't think I'd leave him?" Sweeney was truly shocked at the thought.

Julie flared up. "You can stay here with the mule if you want to, but I'm going to London!" Sweeney's hurt expression brought a sudden right-others. The factory is running at capacity now—

"Because when I go after an order I've got to land it," Porgie explained impatiently. "Why, if I let a mule man beat me, I couldn't face my own salesmen—I couldn't belong to my own 'Hundred Percent Club.'"

As the Blisses' abundant luggage was being stowed aboard the London train, Sweeney and Julie found themselves alone together for a moment.

"Honey, I'm gonna feel awful lonesome without you," Sweeney said mournfully. "There just don't seem to be anybody to talk to when you ain't around."

Before Julie could answer, Allison and Porgie joined them. "I'm sorry to hear about the Quarantine, Sweeney," Allison said sympathetically, "and I hope Samson will have a better stand than the one we fixed up for him in the hold—"

Julie interrupted. "The hold? What do you mean?"

"Yes, didn't Mr. Bliss tell you? We fixed up a very comfortable mule nest—in the hay." She grinned and swung away. "Good luck," she called over her shoulder.

Sweeney's eyes followed her. "She's a pretty good sport," he said admiringly.

Julie glanced at him with sudden suspicion. "Do you think so?" she said coolly. Again her mood changed suddenly. "Oh, Sweeney, I can trust you, can't I? Being down here by yourself, I'm not sure I want to go to London."

"Now, honey, of course, you do." Sweeney protested. "You and Lola can't live next to a mule barn until they let Samson out of quarantine."

"All aboard!" the conductor shouted.

Brooks-Bowen and Lola had been deep in a conversation of their own. Now they hurried forward.

"Hurry, Mrs. Bliss," the Captain urged as he assisted Lola into the train carriage.

Julie threw her arms around Sweeney's neck and clung to him. "Darling, I'll miss you," she sobbed. "I'll come down to see you every week-end—really I will."

Sweeney kissed her tenderly. From the train came a warning whistle.

"Please hurry, Mrs. Bliss," Brooks-Bowen called from the doorway of the carriage.

Sweeney patted his wife's shoulder. "I hope you don't think I'm too fresh," he said with a boyish grin, "but I love you, honey. Now scoot!"

As the train started to pull out, he boosted Julie aboard. For a moment they exchanged waves. Then the train was gone.

Suddenly Sweeney was very lonely. He watched the train disappear in the distance and then turned disconsolately away.

"Doggone it," he muttered, kicking aimlessly at a nearby baggage truck. "Here I am on my second honeymoon—with a mule!"

The arrival of the Bliss family in England was a day long remembered by the British customs officials.

Only Sweeney and his battered old trunk remained unchanged. Both of the feminine members of the family had huge mountains of new luggage.

Captain Brooks-Bowen was on hand to assist and through his efforts and influence the customs inspection was speeded considerably. Finally the last bag was examined and closed.

"Is there anything else?" the customs inspector inquired.

"Yes, sir—there's a mule," Sweeney volunteered.

"A mule, sir?" The inspector struggled manfully to maintain his British imperturbability.

"Yes—you know, mule," Sweeney explained.

"Oh, that mule!" Julie was thoroughly exasperated by Samson's presence in England.

"Live stock may not be landed, sir. Your mule must remain in quarantine six months," the inspector pointed out.

Sweeney produced a letter. "Yes, I know that. But, my friend, Captain Brooks-Bowen got this askin' you to please let the mule land."

about-face. "Oh, Sweeney, we're fighting," she said contritely.

"Are we?"

"I know; it's me," Julie was humble. Then she remembered Samson and her mood changed. "Or that mule, rather. All of our differences are over him," she added.

In another part of the customs shed, Porgie and Allison Rowe were having their baggage examined.

Porgie was impatient.

"Hurry, Allison. I want to keep Brooks-Bowen under my eye. We've crossed on the same boat with the Blisses. Let's go to London on the same train with them and the Captain." Porgie sniffed. "When I'm after a customer I'm a blood hound."

"Porgie, why don't we go straight through to Dover and spend the season in the South of France?" Allison suggested.

"Why? Because if I don't get in there and pitch—and beat Sweeney Bliss to the punch—I may beaced out of this British Army order by a mule man."

"But why don't you let him sell his mules?" Allison urged. "If you get this order, you'll have to cancel

EAGLETS BARELY MISS DEATH-PLUNGE; LOSE TRY AT WORLD RECORD

FRESHMAN MILE RELAY TEAM

Denton—Fate snatched an official world's record from this brilliant medley relay team of freshmen from the North Texas State Teachers College when one of their number went to sleep at the wheel of the automobile taking them to the Penn Relays in Philadelphia and the care turned turtle on a mountain road near Johnson City, Tenn.

Most seriously hurt: Big Ed Rogers, anchor man (left), who lost two fingers on one hand, and Dean Theron J. Fouts, director of athletics at the College, who, with Bob Hanna, varsity runner, also were in the car. The automobile was completely wrecked and barely missed plunging the entire party to their death down an 80-foot embankment into a river below.

Coming as it did, near the close of the track season, the accident apparently killed all possible hopes of an official world record clocking. Recently in Denton the Eaglet team slashed 1.8 seconds off the world freshman and junior college mark of 3:19.2, held jointly by the University of Pennsylvania and Compton Junior College. Shortly before that the same flying youngsters unofficially tied the record in a triangular meet between North Texas, Southern Methodist University, and Texas Christian University.

Only the faintest hopes remain that North Texas will get one more crack at the world mark. The Eaglet quartet has been extended an invitation to compete in the Cotton Carnival at Memphis, Tenn., the middle of May. Injuries received by Rogers and Jackson, the two fastest runners on the team, will probably hold them out of action indefinitely. Rogers was terribly bruised and lost several teeth in the wreck.

SATISFYING MEALS THAT "STICK TO YOUR RIBS"

By RUTH J. COOPER, Consulting Home Economist
Breeder-Feeder Association

In planning family menus one of the important considerations is the satiety value. Will this meal "stick to the ribs" or will the family feel hungry again immediately after eating?

Meat is one food that does satisfy longer than many foods. While it is completely and easily digested the fat in the meat retards the digestive process and in this way, stays with us longer.

The following menus are built around meat and are nourishing, appetizing and will "stick to your ribs."

Menus

Beef chuck roast

Buttered new potatoes
String beans
Creamed cauliflower

Beverage

Recipe

Beef pot Roast with vegetables
3 pounds beef chuck
6 small carrots
6 potatoes
2 tablespoons flour

3 tablespoons fat
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons salt

Any of the less tender cuts of beef may be used. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Dredge with flour and season with salt and pepper. Brown the meat on all sides in the hot fat. Add one cup of hot water and more as needed. Cover pan and allow meat to simmer slowly about three and one-half hours. During the last hour of cooking, add the prepared vegetables and cook only until they are done. If meat is not done by that time, remove the vegetables so they will not over-cook. Thicken the liquid in the kettle of gravy. Arrange the meat in the center of a large platter and tastily arrange the vegetables around the meat. Serve hot. Pass the gravy separately. A variety of vegetables—string beans, peas, lima beans, turnips, parsnips, cabbage, etc.—may be used.

By CHARLES B. ROTH

JUST WHAT IS GOOD WILL?

A FEW months ago, according to that beguiling writer, Bruce Barton, a large factory caught fire. It burned to the ground. Sirens shrieked. Crowds milled. Firemen fought the flames. Newspaper reporters scurried here and there after stories. Consternation reigned. Amid all this confusion the most serene man in sight was the president of the factory, he who should have been the most excited. Alighting from his car, he strolled over to where that which he had spent years in building was becoming a total loss. He was calm, at ease, undisturbed.

Charles Roth

A newspaper man spied him, asked him why he was no more concerned. He explained that the loss was fully covered by insurance and that, besides, the most valuable asset of the business hadn't even been touched by the fire. "To what asset do you refer, Mr. Burlingame?" "Why, to our good will. We can build a new factory—now we'll have to. We can buy new machinery—better machinery than was in the old plant. As long as the good will of a business is intact, nothing else matters," he concluded. He was right. The most important thing a business man has is the good will of his customers. Every business which has that is successful; every business which does not have it fails.

Good will is not a mysterious quality like genius. It is a simple, commonsense matter depending upon doing simple, commonsense things.

The first of these consists of giving good value and service, that the business may win and hold friends. The second consists of making the fact that the business is the kind which wins and holds friends known to its customers, by telling them of its ideals and its services and its merchandise.

This telling process is called advertising. Whenever a manufacturer or a merchant advertises in the newspaper he infers you that he is the kind of business man whom it would pay you to patronize. He makes public the fact that he wants good will and that he realizes the only way he can keep it is by living up to his promises.

You as a customer get more for your money when you patronize a concern with good will. Good will is proof that the concern has done something to warrant the friendship and confidence of its customers.

You see, good will doesn't just happen. It is created by good goods, by good service, by good advertising.

Denton.—When Bullock Hyder, debate coach at North Texas State Teachers College, closed his books on forensics this spring he found that women debaters had far outstripped his men in having the last word.

Hyder's number 1 women's debate team composed of Fay Cooper of Petrolia and Helen E. Powell of Vernon came home with two meet championships in the women's division—the Pi Kappa Delta regional at Louisiana College, Pineville, and the Trinity University tournament at Waxahachie. The best the Denton boys' team could do was to reach the semifinals in every meet entered.

In addition Fay Cooper, a blonde little gal with a real gift of gab, has placed as an individual or a team member in every meet which she has entered. In women's extempore she won first place at the Savage Forensics at Durant, Okla., at the Trinity tournament, and at the Louisiana Forensics at Natchitoches. She also won second at the Baylor tournament.

The North Texas debaters are especially proud of their Pi Kappa Delta championship since Pi Kappa Delta is the largest forensic fraternity in the United States, and the province tournament in which they competed included 18 chapters in schools from three states—Texas, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Quite a number attended the live stock auction sale in Gatesville last Tuesday.

Mrs. R. H. Barlow and son, Hilton, of Bowie spent the week end visiting relatives in the Ireland community.

Mr. and Mrs. Tol Hampton, after an absence of two months visiting in Austin, returned home the past week.

Mr. Gano Scott and family of Abilene were here visiting relatives in Ireland and Gatesville the past week returning home Monday.

Sheriff Brown and Deputy Ted Liljedohl passed thru our town the past week.

Our State Legislature is doing everything they can to keep from doing anything. Nothing has been accomplished only wrangling and killing time and drawing $10.00 per day. They have forgotten their campaign promises to the voters. It will soon be time for them to renew their pledges of broken promises; election time will soon come around.

This law making body has not got the people fooled. In Nebraska the legislature is composed of 1 House when Texas has 2 houses, composed of a Senate and a House of Representatives and the kind of service the people have received. We don't need either House.
